Whoever does not arrive with true spirituality at the time when my word is no longer manifested in this form and my spiritual world no longer speaks to you through my chosen ones, when there are no longer symbols or rites among my people, those who have not truly understood me, will be in danger of falling into confusion, will be on the edge of the abyss. But: Why are you afraid that this will happen, when with so much time and on so many occasions I have come to warn you so that you may avoid dangers, falls and trials?

28. It is time for you to meditate on the steps that you must take on this path, on how to fulfill your mission in the cleanest and most pleasant way before Me, because truly I tell you, those who are inspired by these ideals, will be the ones who come to have a true vision of their future and a certainty of what they have to accomplish in life. For them there will be no abysses, no darkness, no uncertainties.

29. I want you all to be these strong spirits, that's why I talk to you tirelessly about preparation, meditation and analysis.

30. I see you repentant, crying in silence when listening to my words and I bless you, because you have let the divine essence of my teachings reach your heart, until today numb for love, for charity, for good.

31. Your spirit has had a moment of rest that has been a rest in the hard test it endures through matter.

32. How many spirits, of those who come before this manifestation, had not had a moment of rest since the day they came to incarnate in that body, until they heard my word for the first time! How many beings only find peace in the moments of my communication! I say to them and to all of you that you continue to enjoy my word intensely; but may you also think that the day will come when you will stop listening to her and that it will be then that you will have to get up to test your faith, your spirituality and your obedience, in the certainty that then you will see your advancement rewarded with direct communication from spirit to Spirit.

33. I have watched you struggle with your matter to overcome his reluctance, you have had to sustain great battles with your heart to impose obedience and submission. Her nature rebels against the dictates of conscience, but if you persevere in prayer, if you watch, you will make her the best collaborator in spiritual fulfillment. That struggle is part of your restitution at this time.

34. All your attributes have been latent since the moment you were created: intelligence, sensitivity, reason, have existed in you so that you can wage the final battle. When you have overcome evil and your spirit is the pilot guiding the ship, you will be in a position to go in search of your brothers, presenting them with a clear example, a true testimony. Without showing off your strength and mastery, you will show your works and they will reveal obedience and compliance to my laws and will be the example that encourages your brothers to follow you on the path of evolution.

35. When you no longer hear my word through the spokespersons and your spirit feels anxious to practice what I teach you at this time, each of my disciples should take the group that is indicated to him, as his own family, to teach and guide him. Use charity with them, correct them with love and wisdom, make them breathe an atmosphere of peace like this one you have formed today, and my Spirit will be present to inspire and bless you all.

36. Do not ask them where they come from or why they are looking for me, Elijah will lead them when their time has come. From today I prepare those who are to come at the last hour and I call blessed those who believe in this word that I have given you through the human channel.

37. I am teaching you so that you may be the good taste of the Earth, so that you may sweeten the lives of men with the good news that the Master has manifested himself in this time of sorrows and has left his word as an inheritance so that everyone may be sustained and live eternally with it.

38. I do not entrust to you the complete transformation of this humanity, but zealously take my word to your hearts and it will work wonders. What a great consolation your fellow men will receive in their days of trial if you teach them to interpret my teaching and you, how you will long for these hours that you lived near Me, drinking this divine essence, feeling like children to receive from your Father all his tenderness and his love!

39. Humanity today is a fertile field for work. The land is very extensive and the farmers are scarce. How are you going to present to me the spiritual advancement of the generation that inhabits this world today if you do not work diligently? You have a limited time, and there is a lot to prepare. The hour is propitious! Rebuild the temples that have collapsed inside the hearts! Help rebuild homes, preach spirituality on your way! Testify with your works!

40. Take care that virtue returns to your brothers, that children may be a sweet bond between father and mother, and young people, a strong foundation of new generations; husband and wife, the image of God and his Creation, and that all, united with the guardian angels who accompany you, may achieve perfect harmony with your Father.

Love one another!

41. Your requests come to Me, the light that I have poured into your spirit illuminates your being. All your works are present and you can judge your merits. The pains that you are experiencing now will pass, and peace will shine in the Universe.

42. Pray for the nations that are at war. Share your bread and your clothing with those who have fallen into disgrace. Open your barns and feed them with true love. Show your fraternity in this hour of anguish for the world. Practice charity with the sick, prepare the spirit that is to depart to the hereafter, raise the faith of the sad and bring peace to all. Ask and I will do wonders among humanity, with whom I have been in all the ages, because if you think that I have left my throne to come to communicate with you, you are in error, because that throne that you imagine does not exist; thrones are for puffed up and proud men. Understand that my Spirit does not dwell in a certain place; being infinite and omnipresent, it is everywhere, in all places, in the spiritual, in the material and in everything created.

43. Where is that throne which you ascribe to me?

44. Do not take my words as reproaches for your poor understanding and knowledge of the truth, for I do not come among you to humble you in your littleness, but to lift you up to the light.

45. Do you think that I do not recognize the evolution and transformation that your knowledge and beliefs have undergone since you are listening to this word? Truly I tell you, I realize the steps you are taking on the spiritual path.

46. When you came before my manifestation, you did not believe in my presence through man, because they had made you believe that you could only find me in the images, symbols and objects consecrated by your religions. Later, when, despite your lack of faith, you understood that in my lessons there was an essence that illuminated and gave peace to your heart, you recognized that a divine light was manifesting through these creatures destined to transmit my message.

47. A new faith was born in your heart, a new light that gave you the knowledge that man can communicate directly with God. But, that was not all, it was missing that you came to understand that the human mind is not necessary for the Father to speak to you and then you knew that this divine communication through the spokesman, would be temporary, because the time of communication from Spirit to spirit would come later, when men had already separated from their worship, their beliefs and practices to the last trace of materialism, fanaticism and ignorance and everything was spirituality in them.

Love one another!

48. Some of you have already understood, others are already practicing, but you still have a long way to go to reach the goal, from where you will be able to conceive me in my truth, in my reality, no longer through fantasies forged by your human imagination.

49. Stop imagining me on thrones similar to those of Earth; stripped of the human form that you always attribute to me; do not try to imagine Heaven, because your mind will never be able to conceive it in all its perfection. When you free yourself from everything material, you will feel as if you broke the chains that bound you, as if a high wall collapsed before your eyes, as if a thick haze dissipated, leaving you to contemplate an unlimited horizon and an unknown firmament, deep and luminous, at the same time accessible to the spirit of goodwill.

50. Some say, "God is in heaven," others say, "God dwells in the hereafter," but they do not know what they are saying, nor do they understand what they believe.

51. Verily, I dwell in the heavens, but not in that particular place which you have imagined. I dwell in the heavens of light, power, love, knowledge, justice, happiness, perfection and harmony.

52. I am in the hereafter, yes; but beyond human sin, beyond materialism, beyond arrogance, and ignorance and smallness; because I speak to you in a way that your senses perceive me and your mind understands me, not because I come from other worlds or dwellings: my Spirit dwells in all Creation.

53. You have struggled a lot and you have needed a lot of time to transform your beliefs and concepts, and you will still have to try harder to achieve the spiritual goal to which I have destined you and that is to know your Father, love him and worship him through the spirit; until then you will begin to sense the true glory of the spirit, that state of elevation, harmony, peace and well-being that are the true paradise where you will all have to arrive.

54. Shake hands with one another as a test of friendship, but do it sincerely, how do you want to be brothers if you do not yet know how to be friends?

55. If you want the Father to dwell among you, it is necessary that you learn to live as brothers. When you succeed in taking that step on the path of fraternity, your triumph will have as its reward the communication of spirit to spirit, because loving one another, being united in will and in thought, I will grant you that you communicate by inspiration with your brothers who dwell in the beyond of your world.

56. My work is of light, my truth is clear, so no one can walk in darkness claiming that I am there.

Love one another!

57. At that time when I dwelt among you, many times at night, when everyone was resting, there was no shortage of men looking for me, sneaking up on Me, fearing to be discovered. They were looking for me because they felt remorse for having shouted and scandalized against me, while I was speaking to the crowd, and their remorse was more intense when they verified that in their heart I had left my word a present of peace and light and in their body I had poured my healing balm.

58. Heads down they presented themselves in front of Me, saying to me: "Teacher, forgive us, we have recognized that there is truth in your word", I answered them: "If you have found that I only speak truth, why are you hiding? Do you not go out to receive the rays of the sun when it appears? and when have you been ashamed of it?"

59. Verily I say to you, he who loves the truth never hides it, nor denies it, nor is ashamed of it.

60. I speak to you like this, because many come to listen to me on the sly, lying where they come from, hiding what they have heard and sometimes denying that They have been with Me. What can you be ashamed of?

61. It is necessary that you learn to speak of my teaching in such a way that you will never give rise to ridicule. It is also necessary that you cultivate sincerity, so that when you bear witness to Me, you do so with words that are expressions of your heart. That is the seed that always germinates, because it possesses the essence of the truth that touches the heart and reaches the spirit.

62. My divine message, by depositing it in you, must be transformed into a fraternal message, but in order for it to impress and move the materialistic heart of this humanity, it must be wrapped in the truth that I have revealed to you. If you have hidden something, if you have kept silent about something, you will not have given a true testimony of what has been my revelation in the Third Time, therefore you will not be believed.

63. I have come to prove to you that you can remove the blindfold of darkness from the ignorant or the stupid, without hurting him, without offending him or hurting him; so I want you to do it too. I have proved to you in yourselves that love, forgiveness, patience and indulgence have more strength than hardness, anathemas or violence.

64. Keep this lesson, disciples, and do not forget that if you want to call yourselves worthy brothers of your fellow men, you will have to accumulate goodness and virtue to pour them out on them. I promise you that when the light of fraternity shines on Earth, I will make my presence vibrantly felt in your spirit.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 173

1. You are no longer children on the spiritual path, you are evolved spirits. Do you know what a spiritualist means? I will tell you in a brief sentence: Spiritualist means disciple of the Holy Spirit.
2. You will all be great when you achieve true humility, when you practice true love. As long as evil exists in your heart, you will not be able to conquer the reward that I have promised you, that is why I come to teach you, to correct you and to wash you in the pure waters of the river of life, so that you may be worthy to come to Me.
3. I will correct your faults with love, I will lift you up when you fall, I will console you in your sufferings, I will not allow you to be lost, I will never abandon you. I will lead you by the hand along the path of perfection until you reach my Kingdom. If you have not watched, I have watched. My mercy and my grace are with you so that you may overflow with love over the other peoples of the earth. I have taught you to render pleasing worship to my Divinity. I have manifested in word through your understanding, through intuition and revelation. I have also spoken to you through my Spiritual World. I have manifested myself as a Father in each of your trials, sorrows and vicissitudes.
4. I have received the tribute of all the worlds, of all the heavens. But when I have turned my gaze to this planet, I have searched all the sects and religions and I have only collected pain and I have received materialized cults unbecoming of this time. But I pour out my grace and my love on everyone and I receive the good seed. I have directed my gaze among the spiritualist people and I have also found your worship imperfect.
5. I have communicated with you through the human understanding to show you the way, and I have told you: Spiritualize yourselves, get rid of everything superfluous. I have come to free you from idolatry, fanaticism, materialism, erasing with my teachings the traditions and rites, because to my Doctrine you have added something of your past customs, you have introduced into them the traditions and rites rooted in your heart and that were the inheritance of your ancestors.
6. You are the Israelite people to whom I am speaking through human understanding so that after 1950 you will communicate with Me spirit to Spirit and teach the world true worship.
7. Prepare your children, because it is the generations of tomorrow who will rise up sowing my truth without mixture of fanaticism or idolatry.
8. How great and beautiful my Doctrine is and how far it is from the superfluous; analyze it so that you do not fall into fanaticism; the time will come when you will be able to understand it clearly and you will be able to reach the hereafter with your thought. How beautiful it will be when you have reached that spirituality!

9. Then you will recognize that your delay was great, even having the Master of masters among you; you will also understand why there were so many trials, purifications and vicissitudes.

10. Do not be afraid of the world, illuminate its path with the light of your spirit, dematerialize it and strip it of its sin.

11. I do not come to distinguish you in classes, these differences disappear when you are in front of Me; I do not humiliate the one who dresses well because he does not intend to humiliate others with his attire; I dignify the poor and I feel him next to the one whom he has always seen as superior, and from this spiritual meeting I give birth to true fraternity, giving you all the same word, because just as in the wise there may be a spirit of little elevation, in the humble a great spirit can be found; but this is only contemplated by Me, that is why I invite all races and tribes to listen to the same word so that you may all be disciples of the Holy Spirit.

12. The year 1950 will come, but my spiritual world will not depart from you, they will no longer have access in your brain, but they will continue to protect and inspire you. I will vibrate and speak through the mouth of those who are prepared; I will open the ways so that you can rise up to give the good news to humanity. If you have communicated with your Father and with your spiritual brothers, how are you not going to cross the land and the seas to communicate with your brothers of other races and other languages? I will give you the power and the universal language, which is love.

13. I want you to be a clean mirror, an example worthy of imitation, I do not want you to be just another sect on Earth; I want you to be the safe harbor for the shipwrecked, a star for the lost in the desert, a tree for the dying and tired traveler.

14. To help you in the fulfillment of your mission, I bless you, beloved people; I see the longing with which you gather to await my word, you do not want to miss one of my lessons, because in them you find the sustenance that strengthens the spirit and revives matter and you are convinced that there is no inheritance comparable to that which knowledge gives you in this Work.

15. In this word you have found resurrection and life and you have given yourselves to it, as the castaway does when he comes to discover a small boat.

16. Human life is like a storm and you want to save yourselves from being destroyed by wars, unleashed passions and calamities.

Love one another!

17. You want to live in peace, you desire a world of justice, you dream of the fraternity of men and that is why, when you listen to my word, you discover in it the divine promise of that world that you long for, you have gathered around this manifestation to feel safe, prepared and expect to reach Me, purified by your good works.

18. I bless this generation that knew how to listen to me and believe in my communication, as I will bless the coming generations that elevate their worship and their practice within true spirituality.

19. My teaching will be heard again by humanity, but it will not be because my Law has returned to men, because it has always been written on their conscience; it will be men who return to the path of the Law. This world will be a likeness of the prodigal son of my parable, also like that one, he will find the Father in his place, waiting for him to shake him with love and sit him down to eat at his table.

20. The hour of this humanity's return to Me has not yet arrived, it still retains part of its inheritance, which it will have to squander on feasts and pleasures until it becomes naked, hungry and sick to then raise its gaze to its Father.

21. From precipice to precipice, man descended spiritually to the point of denying and forgetting me, to the point of denying himself by not knowing his essence, his spirit.

22. Only my mercy will be able to spare men the pain of having to retrace the path to return to Me; only I, in my love, will know how to put at the step of my children the means for them to find the saving path.

23. Is not your heart filled with joy, thinking that you have the father's house in sight? And are you not moved by the moral and spiritual tragedy in which the peoples of the Earth live?

24. Ah, yes, you would have already understood the mission that you have to fulfill at this time, how you would care about your brothers and how you would forget about your own sorrows! But I see that you still do not have an idea of the gifts that each one possesses, how are you going to unite to let humanity know that salvation is near?

25. Certainly the mission of one is not that of the other, but you must unite so that in harmony all come to form a single body and a single will and thus unified in the fulfillment of my Law of love, you will fight for a better world. How are you going to have the right to dream of a world of peace, harmony and fraternity, if you do not put on your side the means to achieve it?

26. You are not alone to fight, nor blind to walk, nor do you lack weapons to defend yourself. I have made your spirit understand the beauties of the spiritual life; I have opened your spiritual gaze to the future; I have discovered to you the gifts and potencies that you carry dormant in the depths of your being.

27. That idea of uselessness, incapacity, clumsiness and smallness, which you had formed of yourselves, I have removed from your mind so that you understand that you can all be useful and that you must all rise until you reach the abode where your Father awaits you.

28. Some say to me: Lord, why don't you allow us all to look at you like those brothers of ours who testify that they contemplate you?

29. Ah weak hearts, you need to see to believe! What merit do you find in contemplating Jesus humanized in a vision in the form of a man, when your spirit, through love, faith and sensitivity can perceive me infinite and perfect in my divine essence? You are doing wrong those of you who envy those who have the gift of looking at the spiritual limited in figures or symbols, because what they see is not precisely the divine, but an allegory or image that tells them about the spiritual.

30. Be content with your gifts and analyze the testimonies you receive, always looking for meaning, light, teaching, truth.

31. Bear your cross to the end with patience and resignation, and then it will be my Law that will set it apart for you, when you arrive at the gates of that dwelling that I have promised you, where you will come to enjoy true peace. Now you are the walkers, you are the soldiers and fighters who are going after an ideal, who are going after the conquest of a better homeland.

32. In your struggle you are not alone, man has never been alone, because I have always shown him the best way, accompanied him and encouraged him.

33. If anyone asked me how mankind was guided before the Law of Moses, which he received from the Lord, was known to them, I would answer them that, before Moses, I sent all the spirits with the Law written on their conscience, so that all the acts of their life would be pleasing to my Divinity. Then I sent spirits of great light, patriarchs and prophets into the world, so that by their works they might teach all their brothers the fulfillment of my Law.

34. Those men honored me with their lives, they were not idolaters, because they already knew spirituality, they had the sense of love and charity towards others, they knew how to welcome the foreigner in their lands and within their home; they were hospitable to the stranger and the weary traveler; they had a good word and wise advice for everyone.

35. But not all men have known how to be guided by the inner voice of their conscience, for this spirituality is required, and the senses of the flesh flee from it. That is why it was necessary for your Father to manifest Himself in various ways among humanity, in order to explain the Law to them and reveal the divine to them.

36. You, people, who are listening to my teaching in the Third Time, and who still retain some of that seed that entrusted you in the past times, understand that you must cleanse your heart of egoism and materialism, so that the happy moment may come to you when you will reorient your life guiding it by the dictates of your conscience like those first enlightened ones, like Abraham, from whom the people sprang that in all times has been the repository of all my revelations.

37. I want that when the moment comes when my manifestation ceases in this form in which you now have it, you will be prepared in such a way that each spirit of the beings that make up this people, will be like a temple for Me, each heart a sanctuary, each home an altar, a patriarchal house, hospitable and full of charity. How deep will your peace be then. How strong will your heart be then, to get ahead in all the trials.

38. The bread will be blessed not only by Me, but also by you, because by then you will have learned to knead it with love, with faith, in an atmosphere of peace.

39. The spiritual grace with which I have given you is the seed of spirituality; whoever cultivates this seed with love in his heart will not become a victim of plagues, nor of the unleashed elements, nor will material needs afflict him.

40. You should not expect that these days will come to you on their own; no, people, you, with spirituality, should bring them to you, so that you may see their wonders and know how to appreciate how much the spirit is capable of when it manages to rise above the mire, dust and mud of a materialized and impure life.

41. Do not forget, O disciples, that spirituality cannot admit fanaticism of any kind, idolatry or prejudice, because then it would cease to be spirituality.

42. The one who carries purity in his heart and seeks to honor me with the works of his life, that one, does not need the material cults to feel that he has fulfilled the precepts of his Father and Lord; on the other hand, the one who carries in his heart the restlessness that his conscience makes him feel when judging him, that one eagerly seeks the rites and the material cults with the false belief that with them he will reach reconciliation with his Father.

43. Be simple as flowers and pure as birds; be transparent as air and diaphanous as pure water, then you will have achieved that limpidity and elevation that will make you know the truth of life.

Love one another!

44. Whoever would say that my Doctrine is a danger to the material progress of humanity, commits a grave error; I, the Master of Masters, come to teach humanity the path of its evolution and true progress. My word not only speaks to the spirit, it also speaks to the mind, to reason and even to the senses themselves. My Doctrine not only comes to inspire you and to teach you the spiritual life, but it comes to make light in all science and in all paths, because my teaching is not concrete to guide all spirits to the mansion that is beyond this existence, it also reaches the heart of man, to inspire him to live a pleasant, dignified and profitable life on this planet.

45. If I told you in the Second Time that my Kingdom is not in this world, now I tell you that yours is not here either, because this dwelling, as you already know, is transitory for man.

46. I come to teach you the true life, the one that has never been based on materialism. That is why they will rise up again against my eternal Doctrine, with my usual teaching that is of love, wisdom and justice; however, it will not be understood immediately, humanity will judge me again, it will put me back on the cross, but I know that my teaching must pass over all this, so that it will be recognized and loved. I know that my most tenacious persecutors will later be my most faithful and self-sacrificing sowers, because I will give them very great proofs of my truth.

47. That Nicodemus of the Second Time, prince among the priests, who sought Jesus to converse with Him of wise and profound teachings, will continue again in this time, to calmly analyze my Work and convert to it.

48. That Saul, called Paul, who, after persecuting me viciously, became one of my greatest apostles, will appear on my way again, and from everywhere my new disciples will arise, some fervent, others self-sacrificing. The present hour is of great transcendence, the time I am talking about is approaching you.

49. These wars of ideas, these contests that you are now witnessing and these events that you have daily: do they not tell you of something that is approaching, do they not make you feel that a time is coming to an end and that a new era begins to spread its light?

50. I only want you, who are being witnesses of my word at this time, to remain firm in the moments of trial that will have to precede the establishment of my Law, because my new manifestation among you will be like the hurricane, under whose force the earth and the seas in which this humanity dwells and is agitated, will have to curl up and stir so that they expel from them everything unclean they keep in their depths.

Love one another!

51. When these trials come, do not be afraid, because when they come, you will understand that the beginning of the end of a reign has begun and that the dawn of a new, happier time is approaching.

52. Evil, injustice, pride, slavery, ignorance and earthly power will succumb to make way for the establishment of the reign of love, light and peace among men. You will not falter, nor will you extinguish your lamp, even if you feel that the trial is very hard and that the chalice that you have to hurry is very bitter; on the contrary, you will kindle and fan the flame of hope, as the soldier does in the heat of battle, when he feels that he is dominating the enemy and that victory is near.

53. When you see yourselves surrounded by hostile crowds, whose tongues are spewing poison against you, do not doubt my promises, because in those moments I will make you feel my reassuring presence and I will make you hear my loving voice repeat to you: "I am with you".

54. You will see many times how from among those mobs a heart will arise that understands you and that will be for you like a shield, but you will only achieve this when you place your trust and faith in Me.

55. Remember Daniel, that prophet who so defended his people oppressed in slavery in Babylon.

56. Let the struggle come, it is necessary that you return to water with your love the seed that the Eternal sowed in the spirit of man. Let the weeds be cut off with the blow of the sickle of my justice and let the lands be removed, so that they may be conducive to cultivation.

57. It is necessary to grant men who are ambitious of the goods of the Earth a few more moments, so that their disappointment may be absolute; so that at last they may become convinced that gold, power, titles and the pleasures of the flesh, will never give them the peace or the well-being of their spirit.

58. The hour of examination with the light of conscience is approaching for all humanity; there will be the wise, the theologians, the scientists, the powerful, the rich and the judges, wondering what has been the spiritual, moral or material fruit that they have collected, with which they can feed humanity. After that moment, many will return to Me, recognizing that, despite the glory they had on Earth, something was missing to fill the void into which their spirit had fallen, which can only be sustained with the fruits of spiritual life.

59. I have prepared for those spirits the oasis in the middle of the desert, because I know that through their existences, knocking from door to door and traveling road after road, some have sought the truth, others strength, others happiness and at the end of the path they have traveled on Earth, when they are about to deny everything, I will make them rest in my bosom, I will comfort them and I will point out the true path, so that through it they will find the fields in which they can sow the fruitful seed of their experience.

Love one another!

60. The oasis is a spiritual one, to which men of all races will arrive by all the roads of the desert, one tired, the other full of wounds, graying, and many with their empty saddlebag, ashamed before the sterility of the struggle they had undertaken. There they will hear my voice, recognizing it to the point and exclaim: "It is the Lord"; in that phrase they will reflect the humility with which they will finally find me because everyone must reach Me by their own merits.

61. That hour of infinite sweetness, reconciliation and humility will also be of divine forgiveness for the prodigal children who finally returned to the paternal home in search of the One who gave them life and the inheritance.

62. You have marked this November day to remember the beings who left for the afterlife. Since dawn is approaching, many spirits rise in prayer for those they call "their dead". I tell you that it is very good that you remember them, that you have for them a thought of gratitude, of love, of admiration; but what is not right is that you mourn them as if they were goods that you had lost, nor that you deem them dead, because if at the moments when your eyes shed tears for them and your chest sighs for those who departed, you could contemplate them, you would be amazed at the light that illuminates them and the life that moves them, then you would exclaim: "Truly they are the ones who live and we are the dead".

63. In truth, you live confused when you cry before an inert body, while you forget that a spirit vibrates and pulsates.

64. If instead of dedicating this tradition to them, consecrating one day to those who have passed into the spiritual life, you were always united to them by the bond of prayer, their invisible, but real presence in your life, and their beneficial influence, would be felt by you throughout your existence, in your struggles, in your trials and also in your kind moments. And those beings, on their part, would have the opportunity to work in your works and noble enterprises, with which they would acquire more light.

65. I said at that time: "Let the dead bury their dead" and if you analyze my words carefully and with love, you will see how right I was to tell you.

66. You all carry in your heart and before your eyes, the last image, the material vision of your loved ones. The one who departed from his body in childhood, you remember as a child; the one who left this life in the old age of his life, you remember him as an old man, just as the one who broke away from a body exhausted by pain or in the midst of painful agony, this is how you always remember him, and it is necessary that you meditate on the difference that exists between what is body and what is spirit, so that you understand that there where man dies, the spirit is born to a new life, where he stops looking at the light of the world, contemplates the divine light that illuminates the eternal life of the spirit.

67. I once told you that man was an idolater because of his material inclination and in the cult for his dead he gives a palpable proof of his idolatry. But my Doctrine, like a dawn of infinite beauty, has appeared in your life, dispelling the shadows of a long night of ignorance in which men have lived confused, and this light ascending towards infinity, like a divine star will radiate its most beautiful lights on your spirit in a preparation that will take you with sure step to enjoy that life in which you all manage to penetrate by your elevation.

68. You will no longer be those who weep bitterly for those who have left to go and dwell in a better life, nor those who, being already in spirit, weep for those who have stayed, or who weep for having left the body that for a lifetime served as a wrap.

69. There are beings who suffer and are distressed when contemplating the disintegration of the body they loved so much; but you must be the ones who, when contemplating that the end of a mission performed by that human body has come, raise a hymn of thanks to the Creator.

70. Today I come to forgive you, to forgive you of all your mistakes and at the same time to show you a page of the divine Book of Life, where you can enlighten your spirit and your mind so that you do deeds worthy of the one who has taught them to you.

71. You are assuming a great responsibility before humanity and as more and more lessons you receive from Me, that responsibility is increasing, because you are the people who should speak of spirituality to men. I will leave implanted among you the perfect way to get to communicate with Me, without rites or idolatrous ways, simply from spirit to Spirit.

72. This blessed seed that is already in your heart will be the bread that you must share with your brothers and it will also be the spiritual inheritance that you bequeath to your children.

73. When I said to you, "Love one another," I did not mean to tell you that this should only be between humans, but even from one world to another; but now I tell you that, when you think of those who you say are gone, do not feel distant or imagine them insensitive. Do not love the dead, nor remember the dead, you should only recognize them alive, because they dwell in eternity.

Love one another!

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 174

1. Dear disciples, every moment that passes in your life is one more step that brings you closer to your Father. Slowly, step by step, you are following the path that leads to the Kingdom of light.
2. You are approaching a time when you will know how to give in justice what corresponds to your spirit and to the world what belongs to it. A time of true prayer, of worship free of fanaticism, in which you will know how to pray before every undertaking, in which you will know how to watch over what has been entrusted to you.
3. How can man make a mistake, when instead of doing his will he anticipates questioning his Father through prayer? Whoever knows how to pray lives in contact with God, knows the value of the benefits he receives from his Father and at the same time understands the meaning or purpose of the trials he is going through.
4. The man who prays directly before God is a spiritualized man, who does not wear a blindfold and who is prepared to discover inside and outside him, unknown worlds of wisdom and truth, which exist in the life of humanity without it perceiving it.
5. Whoever comes to discover this path, can no longer stop, because having awakened his senses and his spiritual gifts by becoming sensitized, today he hears voices from Nature, tomorrow he perceives messages from the Spiritual Kingdom, later he will hear the voice of his Lord in a spirit-to-Spirit communication, fruit of the love between the Father and his children.
6. People: Do not envy these spokesmen through whom I communicate, because if you really prepare yourselves in matter and in spirit, you will come to surpass them after this communication has passed.
7. A time of wonders, trials and wonders is reserved for this people, witness of my communication in this Third Time.
8. I have not yet spoken my last word in which I will make great revelations to you; but my will and my commands are written on the conscience of all this people, so that they may have full knowledge of how the end of my manifestation will be, as well as the day chosen and marked for my last lesson.
9. It is necessary for you to understand that I have come to teach you everything that you must know in order to penetrate the worlds or dwellings that await you, because just as your spirit had to be prepared in the immediate valley in which it previously dwelt in order to incarnate and inhabit the Earth, so it will have to prepare to return to the Valley that it left, although to higher dwellings in love, in purity and in wisdom.

10. Do not doubt my word; I fulfilled my promise to you in the First time by freeing Israel from the slavery of Egypt, which meant idolatry and darkness, to take you to Canaan, a land of freedom and worship of the living God. There my advent as a man was announced to you and the prophecy was fulfilled word for word in Jesus, The Teacher who dwelt and loved you, promised to manifest himself in spirit and here you have the fulfillment of that promise.

11. Today I announce to you that I have reserved for your spirit wonderful regions, abodes, spiritual mansions where you can find the true freedom to love, to spread the good and make the light. Will you doubt it, after I have fulfilled all my previous promises to you?

12. Know that the great spirits work in my Work eternally: Elijah, destined to announce the arrival of the Master among his disciples, is the light that opens the gap to the spirits, descending to the lost of the way, to those who sleep or have died to faith in the spiritual life, to be enveloped in the fire of love that emanates from him, fire that is faith, extermination of evil and purification. His voice calls in every nation, his purifying fire advances. Certainly purification leaves in its wake a trail of pain, but soon a divine consolation, represented in Mary, arrives to pour out its balm on every sobbing heart, on every creature tormented by pain.

13. Then I will come to visit heart by heart to make my divine call to men heard, telling them only: "Follow Me".

14. My Doctrine develops man in all his phases; it sensitizes and ennoble the heart, awakens the mind and perfects and elevates the spirit.

15. Make of my Doctrine a deep study that will allow you to understand the right way to practice my teachings, in order that your development be harmonious, that is, that you not only give development to the mind without worrying about the feelings that you should cultivate or the ideals of the spirit, which you should encourage.

16. All the powers of your being, can find in my word the luminous path where they can evolve and perfect themselves to infinity.

17. I have given you enough time to assimilate and understand my teachings, so much so that many of you who arrived children, are now young, as well as others who arrived young, are now elderly. Some have been born on this path and are already part of the number of my farmers and others have breathed their last breath taking their place among my chosen ones.

Love one another!

18. I have given sufficient time to this people, so that the light of a firm and true faith may be revived in them and so that their spirit may have a deep knowledge of my Work. My word prepares you for when you stop listening to this voice and have to concentrate at the bottom of your being, you can feel my presence and receive my inspiration.

19. My lesson is being written on your conscience; there is the ark that best keeps my Law, so that when the times pass and these hours of spiritual recreation that you have with your Teacher are distant, the essence of my word vibrates full of life in your spirit, fresh, pulsating with love and wisdom.

20. In my word you will find that at every step I tell you to achieve spirituality because it will be what should distinguish you on Earth. Without spirituality you will not be able to give your brothers the witness that you must give.

21. Do not be afraid, for I will cause my word to cease among you; my Work will not fail, nor will your spirit faint. I have arranged in the spiritual valley the beings who must become incarnate to be guides and prophets of the peoples; beings of light, spiritualists who will teach you to take a step forward on the path opened by my word.

22. Today I want to tell you that just as you need beings of light to come here from the Valley of Spirituality to help you on the journey, there are also spiritual abodes that are in need of some of you to reach them with the light of my teaching. You do not know who of those who are listening to me at this moment will have to leave soon in pursuit of a spiritual mission. That is the reason why many hearts have been being purified for a long time and why, with each passing day, they feel their spirit more inside my Work.

23. I want some of you to be among my spiritual hosts, to unite you with those who in this blessed Work of restitution and justice work with Me for the salvation of all beings who walk outside the path of life and truth.

24. Keep in your conscience this word that can serve as a preparation in the supreme instant of leaving this existence to free yourself spiritually.

25. This is a beautiful time of revelations, O beloved people! A time of light that uplifts the spirits! Blessed are those who prepare, for they receive my light in fullness!

26. But think that these are just the beginnings of an era, that I have not revealed to you all that this time reserves for men, nor has everything that you have received already been understood by you.

27. Days, years and centuries will pass in which this humanity will witness wonderful lights and spiritual revelations never known.

Love one another!

28. Those times are approaching, so you must prepare the way for those who will come to take your place; you must bless the path with your good works, then you have begun the construction of the true temple, which others will come to continue and later others will come to conclude.

29. I have given you my teaching for a long time so that it, like a good seed, may take deep roots in your heart and you may live with the testimony ready to overflow among your brothers.

30. Form with my word a book. Extract the essence from it, so that you may come to have the true concept of the purity of my Doctrine. In the word conveyed by the speaker, you can find errors, but not so in the essence. My interpreters have not always been prepared; that is why I have told you not to look at it superficially, but to penetrate into its meaning, so that you may find its perfection. Pray and meditate, so that you may understand it.

31. You all need faith to live. Woe to him who lives only for the vanities of the world because his spirit will be empty and at the end of his earthly journey, he will not be able to present any harvest! Think that you have been sent to Earth to carry out a spiritual mission, which you will later return to Me; meanwhile, matter will be confused with the earth from which it has sprung. To reach a great faith, be inspired by my love, make your heart a temple. Close the eyes of the body and open those of the spirit, so that you may look beyond your world. I am outside and inside you, in the innermost depths of your being, watching over and watching over your spirit. I know all your longings and hopes and I tell you: Climb the mountain of perfection full of patience and sacrifice. When you are near the end, I will re-open the doors of my Kingdom, so that you may feel my peace and be strong in the last hour.

32. Everything evolves. Man advances in his science, but he does not take advantage of this knowledge that he has acquired in doing good, he does not know how to comfort or protect his fellow men. Ambitions and the misunderstanding of free will have caused a new war and its consequence is pain. I contemplate orphanhood, misery, desolation and death everywhere, and of all this you will answer me. What have you made of my word? You have ignored it and are lost in a sea of pain and confusion, and even so, it will not be the last war you will make, but the judgment is approaching for all. Judges and convicts, executioners and victims are in my presence. All nations will hear my voice. I invite you to pray in this supreme hour and I give you the light of my Spirit.

33. My creation is constant and nothing dies. If pain consumes the flesh and the spirit is left naked without having fulfilled its mission on earth, I will give it a new bodily garment and make it return to it.

Love one another!

34. I invite you to do spiritual works that will endure through the ages. Build on solid ground, so that there is no element that destroys what you have done.

35. You are in front of my table, sit around me and listen to me.

36. It is my will that at this time, every man and every spirit reach this divine knowledge that the Holy Spirit has been revealing to you.

37. My word in this time has been like a book of wisdom that has been opened before men.

38. I make you, whom I have appointed my disciples, zealous guardians of this teaching.

39. You are the humble family of Jesus, to whom an inheritance has been entrusted. Understand that I, the Master, have come to manifest my will to you.

40. None of those who inhabit the earth knows the heavenly abode. You are still pilgrims in the desert of life, some walk wandering without knowing where they are going; but from eternity the love of your Father has been waiting for you, that is why I descend to help you on your arduous journey, so that you may reach the bosom from where you started.

41. First of all, I want to unite you in love, so that the merits you make, striving to draw closer to each other, forgiving each other and drawing closer to each other with fraternity, may bring you closer to Me. I have prepared the way for you to arrive through him to the peace of my Kingdom, that peace that you do not find in this life, because in it you have only known pain. Why didn't you follow the path I laid out for you in the Second Half? You wouldn't have tripped or fallen. Now you are my disciples, because I love you and I want to give you a new opportunity to save you. Are you going to take advantage of it, or are you going to park again? See that what I have revealed to you with such simplicity and humility is something that belongs to the arcanum of the Father that had been hidden even from the sages and theologians. Moreover, not because you know that you have this grace, go imitate the men of science who, due to their discoveries, have fallen into vanity and blindness, to the point of not knowing the one who has done everything.

42. Today you possess what others have unknown or despised; but when you rise up to spread my teachings, do not stop to judge, whether or not the one to whom you are speaking is worthy to receive my lessons, even if they are the ones who have most unknown me.

43. You, who by listening to me show your spirit overflowing with joy, are the ones who will make my Work known. The time of my departure is approaching and you must be prepared.

Love one another!

44. In the Second Time I chose twelve men, who, after my departure, spread the good news throughout the world. Twelve men were enough to do that work. In this time I have taught thousands of men and women; I have sent my spiritual hosts to help you, because you are in the time of liberation of spirits. If there are many of my soldiers, it is because now humanity is greater and its sins and darkness are also greater.

45. Be humble and conform to your destiny.

46. Sometimes you ask in your heart this question: Will I have progressed spiritually or will I find myself stationary? And I, the Master, tell my disciples that if they have come to feel the pain of their brothers, they have taken a step forward; that if they have known how to forgive those who have seriously offended them, they have taken a step further; and that if their heart has come to identify with all men without distinction of races, or classes, they have advanced a lot on the path of spiritual evolution.

47. And what has been the motive of those feelings and acts? The love that my Law has been able to inspire you. Only love will be able to teach you my Doctrine, because all the virtues are derived from it. It is in vain that men try to find the solution to their problems by other means; it is in vain that they will want to establish peace in the world, if it is not based on love for one another.

48. However, I see that my Doctrine is still viewed with indifference, and sometimes even with mockery by those who only see life through the feelings inspired by a materialized and selfish heart; but I tell you that even they will come to convince themselves that only a high morality, a clear knowledge and a just reason, will be those that can save humanity from the abyss into which it has fallen. And that high morality, can be given only by the spirituality that I have been teaching you, that cleanliness of your works in the light of conscience and that justice to reason, you will find them only in my word, because I have not been talking about impossible, nor have I come to teach you only fantasies; my Doctrine is based on reality, on the truth.

49. Impossible are those that man has tried to realize through the means that my Law of love and justice has not advised you, and if I have allowed him to work freely, it is so that he experiences for himself, even though he has always had my Law present in his conscience.

50. If the hearts of men had not hardened so much, the pain of the war would have been enough to make him reflect on his mistakes and he would have returned to the path of light; but he still has the bitter memory of those human massacres and is already preparing for a new war.

Love one another!

51. How can you conceive that I, the Father, Divine Love is capable of punishing you with wars? Do you think that he who loves you with perfect love and desires that you love one another, can inspire you with crime, fratricide, death, revenge and destruction? Do you not understand that all this is due to the materialism that humanity has accumulated in its heart?

52. Men have strayed from the path marked by their conscience, they have lost their reason, they have strayed from the path of morality and good feelings. They did not want to stop in time, they did not meditate and they are going to the bottom of the abyss that they have carved, to meet the darkness. However, my love has forgiven them their faults and my light has tried to stop them, showing them that they are going down a wrong path; but my Law respects the free will with which I have endowed them, although my justice will let them reap the fruit of what they are sowing in their life.

53. And when it seems that everything is over for man and that death is the one who has conquered or that evil is the one who has triumphed, beings will emerge from darkness into the light; from death they will rise to true life, and from the abyss of evil they will rise to practice the eternal Law of God.

54. Not everyone will know the abyss because just as some have tried to remain isolated from that war of passions, ambitions, hatreds and have lived on the outskirts of the New Sodom, others who, if they had sinned a lot, will know how to stop in time, and with their timely repentance and complete regeneration, will avoid many tears and much pain.

55. Those of you who are listening to me, do not feed or contribute in any way to those wars, persevere in my path so that your life and your words, as well as your deeds, serve so that many hearts stop in time in their dizzying career, so that they experience my peace and are freed from having to drink that cup of bitterness.

56. Take advantage of this day that you dedicate to your Creator. Your heart prepares and beats with love for my Divinity and you are filled with my grace because you make yourselves worthy to receive my presence.

57. Let the joy of your spirit be reflected in your matter, which will not be unhealthy joy for that reason. How could your spirit be joyful and your heart sad at the same time if both live in harmony?

58. That state is beautiful when it comes from the joy of the spirit. Seek the perfection of your works, for in perfection is the supreme bliss.

59. What imperfection do you find in creation? None, you tell me. However, imperfections abound and those are found in the works of men. Do my will, for whatever is done outside the law is imperfect.

Love one another!

60. Understand: Do not give free rein to imagination, do not judge the works of your brothers. I love you good and also, I wish you to become perfect, because you are so small, you are bigger than material objects and worlds, because you have eternal life, you are a spark of my light. You are spirits. It is necessary that you recognize what spirit is so that you can understand why I am calling you to the path of perfection.

61. In your pain, I have come to seek you to save you, it is the love of your Father who has not yet tired of knocking on the doors of your heart.

62. Since 1866, through men inspired by Me, I have come to communicate with you to show you the way of good and justice.

63. The Master says to you: It is my will to testify that this is the Third Age.

64. In the First Time, Abraham made a covenant with the Father. In the Second Time, Christ sealed with his blood the covenant he made with men, because with his blood, which means love, life, sacrifice and forgiveness, he showed the world the way to redemption from its trespasses, giving salvation and eternal life to the spirit.

65. At this time I come to overflow my light in the spirit, because if you want to reach Me as a man, you will never achieve it because the promised mansion in eternity is for the spirit.

66. I recommend my teaching to you so that in the same way that I am giving it to you, you may transmit it to your brothers, but never argue violently when teaching it. Beware of censuring what you do not know, but understand that a clean example will be enough to convert men to spirituality.

67. In my command, in which I say to you, "Love one another," my teaching is condensed. Why, if when I created you, I gave you all the same degree of understanding, not everyone has come to understand me? Why, while some know how to give to God what is His and to the world what belongs to Him, others give everything to the world, of which they become their god, their paradise and their glory? For they have forgotten that I told you in the Second Time, "My Kingdom is not of this world."

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 175

1. The light of my spirit has come to reveal to you all the gifts that exist in your being, everything that from your origin you have carried with you without feeling it. I have made you know that it is time for you to truly know yourselves, to find yourselves and to know what your inheritance is, so that you may be great in spirit.
2. From time to time I have made revelations to you; first it was the law, later my doctrine and finally the full knowledge of your spiritual mission.
3. You say that I have been with men three times, but the truth is that I have always been with you; I am that Father who in the First Time revealed his law of justice to humanity, who in the Second made his Word incarnate in Jesus, his Son, and who now manifests himself spiritually to the world, and with this I have given you a divine parable through the ages, the meaning of which tells you about your spiritual evolution and lets you know that the one who has spoken to you through the ages has been one God, one Spirit and one Father.
4. Do you ask me what I intend by manifesting myself spiritually to the humanity of this time? I answer you, what I am looking for is your awakening to the light, your spirituality and your unification, since in all times you have been divided, because while some have sought the treasures of the spirit, others have consecrated themselves to love the riches of the world. Spiritualism and materialism in constant conflict, spiritualists and materialists who have never been able to understand each other.
5. Remember that Israel, while waiting for the Messiah, when he had him in front of their eyes, was divided into believers and deniers of my truth. The explanation is simple: those who were waiting for me with the spirit believed and those who were waiting for me with the senses of matter denied me.
6. Again these two forces will have to face each other, until the truth emerges from that struggle. The struggle will be bitter because as time passes, men love the earthly more, by virtue of the fact that their science and their discoveries make them feel in a kingdom of their own, in a world created by them.
7. The men of today have extended their dominions, they rule and cross the whole earth; there are no longer continents, lands, or seas ignored; they have traced roads by land, by sea, by air, and not conforming to what on their planet they possess as an inheritance, they probe and scrutinize the firmament in search of greater dominions.
8. I bless in my children the longing to know and I am infinitely pleased with their ambition to be wise, great and strong; but what my justice does not approve of, is the vanity in which they often finalize their ambitions or the selfish purpose that they sometimes pursue.

9. I do not come to prevent men from increasing their knowledge, nor do I come to hide from them the light of science. When I placed the human seed on the earth and commanded it to grow and multiply, I also told it to rule the earth, that is, that man should be, among all the creatures that were to surround him, the conscious being, connoisseur of human laws and divine justice and cultivator of virtues, around which all beings and elements revolved harmoniously.

10. How far from harmony has man lived since he began his transit on earth! This is evidenced by his incessant stumbles, the inexhaustible cup of sufferings that he has suffered, his lack of peace.

11. I am giving you the new lesson, which will be for all men. Not everyone has prayed waiting for my arrival, but the pain has kept them alert and has prepared them to receive me. Humanity already has the experience that the people of Israel left it from the Second Time, so that no one tries to challenge divine justice. Do you not know that the poor in spirit, who longed for the coming of the Lord to receive from Him the light of hope and knowledge, were given the gifts of prophecy, divine knowledge and spiritual power? If you ask me about the whereabouts of those spirits, I will tell you that they are inhabiting dwellings where everything that exists of great on this planet, is before them as simple dust of the earth. But if you ask me what happened to those who accepted nothing from my kingdom because my word and my promises seemed poor to them, I will tell you that they are those who incarnate and will reincarnate until the complete evolution of their spirit, because they asked for gold, power and in justice and for their spiritual restitution, the world was granted to them with its petty riches and its false power. They have been touched by divine justice, but never rejected from the way of salvation that leads to the kingdom of truth; therefore, now that I am sending you the light of my Spirit in abundance, I will eagerly seek them to make them understand that the time of trial assigned to them is already enough, making them understand that this is the Third Time, precisely the one in which the times, of which I spoke in referring to the judgment of the Jewish people, will be consummated.

12. You all have an appointment with Me and you will have to get together to listen to me, because you will all have to hear me.

13. Everything will be placed in the balance of my righteousness, where all the works that are without judgment will be weighed. My presence and my power will make themselves felt as they had never manifested, because after the chaos, everything will tend to return to its course.

Love one another!

14. Pray and watch continually so that you will not be surprised, O people; but truly I tell you, if you watch and pray for the world, there will be an invisible mantle that will protect you, because you knew how to love your brothers and feel their pain as your own!

15. I repeat to you that I am going to make my presence, my power and my justice felt. If I have allowed man in his wickedness to desecrate all that is sacred in life, I will put a limit to his wickedness; if I have let him walk the path of his free will, I will prove to him that everything in him has a meaning here; if I have let him fulfill his ambitions of power and greatness in the world, I will stop him on the way, to make him look at his work through his conscience, so that he can answer my questions.

16. I have allowed pain, destruction and death to be felt in your life, so that those bitter fruits may make you understand the kind of tree you cultivated; but I will also make the pain disappear and let the spirit rest and meditate, because from it the hymn of love to its Creator will have to arise. It is said, and it is also written, that that day will come, when men will have clothed their spirit with the white garment of the resurrection, when they will love one another.

17. Everyone will be saved, everyone will be forgiven, everyone will be comforted. Where is death, where is eternal damnation and endless hell?

18. I did not create death or hell, because when my Spirit conceived the idea of creation, I felt only love and only life sprang from my womb; if death and hell existed, then they would have to be human works, however small; and you already know that nothing human is eternal.

19. Truly I tell you, in the moments in which my word is heard through the speaker, not only the spirit of this people trembles, but all those beings who in the spiritual valley also need the divine light.

20. The sound of the human word does not reach them, but the essence and inspiration of my messages does, because my voice is universal and its echo reaches all the worlds and dwellings where a child of God dwells.

21. I send a ray of my light to every world; I have sent this light to you in the form of a human word, to other mansions it comes through inspiration.

22. In the light of that divine ray, all the spirits will unite, making it a stopover that will lead them to the spiritual kingdom promised to all of you who are a spiritual particle of my Divinity.

23. Imagine the joy of all those beings who on earth had material ties with you and who today inhabit the afterlife of your world, when they know that the voice they hear, they also hear on earth. They have not turned away from you, they do not forget you, nor do they cease to pray for those who stayed a few moments longer in the earthly valley. His caress and his blessings are continually upon you.

24. There dwell those who were your parents, children, brothers, husbands, friends or benefactors, those who in spirit are simply your brothers, but their love for you is the same or even greater, as well as their power to help and protect you.

25. Pray for them, people, do not go, stop loving them and remember them, because your memory and your prayers are a sweet consolation in their struggle. Never imagine them troubled or dwelling in darkness, because it would be as much as if you felt qualified to pronounce a judgment and a sentence on them; and if here on earth humans are usually so imperfect and unjust to judge the causes of their fellow beings, what will it be when it comes to judgments on some spirit?

26. I tell you again that it is up to you only to help them with your prayer and with your good works in the world.

27. Do not feel the need for them to manifest in some material form in your life, either by taking a brain or in some other way, because you would deny spirituality, which, I have taught you. Neither do you have a certain day of the year to invoke them, no; meditate on the fact that the spiritual lives outside of material time and therefore, every moment can be propitious to approach them through spiritual prayer.

28. How many of those beings whom you have often imagined suffering troubles, are precisely those who have struggled to bring you closer to this path of light that they could not find when they were on earth. So do not weep for them, much less mourn because they left for the spiritual valley; they have not died, they simply advanced a few moments to the moment when you will have to leave; this was arranged by Me, so that they would prepare the way for you.

29. People: Do you think it is necessary that I tell you that you have nothing to do in the cemeteries and that the tears that you shed on the graves are the tears of ignorance, materiality and fanaticism?

30. The spirit of whom you weep lives and you persist in giving him up for dead in that body that disappeared under the earth. You give them up for lost, while they, full of love, are waiting for you to bear witness to the truth and to life. You think they are distant or insensitive and deaf to your struggles and hardships and you do not know how many stones they are removing from your path and how many risks they are freeing you from.

31. Ignorance forces you to be ungrateful and even cruel to yourself and to others, although I must tell you: Who can be ignorant after having listened to one of my lectures?

Love one another!

32. My word is the ray of light that will envelop you all so that you will be melted in the fire of my love; if, after hearing it, you believe it and put it into practice, you will be united from that moment to all those who love me, believe me and glorify me.

33. I have told you in my teachings that life is the via dolorosa (sorrowful path) of the spirit and the end of his existence on earth is his calvary, so that you may try to imitate me, putting my examples into practice.

34. Blessed are the spirits who know how to reach the top with faith and virtue, because at the moment of detaching themselves from matter, they experience the caress of the Father as a reward for their strength and their love. Those are the ones who penetrate without stumbling into eternity.

35. My word at this time will help men to understand the meaning of my law and my doctrine. The fulfillment that humanity gives to them will provide happiness, happiness of the heart and peace of the spirit, because the perfect happiness will only be found by the spirit in the dwelling to which he belongs. How many opportunities do you have to be good and useful to your fellow human beings! Every home is a conducive field to sow my seed; every city and every town is like a land thirsting for charity and love and I come to make you sowers so that you will fill the world with love and comfort and sow it with peace.

36. Works, words, prayers, are the means that you must and will be able to use to fulfill the mission of serving and loving your brothers and sisters.

37. I have taught you the perfect prayer, the one that is the true language of the spirit, the one that puts man in direct communication with me.

38. I have given you the gift of the word, which is an expression of the light that is in the spirit and of the love that treasures the heart.

39. People who listen to me: Do not say that I am asking too much of you, when I know better than yourselves what you are capable of. Today you feel weak, clumsy, powerless and unworthy, because you examine your interior and discover many weaknesses, many needs that do not let you feel the pain of others, but first I am going to heal you, to make you feel my peace, to strengthen your heart, to clear your path, and then you will not feel timidity or have doubts, nor will you feel incapable.

40. That is why I have left you for a while listening to me, strengthening you little by little in my word, without yet sending you to the regions to fulfill your mission; but when your spirit is saturated with my essence, it will not wait for trials or signs to get up, because it will know how to receive by inspiration whatever it should do.

Love one another!

41. Pray, people and while you pray, I will pour out my peace on all the peoples of the earth, I will bless Your homes and illuminate Your paths.

42. I will give you a proof that what I have promised you is true. What proof will that be? The one that you see realized in your life something that you have been waiting for for a long time, something that for some it is impossible to obtain. To some the things offered by Me will come quickly; to others I will make them wait; but truly I tell you, there will not be one who will not receive my proof of love. When that grace comes to each of you, you will remember my word and your faith will increase.

43. Do not despair, do not shed your tears, know how to wait for that hour by practicing my teaching, praying and watching.

44. Do you see how in these moments when you lift up your spirit, you forget your sorrows and are filled with my peace? Seek to be always before Me, practice my doctrine and you will see my peace and my light prevail over your vicissitudes and labors.

45. Understand that your sorrows are not useless, that you have the mission of tempering yourselves spiritually and bodily so that you can be part of the number of my sowers.

46. Those who are going to bring comfort to men, those who are going to lift up those who have fallen, those who are going to give strength to the weak, have to be illuminated by the light of experience and have to be strengthened in the struggle and in trials. Let them not be intimidated by any picture of pain, let them not tremble at the misfortune of a fellow man, let them not flee from pain when the hands of their brothers reach out to them in demand of charity.

47. There, among those who have hardened in vice and pain, you will see many rise to the light, seeking regeneration and spirituality; but in order for that inspiration to reach them, you have to deposit in their hearts a true test of fraternity, an action that is the ray of light that illuminates the darkness of that being.

48. Understand then, that the pain that has accompanied you in many ways, has been the chisel that inwardly has been modeling your spirit for the performance of a delicate mission.

49. The lesson that I have come to give you in this Third Time is a new testament that will remain united to those of past times, because all three form a single revelation.

50. My light will illuminate the understanding of men destined to unite in a single book all my teachings.

51. My spiritual servants will guide the hand of my chosen ones so that there is no stain in that book.

Love one another!

52. The differences that have existed between this people, their arguments and their disunity, will disappear when you deepen the analysis of that book and come to understand the truth of my work.

53. Today you do not yet realize the consequences that your disunity will cause you, but in truth I tell you that tomorrow you are going to cry because of it. How many times have I asked you for the unification of thoughts, of practices, of spirits; so many times have you ignored my divine advice!

54. I have inspired you to form a people, giving you the name of the new Israel; I have given you various missions and positions, so that in your journey and in your struggles you have all the necessary elements, as happened in Israel in the First Time, when he crossed the desert in pursuit of the "promised land" but you have not tried to understand my commands until now, nor have you wanted to observe the example of union that that people left written, an indelible example because it was their harmony and their union that made him overcome the vicissitudes that he encountered on his way.

55. A new "land of promise" awaits you, but you are still far from it. You are already crossing the vast desert, you left Pharaoh's slavery behind and you have already received the law; however, you have not completely abandoned idolatry and without realizing it you worship the "golden calf".

56. Trials, obstacles and persecutions will have to come to you in order for you to wake up from your sleep. Then will you be willing to fulfill my commands and will you be zealous to watch over the work that I have revealed to you, as at that time the Israelites built the tabernacle and the ark to keep the law, because the trials had awakened them to the light.

57. Now your spirit will be your tabernacle and your conscience your ark. There will be my law illuminating the path of the Lord's people.

58. There has not emerged in this time a man who, imitating Moses, walks before this people, encouraging their faith with wonders, but with a little preparation you could feel the spiritual presence of Elijah, who is the one who guides, encourages and inspires you on this journey.

59. The crowds that listen to me are crying. Only I know the reason for their complaints, only I know all the obstacles and difficulties that they have encountered in their path and that are stopping them.

60. Persevere, multitudes, be faithful to me and you will see the obstacles thrown down. Pray and work with ever greater truth, purity and perfection, so that in the performance of your mission you may find the consolation and the strength necessary to cope with the vicissitudes of life. If this is how you walk, when you least think, you will look at the path cleared and the stumbles disappeared.

61. You are my fields where wheat and tares grow together for now. It is not yet the time to reap; but when it comes, the works of each one of you will be judged; then I will leave the good disciples on earth and raise up from this world those who have not borne fruits of unification and spirituality.

62. Watch and keep my word in mind; do not, because you have received very great offices and missions from Me, entrust yourselves, believing that my justice can never reach you. Remember David and Solomon, who, having been great before his people, fell asleep in their greatness, broke the law and saw my divine justice, inexorable and wise, coming upon them, when they believed that because they were so loved by the Father, they would never be touched by Him.

63. Think, O people, of the new generations. Think of your children as the patriarchs did, who prepared their peoples so that they would know how to receive the arrival of the Messiah.

64. Pray for those who come, prepare the way for them with charity and love, understand that they will have to fulfill even higher missions than yours and that it will be good for them to find a trace of spirituality through which to walk.

65. What will that print be? That of your life, that of your deeds.

66. Every spirit owes a great debt to his Father. My love for you and my righteousness have offered you on earth this new opportunity to justify yourselves before Me, to restore spiritually and to purify yourselves so that you can move on to the next abode.

67. O blessed Third Time, you are the bearer of all that the world needs to be saved from its slavery! Blessed are those who take advantage of your light because they will be saved!.

68. Throughout your spiritual journey I have guided you, tested you and prepared you for the revelation of this time. It will not be men who organize the new people of Israel; it will be I who form them, purify them, elevate them and send them out into the world to fulfill their mission. While this town is growing and getting ready. I am cleaning the roads, opening the doors and knocking down the obstacles for him to pass. This is what I did to Israel when I brought him out of Egypt and carried him across the sea and through the desert.

69. This people brings the mission of spiritually awakening humanity; but when it has fulfilled and men realize the time in which they live, you will see arise from their heart a longing for light and from their spirit an ideal of elevation, which will touch human life to its roots and transform the world.

70. Conscience will be heard and obeyed; the calls of the spirit will be understood; spiritual yearnings will be taken into account and respected and everywhere the fervent desire to know God, to feel Him, to get closer to Him, to sow His truth will shine.

71. These prophecies will have to be fulfilled among men, when hunger and spiritual thirst have brought them to the limits of their resistance, when, their pride being crushed, they confess before their Lord; when they descend from their thrones, from their tribunals and from their temples, from where they have tried to ignore me, from where they have judged and denied me and repent of their mistakes, they turn their eyes to Me and speak to me like children to a Father who has been waiting for them for centuries and centuries.

72. How far man has sunk into his materialism, reaching the point of denying the one who created everything! How could the human mind become so confused? How could your science deny me and desecrate life and nature, as it has done?

73. In every work that your science discovers, there is my presence; in every work my law is manifested and my voice is allowed to be heard. How is it that these men do not feel, nor see, nor hear? Is it peradventure a proof of advancement and civilization to deny my existence, my love and my justice? You are then no more advanced than primitive men, who knew how to discover in every element and in every wonder of nature the work of a divine, superior, wise, just and powerful being, to whom they attributed all good in everything that exists and for that reason they worshiped him.

74. Through a nascent intelligence, they tried to understand what their bodily senses received; what perfect worship could they offer me? What understanding could they have of the truth? However, their wonder, their faith and their worship were received by Me as the first fruits of a vast field that my Spirit would cultivate through the ages.

75. From then until now, how many lessons I have given to humanity! And how many revelations I have made to him! However, when this humanity should have already reached the summit of understanding and when its cult should be perfect, it is when its selfish, arrogant and inhuman science has risen up to deny me and when the cults that exist live in the lethargy of routine and traditions.

76. I gave you the gift of free will and I have respected that blessed freedom granted to my children; but I also placed in your being the divine light of consciousness, so that guided by it you may channel Your gifts; and I tell you that in the struggle of spirit and matter, the spirit has suffered a defeat, a painful fall, which little by little has been moving it further and further away from the source of truth.

Love one another!

77. But his defeat is not final, it is temporary, because he will rise from the bottom of the abyss when he can no longer bear his hunger, his thirst, his nakedness and his darkness. But pain will be his salvation, and hearing the voice of his conscience he will rise up strong and luminous, fervent and inspired, taking his gifts again, but no longer with that freedom to apply them to good or evil, but consecrating them only to the fulfillment of the divine laws, which is the best worship you can offer to your Father who loves you so much.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 176

1. Be strong in the face of the temptations of the world and matter. When you are faced with the pains of a trial, remember my lessons of the Second Half and follow my example.
2. Do you ask me how it was possible for Jesus to be touched by the temptations of the world? To which I answer you, that it was not base temptations that touched the heart of your Master.
3. The body that I had in the world was human and sensitive, it was the instrument that my Spirit used to deliver my lessons to humanity. He knew the test that awaited him because my Spirit revealed it to him and that matter suffered for the pain that awaited him.
4. I wanted that body to give you those signs of humanity so that you would be convinced that my pain was real and my sacrifice as a man, true.
5. Had it not been so, my sacrifice would have had no merit before men. That is why three times Jesus invoked the strength of my Spirit, who was the one who encouraged him, to overcome in the hard trial. The first time was in the desert, the second in the garden of olives, the third on the cross.
6. It was necessary to make me a man and give you my body and blood so that the pain that humanity instilled in him would make a dent in that body. If I had come in the Spirit, what sacrifice would I have made for you? What would I have given up and what pain could you have made me feel?
7. The Divine Spirit is immortal, pain does not reach Him, but the flesh is sensitive to pain, it is limited in its powers, it is mortal by nature; that is why I chose this means to manifest myself to the world and offer it my true sacrifice, to teach you the way of your salvation.
8. While you are sinners, keep me present in that passion and remember that blood, so that, repenting of your faults, you may purify yourselves and try to imitate me in that example of infinite love that I gave you.
9. While you are men, remember me on that cross, forgiving, blessing and healing my tormentors, so that you, along your heavy path, also bless those who offend you and do all the good possible to those who had caused you some evil. Whoever works in this way will be my disciple and truly I tell you, his pain will always be brief, because I will make him feel my strength in the moments of his trial.

Love one another!

10. Very few are those who long to teach their brothers by the examples of the Master. The same among this people as in most religions, teaching is given with words that lack strength, because they lack to be confirmed with works and examples of love.

11. Now you have the opportunity to listen to the explanation of my doctrine, which will polish your heart until it is ready to carry out the mission that I have entrusted to your spirit.

12. Do not be afraid to follow in my footsteps because I will demand of no one that he equals me in my sacrifice: I must also tell you that only that body hastened the chalice that my Spirit offered him; another man would not have hurried him, because my body took life in virtue and was strengthened in the purity of the One who offered her womb to conceive him: Mary.

13. Meditate, people and take advantage of this blessed silence in which you penetrate when listening to my teachings. Truly I tell you, in these moments of recollection and spirituality, my seed will germinate in your heart.

14. You achieve on this day the union and peace within your heart, to present yourselves before Me as a single conscious being of the act that you are going to witness when you hear my word through a spokesman. And I receive your spirit. Everything that you offer me clean and simple in your prayer and in your practices, I take as the just tribute of the children to their Heavenly Father.

15. The most fervent request that you make is that there be peace in this world, that the patriarchal life of other times return to men and I tell you that this peace will return when you, my new disciples, have laid the foundations of a new world, for which I am preparing you.

16. When you see in each one a brother, when you make the difference between one and the other disappear and love me in them, you will be looking at the dawn of a new time. And life will be joyful for man and I will be recognized and loved as a Father.

17. My word of this time is the same that I gave you in Jesus. It is the same crystalline current that bathed your spirit when you followed me through the lands of Palestine. Its essence is known to you, its flavor you will never be able to confuse, because its divine seal was imprinted on your spirit. And now, that I have come down to communicate through these men and women and you hear the word that gushes from their lips, you recognize that it can only come from Me and you ask me why I did not choose another way to bring my message of this time to humanity.

18. You tell me that there are no men of acrisolate virtue among you, capable of serving me. There is no Moses, nor the prophets of the first Time, neither is there Peter or John, but truly I tell you, I have sent virtuous spirits in all times and among them are these who have served me with humility; love them and help them, because their charge is very great. I have kept his mind and heart as a clean source, and many times pain has been the best means to purify them. His life is similar to that of my messengers of other times. I bless you. Blessed are those who have followed me in this way and have felt the full importance of the office that I have given them!

19. I invite you to enter my kingdom, O beloved people. This is how I am calling all the nations of the earth without distinction, but I know that not everyone will listen to me. Humanity has turned off its lamp and is walking in darkness, but where there is only confusion, an enlightened one of mine will arise who will make light around him, a spiritual guardian who watches and waits for my signal to give the warning voice that awakens and moves his brothers. Let the love of these messengers be a fruitful seed in your heart; do not ignore them if they appear before you with material poverty; listen to them because they are coming in my name to give you a power that you do not know now. They will teach you the perfect prayer, they will free you from the bonds of materialism with which you are tied, to give you spiritual freedom and you can rise to Me.

20. You who hear me eagerly await the fulfillment of all my words. You long to see humanity become my disciple, you ask me to be one of those whom I sent on difficult missions to other lands and in truth I tell you that you must prepare first, because the struggle that awaits you will be great. But not all the messengers of whom I speak to you are among you, nor will all of them have heard my word through spokespersons; many of them will speak intuitively, because I have prepared them spiritually, I have distributed them wisely, to make my light reach all your brothers.

21. How can you believe that while I have descended to you, I could neglect other nations, if you are all my children? Do you think that someone is far away or outside of Me, if my Spirit is universal and includes everything created? Everything lives and feeds on Me. That is why my universal ray has descended on the whole orb and the spirit has received my influence in this and in other worlds, because I have come to save all my creatures.

22. I do not want you to waste this time, to pass through the world without leaving a trace of your passage, but to be true cultivators of the seed that I entrust to you and that when you leave this world, you continue working until your sowing flourishes in the spirit of your brothers.

23. I do not come to bind you to my commands, I only inspire you, because I will not receive any fulfillment other than that which has been born of your conscious and prepared spirit. Be free within my laws, but make obedience a habit. Fulfill the two laws that govern man, which in essence form one, because both come from Me.

24. Pray for all beings, long for the harmony and understanding of all towards Me and that your prayer rises like a song, like a fervent hymn that lifts the spirits and points out to them the path by which they will reach the end of their destiny.

25. My doctrine develops man in all his phases, sensitizes and ennobles the heart, awakens and deepens the mind and perfects and elevates the spirit.

26. Make of my doctrine a deep study that will allow you to understand the right way to practice my teachings, so that your development is harmonious; that you not only give development to the mind without worrying about the ideals of the spirit that you should encourage.

27. All the powers of your being, can find in my word the luminous path where they can grow and perfect themselves to infinity.

28. I have given you enough time to assimilate and understand my teachings; it has been so much so that many of you who arrived children, are now young, as well as others who arrived young, are now elderly. Some have been born on this path and are part of the number of my farmers and others have breathed their last breath taking their place among my chosen ones.

29. I have given this people enough time for a firm and true faith to be born in them and for them to come to have a deep knowledge of my work in their spirit. My word prepares you for when you stop listening to this voice and you have to concentrate in the bottom of your heart to feel my presence and receive my inspiration.

30. My lesson is written on your conscience; there is the ark that best keeps my law, so that when the times pass and these hours of spiritual recreation that you had with your Teacher are distant, the essence of my word vibrates full of life in your spirit, pulsating with love and wisdom.

31. In all my lessons you will find that at every step I tell you to achieve spirituality, because it will be what makes you stand out on earth. Without spirituality you will not give your brothers the testimony that you should give them.

32. Do not be afraid of the day when I will cause my word to cease among you; my work will not fail, nor will your spirit faint. I have arranged in the spiritual valley some beings who will have to come to earth to incarnate to be guides and prophets of the peoples, beings of light, who will teach you to take a step forward in the path traced by my word.

Love one another!

33. Today I want to tell you that just as here you need the beings of light to come from the spiritual valley to help you on the journey, there are also spiritual abodes that are needing some of you to reach them with the message of my teaching. You do not know who of those who are listening to me at this moment, will have to leave soon in fulfillment of a spiritual mission. That is the reason why many hearts have been being purified for a long time and why, with each passing day, they feel their spirit more illuminated by the light of my doctrine.

34. I want you to be unified with my spiritual hosts so that with your love for all your brothers and sisters, you may work for the salvation of all beings who walk outside the path of life and truth.

35. Keep this word in your spirit, which can serve as a preparation for you at the supreme moment of leaving this existence to be spiritually liberated.

36. Understand how beautiful a time of revelations this has been, beloved people! A time of light that uplifts the spirits! Blessed are those who prepare, for they receive my light in fullness.

37. But think that they are only the beginnings of an age, that all that this time reserves for men has not been revealed to you, and all that you have received has not been understood by you.

38. Days, years and centuries will pass, in which this humanity will witness wonderful lights and spiritual revelations never known by its spirit.

39. Those times are already approaching and that is why you must prepare the way for those who will come to take your places; you must bless the path with your good deeds; then you will have begun the construction of the true temple, which others will take care of continuing and later others will come to conclude.

40. I have watched you struggle with your matter to subdue its reluctance; you have had to sustain great battles with your heart to impose obedience and submission on it. Her nature rebels against the dictates of conscience, but if you persevere in prayer, if you watch, you will make her the best collaborator in spiritual fulfillment. That struggle is part of your restitution at this time.

41. All your attributes have been in you from the moment you were created; intelligence, sensitivity, reason have enlightened your spirit so that you could fight the final battle. When you have overcome evil and your spirit is the pilot that guides matter, you will be in a position to go in search of your brothers, carrying a clear example of how to achieve the evolution of the spirit; without showing off strength and mastery, you will show your works and they will reveal obedience and compliance to my law.

Love one another!

42. When you no longer hear my word through the spokespersons and your spirit feels anxious to practice what I have taught you at this time, each of my disciples should take the group that is indicated to him, as to his own family, to teach and guide him. Always use charity, correct with love and wisdom, make you feel an atmosphere of peace like the one you have formed today and my Spirit will be present to inspire and bless everyone.

43. Do not ask anyone where he comes from or why he is looking for me; Elijah will lead them and their time will have come. From today I prepare those who are to arrive and I call blessed those who believe in this word that I have given you by the human understanding.

44. I am teaching you so that you may be the good taste of the earth, so that you may go to sweeten the lives of men with the good news that the Master has taken them in this time of sorrows and has left his word as an inheritance so that all may be sustained and live eternally.

45. I do not entrust to you the complete transformation of this humanity; take my word to your hearts with zeal and it will work wonders among your brothers. How much consolation they will receive in their days of trial if they know how to hear and interpret my teaching, and how you will adore these hours that you lived close to Me, drinking this divine essence, feeling like children to receive from your Father all his tenderness and his love!

46. Humanity today is like a fertile field to work in. The land is very extensive and the farmers are scarce. How are you going to present this generation converted to my teaching to me, if you don't work? You have a limited time and there is a lot you have to work on! The hour is propitious! Rebuild the temples that have collapsed inside the hearts! Help to rebuild homes, preach spiritually in your path with thoughts, words and deeds!

47. Take care that virtue turns beings, and children become a strong bond between father and mother and young people, a strong foundation of new generations, husband and wife, the image of God and his creation, and all united with the guardian angels who accompany you, form perfect harmony with Me.

48. Your requests come to Me, the light that I have poured out illuminates your being. All your works are present and you can judge your merits. The pains that you are experiencing now will pass and peace will shine in the universe.

49. Pray for the nations that are at war, share your bread and your clothes with those who have fallen into disgrace. Open your barns and feed them. Show your fraternity in this hour of anguish for the world. Practice charity with the sick, prepare the spirit that is to depart to the afterlife, raise the faith of the sad, bring peace to all your brothers. Ask and I will do wonders among mankind.

50. Your world is full of slaves, that is the cause that in every man there is a deep longing for freedom; but you should not blame this on the laws of the spirit, nor on human ones, but on yourselves, because the true law, whether divine or human, should lead, guide, teach and protect, but never chain.

51. Understand that you are not spiritually free, because far from the divine essence, from the law of love for your God above all created things, and from loving one another as brothers in the Creator, you have become slaves to religious fanaticism, idolatry and superstition.

52. Neither are you free within human laws, because these, which should impart justice among humanity, have been contaminated by the selfishness of peoples, by injustice and by lies.

53. Those who govern and those who are in charge of leading the spirits, are also children of my Divinity; the laws that one and the other apply must be sisters and, nevertheless, how distant they walk and live from each other.

54. When will humanity be able to "give to God what is God's and to Caesar, what is Caesar's?"

55. While some are determined to comply only with the norms of the world, ignoring all divine law, others seek the elevation of the spirit through the paths marked by the various religions, despite carrying rebellion in their hearts, avoiding submitting to the laws of the earth.

56. Truly I tell you, neither one nor the other is doing their duty.

57. Do you see the king star that appears in the east every day, how it illuminates and warms everyone equally, without distinction from any creature?

58. This is the Father's love for each of his children, and this is how your love and your justice should be, so that in this way my laws on humanity would be applied.

59. Do you not contemplate the perfect harmony that exists between the divine and everything that has been created by your Lord? So why can't there be perfect harmony among humans who are children of God?

60. Blessed is the one who hears this call and recognizes the era of light in which he lives, because he will be able to continue walking on the path of spiritual evolution.

Love one another!

61. You are already in the last years in which you will listen to my word, which has been in your life like a flash of my wisdom.

62. This teaching will be recorded in books and she and the disciples who really prepare themselves and carry unshakable faith in their hearts, will be the living testimony that I leave, when the hour of my departure comes, to those who did not listen to me in this Third Time.

63. Blessed are those who remain faithful in spite of trials because they will attain wisdom and peace.

64. In order for each one to fulfill the mission he has received, you must unite in a single will, set aside laziness from your matter for spiritual teachings, stop concentrating your attention only on what concerns your material life, to think already about your spirit.

65. I am eternal life; if you want to attain it, you will only have to fulfill my law.

66. May this recollection that you have within my enclosure when listening to my word, you know how to preserve it later, and may it be in your life order, respect, discipline, humility.

67. I am illuminating your spirit, your mind and heart, I am channeling your life.

68. I want my teaching to take root in your heart so that you cannot forget it, because you do not know how much you will miss it in the times of struggle, nor do you know how long you will have to stay on this earth. Therefore do good through my doctrine, so that when the Father calls you, that call will not surprise you, but will find you working like the good farmer.

69. Verily I tell you, this teaching will restore the morality of this world, since it will be a step towards spirituality, because it will awaken hearts to fraternity.

70. At this time I am still the misunderstood one, because while the humble, in their ignorance, offer me fanatical cults, those who pass for wise or powerful, say they are enough of themselves.

71. How few follow me!

72. Beloved people, let my word continue to prepare you.

73. I give peace to your heart, peace to your home and freedom to your spirit in the moments in which matter is given over to sleep.

74. Keep this grace and take my blessing.

Love one another!

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Love one another!

Teaching 177

1. Humanity, who are represented at this moment by this people who prostrate themselves contrite and fearful in the presence of their Lord: With what will you be able to repay your debt of love and truly please the Spirit of your Father?
2. I am going to tell you the way to do it: Fight for your peace and spiritual elevation; in this way you will be able to wash away your guilt and raise your spirit.
3. I entrust you with a time, so that within it you may fulfill the longing of your spirit; the new era arises before you, like a glorious day full of promises and revelations. With his light he is saying to you: Fight! And in that word is contained the Father's command. Fight for peace, for regeneration, for the triumph of spirituality.
4. I have come to record these words in your consciousness, so that it is she who repeats them to you at every step you take.
5. Keep in mind that my love is a city that you have to conquer; there are many obstacles and there are many enemies that you have to overcome; they will present you with a battle to stop you, but in your hands it sports an invincible sword if you know how to wield it, that sword is of love. Fight, fight with her and do not doubt, because at last you will see the city fall surrendered, because your love will have conquered the Father.
6. I wanted to create in your bosom a united, fraternal and hospitable family, so that the caravans of travelers seeking peace and charity may enter your home eager to share the love that I have poured out on you. But your preparation has been slow, you have been delayed and the caravans of travelers have stopped in the desert to contemplate that the star that guided their steps stopped their trajectory. That is because I do not want men to find you sleeping, or that if you are awake, they will find you sinning, because then you will not be able to testify to my new coming, but you will have betrayed your Master.
7. I am giving you time to repent of your faults and rebuild your life. May the father of a family who has failed in his duties by abandoning his own, go in search of him and rebuild the home again.
8. May those who have rolled down the slopes of vice, rise up overcoming the weaknesses of matter, imposing the will and the strength of their spirit until they get to safety. May all those who are servants of this work unite in spirit, love and help one another; then the star that had stopped on the road, thereby parking the great caravans in the desert, will resume its march pointing out to those multitudes the road that leads to the land of peace.

Love one another!

9. Those men who came fleeing war, death and destruction, bringing in their hearts the vision of hatred and crime, when penetrating the bosom of a people, where in every home a sanctuary to true love is erected, where in every marriage the light of my law shines, where parents love children and children love and respect their parents, where childhood is led with tenderness and wisdom and where old age is respected, Don't you think that they, seeing so many signs of respect for my law, will confess that in that village there has been a miracle, only attributable to the Father's charity?

10. O people, who have hitherto been hard and ungrateful, I have not come to ask you for sacrifices or to make impossible demands; if at times it seems difficult for you to comply with my doctrine, it is due to your lack of love. For the one who loves, there are no obstacles or abysses, nor impossible, because; love is the divine force that animates everything, that moves everything.

11. Come to my lands, O multitudes. The countryside is waiting for you to receive the seed from your love and later reward your labors with the sweet fruit that will sprout from its bosom.

12. Unite yourselves strongly with the bonds of fraternity, because temptation is lurking for my people, war is looking for a door, where the guardian sleeps, so that the plague, hunger and diseases penetrate the bosom of that nation with new strange modalities.

13. I have given you the science of the earth to combat these calamities and ward off those bitterness, but I have taught you a science that is superior; before which all the enemies of light, all the destroyers of health and peace surrender. That science is the virtue of love, which is strengthened by prayer.

14. Meditate on these words, O people, and then listen to what your conscience advises you.

15. My Spirit sends you his peace, which you do not always know how to retain. How long will you learn to take me with you without any of your actions or thoughts rejecting me?

16. Let no one be troubled when I tell him that I want you to take me with you, in the innermost depths of your heart, because it is my light and my peace that I want to dwell in you.

17. My voice as judge is the one that demands of you on this day your lack of fulfillment, your lack of love for this work that I have entrusted to you and that is what represents your destiny. It is the divine voice that now comes through consciousness making your heart tremble as you ask yourself: What have you done with all that I have come to reveal and teach you in this Third Time?

Love one another!

18. For a moment you realize that responsibility, which has reached your spirit; but understanding is like a burst of light that fleetingly passes through you and you fall back into weakness believing that you are always small, sick and needy, when in reality you have a treasure of divine gifts at your fingertips.

19. If in my word you find a claim, it is of love. You will not call me unjust, because if I really were and if you found anger in Me, as you are saying, my justice would have exterminated you a long time ago; but I do not destroy my own works, I put you on the path of evolution, so that in it you may find your perfection.

20. I tell you, the true concept of God is not yet known on earth, despite having sent Jesus so that through Him you could know me. Understand that if I knew that man was not to be saved, I would not come to him with the love with which I have always sought him. My presence among you is the evident proof that you will come to Me, because the Father does know the future and the destiny of all his children.

21. I will cause the word that I have come to deliver to you at this time to be written clearly, so that in that book humanity will find the explanation of many of the teachings that it had not understood and the correct interpretation of my doctrine. Then the true fear will arise from that knowledge, not the fear of divine punishment, but the penalty of becoming stained with sin, that of offending the Creator, that of returning to the Father in the hereafter with the stained spirit, without having managed to take a step forward on the path of spirituality and true knowledge.

22. With what will you be able to repay the debt of love that you have with your Father? With what will you be able to repay the One who forgives your offenses and your ingratitude at every moment? I will tell you: Doing works worthy of my Divinity, serving and loving one another.

23. A new year is before you, and of the one that has just passed I do not ask nature or her elements for an account; I present myself in your conscience to ask you what you have done within your mission and what use you have made of the time and the gifts that I have entrusted to you.

24. The year that ends he told me about your struggles, your tears, your efforts, your work, also mourning, blood, ruins and hatreds. That painful balance is the one that threw before my presence the year that ended.

25. A new year I grant you, before your gaze is presented as a horizon of light that ignites your hope for the future. That light is the voice that will tell you every day: Fight!

26. Yes, humanity: Fight for peace, fight for regeneration, fight for justice!

Love one another!

27. I will only give you my word for four years from this day on; know how to take advantage of this precious time. My work will not end in 1950, because it belongs to eternity, nor will your mission conclude by that time; rather, then your struggle will begin, because at the time of my communication you have been only in preparation.

28. Know how to unite the spiritual and the material mission in a single law, so that you can offer the father a good fulfillment.

29. I not only teach you to give to Me what belongs to Me, I also teach you to give to Caesar what is Caesar's.

30. The world will soon know about you and through you they will know about my coming, my wonders and my teachings. Men will search these precincts and judge your life. Among them will come men of power, ministers of sects and religions, scientists and those who scrutinize the afterlife. I wish that in the bosom of your meetings and in the bosom of your home you show, if not perfection, then the same harmony, morality, respect, charity for one another, spirituality.

31. What would those who come after a truth think, if among you they find fanaticism in your spiritual practices, and in your private life they discover estranged spouses or abandoned children, because their parents have not been able to fulfill their duties?

32. Look at the birds that hang their nests on the branches of the trees and take an example from them when you need it; do not ask Me how those who are united in marriage should love each other and how they should love their children. Look into those nests and there you will find a lesson in fidelity and tenderness. If only all humans loved each other that way!

33. Watch and fight so that at the end of 1950 you will be able to offer the Father fruits worthy of Him, because if by then you are not prepared, there will be great pain among the multitudes at the moment of my departure.

34. If you do not prepare yourselves to resist the absence of my word, how painful my goodbye will be for you and that I also give you my spiritual world.

35. On this day when my Spirit has filled you with peace and blessings, what more can you ask of me?

36. Now it is I who asks you, who knocks on the doors of your heart to ask you to love one another.

37. Sincerely pray for the peace of nations, deeply feel the pain of humanity.

Love one another!

38. Verily I tell you, pestilence and death haunt your nation; you have no scientific means to stop the advance of the plagues and calamities, but make use of prayer and in it you will find weapons and strength to combat those calamities. Pray and join good deeds to your prayer, and you will have done true merits before your Lord who is Almighty, who will grant you by your humility wonders capable of amazing the world.

39. When the elements are unleashed showing signs of justice, pray, remain serene and do not cry for yourself, but for others; but to whoever seeks you, dry his cry, listen to his complaint and give him the balm.

40. Dearly beloved humanity: Do not believe that if I have returned at this time, it has been to claim for you my blood shed in the Second Time; no, that essence has been deposited in your spirit. That blood will speak in each one of you when the time comes; meanwhile, many are waiting for the Son of God to return, to ask for his blood once again. In every heart of my children I am living my divine passion.

41. I am born in him, in his innocence, when he is born to faith. I suffer in him when his passions are unleashed and whip him. I bear the heavy cross of their sins, of their ingratitude and of their pride. I die in his heart, when he does not know me, declaring that he has no more lord, no more king than the world. And there in the deepest and darkest of his being I find my grave.

42. From time to time, that heart hears, as if it were a distant echo, the voice of the master, of the One whom he would kill in himself so that he would not present obstacles in his way. It is the voice of his conscience, which manages to overcome the wall of materialism that surrounds that heart, until it becomes heard.

43. Just as I have found in every heart of humanity a cross and a tomb, truly I tell you, there will be a third day in everyone, in which I will rise full of light and glory.

44. Today the seedbeds are sterile; sometimes you want to dignify your life by sowing good in one of its forms, but then you abandon your company crying, because instead of land that would allow you to do the sowing, you have only found rocks. It is because you have not understood that, before starting the sowing, you must recognize the lands where you intend to do it. Go through them, prepare them, clean them and fertilize them; and this, my children, you still do not know how to do; that is why your good purposes, ideas and inspirations have failed many times. But do not lose heart in your struggle, because you can do a lot of good by awakening your brothers, opening their eyes to the truth and to the light of this time, so that men realize that all the pain that humanity is forced to drink like a cup of bitterness, is the righteous sickle that comes to nip the weed in the bud; it is the wise and inexorable justice that removes and prepares the lands because then it will awaken men, peoples and nations and it will no longer be necessary for pain to come to wash away all the faults, because in its place there will be repentance, reflection and regeneration of those who manage to achieve the same end, which is that of purification. But when you have achieved it, there will come a time when this word will be heard throughout the world, as a song of love and a return to peace.

45. Today I contemplate you oblivious to everything that is coming, because complete ignorance and confusion reigns among humanity.

46. Most men call themselves Christians and yet, with their lives and their deeds, most of the time they prove the opposite.

47. If they get to do a good thing, they publish it and they get puffed up about it and if when they have made a mistake they repent of it and ask me for forgiveness, they do it in such a way that they show with it that they ignore even what my forgiveness consists of.

48. You can already tell the world, O people, who hear this word, that my light has come again among men, since you can also announce to them that humanity is about to come out of its lethargy.

49. I will no longer give you human blood to save you from sin. If my divine blood shed in that Second Time spoke to you of divine and infinite love, of sublime forgiveness and of eternal life, you will understand that that blood has not ceased to be shed for an instant on you, on your being, to trace with its imprint the path of your evolution.

50. No one should wait for me or should look for me humanized because if I agreed to fulfill that desire, such a manifestation would be out of time and you must understand that the Master will never do anything that is out of perfection, because his teachings are always perfect, because the perfect teaches it.

51. In the same way, when this way of communicating that I have now used with you comes to an end, there will be no petition or supplication that will convince me not to fulfill what I have announced to you; it will cease forever, because its time will have ended and its mission will be finished.

52. Soon it will be two thousand years since I was among you as a man and the blood that I bequeathed to you as a proof of my love, is the inheritance that is still fresh.

53. However, the world is asking for my blood once again and I am going to give it to them, but not the one that quickens the body, but the one that gives eternal life to the spirit. In my light I will send life and health to men, she will be like a sun that will bring her warmth to the cold hearts of this humanity.

Love one another!

54. My mercy will spread over everyone as if they were the wings of a lark that was covering its children. My love will be more merciful and more beautiful than the blue firmament that your eyes admire so much; you will feel my breath as if it were a heavenly breeze that only your spirit can perceive. I am time, life and also eternity. I am the spring and the summer, the autumn and the winter of your life, and each of those phases is a pulsating and vivid lesson that the Divine master delivers to his children.

55. Let the divine dew penetrate your spirit so that it can live an eternal spring. Let your heart be exhausted under the hot sun of struggle, but let the flowers of virtue, faith and love remain fresh in the depths of your being.

56. Why are you sad? You don't know. I do know that sadness overwhelms you because you have let your spirit get sick along with matter, and when the hurricane of passions or trials hits you or the winter snow freezes you, then you lose all hope and longing to live.

57. My Spirit also experiences sadness that comes from always seeing this humanity crying that does not want to wake up and realize that this earth is still an earthly paradise; I see you perish of hunger being surrounded by fruitfulness and life. It is this humanity that I am referring to when I say to you: "They have eyes and they do not see."

58. Men have gone madly after science, and there are many wonders that they have discovered, but the one that gives peace, health and true happiness, they have not found among all the goods on earth, because it is beyond the human, precisely where man has not wanted to reach. This divine science was taught by Jesus when he said to you, "Love one another."

59. Seek the kingdom of Jesus that is not in this world and in him you will find the light and peace necessary to sweeten and make this journey bearable.

60. Now you have come to receive the divine mandate. I behold you ready to obey my law, trying to follow the path traced by Jesus.

61. I have been among you for a long time and I still come to knock on the door of your hearts so that you love each other.

62. Blessed is the one who has been able to prepare himself to receive the Heavenly Father in his heart, because He gives him every moment the way to fulfill, contemplating that the disciple wants to be close to his Master.

63. If in this beginning year you find the proof, be strong and do not falter; then you will be able to demonstrate to your brothers the strength that exists in your spirit; they will want to know the source from which you have drunk and they will find that the source is me, Christ, from whom they have strayed so far.

Love one another!

64. Truly I tell you, men of all races and religions will come to this source, because spirituality will be in all the cults that men surrender to me and in the end they will all find themselves close to the truth, to unification.

65. Disciples: There have been moments when you have felt my righteousness, and I have seen you confess with humility before my Divine Spirit; then I have turned my gaze away from your sins to contemplate only that you are my children whom I love and forgive. This is how I teach you to love and forgive your fellow human beings.

66. Do not let time pass without taking advantage of it, because no one knows the moments that remain of life in this world. Therefore I say to you, Do not wait for a more propitious time than the present to get up to work, lest, waiting for better times, death surprise you without harvest or fulfillment.

67. The year 1950 is approaching in which I will say my farewell to you through this communication and that farewell will be felt by you, as my disciples of the Second Time felt it, when I announced to them that the hour of My departure had arrived.

68. If those had the consolation of contemplating me after my death, it was to engrave with fire in their spirit the truth of the spiritual life. But among you only some will contemplate the humanized form of Jesus and the others will feel him deeply and that will be the way to communicate with me from spirit to Spirit.

69. Watch and pray for the peace of the earth, that so many calamities may cease, because in it is found the seed of the new generations.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

1. People: Every time a new year begins, I hear your questions in this way: Lord, will this year also be a year of trial for us? To which I answer that life is a continuous trial, but that you should not be afraid, because if you know how to watch and pray, you will be able to advance in your restitution until you reach the end of your destiny.
2. Those trials in which humanity lives are the fruit that it comes to reap, it is the result of its own sowing, a harvest that is sometimes the consequence of the seed sown the previous year and at other times the fruit of what it sowed years ago or in other incarnations.
3. Is a new year beginning? Well, do what good sowers do, who previously clean their seed in anticipation of the propitious time to deposit it in fertile soil. So you cleanse your heart beforehand, so that from your good deeds you may reap tomorrow a good harvest of peace, love and satisfactions.
4. Have you seen the harmony in which all creation lives? Does it not seem to you as if in all that exists some creatures love each other? Look at the sun; it seems like a father who was opening his arms to embrace all creatures in them in an embrace of life and love, light and energy, birds sing and beings work, offering their tribute of grateful love to the king star.
5. It is a beautiful example of how you should harmonize with everything that surrounds you in this nature and with everything spiritual.
6. On the understanding that men achieve in these teachings and their obedience to the laws that govern the universe, depends their happiness, which some believe does not exist on earth and others come to think that only I treasure, but that is manifested in the peace of your spirit.
7. Now you know, O people, that your happiness is in yourselves so that you can teach men that at the bottom of their being, where they believe that they carry only bitterness, hatred and grudges, regrets and tears, there is a light that nothing can extinguish and that is that of the spirit.
8. Humanity has channeled its steps along crooked paths, inheriting a generation of errors from previous generations and increasing its mistakes as time passes over you. This humanity is now reaping the fruit of the seed of sorrow that it sowed in the world yesterday, just as the generations to come will reap the fruit of what you sow today.

Love one another!

9. Why not channel your beliefs, struggles, sciences, ideals and desires along the only path of justice, which my doctrine points out to you? When will men come to recognize the truth of my word?

10. My law, immutable and eternal, stands before men, pointing out to them the path of true happiness, a path that leads to the fields where by sowing good, the harvest of peace is gathered.

11. Blessed are those who have felt my call in the depths of their hearts and have come to listen to the divine lesson, because with its essence they will increase their knowledge; they will be a bulwark among their own and they will know how to sustain themselves with faith in trials.

12. I have come to put away everything that is vain in you, so that your works may be pleasing to the Father.

13. In this school of Christ there have been many initiates who, before the Master of all wisdom, said when they arrived: Lord, if you are Christ who teaches this way and discovers in each of us the mission and the gifts he possesses, grant us the realization of our destiny, in order to reach You.

14. Then I have appointed for you your inheritance, I have given you commands, and I have made you husbandmen. But truly I tell you, I have no privileged among my children, because everyone who approaches Me with the desire to serve Me will receive my grace in his heart. But the moment will also come when everything you have done with the gifts entrusted to you will be judged by Me and you will have to answer to Me.

15. Now I am not coming to ask you for an account yet, because you are trying to apply my law to the works of your life and you are still too young to resist the judgment. But be each one of you a zealous guardian of my teaching, that this fulfillment will not prevent you from also attending to the obligations of your world. Look at those who have despised this inheritance; there is sadness and emptiness in them, but my mercy is great and it manifests itself forgiving them.

16. The one who has fulfilled, it is right that he feels my peace, and the one who has not, he touched through his conscience to keep him awake, so that the supreme instant of death does not surprise the naked spirit of good works, because without them he could not rise.

17. Take my teaching from heart to heart; when your brothers receive it, some will say, This word contains prophecy; others will judge it as a teaching of little importance, and while some judge it advanced, others will judge it very backward. Each one will interpret it according to his spiritual capacity and the purity of his works.

Love one another!

18. Be humble, so that you may be a living example before humanity and my work may be recognized.

19. But do not be humble only at the moment when you listen to me, but throughout your life, so that you may be able to persuade your brothers, because the word alone will not convince. Prepare yourselves for example and even for sacrifice.

20. If you love me, go and forgive whoever has offended you. If you love me, go to the sickbed or to the prison cell, comfort them and pray with them. Then your love will bring down all pride that you could harbor.

21. My word is a warning voice, because while you are with Me, you are like meek lambs, but when you return to your ways you tear yourselves apart and deny each other forgiveness.

22. The time of complacencies has passed and you will have to get out of your stagnation, to achieve greater evolution of your spirit.

23. Take back the white robe of spirituality, so that when you speak my word to men, you will do so with the innocence of a child. Then you will not be afraid to speak of works, for your works and your life will speak for you.

24. My word through the spokespersons is essentially the same; I speak to each congregation according to their understanding and ability.

25. Today, a year has begun, since its first hours you have gathered your forces to continue in the fight. This is how you have manifested it to me. Your purpose is to rise up like the good sower who deposits the seed in the prepared furrow, with the desire to reap an abundant harvest at the end of the work.

26. That seed is the word of light that you are going to sow in the hearts of your brothers.

27. You will have to face the world, the wisdom of man, because those who have prepared themselves will present you with a struggle and if you were not firm in Your faith, you would be defeated.

28. I have not come to fill your understanding with science in order to make you contend with scientists. I have come to enlighten your spirit, so that he may penetrate the unfathomable through elevation and inspiration. No one can say that what you have received at this time you already knew, because many of the lessons that I have given you at this time through human understanding, are the new revelations.

Love one another!

29. You are going to talk about the spirit, about his immortality, because eternal life has been granted to him. But in order for you to speak of these revelations, you will first have to feel them; then you will be able to call yourselves my disciples.

30. A spiritualist is not the one who penetrates these precincts where I give you my word, a spiritualist is the one who prays spiritually and rises from anywhere; a spiritualist is the one who fights for the perfection of his spirit and also the one who lives to mitigate the pain of others.

31. Understand that the spiritualist can be found everywhere. He will be known more by his actions than by his word; that is why I always tell you: Be an example of love, humility and charity.

32. Note that not everyone who calls himself a spiritualist is.

33. I have simplified your practice and your worship without giving you new laws.

34. I made you understand that the worship of my Divinity through images was imperfect and that you should abandon all fanaticism.

35. Do you not know that the power of your God is limited to reach you? Have I not told you that when you pray, I descend into your heart to give it life? Have I not taught you, that when you are clean in heart and spirit, I come to dwell within you?

36. This era of light you could not have lived it before, because the little evolution that you had would not have allowed it, but now that you live it and contemplate it, it seems the most natural to feel the fulfillment of the prophecies.

37. The same man of science has discovered wonders and has made advances that you previously thought impossible.

38. Why should you not understand that all these great things are due to the grace of their Lord?

39. Spiritualism teaches and invites men to find me in their own ways, because I am manifested in everything as Creator, as strength, as life, perfection and harmony. And who can maintain such harmony in the universe but God? That God has no form, you should no longer imagine Him through limited figures, because when you leave this world, you would find yourself with a reality that you could not understand.

40. My teaching is not only knowledge; it is caress and it is also consolation; my charity extends to all those who suffer, to those who are shedding tears, to those who are enduring injustices. She comforts the mother and the wife, takes care of the maiden, strengthens the young man and sustains the old man; she comes to kindle the light of hope in that ineffable joy that awaits you all.

Love one another!

41. In this age I pour out my grace on you, so that you may continue on the path of light, and pain and weakness may never be strong enough to turn you away from it.

42. In your spirit there is already anxiety to reach your true homeland, the world of peace of your Father. Here you have purified yourselves in the crucible of the struggle, in the vicissitudes and trials, but I tell you: Come with firmness and resignation to the end, because if there is no patience in you, you will make the journey longer.

43. However long this existence lasts, it is transitory and fleeting next to the spiritual life that is imperishable.

44. Feel the greatness of the life that I promise you, so that you will not fear losing that matter that you love so much.

45. I will make all beings who inhabited this earth recognize themselves in the hereafter, love each other and live in peace. Then you will understand the reason for the existence that you left with all its bitterness and trials sometimes incomprehensible to man.

46. The spiritual life is so close to you that sometimes it is enough for you to close the eyes of the body and open those of the spirit in order to contemplate the wonders of that kingdom.

47. You are so close to the spiritual valley that an instant may be enough for you to pass from this world to that. At all times I have spoken of these revelations to men through my prophets, who have testified to my truth; at this time I speak to you of the only way that leads to my kingdom and I do it through men and women prepared by my charity.

48. See that you are not alone in this life; if you lived with spirituality, you could contemplate and feel the spiritual world very close to you. Let the truth and the greatness of that world be reflected in all the acts of your life.

49. Always dedicate the moments of your purest thought to the Father who is in heaven, so that you may arrive firmly and illuminated by the light of your conscience at the time when you will penetrate into direct communion with my Spirit, which will be after 1950, when you will no longer listen to me in this way.

50. Without elevation you will not be able to achieve that communion of your spirit with your Creator. Make yours the desire to elevate yourselves to Me and also consecrate to me some of the time that you still live on earth, so that the transition step to the afterlife will be easy for your spirit.

Love one another!

51. See how listening to me have come to harmonize your senses, heart and spirit. Matter and spirit have meditated deeply on the future, the one knows and accepts its end, the other rejoices contemplating the endless horizon that presents itself before his sight. But who can measure the spiritual distance he has to travel to reach Me, who am the goal of your perfection? Who can at least know the time marked on the eternity clock to leave his body on earth?

52. Live prepared, watch and pray. Accumulate merits and you will not have troubles, because when you leave matter, your spirit will flap its wings and will know how to fly, like little birds when they leave the nest to take the first flight.

53. You should not be sad thinking about renunciations. Only the materialist longs and suffers remembering the satisfactions of this life. Do not be materialistic, worry about what concerns your spirit, without abandoning the attention you owe to your human part.

54. Understand that everything is ready for your recreation. Whoever wants to eat this delicacy of love, sit at my table and savor it just like the angels.

55. You have not come by chance, you have been led by Me to witness my manifestations. I have found many of you dead to spiritual life and my word has raised you up; today you breathe life and there is hope in your heart. I receive everyone, those who have faith and those who disbelieve. To men of various religions and sects I say: Blessed are those who believe in my word.

56. If you want to perceive my inspiration and translate it into thoughts and words, get ready; you can all be my interpreters. The Father wants to be understood by his children and that is why he has come to invite you to penetrate the spiritual temple.

57. Seek Me with a clean heart, always listening to the voice of your conscience and in truth I tell you that very soon you will find me; before your spirit takes flight, I will have come to you to take you to that mansion of peace that I have promised you; but it is necessary that you know the path that leads to Me; your path is traced towards spirituality. To climb to the top, you must pray and work. I do not yet contemplate among the peoples of the earth the holy aspiration to be spiritualized. Materialism has not reached the limit allowed by Me; but the end of that stage is near. Then you will anxiously seek to return to the practice of love and charity to work with merit the elevation of your spirit.

58. The darkness that forms sin and confusion will be dispelled and the true law will illuminate all beings.

59. I am granting you great sights that tell you about the future, so that you can analyze them and be prepared. Bear witness to this to your brothers; but the time will come when men of different races and of different peoples will see in the infinite my signs and this will be consolation for some and happy fulfillment for others who will see the fulfillment of my word in it.

60. My teaching contains all the spiritual knowledge you could wish for. In your spirit you will find the experiences that you have collected through your path of evolution and they will help you to find spiritual progress if you know how to prepare yourself.

61. You raise up with your prayer a song that reaches Me. You offer me your struggle in my work and you hope that the seed that you have cultivated will be good and pleasing to Me and I bless you: You are spreading my seed in the blessed lands, because you know that the goods that I have given you are not only for you, but also belong to your brothers. In this struggle I have not asked you for sacrifices, only for compliance with the law, that you live as my children and manifest the virtues of which I have made you possessors. Be clean vessels inside and out, so that you may be filled with divine perfection.

62. Sometimes I have seen in you protests and disagreements with your destiny; the temporary life you have on earth does not satisfy you, and the Master tells you: The true abode of the spirit is in the hereafter. Today, be patient, hurry the trials with fortitude and comply with my law within that stage. Make the bad times good and when you hear rumors of war and destruction, pray and do not mix in them, do not make division. These and many calamities are unleashed, doing purification work among humanity, but this is for the good and evolution of the spirits; after this great battle that the spirit wages, a better earth awaits you and you will have reached a higher scale where you will rest from your fatigue.

63. Open your spiritual eyes and contemplate the time in which you are living and thus you will be able to confirm my words of the Second Time, which announced great trials to humanity.

64. Everything has been fulfilled as it was written. Rise up, practice my doctrine with Purity and do not forget that I have told you that the struggle is universal, that the spirit fights not only on earth, but also in other valleys. Help with your examples those legions of disembodied spirits who live materialized. Feel how they approach you in demand of prayer and advice; do not reject them, make them come out of their state of confusion, influence them with your charity before they influence you. And those who, for your love, reach the light of my teaching, full of gratitude, will become your advocates and will help you in your fulfillment. Everything will unfold within my laws of love and justice. Love all of you in Me, even if you inhabit different spiritual planes. I'm sorry, too.

Love one another!

65. Fight with all the strength of your spirit to reach the fulfillment of your destiny; according to your decision, you will allow your virtue to manifest and you will be able to prove your faith with words and deeds of love.

66. In this age, as in the Second Time, the Master appears among his disciples, and seeing such simplicity and humility among them, he grants them the grace to listen to his word.

67. Remember, every work will come to Me when it is grounded in my law.

68. My law is the good seed that you have received from Me, which you will put in the hearts of your brothers and in the hearts of your children. There are hearts that at my call have been lit like torches of faith and persevere in my work.

69. In your struggles you have overcome temptation many times, encouraged by the ideal that my doctrine should flourish among humanity.

70. I come to enlighten your spirit with my wisdom, so that when you find someone who does not believe in your faith, you will give him convincing proof that you know the truth and at the same time help him to believe.

71. They will ask you if you consider yourselves prophets and if you have power over the spirit and they will put you to the test like Elijah in the First Time. You will give them proofs, but for this it will be essential that at that hour you have faith, fulfill my law and submit to my will.

72. Here is the Master speaking through the human mind, which is the image of divine intelligence, a gift that I have placed in the most perfect creature that dwells on earth: man. How can you doubt that I communicate in this way, if I am manifested in each of you? The wisdom that emanates from this word is the infinite horizon that I open before the spirit so that you may know the truth and through it feel the supreme bliss.

73. Whoever opens his eyes will no longer be able to look for me through the forms created by his own hand, because he will be the one who through his elevation is inspired and communicates with my Divinity

74. It is necessary that man learn to detach himself from matter at the moment of his elevation, so that the moments that his spirit spends in the afterlife will serve to enlighten and strengthen him; thus he will always be able to find the path of evolution and mark it to those who do not know it. I come to empower you to bear witness to these revelations.

75. Today I say to you that you must not only fight to save your spirit but also that of your brothers, with which humanity will contemplate fulfilled my word, which teaches you to love one another.

Love one another!

76. I grant you a lot of what you ask of me! But if you asked me to change your destiny, truly I tell you, I would not grant it to you, because your destiny, the one that speaks to you of virtue, of perfection, of love, is written by Me.

77. He who was created to be a farmer in my lands, will have to sow in them and the seed will be of faith, of love and of goodwill.

78. Drink from this fountain, O thirsty spirits who are looking for the light without finding it. Feel this sweet peace that your heart does not know and when you have felt it, deduce who it is who is talking to you, you will no longer need to ask why I have come to men again, because the answer you will carry in yourself.

79. If there were no ignorance in the world, if blood did not flow, if pain and misery did not exist, there would be no reason for my Spirit to materialize and become perceptible to your senses; but you need me, I know that only my love can save you at this moment, and that is why I have come.

80. If I didn't love you, what would it matter that you were lost and what would it matter about your pain? But I am your Father, a Father who feels in himself the pain of the son, because each son is a particle of his; that is why I come to give you, in each of my words and inspirations, the light of truth that represents life for the spirit.

81. Your heart beats hurriedly listening to this word and you were about to shout to bless my name, but it was not necessary for your lips to express the emotion that fills your spirit, because before I already knew the joy that you were going to have when hearing me.

82. I am your Master, the same one whom the world immolated in the Second Time and who now comes to men with the same love; I am the One who, dying on the cross, felt an infinite thirst for love and instead of water, which would have been a form or a proof of charity on the part of men, received gall and vinegar on his lips, as a manifestation of contempt, mockery and ignorance.

83. But I do not come to reproach humanity; on the contrary, I bring you a new message that will lift you up, making you feel the much-needed peace of the spirit.

84. "I am thirsty," I said at that hour. I have thirst, I say to you again, thirst for your love, thirst for feeling close to my Spirit, thirst for you to love one another.

85. You too are thirsty; pain burns your heart and you need with anguish the freshness of spiritual water, you need faith, hope, consolation and peace, to come to quench your thirst for the spirit, the heart and the mind.

Love one another!

86. Are you asking for strength? Lead. Do you need balm? Receive. Do you have a serious problem? I grant you the solution. Do you present your poverty to me? Carry the keys to work and the daily bread. Do you have bitterness? Cry and wipe your tears on my mantle, feel my caress and rise to life with new strength.

87. From this day on, start a new life; I will enjoy your triumphs and help you overcome obstacles. Again I tell you: I am the way, the truth and the life.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

1. I am speaking to the world through my chosen ones. Blessed are those who have been inspired by Me, because his word has been unleashed, there has been splendor in him and I have manifested my wisdom and my will.
2. In the beginning of time man, endowed with intelligence and reason, began to discern, to form ideas and to raise his worship to his Lord. His spirit was being forged, and when it had evolved, after great experiences, I sent Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, to be an example and trunk of a spiritual tree, parents of a large family, whose lineage was to endure through the ages, which would multiply and spread over the face of the earth. From there the twelve tribes sprang up, full of strength and power to carry to the nations the mission of teaching true worship to the Creator and abolishing sin. I entrusted this task to the people of Israel because I contemplated in the first age of man many babblings and misinterpretations of my law. The simple and pure spiritual worship that I asked of my children degenerated into idolatry, material acts and abominations. Having me close to them, they felt very distant, and believing that they fulfilled the law, they sinned. When I sent prophets to mankind, they ignored them and when they heard their word full of zeal and righteousness, they said to me: We cannot follow you, Lord, the way is very narrow. And the Father who is love and who gives life and accompanies all his children, has waited for their recognition.
3. Today you live in the Third Time, chosen people, and I have sent you with the same mission of awakening and advising the world. If you prepare yourselves, your inspiration will be inexhaustible, and after 1950 you will let manifest through your words the teaching as My disciples and with it my will, my revelations and my charity. Your love for humanity will work wonders, and you will penetrate into a life of constant work and solicitude; and when you have taken steps of spirituality, you should not feel superiority over those of your brothers, whose spirits have not yet reached your capacity.
4. Rise up and if it is necessary that you descend to save his spirit, do it, just as the shepherd descends to the abyss where his sheep has fallen, to rescue her and reunite her with the others who make up his flock. Be good pastors learn to cultivate the hearts of your brothers with this teaching that is life, elevation and greatness.
5. Never close your heart to love and you will know how to know through it the infinite work of your Father.
6. Be merciful to the faults of your fellow men, O beloved disciples!

Love one another!

7. Blessed are those who do not judge the faults of their brothers and sisters and prevent scandal from being around them, because they manifest purity in their hearts and know how to practice charity.

8. He will only have the right to judge the One who knows how to do it and who also knows how to correct and teach with true love. In the current trials in which humanity finds itself, I can tell you that I am the only one who has the right to judge, because among all men I do not see a righteous person who has the right to do so.

9. When you love virtue and are hurt by the mistakes of others, when you come to consecrate your whole life for the betterment of your spirit, you will be able to set the true example and if with deeds, words and thoughts you are teaching and making light on the path of your brothers, you will have managed to resemble the Divine Teacher, who when he was on earth showed you how to be a perfect judge.

10. I allowed the great sinners, men or women, to come before me; I allowed the great hypocrites to cross my path, I allowed them to put me to the test, to interrogate me, to mock me or try to humiliate me. I well knew that my judgment would not be resisted and that everyone would come to feel my divine presence. On some occasions, just one sentence was enough to move a man; on others, a look or simply silence was enough, but you must know that in my attitude there was humility, dignity, love, pity.

11. Humility, gentleness and love were the essence of Jesus' justice and yet humanity did not have such an inexorable judge. Who can resist true love, absolute purity, divine light?

12. Truly I tell you, there is no force that you can oppose to my love. The enemies are small, the opposing forces are weak, the weapons that have tried against truth and justice have always been fragile.

13. The struggle that the forces of evil have sustained against divine justice has seemed to you an endless contest, and yet, before eternity, it will be like an instant and the faults committed during the time of imperfection of your spirit will remain as a weak stain that your virtue and my loving justice will take care of erasing forever.

14. Everyone who takes my word for it, which is like crystal clear water, will never thirst again. Everyone who recognizes me in the Third Time in these lessons that I come to deliver, will be strong in the great trials that are approaching humanity and will not perish.

15. I have come to prepare you so that you will not be surprised. Ignite your faith and even when the hurricane blows and wants to extinguish your lamp, watch over it jealously and you will not be left in darkness.

Love one another!

16. Today the world no longer smiles at hearing my lessons; the spirit knows that he is going through the great day of the Lord, in which all his works will be judged, and in which my gaze will penetrate to the depths of his being; he knows that his harvest is mixed with the bad seed whose fruits will give him bitterness. His conscience tells him that he has not fulfilled the divine orders, that he has strayed from the path of submission and obedience and that this is why his cross is very heavy. I, have given to all beings a chalice to fill it with love and good deeds and you present to me only bitterness and poison; you want to put it away because you feel dying and you are looking for the antidote, and I say to you: Come to Me, for you can still recover your life; listen to me and work.

17. Love, cast off hatred, leave behind you the ancient customs that turn your steps away from the path of good. Enlighten your path with my word of all times; seek the divine inheritance in the depths of your spirit and remember my maxims that were given to you through Moses, my word and examples through Jesus; recognize my revelations that as a Holy Spirit I have come to make to you in the Third Time and you will know why you weep. But I take away the chalice from you and offer you my peace.

18. In my word of this time you will find the same essence of the one with which Jesus taught you, the same truth that in the ten commandments I gave you at Sinai. Everyone who wants to serve me, first know that my path is one of sacrifice and surrender for the love of his fellow men. But I also tell you, I will take into account all your merits to lead you to the true life.

19. Feel my love and come to Me, men of good will, lift up your face and look at Christ who has returned among men fulfilling his promise.

20. I penetrate into the depths of your heart and there I receive the simple homage of your spirit who speaks to me through prayer and presents to me his purpose to follow me, to practice my teachings, to be strong and to show himself serene in the face of trials.

21. The answer to that heartfelt and humble prayer is to offer you that I will always be with you and that this presence will make it clearer to you in the difficult hours you are going through.

22. The light of this age comes tearing the veil of darkness that enveloped the spirit of men; it comes breaking the chains that held it down, preventing it from reaching the true path. Truly I tell you, do not think that my doctrine forbids the investigation of all sciences. Yes, I am the one who arouses your interest, your admiration and your curiosity; that is why I have given your spirit the gift of thought so that it can move freely wherever it wants. I have given you the light of intelligence so that you will understand what you see in your path; that is why I tell you: Investigate, search, but make sure that your way of penetrating my arcana is respectful and humble, because then it will be truly lawful.

23. I have not forbidden you to know the books that men have written, but you must be prepared so that you do not stumble and get confused. Then you will know how man began his life and his struggle and where he has come to; and when this is you will have to look for my source of teachings and revelations so that I will show you the future and the end that awaits you.

24. Prepare each one in the way that your conscience dictates. Understand that the moment of struggle will come and that you will not then seek the shadows of a cloister to meditate, but that you will face the world and the temptations and you will not shy away for a single moment from that struggle.

25. If you do not prepare yourselves, if you do not analyze my doctrine, tomorrow a theory may arise among humanity that, although false, has signs of truth, and it is not my will that they leave you on the road as impostors, because they will try to prove to us that my coming was not true at this time.

26. Take advantage of your own strength to prepare and do not waste it judging the works of others.

27. Many times I have said to you: Unite, but when I speak to you of unification, understand that I am not talking only about your enclosures, but that that word encompasses the entire universe.

28. See that I have not come to inspire you with any rite. Neither in the Second Time nor in this one have I come to seek a throne or a seat within the precincts that you have destined for my worship. Today I come to tell you not to offer me earthly treasures or human vanities, because you will be doing what the tempter did with Jesus in the desert: Offering him his kingdom in exchange for mine. You already know that my kingdom is not in this world. That is why I became a man by being born and living in humility, to show you that in order to conquer the "kingdom of heaven", the power and the greatness of the earth are not necessary.

29. But why should you offer me material riches if you know in advance that everything is mine? Give me what I don't have yet: your love.

30. It is your spirit whom I have come to seek, for he is a part of mine, and he must return to Me; but to rescue him I had to descend to him. Today it will be your spirit that will have to rise by virtue until it reaches my bosom.

Love one another!

31. My disciples: You seek within yourselves the thoughts and works that are pleasing to Me in order to achieve my grace and I, who know your love and effort, grant you what you request. It is not earthly goods that you ask of me, you do not aspire to perishable joys as much as those that are enduring; you are on the way to eternal life, where you will rest from your struggle.

32. Saturate yourselves with the essence contained in my word and if there is pain in you, console yourselves thinking that in him you will find a light that will always be pointing you to the one of eternal life. That same pain will not allow the spirit to sleep or become puffed up, it will be like dew that refreshes and quickens the heart.

33. In all ages I have spoken to you of eternal life, of that path that the spirit walks and that has no end, in which he develops, perfects himself and reaches his Lord. So that you had an example to feel and follow, I came in the Second Half. I limited myself in Jesus, I was born and lived as a man, I fulfilled the divine and human laws, I felt the rigors of this life, I worked to work bread; but on these fulfilments I delivered to the world my message of love and tenderness.

34. When the time for preaching and deeds had come, I consecrated my Spirit to the fulfillment of that mission.

35. Not everyone has been able to understand that the spirit is before the flesh. And of that doctrine of love which I have given to you, you have brought me very few fruits. How fragile is your heart! Many claim to love me and are unaware of the benefits of my teaching.

36. At that time, when I revealed to my disciples that I would return among men, they asked me when my prophecies would be fulfilled and I told them: Watch and pray and you will contemplate them. Many were waiting for me very soon, and it is until this time that I have come as a judge, to prepare the way of all beings. If they would open their spiritual eyes, they would contemplate me descending on the white cloud and from there sending countless rays of light on the earth.

37. Who will be able to analyze the essence of my Spirit, if I am light, divine love, if in Me there is no material form? I have come to you in the midst of humility; the virtue that I teach you is the same that I preached in the Second Time. I want to draw your heart closer to me and for you to recognize my new manifestation.

38. There are many who, due to fear or lack of study, have not evolved and practice only the law of Moses, without recognizing the coming of the Messiah, and others who, believing in Jesus, have not waited for the promised Consoling Spirit; and I have descended for the third time and they have not waited for me.

39. The angels have announced these revelations and their voice has filled the space. Have you recognized them? It is the spiritual world that has come among you to bear witness to my presence. Everything that has been written will be fulfilled. The destruction that has been unleashed will overcome the pride and vanity of man and he, humble, will seek me to call me Father. Love me and you will recognize me. Thus will the supplication for the peace of the nations spring from your heart. I love you all and when you have returned to Me, I will make a covenant with men and there will be joy in the Father and in the children.

40. Those who were waiting for me, have not been surprised at my word given through man. The others have denied that the Master has manifested himself again in this form to the world. But I say to you: Pray and analyze, study the prophecies, listen to the voice of conscience in the depths of yourselves and you will know how to answer every question that is asked of you.

41. I bless you, people. I have given you life and I am encouraging you on the path of evolution, because I love you. To man and to the lower beings I have given the necessary elements to live. You all live within Me and are subject to my will. I have told you that "the leaf of the tree does not move without my will." To live you have the air you breathe, the sun that warms your body, the waters and the fruits that feed you; but to you who are endowed with spirit, I grant you to penetrate my arcana so that you may know everything necessary for your spiritual elevation. Your spirit will not die, while material nature exists today and will no longer be tomorrow, because I have formed it to be a servant of man and after fulfilling its destiny, it will disappear.

42. The earth, the plants, the animals, pay a tribute of gratitude to their God. All creation bows down and submits to the laws. The wild animals in the jungle love each other, they do not kill beings of their kind and if they do it is to feed themselves, they respect the companion, they do not multiply ahead of time, they do not censor themselves. And you, men, do quite the opposite, because you have free will and free will; but I have given you conscience and the law to enlighten your path. Wake up, open your eyes to the light of my teaching, and if you are going to reach Me, why are you slowing down? Don't make the day painful. Let the spirit seek me, love me and understand me and in his prayer and practice be strengthened and revived.

43. I am preparing you to fulfill my law with zeal, so that you can teach and be the staff of your brothers.

44. I want you to love me as a Father and look at me in the perfect work of my creation. In the crystal clear water of the streams, in the greenery of the fields, in the air that caresses your cheeks, in the firmament strewn with stars, do not deny me, do not give me that pain.

45. See that I am pouring myself out in essence to feed your spirit; I am healing the lepers of the body and of the spirit, because just as the body needs food to live, the spirit needs spiritual sustenance, it needs love, communication with its Father, the fulfillment of duties. In this harmony you will be able to live happily today on earth and tomorrow in the spiritual mansion.

46. My love is with you. My inspiration is translated into word through the minds of these prepared creatures. They are my interpreters and I manifest myself according to their preparation and spiritual capacity. You could all be my spokespeople. Man is too small to receive the power of my Divinity, but I send to the understanding a limited ray, to make me understand and that my Word be pronounced by his lips and I say to you: Come to receive the love of your Teacher and the teaching to mitigate your thirst for knowledge. Some of you feel fear and I ask you: Why do you harbor that fear, if I have always been with all my children, if you have me in your heart?

47. My love has been great for you and that is why I have chosen you from different regions and nations, because you need me very much. You have made a commitment to me because in the past you did not fulfill your mission and it is necessary to hasten the step so that you can come to Me clean and pure, just as you sprouted from Me.

48. You have not yet perfected yourselves and you are already at the consummation of the times. It has been a long time that in this age I speak to you through man. I have spoken to you in a parable and if you read the writings where my word is printed and was transmitted by the first spokesmen, you will appreciate my patience and feel pain for your negligence. In all the congregations where the people gather, I have poured out my essence and said to you: Study yourselves, so that you may understand your brothers. Feel their pain, love them as I love you.

49. I have come in search of that part of my Spirit that is in you and that belongs to me, to rescue it. I come to declare war, but not on humanity, but on sin, on evil. In this struggle that is already between you, you must remain strong. Put your gifts into practice, so that as you give good, they will multiply and be inexhaustible. If I speak to you of regeneration, it is because you have lost the grace and purity with which He adorned you and which you should have preserved through the ages.

50. I told you that I would come in the cloud and that my angels would also come. And have these prophecies not been fulfilled? Has not my spiritual world spoken to you corroborating all my words? Great trials will come and shake the earth. By then, I don't want you to look for me as a judge; look for me as a Father and Teacher I will teach you the true way of life, love and humility, so that you don't look for a crown or a scepter. If you want to be great, be humble.

51. I want you to be united, because after 1950 you will not hear the word of your Father through the spokespersons and your spirit will look for an incentive to continue on this path, and many of you will be weak like Peter, and others will doubt like Thomas, but who will imitate John? Truly I tell you, if you love me as that beloved disciple, you will see me in all my splendor and I will say to you: Come to Me, sorrowful hearts; I am a Father and I feel the pain of all my children. Pray and you will feel very close to the Cyrenian helping you to carry your cross. Be content and be strong in trials and your sorrows will be light.

52. I have prepared this nation and its inhabitants to manifest my doctrine, so that the people can raise their spirits and contemplate in the afterlife the second Jerusalem, the promised spiritual land where they will meet with the patriarchs at the end of time. My will is that the different races mix in this nation, that those who are tired of wars and discords find peace and seek a place to meditate on my teaching and those hungry for spirituality have the manifestation of my Spirit that fills them with light and comfort, so that from the material valley they can contemplate the thresholds of the higher life where the spirit must dwell and see the fulfillment of my word.

53. I will give splendor to this nation. He will not only rise spiritually, but materially he will attain power. Their lands will be fruitful, there will be energy and moral strength in their inhabitants, and the spirit prepared by Me will give proof of elevation and knowledge of my law.

54. And when the man of the world approaches and contemplates my work in you, he will feel the longing to amend his life and will seek the natural principles, which will help him in his restitution; he will meditate on the law, he will seek my word and his spirit will be in contact with me again. I will speak to him secretly and lovingly and I will put him, at the beginning of the path and from this stage he will begin to climb to climb the mountain where I am waiting for him.

55. Not everyone will hear my word at this time in the same way that I speak to you, my disciples; but know that everyone who seeks me will find me. My inspiration will be in everyone who loves me and you will bear witness to it. If you have risen to fulfillment before them, prepare their way by giving an example of love and humility.

Love one another!

56. Stay, close to me. Let the eyes of your spirit be opened and let your heart perceive my love, let everything that you hear and feel be kept in your being, so that tomorrow by remembering and analyzing my word you can teach your brothers.

57. Do not waste these lessons that are pages of the book of wisdom that I am now giving you for your salvation.

58. I receive you and in you I receive all my children. My wisdom descends on all my disciples who have been able to prepare their understanding and their heart.

59. I come as light and strength, as peace and love to your hearts, so that you will not feel weakness before men.

60. You put on patience knowing that you have come to fulfill the noble mission of establishing fraternity and peace in the world; because you know that you have to watch so that the will of the Heavenly Father is fulfilled. You must be like sentinels to watch over that mandate that has not yet been fulfilled.

61. My voice incessantly calls man to the way of the law, and you, who were the first to receive my revelations at this time, have become the last, so that you may contemplate how the multitudes come to Me; but since you are one of those who first recognized me, you are obliged to be an example within my teaching, to be like a staff for your brothers.

62. Since your mission is so great, I see that you still lack courage and faith to be the apostles of the Third Time. You still have moments of weakness, despair and struggle with yourself in your life. Overcome all barriers. Your heart has already felt the greatness of my work, you have verified that my word is encouraging. In my teaching you have learned to pray to get rid of temptation.

63. The Master does not want you to continue wasting time, see how humanity in some ways has achieved advancement, but I want its progress to be complete, that human and spiritual life harmonize.

64. This life is a beautiful opportunity that presents itself to your spirit to progress. Walk, grow, evolve, watch how everything in creation evolves and transforms. In the beginning you were similar to the atom in your smallness; but by the intelligence with which I endowed you, you have come to take into your hands the elements that nature possesses, to make use of them. Since you came to dwell on the earth, the law was already there waiting for you, and the Father has since been revealing the spiritual life to you, leading you to the abode where you must come to rest and enjoy peace after the struggle, to achieve your purification.

Love one another!

65. Always listen to the voice of your conscience so that it may tell you whether or not you have complied with the law.

PARABLE

66. Listen: "There was a man on a mountain, he knew the mountains, the forests and the roads, where he went in search of sustenance for his own. One time, in the midst of his loneliness, he heard a voice that said: I contemplate you, man and I see your struggle; that is why I come to you, because I am the life that pulsates in everything created, but listen: Get up, go and join those who belong to you and tell them what you have heard and what you have not been able to see, and when they are convinced of what you already believe, form with them the beginning of a people, raise them up after the fulfillment of the promise of a land that I have prepared for them." That man, hearing that voice, felt his heart palpitate strongly and did not dare to lift his face to contemplate the one who spoke to him in this way. He felt that an unknown force penetrated into his being, as if a heavenly light flooded his spirit with courage. When that voice was silent, he felt that the fatigue of his body was moving away, at the same time that on his spirit he experienced that of a responsibility. He immediately set out in search of his own to testify what had happened and because he was an upright man, everyone believed his word. The man said, "That voice that I heard told me about a road, but of all the ones I know, I don't know which one it is; perhaps there is one that leads to some great city or perhaps it leads to a vast land of vineyards." One night, as he was lying on his bed, he heard the voice in his conscience, no longer in his senses, saying to him: "The way is not known to your eyes, because he is only visible to consciousness is the way of my law". And then he heard her precepts that spoke of loving God above all created things, of not worshiping Him through figures created by imagination or fanaticism and he also heard about the love of one for another. That was the way, the way of love and good. When the man awoke, he realized that all this had been a divine revelation made to his spirit. Again he testified to his family of what he had received in a dream and full of faith and obedience he gathered all his family, so that with their union they would form the seed of a strong and great people.

67. This is my parable of this day in which I speak to you about Moses, that spirit with whom the guides of this time have a likeness. The one who prayed in silence and communicated with his Father, the one who led his people on a long journey through the desert, the same one who, in the face of the weakness of the crowds, broke the tablets of the law to the ground.

Love one another!

68. Three eras have passed and today I ask you: Which of you knows the way? Who is the one who really prepares to listen to the voice of the Eternal? Where are those who can say to me, as your brothers did in other times: Lord, if the sacrifice of my existence is necessary for the sake of your work, your will be done to me.

69. Today I can't find anyone who speaks like that to their Teacher. How are you going to make my word known to the world at this time? It is necessary that you unite, so that my work of love and purity may be recognized. If you present it through rites, symbols or beliefs, you will not succeed in shaking the spirit of your brothers; on the other hand, if by your works you give an example of love, my law will be known and respected.

70. Study my word, because in it you will hear the voice of the Father, who through your conscience will always point out the way and make you contemplate the perfection that you are achieving in it.

71. Just as you search and marvel at the sight of the human body, which is only the external form of man, so immerse yourselves in the contemplation and study of the spirit, for only in this way will you know its greatness.

72. Fight and even if your struggle is intense, do not get tired of testifying my truth. Do good even if you have to go to the sacrifice. You have a mission to save your brothers.

73. I give you my blessing and my forgiveness.

(Given during the Second World War)

1. I give you the light so that you may analyze my word and understand my lesson, beloved disciples.
2. The farmer continues cultivating the land and opening the furrow where he has to deposit the seed with faith and the desire to raise an abundant harvest, and the Master tells you: Be careful to choose the land that is favorable, so that the seed is not spoiled and you will always reap fruits according to the love with which you have cultivated your land.
3. You can all be farmers in my lands, but first you must feel and understand this mission. The object of this lesson is to remove the blindfold of darkness from the ignorant and to make the paralytic walk, showing him that I am the only God whom they must serve. That's why I'm telling you. I am preparing you, to show you to others as an example, since you knew how to open your eyes to the light and humbly confess that you were ignorant. I, through you, will also sow and reap the fruits of my charity.
4. Your brothers will ask you how you have received this teaching, what my manifestations have been, and why you are following this path; you will answer every question with absolute truth. For if you do not act with the truth, you will not be strong and you will be defeated; then the seed will not germinate.
5. I do not want you to look at your hand empty, nor that at the end of your struggle you will be left without raising a harvest, after having turned away from the world by following my path and having been appointed my disciples. It would not be fair for you to pick up disappointments and bitterness just because you have not known how to learn to defend my work, studying and analyzing it to acquire strength, serenity and sufficient knowledge to face the tests.
6. My teaching is a single lesson told in many ways, so that you can understand it and to which you have nothing to add. And although it is a law, I do not come to impose it on you because you would fall into hypocrisy, outwardly appearing to fulfill it, while your heart would be infringing.
7. I have placed consciousness in your being, so that it may be present in all your steps, since consciousness knows how to distinguish good from evil and what is just from what is not. Guided by that light, you cannot be deceived, nor called ignorant. How could the spiritualist deceive his own fellow man or try to deceive himself, if he carries in his own being the light of his Creator?

Love one another!

8. At that time a rich young man approached Jesus and said to him, "Teacher, I think I deserve the kingdom that you promise, because I practice the teachings" Jesus asked him:

9. "Do you comply with the law?" And the young man answered, Yes, Lord, I fast, I treat my brothers well, I do no harm to anyone, and I give a part of my wealth for the help of the temple. Then Jesus said to him, "If you want to follow me, leave everything you have and come after the Master"; but the young man possessed so much in the world that, not wanting to abandon his riches, he preferred to depart from the Lord. He thought he was complying with my law and he was deceiving himself.

10. How many times have I said to you: Practice charity, manifest this virtue, but do not flaunt it because it will cease to be charity and you will be deceived

11. Disciples: If you do not want to suffer mistakes or errors, analyze your actions in the light of your conscience, and if there is something that tarnishes it, examine yourselves thoroughly and you will find the stain, so that you can correct it. There is a mirror inside you where you can look at yourself and see if you are clean or not.

12. The spiritualist must be recognized by his acts, which, in order to be clean, must have been dictated by conscience. Whoever practices in this way will feel entitled to call himself my disciple.

13. Who can fool me? No one. I do not come to judge you by what you do, but by the intention with which you do it. I am in your consciousness and beyond it. How can you think that I can ignore your actions and their motive?

14. Prepare yourselves for the struggle, so that my work will not be attacked because of your evil deeds, because in many cases the recognition or ignorance that humanity has of my work will depend on you.

15. What can my work lose if it is the same truth, if it is impeccable purity? But you will certainly lose opportunities to do merits and raise the spirit.

16. If someone ignores my truth, it is because he has not known how to approach to drink from this fountain that overflows its crystalline waters for every lip thirsty for love.

17. The truth that I revealed to the patriarchs, the prophets and the righteous, is the same that I am showing you today, because my doctrine that you receive today is the law of all times, with which I have pointed out to you the path of evolution so that you continue your journey to the end. In my doctrine I have never told you anything that does not have an explanation attached to the truth; but if you give different explanations and in a complicated way, if you modify my teaching or give defective analyzes to those who need an explanation of it, you will reap a bad harvest.

18. Look at how you give and how you speak; understand that you are responsible for a very great gift.
19. I am the owner of the seed, you are the husbandmen; if anyone is lazy and does not fulfill his mission, if there is someone who goes astray from the path, do not blame Me, for I am calling you everywhere. Recognize that some effort has to be made by the one who wants to be saved.
20. See that I come to your heart so that, feeling me, you can say: Master, I will follow you.
21. Listen: In all times the Father has manifested his love for humanity through messages through his messengers; that love that up to this moment you are trying to understand and feel is the same one that has always caressed you.
22. I want you to be saturated with that light, because without love you will not reach Me; without that virtue you will not be able to understand my greatness.
23. My word comes to touch the most sensitive fibers of your heart so that you awaken to love, making you understand that if you only live concerned about acquiring the riches of the world and leave no space or time for the heart and the spirit to develop their gifts, they will not have development in their journey.
24. Do not let your heart be deceived, because he symbolizes the fire of eternity from which everything sprang and where everything becomes alive.
25. The spirit uses the heart to love through matter. If you love only by the law of matter, your love will be temporary, because it is limited, but when you love spiritually, that feeling resembles that of the Father, who is eternal, perfect and unchangeable.
26. All life and everything created is related to the spirit, because he possesses eternal life. Do not limit yourselves, love me and love each other, since you possess that spark of Being that has no limits to love, which is God Himself.
27. Understand that everything that exists is for you, just as everything, in its destiny, is a perpetual tribute and homage to the Creator.
28. From all beings I receive its fruit, but everything receives from Me the life-giving force.
29. I clarify all the lessons for you, so that your spirit will no longer be a prisoner of your senses so that when you go to sow my teaching, you will come to know that the spirit, like everything created, is subject to the law of evolution.

Love one another!

30. Evolution: a word that will be on the lips of humanity when it deals with its spirit, because it means progress, elevation, transformation and perfection.

31. When will man be freed from prejudice so that he no longer goes in search of forms, nor sees everything around him larger than himself? When I attain freedom of spirit.

32. Now you will be able to understand that if I have always manifested myself in wisdom to men, it has been to free the spirits imprisoned by limited understandings.

33. There are still in this era minds hindered and lacking inspiration. When men should already have a lucid and uncluttered mind due to their evolution, many still think and live as in primitive times. Others have reached a great advance in science, closing themselves up in their vanity and selfishness, believing that they have reached the peak of knowledge; they have stagnated on the path of their spiritual advancement.

34. To you who have listened to me at this time and who have heard that the word spirit is constantly repeated in my teaching, I say that the greatness and the light that that word contains will move this humanity when it understands it.

35. Continue to make yourselves worthy of this grace through well-understood humility. Humility does not mean misery or material poverty.

36. Preserve the moral strength, because you have hardened like steel in the crucible with the sufferings of this life.

37. I see you satisfied with your destiny. If yours was stormy, do not turn your eyes to it; forget it and live the present in peace. Do not be afraid of the future, for tomorrow is Me.

38. All my prophecies will be fulfilled and this your little nation will be seen by humanity as the "land of promise". I will let the hearts feel peace in her and the spirits will be enlightened. High leaders of other peoples will come to her and in her bosom they will be inspired to govern with love.

39. The lost tribes of Israel will come to gather and to feel my peace in this land prepared by my charity.

40. You must be prepared because your brothers will approach, you do not know how or when, but my word will be fulfilled.

41. That is why I ask you to unite yourselves, so that your brothers and sisters may feel that they have reached the bosom of the Lord's people, where they will receive whatever my will is.

42. I am warning you for all the events of the future and as far as those tribes are concerned, I tell you that they will come moved by my wisdom to receive the inheritance that you have received. They will not arrive by chance, but it is necessary that you be united so that you may see my word fulfilled.

43. In the Second Time, when Caesar ruled Palestine, it was divided among itself. The people of Israel were slaves of the Gentiles and on their shoulders they felt the weight of the yoke of tyranny.

44. It was then that the Son of God came among men.

45. How much pain there was in that people and how great the selfishness of men! But my word was heard and it was like balm in all the wounds of that disinherited people. I quenched their thirst for love, and that is why those who believed in Me said: Only the Nazarene knows how to love. And yet I was unknown. When the men brought me to fulfill the sacrifice, they asked me: Jesus, where are those who followed you? At that moment I looked at Jerusalem and said, "It is not yet time for the seed to germinate, but the time will come and humanity will know its fruit." And indeed, after my departure, my disciples rose up making my word known.

46. Now I say to you: In the year 1950 those who will disobey my word will rise up and will lead me to consummate the sacrifice again, which will be disobedience and ignorance among yourselves. Then I will say as at that time: "I have placed the seed in these hearts and it will flourish and the nations will eat of its fruits, who will know my word preserved in the writings."

47. This legacy is for you. Remember that you will always have to sow on your way.

48. The days are approaching when the Christian world concentrates on its heart, to remember the drama that took place on Golgotha about two thousand years ago. It is then that some reconsider, to analyze, if the acts of their life are in accordance with their conscience, or if they have been weak in the face of temptation.

49. And this people, who are listening to me now, feel that they do not need to contemplate the image of the Crucified One, because they understand that that blood shed on Calvary still vibrates in the heart of humanity, because it was watered to teach them how a mission is fulfilled. The spiritualist people do not need to relive that drama; they have learned to rise up to feel and contemplate the greatness that is in the spirit. To those who have doubted like Thomas, I have allowed them to sink their fingers into the wound of Jesus and see my blood that is still fresh and that as an inexhaustible source continues to be poured out in love and strength above all spirit.

50. I have told you that I am so close to you, that I know even the most intimate of your thoughts; that wherever you are, there I am, because I am omnipresent. I am the light that illuminates your mind with inspirations or ideas of light.

Love one another!

51. I am in you, because I am the Spirit that animates you, the conscience that judges you. I am in your senses and in your matter, because I am the whole creation.

52. Feel Me more and more in you and in everything that surrounds you, so that when the time comes to leave this world, you will penetrate fully into the spiritual life, and that there will be no disturbances in your spirit due to the impressions that matter could leave you and you will come one step closer to Me, which is the source of infinite purity in which you will drink eternally.

53. You don't know how much time you have left to take that step! Therefore watch, because temptation will try to make you falter. I am preparing you, and I promise you that my charity will be ready to save you from the hurricane. I will offer you my help when you are about to fall, because for Me there is no one who is more, nor another who is less. I am the Father and whenever you come to Me repentant, I will receive you and give you your reward according to your merits.

54. Meditate. And make an examination of your life, be enlightened by the light of your conscience; I will make known to you your spiritual progress.

55. Interpret my word properly, knowing that it is not the form of it that must be analyzed, but the essence that goes in it and the end that it indicates to you. My spokesmen are liable to error, but what comes from God is pure and cannot be defiled.

56. I have given you a seed from which you must reap an abundant harvest. Go in imitation of me, pouring out love and charity among your brothers and sisters on the way, and humanity will recognize the faith and strength that you have acquired.

57. Try to understand the meaning of my work, as it was understood and interpreted by those who followed me to the end.

58. If you have prepared your heart as a sanctuary in which you await the visit of your Father, so that he may feel the warmth of your love in him, you will certainly be able to say that the lark has been with you. Men, women and children surround me and they are all like chicks on the tree of life.

59. You have walked incessantly searching in the bowels of the earth for the roots of certain trees to judge their fruits, and many times you found in those roots the gnawing worm. Then you searched for me through mountains and valleys in the hope of hearing a fatherly voice, or at least a friendly voice that would free you from unbelief and lead you to the path of truth. Now that you stand before my word, you thank me for having granted you to hear my teaching that comes to prepare you for a more perfect spiritual communication than the one you now have. Today I have to limit my light to be understood by you, but the moment will come when your spirit and your mind can directly bear my wisdom. Today a little light and peace in their hearts is enough for many, a caress for children, the tired elderly the sweet look of their children because with it they feel a ray of light in their tired and sad heart, but then everyone will get up longing for a light that illuminates the path of their life.

60. If you were to ask many of my children now if they would like to hear my teachings, they would answer that they are unworthy, and I tell you that none of my children are unworthy to listen to me. Everyone needs my word; the righteous to be recreated with it, listening to their God; the ignorant to learn and achieve the elevation of their spirit with the lessons of the Master; sinners to regenerate with their repentance listening to the Father.

61. A voice comes to Me and says, "Come, see how weak I am on earth, how defiled my spirit is. I know that you love me and can forgive me, that you are a guide in my darkness, a shelter in my solitude, Help me, because in the trials of this hour I feel the pain of agony."

62. Who talks to me like that? Who in this way sends their voices to Me demanding mercy? A heart, perhaps? No, people, it is humanity, which has not forgotten that I am love, recognizes its stain and asks for redemption.

63. I mourned your departure from the moment you left the spiritual abode to go to earth. Since then, it has been my tears and my blood that have forgiven you of your sins, and my sweet and serene voice has not stopped advising you on your journey. My shadow has followed you on all roads. I am the one who has really missed you, not you, because when you left you felt strong and believed that you would no longer need my support. Your way was free will, your senses dilated to suck and feel everything around you, and it was necessary that you fell very low so that you turned your eyes back to Me. Until then you remembered that you had a Father at whose table you sat. Then you cried out to your Lord, but before that I had already called you and was claiming your presence at my table. He had sought you, like the father who saw his son depart, carrying innocence in his heart and not knowing the way.

64. If you analyze my word, you will understand that the Father's intention in sending you into the world to travel its paths full of dangers and lurks, was not for you to get lost in them, because they had been prepared in advance so that in them you would find the necessary lessons for the evolution of the spirit, to give you the experience that you lacked and finally to return to Me full of light. Your spirit, when it came out of Me, was like a spark that the winds had to turn into a flame so that when it returned to Me, you would come to melt your light into that of the Divinity.

Love one another!

65. I am speaking to you from the summit of the new mountain, I am waiting for you there and I tell you the truth: on the day of your arrival there will be a feast in this kingdom. You come by the way of pain washing away your faults, a way that I did not trace and that man has carved by that path you made me walk; but since then, the way of sacrifice and pain was glorified by my blood.

66. Hear in infinity the echo of my voice, as you hear the echo of a bell.

67. Behold, it is a time of righteousness, for verily I say to you, every fault will be atoned for. The earth itself will claim the misuse that man has made of it and its elements. Everything that has been destroyed will claim you, making men recognize that they were made by the Creator for the purpose of love, and that the only will that could destroy them is the one that cares for them, protects them and blesses them.

68. Will a spirit be able to leave this planet peacefully, when what he desecrated and destroyed is calling to claim him? Those are the ones who have had to form a world in which regrets, materialism and the result of a life of disobedience to my law are like darkness among the light so that they begin to restore everything they destroyed.

69. To help them, I say to them, Here is the Master again among his disciples.

70. Today I come to ignite faith in those who fail for a moment.

71. If I have come to you, I will also come to everyone who rises to Me. My love, my light, they are for everyone.

72. When the Lord's communication is established with His disciples, you feel infinite joy in your spirit and although my manifestation is brief, you are satisfied.

73. I want that peace and that joy that you experience when listening to me, you can feel it when you seek me in prayer, so that when you achieve that elevation, your thought will be like a fruitful dew that descends on barren fields.

74. While the world is shaking, the shadow of chaos appears over the nations and war shakes humanity; I listen to those who say: If for God there are no impossibilities, why doesn't he stop the war and create a new world full of peace? And I tell you that just as there is war in man, there is also peace. Every man has a severe and wise conscience and by it he will know how to choose the path that suits him.

75. A new strife has already broken out in the world. Whole nations struggle with the desire to defeat their enemies, others seek superiority to subjugate peoples and have slaves, and others so that their race proves that it is the highest among all, and do not understand in their blindness the abyss that awaits everyone.

Love one another!

76. Within this atmosphere of darkness and confusion, let your thought penetrate like a ray of light; with this you will help your brothers to think clearly in their moments of trial. In this way you will fulfill the mission that I have entrusted to you.

77. Be strong to dominate your passions and thus do not lean towards one side or the other. It is necessary that your heart be inflamed with charity and fraternity for all, sharing inwardly in the sorrows and miseries that afflict this humanity. So your heart will beat in time with mine. All the good that you do will have its reward, do you not consider that the arrival of peace among men will be a compensation for your prayers?

78. See that it is not a sacrifice that I ask of you. I am not sending you to preach among those unbridled mobs, now it is enough just that you cleanse your thought so that you illuminate with it the path of your brothers.

79. Fight, pray, watch, so that the temptation that has the power to present itself in your path, clothed in the most attractive forms, will not divert you from your good intentions and separate you from fulfillment. Learn to fight with her and to overcome her; do not sleep because she will fight to the end.

80. Your struggle is greater than you can imagine, because that adversary is invisible, because many times looking for him in many places you carry him in yourself, hidden in your feelings and in your passions. There is no better weapon for this struggle than prayer.

81. The Father has given you his advice. If each chair is different, its essence, its purpose, are the same: to give you my love and teach you the path of perfection that will give you salvation.

82. In the days of remembrance, even the deepest heart feels my presence. In infinity the echo of the divine bell that announces the manifestation of this new time vibrates incessantly; but how deaf is the heart of this humanity!

83. When men wake up and come in search of my word, it will be too late, because I will have departed; then they will have to receive only testimony of my manifestation. Many will regret that they did not look for me in the places where I manifested and did not hear his voice.

84. At this time, great trials afflict humanity. Weeping rises from all parts of the world; it is because the spirits have come to earth to gather the fruit of what they once sowed, because no one escapes my justice. I would cease to be perfect, if I did not show it to you, if I did not let you reap the fruit of your works; but I also find myself preparing men with the light of this message. The rumor of my coming, of the lessons I left to humanity, will reach every ear. My disciples will go to bring the balm to the sick, they will be Cyrenians of those whom they find burdened under the weight of their cross. I repeat these lessons to you a lot, so that you will not forget them after my departure.

85. Watch and pray that you may be strong, but pray with the spirit, so that you may reach and enjoy perfect communication with the Lord. When you see that what you received by inspiration at the moments when you were praying has been realized, that will be the proof that you had a moment of spiritual communication with the Master.

86. Bring to perfection your way of seeking me, of praying. See that when my word is no longer heard within your precincts, the men of the religions will rise up wanting to reconquer them, trying to recover them. Will you then be able to close your eyes to this light and put aside the mission you have received, to settle for the practice of a rite?

87. Do not be afraid if I sometimes tell you that you will be slandered and persecuted; I only tell you that if you are complying with my divine law and if you comply with the laws of the earth you have nothing to fear.

88. Show from now on that you have not heard Jesus speak in vain at this time; that if I appointed you disciples, you will know how to carry that title with dignity. In the face of the truth and purity of your actions, the most reluctant will bow down. And when the time of struggles between religious doctrines and ideas is in the world, when men are more opposed to the propagation of my spiritual doctrine, the greater will be the wonders that I will grant you and these trials will make the world tremble.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

1. Multitudes: Come to the light, close your eyes of the body for a few moments and look with the spirit at the splendor of my presence that reaches you; it is the divine light of love and wisdom that I have come to give you as a garment; it is the light that comes to dispel the darkness of ignorance, fanaticism and evil.
2. I am giving you my lesson on this day that you have dedicated to material rest and the worship of the spirit. It is the seventh day, on which you rest from the fatigue of the week, on which you gather the fruit of your work and accumulate strength to continue on your way.
3. Take this day as the representation of the seventh stage of your evolution, the one in which the last seal will be opened, in which you will rest after the long journey
4. Many believe that my light only descends in these places where my word manifests, but the truth is that my spiritual presence is with everyone, that is why I have called the light that I am sending you: universal ray, because at the precise moment of vibrating through the spokespersons, all creatures feel it under different forms; yes people, being Omnipotent and Omnipresent, I am manifesting in various forms, all of them spiritual. If in the Second Half you saw me made man, it was because I came looking for your heart; but now you see me coming spiritually because it is your spirit that I have been illuminating.
5. Savior you called me and Savior you will continue calling me, because I come to rescue you from the bad paths
6. Do not curse the trials that burden you and the entire human race, do not say that they are punishment, anger or revenge of God, because you blaspheme; I tell you that these trials are precisely those that are bringing humanity closer to the port of salvation
7. Call them righteousness, atonement, lessons, and you will be right and just. Anger and revenge are human passions, typical of beings still far from serenity, harmony and perfection; it is not fair that you should apply to my love for you, which is the one that presides over all my works, the vulgar name of punishment or the unworthy name of revenge.
8. Think that you have voluntarily penetrated thorny paths or dark abysses and that you have not come to my loving call, nor have you listened to the voice of your conscience, so you have needed pain to come to your aid to wake you up to stop, make you reflect and return to the true path.

Love one another!

9. It has been necessary to let pain dwell in the darkness and peace dwell in the light so that you can freely choose the spiritual state to which you aspire.

10. When I see that you allow yourselves to be overcome by pain and that instead of extracting from it the light that each trial contains, you concretize to cry, to curse, or simply to wait for death as the end of your sufferings, it is when I approach to call sweetly to your heart, giving it comfort and hope, strengthening it, so that it overcomes itself, its weakness and lack of faith and can triumph over trials, because in that triumph is peace and spiritual happiness that is true happiness.

11. This is what I have come for, people, to take away the endless night that covered you and give you a new day full of splendor. My word will do the miracle of melting the ice of your heart so that it begins to feel the spiritual and to beat for everything good; my word will open the locks of the prison in which your spirit has been imprisoned; but, it is up to you to do the other miracle, that of achieving peace and elevation through the merits of your works.

12. How distant will then be the paths where you bruised your feet, leaving your mark with blood and tears, and where you drank the cup of bitterness to the bottom!

13. My divine desire is to save you and take you to a world of light, of beauty and of love, where you will vibrate for the elevation of the spirit, for the nobility of the feelings, for the ideal of perfection; but, do you not discover in that divine desire my Father's love? Surely, whoever does not understand it like that, must be blind.

14. Some pretend to embrace me with your mind, believing that they can understand me; others, smaller and more material, would like to see me in human form to believe in Me, without thinking that there is a higher sense in their being, through which they can understand me, feel my presence and look at me; but that sense can only manifest itself through faith and spirituality.

15. How much joy do the disciples who truly seek elevation give to my Spirit, because they, even though they are small and clumsy for the world, know how to feel my presence in their heart, they know how to interpret or understand my inspirations and accept what my will grants them!

16. Be like this, so that you may all feel me and enjoy my goods, because I belong to everyone. See that after having prepared the paths with my doctrine, I turn my gaze to you, the small number of hearts that are of the disciples called at this time to follow in my footsteps.

Love one another!

17. This word of light that I give you is the spiritual bread with which I feed you in the Third Time. All my children, through their creeds, seek that sustenance, some in the form and others in the essence. I receive everyone with love and I give my grace to everyone.

18. I said to my apostles during the holy cenacle: "Take the bread, it is my body. Take the wine, which is my blood, and after my departure you will remember this lesson."

19. Now I say to you: Take my word, which is of eternal life, and keep its essence, and after 1950, when it is no longer heard, remember it and be sustained by it. And just as my disciples knew how to regulate their life by my teaching and with humility they scattered it, so be you, so that you may bring this bread of the spirit to all the hungry, because it is written that my word will not be lost and will be heard by all mankind.

20. I have told you: Listen to my word and in its essence you will find the bread of grace. I have said to you: Seek the love of the Father, for what is necessary for your life on earth will be given to you in addition.

21. You will have to answer me about this seed, since I have entrusted it to you at all times. Who can say that he has fulfilled and that he is free from all taint?

22. Practicing charity is the highest mission of your destiny; pour it out in deeds, in words and even in thoughts, because a thought, directed with love, brings comfort to your brothers and sisters.

23. I want you to learn to forgive; I invite you to take up my cross of love and to follow me. I hear and receive the one who inwardly tells me: Lord, I want to follow in your footsteps.

24. And at the same time I ask you: Who will be the one who will give me up in this Third Time? Search yourselves and you will answer me when the time has come.

25. Whoever does not comply with my law, whoever does not know me, whoever in any way profanes or defiles my work, he will be the one who hands me over to the rabble, he will be the one who with his works shouts: Crucify him! Because his deeds will make humanity wonder: Are these the disciples of the Master? Are these: those who have heard His word?

26. Love humanity, do not publish your charity and this will be enough for you to be the apostles of the Third Time.

27. Today I am present before the world, present before man and I say to him: What do you accuse me of? I have spoken the truth, I have advised the good, I have come to fulfill my promise to return. I am not here to deny what I told you in the Second Half, because I am the real example. I am still carrying the heavy cross and it is the man who hurts my body.

Love one another!

28. Remember that the Son of God came to men at that time and they did not understand him, but now you can understand me.

29. I am still crucified, because I find myself divided into particles in each of you. Tell me, can't I feel your own pains? Then why don't you guys feel me?

30. I'm going to the sacrifice again. At this time, who will crucify me?, who will yell at me: Keep going and don't stop?

31. My gaze is penetrating and at the same time sweet; if a tear comes out of it, it does not fall to the ground, but penetrates into your spirit. I will always be with you; the world still needs me.

32. The time will come when brotherhood will be felt among you when you penetrate the sanctuary of my thoughts.

33. Whence I come and whither I am going, you cannot go for now; but a day will come when you will come to my presence and by this word you will recognize me. Then you will see the conqueror of death, the one who with his sacrifice gave you eternal life, because I am the resurrection and the life, I am the consolation that seeks every afflicted spirit to give him peace.

34. This light that I am now shedding on you, may it be peace and morality in the generations to come.

35. Truly once again I tell you, that I suffer in all who suffer, that the hunger and thirst of men for love is hunger and thirst for my Spirit. In them I suffer and in them I am embedded, but my love tells you: Disciples, be strong, because the hypocrites, the Pharisees and the Gentiles will approach you to ask you if you have recognized me and if you love me; before those questions you will feel fear and if you are weak, you will say like that apostle: "I never knew that Galilean"

36. Do not forget that your reward is not in this world. If they hurt you for being with Me, do not faint, forgive and love, be my disciples.

37. Do not make the symbol of the cross materially, since I find myself crucified in yourselves.

38. I will make myself felt in the conscience of all those who celebrate my divine passion with pagan and profane feasts, making them feel contrition and making their hearts beat and cry. I will receive your repentance, because it will never be too late to open my eyes to the truth.

Love one another!

39. Purify yourselves from sin and love one another, so that you may unclasp the body of Jesus and your heart may be His dwelling place.

40. Behold, my promise is fulfilled: the temple was destroyed, and I built it in three days. The spiritual sanctuary where the Lord dwells is built.

41. I found the pious woman and when I saw her crying I asked her: Why have you cried? And she said as at that time: "I am crying because the Teacher has disappeared, I went to look for his body and he is not there". Then I said to him, Look up and see that the Master is near you.

42. Go and tell your brothers to gather together, because the Master will surprise them, and that whoever knows how to feel me by his faith, I will show him eternal life.

43. Beloved disciples: You are contemplating me with the gaze of your faith, because I am transfigured in the essence of this word, in the inspiration of man; but I also discover Thomas, the one who plunged his fingers into my wounds in order to believe. Today you cannot touch my body because I am intangible, it is no longer the time when you could touch me.

44. I have come to you in the Spirit and the time will come when you will embrace my doctrine with heart and spirit. I, the conqueror of matter, of temptation and of death, have penetrated to the dens of darkness and have made light in the spirits of those who inhabited this world and passed on to another life; imprisoned between chains of remorse and turmoil, I have made them see the light of my glory and I have freed them, because the same I dwell in the light, that I descend into the abysses, where the spirits are purified, because I am resurrection for all.

45. Be faithful witnesses of these manifestations; feel them and remember them with veneration, so that you may deposit their seed in fertile soil.

46. Truly I tell you, this generation will not pass away without my teaching being known.

47. You will be unknown and censured, but I say to you, Do not fear ridicule, or even the death of matter. No one will be able to kill you, because I am with you. After this struggle, the world will know the spiritual joy of communication with the Father. Peace will come to the peoples, because they will practice my teaching in their conviction. Be faithful disciples, see that I have given you time and opportunities to know the world. What can you wish for from him?

Love one another!

48. If you are weak in matter, on the other hand you are strong in spirit. You have understood the meaning of human life and now you are trying to understand the meaning of spiritual life. Who among you has not felt in himself the gifts that I have given him? Have faith in Me so that you can penetrate the invisible and sustain yourselves, because even against yourselves you will have to fight.

49. I have raised you up, because you were dead; I have opened my glory to you, I have adorned your spirit with the light of my word; keep this grace and feel that true life is coming to you.

50. Now forgive and love those who have offended you and think that the offense was not for you but for Me, who am in each of my children. If I forgive everyone, why can't you forgive? For the selfishness and vanity of matter! But where does your matter go? To be confused with the kingdoms from which it was formed, while your spirit will endure to answer for all its acts performed through its envelope, while the infinite light of the creator awaits it to be confused in a loving embrace with the son.

51. Who will not want to be worthy of that award at that moment?

52. Disciples: I want you to feel at this time the joy experienced by those who saw me rise in the celestial vault. My manifestation to my disciples was to fulfill the promise I made to them one day before the sacrifice. I taught them about the life of the spirit and what the death of the body meant; they did not understand and I had to announce to them that I would come in the Spirit to tell them what I had told them. When I was already in Spirit among the disciples and one of them plunged his fingers into my fresh wounds, I said to them, "I will always be with you and I will come as the light of the Holy Spirit." When they tried to rest their heads on the Master's chest, the silhouette of Jesus disappeared, because the proof that I gave them of my truth was enough. If I promised to return to men on the cloud, they have seen from their spiritual abode the fulfillment of my word, and you have seen that promise fulfilled in your world. This is the resurrection that I have manifested to you at this time.

53. I leave my peace with you; keep my teaching and be guided by it, so that you will not be lost in darkness. After 1950 you will enter the sanctuary of my divine inspiration so that you may rise up to teach this good news, as your brothers, my apostles, did in the Second Time. You will see my doctrine blossom clean and pure of rites, traditions and vanities, because I do not seek material temples, but the heart of my children, to transform it into a true sanctuary, where the love of Jehovah dwells.

54. What do you make present to me on this day? Why are you crying, if I have given you my peace and made you feel my love and tenderness? You are silent before my interrogation. I have filled you with grace and you feel that you have not been able to take advantage of it, that is why there is pain in your heart. But what is it that keeps you from fulfillment? The world you inhabit is a melting pot, and the more you purify yourselves, the freer you will feel; your past debts will not weigh on your spirit and you will be able to rise spiritually. Do not be afraid of poverty; if the world dispossesses you of your goods, if it asks you for what you have, give it up and you will have lost nothing. Fear the one who wants to take your peace, the one who tries to extinguish your faith, because these gifts are not only your treasure, but belong to your portion; it is the means by which I will give you salvation, along with that of the beings I have entrusted to your care.

55. The intercession of Mary, the sweet and self-sacrificing Mother, reaches Me, and the shepherd makes me present to the people. The divine tenderness, the shepherd and your protectors watch over you eternally. But I, the Father, know and feel your pain and my charity is with you. Save yourselves, people, and save humanity. I have shown you the way, and if you want peace, be men of good will, discard selfishness and give of what is in your heart. Today you do not love one another in spirit, but the time will come when you will see in each brother a representative of mine, an image of my Divinity and that love will dispel the pain.

56. Understand that you all belong to me; the price of your ransom is the example traced with my blood, my sacrifice for love and it is necessary that you recognize that I come by your spirit to take him to the gates of the "promised land". My word will not leave you before the appointed time and then when you have prepared, the good news will be known by you and by my messengers in different nations. My word will be scrutinized and at last it will be studied and understood. Around the year 2000, the spiritual gifts of humanity will begin to manifest, bearing witness to my word.

57. Prepare yourselves and in a short time you will recognize your gifts. You all have an inheritance from the moment of your formation, therefore you can all work and be my farmers

58. The lands are prepared waiting for the seed and the cultivation, Do not stop, start the fulfillment of your mission, The time is propitious, and your prayer and practice in the law will fill your spirit with peace.

59. Only a few moments have elapsed since you remembered concentrated in your spirit the hour when you saw the crucified Son of God.

60. I have come to tell you that the moments that have passed have been beneficial for humanity. I have come to bear witness to my love and I will be very close to you, to manifest myself to every spirit, to every heart and to every matter, because it is the age of light, the time of the Holy Spirit.

Love one another!

61. Take an example in my teachings and put them into practice, but do not judge that this means a sacrifice for you; if it were so, it would indicate that your spirit has not been prepared and therefore does not experience joy.

62. If you want to follow Jesus, you will have to suffer; but at the bottom of that pain will be the joy of suffering for the good of your fellow men. Now your sacrifice will not be of blood, because times have changed and humanity has evolved, it will be of love

63. Your spirit drags heavily a chain formed by the lives that I have given you as an opportunity to perfect you and that you have not taken advantage of, each existence forms a link. But if you live your life within my teachings, if you adhere to my law, you will no longer come to suffer in this world.

64. If you let time pass without studying my word I, Who am time, will surprise you. Study, so that you can take your rightful place in my work.

65. I want the misunderstanding and the different beliefs about my Divinity to cease; understand that you all sprang from one God.

66. I will continue pointing out to you the unique path that leads to my bosom; it is narrow, it is rough, there is a trace of blood in it, but at the end of the day, you will find flowers of exquisite perfume and fruits of good taste.

67. Some of you long for the time when you had happiness and peace. I tell you, do not sigh. I have brought you happiness and peace again and these graces endure until eternity.

68. When I say to you, "Ask, it will be given to you," you ask me for the matter. Indeed, how little you ask of me! Ask Me first of all for what benefits your spirit! Do not treasure on earth, because here the thief is found; treasure in the kingdom of the Father, because there your flow will be safe and it will be for the happiness and peace of your spirit.

69. The treasures of the earth are riches, power and titles of false greatness. The treasures of the Spirit are good works.

70. I do not come to ignore the knowledge and science that men have achieved; on the contrary, I come to illuminate their talent, so that their works have a noble and high end, because then they will achieve true greatness.

71. In the Second Time I showed the world what man could do through faith. I raised up the one who was dead, I gave sight to the blind, I left the leper clean, I made the paralytic walk.

Love one another!

72. I bless the science of man, who has healed and rescued from death him who was on the verge of the grave.

73. Now I have come to show you once again my wisdom that lies beyond all sciences and I tell you: The world will know the Comforter of the Third Time; but while you know that I am among men again, they are still waiting for me, when my departure is already near.

74. In my word of the Second Time I made you know that I would come to you again, that my spiritual hosts would descend with Me, but humanity has not properly understood or interpreted the meaning of my word, that is why every religion awaits me, in its bosom, that is why they hope to contemplate me with their mortal eyes; and those who are waiting for me now are the same ones who at that time denied that Jesus was the Messiah and judged him as a dreamer.

75. As long as you have faith, you will see your path illuminated.

76. I have come at this time to build my temple. The temple of your heart, which you had destroyed, I will rebuild in three days.

77. You all keep preparation and so you present yourselves to Me. Whenever you open your heart to receive my word, you have experienced peace. Who among you, who has sought me with love, has not had communication with Me? And if you have achieved this charity, why don't you teach it to your brothers? If in the practice of love you find life, love selflessly. If the fulfillment of duties fills you with health, be tireless in working.

78. I want to find you worthy of Me. I want to contemplate peace in your home and each one of you cultivating and promoting the good, so that you can live close to Me and identify with your brothers.

PARABLE

79. "There was a humble Teacher teaching his children. Among them were the hearts that full of faith were impatient to get up to fulfill their mission. After a short time of receiving their lessons, they asked their Teacher: You who are wise and teach pure love and the emancipation of the spirit, tell us, When will we be able to leave to teach in the name of our Father, what we have learned? And the Master answered, "Little ones, are you willing to give up my teaching yet?" Have you had enough of it yet? Are you not afraid of dangers, are you not grieved by unbelief? Are you strong yet? And the child insists: Teacher, you have given us an antidote, we feel strong and we want to practice your teaching. That Master, full of tenderness and kindness, blesses his disciples, gives them power and lets them go. And the child goes along the roads cultivating hearts, giving them that great teaching. Many seek Him and when they hear his word they convert to his doctrine and follow him; but after having prepared those new adepts, the farmer says to the crowd that follows him: You will have to present yourselves to the One who taught me, to receive the last lesson, because that Teacher is going to leave and wants to leave you full of his wisdom. Will you come after me?

80. In a caravan they arrived before that Master and were surprised to see that he was the Master of masters, he infinite God, the Maker of everything created. Then they prostrated themselves, penetrating into contrition and his spirit made communion with Him and peace flooded the hearts of the little ones.

81. Today I say to you, disciples, the time will come when you will see me in all my splendor. By that time, the earth and its inhabitants will have been purified, and the virtue and grace of the spirit restored. The pain will disappear and everything will be bliss, it will be an infinite, endless day for you. Don't you want to contemplate these wonders? Do you not want your children to communicate with my Spirit and, free from sin, to be able to form a world of peace?

82. I have given you the gifts to practice my teaching. Be persistent in the good. If your decision is great, you will overcome the insurmountable and the world, which has not believed in my coming at this time, will love me and will be saved.

83. People: You will enjoy contemplating my manifestations every day more spiritual. Come to Me for love, not for fear.

84. Be strong, because the trials are approaching and you have to go through them with serenity.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 182

1. Pray for humanity rather than for yourselves. She is like a castaway in the midst of a sea of darkness and turmoil, who in her confusion does not find the lighthouse that will illuminate her to get to safety
2. Everyone who believes in Me and observes my precepts is inside a saving ark wherever he is, whether in the spiritual valley or in the world. He who loves in spirit and in truth is with Me. Every creature has in itself the means to be saved and they are: The light of conscience and the intuition of the good that pulsates in the spirit; they are attributes that I have granted you.
3. Prayer is a consolation and a staff for the heart in the hours of trial. To be strong, you must be unified in my law and even when you find yourselves on different paths, if you practice my doctrine spiritually, you will come to love and understand each other.
4. Not everyone who has heard my word believes in it, and not everyone who claims to love me, truly loves me. To be called my disciples, you will have to practice my law and follow in my footsteps.
5. My love is the same for everyone. Have you not seen that I have denied light, warmth and bread to no one? Even when the trials of the spirit are great, my protection will never abandon you.
6. Do you want to see me materialized to believe in Me and feel close? Penetrate into the essence and life of this universe that you inhabit, and you will contemplate me manifested in all the beings that compose it.
7. I have given you all the bread, however, some I see satisfied and others are hungry; it is because you do not share the fruit of your work or your home with others.
8. I have placed you at the beginning of your evolution, so that you may all come to Me. My love that you receive in these manifestations is for all my children; come to Me, seek Me with your prepared spirit and I will be with you. You can all feel my presence and feed on Me.
9. Great spiritual works are carried out by practicing humility, purity of spirit and the word of light that comes from your lips. But don't talk about your works, talk about the divine work and let Me judge you and reward your effort.
10. Do not forget the prayer for the peace of the world, because great disasters threaten it. But do not want to penetrate into my high judgments; let Me, with wisdom, cut down the bad trees by the roots and rigorously touch the institutions.

Love one another!

11. You pray and just help as many as you can. That time is near and I warn you so that you live alert and contemplate the fulfillment of these prophecies.
12. When you have understood my word, you will all be like a flock, and I, your God, like a shepherd, will guide you to the fountain of eternal life, in which you will never thirst again.
13. The Master is among you and I am eager to leave you prepared for the propitious moment.
14. I come to teach you at this moment when the world is in apparent stillness.
15. Man has given himself up to materialism and only for a moment thinks about the example left to him by the Son of God, and then returns to the struggle of his world and what concerns his material life. He is not prepared for spirituality.
16. Humanity has designated dates to remember the passion of Jesus and that is when it manages to move its heart.
17. But you, who have listened to my word, understand that there is no fixed hour or day to remember or practice those teachings that the Divine Master gave you. You have come to understand that at any moment you can do works for the benefit of your fellow human beings, inspired by that example of divine love and charity.
18. I want you to pass on this lesson that you are learning to your brothers and sisters. You just need your heart to be ready to sow and then, the first harvest will fill you with joy and encouragement to continue on the journey.
19. When my word reaches all my children, in the confused men of science it will be like a ray of light that illuminates their mind. And when they discover the covenant that exists between God and man, the relationship between human science and the mystery of creation, they will have taken a step forward that will be for the benefit of the new generations, because everything will go in perfect harmony. Men and events evolve towards perfection without stopping their march.
20. In the present century, the science of men reached great development, so they called it the century of light, not knowing that this time was also opened for the spirit as the time of light. They were unaware that the Holy Spirit is manifesting and illuminating all beings, in fulfillment of the prophecies.
21. In the great human works there is the influence and the work of high spiritual beings who work and vibrate continuously in the understandings, inspiring or revealing the unknown to their incarnate brothers.

Love one another!

22. That is why I will always say to the wise men and scientists: You cannot boast of what you understand or what you do, because not everything is your work. How many times you only serve as an instrument to those spirits of whom I speak to you! Have you not been surprised many times by the scope of your discoveries? Have you not inwardly confessed yourselves impotent and incapable of attempting what you have already accomplished? Well, there you have the answer. So why are you aggrandizing yourselves? Know that your work is guided by higher beings. Never try to modify their inspirations, because they are always directed to the good.

23. Infinite and profound is my teaching; in it there is the essence that all religions are based on. In my doctrine I make you brothers of all, without distinction of creeds. Never lock yourselves in a cell to pray, because it will be like turning away from humanity and like fleeing from temptations, afraid of falling. Jesus taught you to face every struggle; Jesus knew that He was the truth and that she, like the light, cannot be hidden. Since then I taught you how to follow my footprint.

24. I was judged, I was slandered, but some imperfection could never be discovered in me. Just as nature is perfect, as a work entrusted to you, who can find defect or imperfection in that work done by Me? Who will be able to imitate her?

25. When you do not understand my word, rise up in prayer before you are confused, because how can you think that I give you an idea that does not contain reason or truth? Rise up so that your thoughts may reach the divine effluvium.

26. You will teach my doctrine without adding your tendencies to it, because you will not be able to deceive anyone; the lie sooner or later is overthrown by the truth.

27. If you are sincere with yourselves, you will know the truth, because you will find it within yourselves and in your brothers, if you love them, if there is sweetness in your gaze, if you put charity in word and deed. Do not look at faith with simplicity, with that abandonment and that assurance that the miracle will necessarily be performed. Remember that you have to make yourself worthy of such benefits.

28. The conviction of my word and the strength of your prayer prepare you to attain faith and perform great works.

29. I am giving you the light and the explanation of the mystery in which many prophecies remained for centuries.

30. Ask for light, it will be given to you; I want there to be communion between your spirit and mine.

Love one another!

31. This grace that I pour out in each of my words, will be the one that comforts you for when I no longer manifest myself through human understanding. By this grace you will be teachers among your brothers, because you will know how to lead yourselves within my law.

32. There will be nothing to confuse you, neither ideas nor doctrines will make you lose your way, because everything you have learned from Me will be engraved with fire in the spirit.

33. In all religions, two paths are presented to man: one, that of spiritual rest, and the other, that of eternal punishment. As much as he has struggled to know reality, he only finds mysteries where his mind is confused.

34. And you, simple disciples who have not known the sciences, have instead received my inspiration and my wise word with which the veil of mystery was lifted and you knew that after this life, after the struggle, the combats and the purification, the rest and the peace that you desire await you all!

35. You, who already know this reality, will know how to reveal it to those who do not know it.

36. You will be the prophet who makes my will known; then your brothers will be able to verify that you spoke with truth when they contemplate that what your lips announced was fulfilled.

37. Peace is not in the nations; apparently there is stillness in the minds of men, but war is threatening the East. In truth the war will break out and the world will find itself in desolation. This will soon happen.

38. My elements will break loose and ravage regions. Men of science will discover a new planet and a shower of stars will illuminate your world, but this will not bring disasters for humanity, it will only announce to men the arrival of a new time.

39. I have come to make these prophecies known to you so that they will not surprise you when they happen.

40. Even with my elements you will have to identify yourselves, because they are also my servants and instruments of my justice. Great disasters will be seen in the world, which will worry men of science, who will look for the cause of all this in nature itself. He is the scientist who seeks his existence in the cells, ignoring the essential, that is, the kingdom of the spirit, the first and only source from which everything that exists comes.

41. I will reveal much to you while you were still in this world, but when you close your bodily eyes to this life and those of the spirit are opened to contemplate the infinite, you will recognize that there is more clarity and light in the life of the spirit. The will, intelligence and reason will not abandon you because they are innate gifts to the spirit.

42. In the religions they recognize the power of evil and have personified it in human form, they attribute a powerful kingdom to it and have given it various names. Men are afraid when they think they have him close, without knowing that the temptation is in the passions, in the weaknesses. That the same thing stirs in the interior of man good and evil. Evil predominates in the world at this time and has created a force, a power that manifests itself in everything. And in the spiritual there are legions of imperfect spirits, troubled, inclined to evil and revenge, whose strength joins human evil to form the kingdom of evil.

43. That power rebelled before Jesus in the Second Half and showed him his kingdom. My flesh, sensitive to everything, was tempted, but my spiritual strength overcame the temptation. For I was to be the overcomer of the world, of the flesh, of temptation, and of death. For I was the Teacher who came down among men to set an example of strength.

44. Jesus, after exhaling his last breath on the cross, rose from the dead, descended into the dens of darkness where troubled spirits are found, to lead them to the light, and returned in Spirit before the apostles to show them the higher life of the spirit.

45. I have told you at this time: Do not harbor the idea that exists among humanity about hell, because there is no more hell in this world, than the life that you have created with your wars and hatreds, and in the hereafter there is no more fire than the remorse of the spirit, when conscience shows him his mistakes.

46. My doctrine will speak to the theologian, the philosopher, the scientist and they will find that my work is an inexhaustible source of revelations.

47. Man with his regeneration will extinguish his hell and when his spirit penetrates into the hereafter, he will find only light, harmony and grace, because in the abode of the spirit what only human superstition has forged cannot exist.

48. Prepare yourselves, quiet your mind because you are going to receive the light that I am sending you. Sensitize your heart and don't just tell me with your lips that you love me. Love me in truth, because I want you to live in harmony with Me. Make that sign shine that you carry in your spirit and that you had overshadowed. I want you to feel possessed of my eternal gifts and to bear witness to Me.

49. I have had infinite patience for you, I have waited for your recognition and you still tell me not to disturb your dream, that you do not want to live in reality; but it was said that I was to come to raise up my chosen people and to give them weapons to fight the darkness. How is it that you despise the light if you are destined to bring it to humanity?

Love one another!

Very soon you will become soldiers of peace, truth and love. The trials that I am sending you will polish your heart and bring it closer to the path. You are about to take your position to start the day. Others will rise to fulfillment when they are in spirit inhabiting other valleys

50. I do not want to contemplate among you a single disciple who betrays his Master, who exchanges his gifts for false wealth, because my wounds will reopen to flow water of compassion and blood to wash the stain of the beloved disciple.

51. Those of you who have come to my call, blessed are you. You will receive proofs of love and you will be strengthened for the time of struggle that is coming; your sorrows will be bearable and you will have peace in the spirit

52. If you ask me for commands, look in the book that I am giving you and you will find in every word a command, an immutable law that speaks to your spirit of the abode that he must conquer. When you feel that the time to work has arrived, you will look with surprise and joy, how vast are the lands that I have entrusted to you and how abundant and rich the seed.

53. What I have taught you, I want it to be transmitted with purity to those who will not hear my word at this time. In the virtue of your life you will find what is necessary to guide, advise and console humanity. I hope to receive in this time from the human heart the understanding, the harvest that I have not received in times past, to help you climb the high mountain where I am waiting for all my children.

54. Humanity: What have you made of the seed that I brought to you as a gift of love in the Second Time? You call yourselves Christians, but in fact you are not, because I do not find love among men, nor charity, nor justice. Without realizing it you are loving another god and you have forged another world; there you have your affections, ambitions, possessions, ideals and wealth; outside of all this nothing exists for you. Where is your faith?, Where is the true practice of my teachings? You only carry them in your mind as one more of your theories. How many of you think that what I say is an exaggeration and how many who tomorrow will know these words, will have to make a scandal around them; but truly I tell you that Elijah in this Third Time will prove to you that you are worshiping a false god, although you think you are loving Me; as in the First Time I surprised the people of Israel by worshiping Baal and with the power that God had given to his prophet, he proved that people fallen into darkness that they were in error, I tell you again that Elijah at this time will discharge the ray of God on the spirits, causing your idols to fall to the ground. What are your idols? The world, meat, science, religious fanaticism, vices, money.

Love one another!

55. When the light is made in every spirit, you will understand that the world and science cannot be the end to which you aspire, nor can they be the highest perfection, that they are only means that God has placed on your path so that you go from step to step towards Him, who is the perfect Spirit.

56. Elijah is the forerunner, the prophet, the messenger; I am the light, that through Elijah, I will test again the men who with their science believe to move the world and be able to do everything, but that when the moment of the test comes, when desolation spreads everywhere, Elijah will say to the wise and scientists: Invoke your science and contain the advance of the unleashed elements, make use of your power and calm the fury of a tempest; if you do, I will recognize your strength and wisdom. But I come to inspire you with a power and a knowledge superior to your science and that power is that of prayer.

57. That is the moment when the spirit of Elijah points out to you, people, and his voice calls you to prove to the world through the new disciples the truth of prayer and the power of spirituality.

58. Under a spiritual form you will live the trials that the men of antiquity, the people of Israel, received, because the meaning of those lessons, the background that was in those calls that the Lord made to His children, has not yet been properly interpreted.

59. It is true that men would be convinced of their mistakes and repent in fear of divine injustice, but they did not get to the bottom of true wisdom to the spirit.

60. I have told you that in this time of light all the divine revelations of past times will be understood and interpreted justly, because the spirit of humanity, crossing the vast desert of its pilgrimage and traveling the endless paths of experience, has reached maturity to get in touch with the spiritual, harmonize with its consciousness and understand the real meaning of its existence.

61. Man is about to come out of his sleep, to get up doing the great works to which he was destined, works inspired by the spirit, dictated by conscience and reflected in feelings.

62. When the multitude of spiritualists comes to form a united and strong people, their passage through the earth will leave a trace of light. He will be to humanity like an older brother whose hand is generously extended to help his younger brother get up.

63. With a loving word I have come speaking to you, so that your heart may be softened and the roughness of your character softened, because tomorrow it will be you who will have to make my work known to your brothers; and if you want to move the fibers of those hearts, you will have to use great sweetness and impregnate yourself with love and charity in all your works.

64. Learn to communicate with me from spirit to Spirit, with prayer without words, the prayer that is thought, that is feeling; that is the one that will bring you closer to my divine presence. Look, tomorrow you will have to teach all these lessons and it is already necessary for my new disciples to practice from now on what my doctrine has been teaching them. If you come to teach by your works and preach by your examples, humanity will be stimulated to imitate you and will stop worshiping deaf and lifeless gods, to come to seek the true living and eternal God who dwells only in the spiritual.

65. Prayer is the saving boat of all the shipwrecked in this stormy sea, because he who prays well is strengthened, filled with faith, feels superior to all trials and knows how to wait confidently for the arrival of peace.

66. Many of the lessons I have given you are based on warning you of the dangers that lie in wait for you in the times of greatest bitterness, because you will be part of my hosts of spiritual beings. For each of you will go a multitude of invisible beings who will be the guardians and protectors. The mission of one and the other will be to unite to achieve the supreme ideal of achieving universal peace; and from now on I tell you that from this spiritual harmony among all my servants, a force will be born that will make this people invincible.

67. The poor in spirit will be inspired; the dull of speech and understanding will have in their mouths a torrent of words saturated with truth and life.

68. I have already warned you that there will be stumbles on the way, but I also tell you that whoever prepares himself will be able to save them. Only those who are now sleeping while I am talking to them will be the ones who will stumble, fall and finally get to retreat, judging that the obstacles that arise on their way are insurmountable.

69. Prayer, meditation, serenity and elevation, are goods that should already be incorporated into your daily life as an essential part of it, so that nothing can surprise us.

70. Understand why throughout all the times that have passed I have been repeating to you: "Watch and pray"

71. Now I offer you the bread that is to feed you, it is unleavened, it is of eternal life.

72. Before I enlighten you in my teachings, I want to heal your heart and ease your spirit; I invite you to rise up to my mansion of peace and there confess to me all your sins; I will know how to hear you. I will respect your pain and will not judge you harshly. If this pain is caused by regrets, do not be afraid, for I have come to seek precisely those of you who

73. I prepare your understanding, your lips, so that you will not feel clumsy to speak and testify to my work. If you feel love, you will be able to speak; if you have faith, you can do great works in my name.

74. I give you a white page to write down your life and conscience will speak to you clearly; by it you will know when you have honored your Father and when you have disobeyed Him.

75. You ask Me on this day and what do you need that it is not in my love to grant you? But if you drink a bitter cup as a restitution for your sins, do not complain to me, do not ask me why I have not given you the cup of milk and honey to drink, since you belong to the chosen people. It is up to you to achieve peace; I have granted you free will so that you may choose the path and rise by your merits to Me. Why don't you imitate the good disciples? Why don't you lead the life of the patriarchs? For you do not yet glorify me by your works.

76. Give, you always have something to give. Do not imitate the greedy rich; do not throw away the sick, the needy, judging them reckless. Do not despise the hungry. If you know how to penetrate into their heart, you will discover their pain and feel pity for them. I have given you in love the balm to cure all ills. Are you afraid of being censured because in doing charity you imitate me? What are you afraid of this unjust and selfish humanity that knows nothing about Me? Come and take refuge in my immutable laws, drink my essence and feel filled with the Spirit of Truth

77. The truth is my kingdom of love, light and justice, truth that teaches the law that I have revealed to you. Truth is the footprint traced with my love so that you become great, happy, perfect and immortal.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 183

1. Keep my word, disciples, because men of different beliefs are already approaching this nation who are going to ask you for proof that you have received my teaching.
2. I am removing sorrows and illnesses from you, so that you may learn to console and do charity to your brothers and sisters in the same way that I do it to you.
3. My teaching will fill with joy those who receive it with preparation; it will be crystal clear water on thirsty lips, bread for the hungry, stillness and peace for the weary spirit and strength and light for all.
4. I am enlightening this people, from the rulers to the smallest, so that they open their arms to those portions that will come in search of the Master.
5. Some will come to Me contrite, others fearful, because the pain will have been deep within them and their conscience will speak telling them that the judgment has come for each spirit. But for everyone I have a new chance of salvation. The spirit will receive the confirmation of all his gifts and if his faith awakens, through it he will know why he has come once again among men and how much I love them.
6. I do not come with my word of this time to erase what I said in the Second Time; rather, I come to remind you of it, because you have forgotten it and to explain it, because you have not understood it. I am revealing to you what I did not tell you then and what I had in store for you at the present time when your spirit is more evolved.
7. Those who wrote my word with love, with blood and tears, obeyed his memory and his inspiration, they faithfully interpreted my will; but later others came and my word was adulterated, its essence has been lost among ideas and practices that do not belong to my doctrine. And at this time the light comes to break every veil, to let the purity of my truth be seen.
8. I have come to teach you not to be ignorant because of my work, not to argue unjustly. But I also warn you with these revelations: False teachers and prophets will appear, even in the bosom of the people of Israel.
9. Many who today eat bread at my table, tomorrow will seek only their material well-being, their kingdom and praise and you must beware of being confused.
10. Great is your struggle, faithful disciples who will watch over this cause. I am going to leave one hundred and forty-four thousand ready, on whom this responsibility will rest, and among them are those who will turn their backs on me, those who will take my name to say: Behold, the Master and those who have not quenched their thirst and those who did not want to hear me at the right time, they will approach thirsty for truth and will be confused

11. Practice humility and do not flatter your brothers or allow them to flatter you; separate yourselves from those who, wanting to do you good, provoke your vanity and lose you.

12. Do not give ear to temptation. The power that I have given you is for you to use it in spiritual works, in works of love and charity.

13. Never profit by my doctrine.

14. I protect you, people, I am hiding you from the eyes of your brothers, so that you may listen in peace to my word until the year 1950; if by believing in my coming at this time you are torn apart, I will defend you; if you are reduced to prison, I will open the doors and you will be saved. I only tell you, comply with my law, do not fall into profit and mystification. When you are called to heal the sick, practice charity and take care that your works are spiritual.

15. In the Second Time, after my departure, your Heavenly Mother remained strengthening and accompanying my disciples. They, after pain and trial, found shelter in the sweet heart of Mary, her word continued to nourish them, and they, encouraged by the one who continued to teach them in representation of the Divine Master, continued on their way, and when She departed, their struggle began and each one took the path that was indicated to him. In this Third Time you will have the love of Mary very close to your heart, relieving and strengthening your spirits in all your trials.

16. You are opening your heart to feel me and to love me, but I tell you: Listen to my orders and know how to practice. Don't just love Me, love your brothers. Do not judge one another unjustly. Leave every just or unjust cause to my justice, because only I know the reason for it and it is up to Me to judge. To those who have not complied with my law, I am inviting you to penetrate that path and soon you will come to Me and I will tell you: It is not a new law that I present to you at this time, it is the same one that I wrote in the conscience of the first man and that I later made known, clearly and precisely, through Moses.

17. Do not let yourselves be carried away by the word of your brothers if it is not based on my law and believing that you are on the path of light, you are treading on the path of darkness. The flowery language is not the one I like. I have always spoken to you with simplicity; but if you find truth in those words, extract the essence, what there is of love, charity and peace, which belongs to Me, and you can take it and interpret it properly. I have given you a judge who never lies and is within you; it is the conscience; to hear her voice you need to penetrate within, pray and meditate and she will speak with true wisdom and upliftment.

18. The world has disabused you and today, when you hear my word manifested by such humble creatures, in simple enclosures, you recognize that you do not need to build palaces to offer them to spiritual worship, that you should not limit my doctrine, nor represent it with material images.

19. To bring this mission to the world in the Third Time, you were ordered to incarnate again as spirits of light full of power, and for these graces your brothers have ignored you; they have looked badly at your faith and trust in Me, not knowing that I have distinguished no one and that I attend and protect everyone. And you who have come to Me full of contrition, how close you are to me and by your repentance you make yourselves worthy to bring my present of love and charity to the sick, to the poor in spirit. Your faith will speak and energize those who have been weakened and their spirit will rise to a new life. Many "prodigal children" will come to my lap at this time and I will celebrate their return, and the prayer of the Israelite family will rise to continue attracting hearts.

20. When you see that one of my disciples, because of his consecration to Me, rises in wisdom, do not envy him, help him even more, because through him I will manifest wonders and the benefit will be for all of you.

21. Envy stains the heart and sickens the spirit. It is My will that you all rise up and make perfect communion with Me and live in harmony.

22. Make use of your reason so that you understand how much justice there is in the destiny of all creatures.

23. Do not live in vain; even the smallest and strangest trials contain a purpose that I have determined.

24. Deliberate and study my law. Let your spirit through prayer come to Me so that it may be filled with my anointing by listening to my word and receive the balm to heal your sick body.

25. If you prepare yourselves, the world will take new directions. The threatening war will flee and there will be peace, but if you do evil, that evil will reverberate in yourselves. Once again I say to you, "With the rod that you measure, you will be measured."

Love one another!

26. Come and feed yourselves with the food of my word and when you have eaten, do not forget the hungry and bring them sustenance. Learn to extract from my word the essence and from it take, strengthen yourselves and share with your brothers.

27. You present from your abode the mansion of peace that I have promised you. Every moment you ask me to let you look at the lights of that "blessed land" and I tell you that you are not far away, that you are on the road that leads to it and that it will not be long for you to find yourselves knocking on its doors

28. The way is my law; if you observe it, you can be sure that you will reach the promised city and there you will find everything I have offered you. Be strong and virtuous in this journey, enlighten yourselves with faith so that you may make your journey sweet and bearable.

29. You have known the vicissitudes; sometimes you shiver with cold feeling the selfishness and lack of love of humanity and you show me your spirit naked; but you have not despaired, but you trust knowing that I am watching over you and that Mary your Mother is a star in the night that you are going through and thus you feel strengthened.

30. In this moment of communion, you present to me in silence the hearts of your afflicted children in need of peace and I want to make you the depositaries of my benefits so that you may bring them to yours to all your brothers, so that you may learn to give by being my messengers and intercessors for your fellow human beings.

31. If you are received by your brothers and they accept your present, bless them. If they do not know how to take what I send them, bless them too and let Me, with infinite patience, continue polishing and awakening their spirit until they become ardent and gullible hearts. This is my will.

32. Welcome those who believe in my presence, welcome also those who doubt because they have come attracted by their own spirit, because faith will also be in them.

33. Woe to those who at this time do not strive to light their lamp, for they will be lost! Behold, this being the time of light, shadows reign everywhere. You know from my word that I chose this nation to manifest myself at my third coming, but why, you do not know; it has been a mystery to you, the Master, who does not want to have secrets for his disciples; he comes to reveal to you everything you should know, so that you can answer with certainty those who question you. I have seen that the inhabitants of this corner of the earth have always sought and loved me and even though their worship has not always been perfect, I have received their intention and their love as a flower of innocence, sacrifice and pain. On the altar of my Divinity that flower full of fragrance has always been present. You were prepared to fulfill this great mission in the Third Time. Today you know that I have made the people of Israel reincarnate in your womb, because I have revealed it to you. You know that the seed that encourages in your being and the inner light that guides you is the same one that I poured out from the First Time on the house of Jacob.

34. You are Israelites by the spirit, you possess spiritually the seed of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. You are branches of that blessed tree that will give shade and fruit to humanity.

35. This is why I name you firstborn and because I have sought you at this time to manifest in you my third revelation to the world. It is my will that the people of Israel rise spiritually among humanity, so that it may contemplate the true resurrection of the flesh

36. Yes, disciples, the spirit does not die, it only flies to the beyond, to space, when the term has come to its body. The flesh does not die either, it disintegrates and is confused in the elements of nature, from where I make it sprout again to endow it with spirit.

37. Thus the flesh rises or resurrects, thus incarnate spirits become men appear again on earth; thus I will raise Israel up on the face of the earth, but I will not offer her lands in this world, nor will I divide her into tribes; on the contrary, I will make all her members one family to erase the traditional schism in it. I will form marriages and families with the sons of Reuben, with those of Judah, with those of Asher and Zebulun, with those of Naphtali or Benjamin. In this way I make all division disappear, because that is not God's seed.

38. Who could carry out these works, but Me? Who could be entrusted with the mission of persuading the Lord's chosen people that Canaan was not the eternal homeland but only a symbol? To Me, who was the one who hid your spirit in another race or in another land, who was the one who said to you: You are those; but if I have sent you again, it is so that you may conclude on earth the great and delicate mission that was entrusted to you from the beginning. That is your cross.

39. You have also returned to wash stains, repair and repair and settle debts, you will no longer fall into weakness or idolatry as in former times, being the people who knew the true God and had the law. But pain has made you seek light and peace. Thus, at that first Time, when wheat and therefore bread were scarce in your land, you emigrated to mighty Egypt; later, a slave of Pharaoh, you rose up defying the hardships of the desert, looking for the "land of promise", because you longed for freedom. At this time you have defied the mockery and anger of your brothers, because you are looking for me in this form, because your spirit is thirsty for elevation and spirituality.

Love one another!

40. You are the "prodigal son" who, whenever he returns to your Father's house, finds his arms open to shake him and the table set to seat him at the feast.

41. You arrived tired from the long journey, your spirit stained and your body weak; but surprised you saw from afar that the gates of the city were open, waiting for you to arrive to give you my love, my teachings and the charity of my new advent.

42. It was not my will to manifest myself now in Canaan, which was your homeland in times past, because it is no longer the time of Moses or that of Christ, it is the Age of the Holy Spirit. You are listening to my divine word and in truth I tell you: That manna of the First Time that ignited your faith in Me and that bread that I offered you at the table of the Second Time with which I taught you the way of your redemption, is the sustenance that I offer at this time so that your spirit may reach eternal peace and light and never feel hunger again.

43. Taking advantage of this spiritual simplicity that you preserve, I come to draw out from among you my spokesmen, my new prophets and my disciples, as I once brought out patriarchs, prophets, envoys and apostles from among this people. Now I explain to you my Law through my doctrine, I teach you how you should pray at this time, how you will serve me and how you will live to be true brothers of humanity and children of God.

44. When my new disciples are strong, the second Jerusalem will descend from my kingdom, evil, idolatry, lies and all the darkness that has sprung from the human mind and heart will crash down on men and on its invulnerable walls.

45. Remember that your Father, through a dream, promised Jacob to bless all nations in his children, recognize that if you come from that trunk, your destiny is to attract my peace and bring it to the hearts of your brothers.

46. People: At this time there are those who still practice the law of Moses, others who live the Christian era; not everyone senses or desires the presence of a new era. It's just that not everyone advances or evolves in the same way. Therefore I tell you: Know these lessons so that you may be the good farmers who imitate the good shepherd and good sower, look at those who cultivate the land; they sow in my name; if the season was good and their sowing was fruitful, they raise their prayers and thanksgiving to the Creator; if the weather was inclement and the sowing fails, they look forward to the next year, to sow again with the same zeal to replenish and multiply the first seed. If you take advantage of this time and rise up full of hope and faith to sow in the heart of humanity, the dew of my grace will fertilize the Fields, the fertile lands with my power, and your seed sown with affection and goodwill will germinate; I will protect your sowing and the radiant sun of my Spirit will gild the ears so that your harvest will be gathered among hymns of glory and praises to your Lord.

47. Realize that I am the one who watches over this nation to protect it from storms. I keep her in peace, because in my high designs I have destined her to fulfill at this time a great mission in the human and in the spiritual.

48. Chaos will come, because as long as there are powers and kingdoms on earth, there will be ambitions, hatreds and wars and there will be no peace.

49. There is no charity among men, my law is not practiced. There are no real brothers, no parents, no children and that is why chaos threatens humanity.

50. I only announce this to you, because evil cannot spring from Me; chaos is only in the unpreparedness of man, whose conscience has ignored and allowed itself to be led by bad inspirations, but do you expect all these trials to happen so that your hard heart will be moved? No, my children, from now on pray, work tirelessly, do merits and be regenerated. That's your mission. Watch over the peace of the world, attract my blessings with your prayers and remain faithful to my law as an example for your brothers.

51. Everyone who is willing to follow me will participate in my teachings and will be called a child or a disciple.

52. The group of spirits that surround me are part of the people of Israel. On his obedience depends the revival of virtues in humanity. Today I have taken this people as my interpreter to speak to men, and I have received from them the first fruits of their fulfillment.

53. You are the first ones I have prepared as fighters of my work, those who have to work with enthusiasm to put the first stones of the great city on solid ground; you have to rely on faith and trust in Me. I will speak to you tirelessly until the last day of 1950 through my spokesmen and then you will remain among humanity to give proof of your authority.

54. I will send among you those men of science who have revealed themselves wanting to penetrate the mysteries of the spiritual life without achieving it. They will look for you knowing that you have settled in this nation, that you possess my revelations and that you have been anointed by Me; they will eagerly drink my word in you and you will know by intuition how you should behave before them without boasting, meekly, as befits my disciples, as Peter preached or as John spoke, so you will speak if you prepare, and if you rise seeking my help, I will speak for you and I will reach their heart. In their eagerness to know the places and the people who served me, they will look for you, and you will only make them know the essence of my doctrine. Many of them will be converted and will become part of this people because of the truth of your words.

Love one another!

55. The journey of this people has been long; in their midst I have always sent strong, zealous spirits, who point to the goal and be defenders of the law. And this people forged in three times, through trials, vicissitudes and struggles, sometimes strong and sometimes weak, sometimes free and sometimes captive, already misunderstood and then loved and recognized, has always possessed my privileges.

56. I alone have done you justice; you have had the most sublime proof of love on Calvary and also the rigor of my justice when you have deserved it that way. You have been predestined to receive me in the three times, Today, as in the Second Time, I have sought the humble, the disinherited and the hungry for justice and I have elevated his spirit by making him take the place of disciple or apostle.

57. You are living in a time when humanity, materially evolved, is proud of its knowledge and does not know me; it forgets its spiritual mission and despises the nature that I have placed at its service, within the reach of its understanding for life and recreation of its body and elevation of its spirit. It obscures what is of most value in her and what I have always come for, that it is her spirit that belongs to me. But just as the face of the earth will change, man will also recognize me. His ideals, which are still material today, will be taken into spiritual longings. All beings have been subjected to trials and in them the spirit is crushed and bent.

58. Since the year 1866 humanity has entered a new time, in which I have been preparing the chosen ones. This people has received charges, I have confirmed their gifts, I have revealed to each creature the tribe to which it belongs and what its special mission is. I have gathered my spiritual hosts, some in matter and some in spirit, as it was written.

59. I appointed guides so that there would be a representative in front of each congregation and I told them that it is my will that everyone be united with each other, so that the people will be strong.

60. I gave the mission of spokespersons to creatures prepared by Me to manifest myself to humanity in human speech and I multiplied the number of them, so that my teaching would spread. I formed the body of farmers so that the spiritual world would come to communicate with men, manifesting its charity, healing and counseling.

61. It was my will to name the fundamental stone to the one who was to be in each enclosure the support of the guide, a mediator between him and those who carry positions and also an intermediary of the people.

62. I appointed seers and prepared them to receive mirages that would be analyzed by the people so that they would live alert.

Love one another!

63. I gave the office of a golden pen to those who were to write, I prepared their minds and sent to their custody spiritual beings who in other times have also watched over the writings, so that my word would be printed and would remain for all time.

64. I prepared guardians to watch over the order of the people, appointing columns for them.

65. I have enlightened all these creatures and my inspiration pours out into them. Now I ask all those who have received these charges, if they have understood what they contain.

66. Three more years I give you for your preparation; then these offices will form one and you will all be called farmers, in the divine countryside and all those who have not heard my word will be entrusted to you to teach them; you will cease to be disciples to become teachers.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

1. Humanity: You have sunk into darkness, but the time has come for you to come out into the light.
2. I send Elijah to you that he may free you from lethargy, how could you feel my presence if you were not awake?
3. Do not expect me to come into your world as a man; that lesson has passed away; however, although you are only going to have me in Spirit, I am going to prove to you that it is a higher form than those, through which I have manifested myself so far; it is the proof that I consider you spiritually more apt than the men of past times.
4. I will not need a body to dwell among you, nor will it be indispensable that my voice be humanized in order to be heard, and yet you will have me in fullness as a Teacher, as a Judge, as a Doctor.
5. Your spirit has many gifts and senses, so that through them you may receive my messages; but since until now you are unaware of those powers that exist in your being, you believe that only with the eyes of the body you will be able to look at me and with your ears you will be able to hear me. I will already prove to you the groundlessness of that belief, when in the silence of your bedchamber you feel my presence and in the moments of your prayer you feel bathed in the light of inspiration.
6. You are still spirits without light, but I will cause flashes to come out of you in the form of inspirations, of lofty ideas, of noble feelings and good deeds.
7. You are like Lazarus in the tomb, dead to spiritual life; but at my voice you will rise up to follow me and bear witness to my truth.
8. Those events that shake the peoples of the earth every day are voices of justice that call you to repentance, prayer, regeneration and purification; but this time of trials will be prolonged until the reluctance and foolishness of men bow down, until they abandon their pride and their impiety. Not all the time it will be voices of justice that will be heard on earth, because later, when humanity has been purified, the events that come to shake men will be very different; they will be divine inspirations and spiritual manifestations, they will be revelations of nature, some for the perfection of your spirit, others for the good of your life in the world.
9. Do you know what is the gift or virtue by which men can attain more grace? Charity, because it will ennoble their hearts, it will give the spirit occasion to overflow into their brothers and sisters and it will be the one that collects the most seed of faith, because the fields and the lands are full of misery, of pain, poverty and disease, lands hungry for love, that only wait for a seed and a little irrigation to flourish.

10. If to those who preach my word on earth, it already seems impossible to contain the advance of sin, the overflow of hatred and passions, for Me it is not impossible, not even difficult the return of men to goodness and justice

11. Do you see those men who rule great peoples? Do you know the strength of his laws and his doctrines? Do you see the men of science penetrating senselessly and recklessly into the arcana of nature? Truly I tell you that with that pride, that power and all their knowledge, they will come to prostrate humbly before Me, because every human work is approaching its limit, where men alone must open their eyes to reality, recognizing the transcendence of each of their works, the gravity of their faults and the magnitude of their errors.

12. I do not want to tell you that everything they have done is imperfect; no, but the good they procure from their fellow men is so little, the good they do is so little, that it is better for my law to judge, the impure and evil, which is what weighs the most in the balance of justice.

13. A short time is granted to humanity, so that in it he may complete his work and respond to the divine judge, when he calls him to account.

14. Meanwhile, my light advances, diffuses and penetrates everywhere and in every spirit.

15. It was my will that when this time of my communication came, all my appointed ones would already be ready, watching and praying, waiting for the hour of my coming, forming one body and one will, to hear what I would reveal to you; but I have not found true brotherhood among you.

16. This people, who have received my teaching, will prepare their brothers, becoming their teacher.

17. But truly I tell you, I have not come to enlighten only you who dwell on the earth, but I have called all the spirits who have lost their way, in other valleys unknown to you.

18. How much submission I have contemplated in spiritual beings in order to fulfill my commands to their spirit, free of matter, it has been easier for them to prepare themselves to fulfill their mission at this time!

19. How many of them were waiting for me, cleansed of errors and faults, after a long atonement, and by revealing to them this part of the "book of the seven seals" corresponding to the sixth stage, their spirit has risen and in their elevation they have impelled you, removed obstacles from your path and placed you in the worthy place of disciples!

20. To come to understand the divine teachings, it is necessary to regenerate and analyze the law; through it you will come to understand my word and you will receive great revelations that through human science you could not reach. The day will come when man will bend his neck and love his Father with the respect and love that I am demanding of you. My manifestation is understandable to everyone. I have spoken according to the capacity of your brain, for you could not comprehend all my wisdom. To this simple word with which I have made my lessons known to you, do not add anything of your mind to it by translating it into other languages, let its divine essence persist.

21. Prepare yourselves so that your brain will be like a clean mirror that will let my light reflect in all its purity, when you find yourself busy in this delicate mission.

22. Live close to me. I am the life, the beginning and the end of everything created. If I have placed in you a mission similar to mine, it is because I love you and I want you to imitate me.

23. Redeem hearts, do wonders, love one another.

24. When you feel the faith and the courage necessary to take up the cross, go to your homes and carry my word, cross the regions and cross the seas; I will go before you preparing the way.

25. Be alert, because many wolves in sheep's clothing will come to you and they will want to surprise us to get you out of the way, but be vigilant and you will know how to discover the intentions of their heart.

26. If your brothers arrive suffering and they want you to drown their cry, do it, give all the good that is in you and later, in the hereafter, you will receive greater charity than what you have done in this world.

27. Beloved people, your prayer rises to Me as in the First Time your psalms rose in the temple; but time has passed and your spirit has evolved. The great temple of Jerusalem no longer exists, because my word was fulfilled and not a stone on a stone remained of its material structure.

28. The ark is no longer there, nor the tables of the law on the altar. Your spirit today seeks the truth beyond the forms and symbols that once helped him to come to believe and understand by teaching him to worship me; but now he understands that these no longer have an object, since their meaning has been understood by the spirit. The symbols were only material objects that the Lord used to explain the divine lessons to man.

Love one another!

29. That is why, when the infant has come to understand elementary education, he must forget the ancient practices, in order to rise in search of higher inspirations and a more spiritual cult.

30. Think that as long as you need to have some symbol in front of your eyes that represents me, you will not be able to communicate directly with the Divine Spirit, and see that you are all called to use that spirit-to-Spirit communication.

31. Everything that surrounds and envelops you in this life is an image of eternal life, it is a profound lesson explained with forms and material objects, so that it can be understood.

32. You have not yet reached the bottom of that wonderful lesson, and man has made a mistake again, because he has taken the life he leads on earth as if it were eternity. He has been content to take the forms from it, renouncing everything that, it encloses of divine revelation, what is essence and truth that is found in all creation.

33. Also, when this book has left its light on the spirits and has been understood until the last page, man will leave the earth and his spirit will move to a new abode where he will know and put into practice everything that human life taught him in its path. Then he will come to understand many lessons that were revealed to him through the material.

34. Study these words that your Teacher has dedicated to you with so much love, so that with his light you can judge your works, and if you understand that you have remained stationary, analyze what have been the causes that have motivated it, so that in the future you avoid them and continue your path of evolution always forward.

35. The mission that I have entrusted to my people on earth is great and very delicate; that is why I have sought him in every age, to inspire him with my word and reveal to him something more of the content of the law.

36. The law of love, of goodness and of justice, has been the spiritual inheritance that I have brought to you in all times. From lesson to lesson I have led humanity to the understanding that the law can be summed up in one commandment: Love. Love the Father, who is the author of life, love the brother, who is part of the Father, love everything that the Lord has created and ordained.

37. Love is the cause, the principle, the seed of wisdom, of greatness, of strength, of elevation and of life. That is the true path that the Creator has traced to the spirit, so that from step to step and from dwelling to dwelling I will feel more and more the approach to Me.

38. If man from the beginning of time had made spiritual love a cult, instead of falling into idolatrous rites and religious fanaticism, this world, today turned into a valley of tears by the anguish and misery of men, would be a valley of peace, in which the spirits would come to make merits, to reach after this life those spiritual abodes to which the spirit on his way of elevation must penetrate.

39. Truly I tell you, at no time in human life has man lacked the knowledge of my law, because the divine spark that is his conscience, he has never lacked a flash in the spirit, an intuition in his mind or a presentiment, in his heart; however, your spirit has returned to the hereafter with a blindfold of darkness and I tell you, that whoever does not take advantage of the lesson that life in this world, in this valley of trials, has to return to it to complete his restitution and above all, to learn.

40. Wrong is your idea of what life on earth means, what the spirit is and what the spiritual valley is. Most believers think that by living with a certain righteousness, or that, repenting at the last moment of life of the faults committed, glory is assured to their spirit; and that false concept that deprives a man does not allow him to persevere throughout his life in the fulfillment of the law and causes his spirit, when he leaves this world and reaches the spiritual mansion, to find that he has reached a place where he does not contemplate the wonders he had imagined, nor does he feel the supreme happiness to which he believed he had a right.

41. Do you know what happens to those beings who had the security of reaching heaven and who instead only found confusion? By not continuing to inhabit the earth, because they lacked the support point of their material envelope and not being able to rise to the heights in which the abodes of the spiritual light are located, they created for themselves, without realizing it, a world that is neither human nor deeply spiritual. That's when the spirits ask themselves: Is this the glory? Is this the dwelling place destined by God for the spirits, after so much walking on earth?

42. No, others say, this cannot be the bosom of the Lord, where only light, love and purity is what can exist.

43. Slowly, through meditation and pain, the spirit comes to understanding. He understands divine justice and, enlightened by the light of his conscience, judges his past works and finds them to be small and imperfect, not worthy of deserving what he had believed. Then, with this preparation, humility appears and the desire is born to return to the paths he left to erase the stains, repair the mistakes and make true merits before his Father.

44. It is necessary to clarify these mysteries to humanity, so that it understands that life in matter is an occasion for man to make merits for his spirit, merits that will elevate him to deserve to dwell in an abode of higher spirituality, where he must again make merits so as not to stand still and continue climbing from step to step, because "in the Father's house there are many mansions".

45. You will do these merits through love as the eternal law of the Father has taught you. And so from step to step, up the ladder of perfection, your spirit will go knowing the path that leads to glory, to the true glory, which is the perfection of the spirit.

46. Welcome are you who come to Me trying to find the ways of peace and love. I welcome these men and make them understand that a spiritual mission is awaiting them.

47. Disciples: You will fight with Me, you will work together with your Master and thus we will travel the path that leads you to the top of the mountain. You will come before Me, full of humility, without asking that your Father grant you this or that gift, but to receive meekly what He has destined for each of His children.

48. You have light in your spirit and in addition you have already traveled a lot along the path of trials that has made your existence fruitful and therefore you will no longer be dominated by the vanity of wanting to be great to be admired and served.

49. Who, other than Me, will be able to reign in the spirits and rule their destiny? No one; that is why whoever has tried to usurp the place of his Lord by wanting to reign, creates for himself a kingdom according to his inclinations, whims, ambitions and vanities, a kingdom of matter, of low passions and ignoble feelings.

50. You cannot impose yourself on conscience, because perfect justice is in it. In spirits, only purity has power over the noble fibers, only good moves them; in a word, the spirit is nourished only by truth and good.

51. Therefore, O disciples, even if you come to see yourself filled with gifts, you understand that you have a benefit that not everyone possesses, do not therefore believe yourselves superior to anyone; put everything you have at the service of my cause, because it is of love and you must dedicate your whole life to it in order to be useful to your brothers.

52. Destroy the kingdom of vanities that you have formed, dominate the human passions and let your spirit manifest itself in its essence, full of love and the light that wisdom gives it. Try in all the acts of your life to imitate Jesus. He was not sent to earth to atone for a fault or to receive the judgment of his Father. Christ, who is coming to speak to you again today, descended into the hearts of men, in order to create in them his kingdom of love, justice and truth. He did not bring to men material doctrines, nor unjust laws. He did not come to tempt the greed of mankind, nor to feed their passions. He brought the doctrine of love, which is the morality of the spirit; therefore he said to the multitudes, "My kingdom is not of this world."

Love one another!

53. You ask me in the inmost depths of your heart, how it can be possible that great spirits become rebellious and want to act against God, and I tell you that those who rise up against me, have not yet become great; they are imperfect spirits who have managed to develop a part of their powers and neglected the advancement of others; their intelligence has been developed, but not the noble feelings of their spirit.

54. That is why at that time I warned you that "man does not live by bread alone"; because in addition to the material teachings that the earth offers him, he needs for his complete perfection the light of the spirit, which he can only obtain in my teaching.

55. Humanity: For many centuries you have wandered on earth, always bowed down under the weight of your passions; but the end has come; you are already in the era of your spiritual liberation, in which the spirit will reign in matter that will be his servant and will have infinity as its dwelling place.

56. Soon you will know where you came from and where you are going, so that you will know how to give the world the place it should occupy in your life and grant the spirit the place it should have in your existence.

57. These words that I am giving you are of prophecy, so that you may have an incentive, so that you may struggle and have a light of hope in your future.

58. Those who go through the world crying their sorrows, should not think that I have abandoned them. I am testing your patience and I just hope that you will reach your purification so that you will increase the number of my followers.

59. Spirituality will come to men dispelling their doubts, returning them to the right path, making them contemplate the light of truth. It will be then that men will say, The word of the Lord has been fulfilled, when he told us, "Every eye will see me."

60. It is necessary for you to know that the pain of this time is very great, because the spirit of humanity has come to settle debts that your heart ignores and to erase stains that have been in you for a long time. You do not know who you are and what your deeds have been on the long road you have traveled; but now those of you who know this revelation, you must put on patience and resignation, because this will lift you up and help you to obtain your purification.

61. I assure you that for now it is not necessary for you to know your past; it is enough for you to have the intuition or the feeling that in other times you have made mistakes that now it is necessary for you to repair. Instead, I want you to know a lot about your future through my word, because that light will raise up in your heart the hope of achieving a life of peace and light in which spirit and matter rise, because times will come when there will be harmony between the material and the spiritual.

Love one another!

62. My light will illuminate all the paths and the sects and religions will see before them a single path, a single law: The law of love of the Divine Spirit. That will be the universal doctrine that will unify all spirits.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

1. I bless you, because you have faith that it is My Spirit who gives you this teaching, even though you are listening to my lessons through human understanding.
2. You let the imperfections of the speaker go unnoticed, interested in understanding only the divine essence. Those who study my word in this way are the ones who are finding the truth. They will be the disciples, who will get up tomorrow to explain my doctrine to humanity. They will make those who have been confused interpreting the scriptures of past times understand that in order to discover the truth of my revelations it is necessary not to stop at the material meaning of the words, but to search for the spiritual meaning that is the essence, that is the truth and the life.
3. That is why I have subjected this people to a test, which is at the same time a profound lesson, giving them my word through a human understanding, and teaching them that they should not stop at the outer form of the word, but must penetrate into its depths to find the essence. With this lesson, this people will be able to explain to those who seek the interpretation of my past messages, the way to spiritually discover the essence of each teaching, passage or example, the truth that is one.
4. I also contemplate among this people those who have come to understand that the greater the preparation of their spirit and that of their matter, the more abundant and clear will be my teaching through the speaker. Ah, if all these multitudes were truly seeking a way to make themselves worthy of my grace, how great and perfect would be my manifestation! But I still see that many hearts seek external worship in order to believe in my presence, without understanding that instead of letting their spirit rise freely, they detain it before a material altar, distract it with useless ceremonies and lethargic it in the routine of traditions. Verily I say unto you, that time is past for you. You greatly recreated your senses before the splendor of religions, you greatly admired the works of art of your brothers; now you must go beyond all this so that your spirit finds himself before the wonderful life that belongs to him, becomes saturated with light in it at the moments of his prayer and transmits to his matter all the delights and inspirations that he collects during his ecstasy. Then you will realize how small and crude have been the ways in which the world has wanted to represent the divine.
5. Your spirit has passed from childhood to youth, and therefore a change must be made in your life
6. In the past times I received from your spirit all the offerings that he presented to me, even though there was much ignorance and imperfection in them. Now only that which is pure, sincere, true, can come to Me.

Love one another!

7. Do you see how beautiful are those flowers of your gardens, which you sometimes offer to me, truly I tell you that I should not even receive that offering at this time, because those flowers are not your work, but mine and what you should offer to Me, are the spiritual flowers of your heart, that is, your good works, your clean prayers, your virtues?
8. Do not deceive yourselves any more, do not try to supply with the exterior what must be deeply spiritual. Do not be afraid, tear down the fence, do not be afraid to face the truth the glory belongs only to the brave and fervent.
9. When you destroy all fanaticism and all idolatry in your heart and learn to pray from spirit to Spirit, you will have arrived at the true altar of the Lord, the one who is "not of this world". On that altar you will be able to deposit your offering, which will be that of your good works, and which will be more beautiful before Me than the flowers of your gardens, because the good works of your spirit will never wither.
10. Multitudes: Open your heart, to pour the dew of my grace into it; I want this town to resemble an immense orchard, where the most beautiful flowers of thought, of the heart and of the spirit, which are the ones I have come to cultivate, shine.
11. People: When I speak to you about cults and offerings, with the clarity with which I manifest my word, do you feel pain because I separate you from your past beliefs? No, Master, you tell me.
12. It is that in my word there is a balm and a light that does not let any confusion arise in any understanding or hurt any heart.
13. So I want you to speak to your brothers, when you try to open their eyes to the light; do it with the clarity and the love that I have used with you and you will not leave pain in the hearts but rather peace and light.
14. Fulfilling a divine promise, I have come to communicate with you at this time. In the essence that exists at the bottom of this word you have had me in fullness. He who has found that essence, has felt me; on the other hand, those who have stopped to judge the superficiality of my manifestation, have not been able to find the truth.
15. While some have marveled at hearing my lessons, others have not felt the slightest shudder, nor have they realized my presence and that they have heard me.
16. When my word ceases to listen to me through these understandings, there will be many hearts that mourn the end of this time, as there will also be those who, even having listened to me, do not realize the good they had and lost, because they did not know how to take advantage of it.

Love one another!

17. Times will come when this word will be spread in many places, but then it will be through the testimonies of those who heard it, understood it and believed it, and you will be witnesses that many of those who never had the grace to hear my teachings, will know how to discover the divine essence that they treasure and will exclaim convinced and full of faith: It is

18. You will see your brothers crying with joy, moved by my message and you will see them regretting that they had not been one of my chosen ones; then you will feel remorse for having had me among you for so long without your heart having shown the faith and love that only by your testimony you will see arise in your brothers.

19. Among those multitudes you will find the intuitive men of the spiritual, the inspired, those who sense the communication of spirit to Spirit, the seers and those who possess gifts and powers of the spirit in full development

20. Did you think that I was going to deliver My word to all the peoples of the earth? No, in this also my new manifestation is similar to that of times past, in that having manifested myself to a single people, this one had the mission of rising up to spread the good news and to sow the seed that in my message he received.

21. Remember how my seed germinated more strongly in other peoples, only because of the testimony of my apostles.

22. Recognize, beloved people, that if other peoples believed in those testimonies, it was because those who gave them knew how to do it with all the love and truth that their hearts were capable of. I tell you this, because if you want the world to believe me in you, you must prepare and imitate those apostles in their love, in their humility, in their spirituality and in their faith. Then the world will take this doctrine as a truth and my word will be sacred to men. Then you will see your brothers eagerly reading the writings that are made of my word and you will see them translating it into different languages so that all peoples will know it.

23. This word, with which this people has become so familiar, which has been so profaned by those who have heard it the most, you will see how tomorrow it will be the oasis for those who suffer a lot on earth; you will see how it will be balm and life, sustenance and light in the lives of those who hunger and thirst for truth, love and justice.

24. Men and women who have listened to my word for a long time and who have also contracted charges within this work, let my phrases touch your heart, let conscience speak in the depths of your being. You have eaten much of the fruit of the tree of life, but what have you made of the seed? Why is not all that you sow of the seed that I have given you? I see that you also have your own, seed, which you are mixing to the one I have entrusted to your care. Who is the one who does not understand what I am saying right now?

25. I do not come to reprove how many works you do what I come to tell you, is that the good that you practice, do not mix any impurity, because then you will no longer be sowing my truth as I have revealed it to you, and it is natural that tomorrow when the time comes for your spirit to gather the fruit of his sowing, he will find that this fruit is just what he sowed on his way.

26. I am the essence of everything created. Everything lives by my infinite power. I am in every body and in every form. I am in each one of you, but it is necessary that you prepare and sensitize yourselves so that you can feel me and find me.

27. I am the breath for all beings, because I am life. That is why I have made it clear that if you have me present in all your works, you do not need to forge my image in clay or marble to adore me or feel close to you. This misunderstanding has only served to lead humanity to idolatry.

28. Through my word you sense the harmony that exists between the Father and everything created, you understand that I am the essence that feeds all beings, and that you are part of Myself.

29. As you understand the meaning of your life, the destiny of the spirit and the why of evolution, you insensibly penetrate into the spiritual life. Thus you are forgetting the forms that you attributed to me, under which you sought me, and the false beliefs and misconceptions in which humanity has walked for so many centuries are being erased from you.

30. The spirit, by his gifts, will be able to rise until it reaches its perfection. But I am the Teacher who has always come to help you in your journey so that your life is not sterile.

31. If you become men of good will, your life will come to harmonize with the perfection of all creation, you will reach the light of true knowledge and the fruit of your works will serve you with eternal peace. Your physical part is substance that will come to be diluted into atoms at creation. You have felt this, but the immortal life of the spirit is incomprehensible to many; they understand only what their eyes see or their science verifies. Where are those who have dwelt with you in this life? You don't know. If anything, you can imagine that they are dwelling in a mansion of light, to which the Master tells you: Many of them are close to you. The spirit has power, both to occupy the place that the Father has assigned him in the hereafter, and to carry out at the same time a mission with you. This is the strength of the spirit.

Love one another!

32. You have not yet understood these lessons, but in order to achieve the development of this faculty, it would be necessary that what I told you in the Second Time be fulfilled in you: "It is necessary that man, in order to attain my grace, resemble the child in his purity".

33. But don't feel alone anymore. In every work that man performs there is the intervention of a spirit of light. The spiritual world works in human minds and guides them. That world is greater and more beautiful than this one that you contemplate with your eyes. It is a world of light and perfect harmony. Its inhabitants are with Me, they watch over creation in union with me.

34. And knowing and having faith in these teachings, can you continue to regret that the beings you loved in the world have left for the hereafter, when you know that they are watching over you? Why do you remember them in their human form, if they are now only spiritual essence?

35. Today I have told you about what you call the mystery of the afterlife.

36. Only I can reveal these lessons to you; men cannot do it because they have not penetrated the arcanum.

37. I had to prepare you so that you could enter my sanctuary to listen to one more of my lessons, because I see that you are needing to impress your senses first, so that your spirit could rise, your eyes were looking for the image that could tell you about my presence, your ears were waiting for the musical notes of the hymns to strip the heart of earthly worries, and even the incense and the aroma of flowers were necessary for you to be able to think about Me, even for a few moments. But since you loved the whole of that liturgy only inside the temples dedicated to that cult, outside of them you were unable to conceive or even feel my presence. On the other hand, now, your spiritual preparation, instead of starting by developing the senses of your matter, has begun by the awakening of your spirit, to come to an end as far as matter is concerned.

38. It is no longer your eyes that come in search of an image that can represent the Divinity for you; it is no longer your ears that come in search of those musical notes that you needed to make you momentarily forget the attractions of the world; you no longer expect to attend the celebration of a rite, to come to believe that only in that act and in that place am I present.

39. The only thing that worries you today is how to clear your mind, how to cleanse your heart so that you can receive, feel and understand the divine essence of my word; and you know that there is no better means for this than meditation and prayer.

Love one another!

40. Today any object that was placed before your eyes would come to hinder you, and the best music would seem to you too poor next to the heavenly concert of my word, and instead of helping you in your elevation, they could come to disturb you. You do not need or want anything from the outside, that is why your eyes have become accustomed to closing during the time when you are receiving my manifestation, because the spirit, in the supreme desire to rise, would like to divest itself of all contact with the material.

41. Yesterday the altar that you had raised to my Divinity was outside of you, now you have raised it inside the heart. Your offering, which for a long time had been material, you have now exchanged for a spiritual manifestation. You know that your love is more beautiful in my sight than the most beautiful flower in your gardens, and that the forgiveness you grant to a fellow human being has more value before Me than the tribute with which you used to think you washed your stains

42. I listen to you in silence, I don't need you to have to move your lips. I am not the sinner who is listening to another sinner. I am in Spirit, and it is your spirit that I am listening to, and it is he who is trying to rise up and communicate with Me.

43. Many have listened to my word in this time, but not all have had it as a truth. Certainly not everyone has reached the moment when they can understand this doctrine. In all times, many have been called and few have been chosen, for that cause that I remind you today; it is for this reason that only those who have time to understand, to feel or to believe, are those who have stayed and are preparing to follow me. Sometimes you see that your brothers arrive with the appearance of being very advanced spiritually and understand my doctrine of love; then you see that they did not accept as truth the one they received from my word, and it is that human intelligence is not the one that can discover me first, it is the spirit when love exists in him. Do not confuse one with the other. On the other hand, other times you see some of your brothers arrive before my manifestation, who seem rude and too materialized, of whom you do not even remotely entertain a hope that they can come to feel my word, and you have been amazed at their sensitivity and the Understanding that you see that they have reached; it is that they, on the outside, on the human side, are clumsy, but instead they have achieved a very great spiritual development inside.

44. Not always those who have believed, have awakened at the first instant to faith. Almost everyone has struggled inwardly. I have surprised in your heart these or similar questions: Will it be true? Is it possible for me to find the presence of the Lord here? Is it possible that here I will find relief for my ills for so long considered incurable and when they have received the miracle, some have still asked me: Would He be the One who healed me? But there have also been many who, from the first moment they came to hear my voice, have believed and there have even been those who, even before they heard my word, already believed in it.

45. What has tortured the minds of many men the most is poverty, the humility in which I have come to manifest myself, because they were used to the splendor of the rites and the wealth squandered in material temples; but I tell you, just as at that time I came to judge the vanity of men by making my humility present to them, now fleeing from false splendors, I wanted to appear not only among the poor, but among sinners.

46. Tomorrow, when people are calm enough to study the form of my manifestation and compare it with the prophecies contained in the scriptures and analyze the environment in which I presented myself and in which my manifestation took place, the nation I chose and the people I called, they will come to the absolute understanding that everything was done perfectly and that in everything the prophecies were faithfully fulfilled

47. Here I am speaking to men again, speaking to them with my divine essence, but with words and concepts within the reach of their understanding, and while some believe in Me only because of the divine essence they find in my word, others need those who you call miracles, to come to believe. For this reason I tell you that you are the same people, those of the Second Time who presented me to their sick without possible human healing, in order to test my power.

48. I find you, some blind, some paralyzed, many lepers and others possessed by troubled spirits. I am going to heal you all, and truly I tell you that no one will perish, but I must also warn you that you must be prepared, because the miracles of this time, more than in the body, I come to do them in your high spirit.

49. Lazarus will not be the only one through whom I will make you know the resurrection; I will raise all the dead.

50. Multitudes: Here you have my word; you can believe or not believe in it, love me or not love me, but in truth I tell you, this time will never return, that these lessons of wisdom, these divine practices, you will never hear them in this form again. After 1950, if you want to listen to me, you will penetrate in spirit to the afterlife. Remember that I said to you, "My kingdom is not of this world."

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

1. Welcome are all those disciples who come to Me to increase their knowledge. Happy and blessed are all those who want to see clearly the truth of my teachings. You do well to want to tear the veil that covers your spiritual eyes. There is great responsibility in all those who make no effort to penetrate deeper into the mysteries of my arcanum.
2. When will they become completely bored with the pleasures that the flesh has been providing them with? How long will they come to realize that these pleasures have been preventing them from delighting in the graces of the spirit? They are vassals of the kingdom of sin, they are slaves of their passions and they go through the world like the deaf, the blind, the paralyzed and lepers without realizing their mistakes. When someone comes to understand that his spirit is sick, he does not know how to look for the balm in the light that radiates from my Spirit.
3. The blind are leading the blind; this is how I see many of the nations of the world, quite a few peoples of the earth. Virtue has been weakened and good feelings have been lost; the human heart, which should be the one that inspires all noble feelings and all high thoughts, today has become a source of selfishness, vices and errors.
4. How strange is it that your Lord, who loves you infinitely, should now come to you to give you the weapons with which you will have to fight the evil that is reigning in all beings?
5. Certainly, my doctrine is a weapon, a sword of light that touches the heart and reaches the most sensitive of man. The will to overcome evil is what you need, and that strength for your spirit comes from my word. The greatest and noblest battle, in which I want to see you conquerors, is the one that you are going to hold against yourselves, to come to dominate your passions, selfishness and voluptuousness. From power to power and inside you will be where that great battle is fought.
6. On the one hand there is goodwill, reason, justice and charity; on the other the insane human passions will rise up; it will be the light that will triumph over the darkness; if I knew that it would not be like this, I would not allow you to engage in a useless and sterile struggle for your spirit.
7. When you think of the patriarchs, the prophets or my apostles, do not judge them as extraordinary beings, because they were all formed of the same essence with which you were created, but those were beings who strove to remain on the path of light, to conform to the truth, always respecting my law and to live in the good; their will did not weaken, that is why they left works that are an example for their brothers.

Love one another!

8. Do you see that humanity that runs after pleasures, comforts or simply after daily bread, indifferent to the gifts of the spirit, insensitive to the truths that reveal eternal life to you? Then you will see them running eagerly after the spiritual sanctuary, to become workers of the true temple.

9. It is in my divine word that men will find the light that teaches them to use the strength that the spirit keeps and to walk firmly along the path of trials that is life. He who looks at my light, never treads falsely or stumbles.

10. It is necessary that you analyze my word, because if you do not, you will see mysteries where the Master spoke to you with clarity and perfection. God has no mysteries for man. What has happened is that sometimes you have not wanted to penetrate the light and sometimes you wish to know the revelations before their due time. The mire in which man has fallen is the reason that many of my teachings have not been able to interpret properly, despite the fact that it is time for him to understand them.

11. What have you learned from your religions? What is the use of saying that you profess this or that, if your life is not subject to the fulfillment of the maxims that she advises, nor do you try to approach Me through them?

12. If you want to know if you are fulfilling the divine law, ask yourself if you are gathering a harvest of love in the world.

13. I have much to tell you about at this time, so that you may understand that I am ready to give you my glory; but for this you must free your spirit because he will be the one who receives me. Then you will see me and feel me.

14. A covenant of peace will be made between men of good will, but I warn you not to wait to be in the spiritual mansion to make that covenant. The merit is that here, where the world received the blood of the Lamb as a seed of love, you offer to your Father the tribute of gratitude and his best pledge: your obedience, loving one another.

15. Believe in the immortality of the spirit. I tell you this, because there are those who believe that death, in those who persist in sin, will destroy their existence and banish them from eternal life, leaving them subject to eternal punishment as well.

16. Those who form such a concept are those who have misinterpreted some of my revelations, mistaking them in their meaning. If that were true and possible, it would be as much as declaring the defeat of love, good and justice. What purpose would it have had then that he had humanized me, my passion, my death and my presence as a man among you? Do not forget that I came for sinners, for the sick, for slaves, for the hungry, for the lost.

17. Your spirit possesses the eternal life that was transmitted to it by the Divine Spirit, and the only thing that will die in it will be the envelope, the flesh, which it will leave in order to rise. He will also see sin die, if he carries it with him, and the darkness of ignorance will fall from him as lifeless fruit; but the spirit, after each of those deaths that he will experience in himself, without dying, will rise stronger, more conscious, more luminous and pure.

18. Have you experienced in your life any material passion that would have embraced your whole being, depriving you of listening to the voice of conscience, morality and reason? It is when the lowest spirit has fallen, because it is then that the temptations and the strength of the evil beast that dwells in the flesh, have dominated it. And is it not true that you experienced a profound joy and peace when you managed to free yourself from that passion and overcame its influence?

19. This peace and this joy are due to the triumph of the spirit over matter, a triumph achieved at the cost of an immense struggle, of a bloody internal battle; but it was enough that the spirit gained strength and stood up induced and advised by conscience, that by subjecting the impulses of the flesh he got rid of continuing to let himself be dragged into the abyss. There, in that struggle, in that renunciation, in that battle against yourselves, you saw something that dwelt inside you die, without it being your life; it was just an insane passion.

20. Understand, then, that when man comes to be guided by the inspiration of conscience and subjects all his acts to the higher command, it will be as if a new man were born within him, the one for whom death does not exist, because he will consider matter only as the necessary envelope for his spirit and when he must go to inhabit his true abode, the body will have to descend to the bosom of the earth to go and merge with it.

21. I tell you that eternal death does not exist, much less could eternal atonement exist. Only that which is superfluous, the useless, the evil dies and the atonement must cease when purification has been achieved. I already told you at that time that nothing in my work would be lost, I also told you that none of my little ones would be lost and I also revealed to you the immortality of the spirit saying to you: "I am life, whoever believes in Me will never die.

22. Beloved people: Close your human eyes and feel my presence on the cloud. You hear a man's voice, it is the one that transmits the spokesman of which I am using to send you my vibration; but if you rise spiritually, you will feel my spiritual presence. O blessed Third Time, in which every eye will be able to behold its Lord! Idolatry will fall to the ground and men will come to know the truth in all its fullness.

Love one another!

23. To start this time I wanted to communicate by your own understanding, so that you feel closer to me, more intimately, more yours. Also in the Second Half I approached men by coming to be born next to them, living by their side, sharing their pains and suffering in their sight.

24. Today the multitudes awaken to my new word and form a people among themselves. It is mostly made up of the poor of the earth, those whom you name disinherited, but who in reality do not lack any of the gifts that the Holy Spirit has given you. Before my doctrine, these men have awakened from their lethargy and have realized how much they carry in themselves. Then a spiritual development has begun in them and their rudeness has begun to disappear, intuition has arisen illuminating their being; inspiration has caressed their mind, clairvoyance has illuminated their sight at the moment of their prayer, allowing them to uncork the veil of the spiritual and also revealing to them something of what the future holds. The gift of healing, whether with the simple word, with the anointing or even with the thought, has sprung from the innermost depths of his heart and many more gifts have become manifest in the humble disciples of this work.

25. It is that they, possessing nothing on earth, feeling inherited by their Father, have put all their heart and enthusiasm at the service of this cause, discovering in this way many of the graces that their being treasured and that they ignored.

26. How were men to discover the gifts that his spirit possessed, if his heart was eager to possess only the riches of the earth?

27. If men had known how to pray, if they had understood that I know the language of the heart, that I understand the needs of his spirit, that I know how to understand even his slightest desire, that I know how to interpret his thought, no matter how confusing it may seem, they would have raised their prayer to the Creator; But man is worldly and has materialized his worship and his spiritual evolution; but how to make humanity understand its mistakes? Sending you a people who are spiritualized, whose children live in that higher morality that is what my doctrine teaches.

28. Humanity with its science, with its sin, with its wars, with its doctrines and materialism, has defied divine justice, and when its offenses have been greater, only punishment could wait; But look how I have responded, sending to men my divine light, which is consolation, revelation, forgiveness and peace, to enlighten them and help them in their evolution.

29. Man has filled with bitterness a cup that he will later have to drink, and verily I tell you that he will obtain light through that pain; but I bring to your heart a light that will come sweetly to you, that will convince your spirit through love and true wisdom.

Love one another!

30. Multitudes who find yourselves hearing this voice, rejoice in the thought that you were destined to contemplate my light in this time of great spiritual struggles.

31. Do not sleep, because I am not only speaking to you through these spokespersons. I speak to you at any moment when you have your spirit at peace and it can rise in communion with Me.

32. So that you can use your heart as a guide, let him polish it first so that you receive divine inspiration from his feelings.

33. Not only do you call on me, but also your brothers and sisters through different religions are calling on their God. I come not only to you; I, the Consoling Spirit, come to give peace to every afflicted heart and spirit.

34. The man forged in his mind an image of the love of Jesus and traced it on a canvas, giving it the human form, since it could not represent the Spirit of the Creator.

35. From all men, from all peoples throughout the ages, I have always received his worship, his holocausts, rites and sacrifices, because it is the intention and not the fact that is valid for Me.

36. Certainly the images that men have made of Me are imperfect, but I do not stop to contemplate the figure by which they recognize me, but it is the intention of their purpose that reaches Me.

37. However, how pleasing it will be for the Father to contemplate humanity practicing spirituality, like this people who are beginning to take their first steps, divesting themselves of the superficial and exterior to feel that you really carry me in your heart, that I am in your purpose when you try to do a good work. That I am in your thoughts when you try to communicate with Me.

38. Who can doubt, when listening to this voice, that the greatness of God is manifesting itself in the smallness of a human body? Will it be more pleasing to God to manifest Himself in a bread, which is inanimate matter, than through his own children, of man created in my image and likeness and considered as the most perfect being of creation? How is the light, the Divine Spirit, not to be manifested through the beloved creature made in his image and likeness? It is no wonder that God can manifest Himself through the mind of man. But this humanity is incredulous and distrustful, because it has often been wounded in its most sacred feelings. That's why he only hears and does not listen.

39. It is necessary to chisel the human heart again with the chisel of love, so that feelings of fraternity and nobility may spring from it.

Love one another!

40. The human heart has hardened so much that it is not moved by the pain or misfortune of a fellow human being and needs to feel the pain of others and understand why he suffers, so that he can advance on his path of evolution.

41. When a man limits himself to judging his brother, he is only confused, but when he tries to understand the reason for his grief with the noble purpose of giving him help, the hidden origin of that pain will be revealed to him, which he will then be able to calm down.

42. How many make their life unbearable for lack of spiritual faith, because they think that the physical world is the only one that exists and doubt that there is a spirit, because for them nothing can prove it! These and other sad reflections lead them to despair and even to death.

43. On this teaching will rest the first lesson that you give to your future disciples. You will give them the opportunity to climb from the first rung of their path of evolution. You will reveal to them that the Father, in his infinite love and in his perfect justice, grants to each spirit as many material existences as are necessary for its perfection; that some matters will suffer more than others, that there will be lives full of well-being and others of bitterness and atonement.

44. Those subjects that live without pain or great trials, are what have led many ignorant and nonconformists to call me unfair.

45. These cases will abound on your way and you will be in charge of giving the clarification. They will ask you if it is true that there is a reward or punishment after this life, to which you will answer that as long as the spirit has not reached the sufficient elevation to dwell in the spiritual valley, he will have to incarnate on this earth, going through each existence according to the advancement of the previous one; sometimes it will be to gather a good harvest, others to pay off some debt or conclude a work begun.

46. And when the spirit has traveled all the way pointed out to him as his destiny on earth, he will be able to rise to the spiritual mansion where he will find the continuation of the path that will lead him to eternal grace, to the bosom of the Lord.

47. You will not leave dark or confusing spots. You will not convince everyone, but you will be guided even by the doubt of unbelievers, knowing their thoughts in order to fight others whom you will later encounter.

48. And truly I tell you that my teaching will be for humanity like the awakening on a spring morning, like the dew that fertilizes the fields, today that the world is a field of death, arid and dry.

Love one another!

49. Reach out to all in my name. Who can deny the sweet name of Jesus if it was my sacrifice for all?

50. Make your brothers feel that you are at the foot of the mountain waiting for the life-giving teaching of your Master, because my word is life for your spirit.

51. I prepare the table with white tablecloths and on it I lay the fruits of the tree of life, so that your spirit may be strengthened.

52. The light of the Holy Spirit comes to deliver your spirit from darkness, because you have lost your way, you are confused and you have died to the life of grace.

53. You have fallen into idolatry, O beloved people, into disobedience and ingratitude; you have left the light to penetrate the darkness, you have put off the white garment, and you have drunk turbid waters instead of crystal clear water and with them you have poisoned yourselves.

54. In the Second Time I came to become a man to teach you to love and forgive, I came to give you an example of humility and meekness. As a teacher I gave you my teaching. But the times have passed and you have fallen into confusion.

55. O people, whom I have chosen from among all mankind! I came to look for you and I found you in the catacombs, I found you in the desert feeding the seven sins. Today I come like a good shepherd looking for you on all roads and paths, saving you from the precipice. And you have listened to me and have felt me and have received from Me everything that your spirit needed. I have given you proofs of love, I have enlightened you and I have given you the book of my teaching in abundance.

56. Come, my people, ascend the mountain step by step; by climbing it you will feel in communion with your Father and you will be able to taste the fruit of the tree of life. A spring of crystal clear water descends from the top of the mountain to quench your thirst.

57. Israel of the Third Time: Are you listening to your Teacher who teaches you and prophesies, for what, beloved people? So that with my divine grace you may awaken from the lethargy in which you find yourselves.

58. He who has eyes let him see, he who has a brain let him analyze, and he who has ears let him listen to his Master. You are the ones that my index has pointed out, the dead to whom I have given life, the blind to whom I have restored sight, the lost to whom I have been guiding with my light and the shipwrecked to whom I have shown the saving boat.

59. Behold the banquet that the Father has prepared for the "prodigal son," the one who was lost, whipped by the gales and hurrying the cup of bitterness.

Love one another!

60. Feel me and let me dwell in your heart and tell you as I said to my disciples in the Second Time: "Take and eat, for this is this is my body". Thus I say now to you in this Third Season: Take and eat, for this is my word.

61. Beloved disciples, the year 1950 is approaching when I will stop speaking to you in this way, but by then I tell you, you will have received my word in abundance and you will rise up in imitation of your Master, you will be like a beacon before humanity and you will pour out charity on your brothers.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 187

1. Come and eat the bread of eternal life at the Master's table. The angels have prepared the feast and your Father welcomes you all. Eat and drink, but know how to appreciate the heavenly taste of these delicacies, and do not behave like some who sit at my table, eat, drink and then leave without having come to know with whom they have been.
2. The bread that I come to offer you today is the same one that I brought you in the Second Time; look for the essence in both and you will find that it is the same, that of my divine love.
3. I come to save you as I did in the Second Half and to all who want to follow me, I say: "Take up your cross and follow in my footsteps". They know well that the cross is one of humility, love, charity, renunciation and sacrifice; whoever takes it, already knows the path he must follow. I have deceived no one by telling them that my path is strewn with roses, because I want my soldiers to follow me out of love and faith.
4. I know that after showing my children the truth of my doctrine, those who follow me will be faithful and sincere in all the acts of their life; among my faithful there will be no paid servants, but only fervent disciples and disinterested followers.
5. If anyone were to come to interpret this play crookedly and use it for petty ends, he will give himself the title of traitor and his conscience will be his own judge.
6. You have already had a painful and sad example in one of my disciples of the Second Time, so that you may avoid him and for no reason try to imitate him, because it is not fair that after having been among the number of my faithful children, someone has to be absent to hide his fault that has stained him, like Judas when he left the upper room, realizing that he was not worthy to stay one more moment among those who were going to give their lives to bear witness to the truth revealed by the Divine Master. Those who followed me at that time did so out of love for my cause. Now I want you who come after my doctrine to follow me too, but not guided by human interests or by the misunderstood fear of my righteousness. I want you to be inspired only by love for your fellow human beings, since in it you are loving and fulfilling your Father and Creator.
7. If I wanted it to be fear that convinced you, it would be enough for me to wish it, so that the elements would be unleashed and thus demonstrate to you that I am the only powerful one; but I want the merits achieved by humility, faith and love to accumulate in each of you.

Love one another!

8. This is a new time, and that is the reason why you are receiving new lessons, because the facts of the first times, as humanity expects, will not be repeated in this era; that would be as if time had stood still and humanity was repeating the same lesson.

9. Soldiers of Jesus, this is what I call you, because I am entrusting my cause to you. Analyze my doctrine so that you may be certain of this truth; lest, when confidence comes to you, you become lethargic and tomorrow theologians will surprise you with questions, although what I have now shown you does not contain any mystery. The arcanum has been opened before your spirit so that you may know your Father more and more. What object would it have that I should come with mysteries before you? Could you call these mysteries revelations?.

10. I promised you the Spirit of Truth, who would come to you to clarify my past lessons and now I can tell you that in this word I have come to give everything that corresponds to this time.

11. Know how to be my disciples by listening attentively to my lessons, meditating deeply on them and later putting them into practice.

12. My children, while you recognize me by my word, I recognize you by your deeds.

13. Being gathered together you will learn my lesson better. The teaching is extensive, full of light, because it is the very love of the Father that is poured out in word. That's why you have to put all your will to fulfill as good preschoolers.

14. Your world is a desert, I am the oasis, you are thirsty pilgrims who have cried out to me, showing me all your thirst for justice and love. And I have sent my word to you as pure and crystalline water, sometimes it has been like manna, but it has always been the sustenance that strengthens your spirit in its long and heavy journey.

15. When the time comes, you will become oases that provide shade, water and freshness to the suffering pilgrim. In you those who suffer will heal their hearts, because I am turning you into balm.

16. This is the time of light, you are all clothed in it. This light will make man understand that in him there is an atom of the Divinity that is the spirit, whose intelligence guided by consciousness, will lead him to peace.

17. It is these gifts that free him from painful restitutions and allow him to raise the planes of perfect wisdom.

18. Throughout the ages I have contemplated many of my children who have renounced the pleasures that this world offers and have penetrated the path of my law to trace humanity a trace of examples and spiritual incentives. Those creatures, those beings who inhabited the earth like you and came only to bring their message of love and comfort, today dwell in the spiritual world and enjoy true peace.

19. I do not ask you to devote all your time to me, because I have entrusted you with duties and responsibilities on earth; but it is necessary that you understand that the human body that you love so much is nothing more than the cloak or envelope of the spirit; it is the matter in which all passions are aroused.

20. You have allowed that matter to be filled with imperfections and temptations that your mind forges, when you do not watch and pray.

21. I know that while you are in this world, your heart and your feelings will beat for it; but fight against everything superfluous, vain and frivolous. I do not advise you to shut yourselves up in cloisters, renouncing the world and dealing with your fellow men, because your love and service to my Divinity would be misunderstood. Do not aspire to be Puritans, forgetting that you are subject to comply with the laws of nature.

22. Comply with the laws to which the Creator has subjected you; some belong to the spirit, others to matter and I only command you to renounce the superfluous, vanity and hypocrisy.

23. O beloved disciples, who are attentive to the Master's lesson, see how my word awakens the faculties that were asleep in you.

24. You may well say that these are already the last moments of my stay among you in this form; they are precious moments, because when you remember them after my departure, you will be able to say: How much grace the Lord has granted us!

25. Now, beloved disciples, beware of falling into temptation; do not take the cause that it is not your turn to judge, let spirituality be reflected in you. I know that your struggle is arduous, that doing good is hard and bitter at times. Therefore, first I teach you to love and forgive your own in order to then send you among humanity.

26. Do not get tired, for the work for the spirit will never end. If now it seems to you a restitution or a punishment, when your spirit rises, he will receive it as a reward, because he will never tire of loving and sowing good.

27. Blessed is the prepared heart because it resembles the fragrant rose that exhales its perfume. Blessed is the thought of the man who has been able to rise to Me, because he contemplates spiritual beauties. Whoever knows how to raise his spirit, will do great works and his mind will know how to conceive and forge a better world.

28. I have come to prepare you so that you may rise up to build a world in which good reigns, because men at this time have contributed with their sins in one way or another to the destruction of the noblest and highest thing that can exist in the heart of humanity, spiritual love.

29. Do not pursue your comfort so much; leave that eagerness to want to secure tomorrow; leave your nonconformity. What do you want or expect from this world? You have already had glories, pleasures, compliments. Some of you have had everything, some of you have had a lot; however, I find you all naked with good deeds.

30. Ask yourselves if you have been fair to yourselves. You have intelligence, you have reason and free will; you are listening to my word; you cannot call yourselves ignorant. You have learned to look for me in the infinite, where there are no forms because like God I do not have them.

31. I am in yourselves. Why do men always have to look for me in that blue they call heaven? I can also tell you: I am beyond that sky. Seek Me with humility and respect and I will allow you to penetrate deep into my wisdom; moreover, what man has penetrated with his thought where the power of God is? No one, because no one knows the way or the ladder to reach Me, because he has ignored the voice of conscience.

32. Man still does not know his abode, the earth, the nature of which still reserves for him many surprises. And there are still many worlds like the one around you. But if creation, which is only part of my work, is not known, how is there anyone who pretends to know me through his science?

33. I am speaking to the spirit, who one day will cross the true path that leads to Me and will see my divine splendor.

34. Be the humble men of knowledge. Be men of peace.

35. You ask me to pour out my grace on you, because you know that my word is the only food for your spirit. It is that the life you are going through makes you fall at times. You carry the taste of bitterness on your lips, that is why I approach you to give you sweetness and caress in my word and quench your thirst with my love that fills everything; but there are men infinitely hungrier than you, that is why I leave you as depositories of my revelations, so that you may share my graces with them.

36. You must become teachers, but you must engrave in your heart my last lessons, one by one. You're not ready yet. If at this moment the Master called the most advanced to take his place speaking on his behalf, he would not feel capable and his fear would not let him even take off his lips.

37. And soon you will have to speak in this way, after 1950, when I have lifted up my word. Then you will have to overcome all your fear and make use of my strength so that you can fully enter into the fulfillment of your mission. The ecstasy that you have known today, through which I have spoken to you at this time, will no longer be necessary; it will be enough for you to rise up to Me, full of faith and listening to the voice of your conscience, so that the inspiration may be in your understanding.

38. You will teach the multitudes to help you with their thinking, their elevation and preparation; then you will take care that your word is really the bearer of a divine inspiration.

39. See how the form will change and everything will be simplified for a better understanding of humanity, because man wants clarity, he no longer wants to tire his mind in deciphering the lessons that he judges inexplicable. That is why in the last times of my communication I make my word more understandable so that you do not make mistakes.

40. Also in the Second Time the Master made his doctrine clearer in the last moments, because those last lessons would make it possible to understand all the past teachings.

41. To you I say: I want all your actions to be a flash of the truth, because the doctrine that I have come to deliver to you is like crystal clear water. Do not present anything confusing about my work to men, because everything has a clear explanation and a reason for being. Everything that you give must be without fear of the world; in this way all those who have deceived their brothers with illicit manifestations, will recognize their error and only those who with good intention and good preparation are willing to give humanity my truth, my charity and my peace will remain at my service. Truly I tell you, the weeds that grow in hearts will be cut off from the fertile fields; only in this way will humanity know the true work of the Holy Spirit.

42. You will find all my disciples scattered throughout the world, because everyone who is spiritual in their way of living and worshipping me is a spiritualist.

43. The unification of religions will be, when the spirit of humanity rises above materialism, traditions, prejudices and fanaticism; then men will have united spiritually in a single cult: The good for the love of God and neighbor. When this is the case, humanity will enter a period of perfection. That is why I ask you to show my work through good and pure acts. Do not worry about not getting to contemplate the realization of all this; but you will achieve the satisfaction of having contributed with your sowing to the establishment of the kingdom of peace, a sowing that will bear fruit in the hearts of the generations of tomorrow.

44. Prepare yourselves sowers of my field, for the fields are ready to receive the seed of my doctrine.

Love one another!

45. The day is not far off when you will see the multitudes who are looking for you, crossing the seas in pursuit of what the Master gave you for them. This continent will welcome you with fraternity and peace. The races will mix, it will be the unification of men, because their customs and ideas will intertwine and that will bring a true and perennial peace. A new world will arise; the one you are living in now is one of preparation. The struggle needs to be great so that more time will come, because the ideas that prevail today cannot be erased in an instant. There needs to be a time between these two worlds: the one you live in, which will disappear and the tomorrow that will remain.

46. You are already in the most difficult time of struggle, that is why I have come to guide you, so that you can contemplate that world of tomorrow; I give you the necessary strength to realize your purpose and I bless humanity.

47. Blessed are you, because you seek to increase your knowledge to discover the highest and you long to see clearly, penetrating the spiritual path, but you will not be able to fully know my teaching, until you drop the blindfold that covers your eyes.

48. Man is responsible for his spiritual backwardness, because being endowed with reason and conscience, he makes no effort to rise to the plane that corresponds to him; he abandons himself and takes the pleasures of the flesh, sacrifices his spirit, falls ill and crawls like a paralytic without having the slightest desire to be cured of his evil.

49. My teachings and my sacrifice have served very little, because after the centuries I see with sadness that the blind guide the blind and the paralyzed try to give impetus to the paralyzed. I find that most men are fragile, only weak creatures, and it is because you do not want to live as I have taught you; you let the passions dominate you and germinate in your heart, hurting you.

50. You are endowed with great attributes and you do not make good use of them. I have placed intelligence and will at the service of the spirit, so that you may be masters of your actions, of your life and good legislators, so that in that struggle that you sustain between the spirit and the flesh, you may overcome and win the battle. When you succeed, you will be the good prophets, the ones who will guide the multitudes, the men of good will. Then you will not fear the struggle, for you will have overcome yourselves; you will feel strong and you will see each other with respect and love, even the inferior beings, those little brothers, who will become your friends.

51. Do not believe that the prophets of old, whom you call great men, those who achieved liberation, were strong and elevated only because that is what they were destined for, but because they fought and forged the true temple of peace and love. But those who strive most to attain the truth are also prone to fall into errors; but by their elevation they have distinguished good from evil, and they reject any enemy, managing to make the light that is in them triumph.

52. That principle of life that is in you, that light, comes from my Divine Spirit and is possessed by every man without understanding what it is worth. Therefore he has despised this treasure; and having been endowed with great attributes to be immortal, he divests himself of them, willingly sacrifices himself and loses his strength. I let him feel and know the consequences of his error, so that later with his effort and experience he may regain his dignity and seek fulfillment and the joys of the spirit, leaving the joys perishable forever.

53. What do you need to always live within my laws? Using your strength and energy, work as my true disciples to overcome the darkness that has invaded the world.

54. I want you to understand my truth and to know that I have no mysteries or secrets for you, that if you prepare yourselves at this time, you will come to practice the true worship of my Divinity. You say that you practice the law and that you believe in Me, but your deeds say the opposite. Today you are knowing my will and my commands, but the day will come when you are ready, then I will communicate my glory to you, I will make a covenant with you and there will be peace in this world.

55. At that moment you will recognize me as the only Lord and you will love each other as brothers, without any distinction. But if today you want to be my true disciples, it will not be necessary for you to leave the earth in order to feel strong and clean. From this dwelling place that you inhabit, you will see my promises fulfilled, because everything will be fulfilled.

56. The table is set, sit down, take your places; let me lead and serve you. Take with me the bread of truth; enlighten yourselves with the light of love and sing praises to your God.

57. Listen to what a beautiful harmony; your love song reverberates in the heavens and the voice of the angels joins yours.

58. Give me your sorrows, give me your sorrows, and remember them no more.

59. Just as you are with Me at this moment, so I want humanity to come to Me; I am waiting for it. Be clean wherever you go, so that my doctrine will not be attacked, but recognized by all for the fruits it offers.

60. My divine word vibrates, more than in your ear, in your consciousness. I give you my lesson so that in the future you can be teachers; but you must know the principle of my teaching so that you can talk about it and that principle is love. Even more, I tell you that it is not enough, to know only that principle, it is necessary to possess it, to feel it. How can you speak of charity when you have not felt it for your fellow men?

61. If in my teachings I often repeat the word love to you, it is that I can do it, because I really love you.

62. I have told you, disciples, that tomorrow you will be the teachers; this will be when you love your fellow men. See that my word, like a fine chisel, polishes you little by little, it touches your understandings, either the fibers of the heart or through the conscience, so that its light illuminates you.

63. Thus I speak to your human part to make it docile and submissive to your conscience, which is the one that truly guides the steps of man on earth, it is she who has the strength and the light.

64. Today I contemplate the man stationed on the spiritual path; he has entered the paths of science, power and passions. Do you think that if he had not stopped in his spiritual evolution, which is to approach love, goodness and truth, he would have lit the bonfire of war?

65. The time of spirituality has arrived and if men resist contemplating my light, they will be confused, because even nature itself will have manifestations that they could not understand.

66. Do not fulfill me out of fear of my justice, nor out of obligation. What will be the merit of your work, if you do not do it of your own free will? You know that you have to come to Me on your own merits. You have already known the world and its pleasures and they only weakened you and overshadowed your spirit. But do not be mistaken in believing that I have come to forbid you good and just works, to which you are bound on earth and which you need at every step.

67. I love you all, I do not distinguish you by races; but as long as man does not recognize himself as a spirit rather than as a man, he will think himself superior to his brothers, and discord and war will exist.

68. The universal language of my word, the essence of which is love, will be heard by all men and he will be the one who unites them to each other and to their Father.

69. Wake up, O people, because your struggle will begin after the year 1950 when my word will have ceased through these spokesmen. And you and your children and later their children will make my doctrine indelible in the heart of humanity.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 188

1. Come, beloved disciples, behold the Master. You recognize me by the essence of my word, I recognize you by your actions.
2. In the world my disciples will be recognized for the purity of their works, and when they come before my presence, full of good fulfillment, I will tell them: You are indeed my disciples, because you have practiced what I taught you.
3. Strive to achieve spirituality, because it means the liberation of the spirit. Conform to my laws that are loving and infallible and they will govern your life, because everything that surrounds you, whether material or spiritual, lives within my law.
4. Man, who is a perfect work within creation, must live according to the grace that the creator has placed in him.
5. I do not come to tell you to depart from the obligations of the world, instituted by Me for your preservation, satisfaction and perfection. Be equitable and just by giving what is necessary to your spirit and your body.
6. I have made man free from the beginning, but his freedom has always been accompanied by the light of conscience; despite this, he has ignored the voice of his inner judge, moving away from the path of the law, to the point of creating those fratricidal, bloody and monstrous wars, in which the son has risen up against the Father, because he has separated himself from every feeling of humanity, charity, respect and spirituality.
7. Men should already flee from destruction, from wars and avoid a painful restitution; know that if they do not manage to purify themselves in the good before reaching Me, I will have to send them back to this valley of tears and blood, because whoever walks in the opposite direction to perfection, will not be able to reach Me.
8. How can this word reach humanity? In the way in which I sent her in times past, through emissaries, prophets and disciples.
9. I am preparing you to send my teachings and revelations to all places on earth.
10. If you are ignorant today, tomorrow you will be recognized. The mission of the new apostles will be to rebuild morality among this humanity. This fight will be intense.
11. Pray always that you may attain strength; practice that you may attain perfection. Watch, for the spirit is being stalked by the beast of evil in a thousand forms.

Love one another!

12. I let my words fall into your heart like dewdrops that give it life, but if you could understand what I am saying to you, how clearly you would look at the way. I pour my peace and my light on your thoughts, because also through him you will reach Me.

13. Come and listen to my lesson that the Master is coming to give you in spiritual language, in the universal language of love, which brings men closer to their Creator.

14. It is my word as a new dawn of peace for your spirit, as a ray of light that illuminates your path. You have heard this voice a lot and you are already understanding its meaning.

15. I am manifesting myself in all humanity, because it is the time when everyone will know spirituality, the time of spiritual communion. The Christ of love is pouring himself into his children so that they may attain their salvation.

16. There are many who, without having listened to me at this time, like you, are seeking the same end that you are pursuing, because they feel that the time has come for the spirit's struggle to communicate with his Heavenly Father. In the Second Time I gave you to understand that there would come a stage when humanity would know and develop the communication of thoughts and would receive my wisdom through intuition and inspiration. Then a Pharisee came up to me and said, "If you are the Son of God, tell me what He is like; if you are sent from the Father, tell me what the Father is like."; and I answered him like this: "He who knows the Son knows the Father, because I come from Him."

17. Verily, I have always been in man, but in order to feel it is necessary not to let yourselves be carried away by the instincts of matter. When humanity wakes up and wakes up analyzing what I have revealed to it, it will know the meaning of life and the mandate that exists in it. It will be then that he will begin to stop feeling the pains and the vicissitudes, because he will have put his powers and senses at the service of the spirit.

18. If the life of Jesus, the Nazarene, is known to everyone, here is an example for you to follow a path in which I am the structure of the world you inhabit and the air you breathe. I am the force that makes man rise to a higher life, since this world is not only a valley of tears, it is also, although temporarily, the place where you can have satisfactions, joy and peace.

19. Know Me and you will know yourselves.

20. You see how humanity has passed through this world, always purifying itself through pain; and it is that you have not known how to approach Me, having always had my light that tells you about the transience of this life and the immortality of the spirit. That is why I speak to you today in a spiritual language, making use of your human language to make me understand.

Love one another!

21. By listening, you have understood and advanced, because you no longer hear or see these manifestations only in the material part, that is, superficially, but you analyze them in search of their essence. You no longer perceive in your ear the sound of the voice of the one through whom I speak to you, because the divine echo of my word has found resonances in the innermost depths of your spirit and of your heart. Here is another transfiguration of my Divinity, because I, the "Word" of the Father, communicating in this way, make your mind, which is finite, able to communicate with the infinite mind of the Father.

22. Your spirit, who, upon receiving my grace, feels dignified, tells me: Lord, you come to our hearts as a true outpouring of love.

23. Truly I tell you, if in this way you are already understanding and living my teaching, you are reaching spirituality, because you leave vanities and superfluous satisfactions, by coming to listen to the heavenly concert.

24. Analyze what I show you. Look at how men of science, searching the human body, have marveled at its perfection; and if that body, which is a passing being in this life, contains such prodigious perfection, do you imagine the greatness of the spirit, whose nature is immortal?

25. Marvel now at the immensity of the sea, at the dimensions of your planet, to bear in mind that you are more than all these wonders, because you possess a spirit that can be transported in an instant beyond those limits, and that when he is purified and dwells in the kingdom of the Father, all the worlds will be shown to him.

26. Whoever has listened to me loses the fear of returning to his origin and although he considers himself a single atom in the midst of creation, he feels the intimate joy of existing, because he is a son of the Heavenly Father.

27. When you leave this world, you will be like a drop of dew that continues to vivify everything created. I tell you: God, the Infinite, the Eternal, is in all creation, he is the essence that animates everything. In the creatures he contemplates all the beauty of his work and experiences the joy that exists in the fruits of his inspiration, because everything speaks of Him, everything glorifies Him and pays homage to Him.

28. In every manifestation of life He is, because He is the author of everything that exists. Meditate on this and you will understand that death does not exist.

29. Here is my lesson for this day, a lesson that, like all the ones I have given you, I want to be recorded in that book that will be an inheritance for generations to come: The Third Testament.

Love one another!

30. This is the Third Time in which you will take a step forward. The time when you sought me by means of symbols has passed. Now a new era is opening before your eyes, but not a new path. I have not come to destroy your seed or to confuse you with strange words. I am not telling you to ignore the spiritual message that I left you in the past times, I am just coming to continue my lesson that I had started, which I had left in its second part.

31. When at that time Christ appeared in the fullness of his human life to announce to men the coming of the kingdom, I surprised that people by celebrating rites and ceremonies, so I told them not to forget the law to fulfill the traditions; but then with my word and with my works I abolished all superfluous practices, to leave only the law of Moses in their hearts, because with my life, my works and my blood I taught you to fulfill it. But I also taught you new lessons, proper to the time when I came and in accordance with your spiritual development. That was the second part of the great book of my wisdom. I taught you a purer way of praying, so that it would make your love for God and your fellow human beings blossom.

32. At that time you recognized me as love; I made you know the reason for my coming; I revealed the spiritual life to you, I announced my new advent, the new time and I left you prepared so that when the moment arrived, you could receive my third lesson, the third part of this book that today is open before your spirit.

33. Today I return to the men in the midst of the rumors of war, of the events and signs with which I predicted my arrival to you; however, the men have not felt me.

34. In the midst of this silence, of this humility, in this corner of the earth I am making my word vibrate through the human understanding, calling men, awakening them to a new life, regenerating them with my persuasive and sweet teaching, awakening in them their dormant gifts, to raise them on the roads to imitate their Teacher.

35. I must tell you that at this time I found you involved in greater religious or idolatrous fanaticism than in any of the past, and at the same time your spirit more naked of virtues than ever. Now I ask you: After having listened to me for years and years through this communication, who feels that I have come to destroy his principles? Who thinks they feel confused or see their Christian faith destroyed? Verily I say to you, what I revealed to you in the earliest times, I have come to remind you, because you had forgotten or distorted it. That what men had hidden from you, I have come to bring to light and what I was keeping in my arcanum, I have come to reveal to you. This era is one of spiritual freedom; men are enlightened by conscience and will know how to choose the right path.

Love one another!

36. Through an environment where the darkness of materialism and sin float, my ray and my spiritual envoys have crossed.

37. You have meditated in these moments and you recognize, that in truth, you are not worshiping a different God from the one you worshiped yesterday; that no one has closed the doors of your heart to Mary, the Virgin and Universal Mother; that this doctrine has strengthened your faith and increased your knowledge in the immortal life of the spirit, and that those maxims of loving your neighbor as yourself, of loving one another, I have come to write in your spirit with the light of my word.

38. I have only come to remove from your heart the superfluous, that which did not allow you to progress. That is why I have just told you that I have come to grant you spiritual freedom, so that you can find me and feel me at any time or place, and instead of asking the world what he will not be able to answer you, you ask your Father spiritually and you received from his charity the bread of the spirit; so when you have offended your God in the person of your brother, you know how to forgive him if he offended you or you know how to ask forgiveness if you offended him; and I will forgive you, because to whom you have not offended, he will not be able to grant you forgiveness for the evil that you did to another.

39. Disciples: If you are no longer surprised that I have come among you at this time, do not be surprised either that the spiritual world will manifest itself among you.

40. From the beginning of the evolution of humanity, the Father promised the manifestation of the existence of that world, of that life. Truly I tell you, that world has always been in contact with man by my will. In your beginning I forbade humanity to invoke spirits, because the time had not come; neither incarnated nor disembodied were ready for that communication.

41. It is Elijah in this Third Time the precursor of my arrival, to whom I gave the key to open the doors of the spiritual world of light, so that its inhabitants would have access in the material world, as well as the men I allowed to penetrate into the afterlife, and there would be approximation, harmony and charity between one and the other.

42. Before my voice marked the moment for that communication, there were disobedient, curious and impatient people on earth who, desecrating the forbidden, became the precursors of another kind of communication where darkness and confusion have manifested themselves, because they were not ordered by my Divinity.

43. My work is another; until I considered you, capable and conscious to achieve these teachings, I came to bring you this great lesson, one of the greatest that I have given to this world, so that through the medium of the spirit you may learn to look, to interrogate, to understand and to discover. But in opening this horizon to you, I have taught you a law that forbids you to magnify yourselves by means of these gifts and to make profit or misuse of them. At this time and when you have penetrated into my doctrine, some have felt fear, others distrust, some even confusion and there has been no shortage of those who feel horror at the word spirit, without remembering that within himself he carries one given to him by his Creator, who is also Spirit. Who instilled that fear in you? Who made you dislike the spirit? Have you not meditated that that body or matter that you love so much, is only dust that will take to earth and you will only remain in spirit for an eternity? What will you do when you find yourself in that state? Will you run away from yourselves?

44. To help you in your mission, I grant you the necessary time for your study, and to alleviate your needs and sufferings I send you spiritual servants, true angels of charity, light and peace. Trust that this communication was not by the will of man but by divine inspiration.

45. Do not confuse this communication with that which men freely make at their own will, inspired some by science, others by curiosity and others by superstitions.

46. If you observe, you will find that these two manifestations are present among humanity, from the first man who, at the same time that he heard the voice of his Lord pointing him to the path of light, heard another voice that incited him to disobedience and pride. See from there the struggle of man under the influence of those two forces, that of good and evil. If since then man has known the natural law and feels enlightened by the light of conscience, from there he also feels the ambush of temptations.

47. I tell you all this to strengthen your faith and your knowledge. Do not disrespect my emissaries or spiritual messengers, because if you could contemplate the grace with which they are clothed, you would confess that not even Solomon in the splendor of his throne had the majesty of these servants.

48. What would the nations that bleed to death and perish under the plagues and famine say, because that world of peace and charity would appear among them and they could hear his voice of consolation and love?.

49. You call that force with which those beings heal your physical or moral ailments. And in truth, in that fluid is the balm; it is the same with which Jesus gave sight to the blind, movement to the paralytic, speech to the mute, with it he healed the leper and raised the dead.

50. No one comes clean before me, but if anyone comes clean, he will not come out of this way stained. At this time when Elijah, by divine command, came to open the doors of the hereafter to men, I will make humanity understand that this communication was not a desecration of those who practiced it, but a grace reserved by the Father for the men of this time and that it will be a precursor of spirit-to-Spirit communication, after 1950, when that grace is withheld from you.

51. Prepare yourselves so that after this time you will not fall into imposture, into mystification, because I still have many lessons in store to reveal to you; it will not be your imagination that forges false revelations or inspirations. Light will come to man from heaven, ready for him to speak my truth to his fellow men.

52. The time is approaching when men will abandon weapons, ambitions and hatreds, to go in search of the spiritual and from among the multitudes the apostles will arise whose word will be heard and his footprint followed. This will be in the time of the war of ideas, of religions and doctrines.

53. That battle will be great, more terrible than those that have been originated by the ambitions of earthly power, because peace will flee from hearts, minds will be obfuscated by the darkness of fanaticism and the voice of conscience and reason will not be heard. Fanaticism will stir to its depths and multiply its forces, raising temples and making ostentation, Some will succumb embraced to their idol, but others will open their eyes to the light and will be rescued from that abyss.

54. Today all these Prophecies seem very far away to you, however their fulfillment is near. The eyes of men will see idols, false gods and the great temples that have been the pride and vanity of religions fall from their pedestal; but it will not be you who publicly deny those who lie; that mission will be fulfilled by others. You will be prepared with the word, the heart and the mind, so that your spirit will work for the salvation of this humanity with true love.

55. Before the whirlwind unleashed you will not flee, nor will you seek the catacombs to hide, but you will remain serene in the midst of the hurricane. And you will see men awaken from their lethargy by drawing a comparison between one religion and another; and when they find human imperfection in everything, they will ask: What is spiritualism? Then my emissaries and apostles, without preaching or prevaricating, without flaunting in any way, will show the purity, simplicity and light of this doctrine, and the world will bow convinced of its truth.

56. There will be great struggles, you will be persecuted and slandered. You will find contradiction everywhere and sometimes great and reasoned arguments; but do not let yourselves be impressed by the word of men, because if it is not supported by works of truth, it will be only a vain word.

Love one another!

57. If you have confidence in Me and prepare yourselves, I will not leave you alone, I will speak through your mouth and you will be aware of the works that I do through you.

58. Humanity will begin to sense the true path and to seek me as I have hoped, with the spirit; whoever recognizes that he carries the Father in his own heart, will instantly cease to be the enemy of his own brother and fellow man. It will be when forgiveness, reconciliation, charity and fraternity arise

59. Then men will be able to say that they have seen Jesus, who has come down from his cross to say to the world: The blood that I have shed for your salvation has ceased to flow, I am here with you forever.

60. . People: I have received before my word the good and the wicked, men of all tendencies, those who love me and those who have turned their backs on me, because they are all my children, I love everyone equally and everyone will love and serve me too.

61. Today I come to join you all, since my spilled blood was not enough for you in the Second Half, because you were not able to carry out the work of fraternity and love that my doctrine came to teach you.

62. How long are you going to convince yourselves that only in the fulfillment of my law can you find health, happiness and life? You recognize that in material life there are principles to which you have to adhere in order to survive; but you have forgotten that also in the spiritual there are principles that it is necessary to respect, so that man can enjoy the source of eternal life that exists in the divine.

63. At this time the proud and the foolish, the materialized and the unbelievers will have to listen to me and in their heart that has been like barren land for my seed, I will sow again until flowers sprout from the rocks.

64. I will pour out the fountain of my grace on every spirit until I purify it; but it will no longer be the waters of the Jordan, but the light of my grace, of my justice, which, by touching those spirits, will awaken them so that they may listen to the voice of their conscience that will direct them to prayer, repentance and regeneration.

65. I am fulfilling what I promised you in the second Half. I announced it to you when I allowed you to understand through my word that an era of peace and spirituality would come. Now you are living in that era in which traditions, rites, ceremonies, symbols and images will be erased, your spirit will be freed from prejudices, fanaticism and idolatry to adopt the true worship of God.

Love one another!

66. When these words reach the ears of the materialists, they will smile in disbelief at my doctrine and at my prophecies, but never has man's skepticism hurt me.

67. In the Second Time it happened that when the good news of my teaching came to the great cities and the great empires like Rome, men also smiled to know that Jesus was a poor Galilean followed by a few fishermen, as poor and humble as He. Their taunts didn't hurt me, because I knew they didn't know me. They did not understand that my power lay precisely in that humility and that my strength was in that word full of love and justice, which seemed incomprehensible to many and others judged it impossible to put into practice.

68. When they learned that Jesus had died crucified as if it were an evildoer and that that death would serve as a lesson to his disciples and followers, they did not count on that blood to serve to fertilize the seed that had recently been sown.

69. Faith emerged from among the skeptics, sacrifice sprang up among the believers, the light of hope shone among the slaves, among the oppressed, and everywhere the divine teachings of the Redeemer were heard on the lips of men crying out for justice and speaking of love. A superior force enveloped the spirit of men of faith and that overflowing force was like a torrent that no human power could contain anymore.

70. It was an impetuous current that advanced from city to city and from county to county, that went down to the valleys and ascended the mountains, There was no home, whether it was a hut or a palace where that influence did not reach. It was the river of life that came to overflow over the dead fields, it was the always loving justice of your Father that came to men to wash their spirits and judge their deeds. When that torrent ceased to flow, a new world came to light, a new humanity appeared on earth and yet it was the same.

71. The light of a new teaching had brought her out of her lethargy, to help her take a step in the spiritual advancement that was leading her towards the perfect Being whom you call God and Father. That is why I tell you now, skeptical and materialistic men, that when you hear these rumors that I have been among men communicating with them through their understanding and when you come to learn about the teachings contained in my doctrine, you will not smile mockingly, nor will you judge as impossible human realization the teachings of my work, of this work that I am entrusting to you, because later it will hurt you to have resisted listening to it, when you see the flowering of it; rather, when you feel the force of the torrent hitting your doors, open them and let it in. I assure you that he will only take what he finds unclean, because whatever good there was in your life, he will respect it.

Love one another!

72. With this I give you to understand that you must learn to analyze the essence of this word, so that you may find out, little by little, of my truth as you deepen in it, because in that meditation you will come to convince yourself that the realization of many of the prophecies given in previous times, are indeed being realized, as well as many of the prophecies that my messengers delivered to you, when they announced to you the arrival of the Spirit of Truth, of the Spirit of Consolation.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

1. Humanity: I come to unify you; I contemplate you as if you were a people scattered throughout the world and I want to see you as one son. Here is a new page of the book of life, still unknown to my disciples.
2. People: Elijah, whose spirit appears through my spokesmen and speaks to you with words full of light and prophecy, is the same one who in the First Time surprised the world with his power, and do not be surprised if I also reveal to you that he was among the men of the Second Time, being then known as John the Baptist. I tell you not to be surprised, because it is not today that I have come to reveal these teachings to you, but they are already written.
3. An example of this is that the prophets said that Elijah would come before Christ to prepare the ways for the Lord, and that prophecy was fulfilled; but then Jesus declared that, when his second coming into the world was, Elijah would arrive first to restore everything; that promise has had its due fulfillment among you.
4. Tomorrow, when this revelation is studied by men who have delved a lot into the scriptures, they will be able to verify that the spirit of Elijah came at this time to fulfill the same mission that had been entrusted to him in the Second, that of preparing the ways of the Lord, purifying those who were later to be the disciples of the Holy Spirit.
5. Today he did not come to suffer on earth as in former times, in which he had to endure the mockery of the Gentiles, the bitterness of persecution and later suffer death, because from his mouth flowed the prophetic word that announced judgment to all the wicked.
6. Today he has come in the spirit, and therefore the hand of man will not be able to touch him or hurt him; however, still this people has offered him the bitter cup of ingratitude.
7. Elijah is a shepherd who lovingly searches for his wayward sheep; sometimes he has managed to gather the ninety-nine, but he has realized that he lacks one to complete the number of those who make up his flock, and it weeps to see that it has strayed among the heather of the precipices; but Elijah returns light to go in search of him. How much joy her spirit experiences when he has managed to rescue her from danger; with how much love he hopes to deposit the beloved sheep in the company of his brothers, but how great is his pain, when upon returning to the fold he finds that many others have jumped the fence and have moved away following the dictates of his free will.
8. These multitudes who have witnessed the presence of Elijah and who have seen the flourishing of a work that he announced, will not be the ones who deepen the most in the study of the revelations that their Lord has made to them. Tomorrow men will come to whom the study of the testimonies of this people will suffice, so that they may proclaim to the four winds that this work is a truth, that the Lord has been among men once again and that Elijah was also his forerunner.

9. Rest and listen to me. My word comes to feed you, to give you comfort and forgiveness, so that you can feel revived and fulfill the mission that I have entrusted to you.

10. Do not form resolutions to follow me only when you are listening to me, know how to feel me at every moment of your life.

11. How great is the moral and spiritual backwardness in which I find humanity! How great is the responsibility of those who have received the grace and light of my word at this time.

12. Disciples: Become teachers, put the fear of men out of your hearts, cast off indifference and laziness; recognize that in truth you are bearers of a heavenly message. You are the ones who will give the explanation of everything that happens in these times, the ones who have to fight to teach the principles of my doctrine that humanity has forgotten.

13. Do not go to repeat my word to your brothers just as I said it, prepare yourselves so that you can explain it. You will not look for words trying to surprise with your florid eloquence; you will speak in a simple way, which is the one that best expresses the truth of the spirit.

14. How can you tell when you are speaking for yourself or when it is I who am speaking for your lips? When you forget about yourselves, when you think about the pain of your brother and feel humble, unworthy of deserving my grace, it will be the precise moment when my divine inspiration descends into your mind, because your whole being will throb in that instant of love for the Father and for the brother

15. When you do a work in my name, know how to use it, never pronounce it in vain.

16. Compensation exists in all my work; he who gives, receives; he who denies, at last will have to perish of necessity. I want you to understand my doctrine, the foundations of which are charity and love.

17. You must give yourselves to the good, this is your mission; but when your matter rebels, you feel unworthy to be my disciples; then you think that there are many who are better than you and who have not been called. I tell you: It is that you needed it more because your heart lacked peace because your path was full of lurkers and your feet had been stained with the mud of this world.

Love one another!

18. Neither were my disciples of the Second Time righteous when I chose them, but they were signified by their works and rose by practicing my teaching. So I want you to convert and signify; let it be your works that lift you up and bring you closer to Me.

19. If I were to ask you, What have you learned from the much I have taught you? You would have to admit that there is very little that you have taken advantage of. I do not come to judge you, but to forgive you, because your faults are those of all humanity; therefore, when I speak to you, I speak to all my children.

20. I name you my emissaries; you will know how to find a way to relate to your brothers. If you overcome their unbelief with convincing words and deeds, there will be great merit in you. Take care to give your testimony with perfection, so that you never distort the purpose of my teachings.

21. Always seek that there is harmony between the spiritual and the material, that is, that you learn to give to God what is God's and to the world what corresponds to him.

22. So I come to give myself to you in my word. Take its essence, which is wisdom and all that is good and perfect you want to find, provided that your ideal is that later your hand be lavish with your brothers.

23. The moments are propitious, take advantage of them, because the day is approaching when this word will no longer be heard. My will has to be fulfilled; the era of spiritual communication between God and man is already near, therefore the human understanding will no longer be needed as a spokesman or interpreter of my will.

24. At this time, when I am manifesting myself in a word full of light, I have granted the opportunity to this humanity to properly interpret my teaching.

25. Today I contemplate that my disciples gathered around the Master, each one still has a different way of understanding my word, and when they communicate their own analyses to each other, they fall into discussion and criticism, when it is unification of thought that I want among my people; for this you must have charity, be tolerant and wait for the right moment to speak.

26. Today you have a different concept of my teachings, but in the end you will all reach equality of understanding and knowledge; this will revive you in the struggle, because being all united you will feel stronger.

27. I have always told you: Do not form theories of my teachings and revelations, because they will distort the truth with which I have come to clothe you.

28. Find within my doctrine that freedom of which I speak to you, so that you may deepen in it and see everything more clearly.

Love one another!

29. Every time I have come to you, I have taught you how to reach communication with your Father; I have come to teach you to find the truth in yourselves so that you will not seek it in doctrines that only delay the spirit. Humanity has passed from childhood to this age of light, in which the human spirit and mind have seen the infinite open before them.

30. In order for the light that illuminates this time to be seen by every eye, it is necessary that you uncork the blindfold of religious fanaticism. That is why I left written for you in the tablets of the law that I gave to Moses: "You shall not worship the figure of any creature, nor material things as if he were your God; you shall love Him with all your heart and spirit above all created things."

31. And you ask me: Why did the world fall into fanaticism and foreign worship? For the men in charge of my law, far from rejecting, in imitation of Jesus, honors, finery and vanities, have taken for themselves the riches, titles and greatness of the earth, thereby depriving the spirit of all freedom. And within that confusion, there are still those who feel infallible, when there is only one infallible, who is your Heavenly Father.

32. So, if you want to have an improvement in the spirit, fight with intelligence and spirituality, be men of good will and humble of heart. In this way you will achieve the progress that will lead your spirit to salvation.

33. I come to make you feel my love, I am going to put the thresholds out of your way to make your cross less heavy.

34. I look into the interior of your heart and I say to you: Prepare your mind, elevate your thinking and unify your senses so that you can listen and analyze my word.

35. Pray and make amends, because the peace of the world also depends on your evolution. You have to pray, because the world is under the threat of war and you must work to achieve peace. You are the people who have known the power of prayer, its influence and its light.

36. Everyone is looking for a horizon and has not found it, because there is no fraternity among men, and when they see the gloomy panorama of nations, where war has broken out, they are only encouraged by the feeling that on the face of the earth there must be a corner of peace. That corner will be this nation, which will be seen from a distance like a luminous star.

37. This is the responsibility of this people, which must prepare spiritually and materially to set an example of fraternity, of elevation and charity, whether to heal the sick, or to shake the enemy's hand as a sign of forgiveness.

Love one another!

38. Be industrious in my lands and you will see everything around you become more beautiful, because you will have found the reason for your existence. Whoever falls into stagnation and routine, does not let his spirit rise to contemplate the greatness that life contains when it is lived within my law.

39. Observe yourselves so that you will know how to discover when your existence becomes useless, letting yourself be dragged by the inclinations of matter. I want you to bear fruit, but let that fruit be peace for your children, because your heart will blossom, and those fruits will be your works.

40. Through you I will make known to the world my word of this time, which will be recognized after the year 1950.

41. These revelations will come to all humanity for this I have prepared those whom I name golden feathers, so that with zeal for my work and submissive to the call of their conscience, they will work so that my word will be imprinted. These writings will not only be for the present generations, but also for the generations to come.

42. The greatness of my word, as in all times, rests on its simplicity and its essence; I want it to be your language in speaking of my work in the same way. Do not forget that not only the mouth speaks, but also the heart. Have clarity in your actions.

43. Every moment you receive from Me the strength, the light and the peace that you need for your journey. Receive also my blessing.

44. In this Third Time I will convert all humanity into my disciples; to achieve this, I have begun to pour out my light on each man; then I will make my word reach them, the same one that I am now giving you. The testimonies, writings and examples of my people will be known from region to region and from town to town, awakening hearts and reviving spirits in the light of their conscience.

45. Today many beings wander aimlessly, who often come to ask me like this: Lord, where are we going? Where will this life lead us and what is the end that awaits us?

46. They are distressed spirits who question me in this way; they live tormented in a world that has reached its highest level of evil and materialism; and to them I send my light as a ray of hope, so that they may continue to watch and pray, while the storm passes and peace reaches their hearts.

47. Here, in this tatter of the earth, I make my humanized voice heard through these enlightened ones whom I have chosen to use them for this communication; and in addressing these multitudes, I dedicate some of my words to childhood, which I exhort to strengthen in virtue and flee from the current of evil that has dragged so many hearts to the precipice.

48. I want these creatures, from their earliest age, to have full knowledge of the mission that the future has destined for them. I have also spoken directly to the youth to guide them on the uncertain path of their life, because I contemplate them as a fragile boat in the middle of a rough sea, and to help them, I have raised before their eyes my work as a luminous beacon to guide them to the port of salvation. Youth is the one that is farthest away from Me.

49. While man is still a child, he prays and thinks of God; he does the same when he has crossed the summit of the mountain of his life and begins to sink, like the sun at sunset. But when his heart is like a bird, which is eager to fly and his flesh vibrates at the touch of the temptations of the world and he feels strong, he then moves away from the divine lessons, because he does not want his doctrine of humility, love and sacrifice to come to claim him in each of his steps, his deeds, words and thoughts.

50. Until the human heart feels shipwrecked in the sea of its passions, it is when it raises its eyes in search of the divine lighthouse, whose light discovers the path that leads to the savior port.

51. I have listened to the hearts of widows who say to me: My Father, look at us, we are like leaves detached from the tree that wander at the mercy of the winds. I have approached them to tell them that they are not alone, that the one who set off on a spiritual journey to another of the worlds, is contemplating them from there, helps and protects them and has only been advanced for a few moments to prepare the way for all the beings who were entrusted to him.

52. But if you do not come to feel, if His presence were imperceptible in your life, then pray, direct your supplications to Me, that I will make you feel his presence. For some I will be the staff, for others, the Cyrene and for all, the sweet companion who guides and helps them on their journey.

53. If the wild animals in the jungles, the birds in space and the flowers in the valleys, receive at every moment the outpouring of love and life from their Father, how is it possible for you to come to think that I deny you for a single second the grace of my divine love, when you carry in your being a fragment of my own Divinity?

54. The father of the family has sought me to communicate his worries and concerns; his children do not know his authority, turn their backs on him and become enemies of the paternal council.

Love one another!

55. I must warn you that the charge you bear is very delicate; your cross is heavy, but if you know how to hurry your chalice with faith and patience and know how to love and forgive your brothers and your children, you will imitate me on the way and your children will not be lost.

56. People: If you long for my work to be widely known throughout the earth, live my doctrine, apply my teaching to all your works, sanctify your home with the virtue that emanates from this word. Understand that your past is a sealed book and that now life is presented as a new and unknown path before your eyes, a path that you will have to travel to the end. Today you are calm, you take from my word what you want and apply my teaching when you so desire; but the time will come when I will call this people to account, from the first to the last of my words with which I have come to teach them.

57. Do not forget that this nation has been carrying out a spiritual mission on earth for a long time and is called to fulfill a high destiny among humanity. If the Lord's charity has pointed out to you to come and dwell in her, sow even one seed in her womb, but let it be of love, of peace, of spirituality, and with that, your passage through the earth will not have been sterile. From now on I must warn you that no matter how high the destiny of this nation may be, you should not take it as the "land of promise", nor as a new Jerusalem. Do not confuse anyone and do not get confused. The disciples of the Lord, the spiritualists, the Father could not inherit with material goods. If the mission of this soil is great, if this nation must reach a great development, its inhabitants will be those who announce my presence to the world and those who testify to the greatness and truth of my doctrine with their examples and works.

58. I will leave you a vibrant imprint of my communication between you, with which you will be able to move the world; this will be my word, which has been written under divine dictation.

59. First it will be written in material books, where men can peek into my arcanum and penetrate my wisdom. Later, when that essence has been kept in the hearts of my disciples, the true book will appear in the spirit of the Lord's people.

60. I have been filling you with pleasure by manifesting the vibration of my word through the spokesman. I have sent you to my spiritual world to clarify and explain my messages to you; I have sown wonders on your way and I have let your eyes marvel at the contemplation of spiritual sights. But you are not the only ones who have enjoyed and who will enjoy these manifestations, because I have announced to you that "every eye will see me"; and in truth, the world will come to see me and the spiritual world will also manifest itself and all these manifestations in the world will succeed in shaking the most unbelieving hearts.

Love one another!

61. Men have been needing the spiritual to materialize and the divine to be humanized, in order to believe and I have granted this grace to some.

62. People: Know thoroughly the destiny that you have among all the peoples of the earth, so that you may be able to fulfill your mission, now that the time is propitious.

63. I come to prepare your heart so that you can dwell in it. The world will also be prepared; in the minds of men the seed of peace will germinate and you who will have scattered it to all corners of the earth, will be pleased to contemplate the fruit of your work, because walking in imitation of the Master, you taught the good life and prayed for everyone.

64. In all nations there will be talk of reconciliation, of fraternity and peace, and this will be a principle of unification.

65. I have been preparing you and I have asked you if you are already ready to get up after the walkers, in search of your brothers to show them the wisdom that I have given you in inspiration and to answer satisfactorily to their questions. To no one it seems impossible to fulfill this position; see that the knowledge that I have given you, allows you to understand your mission.

66. It will not be necessary for all my children to arrive in foreign regions; many times it will be enough for them to raise their prayer in their thoughts and cleanse their hearts, so that their spirit may manifest itself and identify with their brothers, however distant they may be. And those will be put on alert by the spiritual world.

67. You will unite with the spiritual world, forming with it a barrier that prevents new wars and new sufferings. You will continue to pray for those who intend to realize spiritual mastery through force. You will be surprised, and the world will also be amazed, when men see that it is not force that has dominated reason, fraternity and justice.

68. Take care not to give an apparent charity, carrying in your heart selfishness. Do as much good as you can, without self-interest. Do it out of love, which is the law that I have taught you and you will have accumulated merits for the elevation of your spirit. Show my teaching as I have given it to you; it is the same that I showed to my prophets and to my apostles of other times.

69. Man in his materialism has found it expedient to mistake my word that I have delivered in all times. But my work is perfect and does not lie in material words. Prepare yourselves and you will always discover my truth; then you will find that I have given my seed to you in all times with greatness, so that you too may give it with the same love and charity.

Love one another!

70. It will not be necessary for you to impress anyone by making use of rites or external forms; the temple of your heart will become visible and in it your brothers will contemplate their lamp and their altar.

71. Learn from now on to feel me, the same in your good works, as when you are struggling to leave the mud into which you have fallen.

72. I have taught you to seek the truth in simplicity. How poor still is the human mind in seeking the truth in the complicated sciences that it forges itself! Why go looking for me so far away taking me with you? Who does not know that he is created in the likeness of the Father, endowed with divine attributes such as consciousness, intelligence and will?

73. I came to live with men in the Second Time, I shared your bread and your roof; but the greatness of Christ lies in his humility.

74. This is how I teach you so that you may be able to detach yourselves from the material for the sake of your love for your neighbor; but first you must purify yourselves, because it is a law that you evolve; and if it is a law that everything evolves, the prophecies that are about to happen should not amaze you; what your eyes contemplate, will only fill you with joy to see that everything is governed by a most perfect law and that what happens to your spirit today could not have happened before, because everything manifests itself in due time, until perfection is achieved.

75. Not only on earth is the struggle for the advancement of humanity; from other worlds the spiritual world works for its salvation and progress. So I tell you that the spiritualist seed will bear fruit in the bosom of all religions; after the great struggles, and when men say that it is a new religion that comes to sow division, you will answer that spiritualism is a doctrine and it is the same as the first one given to men and the only one that has ruled the spirits of the; but that voice will come from your heart, which is where your feelings lie, which will manifest themselves when you cry for the pain of others, also when you cry with joy for that of your fellow man, because what I have always taught you is to love one another.

76. I speak to you through the human understanding; my light and my grace infiltrate it and are translated into words, that word that traces the only way to reach Me, that of purity of feelings and that of humility.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Love one another!

1. People, humanity, the presence of Elijah is with everyone at this time.
2. Multitudes who are enjoying this communication, hear the voice of Elijah, whose name humanity has not had much in mind, even though I have already given you to understand the importance of his mission on Mount Tabor, but you have not wanted to analyze this manifestation. Now that you have heard the voice of Elijah, you already feel his presence and it even seems to you to hear the arrival of his chariot of fire.
3. Elijah is the ray that I have always sent you to illuminate your path, He is the one who has illuminated the earth so that you may find and follow the path that leads you sooner to where the Father is waiting for you. He is the bearer of the great mysteries of the spirit, which at this time he has come to enlighten you, so that you may know your Father better. Even now, as in the First Time, he comes to carry out a similar mission, to tear down the idols from their altars in order to teach the world true spiritual worship
4. In Elias you can find explained and proven the law of reincarnation that men are fighting so much today. In it you can also find a teaching and an explanation of what communication is through the human understanding, when it was spiritually manifested through the lips and understanding of the prophet Elisha.
5. See how many and how great lessons Elijah has always brought you, how he has come to teach your spirit; see how in all times he has come to make known to you great manifestations of difficult explanation for you; but all those knowledge that you would not have understood in the past times, now, in this Third Time, will be explained to you by Elijah himself, who comes with the mission of restoring everything to its true meaning.
6. Blessed are all those in the world who, feeling that the light of their spirit is beginning to revive, say: Elijah has arrived, and then add: The return of the Lord is approaching us. As in that Second Time, when the men realized that John was prophesying and speaking of the wonders of the kingdom of heaven, they said, Will it be Elijah?
7. The great prophet, the forerunner, the messenger is among you; but now he has not incarnated; he is in the spirit and the ray of light with which he has manifested is the same one with which he used to destroy false gods and with which he ignited true faith in the heart of the Lord's people.
8. Spirits, follow Him! Humanity, listen to him! He is the shepherd who comes guiding you to my lap; he is the beacon that comes shining and indicating the route for you to reach the port of salvation.

Love one another!

9. Understand that time is passing and the day is approaching when I will no longer speak to you through these spokespersons. Those who have taken advantage of my teaching will find peace, but there will be many orphans who will seek in vain for my presence in this way. I will not be absent, I will be closer to you and I will speak to you through everyone who prepares from spirit to Spirit.

10. The time will come when different sects and religions announce the coming of the Lord and tell you that all the signs are fulfilled and that that time has already come. You who know the truth will tell them what you know about Me. Since the year of 1866 I have appeared as a Consoling Spirit and I have come in search of mine, of those for whom I will make the good news known, O humanity!

11. You will not feel distant from those who, waiting for me, did not know how to cover the precursor signs in time and understood late what their intuition advised them. Do not be unaware of these differences and if they could not be witnesses of my presence, I have enlightened their spirit and they are on the right path. You will all melt into the ideal

12. On the various branches of the tree are my chosen ones. Many will come before the year of 1950, to witness my communication, others will slow their pace. Blessed are those who hear my word through a spokesman, for they will feel in themselves that they have already known this voice, which is not human, but comes from Me.

13. I come to tell you to be guided by your conscience, to free yourselves and not to become slaves of those who want to subject us to imperfect cults, prejudices and dogmas.

14. You can all be my laborers, emissaries of my doctrine. In your struggle you will not feel alone, in my lap you will be safe and you can fear nothing.

15. I, Who am above all creation and I palpitate in it, speak through man, my favorite creature. Do not be surprised that I communicate through the humble, the clumsy and that I manifest myself in places full of humility and poverty. I assure you that what is a palace for you is not for Me. On the other hand, where you see only poverty and humility, it is possible that deep down there is true spiritual splendor.

16. I tell you this, because there have been many who have wondered inside why I do not manifest myself inside the great synagogues or in the sumptuous churches. Also at that time many people wondered why the Messiah was not born under the temple of Zion.

17. Now as then, I come to teach you that what comes directly to the Father is the purity of your heart, because each of its beats will be telling me about your good works.

18. See the humility with which I have always arrived among you; contemplate how in all times I have come without thrones, without scepter or palace, always wrapped in simplicity and meekness. What would the poor, the outcasts, the disinherited think of Me, if they saw me coming to them surrounded by pomp and luxury? They would feel humiliated, unworthy of Me. On the other hand, the lords, the rich, the great of the earth, would call me the God of their caste and their group.

19. When the poor of the world contemplate me barefoot, panting and bleeding under the weight of the cross, they tremble with tenderness before the humility of their Lord and feel identified with Him. On the other hand, the rich, although in reality they are not, who should have the same feelings as the humble, cannot conceive me in poverty; so, an image with which they pretend to represent me, they cover it with purple, gold, silks and what they call precious stones. It is that they have forgotten my doctrine and that is why they have wanted to surround me with everything that most combats my teaching: vanity.

20. I must tell you again that I have not been speaking against any of the religions, because all of them are blessed in Me, but also, you must understand, that I as a Teacher must point out the mistakes that man has been committing, so that one day you will come to amend them, because if I did not help you find the truth, when would you find it alone?

21. Let my truth made light and love reach every man, every religion and every people, just as I allow your truth, or what you have come to form as truth, to reach Me. What is that truth of yours that I receive from all of you? It is your prayer, your faith and hope.

22. That light that exists in every spirit, when it rises to Me, when it speaks to me, sheds all darkness and all lies, to show me only what it carries in itself the truth, because even the wicked, when confessing with Me, shows me its stains, without trying to deceive me.

23. It is up to man to perfect himself, to improve his life on earth, without judging the way through which others seek me. I am the only one able to judge the truth of your deeds.

24. From the idolater to the spiritualist, everyone is under my light and my gaze, as well as from the one whom you judge spiritually retarded, I receive many times great proofs of his elevation; I can also assure you that from those who believe themselves to be walking at the forefront of spirituality, I often receive proofs of great delay.

25. A people is the one who has received me at this time and to him I have entrusted this page of my wisdom, but in that page of love there is a message for each of the religions that exist on earth.

26. My light will awaken everyone as a divine universal dawn, and as man rises to live within the new day, the proximity of the divine will come to his senses.

Love one another!

27. Now I must tell you that it will not be the "kingdom of heaven" that descends to men, but rather the spirit of humanity that rises towards the kingdom of its Heavenly Father.

28. Why do you always make me come with complaints? I come to you out of love, because I see that you carry pain in your heart and I want to comfort you, because I want you to carry my peace in your spirit.

29. Sometimes I appear before you as a Judge, sometimes you have me as a Father and I always present myself as a Teacher. Under these three phases you have the divine essence that is one: The law, love and wisdom; behold the Trinity, which exists in my Spirit

30. Close your eyes and let the spirit free, so that he may live intensely these moments of communication with his Master. Let him feel close to the Lord, like those who in the Second Time followed the Master along roads, valleys, villages, banks and deserts, so as not to lose one of his teachings. Then you will be able to understand the figurative sense with which I sometimes speak, when I take the goods of the earth to represent the spiritual to you and put it within your reach. You will see how my word brings the "kingdom of heaven" closer to your spirit.

31. Come, humanity, to be taught, or do you want pain to continue teaching you throughout your life?

32. Come to my countryside to sow the lands with fraternity; I assure you that this work will not disappoint you like the world.

33. Here is the path in front of your spirit, inviting you to take it and never stop, because every step you take in it will bring your spirit closer to the perfect abode that awaits him.

34. The time that I will be among you giving you my teaching in this way is already very short, and I want you to learn to make merits, so that in these last years my "Word" will overflow through these spokespersons.

35. What must you do so that the divine inspirations may be as a reward for your merits? Develop your faith, your zeal and your spirituality. Let there be love in the bosom of the people, let charity be practiced, let truth be loved.

36. Verily I say to you, if you do not unite yourselves as is my will, humanity will scatter you, and will cast you out of its bosom if it sees that your life departs from what you preach

37. What will happen if men discover that in each enclosure there is a different cult and a different way of practicing my doctrine? They will not be able to conceive that it was I who taught you.

Love one another!

38. I entrust to you the last three arios of my communication, so that you may work for the union of this people, unification that encompasses the spiritual and the external, so that your work, full of harmony and equality, may be the greatest proof that all of you in different enclosures and in different regions were taught by a single Teacher: God.

39. Not all of you have contemplated with the eyes of the spirit the times that are approaching for humanity. Not all of you have felt his pain; but I am forming with you a numerous people and turning them into eager labourers who are already beginning to love me and who are already eager to fight to fertilize the human heart.

40. Sowers of my word: When the time comes for work in the countryside, go full of faith in the one who has taught you; do not be afraid of ridicule or ridicule. Sow in fertile ground, not in the rock, not in the quicksand, for there the seed will not bear fruit; you will see it born and grow, but it will not bear fruit. If you place it among thorns and weeds, it will not bear fruit either; therefore you must pray to receive my inspiration, and thus you will know how to choose the prepared land. I, who am the owner of the lands, will give you large tracts to cultivate them. Fill yourselves with a great willingness to work; sow and you will reap and a day will come when with the wheat of your harvest you will knead bread for your sustenance. Behold, I am speaking to you figuratively and you do not know if you will reap that harvest in the hereafter.

41. For today I say to you: Great is the fulfillment that you have to develop through the matter that I have entrusted to you; it is your staff and you must conduct it wisely.

42. The world is invaded by plagues and calamities that I have announced to it; it begins to feel fear, it tries to rise up looking for a saving hand, a word of encouragement and you are salvation.

43. You will have to cross seas and cross mountains to go to other regions or nations, to go after the one who suffers. Do not be afraid of the road, go simply, without wearing double shoes.

44. When I pointed out to you your mission, I said to you, "Take up your cross and follow me." Why are you afraid of losing the comforts of the earth? You tell me that you love the world and that you cannot reach the sacrifice and chastity that this mission demands, and I warn you by telling you: At any age, whatever your state or condition, you can love me and serve me, while continuing to fulfill your duties.

45. Transform the world by your example, destroy bad prejudices and make it a paradise and not a valley of tears.

46. I give you a short time for your fulfillment on earth.

Love one another!

47. Think that you must leave an inheritance of spirituality to your children, because from their descendants the blessed generations will spring up, for which I will manifest Myself. Among those spirits will be the prophets, the explicators of my word, those of great faith who will guide humanity.

48. Do you want to keep my word? I bless you because you have heard me and want to follow me. Your heart is overflowing with grace; give of it to everyone who asks for it.

49. At this time you come to receive my lesson, some as disciples, others as infants and others more, only driven by your curiosity, but you all seek peace, tranquility and also the fulfillment of the prophecies corresponding to this time.

50. You have not fully found in the sects and religions the certainty of my new coming; it was outside of them that I put an emissary who gave the good news. I have come to judge every spirit and to lay the foundations for a new life, a new spiritual order for humanity. If you prepare yourselves, you will be able to contemplate from your world the perfection of the spiritual valley where the spirits of the righteous dwell, of those who have known how to rise by their merits and who today, in union with me, work for your salvation. Everything that you have not been able to understand today, you will know in the bosom of this humble people, because my light has been shed and the veil that covered your pupils has been lifted. I speak to you of the eyes of the spirit, which had been closed to the spiritual and the divine. You have regained this light and are guided by Me; remain vigilant. If you bend matter and the spirit full of meekness follows in my footsteps, that light will cover you like a garment and your brothers will contemplate that you are one of my chosen ones and you will be loved and respected by humanity.

51. You are soldiers of good. I have given you weapons, so that you can fight sin but not your brothers, I do not want man to be born, grow up and die in his sin, ignoring the blessed mission he has brought to earth. If you penetrate my doctrine, you will be strengthened and invincible. There will be no temptation that will make you fall and thus prepared, you will rise and become more than men, angels incarnate for the good of humanity.

52. Many are the called and few are the chosen and among them, even fewer are the privileged; but woe to them, if they are proud!; may they not be like Solomon, in whom I deposited wisdom, grace and power, and entrusted him with a people to govern and he, after a stage of spiritual greatness, in which he showed his high spirit, stopped watching, was dominated by the flesh and all his work, inspired by love and justice, was overshadowed by his vain and carnal acts. Do not let yourselves fall into pride, even when you see that I pour out great pleasures for you. If I would choose you to govern a region or a nation, and you, inspired by Me, would dictate just laws, do not magnify yourselves as men; you will raise your spirits and bow down to Me.

53. Many will come to this land that I have chosen and they will look, my light reflected in its inhabitants and they will feel happy to know you and step on this ground where I gathered my people for doctrinal in the Third Time. Those who arrive after 1950 will look for the writings, and when they know my revelations they will feel the strength that my teaching imparts, they will bless you and they will love me. How many of them belong to the people of Israel, to the 144,000 appointed who will join you in obeying my commands.

54. Today the nations are enveloped in materialism and confusion; I have spoken to them, spiritually, and my seed has been sown in the hearts of my chosen ones, so that it may be scattered everywhere. You, from your nation, do everything you can to help everyone in their spiritual journey.

55. The number of my disciples who surround me at this moment is short, but my word will extend to the ends of the earth. Full of love will reach the heart those who cry out for love.

56. For you this is the propitious time for you to know the mission that you must fulfill before humanity. I have prepared you so that you will understand how to fulfill your role in this world and know what awaits you beyond the material barrier where the spiritual life begins. I have helped you to develop spiritually so that you also understand why events happen that the mind cannot conceive.

57. While the spirit is fused to matter, he does not distinguish and cannot know the merits he has made in his previous lives; but he already knows that his life is eternity, a continuous development, trying to reach the top, but that today you do not know what height you have reached.

58. I have contemplated you since you began to walk with a confused mind, with a clumsy brain. I have seen you awaken little by little and evolve until you reach more precise ideas of reality. I have watched you struggle against adversity, trials and temptations; and when at last you discovered the value of the spiritual life, reaching to rise, I have seen your spirit smile. That smile was one of peace, satisfaction and hope. But I've also seen him step back, getting bogged down in the world; then he cried and had to purify himself to reach my grace, but even in his falls he found a light, the light of experience.

Love one another!

59. You are already in a position not to deceive yourselves, because the veil that enclosed the clarity of the truth, you have lifted it with my light and you have contemplated the clear horizon to move forward with a safe step.

60. That light that illuminates the path is clear; you can no longer deviate, unless you want to rebel against the very truth, seduced by the false brightness of earthly pleasures and possessions.

61. Nor can I tell you to live confident in yourselves, nor to be free from every touch of temptation, because there are forces that strive to tear down what I am building in union with you, forces that hide their blackness, presenting themselves full of attractions. I warn you of this so that you can defend yourselves with the courage of your faith.

62. The destiny of man is to know the truth and to rise to the one who created everything that exists; but the road is long, so that in it you can develop all your gifts, look at me, feel me and love me. The path has thorns, it is rugged and it will test the strength and faith with which you have chosen it. After going through it, the spirit will be purified.

63. The other way is the one that goes around and around, but since it offers joys and contains apparent attractions, it makes you stop your step without caring about arriving later, since you are enjoying. But he who is caught in the supreme hour within that path, will experience the infinite bitterness of seeing that he did nothing for the good of his spirit.

64. I could list to you one by one the paths that appear in the sight of man; since there are many, it seems difficult for you to choose the most convenient one.

65. The spirit, coming to inhabit the earth, has been granted as an opportunity for its development and perfection a matter or human body, whose wonderful and perfect formation allows through it to feel, think and move at will, according to its spiritual capacity.

66. The spirit partakes of the satisfaction of the flesh, just as in his sufferings he aches. But the human being is also sensitive to the delights and sorrows of the spirit; both form, while they are linked, a single being.

67. There is perfection in the human creature, that is why Christ, the "Word", came to incarnate in a human body similar to yours; but he did not suffer because of his own imperfections, but because of the sin of men whom he raised up with his pain, with his sacrifice and his word, because they had fallen very low.

68. When the spirit with all his strength cannot overcome the hardness and reluctance of matter, the merciful charity of the Father, who it was who created the spirit and the flesh, comes to save you like the good shepherd to the wayward sheep, because none of my children will be lost.

Love one another!

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

1. In the bread and wine of my table is the seed of eternal life; come to it, eat and drink. Do not cry anymore of hunger and thirst, I no longer want to hear your laments and your sobs. I want to see joy and peace in my children. As a Father I am all love as a Teacher I am still love and if as an inexorable judge I presented myself, within that justice would be my love.
2. It is that the essence of my Spirit is love, in him you have your beginning and your end. Come near, disciples, and sit around the Master, as you did at that time when I was among you as a man. Let your spirit remember the sweet voice of that Divine Teacher who was Jesus; let him remember the times when he followed me to the valleys, to the banks of the rivers, to the desert and to the mountain to hear my word.
3. Your spirit is transported to the "kingdom of heaven" listening to the word of that Master who took the forms and creatures of the earth to create his parables and give men an idea of what the "heavenly kingdom" is and while some believed, others doubted, but all Hearts were flooded with peace and all the sick healed. I want you to feel with Me in the solitude of a valley, make the walls of the enclosure and the symbols disappear from your sight, so that your spirit is not stopped by any obstacle to rise to Me.
4. Disciples: If I have called you the people of God, the beloved and chosen people, do not therefore think that I love the other peoples of the earth any less. When everyone has recognized me, I will form with them a spiritual family, in which they will all be loved equally.
5. Do not consider yourselves spiritually inferior to any people or race; if you consider yourselves the only privileged ones, truly I tell you, if from the earliest times I have given you divine revelations and prophecies, it is not because you are the most beloved, but the firstborn in the spiritual sense among humanity. See that before vanity you must feel your responsibility.
6. Review the history of Israel and you will see that in none of the past times did he know how to make other peoples share in the inheritance and grace with which his Father adorned him; that doing the opposite of what my law and my doctrine dictated to him, he closed himself up in his selfishness and took his gifts for himself.
7. In this time I have prepared your spirit anew, I have enlightened him to lead him back to the path where he will fulfill his destiny of announcing, blessing and saving his brothers.

Love one another!

8. You will soon cease to hear this word; but do not think that I have been absent, that I have left you alone, orphans and strayed from the path of evolution. My Divine Spirit will leave you prepared and will then continue to watch over you; like a divine shadow I will follow in your footsteps. I will continue to inspire you, I will speak, through your lips, I will heal the sick through you, and with your voice I will raise the dead, and when you are united, I will make my true sanctuary in you.

9. In this Third Time I have found the heart of man more sterile than ever, earth full of stones, petrified earth, covered with tares, nettles and thistles everywhere weeds and poisonous fruit trees grow. The waters have become polluted, the springs have dried up, the fountains are cloudy and the rivers no longer run; there are no flowers in the orchards and if some are found, they are withered; there are no nests or birds in the trees, The pests devour everything and the gnawing worm destroys everything; this is the picture that humanity presents to my gaze at this time. But I have come to bring you seed, water and tools so that you may seek the lands that belong to you, so that you may cultivate them.

10. Do not say that I am leaving among you soon; recognize that now it was not three years that I spoke to you as in the Second Half. Then three years were enough for the fame of my wonders to cross the borders of Judea and move kingdoms and empires. In those three years my disciples became teachers. I awakened them to love, I showed them that humanity is ungrateful, but that behind that ingratitude it possesses nobility and that nobility is the spark of divine love that every human encloses for being a child of my Divinity.

11. The doctrine of Jesus touched the deepest roots of the heart of humanity; there I built a temple where I am still dwelling; but man, in his ambition for power, wealth, human glories and pleasures, has changed life, customs, laws and principles and it is necessary that Christ returns among the crowds to awaken them from their long sleep and teach them the way again. Here you have me speaking to you from 1866 to the present through the mouth of one, another and another spokesman, always the same word, the same essence, the same revelations and prophecies.

12. It has not been three years that I have spoken now; it has been necessary to prolong the time of my preaching in order to explain my teaching in many ways, so that you may come to understand it. How many times one of my disciples, after confessing that he loves me and believes in Me, walks away denying me, after having received manifestations and proofs of my truth and when he sees himself in the abyss, then he cries, repents and says to me: You are my Teacher, help me. And I, Who am infinite love and patience, lift him up, draw him to Me, sit him at my table in the best place and tell him that he is the "prodigal son". I celebrate, he rejoices and when everyone believes, except the Teacher, that he has repented forever, he falls back into temptation. How many times have I seen many fall, get up and come back to Me. That is why the time of my communication with you has been prolonged until 1950, to receive you for the first, second and third time and at last to leave you strong in life.

13. What new attractions and experiences can the world offer you? What pleasant surprises can science reserve for you, or what new joys will matter give you? What do you have to learn by the ways of vice or sin? If you long for new satisfactions and want true joys, if you are eager for teaching and peace, come to my countryside, walk in my path, learn to sow my seed and you will find more than you can desire.

14. Whoever does not value this work as pure, perfect and infinite, it is because he has not cleansed his gaze to contemplate the truth, to peek into the arcanum of true wisdom; it is because he is still very small and has not let me show him yet what I have to reveal to him.

15. The last three years of this communication are approaching; they will be a representation of those three in which I preached in the Second Time.

16. I will make reforms, not to my law, but to your practices. I have waited a long time for you to do them for yourselves and you have not taken that step. I have announced to you my departure for 1950; then I will close the brain of my spokesmen and faculties for these demonstrations. I have told you, that then Spirit-to-spirit communication will begin; but what will those who do not prepare do? They will continue to invoke my divine ray which will not descend again and then they will speak pretending that I still communicate through their understanding. Your seers will testify that I am present there and the peasants will penetrate in ecstasy saying that the spiritual world is the one who speaks and then those will mock those who complied with my will, will say that this grace was withheld from them by the Father and there will be great confusion.

17. Think that if those rise up as precursors and emissaries for the nations, what could you do? You would only find the lands strewn with confusion and imposture. It is still time for you to meditate and prepare yourselves for when the world comes to question you, because it will not be content to search my word, since it will always find it clean, but the fruits that it has borne among this people; then your brothers will try to penetrate into your life, in your acts and practices, to find the confinement of my teachings and my manifestations. If only by knowing my word you could be saved, since the time of Moses humanity would have been saved with the revelation of the law; however, later Christ had to come, becoming a Teacher; and even now in Spirit I come to speak to you tirelessly to make you. Understand that what will save you and bring you to my right hand, will be your works of love, humility and charity. Do you remember my apostles of that time who did not concretize to bear witness with the word, but with their deeds sealed it, with their own life and with their blood?

18. Today I only want the door of your heart to be opened full of charity towards your fellow men, so that humanity, through the virtue of my new disciples, can thank heaven that this work is not just another doctrine or a new theory, that it is not a human fantasy or the product of a troubled mind, but the continuation of the path traced by God to men from the beginning of time, with which the announcements and prophecies of Jesus are fulfilled. That the same Christ who was in the Second Time, is the one who speaks to you now.

19. . While the world is preparing to pour out the cup of bitterness offered by war, I am giving you honey so that you may be the good taste on earth. If the light that vibrates in the understanding of man, moves him to execute great works for the benefit of humanity, making human life change and evolve, how will the light of my divine wisdom that comes to transform the customs of man, to prepare him for the spiritual life?

20. The divine light, the wisdom that descends from my Spirit to you, limiting itself according to your capacity, produces an interior illumination that dispels all darkness. Analyze and you will see that before recognizing this truth that you possess today, because of the time you have taken to listen to my word, everything was uncertain around you and you could not imagine that you would have the explanation of so many mysteries that your understanding could not comprehend.

21. Today I am removing that fog from the human mind, I am preparing man in such a way that he cannot doubt the truth he carries.

22. As long as there is doubt and weakness that strive to overcome you, there can be no true faith in you. Faith is felt, it is the impulse that makes you put an idea into practice without fear of failure. It is the spiritual gaze that reaches to contemplate the truth, the end of the path.

23. Let faith take root in you, because not all of you have it; once it ignites, it will fight against the opposition of temptation, which is stalking you. In order that you may be able to reject evil, try to find weapons in the essence of my word; but whoever is not sure of my presence and of my communication, judges what he sees and what he hears, without his spirit being able to rise to Me, because he still needs the ornaments that flatter the senses, believing in that way to feel what you call inspiration or elevation of spirit.

24. I come to teach you that it is no longer necessary for your spirit to sweeten the heart with the sound of musical notes. My disciples in the Second Time rose up to feel the spiritual peace of the beyond, having on their head nothing but the celestial vault. They rose, because they felt in their hearts the vibrant voice of the Master.

25. At this time it has pleased me to manifest myself to you through the human understanding. In what better way could you understand me, if not in this, using your own mind and your language?

26. By this doctrine you will attain elevation, because everything tends to evolve; understand that everything has a beginning. The force of good. Develop your virtues, within the environment in which you live you have my light to lay the foundations on which you will build the world of tomorrow.

27. You have palpable proofs of your spiritual evolution; today you cannot think the same as yesterday, you are different from your parents and your children will be different from you. You cannot help it, it is a higher force that drives you. Truly I tell you, evil will not prevail, it will be virtue, because he who practices charity cannot be selfish, he who feels love cannot hate, light does not admit darkness.

28. I want you to affirm your steps on this path that I present to you, so that you may teach your children to walk on it. May your advice always be sincere and my word will reach the heart of those who need it in a timely manner.

29. There will be those who are struggling against themselves, for their own perversity and will need my light to recognize their error and love their fellow man as their own brother.

30. I am going before you, O people, putting every obstacle out of your way, so that you may go forward.

31. Come to the feast today, beloved people, where you will enjoy for a few moments the presence of your Lord.

32. Come and fill your heart with my peace, with this peace that exists in Me and that you lack so much on earth.

33. It is enough for me that a few listen to me, because they will take the testimony to their brothers tomorrow; I know that if I made the call to all of them, the majority would not come because they are busy with the chores of the world, they would deny me and prevent the man of good will from approaching to listen to me.

34. Here in the recollection of these humble places in which I manifest myself, I am causing my seed to germinate. I gather in groups the hearts, simple and once away from the bustle of materialistic life, I talk to them about love, the eternal, the spirit, the true human and spiritual values, making them contemplate life through consciousness and not the senses.

35. These little ones I call disciples and they, who have never possessed anything, who have never been taken into account by their fellow men, have been filled with satisfaction at being called by Me and have risen to a new Life; they have risen with the conviction and joy that they can be useful to their fellow men, because the Lord has put His revelations in them and has discovered to them the way of love.

36. There will be those who deny them and mock them because they say they are disciples of Jesus, but truly I tell you, despite being denied that grace, they will still be my disciples.

37. Man believes that the heavens are so distant and high, that it is very difficult for Me to manifest Myself among these little ones and it is because they have a vague notion of what heaven is and what it means. They do not know that heaven is for the spirit the state of perfection, purity and light that every spirit must reach and not a certain place in space.

38. The spirit, as he rises, expands more and more the world or mansion in which he dwells, so when he reaches his perfection, he will dominate the infinite, he will be able to go everywhere, everything in him will be light, harmony with his Father and with everyone; that will be his heaven, that will be his glory. What more can the spirit aspire to, than eternal peace, wisdom, the happiness of loving and knowing oneself loved?

39. About two thousand years ago I dwelt among men. That time has come to seem so long to the current ones, that already the history of my deeds and the memory of my words see it through fantasy, as if everything that surrounded me at that time had been supernatural and they must know how natural the earth and the men of that time were as the current ones. If you believe that only those were worthy of the grace of my presence, you are in error, because I have always dwelt in the heart of man, manifesting myself before him, from time to time, either as a man as in that Second Time or in Spirit as now

40. It is necessary for man to know me in order that he may have a clear idea of the truth; for he who knows the truth cannot deviate from the path of the law, since then he will be able to hear the voice of his conscience.

41. He who ignores the truth is a blind man who does not find the true path, he is a deaf man who cannot hear the inner voice that comes from God; that is why I have come, once again to the world, to discover the truth that has been hidden from him and to reveal new lights that lift him from the sad and miserable condition in which he spiritually lives.

42. I will know how to awaken in man the noble ambition to rise to Me on the path of good; I will reveal to him the existence of the true "heaven", the new "promised land" and I will prove to him that I am not distant, simply because if I were distant from humanity, man would not exist.

Love one another!

43. Disciples: Keep in your heart the memory of these words so that you may delight in your meditations and in your reflections on my law.

44. Understand that I am the source of love; come to Me and you will calm your craving for charity and love. See the light of my Spirit illuminating all understanding and rise to a useful and fruitful life. Yesterday you were not able to guide your own steps and today you are leading multitudes.

45. Many were walking towards the abyss, but they heard my voice, retraced their steps and today they are struggling to climb the mountain. Now that you are my disciples, I tell you, having formed a people with you, I will receive you only when you come to me united in one will.

46. There are many misunderstandings and misinterpretations among this people; hence the divisions and differences. I tell you, it is still time to study my teaching, to correct those faults and to pluck from the hearts of the multitudes, everything that has sprouted like a harmful plant. The most responsible are those who first received the charges, because they are the ones who have listened to me the longest. To the first I say: Fill your hearts with charity and see in the last your little brothers, that your examples, life and word, show to the multitudes the perfection, the greatness and the goodness of my work.

47. It is necessary that the guides are awake studying my teachings and orders, that they watch and pray for their multitudes, so that they may be heard and obeyed by the people and that they may see them as prophets.

48. Every time you hear the Father speaking to you in a tone of righteousness, you tremble, but then your weakness betrays you again and you fall under the trials of the desert that serve to forge your spirit.

49. When will all the children of this people who are scattered among the nations today join you? They are hearts that only wait for the rumors of the crowd that walks between vicissitudes, in pursuit of the "land of promise", to get up and join him. It will not be necessary for one and the other to unite materially, since the way is within the heart and the promised land is in the peace of the spirit.

50. Each one in his place will receive the inspiration of his Father and the thought of his brothers to feel comforted. My new people of Israel will arise from every point of the earth teaching with true purity the doctrine of spirituality.

Love one another!

51. How can you think, people, that by meeting in different enclosures, this is the reason that you are estranged from each other? Only ignorance will prevent you from realizing the spiritual ties that unite all the children of the Lord.

52. Let the gifts of your spirit be manifested, so that intuition and revelation guide your steps and you will not desecrate or stain the gifts that I have entrusted to you.

53. This time has brought to your spirit the divine present of a new opportunity to rise up to your Father.

54. The one who came as Messiah, who walked on earth and with his word and his works traced the way of salvation to man, is the one who comes now in Spirit making his voice of justice heard through conscience.

55. I have called many to come to witness this manifestation, to listen to this word, but not all those called have come.

56. These multitudes who follow me are the ones who felt in their spirit the longing to come closer to enjoy the shade of the corpulent tree and receive as an inheritance the seed that they will later have to take along roads and regions. They heard the voice of their Lord and longed to be sowers like Him. They are slowly becoming the disciples who know that tomorrow they will leave the warmth of the paternal home to bring a present to all who suffer hunger or thirst for love, truth or justice.

57. I have greatly manifested my word so that this people will not be intimidated by the man of knowledge, for truly I tell you, many of the so-called wise have been confused in their own wisdom.

58. Works, words, prayer, is the mission with which this people will have to teach their brothers. Under the mantle of the protection of the most loving Mother, he will have to cross the distances, trusting that that divine charity will not depart from him.

59. Many times you will talk about the existence and love of Mary, and you will see that hearts are not moved; other times you will be rejected for preaching her name and teaching faith in Her; but do not be afraid, remember that while Jesus was expiring on the cross, a woman pierced with pain felt dying at the foot of the tree; it was Mary, the Mother, who felt all the pain of this world. Did that mob notice the presence of that woman? No, people, but time passed and She whose name was not even known, was considered as the Mother of the Redeemer as a man and as the Mother of humanity spiritually. In the hearts of men, an altar was raised to that heavenly tenderness that, through Mary, appeared to the world.

Love one another!

60. As one who goes to a fountain for water to irrigate his lands, so humanity comes before the manifestation of my word. Everyone has a portion, a family or a people to feed spiritually and knows that only in Me can he find the crystalline water that makes his lands flourish and bear fruit satisfactorily.

61. My heart as a Teacher receives touched those emissaries who come from distant regions on behalf of a multitude; I, through them, sent to those hearts my message of peace and my lesson of wisdom.

62. You do well to look for me in the bosom of those who have listened to me the most, because they have learned a lot, but do not forget that it is not necessary to cross material distances to find me, because I am everywhere. The only distance you will have to travel to feel my presence is the one that exists between your materiality and spiritual goods

63. Return in peace to your home, to your region or to the bosom of your congregation, but first put on zeal, justice and energy so that you lead your multitudes on the right path, so that you do not let anyone profane this doctrine with their works, so that you carry in your heart balm to wipe away the cry of your brothers who day after day knock on the doors asking for your charity. Make my doctrine appear by your works as what it is: a true source of love, forgiveness and redemption.

64. Meditate on your past, analyze your present and you will be convinced that you have really been sent to earth to fulfill this mission. It is not the words of man that will persuade you of this truth, but the proofs that I have sent you in your path. Convinced of the truth of these teachings, devote yourselves to the performance of your mission with all the zeal and love of which you are capable.

65. The Master says to you: Do not enclose this work within a routine, however pure it may seem to you, saying: Lord, how perfect is your work, because beyond what you contemplate there is something higher that you will reach tomorrow; and thus, from one rung to another, you will go eternally without ever getting to glimpse the limits of my wisdom because it does not have them.

66. Do not stand still, nor do you walk in a hurry, measure your steps and affirm each one of them with study and meditation.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Love one another!

1. Welcome on this day of remembrance in which you commemorate the moment when for the first time humanity heard my word through human understanding. The years have passed and I contemplate that the understandings that I have used, as well as those who have listened to me, have developed. They are no longer the little ones in the spiritual sense, nor the ignorant before the manifestation of the Divinity; by the elevation they have reached, they have achieved that the light of the Master comes to manifest among humanity, for the perfection of your spiritual life.
2. The ignorance of the spiritual truths in which humanity was, was destroyed with my light and man understood that the power of the Almighty was limited in an act of love, to make himself heard and felt through his children.
3. Since then, a new era has been born for men, who will no longer find barriers that prevent them from enjoying and recreating the spirit with the grace that this work contains.
4. Since then, all my disciples were free from that false belief of eternal damnation if they died in sin, or of an imperishable happiness, if death surprised them clean of all stain. You woke up and presented the path of evolution that every spirit follows through reincarnation until reaching perfection to inhabit the spiritual without having to inhabit the earth anymore. You understood the reason for the restitution and the meaning of the tests.
5. The sinners who came before Me, understood that eternal damnation does not exist and rose up full of hope and faith to work for the benefit of the spirit.
6. A new conception of what spiritual life is arose in the minds of those and the one who was dead to faith was reborn for that life. This miracle was realized through my communication by means of human understanding.
7. At first I allowed you to continue with your customs and religious traditions, because your spirit was saturated with them and your senses were accustomed, but as my teaching was making light in your spirit, those rites and practices disappeared. Stimulated by the wonders that you achieved by faith, you managed to repeat what Jesus said to you in the Second Time: "The miracle is done by faith".
8. What I gave you in the year of 1866 was a reminder of the law that was made known to you from Moses and of the word of Jesus, the Only Begotten, who came to teach you in the Second Time.

Love one another!

9. It was necessary that at this Time you should be reminded that the law was promulgated from the First Time.

10. The fulfillment that you must give to my law has no limitations; now in one way, tomorrow in another, you must always seek the good for your brother. My law is not a mandate that is imposed by force, it is an eternal invitation to good. I will not impose good on you, I will inspire you and I will wait for you to feel it, so that when you practice it, you will feel that you have fulfilled the law of God.

11. Throughout the ages, man has forged in his mind an image of God, through which he has sought Him and worshiped Him. But since there was confusion in the practice of beliefs, the Father has used envoys and emissaries, men enlightened by my Divinity, who have come to clarify confused ideas. Among them are my spokespersons, whom I have prepared to make you hear my word of light through them. While some have listened to the divine messages with interest, others, feeling that their deep-rooted customs were being combated, have felt repulsion towards the call of my messengers.

12. All the messengers of my Divinity have had to suffer ridicule; all of them have known human cruelty and ingratitude. In each epoch, my forerunners have come to preach and to practice what I have entrusted to them, always in accordance with the spiritual advancement of humanity.

13. I have always manifested my existence to you as the Creator of the universe and I gave you to understand from the beginning that the basis for inhabiting this world in peace were love and charity. Then you discovered that there was something in your being that did not belong to matter; that feeling, taking shape in your heart, revealed to you the existence of the spirit and the conviction that after this life there was another for that spirit: eternity.

14. When Jesus dwelt as a man with you, he showed you his always new and always eternal doctrine, which pointed out to you the way you should follow to find it again; and in the Third Time you have listened to me again, now as the Holy Spirit, through the understanding of man.

15. Every time I have come to you, I have turned you away from the worship of false deities, to guide you on the true path. The Divine Spirit has indeed come upon you, showing the world that his word, as the seed of love, is the life that is born, grows and is perfected. When Christ finished His work, he said, "Everything is finished," that is, that lesson had reached its end. However, earlier he had promised to return among men because he still had new lessons in store for them.

Love one another!

16. And here is the Master among you, revealing to you the new teachings and reminding you of the forgotten ones, so that you may always keep in mind the duties of your spirit, which must be the true image of the Creator, towards the Father and towards your brothers.

17. After my stay as Jesus among men, I have always come to those who as soldiers or apostles came to confirm my doctrine with their works and to prevent humanity from distorting my teachings; but many deaf and blind, interpreting my word imperfectly, divided their opinions, thus creating diversity of sects. And if men are spiritually divided, how can they love one another, according to the highest precept of my law? That is why I tell you that this civilization is only apparent, because men themselves destroy it. As long as humanity does not build a world on the foundations of my law of justice and love, it will not be able to have the peace and light of the spirit, on whose virtues I would create and forge a true world of elevation, both in the spirit, in science and in morality.

18. If you could already conduct yourselves obeying the dictates of your conscience, the Divinity would not have to materialize to remind you of your duties. If you already understood that the blood of the perfect man, who was Jesus, was poured out to show you the way of your salvation, you would continually seek me on that path; but you do not; but I love you and I come to seek those who have forgotten me, to renew my promise to them, telling them that the "kingdom of heaven" still awaits them. I do not bring to you a new doctrine, nor a new law, but many new revelations; but whatever He teaches you, it will be to lead you to the fulfillment of that maxim that says to you, "Love one another."

19. As you listen to my lessons and learn from Me, your spirit becomes more and more enlightened. It will then be useless for you to try to deceive yourselves, because he as a judge will claim you. In vain will you try to justify your bad deeds, because conscience will relentlessly point out your mistakes until you amend them. You will be your judges. Because: I do not dictate sentences, nor do I indicate to you the place that after this life you are going to occupy in the world of the spirit; I only inspire you to carve out light and peace for the hereafter. In this way I show you that there is an intimate relationship between God and man. Love me, even if you can't imagine what I'm like. I have no form, I am simply love, power, wisdom, everything that exists. But if you cannot conceive all these virtues, look at me and imagine me through Jesus; but remember that He told you, "Whoever knows the Son knows the Father."

20. When you love, when you feel impelled to practice charity, when you have to forgive, imagine Jesus, feel him, let him live in your heart. Then you will truly be like your Father, both in love and in that you spiritually have no form, because you are light.

Love one another!

21. Beloved humanity: I contemplate you tired and burdened by the weight of your faults; you ask me for a balm that heals your spirit and your matter and I say to you: Undertake a struggle with yourselves, penetrate into your interior and get to know yourselves. Judge yourselves with the light of your conscience so that you may know why you are suffering at this time; and so, full of firm resolutions, to obey my law, you may pluck out the germ of evil and be healed. The weed will be cut off by the roots and thrown into the fire. Man is not the weed that grows on the earth, but sin, ignorance that has multiplied, invading hearts; but my word comes to enlighten the human spirit, my inspirations and revelations will stop the advance of evil and turn the heart of man into fertile soil, and in those lands I will sow my seed until it bears abundant fruit.

22. I am the doctor who comes in search of the sick. When you are tired of suffering and you do not find a pious hand to heal you, come to Me, pray and enter into communion with Me and I will pour out the comfort you need; I will not judge your past, I will lead you to the path of fulfillment and step by step I will transform you into men of good will.

23. Promise yourselves to make amends; do not swear before Me, for the flesh is fragile and can betray you.

24. When the times are adverse, do not despair, do not blaspheme; resist the storms, accept the trials and your spirit will be strengthened and will reach perfection.

25. I will stop the ambition of men. The destruction will have a limit and after the day, of which the prophets have spoken to you, when human pride will be brought down. I will grant to each creature peace, according to his merits, and a new dawn will shine for this world. Who can penetrate my high judgments? Who will dare you to destroy what I have formed within you? The spirit is untouchable; if they destroy the body, the spirit whose essence is immortal will remain, and consciousness as a law will continue to guide the steps of this one, until he reaches Me.

26. Everyone who bends to the divine judgment will find the channel that leads to perfection. I have pointed out the destiny of each spirit; its beginning and its end are in Me. Great happenings await you along the way. He will fight one battle after another; but in all his steps he will find me and my love will strengthen him. The Father will not depart from the son and when he has returned to the divine bosom, there will be a feast in heaven and joy in this world. Then, Teacher and disciples gathered together will be able to meet.

27. Truly I tell you: Not only in this world do I have disciples; also in the hereafter the spirits receive my teaching and listen to this same word that you hear; even those who by their elevation and light are teachers, come to hear the word of the Divine Teacher. Just as in your world there are material differences, according to the preparation that each one possesses, also in the spiritual world there are many rungs on the ladder of perfection.

28. Just as you come to hear me to know how you should carry out your mission, the beings of light are also preparing to listen to me in order to serve their Father better and better; that is why whenever I speak to you, I find myself surrounded by multitudes. In that hour one and the other are united with bonds, divine of love.

29. In the spiritual valley they are indistinguishable from each other, no one is unknown; there is a great attraction and charity between all. The same must be done by the spiritualist people in the nations, religions and sects, until fraternity among humanity is achieved.

30. The new disciples will see the prophecies that announced the kingdom of Christ in the universe come true.

31. Know that those who inhabit other worlds, from there serve me and receive my orders; they will come to you as Cyrenians and fellow travelers, manifesting their strength and light on your way; they will speak to you through the gift of revelation; likewise future generations, those who will take a step ahead of yours, will receive in their understanding the light of great spirits.

32. Recognize by all this that I reveal to you, that not everything that happens in your world is the work of men; know how to discover the influence of the spiritual world in your life.

33. My teaching has given you enough knowledge to break the veils of fanaticism and ignorance, those veils that prevent you from contemplating the truth.

34. Let your spirit free, before which infinite spaces open up; do not subject him to believe only in the forms that your imagination creates. Let him be inspired by my lessons, let him discover and let him see, so he will acquire wisdom. If you want to be great in spirit, help him in his development, do not stagnate him in fanaticism. Everything evolves, everything changes and is perfected; only my law is immutable and immovable, because it has always been and will always be perfect. She is the guide of the world, she is the divine counsel, the light that inspires good.

35. Tomorrow you will speak under my inspiration and while that moment arrives, the spiritual world penetrates the heart of man to guide humanity towards the path that will lead it to the kingdom of peace.

Love one another!

36. My will has chosen sinners, because I did not come to seek the righteous; those are already safe; but already my charity has drawn you out; show your life to your brothers as a mirror, as an example and a proof of regeneration.

37. I know of the struggles that exist in your own spirit, of the weaknesses of your heart, that sometimes you do not find the strength to get ahead in the trials and it is when you raise your supplication to the Master asking him to come to your aid, it is when before Him you confess yourself unworthy of my gifts and my graces.

38. That is why I have come to you and said to you, Drink of the essence of my word, for it is my own blood, which will wash you and save you.

39. The spirits were ecstatic listening to me, the hearts beat hastily when receiving the light of my word, the lips begin to babble the first phrases of spirituality; they are those of the new disciples who are born to true life.

40. I saw your smallness and your poverty, at the same time as a great humility and conformity in your spirit, and when the propitious moment had arrived, I came to bring you your inheritance.

41. When the crowds began to arrive at the places where my word is manifested, I only contemplated orphaned hearts. Then you listened to my word, the essence of which, like a powerful balm, did the miracle of lifting you to life.

42. Only my word, only this doctrine could teach you to seek in your being the existence of your spirit, its powers, its attributes, its missions.

43. Now, when you begin to get to know each other, you begin to experience a great confidence in life, a real and true faith in Me, a peace that you did not know before.

44. Do you not think it is right that your spirit should know the way it should go? That is what I wanted when I gave you my teaching. Remember that from that time I said to you, "I am the way, whoever comes along it does not stumble."

45. Not only those who listen to me through the understanding of these spokespersons will be wise; no, I am preparing everything so that my word, even after ceasing to manifest through these channels, reaches all places on earth, because my message is for all the peoples that make up humanity.

46. Multitudes, who arrived sick and who have been healed with the balm of my word, understand that you did not only come to heal the evil that afflicted you; understand that the true purpose of my call has been to reveal to you the spiritual mission that you must fulfill for your brothers.

Love one another!

47. Do not be content to rejoice that you have regained your faith, also seek for your spirit the joy that works of charity give. Let your testimony not be concrete to say: The Master healed me, but also do the same with your fellow men, because then you will be fulfilling for Me and for them, you will be testifying to the love of your Father.

48. Whoever does not feel charity towards those in need, whoever does not experience in his heart the pain of others, will not have taken the step that it is necessary to take on my way to call himself a disciple of Christ.

49. I have found you hardened, indifferent and selfish to others and I have started by pouring out my benefits on you, sweetening your heart and sensitizing fibers, so that later you could fix your attention on others and also forget about yourselves.

50. Today the world ignores that I am gathering a people whose voice will one day be heard everywhere. I will send the new disciples to preach; but it will be until I find them prepared, when they will know how to face the struggle and men will not be able to silence them because before, they will have given them resounding proofs of my truth.

51. Humanity does not know about the gifts that I am revealing to this people, which are the gifts that every man and every spirit possesses. When my disciples have developed these gifts and have prepared themselves, they will be able to give a broad and true testimony at their hands.

52. This people will still have to fight a lot to achieve their preparation and their spirituality; many tests will have to pass to purify themselves from the scourges that still accompany them; but my word, spoken in these times will be fulfilled, as the one that I revealed to humanity in the past times has been fulfilled and you will see the spiritual seed spread along all the roads of the earth, like an irrepressible torrent of crystalline waters, washing, purifying, sweeping away everything evil, fertilizing the fields, bringing life and truth to all the regions.

53. What does the strength of men mean in the face of my power? What can the opposition of materialistic peoples do against the infinite force of spirituality? Nothing. I have allowed man to go to the limit of his ambitions and to the summit of his pride so that he can verify that the gift of free will with which he was endowed by his Father was a truth; but there, reaching the limit, he will open his eyes to light and love to bow before my presence surrendered to the only absolute power and the only universal wisdom that is that of your God.

54. Fight and persevere, people, and truly I say to you, I will grant you to contemplate the fulfillment of my word.

Love one another!

55. Feel, beloved disciples, how divine love manifests itself when you repent of your faults; my Spirit is then at peace with men.

56. Through human understanding you have had me as an understanding and tender Father, correcting with wisdom and infinite patience your imperfections.

57. At this time I have come to leave you in simple words the most sublime expression of what spirituality is. I have come to teach you the most practical way to fulfill, so that the disciple of this work may walk without stumbling on the path traced by my charity from eternity.

58. Spiritualism has not been creating new laws, it only reveals to you the way to ascend and walk without stopping, within the law of all times.

59. The spirit is originally pure and if he has been contaminated with impurities in the world before he will have to purify himself until he reaches the triumph in this cause entrusted to him.

60. The spiritualist, by conviction, must eliminate from himself everything that he judges causes him backwardness; because my word will not be imposed by fear, it will convert and persuade by making his truth and his love felt, as the doctrine of Christ in the Second Time was not imposed either.

61. Today Christ, the Teacher, tells you: That miracle of being transformed by my word, faith does.

62. Who doubts my presence at this time? Who can limit the powers of those who can do everything? Who can prevent the Master from coming to manifest himself for a human creature, who is his masterpiece, made in his image and likeness as to the spirit?

63. From this explanation that I give you, take its content as a weapon so that you explain these manifestations to the unbeliever tomorrow.

64. You will be besieged by the questions of fools and enemies of this cause, but do not be afraid, for I will be with you. First, I have let you know the paths, the crossroads and the dangers so that, knowing good and evil, you will always be able to discover the true way, which will return you to your origin, to the bosom of the Father from where you sprang.

65. If man dwells on earth, it is by the will of the Father; through Him He breathes and lives; and in that human form your Lord took to live in the world and let good and evil approach Him, allowing Himself to be tempted in his humility. If I became a man out of love, to live among you, why should I not manifest myself through the understanding of man, whom I love so much and whom I seek to help him to be saved?.

Love one another!

66. Every human being feels his own spirit living within him and sometimes feels the longing for an invisible hand to reach out to him. When grief invades his heart he looks up to heaven in search of resignation and screams from the depths of his being to be heard. How can he think that his voice reaches the Creator and that his afflicted face is seen by Him? How can he entertain the idea that his Lord knows him? Because in the spirit there are faculties that make him sense and know the Father to implore him when what he is looking for is not found on earth; if this is how you come to understand my lessons, why not believe that God can manifest Himself through the attributes of man, if he is a part of God himself?.

67. Man, no matter how materialistic he may be, will sense a power that is above all and that presentiment or intuition of my existence will convince him that these manifestations are subject to a principle of truth, justice and love.

68. It is true that it has been necessary for the man donated for this service to have sufficient conviction to perform such a delicate position and that when he did not know how to put aside his weaknesses and inclinations towards the material in time to receive my divine ray, the manifestation did not have the external splendor that the listeners always craved, even when behind the imperfections of matter the essence and the truth of the Divine Spirit was always present.

69. If when studying my word you find any difference in the expression, let this not confuse you, because it is of no importance; inspiration reaches all the spokespersons and they give it the expression, according to the perfection it has reached within the language.

70. Seek the essence, which is the one that you must carry with you.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Love one another!

Teaching 193

1. Your spirit comes to receive my teaching and I welcome it.
2. Disciples: You must be alert because men will rise up to search my work, which some will judge based on material sciences; then you will make it known as the spiritual doctrine that will transform the world.
3. It is not that it comes against science, since science is knowledge, knowledge, light; it is that my teaching is above all human knowledge. In my word I come to explain to you spiritualism, which means, knowledge of the spiritual, of the divine, knowledge of a higher life, which is beyond everything that is matter. Truly, I bless the science that men have developed for the benefit of humanity.
4. This is the time when there will be a lot of talk about spirit and science. Science is not only the privilege of those who prepare themselves materially to know it, because it is light that springs from the spirit, who receives it from God.
5. My divine teaching is a superior science that teaches you to perfect the spirit; I have also given you the brain and the heart, so that there you may polish your inspiration and your feelings.
6. The knowledge that I am giving you has no limits, it is universal, it is infinite, in it you will find the true knowledge of spiritual life and material life.
7. I find you already qualified to understand my teaching and to penetrate its mysteries. By means of material science you are knowing the laws that govern the entire creation and that is condensed in your own body and when you have studied a lot and come to know the laws that were previously a mystery to you, you find yourself at the threshold of the afterlife, where the heart of the Father awaits you who tries to communicate with you every moment. What can you ignore knowing my doctrine?.
8. That is why I tell you that my humble teaching gives you the superior knowledge that will prevent your heart from wavering in the presence of the wise men of this world.
9. In order for you to reveal the meaning of any event in nature or in your life, you will not have to resort to books of science to consult them, it will be enough for you to prepare your understanding and cleanse your heart, so that inspiration flows from your lips.
10. If you, being within my work, feel inferior and despise the help that you can reach with your prayer, they will call you clumsy and ignorant.

Love one another!

11. Understand that when I have told you that at this time I have come to communicate with you through the understanding of ignorant beings, I wanted to tell you that for my communication I did not choose those who you call sages or philosophers; however, a brain that lets my inspiration pass reveals light in the spirit and light is wisdom.

12. Again I say to you: Fight, because while the spirit is on the path of evolution, it will be exposed to temptations. That is why I teach you and give you strength, so that you may overcome your evil inclinations. If your spirit is strong, he will give strength to the mind and firm will to the heart to overcome the desires of the flesh. When man lacks light, his spirit does not evolve; then all the vicissitudes have a strong impact on his heart and he is like a small boat that is shipwrecked in the middle of the storm.

13. When a man is spiritually prepared, it is as if he were wearing an invulnerable armor against the lurks of temptation.

14. I have revealed these teachings to you, so that when for a moment you fall or stumble on the way, you will recognize your fault and seek the way of amendment.

15. If you behave with humility, your spiritual flow will increase in the life that awaits you. Then you will get peace, which will give you the most beautiful feeling of your existence. The desire to serve the Father will be born in your spirit, being a faithful guardian of what He created, being a consolation for the one who suffers and peace for the one who has no rest.

16. It is not only my word that announces my presence to you in these moments, it is your own spirit, which feels me deeply.

17. I welcome you. This is the essence of my word that comes to feed your heart so that your feelings harmonize with the spirit. Without knowing your sciences or philosophies, you are acquiring wisdom. You are seers and have gifts of intuition and revelation, through which you receive my inspiration.

18. Before men unite in my law, there will be rumors of war. Humanity will be purified and then the reign of the Holy Spirit will come.

19. It is up to you to interpret the word that the Master gave you through the understanding of man. Do not make doctrines that divide you from my divine teaching, because it is the universal doctrine that will unite you all.

20. Understand that you are able to overcome the reluctance of the subject in order to put my lessons into practice. You will do well, sowing love and charity and with it you will have given light and progress to your spirit.

Love one another!

21. I leave you responsible for this word that you have heard, which you will deliver with the purity with which you have received it.

22. My coming at this time is a new invitation to the path of the law and the whole essence of this word is summarized in that maxim that I have taught you for a long time: "Love one another".

23. Be content with the trials, see that you are not a disinherited people but one that, in one way or another, has always enjoyed my pleasures.

24. Mary, the sweet Mother, also comes through human understanding to give you her caress and to fill you with strength so that you are not surprised by the tiredness in your life.

25. Blessed is the spirit, for he beholds the face of his Father. Blessed are you who have attained freedom of thought and have rejected forms and dogmas to seek me. My teaching has come to enlighten your understanding and now you know that work, feelings and purity of heart are the best way to worship the Father and fulfill His Law. In this way man comes to the perfect communication of man with his Creator, the spiritual communication where the son can say: Father, your will be done in me and the Father can answer him: "Love one another as I love you". That voice will resonate in the consciousness of everyone who so rises. That voice will shape the heart and spirit of whoever comes to Me. That communion will be like a balm for the spirit that in this life becomes acrisolated and purified through matter, to acquire wisdom and come to know its Creator.

26. That is why I have told you that what you learn in this world will serve you for the way that leads the spirit to eternal life. If you fulfill your mission in this life and take advantage of its lessons, when you leave matter you will be like the dew that descends from flowers, because you will come to inspire good in hearts.

27. Feel your Lord in your spirit and feel the supreme joy of dwelling in Him, because Jehovah, the Creator, is in everything and that joy must be increased in you by contemplating that I have come again communicating through the human understanding, to continue delivering my lessons to you. Unite your joy to that which overflows from my spiritual world, those beings who come to tell you in their message, that their world with being infinitely greater than yours, is only an atom of the world of perfection.

28. These hours that you spend with Me, you have not lost them, they are light for your spirit, because he is illuminated with the wisdom of the Master. If, from the bottom of your being, a voice arises that says: Master, I believe in you, because with your word you not only give wisdom to our spirit, but also strength and hope to endure the pains of this life, in truth, your spirit will have spoken.

29. Today you are learning to converse with Me, saturating yourselves with the spiritual meaning of my teaching.

30. In this, which is the last time of complacency, I recommend that you fulfill my commands. I will leave you my legacy of love through which men will unite with each other and all with the Lord.

31. Your heart tells me: Master, after the year 1950, whom will we welcome? I answer you, By my word, which as a testament I will leave printed for you.

32. You will stay a few moments on earth to fulfill my orders and when I announce my imminent departure I will tell you as at that time to the apostles: "Where I am going, you cannot go now, but the time will come when you will go where I am going now".

33. To help you climb, my consoling words descend to you. Each one of them is a ray of light that comes to illuminate your mind so that it conceives feelings and ideas worthy of your Father and of yourselves.

34. The spiritualist will be recognized by his word humble and simple in its form, but profound in its meaning.

35. The spiritualist will not seek his own good, but will know how to give himself entirely to others. That disciple will come to fill a hole in the heart of humanity; he will help his brothers to perfect their idea of God. It is indeed easy to serve and live in harmony with others.

36. The apostles of this doctrine will make the world understand that it is not necessary that they offer me enclosures or temples full of luxuries, to compensate me for the offenses they have committed against their father or their brothers.

37. When man knows that he is more essence than matter, he will offer to his Lord the flowers of the eternal part of his being: his spirit.

38. Opposing forces will oppose the development of spirituality, because what has been believed and practiced and has reigned for centuries, some will not want it to fall.

39. My divine teaching does not come to impose itself by force, nor to instill any fear. She will gently penetrate the spirit and the heart by persuasion, by her truth, by her justice.

40. In all parts of the world men are looking for the reason of what they call phenomena and which are the proper manifestations of the evolution of everything in creation.

Love one another!

41. Humanity has learned a lot, the difference that exists between the one that inhabits the earth today and that of past times is great. Also spiritually you will have great advancement, which will amaze you when you compare it with the spiritual backwardness in which you lived.

42. Be prepared for when the fight comes, strengthen your faith and temper the spirit to face those who are going to fight. My team is still with you to give you the final touches and make the last recommendations.

43. I want you to be intimately convinced and firm in following me to the end. Your heart says to me: Do you doubt us, Master? And I say to you, Have you not sworn oaths many times to follow me and in an instant of trial doubt has come to you?

44. I do not impose conditions on you, nor do I demand sacrifices from you. I only let you know that the good that you do to your fellow men is a good that you will do to yourselves.

45. Give my teaching and do all the charity you can without profiting from it. Don't fool anyone. If your actions still lack purity, it is time for you to correct yourselves; trust in Me, in your Master.

46. There are times when you implore my strength so that you can serve your brother, knowing that you too are poor in the world; misery frightens you and your heart falters. In those moments you don't trust Me.

47. When suffering overwhelms you, you ask that it instantly disappear because it seems unbearable to you. It is that there is no perfection in you because your spirit lacks development. You do not think you deserve purification, you fail to discover that pain is often just a lesson so that later you can better understand the one who suffers.

48. Take full advantage of your stay on earth, suffer with love, upliftment and patience, so that right here you will purify yourselves of your stains, and when the pain passes and peace penetrates your heart again, enjoy it and prolong it. Even with your way of suffering you will have to give example and teaching. I do not want the spiritualist to be judged eloquent in his word and reprehensible in his actions. You must always confirm your faith and your words with worthy deeds.

49. Do not forget that when you implore my help, I will have already anticipated to clear your path.

50. Fulfill according to your conscience, so that when the moment of your judgment comes, you will be able to answer for your actions. Do not expect punishment from Me; my justice has never punished; then my love would not have strength. Each one is his own judge, and how many times have I had to save you from yourselves, because within you you carry the enemy that is evil, selfishness, vanity.

Love one another!

51. From all this you will understand that one life is not enough for the spirit to purify himself.

52. The time will come when you will be able to serve as a teacher; then I will be with you to help you in difficult moments.

53. In your heart you say to me: Father, blessed are you because you have come to us, since we have not been able to come to You.

54. The man for whom I am communicating disappears from your sight and only my divine essence remains, which your spirit collects in the moments of my communication.

55. You well know that these matters have nothing, they are divine, that they are only instruments that transmit my message; that is why you freely let your spirit escape away from all material influence, to enjoy my presence.

56. I often tell you about the true fulfillment performed by the spokesman, so that you know to what extent he can give perfection to his word, to what limit his capacity for understanding reaches and then you can analyze with justice each of my manifestations, with full knowledge of what you should attribute to me, such as wisdom and essence, and what you should grant to the spokesman, which is his good preparation; in this way you will not be able to fall into errors, attributing to me the imperfections of those through whom I communicate or, on the contrary, attributing to the speaker the wisdom and power that my Spirit gave through him.

57. This is how I will speak to you often, because you are in danger of becoming fanatical about the material form of this work, a form that the spokesman has represented, because it is the instrument of my communication.

58. If you do not meditate on all this in time, your attachment to all material practices will be so great that you will not be able to get rid of your materiality when the moment of trial comes. What is that moment of proof I'm talking about? It is that day when I will have to give you my last word through a spokesman.

59. I have not kept the appointed date a secret, so that you may all find yourselves prepared for that day.

60. This town is a large one and there are many branches of it; however, there is not a place where I would not have expressed my will to conclude my communication in the year 1950.

Love one another!

61. You all know that this communication will not be eternal, that from the first days of my manifestation I made it known to the people, that only for a while I would communicate in this way with men.

62. Other revelations that I have made in all the precincts where my word has vibrated is the one in which I have told you that you are destined to communicate from spirit to Spirit in the future, that is, already without the mediation of men, of external symbols or cults.

63. The same in the enclosure that shelters large crowds, as in the humble place where a few disciples gather, the same in the big cities, as in the provinces and in small villages, the essence of my work has been manifested; you are able to take the step firmly towards spirituality; I have strengthened you in each of my lessons so that when the decisive hour arrives when you have to demonstrate your obedience, humility and love to the Master, you will be able to imitate him, sacrificing yourself if necessary and renouncing what for a long time was your incentive, with the full knowledge that this renunciation will mean for the whole people a great step forward on the path of spirituality.

64. If you do not listen to these preparation lessons, there will be a very painful awakening for those who do not now give them the importance that they contain. That awakening may be the day of my departure or some time after, but it will always be painful.

65. I want to spare you the trials to which disobedience, misinterpretation or foolishness can lead you; but if, after all I have taught and warned you, someone believing himself stronger than Me, wiser and more entitled than I to issue orders, knowingly does not comply with what I have ordered, he will have drafted and signed his sentence, the magnitude of which will be in accordance with the dimensions of his fault.

66. Where my word has flourished the most, it will be where there is the greatest responsibility, because it was where my teaching shone the brightest and my work was defined the most; therefore, from those places the best example must come out to others, to the little ones, so that everyone may do my will.

67. While some come from distant places, others come from nearby regions, all in pursuit of this word that fills your heart with peace. Do not ask humanity, if it is true that I have manifested in this time. What can those who are ignorant of my coming and my new revelations tell you? In the depths of your heart is my word and in yourselves you will find its meaning.

68. I have called you, I have chosen you; it has not been the orders of men, it has been my will that has brought you closer to these humble places where you listen to my word.

Love one another!

It has been a while since I was calling you to listen to my teachings, because this manifestation is about to end. Some arrived early and many were recreated, others arrived late, but they will know how to take advantage of them.

69. It was not chance that brought you to this path. You are the people of yesterday, today and forever, the people who have been given vestments through which only I have been able to recognize you. I, Who am the Father who watches over the days and nights of the beloved son, have come to you to make a new call and reveal to you that you are spiritually the same ones to whom in times past the path of life and truth was traced.

70. This existence is one more opportunity that has been entrusted to you so that you can take advantage of it by fulfilling my laws and mandates. The times have passed, today I have come to make the call to you through the understandings prepared by my Divinity.

71. Elijah manifested himself spiritually through the brains, which I later used, and through these channels you received the explanation of the past revelations. By the understanding of the first, those who were to follow them on the path were prepared, those who later multiplied, letting my voice be heard in many regions. I have called them spokespeople.

72. Today, three years before my word ceases, I come to ask of those hearts that they transmit the pure inspiration of the Most High and that penetrating their own consciousness, they recognize that both their work and my word will have to reach their culmination in these last moments. For this it is necessary to arrive at the sacrifice, to remain willing and prepared as they never were before.

73. Temptations will lie in wait for them, but they will not be alone, because I will place angels or spirits of light on their right and left to watch over their steps.

74. Until today humanity has not been able to communicate spiritually and directly with Me. That is why I have always sent the beings of light for whom I have spoken to the world. Why are you surprised now, if I spoke through the mouth of Moses and the prophets to mankind? Many beings in the afterlife ask me to send them to the world to incarnate to provide help to this humanity that is succumbing; but I have told them: The messengers are already on earth; my emissaries are already designated and scattered throughout the world. They are all part of my people and will have to give proof of their strength and elevation.

75. You will not come to Me with empty hands or with empty wheat, because you will not feel worthy even to think about Me.

76. Look at men in different parts of the world and through various religions waiting for the ray of my light and waiting for my voice to speak to them. Hear their prayers and their supplications, hear how they implore my coming, saying to me: Father, we have been waiting for you for a long time and you have not appeared, we have already suffered a lot and you, our Savior, have not come to our aid.

77. Wake up from your sleep, disciples, so that you may let humanity know my spiritual work; then I will say to those who love me: Wait a little longer, for the moment will soon come when you will feel me approaching your heart.

78. Disciples: Strengthen yourselves in my word, and if at times you weaken after much struggle in barren lands, I will give you a truce and then you will rise up with great courage. Have serenity and live alert.

79. Make humanity believe in my coming by your own acts. Consecrate your home to the good, to charity, to love, but not only for those who live inside it, open its doors and let the needy, the sick, the sad enter through them. With the charity with which I have received you in these precincts, receive your brothers and sisters into your homes.

80. Study my word, analyze what I have told you; it is not necessary that you look for the books of the earth to instruct you in the spiritual I have been your book and my spiritual world one of its pages; come to it.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Love one another!

Teaching 194

1. My love is with you. Draw near to this fountain, walkers of life; come and drink, O distressed hearts, hands that reach out in need to Me, carry my charity, all of you rest here, under the shade of the tree of life.
2. Not all of you come crying, also among the crowds there are those who come grateful for the last benefits received and in their hearts they tell me: Thank you, Father, your charity is infinite with us.
3. It is the eternal Spirit of love who is among you, the One who once became man in order to dwell with humanity, saving it from vice, sin and darkness.
4. I am the same; the times do not pass over Me, it is they who are under my will. That is why I come to remind you of your past and to announce to you what you will be in tomorrow.
5. I come to remind you of those words that in the Second Time I wrote in the heart of humanity and the bloody traces of calvary with which I marked my passage through the world.
6. In my word there is the honey that can sweeten your existence and put away forever the bitterness, which has been in all times the sad taste of your life.
7. If before you did not understand why I gave you the earth, now you will come to the knowledge of your destiny and your mission, so that you will not err again.
8. Get out of your parking lot; the mission of all spirits is to evolve, transform and renew constantly until you reach perfection.
9. I have come to announce to you a new era, a new time in which you will come out of your spiritual lethargy and ascend one more step on the path that leads to the top of Mt. But not only my word announces to you the new time and speaks to you of evolution and perfection; also the nature that surrounds you demonstrates it through its language that you do not want to hear or understand. She is also preparing to take a step towards perfection, because as time passes, her breast will be the shelter of more evolved and perfect beings; therefore, that dwelling has to be in harmony with those who come to inhabit it.
10. Have you not noticed any signs in the elements, in the seasons, in the firmament, on earth or in the seas? Are you blind and do not contemplate those signs of which I speak to you, or deaf so as not to hear their voices? Know and announce it to humanity, as the prophets of ancient times did, that soon your planet will shake in all orders, like a tree when it is shaken by a hurricane; thus the earth will shake and only the leaves that have life will remain on the branches of the tree, because the dry ones will be detached and swept away by the whirlwind.

11. Those days will be a test for all men and only in prayer and in goodness will they find refuge and peace.

12. How beautiful it would be if a people arose on earth, that it would be like a savior, that it would be like a beacon in the darkness and peace in the midst of confusion! Would it not please you to be that people? The word that you are receiving encloses and teaches everything that you need to be able to be a bulwark of humanity in the moments of trial.

13. My presence among you and the communication of my word have not been just for chance; all this has a meaning and that is that you have been called to hear the voice that comes to open the new time, so that you may rise up full of love and faith to spread the message received.

14. When this doctrine emerges in all its purity and truth in the world, men will come to it as the thirsty and tired pilgrim goes in pursuit of the oasis through the desert.

15. You cannot yet say that this teaching has made itself felt on earth, because you have concretized to receive my divine messages.

16. In order for this people to rise up carrying the spiritual seed with all the light and essence with which I have entrusted it to you, they will first go through many confusions, make mistakes, contradictions and desecrations.

17. Good practice, true worship and good behavior will come, when the disciples of the Third Time give my word the right interpretation and with their works bear witness to my teachings.

18. Spirituality has not yet been defined among this people, because it has not managed to get rid of old traditions and customs, and by mixing its practices and external cults with my spiritual doctrine, it is thereby preventing men from contemplating the truth of this work.

19. In my arcanum I reserve great wonders and works to overflow them in the world through this people, when it is prepared.

20 I am waiting for the spirituality of these multitudes, whom I have doctinated and inspired long enough for their preparation until now I do not contemplate the fruit that I hope for. Where is your harmony and fraternity? Where is obedience, humility and charity, alien to all petty interests?

Love one another!

21. How far is this people from being able to teach spirituality to the world and how far from being the worthy witness of my word!

22. I have told you that there is a thirst and a hunger of the spirit in humanity, that only a pure and clear doctrine like this will be able to alleviate its anguish and save it; but if this word and this work are not exposed in all their purity, what saving work will those who teach it be able to do? For all this, once I conclude my communication, I will grant this people some time to meditate, pray, spiritualize and prepare. Thus, when he rises up and becomes an emissary of my word, he will be a disciple aware of the mission he is going to fulfill and his testimony will be true.

23. The whole message that this people will bring to the world will be of consolation; in it men will find the secret that encloses each spirit, with its wealth of attributes and gifts unknown until now. In him humanity will find the revelation that will teach it the communication of spirit to Spirit.

24. The good sowers of spiritualism will never be distinguished by anything external or material. There will be no habits, no insignia, no special way of speaking in them. Everything will be simplicity and humility in their actions; however, if they are distinguished for something, it will be for their charity and their spirituality.

25. The true preachers of spiritualism will not be notable for the floridness of their language, but for the wisdom and simplicity of their word, but above all for the truth of their works and goodness of their life.

26. Remember that I on earth did not need the beautiful external language to captivate the hearts of the multitudes, but I knew how to reach them with love, with truth, with balm and wisdom. That is the example that I want you to take into account and imitate.

27. Nor do I want you to enclose your worship in material enclosures, because you will imprison your spirit and you will not let it open its wings, to conquer eternity.

28. The altar that I leave for you to celebrate in it the worship that I hope for is life, without any limitation, beyond all religions, all churches and sects, because it exists in the spiritual, in the eternal, in the divine.

29. Disciples: Although many of you have reached old age with a heart full of experiences, when you heard my word and received my new revelations at this time, you had to confess that before my wisdom you were only infants.

30. It fell to you to be on earth and listen to me in this way at the beginning of the Third Time, so that you could be the faithful witnesses of the Spirit of Truth, those who are able to explain my doctrine to the world.

Love one another!

31. This time, called by Me the time of spiritual light, will be one of great confusion in its beginning. Great questions, deep doubts, uncertainties and struggles of the spirit will arise from man. All this will be a sign for man to awaken to the spiritual life.

32. I want all my disciples to be awake and prepared by then, because it will be necessary for the word to come from their lips to dispel all the darkness or calm the storm. Then you will see how quickly the spiritualist doctrine will spread, because it will be felt in every heart and will calm the pain as water quenches the thirst of the thirsty.

33. Life will then change. Religions, morality, science, philosophy, all concepts will undergo a great transformation and men, finally knowing the true meaning of life, will try to approach the fulfillment of my laws of love, justice and charity.

34. Man will come to understand that his kingdom is not of this world either, that his human body or envelope is only the instrument through whose senses his spirit looks out into this world of trials and restitution. He will conclude by knowing that this life is just a magnificent lesson illustrated with wonderful forms and images, so that the disciples, or all of humanity, can better understand the lessons that life gives them, with which, if they know how to value them, they will reach the evolution of their spirit and understand the purpose of the struggle that is forging them, the pain that polishes them, the work that ennobles, the knowledge that illuminates and the love that elevates.

35. If this existence were the only one, truly I tell you, it has been a long time since I would have removed the pain from it because it would be unjust if you had only come to this world to drink the cup of bitterness; but those who are suffering and crying today, it is because yesterday they delighted excessively; but that pain will purify them and make them worthy to rise to enjoy in a purer way in the Lord's dwellings.

36. At that time I came to teach humanity so that it could learn to live with purity and love in the world. Today I come to teach you so that you may learn to live in spirituality, so that you may prepare to dwell tomorrow in the spiritual valley among beings of light.

37. Humanity: It is only for matter to disintegrate after it has fulfilled its mission close to the spirit to which it served as an instrument or envelope; but the spirit that was in that being, the light of its intelligence, reason, will, feelings, all that never dies, it cannot die, because it is part of the immortal spirit that animated the life of that being on Earth.

38. Beloved children, who are gaining spirits in the paths of the various religions, I tell you that you must teach men to think, that you make them meditate, that you help them to analyze. The rite, the form, the tradition, the external, can no longer satisfy the spirit of the present age; it is necessary to give it light, essence, truth, so that it feels safe on its way, so that in the hours of trial it does not believe that it is going alone.

Love one another!

39. I see different men who believe in Me, their faith is so weak and their knowledge so confused, that they resemble in life those ships that sail without a compass, walkers without a star to point the way, or like sheep without a shepherd.

40. I give you these lessons through some of your brothers, whom I have taken from among the multitudes, to use their understanding to transmit this message to you.

41. Today a village is beginning to form around this word. In the corners of the cities, in the darkness of poverty and in the silence of humble life, the precincts open their doors where I make my doctrine of Father, Judge and Teacher heard.

42. Tomorrow the indifference with which many have seen this message will be broken, the indifference with which many have listened to the rumor of my new presence among men; and the contempt of others for this work will later be taken into interest, causing men to rise up in search of testimonies, news and evidence that will help them affirm their faith.

43. I will make those hearts find the traces of my passage in this time and when they are in front of Me, I will say to them: Welcome, beloved people, concentrate on yourselves and hear my word.

44. Love is what I have manifested to you in all times and now, communicated by the understanding of my chosen ones, I could not manifest myself in any other way.

45. This teaching now sets you on the way to understanding the doctrine that I gave you through Jesus in the Second Time, so that you may keep its essence jealously in your heart and that it may sprout from it when necessary.

46. This word will be felt throughout the universe, because everything is prepared for my spiritual communication with all men, of which they will bear witness.

47. Your spirit has always sought me and I have never left him alone; wherever you have walked, there I have been with you, my love has watched over your steps.

48. In all ages I have sought you and I have seen that your spirit has known how to recognize me. Now it is up to the spirit to know how to impose himself on the weaknesses of matter, in order to make him understand what the way is and what his mission is in this time of grace.

49. I have called you, I have taught you, and you will be the propagators of my teaching, of this word that you will soon cease to hear. The moment is near when Jesus ceases to transmit his Word through the human brain, but your understanding will be prepared to analyze my word and your spirit to receive my inspiration.

Love one another!

50. I am speaking to your spirit, to that atom that was born from mine and that, because it sprung from Me, belongs to me. Just as I said to you at that time, "My kingdom is not of this world," I say to you: Your kingdom is not on earth either; it is beyond everything that dies, beyond everything that changes, and beyond your mind.

51. This is the time when every spirit must watch and awaken to true life. By this I do not mean to imply that you do not know what I have given you in this world, because as long as you live in it, you will have to obey its laws. I only ask you to dedicate a moment of the day to do a good deed with your sister humanity.

52. My blessing be with you, for in you I bless all my children.

53. Let your spirit rest on this day of gathering of all the congregations. As at that time when I chose my disciples, but I also gave my word to everyone who would listen to it, so at this time I come to choose those who are now going to follow me; but I let my word be heard by the great multitudes. The way is for everyone, my bread too, but not everyone will be able to come at the same time; some will do it before and others after, but never turn your eyes back.

54. Those who have formed a sanctuary in their heart are those who follow their Master step by step.

55. The seed that I have come to give you today and to teach you how to cultivate, comes from the mansion of your Father, she will find propitious soil in the heart of humanity. Before, my righteousness as if it were a sickle, comes cutting the weeds that have covered the fields so that the seed can germinate. The lands will be propitious again, in them you will find my footprints, which neither the world, nor men, nor sins, nor passions have been able to erase. My footprints endure over the centuries and will remain fresh in eternity.

56. Men will awaken from their deep lethargy, who, looking inward, will find their spiritual self and, listening to the voice of their conscience, will discover my divine imprint, through which they will come hurriedly to Me. You will have to spread my seed throughout the world and when you come to me to hand over your account, come to your Father even with a grain, but let it be good. If you bring nothing, I will receive you because I am Love and charity, but think that the sowing that you have started, later you will have to come and get it to finish your work. Will you know, perhaps, if the tares will not have covered the lands again and if the plagues will have penetrated there?

57. With this I want to tell you that when you feel my call, come immediately, so that you can take advantage of the time I entrust to you for the fulfillment of your mission.

Love one another!

Meditate on all this and you will see that it is you who will earn the same a reward of goodness and peace that with your right hand you will be able to sign your sentence.

58. Despite the righteousness of my word, it is a loving Father who speaks to you. See how my mantle spreads to cover everyone, without looking at your faults.

59. Study my word, she is the light that illuminates your spirit so that it hears the voice of conscience and this is a time of grace in which this light deeply reaches every man.

60. I am Christ who comes to give himself in love to you, so that you may present to me the pain of humanity, because you are the ones who believe in this manifestation. I tell you, I want to dwell in your heart.

61. How much human blood has been shed on the earth in this time! See my children, in their immense pain, how they seek me and invoke me in different ways, while an intimate foreboding tells them that the time has come when my envoys will approach peoples and men to establish peace.

62. Every religion hopes to see the miracle of my return realized in the bosom of its cult, within its creed or under its forms.

63. And I say to you who believe in my coming, who know how to communicate with me and who are safe, you are the ones indicated to carry this message of love to your brothers.

64. See that men do not find the solution to their conflicts, neither in their laws, nor in their churches, and they feel enveloped in an environment of darkness.

65. The pain has in itself enough strength to stop them in their career and make them raise their gaze to Me, to listen to my voice, as you were stopped on your way, so that you open the eyes of the spirit and contemplate me again. But now you are in charge of making my word known to all men, both to the one who has risen through his talent, and to the one who is lacking in evolution.

66. Only at the first moment will the one who hears the good news be surprised, because then he will remember that since before the Master came in the Second Time, his advent was announced by the prophets, as well as my coming in this time; I myself, through the lips of Jesus, announced it to you, making known to you the signs that would appear as proof of my arrival.

67. When all is accomplished, men will be convinced. Here is the light of the Holy Spirit that has illuminated you in all times, because the divine light was, is and will always be.

Love one another!

68. Again my truth will combat the ignorance from which fanaticism, idolatry and mysticism derive, because the fanatic is blind, the idolater is a materialist and the mystic is a hypocrite.

69. I will illuminate the depths of the abyss, so that from there all spirits will arise clean and enlightened.

70. The development or evolution of the spirit will never stop in eternity, because you are all subject to the law of perfection.

71. If the spirit sometimes comes to stop on its route, it is due to the influence of matter; then it has to make up for lost time by speeding up the passage or through new materials. See that if I judge you, my justice is of love, but never defy it. Love always and you will penetrate in peace into eternal life. When death comes, let not your spirit be troubled, for it will be only for the body, who will penetrate into the peaceful sleep of the grave.

72. Go in peace to the spiritual abode, knowing that the Age of the Holy Spirit, of the Spirit of Truth, has been founded among men.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 195

1. Listen to my lesson, beloved disciples.
2. Through the inspiration of the speaker comes to you my word full of teachings. Listening to her, you have recognized that she is virtue, balm and regeneration, and in her essence you glimpse the life of the spirit.
3. Do not think that it is enough for your Master just to be surrounded by You; there is something else that you should do and that would really please him and that is to pay that debt, which you have contracted with Him and that you have not yet paid. It is an account that has weighed on you through the stages in which you have come to dwell on Earth. That is why in the caress of my word you feel the claim; in his love you find a mandate and in essence a law.
4. Your mind is sometimes confused and rebels to this fulfillment, and that debt can only be recognized by the spirit; but if he inclines to the satisfactions of the earth, he will be spiritually an outcast.
5. I want my disciples to be firm in their faith and in their convictions, that they are not of those who say they believe in my word, they say they follow me, and when they feel that the sands of the desert burn their plants, they fear to continue the way and they feel they leave the riches that belong to this world; these are only transgressors, they have not yet become disciples.
6. Do not expect to find this path, strewn with roses, but rather feel it full of thorns, it is the same path that Jesus followed, it is the one that leads to the top of Calvary.
7. It is My word that guides you so that you will not stumble.
8. This is the time when all understanding and all spirit will receive my light. Religions and doctrines will reach complete lucidity and you will be surprised when you see the steps of spirituality that your brothers take without having heard this word.
9. Watch over the peace of the world and recognize that my charity has kept you safe from war.
10. Truly I tell you, despite your admiration and love for my word, you have not given it the value it has; but the generations of tomorrow will come and will be amazed and overwhelmed with respect and recollection before the books that will be written.
11. You are the ones that I found asleep in the bosom of different religions and that even though they are all paths that lead to the same end, I wanted to come to show you once again the shortest path.

Love one another!

12. Be conformed, beloved children, and live in peace.
13. The time is getting closer and closer when I will stop giving you my teaching, this beautiful lesson that you have received for so long through human understanding. I wanted you to be prepared so that nothing surprises you, that the enemies of my work may find in my witnesses the invincible strength of faith, and you will have the absolute certainty that you are not alone, that I am close to all my children.
14. Today a force arises from your being that raises you to work; it is the consciousness that intimately speaks to you.
15. Materially, it is the force of the law that tells you how to behave.
16. Spiritually, my law is of universal love and it manifests itself in the air you breathe, in the worlds that revolve around you and in all creation.
17. Everything vibrates to the rhythm of that law; if inferior beings are born, grow and decline in the bosom of nature, it is because they live within the law without knowing it.
18. And why does man, endowed with the light of the spirit, with conscience, intelligence and will, depart so many times from the path marked by my law? It is because while some forget the Father, others form a misconception of Me, limiting Me under forms imagined by man and forgetting that I am essence and power and everything is under my will. When he tries to analyze creation in good faith, in which the power of God is manifested, he observes the seed and delves into the mystery that it contains, he sees it emerge from the earth turned into a plant, he studies the different species and even when their virtues are different, they all feed from the same womb: the earth.
19. The seed is a symbol of life, multiplication, transformation and evolution. And if in such a small creature you can contemplate the image of the Creator, what will it be when you observe man, the cosmos or study the spirit?
20. See that there is no precise form under which you can imagine your God. I am in everything, the same in the spiritual and eternal, as in material nature. I am life, space and light. I am the remedy for all the ills that man can find.
21. In the spiritual there is an antidote for every evil that afflicts the spirit, just as in nature man finds through science the remedy for his bodily ills. If you analyze, you will find that in the different kingdoms the infinite perfection of the Father is manifested. Your imagination and your curiosity sometimes go beyond what concerns your world and you wonder if there will be beings in other worlds and if they will have a life and an evolution similar to those that you have on earth. Study and practice my teaching and when the time is right, you will know the mystery of the life of the stars. It is up to man, through his merits, to tear that veil. It is up to him to continue his path of evolution, so that his eyes may finally be able to contemplate whatever my will is and make light in the minds of his brothers. Truly I tell you, it will not be possible to climb up there without stumbling; it is necessary to ascend step by step, otherwise the human brain would go crazy and nothing would reach understanding.

22. That is why I have allowed you to reach your evolution little by little, at the pace of your development.

23. From the great struggles man takes the light and makes new discoveries for the advancement of humanity. But man forgets that all his advances are due to someone more powerful than himself and that in his mind he is receiving the light of the creator, which is wisdom. It is gratifying to see you grow in science, but truly I tell you, you should work more for the spirit than for matter. For this I am giving you a revelation that forms in you a real concept of creatures, both spiritual and human and that in its simplicity contains the knowledge that opens the way for a better life.

24. You will not see that life with your eyes; of your body; but you can announce these lessons to the men who will live here tomorrow.

25. Now you see only wars and you cry out that it is God's punishment, when I have taught you that God, who is the Father, does not punish; that events happen because of themselves

26. What has motivated the fury of the elements? All this has been caused by the disharmony in which men live with the nature that surrounds them

27. Man will come to recognize the evolution to which his spirit is subject, to sense his degree of advancement or delay, to look for a way to achieve his true progress; he will understand that he should not concretize to live for him, nor only take into account material life

28. Then he will turn his eyes in search of my law, of that which I gave to humanity from Moses and thus; analyzing, men will come to the knowledge of the doctrine that I have revealed to you at this time and they will understand that it is universal.

29. My children, unite. This knowledge that you are acquiring, spread it among your fellow men. Do not just gather in the enclosures, go to the countryside, to the mountains, there I will manifest myself among you.

30. You call this century, the century of light, but I tell you: Do not call it that just because of the inventions of men, but because the light of the Holy Spirit has been poured out on every understanding, opening to humanity the path that leads to a higher life, the spiritual life.

31. My word of this time will serve for the man of tomorrow to develop his spirit and his understanding. How great will be the ability of those to understand and analyze.

32. That is why I come with my word of light to prepare the new generations and to tell you that you also prepare the way.

33. Study this lesson, practice it, and you will have peace in your heart, eloquence on your lips, and conviction in your words.

34. Beloved disciples of the Master, Come to Me.

35. I have come to you once again, responding to your call, because I see your desire to prepare you.

36. Humanity has made these days a tradition, to remember those who no longer belong to this world. The human imagination has tried to form an idea of the place where those beings are and the life that surrounds them. And in the longing for them to enjoy eternal peace, they think they are looking at them at the right hand of the Father, recreating themselves in His grace. They are far from reality, however, you, to whom I have revealed so many realities of that life, although you see that there are various concepts of spiritual life among humanity, be united in spirit with everyone, it is enough for you to know that everyone feels the spiritual vibration.

37. The time will come when you will be able to open before your brothers this book that I am entrusting to you, so that you may transmit this knowledge from heart to heart.

38. The purpose of every spirit is to merge into the Divinity after its purification and its perfection. Therefore I flood your path with light and I give strength to your spirit, so that you climb step after step. According to the elevation that you possess when you leave this earth, it will be the spiritual abode that you inhabit in the afterlife, because the universe was created as a school of perfection for the spirit.

39. When you finish your mission here and you no longer have to come, your spirit will go to inhabit another world, from where you will watch and work for peace and the progress of men.

40. Step by step you will penetrate the arcana and as the spirit penetrates itself, it will feel greater attraction to the good and this will bring it even closer to the Divinity.

41. The beings who are wandering in space, struggling to reach the light of a higher world; they are those, who preserve the miseries and impressions left on them by matter and terrestrial life; they struggle between the two forces that attract them, the spiritual and the material, because they still feel the attachment and love for the satisfactions of this world.

42. Prayerfully seek these beings, because their light and strength are not enough for them yet to break the chains that bind them to what they left behind; watch over them; and from those who have overcome the world and death, beware. They belong to completely different worlds, and all the experience they have collected during the day, they turn it into light, to inspire you from there. They are your intercessors, your guardian angels, those who work for the good of all; remember them and love them.

43. There are also huge legions of beings in the spiritual world who do not know where to go, what to think, or what to do; they are those who have recently left this world and still do not feel the awakening of their latent faculties and powers. Pray for them, that your spiritual voice will resonate in their spirit and awaken them so that they can find the path that Jesus traced for them from the world with his word and his blood on the cross.

44. And while these days are of mourning, for the world, because it laments the loss of loved ones, for the one who knows the life of the spirit, there can be no mourning, but there can be rejoicing, because he knows that those who have left this world, by emancipating themselves from matter, have achieved liberation and have taken one more step towards the peace that perfection gives.

45. I say to you: Do not be in a hurry to penetrate the spiritual valley to begin to take steps of perfection on the way. In matter, from this Earth, you must aspire to that perfection. Discover in your matter, in this world and in the life that surrounds you, despite its bitterness and its vicissitudes, endless opportunities to make merits for the advancement of your spirit.

46. Matter is only the temporal garment of the spirit, from which it changes as many times as is necessary for its experiences, its evolution or expiations. Anyone who does not yet understand this law of divine justice is a child.

47. You would not be spiritualists if you doubted the law of reincarnation, because it is a fundamental knowledge that comes to reveal many and confirm those who had a presentiment or intuition about it. In that law there is a reason and a justice as clear as the light.

48. But whoever has faith in this lesson and gets up to explain it, will teach that matter is the envelope or garment of the spirit, that this body contributes to the development of the spirit, because it provides him with the necessary means to manifest and purify himself. The inner struggle of spirit and matter, of good against evil, gives occasion to merit. The sufferings of the flesh, the unfulfilled desires, are purification for the spirit, one more experience, apparently bitter, but which will later be translated into light. I do not want to tell you with this that in order to purify oneself, pain is necessary. How many beings exist in my bosom, whom love has purified without having experienced pain!

49. But it is the destiny of man to suffer, to climb the mountain under the weight of his cross until he reaches his salvation; but do not despise that body through which you drink so much bitterness, but rather love it, because in it the power of God is also reflected, because it is the creature for which you are responsible. Take care of her and lead her until the day when I determine to ask for an account of her. If I say to you: Love your matter, understand what I mean, because I do not come to awaken in you vanities or egoisms; but also love your spirit which is the noble and high part of your being and part of your own Father. Love him no matter how stained he may find himself, because even wrapped in darkness, he will never cease to carry with him a spark of my Divinity, which is consciousness, and despite everything, purity will always exist in it, from the moment I dwell in each of my children. But if that light is despised, the spirit in its rebellion will continue without advancement and will delay its arrival in the bosom of its Creator.

50. Although my words and my works seem to contradict each other, there is no such contradiction in them. I have told you that God is purity and perfection and that your spirit is similar to the Divinity; but when the spirit has fallen carried away by the inclinations of matter, when it stops in its evolution, it doubts its similarity with the Creator, considering itself disgusting or impure, despite the fact that the grace and presence of the Father do not depart from him, only they cannot be felt.

51. Work for the good of the future of your spirit. Why fear death? But leave nothing pending so that you do not have to come to purify previous faults or to settle debts.

52. May not the day go by without you having done a good deed, so you will be working for your spirit.

53. Do not be fatalistic, asserting yourself in the belief that your destiny is directly the one that God put in your way, and if you suffer it is because it was written and if you enjoy it is because it was also written. I have convinced you that what you sow, that you will have to reap. But listen carefully, because there will be times when you will immediately reap the harvest and at other times, you will come into a new existence to reap and gather your seed. Analyze what I have just told you and you will destroy many bad judgments about my righteousness and many confusions.

54. Understand me and let there be no doubt in your heart; see that through you I will have to teach humanity. But if you have declared yourselves powerless to explain such profound mysteries to men, I will make my word flow out of your mouth, because the clumsiness of your lips will not be able to hide the greatness of my work.

55. The spirit who comes to understand the path he has to follow, will no longer be able to depart from it; he will be able to leave this world and penetrate into others, but without ever deviating from the path marked by consciousness. The unprepared spirit encounters dangers the same in this world as in any other. He will lack knowledge that is light, he will not be able to ascend and then his confusion will make his unhealthy influence felt in men themselves, unlike those who managed to climb the heights of the spiritual and who by their very elevation become the masters of space and make their healthy influence felt in their brothers.

56. Imitate the latter, aspiring to that world where perfection is the ideal of loving and knowing the Eternal more, from which you sprang and from which you will never leave again.

57. My grace extends to all spirits, but while some receive it, others reject it. Whoever thirsts for love, let him drink from Me, for I am an inexhaustible torrent that quenches that thirst.

58. He who is lost, let him lift up his gaze so that he may contemplate the ray of my light and be guided by it. He who sits naked, let him cover himself with the mantle of my forgiveness and my charity. Whoever has doubts, let him prepare his understanding, that I am wisdom and I will reveal to him from it. Let the troubled one draw near to Me, where he will be able to find everything and when he has drunk from the chalice of this love, faith will be ignited in him.

59. Pray for the world of those who suffer and you will make them reach those who are apparently abandoned.

60. I am the "Word", I am the word, hear me.

61. In the depths of your heart you ask a thousand questions. You say to me: Lord, have we not obeyed your orders? Have we not done humanity good? Instead of understanding you, will we not have confused ourselves and will we be confusing others?

62. No, my children; that is why I am still among you, to correct you and with my teachings to prevent you from making mistakes; when you are strong, you will no longer have doubts or hesitations.

63. Spiritually you are not children, since this is not the first time, nor the First Era in which you inhabit the Earth. The light of the Sixth Seal, which illuminates you at this time, is not the only one that has illuminated your existence. You are developed spirits, evolved on the long path of evolution towards perfection; therefore, do not be confused, but rather feel the joy that the Lord is among you, because it is a sign that you can understand and obey Him.

Love one another!

64. In the First Time the people of Israel were taken captive in Egypt, where idolatry and paganism reigned. I allowed my people to live and grow in the bosom of those Gentiles to give them proof of my existence and my power through a people who believed in the invisible God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

65. When the hardships and the bitterness of slavery reached their maximum, I caused to arise from the bosom of the Israelites an anointed man of my grace, in whom my inspiration shone and to whom I commanded and spoke thus: "Go to your people and save them, they are overwhelmed with suffering, humiliations and labors; rescue them from the yoke of Pharaoh, set them free and taking the road that leads to Canaan, guide them through the desert, because I want that when this people reaches the land that I promise, a worthy worship can be consecrated there of my divinity." That man was Moses.

66. How did Moses rescue a people from Pharaoh's clutches? Did he put the weapons in the hands of his people? No, his weapon was faith in his Almighty God.

67. When that Pharaoh opposed the desires of Moses, which were my commands, I proved to the pagan, that if his reluctance and unbelief were great, my justice and my power were greater. Ten times he ignored my voice and ten times I touched Egypt with great trials that softened the neck and bent the hard heart of the tyrant

68. Moses raised up his people and taking the way of the desert, led them to the slopes of Mount Sinai, where he knew that he had an appointment with his Lord; and while the people awaited the return of Moses, he, raised in prayer to the Most High, received from Jehovah the tablets of the law that was to govern the destiny of mankind. The obedient servant received in his conscience that divine revelation and was also prepared to dictate by himself laws for all orders and all acts of human life. And after suffering and struggling for a long time in the desert, the people arrived at the end of their destiny: the "land of promise". There the people built their homes, tilled their lands and their gardens, formed their families and worshiped their Lord. From the fulfillment of obligations to the world and the fulfillment of the laws of the spirit, he made a single cult to elevate him to whom he had given so many proofs of his love and mercy. But spiritual worship was still far from perfection. The offerings and tributes were material, their sacrifices were of the blood of innocent creatures. Even within human life he had not managed to act with great morality and justice. The law of the talion prevailed, which said: An Eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth, and in cases where a woman was caught in adultery, there was a law that condemned her to be stoned to death by the people on the outskirts of the city.

69. Why did the Father allow this at that time? Because humanity was spiritually taking its first steps.

70. Time passed. I received the first fruits of your fields, the first fruits of your harvests, and the blood of your innocent victims that you offered to me in the era.

71. The traditions of that people were deep, but who would have told them that everything would have to change, that those laws and that cult would have to be transformed? It was not Moses, nor were the prophets who caused those forms and customs to change. Moses only started the way, the prophets only foretold. It was the promised Messiah, the Divine Teacher, who came to awaken you from your sleep, who, without ignoring a single one of the commandments of the law that Moses received, came to erase traditions and improper cults of that time, opening a new era of light and wisdom, which would transform the life of humanity.

72. I did not reform the law, only the practice that was made of it.

73. He had spent the childhood of that people in the spiritual and penetrated into adolescence. Then I gave you to taste unknown delicacies and tore the veil of your ignorance. My whole word was a law condensed into one sentence: "Love one another."

74. But I announced to you and promised you my new coming as the Holy Spirit, because at that time I did not tell you everything, and of what I revealed to you, you could not understand and interpret everything, and it was necessary that the Spirit of Truth should come among you to reveal everything to you.

75. In 1866 my voice was heard for the first time through human understanding and a new time opened up for humanity: The Third Era.

76. The human spirit passes from his spiritual adolescence to his youth. It will take time for it to reach its full maturity and its fruits will be perfect.

77. The doctrine of Christ was spiritual, but man surrounded it with rites and forms to make it accessible to spirits of low elevation.

78. You have entered the time of the Spirit, the time of the great revelations, in which materialization, imposture and imperfection will disappear from all worship, in which every man, through his spirit, will recognize his God who is all Spirit, and along that path he will find the form of perfect communication.

Love one another!

79. Since the day I first communicated in this way, you have been trying to understand the greatness of this work, and you still do not contemplate its background or its end.

80. Who can say that he has understood you or that he has practiced you perfectly? No one; you are still far from achieving perfection.

81. My law, my work, is Jacob's ladder by which you will come step by step, step by step and as you rise, you will look more closely at your Father.

82. At the beginning of the year 1948, the first of the last three in which I will be among you through my word, I want you to stand up strong, practicing as the Master has taught you, so that at the end, on the day of my departure, if you want to offer a tribute of elevation and love to the Master who came to teach you for so long, that tribute may be worthy of your Lord.

83. Before a preparation like that, I will call the world, because I know that you will be able to testify with words and deeds that I was among you and manifested myself and spoke to you.

84. Don't you notice the stalking? Do you not look around you at the darkness that for a moment prevents you from contemplating the light of the candlestick that illuminates you, which is that of the Sixth Seal?

85. Do not violate human laws; heal the sick with the word, with prayer and with the fluid. A new stage of good works and spirituality is opening up before you. Scientists will not be able to mock you, human justice will not sanction you, and religions will have to grant you that you possess spiritual power.

86. You introduced symbols into your practices, but you must depart from them because that form of worship belongs to the past and the worship of the present and the future is the communication of spirit to Spirit.

87. The moment of my departure is approaching in my second coming among men, which if it has been carried out in silence, will then reverberate to the ends of the earth and move the world to curiosity, will come to search the places where the divine word was heard, the messengers who transmitted it and the books that remained. And when they come, how are you going to receive them? You are not going to present yourselves disunited or to show that discord is in your bosom. You are not going to show a broken home, a loveless marriage or disrespectful and disobedient children. You are not going to cause disappointment by your lack of fulfillment in spiritual and material duties. What would go through the minds of those, if they found you lacking in spiritual elevation, calling you spiritualists? What would they think if they found you sunk in fanaticism or idolatry?

Love one another!

88. Know, people, that the time is coming when false prophets, false Christs, new churches, new farmers will arise; therefore watch and pray.

89. Fulfill each of your Father's orders, see that his justice is very close to you; this is not a threat or a sentence, it is only a warning; remember that my justice is perfect and loving.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

1. Here is the Father who comes to manifest himself to the people who have invoked the name of God so much throughout the ages, saying that he loves him. I see you're crying. Abundant tears run down your faces, but they are not for the love of my Divinity, they are of pain, because your life is full of bitterness. It is not a cross that you carry, it is a heavy burden that you can no longer bear. It is because you forgot the lesson, you closed the book and turned away from the commands that it contains.

2. O people, who hear this word! Not only the nations have been divided, there is also division among you. Did you forget that in 1931 you swore unification and obedience before the ark of the new covenant? You are putting your orders and your will before mine; but I will destroy your traditions and imperfect laws so that my work may be known and my law may be fulfilled. I will touch with my righteousness selfishness, pride and all evil seed. The lords will disappear from this people and only the disciples, the servants, will remain. It would be better for him to be lifted up from the earth to whoever wanted to rise up over his people, oppressing them.

3. The year 1947 is ending and on the last day, it is necessary that you form a firm purpose of fulfillment so that it is not my justice that makes you recognize the way.

4. Do you not want this teaching to come to light and be known by humanity? Verily I tell you, there are those who, instead of facilitating the advancement of my doctrine, have risen up hindering my passage on the way. I am touching the heart of humanity so that it may know this revelation, so that it may receive it pure, as I have given and entrusted it to you.

5. If anyone is not satisfied with owning a branch of the tree, give it back to me; it is better for Me to pick it up than for you to let it grow crooked. The Father tells you this, because I contemplate enclosures that have closed their doors to charity, and out there the needy sob and I contemplate the dead.

6. Servants of my work: Listen to my commands and fulfill them, for men will not hinder your passage. No one will be able to prevent this divine plan of which I have entrusted a part to you from being carried out, if you present this work free of all manifestation, which you will be able to achieve in these last three years of my communication. By 1950, hard-necked men will come, who, before the greatness of my manifestation and the cleanliness of your practices, will fall surrendered before their Lord. The deadline is short, however it is enough for you to put aside materiality, fanaticism and all the scourges that your cult suffers from. My doctrine is spiritual, that is why you call yourselves spiritualists; but have you meditated and studied what it entails? Does it seem fair to you that preaching spiritualism with words, with your works you proclaim the opposite?

7. How great and clean you will see my work if you take advantage of this light that I am sending you!

8. On those who go before each congregation, it depends that the people rise up and fulfill my commands. Even if my golden pens did not write, I leave my words imprinted with indelible letters in the conscience of this people. And when you are in a greater height of spirituality, your eyes will marvel at the wonders that I will do among you. You will not suffer for the departure of my word, because you will feel my presence close. In the absence of the spokesman to listen to me, your spiritual gifts will develop more, with which you will have great joy and faith, because you will have me for inspiration, for clairvoyance, for prophetic dreams, for intuition. You will enjoy hearing your own word and seeing your sick being healed.

9. The spiritual world, possessing more and more light and greater power, will be the good protector and the faithful guardian of the people so that all may fulfill and work in my countryside. I only contemplate spirits without making a distinction between those who are in matter, from those who are free of it.

10. This is the light of the Sixth Seal, unleashed by my charity at this time. Since that time I have sent to you Jesus, my Divine Son, the only one on earth who has fulfilled my commandments and has done the will of his Father; but I sent him to make men his disciples so that, imitating the Master, they might glorify the Father. I sent it to you, and He gave you life; but how did you give it back to me? Today I come to you again, not as a man, but as a Spirit of Consolation.

11. Take advantage of my charity and awaken fully to the light, so that your heart may be sensitized. Let your spirit lead a life of submission and obedience and become my disciple. Believe in this word that I have delivered to you through the spokespersons and prepare yourselves, so that you may feel its essence and palpate its truth.

12. These channels through which I have used to bring my word to you are certainly not perfect, but they have been chosen by Me to carry out my plans and thus fulfill my promise to return among you; but this manifestation that you are perceiving today will disappear in 1950, to give way to a higher, purer, more spiritual manifestation, and that will be the spirit-to-Spirit communication, in which the son will be able to converse with his Heavenly Father, without needing the mediation of men or spirits and will come to receive his inspiration without any limitation.

Love one another!

13. For now, be content with listening to me in this way, as you prepare to be able to penetrate the new time; analyze my word and saturate yourselves with its essence, let the spirit rise so that it reaches Me and can drink at the fountain until it quenches its thirst.

14. Do not stop to judge the spokesman of whom I serve nor try to find out why he has been chosen; only I know his principle and I know his destiny in this delicate position that is for some the realization of a high ideal and for others represents a restitution and a very great test.

15. You can all come to serve me and take advantage of the time I have given you. Your mission is to stop evil, to clear the path of those who will come after you and to lay the foundations of a humanity that knows how to love me and identify with me.

16. In all times I have come to give you opportunities to work, so that you may take a step further on the path of your evolution. I have given you the teaching and the means of climbing so that you can approach Me; but how many, after having reached the end of the road, after having returned to the spiritual valley, have analyzed their life and have found it vain, without merit; then they have asked me for one more opportunity to restore to their spirit the dignity and grace of which they stripped it and thus present me with a better fulfillment. I have granted them the requested gift and they have returned to earth.

17. I have endowed the spirit with intelligence and will so that he may take the right path and know how to turn away from the stumbles and dangers that lie in wait for him every moment. I have allowed good and evil to exist, so that man, out of love for Me and out of respect for himself, may overcome and turn away from evil. If there were only one way and you, unconsciously, led by the force of natural laws, fulfilled your mission, as the stars, the elements or the lower beings do, you would have no merit in marching along the path of virtue; there would be no struggle, no aspirations, no experiences in your spirit. And I marked a path of evolution and placed you at the beginning of it, so that you would ascend by your own efforts, so that you would all know that path that is the only one by which you can reach Me.

18. Bear my teaching and do not transgress, nor imitate the evil disciples. If you carry gifts and graces in you with which you can guide your brothers relieving them of many of the ills that afflict them today, do not hide them, let your spirit speak with the experience that has reached and thus you will build within this great work what corresponds to you.

19. You will rescue the sheep that were lost and you will help the Shepherd, who is Me, to gather the full number of them into the pasture. In this way you will have earned the merits that I have asked you to achieve the elevation of your spirit.

Love one another!

20. On this date, since dawn is approaching, many spirits rise in prayer for what they call their dead. I tell you that it is very good that you remember them, that you have for them a thought of gratitude, of love, of admiration; but what is not good is that you mourn them as if they were goods that you had lost, nor that you give them up for dead, because if in those moments when your eyes shed tears for them and your chest sighs for those who departed, you could contemplate them, you would be amazed at the light that illuminates them and the life that animates them; then you would exclaim, Truly they are the living and we are the dead.

21. Are you really confused when you cry before an inert body, while you forget that a spirit lives, vibrates and pulsates?

22. I must also tell you that if, instead of dedicating a day according to this tradition to those who have passed into the spiritual life, you were always united to them by the bond of prayer, their invisible, but real being in your life and their beneficial influence, would be felt by you throughout your existence, in your struggles, in your trials and also in your kind moments. And those beings, on their part, would have the opportunity to work in your noble works and enterprises, with which they would acquire more light.

23. I said at that time, "Let the dead bury their dead." If you carefully and lovingly analyze my words, you will see how right I was to tell you.

24. I see how you all carry in your hearts and in your retinas the last image, the material vision of your loved ones. The one who departed in childhood, you remember as a child; the one who left this life already in the old age of the envelope, you remember as an old man, just as the one who detached a body exhausted by pain or in the midst of a painful agony, this is how you always remember him; and it is necessary that you meditate on the difference that exists between what is body and what is spirit, so that you may conclude that where man dies, the spirit is born to a new life, where some eyes are closed to the light of the world, others are opened to the divine light that illuminates the eternal life of the spirit.

25. I once told you that man was an idolater by inclination and by this worship of his dead he gives a palpable proof of his idolatry. But my doctrine, like a dawn of infinite beauty, has appeared in your life, dispelling the shadows of a long night of ignorance in which men have always lived confused; and this light, ascending towards infinity like a divine star, will radiate its most beautiful lights on your spirit, in a preparation that will take you with sure step to enjoy that life in which you will all be able to penetrate by your elevation.

Love one another!

26. You will no longer be one of those who weep bitterly for those who have left to go and dwell in a better life, nor will you be one of those who, being already in spirit, weep for those who have stayed, or for having left the body that for a lifetime served as an envelope for them.

27. There are beings who suffer and are distressed when contemplating the disintegration of the body they loved so much; but you must be one of those who, when contemplating that the end of a mission performed by that human body has come, raise a hymn of grace to the Creator.

28. Today I come to forgive you of all your mistakes and at the same time to show you a page of the divine book of life, where you can enlighten your spirit and your mind so that you do deeds worthy of the one who has taught them to you.

29. You are assuming a great responsibility before humanity, and as more and more lessons you receive from Me, that responsibility is increasing, because you are the people who will speak of spirituality to the world. In you I will leave implanted among humanity the perfect way to get to communicate with me without rites or idolatrous ways, simply from spirit to Spirit.

30. This blessed seed that is already in your heart will be the bread that you must share with your brothers and it will also be the spiritual inheritance that you bequeath to your children.

31. When I said to you, "Love one another," do not think that it was only with respect to your fellow men, but from one world to another; but now I tell you, when you think of those who are gone, do not feel distant from them and do not imagine them insensitive either. Do not love or remember the dead, you should only remember them alive, because they dwell in eternity and are close to you.

32. Verily I say to you, you are the people of Israel who, passing through different stages, have come to this time, without being able to say that they have fulfilled the mandate that has weighed on them from the earliest times. He has not been spiritualized, because I still hear his laments when I see his family leave, whom he mistakes for the dead.

33. That is why I come to give birth to you, inhabitants of the earth, who need him more than those who have passed on to the afterlife, because you are the dead, while they live eternity.

34. To those beings it is granted by Me to approach you at the moment of your elevation, but I tell you not to remember them anymore in the human form that they had, because now they are spirits of light.

Love one another!

35. Do not bow down only to the traditions of the world, discarding the grace that is being poured out on you at this time; see that while you can waste time here, the spirits reach advancement in the hereafter.

36. Bend the matter so that you can take advantage of this opportunity for liberation and spiritual elevation; because I will have to call you in spirit and you will have to comply with the law of evolution and the spirit will contemplate how the body disintegrates in the bowels of the earth.

37. If you do not want to reach the threshold of eternity shrouded in confusion, fight for your advancement, make merits in the world by bringing distant people closer, praying and working for the peace of nations, pouring out charity and love among your brothers.

38. There are still those who say to me: Lord, if you are the almighty God, give me a proof of your power and I tell you: How small you are speaking like this to someone who, just by wanting it, would make the earth disintegrate.

39. I come to make myself felt in the spirit, which is the one who has to reach Me and the one who can recognize my essence. Your body is matter to which I forgive its weaknesses.

40. Purify yourselves, O people, so that you may come to harmonize your spirit with its matter and thus, by your own merits, rise up to Me. Let humanity seek me through various religions and sects; do not judge it because you still cannot do perfect works.

41. Let the idolaters, descendants and imitators of Aaron, makers of gods, continue to worship their different deities through idols and images; they will already awaken from their deep sleep.

42. It is up to you to sow the seed of spirituality, demonstrating to men that interior worship is the most pleasing to the Father. This is how men will feel the presence of the spiritual and the divine without demanding to see to believe, as in these moments you have felt the presence of those spiritual beings whom with love and gratitude you remember and who have approached you like a perfume or an incentive that invites you to follow the path that they are tracing you. Those beings approach humanity without already feeling the longing for the vanities of this world and only to awaken in the spirits the desire to achieve the life that awaits you.

43. Those who mourn the absence of loved ones, are the dead who watch over their dead, are those who, materialized in their ignorance, do not understand the meaning of life and claiming to believe in the immortality of the spirit, with their weeping and mourning demonstrate that they do not have an atom of faith, because they mourn for the dead those who really live, only because they do not see them, or because their body has disappeared.

44. Be at peace, within the command of Christ, who once again tells you: "Love one another"

45. Come to Me and strengthen yourselves. Rise to the life of grace. Become my disciples, messengers of the good news. The world claims my presence and I am going to bring my word to it through you. There are those who have been waiting for me for a long time, those who have sensed that it is time for my presence in the world to channel the spirits towards progress and spirituality. But before sending you, you will have to cleanse and cultivate yourselves; if sorrows weigh you down and you feel tired, remember that I am your Cyrineus and I help you with the cross so that you do not fall under its weight. If you pray and give yourselves to the fulfillment, there will be no trial or obstacle that will make you weak; you will go with a smile on your lips and hope in your heart. You will not fear tomorrow and all evil judgment or intention against you will vanish. Do not deny me, even though you were very tested, because you do not know if it is my will to grant you a miracle to testify that you are my disciples, at the culminating moment of the test.

46. Listen and analyze my parable:

47. A crowd of hungry, sick and naked people was approaching a house in search of charity. The owners of the house were preparing it continuously to feed the walkers at their table. The landowner, owner and lord of those lands was approaching to preside over the banquet. Time passed and the needy always found sustenance and shelter in the house.

48. One day that gentleman saw that the water on the table was cloudy, that the delicacies were not healthy and pleasant, and that the tablecloths were stained; then he called the people in charge of preparing the table and said to them, Have you looked at the canvases and tasted the delicacies and drank the water? Yes, sir, they answered. So, before feeding these hungry, make your children eat and if they find the food good, give it to these visitors. The children took the bread, the fruits and everything that was on the table and the taste was unpleasant and there was discontent and rebellion against those and they demanded harshly. The landowner then said to those who were waiting, come under a tree, that I am going to offer you the fruits of my garden and the delicacies pleasing to the palate and to those in charge he said like this: Cleanse the stained, remove the bad taste from the lips of those who have deceived, make reparation to me, because I have commanded you to receive all the hungry and thirsty to offer them the best delicacies and clean water and you have not fulfilled; your work is not pleasant to me.

Love one another!

49. The lord of those lands prepared the banquet, the bread was substantial, the fruits healthy and ripe, the fresh and comforting water and then he invited those who were waiting, beggars, sick and lepers and all were fed and their joy was great. They soon found themselves healthy and free of ills and decided to stay at the hacienda. They began to work the land, they became farmers, but they were weak and did not know how to be guided by the advice of that lord. They mixed different seeds and the harvest degenerated. The wheat was choked by the weeds, and when the time came for the harvest, the farmer came up and said to them, What are you doing, if I only entrusted you with the care of the house to receive visitors? The sowing that you have done is not good, others are in charge of the lands Go and clear the fields of thistles and weeds and put the house back in order; the spring has dried up, the bread does not support and the fruits are bitter. Do with the walkers, what I did with you, and when you have fed and healed those who came to you, when you have made the pain of your fellow men disappear, I will give you rest in my mansion"

50. My Divine Spirit comes to give you this word to guide you on the way and warn you of the dangers that lie in wait for you.

51. You are living the Third Time, the time of spirituality.

52. I come to give peace to your heart, faith and hope and it is my divine will that you give shelter in your heart to this message.

53. Make your cares present to the Lord. He has formed you and to Him you must return.

54. It is time for you to study the word of the Master, it is also time for you to be unified in a single thought, so that you may be bound to this sublime love.

55. Each of you has a mandate and you have not fulfilled it yet.

56. Do not abandon the teaching; take it with love, so that tomorrow you will not fall into error, that error that would stop the march of your spirit and plunge you into the muddy waters of confusion.

57. My truth manifests itself more clearly, when I contemplate you prepared; but you are the ignorant, those who have not yet understood me, but I also tell you: You are the ones who are closest to the Father, because you are on the path of spirituality, a path that has no end.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 197

1. The Master's love is poured out among his disciples, among his children. As God, you are my children, as a Teacher, you are my disciples
2. Beloved people, This Creator God and your Father bequeathed to you a strong and combative spirit, whose sword is good and who will fight until he rejects the evil that was begotten in the spirit and nourished the heart of man; but wisdom has also been given to you, so that man might be delivered from the darkness of ignorance
3. After my departure in the Second Time, John, my disciple, contemplated in his ecstasies the time in which you are living, the dangers in which humanity would be involved, the calamities that would strike the world, the struggles and contentions of men and the peace that after all this would come. It was also revealed to him how that revelation or prophecy should be written, so that it would be made known throughout the earth.
4. I want my new disciples to know the meaning of those revelations and the essence of the word that I am giving you, because then you will understand the object of spiritualism and you will be able to be firm in the struggle.
5. The doctrine is Myself, so it cannot be defiled; it is whiteness and purity and cannot be defiled. Thus, when your Lord descends among you communicating through the human spokesman, he does not stain himself with the sin of man, but rather purifies it; because the truth is that although the spokespersons through whom I speak to you, reveal inclination towards good, they rise to infinity to receive the touch of the Divinity and thus receive inspiration, revelation and divine knowledge, it is also true that they are still very small and lack preparation.
6. But I am the Spirit of love and I not only seek communication with the righteous; I also come to the abode of men, where there are no righteous but there are children whom I love perfectly, to save them from sin and darkness, because they need me more than those who are already safe. It is men who need the fire of my justice and my love to purify all their stains in it, they need my power and my grace to rise up; and so I turn to their conscience to make myself present. It is then that the son has identified himself with his Creator, because he has contemplated himself similar to his Father.
7. Why is man amazed that the grace of God comes to manifest itself among sinners? Were those who listened to my word righteous in the Second time? Perchance had my own disciples already attained perfection? No, people, before the multitudes who heard me there were sinners, the inveterate vicious, there were unbelievers, and among my apostles there were also human miseries. But feeling in their conscience the call of Divinity and consecrating themselves to my doctrine, they bequeathed by their example one more teaching to humanity, leaving their names in the hearts of men.

8. The spiritualist must always recognize and follow those examples, because they were those disciples who were true sowers of my seed. In many places you will see the effigy of those apostles; it is not necessary that you search for them through those images, but even in them you will see that their memory is indelible. Love them, imitate them in their virtue; remember that I have taught you to love me in your own brothers.

9. You ask: Where is the true wisdom? and I say to you: In God. Someone else asks: What is the true religion? And the Master answers: Whoever loves me and loves his brother has found the truth and has fulfilled the law.

10. I have allowed religions to exist on earth, which are for the spirit paths that lead to God. Every religion that teaches goodness and love and exalts charity is good, because it contains the light of truth. When within them men degenerate and turn into evil what was good in the beginning, then the path is lost between materialism and sin.

11. That is why I come at this time to show you again my coming, which is the way, the essence and the law, so that you may seek this law, which is a beacon and a star, beyond forms and rites, beyond everything human. The one who seeks me in this way will be a spiritualist.

12. Men will witness that what will make humanity strong in times to come will be this word. The spiritualist of tomorrow will be recognized, not as the mystic, nor as the religious who turns away from the world and from men in order to pray, but as the one who knows how to fight temptations and who even in the midst of the whirlwind knows how to distinguish the way from the truth. The spiritualist of tomorrow will know how to face a prepared world, his word as prophet and seer will announce what is to be, he will know how to save the one who is prone to fall into the abyss.

13. The message of spirituality is not the work of man, it is the work of the Creator, it is the eternal law that governs the spirits.

14. Feel my work deeply, so that it may make you feel great in the midst of your humility and insignificance. If your word is not abundant, do not be afraid, for I have given you the eloquence of truth. That is the reason why my word will prevail.

15. Spiritually I leave you gathered with all your brothers, without distinction of doctrines.

Love one another!

16. Apparently you have arrived before Me, but in truth I tell you that I was already at my table waiting for you.

17. I have left my solitude to be with you, to give you my teaching and to comfort you in your afflictions. You too, because you are with me, have left the region, the home, the affections.

18. Just as you have felt an incomparable delight with this word and by putting it into practice you have found the secret of peace and harmony, so many peoples will come to Me and consecrate themselves to living my word.

19. My teaching at this time comes to awaken the long-dormant spirit of humanity. My words that I gave to the men in the Second Half still vibrate and no one practices them as I taught them. It was necessary that my Spirit should return among you to convince you that doctrine is the infinite way of the spirit, so that you may never stop on the journey.

20. Those who dream of the eternal, those who love the true, those who long to rise to this work, those who have charity of their spirit, those who prefer the attire of the spirit to the finery of the body. In these you will be able to see a glimmer of understanding; it will not be those who believe that my mission is reduced to relieving your pains and getting rid of your diseases, it will be those who will have understood that my promise contains something more than liberation from pain: eternal life.

21. The meaning of my doctrine comes to inspire you to destroy the materialistic world that you have created, so that on it you can raise up a world of spirituality in which you will enjoy the peace that you long for and see all those powers that have remained dormant until now in the depths of your being arise and unfold.

22. In troubled understandings the light will shine, and from the men in whom hatred has nested, tears of reconciliation, repentance and love will flow.

23. My voice is an invitation to spiritual work, and in this work there is work for everyone. Let no one be afraid to rob material life of a few moments to occupy himself with what is mine, verily I tell you that the time will come when your spirit will thank you for it.

24. Do not say to me: Lord, I have seen poverty among those who follow you, but in those who do not even remember You, or pronounce your name, I see abundance, pleasures and satisfactions. My people will not take these cases as proof that whoever follows me must necessarily be poor in the world. But I tell you that the peace that these who listen and devote part of their lives to imparting charity have, is not known by those whom you envy so much, nor will they be able to achieve it with all their wealth.

Love one another!

25. There are those who know how to possess at the same time the goods of the world and those of the spirit, others to whom the worldly is not given because they forget about the spiritual, and others who are only interested in the world believing that the divine laws are an enemy to earthly riches.

26. Goods are always goods, but not everyone knows how to use them, you should also know that not everything that many possess I have given them; there are those who have what they have received from Me as compensation, just as there are others who have stolen everything they have.

27. The greatest test that men can have about your fulfillment in life is the peace of the spirit, not the amount of coins.

28. By speaking to you in many ways, I broaden the knowledge of those who will follow me at this time; they will be the ones who answer the questions of their brothers with the clarity with which I have answered them in my word, even if sometimes they are clumsy or foolish questions.

29. I want my word to leave a memory of light in the memory of those who heard it, so that by evoking it, the echo of the teaching full of love that they received reaches their hearts.

30. The witnesses of my communication will be those destined to receive the multitudes of tomorrow, just as I have received you.

31. Do you remember how you came to Me? You had come conquered, defeated, you had sought those who had more than you and they gave you nothing; you sought those who knew and they did not teach you; you showed your sick, burdened, agonizing body and they did not give you health, and when disappointment took hold of your heart and you were convinced that charity does not exist among men, because instead of looking at you as brothers they saw you as strangers, you lost faith and hope; some of you blasphemed, others cursed, others wished for peace, death.

32. Thus many of you came before Me to know that my source of mercy is the only one that never dries up and that you just have to know how to look for it to feel how it overflows over every troubled spirit.

33. Soon you will see, not a people, but the whole of humanity disillusioned with itself, convinced that all its human power, its wealth or its science, are not sufficient forces to answer its questions, to give peace to its spirit or to alleviate its pain; then you will see it looking for the source of truth beyond its world, beyond men and their false power.

Love one another!

34. How many will search for me and question me intuitively from spirit to Spirit! To them I will answer, but how many will also cross your path and ask you, ask for light; to these you will know how to receive in my name and you will give them of what I have entrusted to you.

35. If you truly give to your brothers and sisters with love, with light, with spirituality, verily I tell you, in addition to igniting faith in the Father in them, you will restore to them trust in men, that trust that must exist between you as children of God.

36. I recognize your merits. I observe those who have left their material occupations to come and hear my word, those who have renounced the satisfaction of some pleasure or to enjoy a few hours of rest, to be with Me, or those who, enduring the criticism or the murmurings of their own, have despised everything and are present at the moment of giving you my lesson.

37. My blessing and my peace be with all. I bless the longing of those who want to perfect themselves, I bless those who hunger and thirst for knowledge. They are the ones who would like to change their lives and customs to feel closer to their Lord. If they persevere in their path, they will reach the end of it and achieve what they so desire.

38. Thus, the Master wants the whole people to come and listen to me, with essentially spiritual longing, that you only dreamed of improving your life and that you would make disappear everything that you had unclean in your past. It is true that you are all striving to achieve this end, some with greater zeal, others weakly, but you are all striving to become better than you were yesterday. Do you think that I do not contemplate the battles that you are fighting?

39. You are still tempted by vices, passions, idolatry; but at such moments you pray and your faith helps you to achieve salvation. Your spirit is prepared to receive in this form and to listen to me by this means; but this preparation has not been acquired on earth, but through its spiritual evolution and it was necessary for you to divest yourselves of many tendencies acquired during your passage through the world, to understand my manifestation of this time. Those who have not prepared themselves will not accept this manifestation as truth; that is why you see divisions within your families, parents who do not know their own children for this reason, children who become the judges of their parents, brothers who until yesterday understood each other and who today look as if they were strangers and marriages that argue and even do not know each other, because one believes and the other denies.

Love one another!

40. This is not the first time this has happened. At the time of my preaching, people were unknown, because while some believed in my word and even gave their lives upholding its truth, others branded it an imposture and falsehood.

41. If mankind had truly been waiting for their Lord, they would not have been confused, just as those who intimately desired him, waited for him and called him were not confused.

42. I have told you to invite all your brothers, without distinction, to sit at my table, because although not everyone believes in Me, for now, I must speak to everyone.

43. At that time I went out in search of the crowds; the place where I spoke to them was always indifferent to me. The same thing I addressed them in a portico of the temple, that on a road, in a valley or on the seashore or on the top of a mountain.

44. At this time, when the preparation of the spokesman is necessary to speak to you, a little creature who would not be able to go through squares, streets or roads and cities, possessed of my ray to address my word to the multitudes, I have gathered you in humble enclosures to deliver my word to you, and instead of Me going to the multitudes, they come to listen to me; therefore I say to those who day after day come to Me: Call your brothers under the shade of my trees, where they can hear my voice.

45. I come to prepare you because a new stage is going to begin. A time of great spirituality and elevation is going to be the one that happens to this one in which I am giving you my word.

46. Three more years I will give you my teaching by the understanding of man, which will be like three days, because time passes without stopping.

47. How much tolerance and how much complacency you have received within my work, O people! But I must warn you that everything has its limit, and those pleasures that the Father has granted you, must end. Soon you will know how to keep true respect for everything that is spiritual, for everything that means true preparation.

48. My work is not one of so many doctrines, it is not one more sect in the world. This revelation that I have brought to you today is the eternal law; however, due to lack of spirituality and understanding, how many rites have you mixed with it, how many impurities, until you have deformed it. How many practices have you introduced into my doctrine, saying and believing that everything you have done has been inspired or ordered by Me.

49. A time is approaching when your eyes will be opened and you will understand the true essence of spiritualism. Truly I tell you, my work is more sacred than anything in the world that you have considered so. However, I am ready to forgive how much you have missed in your mission and with your repentance you will penetrate into a new, more spiritual life, practicing my teachings with the utmost simplicity so that it is true spiritualism that you teach.

50. If, since 1866, when these lessons began among my new disciples, they had taken advantage of the essence they received, do you not consider that it was time for them to have assimilated this teaching?

51. It was natural that while you did not see my revelation defined, despite having explained it in detail, so that your understanding would understand it, you fell into errors and misinterpreted some of the teachings, but when my word has reached its fullness among you, those faults are unjustified.

52. You came to believe that I had brought you to this work in order to remedy the material poverty in which part of humanity finds itself, to help you to be great in front of others; and today you are surprised that I come to give you the spiritual goods, charity, consolation, balm, which you must give with the most absolute selflessness.

53. This is the truth; whoever has put a price on the services I impart to his brothers, it has not been to my work that he has sold, it has been to himself to whom he has set a price, a price of betrayal.

54. There are still a few moments during which I will speak freely to you, and no one will be able to say that I punished him harshly or made him atone too much for the mistakes he has committed, because my teaching is sweet, as well as the means I use to correct you.

55. It will not be the payment of the world that brings you peace and satisfactions; these will come to your brothers.

56. If you love peace, be also men of good will, and so you will have it with you. Verily I say to you, there is no treasure that can compare with the peace of the spirit.

57. You can say that only for moments the time that is missing for you to stop listening to this word can be counted. The time is approaching when you will rise up to spread the good news. The fullness of the time of light will come, and the Spirit of the Lord will descend on your heads, as he descended on my apostles at that time, making a tongue of fire appear in each of them, as a symbol of the word or gift of the word, which was granted to them at that moment. You must persevere in my teaching, so that my will may be done in you. If you suffer humiliation because of my work, bear it patiently and forgive. Turn your gaze to Jesus and see him at that time suffering the greatest humiliations among men, without protesting, but forgiving and loving those who offended him.

58. If I told you to show the right cheek to the one who hit you on the left, as a sign of forgiveness, I did not concretize my doctrine only in words. How many times in the last days that I spent in the world, I received on my face and on my whole body, when I was not spanking, slapping, without my heart being angry, nor my gaze manifesting rancor. My gentleness, the gentleness with which I contemplated those men, they performed many miracles, many conversions that only I contemplated. This is what Jesus the Savior came for, to teach you the way of spiritual elevation through humility.

59. Divine humility was fully manifested to the world from the hour of my birth as a man. From that cold night in which a very pure woman of spirit and body, full of joy prayed before her Lord from inside a stable, the only refuge that was opened that night to receive the Savior of the world in her womb, there in the manger that was my cradle, the lesson of love and humility that I brought to men began.

60. Today you are living another time; I have returned to you and although it has not been as a man, I have come to teach you again my lesson of humility. The darkness in which I find humanity immersed at this time is blacker than the darkness in which Jesus was born that night. The hardness of the hearts that have received my new coming, has been like the rocks of that grotto, where the Child God opened his eyes to the light of this world; the indifference of humanity towards the eternal towards the spiritual and their lack of love for each other are like the cold of that blessed night and the hardness of the understandings by which I communicate at this time, the roughness of their hearts, have been like the hard straw of the manger. Thus I began my lesson anew among you, but I ask you: will I also conclude it on a cross as then?

61. Look at my footprint and follow it; if in it you find suffering, sacrifice, renunciation, humiliation, raise your gaze to Jesus and I will send you my strength and I will give you my arm like a Cyrenian to help you carry the cross.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 198

1. Blessed is he who comes to Me full of humility.
2. These are the times when I will leave men prepared of spirit and understanding to testify the truth of my coming.
3. When my disciples go through the world, speaking and teaching in my name, they will carry the faith and the assurance that I will come to their aid in the moment of trial, because I have always given proof of my love and of my presence everywhere.
4. When grief overwhelms you and you cry out to your Father because your faith convinces you that you are heard and that your afflicted face is contemplated by the Lord, you feel a consolation and a hope, which is the caress that the master gives you when listening to your prayer.
5. If a man's life is full of stumbles and bitterness and then he asks for the comfort of his Father, why should not someone come who can lift him up?
6. Divine love is poured out at every moment in humanity and this is testified by those who have known how to feel me intimately in their heart, because, even being omnipotent, I limit myself to approach man and be felt by him.
7. Do not judge anyone, see how the men of the different religions pray in different ways, all different from yours; I have revealed to you that I descend to everyone and I listen to everyone, because I want to hide myself from no one who seeks me. On the other hand, others will judge you for your spiritual way of praying, and also for having believed in my communication by the understanding of man. How many of you have already been victims of slander and mockery on the part of those who accept my communication in this form! Only the flame of faith that burns in the heart of this people has made you withstand the trials and is that you have the confidence that this doctrine, after going through great battles, will be of universal knowledge. You, who are listening directly to my word and who will be teachers among humanity, will not see from this world the result of your work, because it will take time for the seed to yield its fruit.
8. This humanity is gradually accepting the spiritual idea; when it has reached a certain elevation, it will verify that in my communications and manifestations there was no imposture; that it was true that the Master poured out in love, in wisdom and in grace through humble brains, but cleared and enlightened by my Divinity; imperfect, yes; but being the same purity, I have come to use the understandings of men who continually struggle against their own inclinations. If a man believes that only through a just and perfect man should I communicate in order to be believed, he is in error, and I would ask him: Are the representatives of my Divinity in religions perfect and just men? Truly I tell you, I do not find among them a single righteous person in all the earth, yet they are interpreters of my word revealed in times past.

9. These spokespersons through whom I speak to you, are not my representatives, nor my ministers, they are simply instruments to transmit my inspiration.

10. My teaching has brought you many lessons; I have told you that you do not need to build sumptuous temples to please your God; that you do not need to confess your faults to another sinner like yourself. That the best temple where you can penetrate to worship me is your own heart and that when you feel sincere repentance for your faults and fight against yourselves to make amends, you will indeed be forgiven by Me. The proof that you have washed away your stain will be the peace that your conscience experiences and the joy that floods your heart.

11. What do men call supernatural, if everything in Me and in my work is natural? Are not the evil and imperfect works of men rather supernatural, since it would be natural for them to always do good, proceeding from whom they proceed and possessing the attributes that they carry in themselves? In Me everything has a simple or deep explanation, there is nothing obscure. You call supernatural everything that you do not know or that you look at shrouded in mystery, but that, when your spirit conquers with merit its elevation and contemplates and discovers what it could not see before, it will find that everything in creation is natural.

12. If a few centuries ago the advances and discoveries that man would achieve in these times had been announced to humanity, even scientists would have doubted and would have considered such wonders supernatural. Now that you have evolved following step by step the advances of human science, although you marvel at it, you contemplate them as natural works.

13. Verily I tell you: Tomorrow, when man's spiritual communication with his God spreads over the face of the earth, humanity will become familiar with these manifestations, will believe that I communicated through human understanding, will believe in what I spoke and will cease to judge an impossible or something supernatural such manifestations.

14. The men of tomorrow will be those who recognize through the writings that remain of my word, the greatness and the essence of my doctrine. It will cause admiration in them the simplicity with which I explain the profound, the unfathomable, the simplicity with which I expose the truth to you.

Love one another!

15. This is how my word prepares you so that you can answer those who come after this knowledge. Men will come to you, who will not be satisfied with simple explanations. Scientists who have spent their lives searching nature and books will come and ask you: Why did the Lord being power not materialize, explaining what the discoveries of science would be?
16. Then you will answer: At the bottom of the divine word, whose simplicity contains wisdom, there is the explanation and prophecy of what man will accomplish and what awaits humanity.
17. Disciples, from now on I tell you: Do not think that the wisdom that I am teaching you in my revelations is so that you can confront the wisdom of men; if you want to go that way, from now on I tell you that you will gather nothing.
18. It is not necessary to be wise to reach Me; it is enough to have spiritual elevation to manifest my word, as Jesus manifested it in the Second Time and as I am now handing it over to you, full of simplicity and love. Has she revealed scientific wisdom? Is she trying to solve the scientific problems of men of these times?
19. I only speak to the spirit. I have only taught the way that leads to the perfect life; and this mission you also have, to speak to the spirit and discover for him on the horizon the silhouette of the "land of promise".
20. You expound with sincerity and purity my doctrine and let man search, investigate and interrogate. I do not reprove him, nor do I prevent him; everyone will look for the way that is within his reach to find the truth.
21. Sow, your seed will bear fruit tomorrow; it does not matter that future generations will reap the fruit.
22. Study my word and penetrate into its essence.
23. I come to give you my doctrine and not to contemplate your stain and your iniquity.
24. The people of Israel must show an example of strength, because Israel is the strong of humanity.
25. You will receive new orders, by which the multitudes will recognize me.
26. Calamities are unleashed and while Israel sleeps, men implore charity and have received it from Me; but it is my will that humanity receives for the preparation of my people.
27. You carry the example of the Father in teaching you submission and obedience.

Love one another!

28. When the time is come, you will receive a command. You will go to distant lands. You will not make a distinction of races and I also tell you: They are waiting for me. But for those who have not yet awakened, I say to you: The moment will come when the Father will make himself felt in all hearts.

29. I do not come to contemplate your human vanities. I only see that your heart and spirit have sought me and I will send you to the regions as emissaries of the Master, teaching by example, like Jesus in the Second Time.

30. Yes, Israel, carry my word, which is the sap of eternal life.

31. It is up to you to give to the world what belongs to it, in fulfillment of my mandate, because you are the possessors of the light and grace of the Third Time.

32. I am the Father, who, full of love, I come to raise you up again to the life of grace, to guide you on the right path. Dear did you cost me in the Second Time and now you have me in spirit giving you again my word, my "Divine Word" that is distinguished by love, so that you practice and take to the world my perfect teaching.

33. With my word, which is the finest chisel, I polish your heart, because I contemplate him still numb.

34. It is the dawn of grace in which the Master descends in all his disciples.

35. The seers have testified to my presence and have contemplated the light of my Spirit.

36. They have prepared themselves and have closed their pupils to the attractions of the world and prophetic words have gushed out of their mouths.

37. Keep preparing yourselves, for if you do not, truly I say to you, the stones will speak.

38. But I also say to you, I do not want to force you. I want love to spring from your heart with simplicity and naturalness.

39. Prepare yourselves, people, because you do not know how or from where, but the crowds from different villages and counties will get up and come to the enclosures

40. Rise up in prayer. Help your brothers. Study my word. I don't want to look at Israel in shame because it didn't know how to fight. No, people. Present one, two or three grains, but let your seed be clean. It is up to you to analyze my word.

41. I am a Father of love, and as a Father I come to you because as a judge I am inexorable. Regenerate yourselves, prepare yourselves, so that you may always contemplate me as a Father.

Love one another!

42. The time of the great struggle is coming. Three years are left of my word and the Father wants to leave the multitudes doctinated. But it is necessary for you to prepare yourselves, whom I will leave in charge of the portions that are to remain in the enclosures.

43. Come to the understanding and do not let the world take away the sap of my word and its essence returns to my divine throne.

44. Depart from the world and remember my words that tell you: What you were yesterday, do not be today and what you are now, do not be tomorrow. Regenerate yourselves. Renounce the superfluous and bad; I do not want mystics, nor fanatics.

45. In the First Time I sent Moses to you, in the Second Time I was in Jesus of Nazareth among you and today you have me as the Holy Spirit. I contemplate your spirit on the "Jacob's ladder", receiving the grace and light of My Spirit.

46. You all form one people. You are all one son in whom I rest my oscar of peace.

47. Study my word and take it to the multitudes, for the way is already prepared. To this nation men will approach. Give them the best bench, show them a good example, so that they will recognize you as disciples of the Holy Spirit.

48. Each of you carries a spiritual being who cares for you. When the time comes, he will answer me about you and you about him. Truly, I tell you, the responsibility you bear is great.

49. Be zealous and eager to fulfill your mission and be united by a single ideal and a single will. Be grateful to my justice, which contemplates even the inmost beating of your heart.

50. It's precious time. It is time for you to get up in haste, with love, to fulfill my command, some already as disciples, the others as infants.

51. Leave to the world what belongs to it and carry a single ideal, which is the salvation of the spirit, because you will have to give accounts of everything that you will work on this planet, when the time has come.

52. You are neither innocent nor ignorant, you do everything with knowledge.

53. I warn you of future events. When you no longer hear my word, you will communicate with Me spirit to Spirit.

54. Now I behold you gathered together in imitation of my apostles of the Second Time, and I am preparing you to do great wonders.

Love one another!

55. You carry a great power, therefore, give to your brothers of the much that I have given you in my word.

56. I have come to pour out my wisdom among you, but I behold the hungry wolf in sheep's clothing who wants to devour you by putting sinful thoughts in you to lose you. But when I contemplate that your being is about to succumb, here you have me as a Father who comes to your aid, because I do not want you to be lost.

57. Short is the portion that carries in its heart the love of the Father and willingness to serve me; but I say to you, Persevere so that you may achieve the elevation of your spirit in my law.

58. Thus gathered together I want to contemplate you that if you are with the Father, I will be with you, I will not leave you for a single moment and the temptation will be far from the people of Israel.

59. Analyze my word, understand that the moment of my communication is short and realize how great is my love and how great is the light that rests in your spirit. See that you have to come clean to Me

60. "My kingdom is not of this world", therefore understand me when I say to you: What you will work on the earth, I will keep for you in the hereafter.

61. I'm waiting for you all here at this table. Before my presence, races, castes and lineages will disappear; you all belong to me equally, you all carry a spirit like a precious jewel, and it is this spirit that I have been looking for.

62. If you want to know, this was the appointed place for my new manifestation to the world, in which you were to see me coming on the cloud, in front of all the peoples of the earth.

63. Understand the lessons well; with this I want to tell you, that in Spirit I descend to everyone, but that this word, not everyone will hear it. Thus it happened at that time; one people was the witness of my teaching, of my works, and the rest of the peoples of the earth believed by the testimonies.

64. Today I find myself gathering the spirit of that people, so that he may perfect his mission under the word of his Master.

65. I do not come to promise you earthly reigns, but a kingdom of eternal light in the spirit.

Love one another!

66. His spirit, now full of selfishness in the face of the needs of his fellow men, will tomorrow be generous to make his brothers share in the inheritance that I have granted them.

67. Those who at that time were waiting for the arrival of the Messiah, like that of a king of the earth and saw him arriving in his divine humility, were discouraged and confused. Why should you now imitate them and be confused when you see me manifest in this way, if you already have a record that "the kingdom of your Lord is not of this world?"

68. I come to teach a people, so that he will teach in tomorrow all those who did not have the opportunity to hear me in this form. Those who are listening to me now hear a Father who with great love announces to them an upcoming departure and who for that reason expresses his tenderness to all those around him. It is the voice of a Father who wants to be remembered, who does not want to leave any of his children sobbing, who wants everyone to enjoy his inheritance and this is that of his love.

69. Everything that this people needs for the coming struggle, their great spiritual struggle, they will have, because He, in His fruitful irrigation, will cause my seed to sprout again

70. Yes, people, my name will again be on all lips, my essence on all hearts, and my law will manifest itself in all consciences. How blessed will those who have taken part in this divine work be, because that spiritual joy will compensate them for all their tribulations and bitterness! They will remember that here, on earth, they were the disciples of Christ, who lovingly took care of the seed that the Divine Master taught them to cultivate.

71. Conquer that peace for your spirit, O people, win that place in eternity.

72. I, as a Teacher, go before you leading your spirit; therefore the works of my disciples must be clear, and those who look at you will take an example from you. The world is hungry and you have the bread that feeds; if you follow me as they do, you will feel my power to fight every evil. All the elements will help you in your mission, if you know how to use them.

73. Today you contemplate, among humanity, scarcity and poverty, the eagerness to obtain the bread of the body, while you have preserved yourselves without suffering so many hardships, because I want you to have peace and to dedicate a part of your time to the practice of my doctrine. Many men and women are going to emigrate seeking in this country a refuge for their heart tired of fighting, and they will find a blessed land, lavish in benefits, and you will share with them your bread and they will find shelter and they will cement their home here.

Love one another!

74. Wake up, people, because there are only three years left in which I have to communicate with you. Seek Me from today from spirit to Spirit, because the hour is approaching when you will feel like orphans and I want you to be strong in the trial. The spiritual world will not give you its word of encouragement, of advice; you will not hear this concert descend from beyond, and it is necessary that you know how to rise to continue nourishing your spirit.

75. Come closer. to which it is perfect. Unite yours to my will. Seek all the good for your spirit and love earthly goods less. Humanity has reached a limit where I am going to stop it; the darkness will disappear, "the weeds will be cut down, tied into sheaves and thrown into the fire," as it is written. All this will be done. I am preparing you, people, so that you may know the time in which you live and put your brothers on alert. Blessed is he who prepares to redeem himself, prays and does penance, for he will be saved; but if for this reason you are unknown, if you are wounded, remember Jesus in his divine passion and imitate him.

76. Be understanding and know how to forgive offenses; have no enemies and if they fight you, wield your weapons of love, of light. If you behave in this way, you will achieve perfection and you will have the gift of peace on earth. I give you the seed, it's up to you to cultivate it.

77. The time when I was to come was appointed and this prophecy has been fulfilled. It was said: "Men will climb the mountain of sin and materialism. Wars will spread from nation to nation like a fire that destroys everything. Hatred and ill will will grow like weeds and invade the fields."

78. I knew that through the ages you would forget me and that you would make my word come out of your heart. That's why I announced that I would be back. That light has been dimmed, the human heart is cold and insensitive, like the night when Jesus came into the world and the Mother, finding no lodging in the homes of men, sought shelter in the rustic abode of shepherds and flocks.

79. Today I did not prepare a lap to become a man, because I have come in the Spirit to speak to you; and in the midst of so much hardness and unbelief I have found you, I have chosen you and you have prepared your heart to receive me, you have listened to me and your faith has been ignited.

80. If you want to follow me, keep my word; I will help you with the cross; but I do not want this people who believe me today to judge and condemn me tomorrow, like the one who led me to the cross. Today you do not know who the faithful will be; I tell you that they will be few and sometimes they will find themselves lonely; but their way will be open and the angels will come to guard them and to rescue them from dangers to lead them to the heavenly prison.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Teaching 199

1. The peace of the Holy Spirit be with you.
2. I speak to you tirelessly, because the test for the disciples is approaching and I want you to know then how to make my work known. I have made known to you its principles, so that you may always show it in all its purity and truth.
3. My doctrine will unite the world in a single ideal, and when that union of thoughts, hearts and wills has been realized, the world will know peace and something more of the life of the spirit.
4. There is at this time the struggle of ideas and doctrines. Every man wants to be right and in this struggle of selfishness and interests, who will possess reason? Who will own the truth?
5. If those who consider themselves to be on the perfect path and believe they have the truth are puffed up because of it, truly I tell you, they do not yet know the way, because it is necessary to have humility in it, and it is enough that they do not know the truth contained in the belief of others, so that they have ceased to be humble. And I said to you from the Second Time, "Blessed are the meek and humble of heart."
6. The man who judges the faith and belief of his fellow men, turns away from salvation, because in his pride and foolishness he tries to equal his God.
7. I tell you to show yourselves as you are, so that you will not fall into hypocrisy. Be sincere considering that you lack a lot to achieve the perfection of your spirit.
8. Whoever, because of his humility, considers himself unworthy of the graces he receives, will never be able to magnify himself no matter how much I fill him. They will face each other; the struggle will be unequal, because while some support their reason in the strength of the power of the earth, others in their material poverty will only present the weapons of their love, because they will have no heritage other than their spiritual inheritance.
9. You know, my people, that I have formed and gathered you together by drawing you from here and there, because in all sects and religions, which are like roads, there are spiritualists, the disciples with whom I am to form this family. I will not unite them in one enclosure, but in one law, in the same love; for whoever feels his heart beating with love for his brother, that one will be the son of this people. Truly I tell you, you will not be spiritualists just because you penetrate these precincts where my word 'speaks of spiritualism, but because of the love you give to your brothers.

Love one another!

10. Do not be afraid to think that you will have to fight against ideas, customs and errors of centuries, nor do you care that your number is small; you know that the light that I have given you comes to break the chains of slavery and ignorance.

11. What can the spiritualist people be accused of when they fulfill the spiritual law, the moral law and their material duties and leave a trace of virtue on their way? But beware of everything that I have not taught you, lest you become guilty of human justice; today I say to you as in the Second Time: "Give to God what is God's and to Caesar what is Caesar's, and no one will find you a stain to judge.

12. Comply with the laws that govern the country in which you live, and have respect for those that govern other peoples.

13. I leave you my word for your, study and analysis.

14. Arise as emissaries in imitation of your Shepherd, to bring the good news to hearts.

15. Truly I say to you, the human race is to be saved through you.

16. Step by step, I am guiding you along the path of love, that narrow path, but that will fill you with satisfactions and peace.

17. I want to contemplate you walking behind the Master on the path that leads to supreme happiness. No, take the evil ways that lead you away from Me.

18. Those who have fulfilled find themselves surrounding me. But I have come to you as a Father of love and charity, to teach you again to dedicate a few moments of each dawn to me.

19. Farmers: Fight and work so that at the end of 1950 you will deliver an abundant harvest.

20. The mission that you have to fulfill is delicate, some in distant regions, others in the bosom of your family.

21. The inheritance that I have given you at this time is the same that you had in former times; but the covenant of love and goodwill that you have made with Me has long ago, you had broken it and it was necessary to remind you again.

22. Behold, mankind is in a high degree of evil. But you serve with a pure heart and you will feel strong and you will be saved in the midst of chaos. Unite so that the congregations may be like a fortress, like a firm wall, like an unbreakable chain in which each one is a strong link.

23. Lift up the fallen one. I give my charity to all, but some are afflicted by the temptations of the world and have not yet heard the call of their conscience. It is up to you to reach out to them and be a staff for them on the path, until you get them to walk after my footprint of love.

Love one another!

24. Take care, my children, of the teachings of the Father, who is taking care of you.

25. I have given you a body to fulfill a delicate mission on earth. Guide, O spirits, that body with love, for great will be your pain if you do not fulfill my command.

26. It is your body that you must guide and not he who holds you back on the path of fulfillment.

27. Sow the seed and cause it to germinate, so that multiplied it may return to the granaries of the Father.

28. It is my will to contemplate you humbly, but many of you in your ignorance implore my charity.

29. I behold that you have played with my garments. I have left them among you so that you may be protected from the weather of the times, but not so that you may leave them in the middle of the road.

30. Since 1866 you have had my new manifestation of love between you and have you missed anything?

31. Blessed is the one who has patiently poured out the cup of bitterness, for his pain will be transformed into grace.

32. Prepare the sanctuary that the Father has long wanted to dwell in it.

33. Take your rightful place and everyone will see that Christ is among you.

34. It is my will that you obey my word and give a good example to the multitudes; for this take my strength; I have given you a way and it is full of light. Follow my trail and climb the mountain.

35. Some of you ask me for coins, but I tell you, In the First Time, you carried great wealth on earth and before my law you were the disobedient one. Today bread is not lacking on your table and this is the stage of fulfillment for you. Be tireless in giving your brothers, so that at the end of the day you may present the multiplied seed to me.

36. Do not fear the inhabitant of the earth, fear my divine justice.

37. You are all my children and you will all come to Me when the time is right.

38. For you who draw near to the Master, I give up everyone, no matter how distant you believe them.

Love one another!

39. Cultivate the lands prepared by the Shepherd, which are the hearts of the multitudes.
40. When the Shepherd sees that the sheep is making a pitiful bleat, he comes to her and brings her closer to the fold.
41. You are subjected to hard trials, O Israel, but the Father gives you the strength so that you may go forward.
42. If you fulfill on earth, great rejoicing awaits you in the hereafter.
43. The doors of the kingdom are open inviting everyone who wants to live in it. You will find those doors in your consciousness.
44. Today I come to sit you at my table of love, to give you the delicacy of the spirit.
45. Children of my Divinity, disciples of the Master, let the light of the message that my love sends you penetrate to the innermost depths of your spirit.
46. Be welcome, O people, who come to Me tired, sick and sad of spirit.
47. Welcome to the light of my divine ray, because in it you will find strength, balm and joy.
48. Why are there some of you to whom it seems strange that I should come in this form?
49. I have not told you that I am in this matter; no, I have only told you that this mind is catching my inspiration. I am giving a new message to men, in the likeness of an immense fountain that was overflowing its contents over thirsty fields and orchards. Consider that your mind is the repository of my wisdom, where I come to shed my light.
50. I have made my thought a word that pours out love and tenderness, so that in it you may find the balm that heals your spirit and your body. I have also come to teach you to worship your God on the altar of truth, not on the altars of shadows, idolatry and fanaticism.
51. Prepare yourselves so that you may receive the message that I am bringing to you, let me lift this veil today so that you can understand the full meaning of my new message.
52. I come to make you understand without books and only with the spirit; I come to teach you to interpret the meaning of all the revelations. In this way you will stop falling into idolatry, because you will not be content to stop at the symbol, but you will know how to penetrate into the depths of the doctrine, to interpret its truth.
53. You have heard that in heaven the angels listen eternally to the divine concert. If you stop at that figurative sense, then take care not to believe that even in glory similar music is heard to those that you are used to hearing on earth; whoever thinks so, will have fallen into a complete error of materialism; on the other hand, whoever, when hearing about the music of heaven and the happiness of the angels when listening to it, thinks about harmony with God in the divine concert, that one will have been in truth.

54. But how is it that there are some who do not understand it that way, since each one of you carries in his spirit a note of the universal concert? How is it that listening to this word there are those who do not understand it or who do not feel it or misinterpret it?

55. O beloved children, who are fragile in your understanding, seek the light in prayer. Ask me in your meditations, that no matter how great your interrogations may be, I will know how to answer you from infinity. In my turn, I will also question you, so that the light of truth may arise between the Master and the disciples.

56. The heavenly music is the presence of God in you, and in the midst of that concert your note will vibrate when you have reached the true elevation, which is spiritual beauty. That is the heavenly music and the singing of the angels. When you know and feel this way, the truth will shine in your being and you will feel that God is in you; life will offer you an eternal and divine concert and in each of its notes you will discover a revelation. You have not yet heard the beautiful notes in their perfect harmony, sweet notes sometimes, vibrant others: If perhaps you come to perceive them, they will seem vague notes that you do not get to join and you have not been able to realize perfectly the beauty that they contain. It is necessary to go beyond the senses, beyond the passions and the shadows of materialism, to come to hear the concert of God in your spirit.

57. Why do you think my communication with you is impossible if you are receiving the communication of the universe? How can the vibration of my Spirit through human thought seem impossible to you, if you are all filled with the thoughts of God? How can it be impossible for God to communicate secretly with you, when the angels, the worlds, the spaces and everything created are full of Him? Why should I not take care of your spirit or why should I abandon it? Have you not realized that this would be possible?

58. Listen to me well: I am the Teacher, this planet is a school for the spirit; life and my teachings form the perfect lesson. Can you believe that I abandoned my duties and could forget about my disciples?

59. People: I repeat to you that the notes of the divine concert are vibrating around you and that it is essential that your spirit rises, to perceive their harmony; otherwise you will have let those notes remain vibrating in the spaces waiting for others who do know how to hear them.

60. I want you to acquire the sensitivity for the spiritual, so that with it you may sweeten your sadness here on this earth where you cry and suffer so much.

Love one another!

61. Do not listen to those who deny this truth that I am in you and with you. Wake up and listen to that part of my concert that for now I grant you to hear. Until now, your ears have only been prepared to listen to the echo of the lamentations and the rumble of the wars of this humanity, which are the best proof of your bewilderment and your lack of harmony. You can find this demonstration in all places and in all orders of your human life.

62. The fratricidal war and the war of ideas are in their fullness, great and small, strong and weak, believers and profane, they are stirring in a sea of confusion; but the pruning is already near, and verily I tell you that every tree that does not bear good fruit will be cut down.

63. Pain, time and truth will be the relentless sickle that nips the weed in the bud, which will later be thrown into the fire of wisdom, where everything that is false will be consumed.

64. In the midst of this chaos there are also those who doubt my love, to which I say to you: How should I abandon this world, if only I can calm the waves of this raging sea?.

65. Do not forget that whenever you find yourselves in darkness, I will come to your aid, because I am the light of the world.

66. It is men who cause the storms, but it is my duty to come and teach them how to make peace; and that is what I am doing through my doctrine, which has descended in all times as a sweet and harmonious concert, as a message coming from that kingdom of love and justice.

67. I will continue speaking to your heart; the heavens want to manifest in your world, let them pass through your mind.

68. Separation from the Creator and His creatures is impossible, there can be no distance between Christ and men, just as there can be no body without a head, no sun without planets.

69. When you love eternity, great will be the beauty that you will enjoy in your existence and when you achieve that holy freedom that I have come to offer to your spirit, you will travel through thought through heavens, spaces and worlds.

70. I come to comfort you in this time of afflictions that was announced by the prophets a long time ago. Roque Rojas, my envoy at this time, told you about the trials that were about to come, and from my first spokesman I made it known to you that the prophecies were being fulfilled. Those of you who have listened to me since those days will remember that the Master said to you: Behold, life will change and humanity will pour out a very bitter cup; nations will be unknown; parents will be unknown to their children and children to their parents; a man will put away his wife, and she in turn will lack a partner, and many children, having parents, will walk as orphans. Because of the vice that will spread and the hunger and sin that will multiply, many people will die.

71. And behold, after a few years, all these calamities, like an irrepressible torrent, will sweep away life, homes, peoples, beliefs, and institutions. I am always telling those who listen to me, to watch and pray so that they do not let themselves be swept away by that current.

72. Watch over the virtue of your family, for the peace of your home. Look at how even the poorest can own this treasure. Recognize that the human family is a representation of the spiritual family; in it is the man who has become a father, bearing a true likeness to his Heavenly Father; the woman, with her maternal heart full of tenderness, is the image of the love of the Divine Mother, and the family that with their union they form, is a representation of the spiritual family of the Creator. The home is the temple where you can best learn to fulfill my laws, when the parents have known how to prepare.

73. The destiny of parents and children is in Me, but it is up to one and the other to help each other in their missions and in their restitution.

74. How light the cross would be and how bearable existence would be if all parents and children loved each other! The greatest trials would be tempered by affection and understanding; her conformity to the divine will would be rewarded with peace.

75. The first institution on earth was marriage, because such a union was consecrated by the Creator, from the first woman and the first man. Throughout the ages my law and my revelations have spoken to you from the heights of that mission. When I went with you on earth, I enjoyed visiting couples and families. My presence in the homes sanctified that union and blessed its fruits. He spoke to childhood, youth and the elderly, he spoke to the boy and the father of the family, to the maid, to the wife and to the mother, because it was necessary to rebuild everything and give new light on the way of living in this world that is a stage of the spiritual life. My word was for everyone; that's why when I spoke, mothers came in a hurry carrying the children by the hand and in their arms. Those simple hearts, when they heard Jesus say to them, "He who knows the Son knows the Father," felt that in that word they were hearing God, and from the bottom of their hearts they were saying to the Master: Hallelujah, you are the Messiah we were waiting for! Blessed is He in whose name you come!

Love one another!

76. Now a new era has opened with my arrival, and my word in essence is the same. She comes to remind you of the forgotten, to teach you new teachings and to elevate your life by bringing it closer to perfection.

77. If you were living within my law, do you think that I would have come to materialize, communicating in this way?

78. I come to cultivate with my word the seed that I sowed in other times, but in this way I will only speak until 1950; after that I will continue to cultivate your spirit, but my communication will be more sublime and elevated. I have come today to remind you of some principles that have been trodden by the plant of man, With my heavenly counsels I am once again blessing marriage and the family, but to broaden your spiritual horizons and prevent you from falling into selfishness, I come to teach you to begin to form in this people a true spiritual family, whose Father you will contemplate in infinity and in the world you will look like brothers to all your fellow men.

79. Do you not think that whoever has known how to fulfill his own, will feel stronger and more worthy to leave his home, his people and even his nation to spread my teaching with his word and his example? Do not be afraid because I tell you that you have to leave your home and your region. I tell you that I will watch over what you leave and it will not be necessary for you to carry a double saddlebag; I will first prepare the roads, the doors, the hearts so that you can fulfill your mission. No blood sacrifice awaits you, even if you have to sacrifice some of your satisfactions. The home from which one of his sons leaves, to go after the counties, will be blessed. I am telling you about these revelations because there are only three years left in which I give you my word and I want to leave you prepared, so that no one comes to surprise you. Your gift of intuition will guide you in these times so that you know where and by what path you will have to go. The disciples will not go alone, a great legion of spirits of light will come to their aid and above all, Elijah, the spiritual shepherd will illuminate the paths and take care of his sheep, My will will be manifested in your works.

80. You are not the only ones on whom this work will rest; in the hereafter there are already those who will come to incarnate after you to continue your sowing. The world will be transformed, but it will not be in an instant.

81. Meditate on my word, so that light may be made in your understanding. Humanity, when you know the place you occupy in the Father's creation and the mission you bring, you will know that your destiny is always to love and bless.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 200

1. The gates of the kingdom are open to anyone who wants to receive its benefits. That kingdom is found in the spirit of man.
2. There is a celebration in your spirit and in mine, when you prepare to receive my messages of light.
3. You are welcome, sick, sad and in need of spiritual love, because in Me you will find the balm, the light and the strength that you have needed so much.
4. I love you, and therefore I send you my light so that it dispels your sorrows, worries and fears and you feel wrapped in my love, protected and safe from the multiple dangers that lie in wait for you. My fountain of mercy overflows to heal you of spirit and body, and what I am doing with you, I am carrying out in this and in all the worlds, because my Consoling Spirit has descended to all the dwellings where my children dwell.
5. If you feed on Me, if you know how to receive me, you will no longer be able to deny me, you will not doubt or ignore this bread that has given you life, and your existence will become a constant testimony of gratitude and love.
6. Can you imagine the delights of the promised kingdom? You have wanted to form in your mind an image of what the life of perfect beings could be and you talk about songs, beauty, purity and love, and now I tell you that in that dwelling a perfect harmony reigns.
7. You must know that all of you will become part of that concert, that you will participate in that happiness when you have perfected yourselves and come to Me. Then you will find me and I will be on the throne of the dignity that you give me. And that heavenly music will sing within your spirit, when you come to discover my presence in yourselves, and you will be ecstatic in the contemplation of my work, of my creation, which I have to show you in order to make you partakers of it. When you meet Me, you will perceive the most beautiful harmony and the sweetest song will rise from your spirit to mine.
8. When you feel my presence shining in you in this way, you will find in each scale a concert, in each note a revelation and you will be so close to Me that you will come to have me as the only cause and end of existence. I will receive you as one receives the traveler who arrives at the last stage of his journey, aware of his work and of what he is going to find.

Love one another!

9. People: You have not yet heard the music of beautiful notes because you have not yet managed to dematerialize your spirit. The concert is beyond where you have managed to reach, but I am preparing the way, so that you will soon reach Me.

10. Why do you think it difficult for me to communicate through the understanding of man? Do you doubt that I can be eternally in touch with your spirit? If creation is nourished by Me and all spirits live like the branches of a tree, taking life from it and feeding on its sap, how can you think that I am distant or indifferent to your sufferings, if I am your Teacher, your Doctor and your Father?

11. Listen up: The war of ideas is coming. Incarnate and disembodied spirits are agitated in a sea of confusion; all present their harvest of pain and evil; all seek to wound and kill themselves; all do the work of destruction; but the pain has also arrived. The reaper is present at this time, with the mission of cutting down every tree that does not produce good fruits. And in this great struggle only justice and truth will prevail. Many of the churches will disappear, some will remain standing. In some the truth will shine forth, in others they will present only the imposture; but the sickle of justice will continue to cut, until all the seed that exists on earth has been selected

12. In those times, those who have become spiritualized will reach the ideal, the elevation, and that knowledge will give them true wisdom. You will not need the human sciences to guide you, because the spirit duly prepared with my teachings will be able to reveal to you what you need to know.

13. Doctors of laws, philosophers and priests will come to Me, and I will answer them and convert them with my word. Some will not be able to understand me and will be confused. Others will humbly ask me for forgiveness; they will not demand proof from me, I will give it to them, because I love them and I want them to recognize me.

14. When scientists do not know how to answer humanity, nor can they solve their problems and doubts, she will come to Me; then she will know that I have been waiting for her to teach her and comfort her; she will know that this word comes from Christ, the One who knows how to caress all the sad and speak to everyone in this language that is so sweet, the same one in which the master taught you the sublime commandment that says: "Love one another"

15. You are in times of purification and woes of pain have already been heard. But that same pain will serve you so that you will ache and be able to be the pillars of the temple; and after you, new apostles will arrive.

16. I will be with you to comfort you and give you firmness, so that you can continue on the path of restitution. I want you to turn your enemies into friends, that in your struggle you may know how to conquer the kingdom, where you will achieve the fruit of all your works.

17. I speak to you in this way, so that you may go modeling your heart, because your destiny is to love and bless. Live as Jesus lived, always in communion with the Father, in perfect harmony with all beings of creation.

18. Have you not heard within yourself, when you do good, when you caress a helpless child, help a needy one or protect a defenseless being, a voice that blesses you and encourages you to continue on that path resounds? Whose voice is that? Of consciousness. It is the voice of the Father who rewards the son, because he knows how to imitate him.

19. If you want to become the worthy children of my Divinity, the hereditary princes of my glory, you first need to purify yourselves and you already know that the best purifying waters are good works. I speak to you in this way, so that you may feel that I am waiting for you in my kingdom, that today you are on the path that leads to him, but that you still have a long way to go. I want to make each one of you an apostle and each apostle a teacher.

20. I find that humanity is practicing worship in different ways and I tell you that I do not recognize religions that are major or minor; I have taught you love and there is only one truth. Do not believe that it is one church, one priest or many priests, who will redeem humanity; it is I, the wise and loving Shepherd who cares for you, comforts you and loves you in such a way that I gave my life for you to teach you the way of truth and life.

21. If the men of that time believed that by taking my life they would destroy me and make my doctrine disappear, they did not realize that they would only be able to give me more life and higher glory, obtained by sacrifice. From my cross I blessed my apostles of all times, all those who have humbly followed me on the same path.

22. Thus I bless you who at the present time have received me and who are already preparing to continue my work.

23. Israel, weary wayfarer who come in search of my words, to carry out your destiny in the Third Time, you arrive with bitterness on your lips and pain in your heart. You and your children have crossed the perilous path and today, when you hear the call of my Spirit, you come sure that you will receive strength.

24. Some I find humble, waiting for my commands; others, after having sinned a lot, feel repentance in my presence; and others, curious, search my teaching, looking in it for some error to condemn it. I know you and I love you and I receive you all on this day.

Love one another!

25. I will use the humble to bring the good news in a short time to the hearts that are waiting for me. To the one who has lacked, I purify him with my word that is crystal clear water and knowing that I forgive him and that I make him my disciple, he will repent and will not sin again and to the one who searches and doubts, I enlighten him and I give him proofs so that he knows the truth and bears witness of Me.

26. And when you are all ready, I will send you before those who have cultivated their minds and speak with flowery language and you will not feel inferior to them, nor will you envy them, because I have given you great, spiritual gifts.

27. Science is going to stop; many wise people will be confused and will find their knowledge useless, because the knowledge acquired has not led them to the well-being and peace of the spirit; and when they reach that conclusion, they will look for me, they will long to know the essence and purpose of the spiritual life and they will humbly ask me to penetrate my arcana and I will grant them to go as far as my will is.

28. Those who will follow me the most will be the poor, the disinherited and when they have received this flow of essence that pours out my word, they will rise up full of love, to bear the testimony of my coming at this time. Some will appear as prophets, others with the gift of the word will captivate hearts and all will do works of love among humanity.

29. Those nations that have been despised, those peoples who are covered in rags, will wake up, love me and serve humanity. Among them are the great spirits achrysolados in pain. At the bottom of these creatures are hidden my messengers, my apostles; I will call all the nations and those who will understand, my inspiration, will come to Me in a short time to be my precursors.

30. Israel: There are your brothers of struggle, waiting for my commands and living in chaos; while they invoke peace, others ask for extermination; they need to contemplate new horizons, new lands, they long to emigrate to other more merciful countries, to form their home and to be able to develop their spirit, in compliance with the divine laws.

31. The imperfections in the worship of men will disappear as spirituality penetrates the hearts and that the spirit tired of false gods, seeks my presence, my word; they will not call me on these river banks, nor in the mountains, nor in the valley or the desert, they will look for me in the depths of their spirit and there they will form a temple where they will love me.

32. You will see many men who were great materially, descend from their plane and in that condition, after great trials that will be like a crucible for their spirit, they will seek my doctrine and rise by their virtues and to come to know the true value of the gifts that I have granted to man. In the year 1950 you will see many of the prophecies fulfilled.

33. Many hearts that have been barren lands will bear fruit, and to you whom I have cultivated day by day, I say: Prepare yourselves and be ready to sow my seed.

34. After that year there will be wars between Israel and only those who have remained watching and praying and working within my laws will be a shield for others.

35. I have given you the light, so that you may walk with certainty and teach your brothers.

36. Blessed are you all, both those who are listening to me and those who are still oblivious to my manifestation.

37. It is a time of struggle the moment you are living, of spiritual struggle and of struggle of ideas.

38. I have insisted on this teaching because you will have to meet those who tirelessly try to penetrate the mystery of the teachings; you will also find yourselves before a multitude of men and women of various creeds and you will discover that in every church or religion there are men of good faith who strive for their acts to contain perfection.

39. It is my grace for everyone, because I have seen in the world of man that everyone, even for an instant, has inflamed his heart with love for my Divinity.

40. Scattered on earth are those who still seek to do good and how to be useful to their fellow men. And truly I tell you, whoever feeds this purpose is with Me.

41. I have told you that the time will come when light will spring up in all places, in all countries, on all continents; that light will shine according to the spiritual preparation of man; but through it a new and more accurate idea of creation will be formed, a new stage of spiritual evolution.

42. When at last all understandings are unified, your idea of the divine, the eternal and the spiritual will be purified. Men will pass many tests, but once passed the truth will stand out even more. And the truth, which is always crystal clear and pure, will be able to be understood by everyone. This will bring about spiritual unification.

43. The doctrine that I have revealed to you and the norms that I have given you would be the ones that prevail, but keep in mind that it will be the essence of my word, not the form, that you will have to deliver.

Love one another!

44. Nor are you going to be surprised that the outward form of your worship changes within you, because truly I tell you: The time will come when you will understand that the Father only reaches the essence and purity of your acts.

45. Many of your brothers and sisters will come among you who, by becoming imbued with spiritualism, will force you to put aside every last remnant of fanaticism that you retain.

46. When I approach you by communicating through the spokesman, I discover those who listen without understanding and without feeling, also those who have only arrived attracted by curiosity. Some have tried to test the spiritual world. Many do not come with due respect. And so, how will they be able to believe in the supernatural that is being verified before their eyes? Will he be able to give himself a reasoned explanation of what is happening, if he does not know how to attribute this miracle to a higher force? What explanation can you give of what this work is to whoever interrogates you?.

47. Whoever has faith, carries from these places saturated water and with it performs miracles. And the Master asks you: Is there really supernatural power in that water? Truly I tell you, the power is not in the water, it is in yourselves, in faith and in the purity of your works, because the Lord is in you, as well as in nature and in all creation. Remember that at that time He said to you, "Your faith will save you."

48. I am the eternal miracle, the one who gives light to your understanding and moves your feelings to direct them on the path of good. But man has demanded more from his Father and has asked to see, hear and feel what he should only perceive through the sensitivity of his spirit, and out of love I have condescended to my children, having for them understanding and complacencies.

49. That is why at this time I have allowed my spiritual world to come closer to you and I have given you the gift of communicating through your understanding, so that you all may feel the realization of these wonders and believe in my presence. The communication of spiritual beings will lend itself to misinterpretations by the searchers of my work, they will take it as a weapon to hurt you, slander you and judge you sorcerers. But after that communication has left its seed, it will disappear. Then you will see that the gifts that I have given you persist and the miracles continue to happen, because you will intuitively guide your steps, always seeking through my teachings to lavish charity in the best way.

50. Analyze my word so that you can see that I am not imposing certain customs on you.

51. It is my essence that you must keep and spread on the roads, because the time will also come when you will not need these enclosures; I will manifest myself on your path, in your bedroom, on the mountain, everywhere. Your field will be unlimited to realize charity and prove that you are my disciples. Because the circumstances will also be different in each of you, but they will always give you the opportunity to do well. That good you will be able to do the same with the thought, that with the acts, with the word and even with the look.

Love one another!

52. Get used to having conscience as the judge of your own actions and it will indicate to you how you should act so that you manifest everything that I have deposited in you.

53. When you see that your brothers in my work do not know how to explain the reason for my manifestations, get up and explain; for this you have the necessary knowledge.

54. Do not be surprised when the moment comes and only the apostles of faith remain around me. I have said to you, "Many are called and few are chosen"; but it is not that I choose some and reject others; I call everyone, but while some stay with Me, others turn away.

55. Many have come and will still come to Me, but only those who carry within themselves the seed of charity will remain.

56. This word is not only for men, the spiritual hosts also listen to it, because they have a mission to fulfill, scattered throughout the earth.

57. I leave you free; walk wherever you believe and feel that it suits you best, wherever you feel love. If my word through a spokesman does not move you, look for me where you feel me fully, because everyone who follows me must feel me in his heart.

58. I come to reconcile you with one another, to unite you, never to divide you. I have come to give you light so that when the moment comes you will know how to distinguish truth from falsehood.

59. I contemplate you as little children who come seeking paternal warmth, or who come in search of the wisdom that can guide them along the path of life.

60. You are small, yes, but because of your weakness, because you have not taken advantage of the lessons that in multiple ways I am delivering in your path.

61. Whoever knows my name and my word, has no right to be called ignorant, small or weak. Did I not say to you at that time in my word, "I am the way, the truth, and the life? What could you lack if you walked on that path of love and if you sustained yourselves with the light of my wisdom? No wonder man cries at the moment of birth! You already know the spirit that awaits you the valley of tears.

Love one another!

62. Why don't you transform this dwelling place of the valley of tears into a land of peace? Understand that the meaning of my teachings leads to that beautiful end: "Peace on earth to men of good will." Peace! That men can obtain by practicing the commandment to love one another.

63. That is the secret to achieving peace; I revealed it to the world, I gave him the key that opens the doors of that kingdom; man does not ignore it, but he has not wanted to achieve peace, greatness and knowledge by the way of love; he has preferred to build a world according to his idea and a peace in his own way.

64. His work has been weak, because he has not raised it on the foundations of fraternity in God and today his world of vanity is disintegrating. Man, proud of the progress of his science, would like to sing a hymn of triumph for his discoveries; but instead he hears a Woe rising from his chest! of pain, horror and regret when he feels the result of his work, in which he did not put love.

65. Does My word seem bitter to you? She only tells you the truth.

66. My word is not nettle, it is wheat, it is not darkness, it is light.

67. Do my will and don't cry. Live my doctrine and you will know happiness. Love one another and you will live in perfect peace.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 201

1. People: In this age in which the Spirit of Truth radiates his light on every spirit, I want those who are destined to listen to me in this form, to concentrate and meditate because only in this way will they be able to understand the divine message that I have brought to you at this time. This message is the book that I have been recording in your spirit, it is the divine interpretation of the law that humanity has received from the earliest times, it is the essence contained in the "book of the seven seals", whose mystery I am beginning to clarify, illuminating your spirit with the light of my word.
2. Tomorrow, when you have already understood my lesson, the struggle will begin; you will no longer have my word in this form, but you will feel my presence in your heart.
3. God, in the First Time through Moses, wrote my law on stone; the word of Jesus was written with blood in the heart of man; and in this age I will write my revelations in your spirit with the light of inspiration.
4. If you stumble before the imperfections of these mediators, through whom I have been communicating, do not stop in that confusion; analyze, calm down and move on, because my desire is that you realize the magnitude and truth that my revelation contains.
5. It is necessary that when this people rises up in search of regions, towns, villages and even nations where to make the good news heard, they find themselves strong and spiritualized. Today you are still the innocent child who longs to see the moment of the fulfillment of his mission arrive, but who still ignores the lurking and the trials that await him on the way. But everyone who saturates himself with faith and love will be able to defy the gales and be insensitive to his own pain, but not indifferent to the miseries of humanity.
6. Extensive has been my lesson in this time, because I wanted to give occasion for many to listen to me, in order to fulfill in this way the promise that I made to you in times past, that "every sinful and non-sinful eye would contemplate me spiritually," in order to encourage your hope and your trust in Me.
7. My will has been that the word, which I have been delivering to you, be written, because in it there are predictions, announcements, messages, so that they may be known by the men of tomorrow, because many times your memory is unfaithful.
8. My word comes to form an enlightened people, to which men and women from all over the earth will belong and their strength will be in their spirituality. To that people I will entrust the restoration of peace in the world, justice, morality and true faith.

Love one another!

9. Today, it seems, humanity is sleeping, but with real surprise you will see how some peoples, upon hearing the voice of my emissaries, will open the doors of their hearts, as flowers open to receive the dew and the caress of the sun's rays. You, who are listening to me now, are part of that people who will grow in the future to cover the entire earth. Your mission is to exhort people to shed their materialism, to preach spirit-to-Spirit communication and to support your brothers and sisters in the faith, when great trials are looming over them.

10. The multitudes who have listened to my word at this time are only a small portion of the people who will arise tomorrow. His duty is to remain united despite the trials and the storms that may strike him; if he were to disintegrate, he would lose the battle, he would lose the star that has guided him until now and he would go astray in the immense solitude of the desert and what would be the testimony that they would give about my truth? What would be the example you would present to your brothers?

11. Well beloved disciples, think that if I have descended to speak to you materializing for you my divine presence and my word, a great good must pursue your Teacher and that you, whom I have doctrinaire and loved, you should not distort in any way my divine doctrine.

12. Disciples: If you long to possess spiritual gifts, let it be love and the desire to do good that inspire you with that longing. Do not seek to come to possess my grace only in order to flatter your vanity, to feel somewhat higher than your brothers. Nor do you seek through these gifts to form a fortune by means of profit. Truly I tell you that when love expects some payment, from that moment it ceases to be love and when the charity that is done has the purpose of expecting a reward, it ceases to be charity; that is why I warn you that when you have the desire to possess one of these gifts, let it be love that inspires you.

13. Anyone who wants to follow me on this path must strip his heart of all petty interest, all selfishness and all vanity. Only through a clean heart can my love be felt.

14. When I find that one of you is engaged in the execution of a good work, elevated in prayer, asking for a brother in need and his heart full of anguish for the pain of his fellow man makes me present, my divine love deposits in him a drop of my healing balm and I grant him the miracle he has been asking for.

15. At that moment, a very great joy invades the son who has interceded for his brother before the Father, who is the one who gave what was requested of him in the needy, who received my charity. On the other hand, when the one who carries the mission of sowing charity on his way, makes use of his gifts for selfish ends, without realizing it, has stripped himself of the Father's grace and can give nothing, he deceives himself and is deceiving his brothers. That bad farmer, instead of sowing wheat on his way, is sowing the tares. After performing each of his evil deeds, he will be left with a very bitter taste, dissatisfaction, restlessness, and he will not be able to find on the sweet face of his Father that loving smile that blesses and approves his deeds, nor will he be able to make his brother feel the influence of his spiritual gifts.

16. If the sick person was healed or the troubled one received consolation, or if a miracle was verified, that miracle was not due to that labourer but to the infinite mercy of the Father for the needy who, in his unconsciousness, placed all his trust in the evil disciple of the Lord. And yet, when the miracle has been performed, the evil servant attributes it to his prayers, to his gifts and uses that testimony to increase the number of those who trust in him. My justice will have to touch those, so that they will stop their wrong steps, meditate on the wrongness of their deeds and return to the path.

17. Blessed are those who, at the first touch of my righteousness, have repented of their sins, have escaped from following the path of their faults and have struggled to repair all their mistakes, because they have proven with this that the satisfactions of the spirit can never be compared with those of the earth. They have despised the peace that a clean work leaves in the heart, they have accepted the flattery or the miserable payment of a coin and they have seen that the former makes the spirit great and the latter dwarfs it and lowers it.

18. Everyone who is a farmer in my lands should know that I sent him to testify about Me and in order for his testimony to be true, he must be justified by his works, through acts of charity, words and good thoughts, trying to keep his heart clean so that I may manifest myself in him.

19. At that time I said to you, "Whoever knows the Son knows the Father," by which I meant to tell you that by my works on earth you could come to know the love that your Father has always poured out on you. Now I tell you, I want to become recognized through the works of my disciples.

20. When these people come to understand me and adjust their lives to this teaching and embrace their cross with true love, humanity will wake up, realize their works and will have to convince themselves that it is the truth that guides them; then they will consider my work as a divine revelation, whether they call it religion, doctrine or ideology.

21. Know and understand, O disciples, what is the mission that I have set for you. weigh your responsibility and examine each of your works, so that all of them conform to the truth of my doctrine.

Love one another!

22. In many societies, orders and congregations, men are usually called brothers. His lips utter the sweet word of brother, without feeling it in the heart most of the time.

23. Truly I tell you, if you dedicated yourselves to delving into the meaning of that word, you could discover the source of life from which you sprang, you would understand my divine tenderness and all this would make you shudder with remorse, thinking about how far you have lived from each other, in the indifference with which you look at those you call strangers and in the offenses that you infer from each other at every step.

24. When I came into the world to live with men, I did it to teach them to be brothers. I took flesh in Mary and called you my brothers to teach you how you should love one another. My whole doctrine was concretized to show you that divine and unique law with which you could love and glorify the Father. How will you come to love me without loving you? Verily I say to you, it is better for you to share all that you will offer me among your brothers and sisters, for the Father possesses all things, but you lack all things.

25. Inspire in my example all your life and your works and truly I tell you, when you do so, at every step you will be glorifying me and giving true proofs of your love. If men united all their gifts in order to elevate their existence, they would fully feel my presence among them. Some would give their knowledge, others their love, others their charity, their science, their inspiration and others their strength. Then a strong and united humanity would arise, as if it were formed by a single enlightened man, great and good and therefore powerful. That is the man in whom I have been sculpting my law of love for a long time.

26. The rock of his heart is hard, but it will not resist the edge of the divine chisel of my word.

27. I have come announcing to you a time of harmony among humanity; my prophets also announced it to you time has come; by then you will see the nations fraternizing, sharing their bread, their strength and their knowledge; you will see men sowing peace where before they only knew how to live between wars and hatreds. You will see how to bring comfort to the sick, as true doctors of humanity.

28. Do you now recognize that you have truly failed to live as brothers in my law? Will you understand why I told you from that time on that my supreme commandment was, "Love one another?"

29. I have not come at this time to erase that maxim from your heart or to replace it with another. She is immovable and immutable, I only explain her to you so that you understand her full scope and know her content, which is my wisdom.

Love one another!

30. When will this humanity understand that in the fulfillment of that law there is the peace that it needs so much, the health that it lacks today and the happiness that it has never found?

31. I know that men are heading, without knowing it, towards that point where when they arrive they will finally open their eyes to the light of truth.

32. After I have told you all this, I want that when you call one of your fellow men brother, you will understand what that word means and you will try to feel the truth of what I have revealed to you today.

33. I receive you in my Father's love. Even if the number of those who listen to me is short, that does not mean that I stop manifesting myself with love.

34. Your mind will be bathed in my light and it will destroy any doubt you may have.

35. The number of those who follow me is short and I still regard them as weak; but behold, my word will transform them into steadfast soldiers full of courage, who, even tired and wounded, will come to the end, waving in their right hand the banner, symbol of peace and fraternity. Your triumph should encourage many to follow you.

36. Blessed is the one who comes to know and fulfill his mission. The spirit requires for its evolution firm purposes, effort and will; when this is lacking, the advancement is slow and requires many existences for its perfection. Men must know all my teaching, which is the way of the spirit in pursuit of perfection. Intuition is not enough, they also need knowledge so that they never stop on the way, so that they give time and opportunities the value they have and stop being the dead in spirit.

37. Life must be manifested in spirit rather than in matter. How many are there who have inhabited this world and how few who have lived spiritually, who have let manifest the grace that exists in every being, in that divine spark that the Creator deposited in man.

38. If men managed to preserve transparency in their consciousness, through it they could contemplate their past, their present and their future.

39. The spirit is similar to my arcanum. How much he encloses! At every step and at every moment he has something to reveal to you, manifestations sometimes so profound that they become incomprehensible to you!

40. That spark of light that exists in every human being is the bond that unites man with the spiritual, it is what puts him in contact with the hereafter and with his Father.

41. If you observe, you will understand that everything is related to the eternal life that awaits you and to which you approach every passing day or instant.

Love one another!

42. I need workers in my countryside who learn to sow and cultivate this seed, clean understandings and hearts of good will, because many who received my gifts, became "prodigal children", who were only close to the Father for a while, to then go after pleasures; but my word will be fulfilled and they will return. They will find my inexorable justice on their way, but when they return to Me they will find Me as always, like a kind Father.

43. Multitudes, arise and go as emissaries of this work, giving the good news to all your brothers. Have faith in my word and you will do wonders. This light will lift humanity out of its slumber.

44. Go step by step along the way, so that you may come to know it; it is the narrow way of my law. The struggle in him is incessant; sometimes you will drink very bitter chalices, but you will also reap infinite satisfactions by experiencing the peace of the Lord in your spirit.

45. I go ahead marking the path for you; you carry the meekness of the sheep and you will not stumble. If you ask me where I am leading you, I will answer you that to the supreme happiness of the spirit. Who can get lost on the path of life if he carries on his shoulders the cross of love? Do not think that I am asking you to dedicate all the hours of your life to me; you have your duties on earth that you have to fulfill and you should know that they are also sacred and are part of your spiritual destiny.

46. For Me I only ask you for a short spiritual prayer every day, but in those moments that you dedicate to me, you must strip yourselves of all the little things and human miseries, so that you truly come to be in my presence and enjoy my caress and my peace.

47. You all have different missions to fulfill spiritually; some will not leave the region where they have lived, others will get up to go in search of other lands. Some will go away from their own to carry out their work, others will have their mission within their family.

48. There are those who believe that up to this time the Master came to you to entrust you with a spiritual mission, but they are in grave error, because your spirit, from its origin, has carried its trajectory traced in itself. At this time, as in past ages, I have only come to remind you of the covenant that your spirit made with his Father, before coming to this earth.

49. Embrace your mission with love, O disciples, so that you may succeed in having your brothers come after my divine footprint; you must realize that you have everything necessary to be sowers of this seed. In spirit and in your matter, you carry all the gifts to come out ahead in trials and win in the struggle.

Love one another!

50. Let your spirit be the helm of your body and the light of your conscience illuminate your path dominating the passions and impulses of the flesh; and then the fulfillment of your mission will be easy.

51. See that the spiritual seed that has been entrusted to each one of you, you have to return multiplied to be stored in my granaries. With this you must understand that you have to take advantage of the time you have.

52. Blessed is the one who patiently rushes the cup of bitterness that the struggle offers him, because in the end his pain will be transformed into joy. Be filled with faith and courage, so you will not fear the judgments of humanity. Fear for yourselves, because a weakness or a mistake can cause you serious consequences; when one of your brothers momentarily blinded by the darkness that envelops the world wounds you severely in the heart, forgive him and come to Me to close your wound with my love.

53. Bear with patience the weight of your cross and know that this existence and the performance of your delicate spiritual mission is so that you can raise your spirit to the kingdom that belongs to it.

54. If you fulfill on earth, you will fulfill in the hereafter.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 202

1. See with the gaze of your spirit the star that leads you into the presence of your Father.
2. Behold the Savior, who comes to bring you in his word the divine warmth needed by your spirits distressed by the painful pilgrimage of life.
3. If through pain you draw near to Me, it is my love that receives you; trust and enter into the solemnity of this manifestation.
4. I want to be with you, so close to your heart, that you truly feel my presence. I want you and I to be one in the harmony and tenderness of this night; that you keep in mind that I am your first light, the divine promise, the tireless Teacher who works to make you perfect spirits, worthy of God.
5. I want to be with you, even if it is only for an hour, but in such a way that it is impossible for you to separate from Me; look that I come to fill you with tenderness, hope and balm and I want you to remember that on a night like this I came into the world, to teach you with my life and examples the way that leads to the "kingdom of heaven".
6. Come closer to Me, so that you may receive in your heart the essence of this word and your prayer, which silently escapes from your heart, may join all the songs of heaven and earth in this solemn hour.
7. Pray, all of you, pray for the poor, for the sad, for the captives, for the sick, for the orphans; pray, so that your thoughts may go to anoint the one who suffers, to encourage the sad and to wipe the tears of the one who weeps.
8. There is not one of you, no matter how hard your heart may be, who does not become sweet at this moment; but I also tell you that in order to think about others, it is necessary to forget oneself; then yes, they, you and I, will be one in this hour of spiritual communion.
9. I have come to visit you in your solitude, and at the end of my lesson of this day, I will leave as an imprint of my presence a fragrance that will be unforgettable for this people
10. Let Me gather the withered flowers that your heart full of sorrows and wounds presents to me, and there I will leave lit a lamp of faith and hope
11. Your heart is what my Spirit seeks today to arise again in the heart of humanity
12. Verily I tell you that when you make my phrases your law, when you follow in my footsteps and imitate my example, divine love will begin to blossom in your heart, which, when it became man many centuries ago, brought you the seed of immortality.

Love one another!

13. I myself come now to explain to you the reason for this love, since you have not been able to understand it.

14. Your spirit trembles listening to me and says to me: Lord, it seems that I would have been with you at that time, your word reminds me of everything; would you like to take me out of this doubt, Master?

15. Truly I tell you, at that time, spirits and men, all were witnesses of my coming and of my work in the world.

16. Your spirit is the same even if it has lived in another world or dwelt in another body. Today he cries with different eyes, but his being is the same, and his interrogations are the same; he also asks me, tries to contemplate me or discover me and then I tell them not to fear, to calm down and realize that life in infinity is a constant interrogation and that, to understand the divine lessons, it is necessary to be humble, persevering and of great faith.

17. Many times you want to understand first the big and then the small, but start with that; analyze yourself, question yourself and you will see how you begin to feed with the fire of your being, since God ignited it with the fire of his Holy Spirit.

18. You will vaguely understand this teaching, because you know that you cannot have more light than that which corresponds to your evolution, but I assure you that those who know how to look for me inside their being, in the temple of their own spirit, they will soon get answers to those questions that for centuries they had not been able to find their explanation.

19. If there is rebellion against the spiritual in man, it is natural that his littleness cannot judge the infinite and no matter how much the Master tells you about the greatness of the Father, he cannot conceive what that truth contains.

20. I must tell you that I am talking to you about that knowledge that you must have of God, because to encompass everything, to penetrate and to know Him as you would like, that you cannot achieve.

21. Only God truly knows God, the Master tells you.

22. Perceive, people, the profound silence with which the universe greets at this hour and worships its Lord. Everything enters into sweet submission, into sublime contemplation, into deep adoration.

23. It is that all beings and everything created know that I am giving my word, the same word that spoke on the lips of Jesus, to which men and the elements obeyed, to which incurable diseases yielded and before which the dead rose.

Love one another!

24. On this night of spiritual celebration for the one who knows how to prepare and rise, you have in the invisible, in the intangible, the presence and the visit of those beings whom you call angels; and if you really know how to separate your spirit from matter, you will contemplate the fields, the cities, the homes and the space illuminated with the celestial brightness of innumerable beings, messengers of light, peace and love.
25. The heavens approach the earth and their light seeks the same to the one who stops to remember, that to the one who has forgotten the spiritual truth.
26. Rejoice, O humanity, rejoice at least for this night, since you would not yet know how to retain this peace forever!
27. Rejoice with the wholesome joy of the heart, which is tenderness and a return to goodness. Rejoice, yes, with the joy of the spirit, which is eternal enlightenment.
28. Good Night you call this night those who remember when the Rabbi came into the world.
29. Under the divine influence of these memories, beings get closer, the absent person is evoked, offenses are forgiven, families are reunited, friends are visited, hearts are filled with hope, everyone seems to expect something unknown that they cannot define correctly, on the night when men put a little tenderness in the hardness of their heart, and some a little spirituality on their materialism. But I ask you, do you think that only this night is worthy to be called good by men? Could you not, with a little love, make good all the nights and days of your existence, so that you may see that all life without exception for an instant is good?
30. You tell me: It is the night in which we remember every year the one in which you came to our world to bring you a message of love, and I answer you, that that hour dizzy the moment in which the man in whom the "Word" came to incarnate was born, but that my Spirit was so close to men then, as it was before and as it is now.
31. But as long as you do not lead a daily life attached in everything to the law, to the truth and to the love of one another, at least try to be spiritually united on this night of remembrance.
32. Seek Me all, come all to Me, but come meek and humble, expecting everything from the charity of your Lord.
33. Let no one come with greatness or vanity, because I tell you that I prefer you needy and sinful, but humble, trying to wash your stains in the crystal clear waters of my forgiveness.

Love one another!

34. Ah if you could come with Me in spirit and contemplate from here all the misery of humanity!

35. If the powerful, the rich and those who live surrounded by comforts wanted to be with Me tonight, I would take them in spirit to the places of pain and poverty that they do not want to see.

36. Then I would say to them: Leave your party for a moment and let us visit together the places where your brothers and sisters the poor live, let us see how they live this blessed night of sadness for some and of celebrations for others. Do not be afraid, I would tell them, that just a few moments I ask you and then you will be able to return to your feast and your joy; then I would take them from place to place and show them an elderly mother, who in the solitude of her miserable bedroom mourns the loss of her children, who were her hope, who were taken from her by the war.

37. That woman lives only on memories and prayers; while there are many who become intoxicated with pleasure, she rushes her cup of bitterness. His spirit is only waiting for the time to leave this world and enter eternity, because his hope in men has long since died.

38. Then he would show them to childhood, wandering among humanity that he does not respect the life of his fellow human beings, does not love or understand the needy.

39. I would have those men listen to the so profound interrogations of children, who in their human innocence wonder why so much injustice, so much hatred, selfishness and cruelty.

40. Then I would take them to those places where the woes and laments of the sick are drowned, of the one who has seen his body bend, as a branch breaks when a hurricane strikes; they are the sick, the defeated, the forgotten.

41. Later I would make the prison doors give way to us, so that they could contemplate the thousands of beings who have fallen into the darkness of captivity for lack of love, charity, light, justice, peace.

42. And so, from place to place, I would present to them in a single painting all the misery and pain that the ambitions, greed, hatred, materialism and the tireless thirst for power of those puffed up with their false power have produced, of those who, believing themselves powerful, are not, nor do they let anyone possess what corresponds to each one in justice.

43. But I do not call them, because I know that, although in their conscience my voice is heard, they become deaf to it.

Love one another!

44. But you, people, who are listening to me, who know of privations, of loneliness, of cold and of orphanhood too and who therefore vibrate together with that humanity that mourns its hunger and thirst for justice, come to Me, and together let us visit in spirit the sick, the sad, all the poor and forgotten of the world.

45. Come, so that you may see how I extend my mantle and join it to yours to lovingly cover all of humanity; come so that you may hear my spiritual voice saying to those who weep: Do not weep anymore, do not be sad, awaken to faith and hope that are light on the path of life; truly I tell you that if you pray again and watch with true faith, these days of pain for humanity will be shortened.

46. Yes, people, beloved, from there, from the seat where you rest to listen to me, you can let your spirit come closer to my dwelling, so that it may contemplate, understand and feel better the tragedy of men, of their brothers.

47. Do you see those crowds, which full of animation meet? They are soldiers who have given a brief pause to their combat to offer me a few minutes of prayer and remembrance; but their joy and animation are fictitious; they eat and drink to calm their sorrows, but in their heart there is a great pain. They suffer, people, they suffer a lot and especially on this night that is for them of torture every memory is a thorn, every name or every face they evoke is a wound.

48. While you have peace in spite of your poverty, while you can see your parents, children and wives, they have to breathe the bitterness of not being able to shake them and the anguish of thinking that maybe they will not look at them again.

49. many, many of them suffer, reaping lives, destroying homes and cities, sowing pain, mourning and tears, and then they think they have lost all right to return to home, to peace, to the bosom of their own.

50. I know that many of them are not guilty, they do not carry hatred or perversity in their hearts; I know that they are victims, they are slaves and instruments of the truly wicked.

51. Only I can rescue them, only my love can cover them; they are alone in the world.

52. You, people, who cannot imagine what this trial means, but who today by my word have been touched to your most sensitive fibers, send them your thoughts full of charity and light, because in truth I tell you, that they, without knowing why, will feel strengthened and encouraged to pray and to hope, that at last the fratricidal war will cease and instead of the hoarse rumble of combat, their ears will hear again those sweet phrases that say: "Peace on earth to men, of good will"

Love one another!

53. Pray, people, and with this make the world wait for the light of a new day; that men remember my promise, the one that speaks of better times, of spirituality and well-being.

54. I also say to you: Let us go now to the hearts of children and let us look for those who lack everything. Look at them; they sleep, in their sleep there is no reproach for anyone, although their bed is very hard.

55. The table today had no bread, however they rest confident in the new day. They wear rags, but they feel no shame, because they are innocent and smile even though their bodies lack warmth. They are angels on earth, because in their evil-free smiles they reflect something of the purity of the heavens.

56. O innocence! Cover them with your fine mantle because theirs is the "kingdom of heaven"

57. You all call tonight Good Night and I pour rain of blessings on all my children.

58. Know that I am yours and you are mine. Remember that I proved my love to you by coming to live among you the humble, being born in poverty, fighting among thistles and dying in ignominy.

59. Of Me you cannot say that I do not understand you, because I have not only seen your pains but I have lived them.

60. I also speak to you of the elderly, of those who have long left the spring of life and now feel the winter cold. With old age they lack strength, energy, health; the work becomes heavy, the members become clumsy and no longer, they are requested to perform it.

61. Thus, the elderly are excluded from the struggle of others, they are abandoned and their despondent heart has to sink into sadness and has to know the need, misery, hunger, loneliness. I tell you about them, because they also need your help and comfort. Love them, people, and you will have the right to sit at the great table of the spiritual banquet, where I will tell you: Blessed are you who, in imitation of the Master, knew how to understand all those who suffer.

62. Thus begin to develop charity in you and then I will take your hands to make my blessings pass through them and you will never oppose me taking yours to give to your brother, so that when you tell me: Lord, all mine is yours, you will say it with your heart.

63. If you have practiced charity in your life, continue to do so; but if not, then start with the first needy person who knocks at your door, whether it is a sick person in spirit or body, a desolate heart, a widow, an old man or a child.

Love one another!

64. Think that the truly needy represent Jesus, that He comes in each one of them to tell you, "I have you," that you may love one another.

65. Is it possible that the hearts of men are not moved by the great pictures of pain and misery presented by this humanity? Yes, it is possible; I see those who do not suffer misery caress with their gaze the riches they possess, with more affection than beings, children of God.

66. Beloved people: You have accompanied me in these brief moments to visit the needy, therefore, bless you; do not think that I forget the rich and the powerful, because although they do not need me in appearance, I am the one who knows their misery and their bitterness the best and who knows their misfortunes the best; but today they think they have everything; so why come to Me if, according to them, I am the Christ of the sick, of the outcasts, of the sad? They do not know that my mission is to save them from false splendor to give them true and eternal happiness.

67. Besides you, do you know who has listened tenderly to my word and felt his Spirit vibrate with love? Mary, beloved people, the maternal Spirit who dwells in the bosom of the Creator and whose essence will always be united to the memory of Jesus.

68. His passage through the world, though longer than mine, for he came before and went after, was short; his brief and sweet words were a heavenly caress.

69. Feel her in Spirit, love her and seek her spiritually; know that in whatever works of charity you do, She will be with you, that she has spread her mantle of intercession and tenderness over the suffering and bleeding world and that in each of your complaints or sorrows you will be able to hear a voice that answers you with tenderness: Do not be afraid, here I am, trust.

70. Thus, people, you have been with Me; my breath has penetrated your heart on this blessed night and I have made you forget every penalty.

71. Pray, that the light of your Savior may be a guide and lead you through this stormy sea that you are crossing today.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Teaching 203

1. Welcome those of you who want to expand your knowledge to discover the highest in your being.
2. Happy and blessed are those who want to see clearly, but truly I tell you, you will not be able to achieve it until you make the effort to remove the blindfold that covers your eyes.
3. Man has made himself doubly guilty, not only because he makes no effort to make the bandage that prevents him from the knowledge of the highest teachings fall, but because he has not detached himself from the bonds of matter that lead him to bodily pleasures, as opposed to spiritual pleasures; and that is why he has enslaved himself under the empire of passions, leaving his spirit to resemble the paralytic who does nothing to heal himself.
4. In every order I see most men as frail; everywhere I find only the weak man, and what does this consist of? In that you do not have the courage and the sufficient willpower to get out of the filth in which you find yourself, of the laziness that forges the bonds that bind matter and this is the beginning of all vices, of all errors.
5. But man does not want to make use of that power with which he has been endowed, which is the will.
6. The will that must be the absolute legislator, that must set itself up as a director and aided by reason, fight power against power, empire against empire, on the one hand the passions and desires, on the other the reason and the will, until the latter win the battle and you can say that you are liberated; then you can be the great prophets, the great enlightened ones, the supermen; then you can live with the beasts and play with the reptiles; for truly I tell you, it is the faults that cover you that make you fear those little brothers of yours, and that is also why they attack you; but if you look at men, you will find that there are men who are fiercer than tigers and who have more poison than the cobra.
7. Do not believe that the prophets of antiquity have managed to do wonders because they were already predestined for it; no, it is that they fought, to the point of victory and were true workers of the temple; but in truth I tell you: He who strives the most to achieve the truth, is exposed to errors and passions, but you possess the light that illuminates you, which is the divine force, the immortal and pure nature the indestructible essence that vivifies everything and elevates man to the highest happiness; this indestructible essence is the pure element that every man possesses. But man has poisoned himself with earthly anger and for this reason this indestructible substance, that immortal being covered himself with the mortal garment and voluntarily sacrificed himself. But with the strength he possesses, he will gradually restore the dignity of mortal man and he will seek the joys of the immortal fruit, leaving forever to pursue the perishable joys that evil fruit provides.

8. And what do you need to achieve all this? To know how to use your strength and energy, to work as true temple workers so that you can overcome and let the blindfold that covers your eyes fall, so that you can see clearly and do not tread falsely, or grope.

9. I have been speaking to you about what you call mysteries, but you must carefully analyze my word to perceive the full light.

10. I want you to understand this great truth, that neither God nor nature has mysteries for man; it is weakness, weakness before the divine lessons, that has incapacitated man to practice the true law; therefore he goes from here to there, from one side to the other without understanding anything, without feeling anything, without knowing that God is in man's consciousness, always vibrating to his advantage.

11. The true law means perfection, because what is the use of saying that you practice one religion or another? What is the use of saying that you believe in God, if your works, your thoughts, say the opposite? The day will come when I will inherit my glory for you, so that you may see that I am in the Father and you in Me and I in you and you will call this covenant the covenant of peace; then the law will be fulfilled, you will recognize Him as the only Lord, there will be no distinction from one to the other, because you will all love each other as one man, as one being and if you want, if you, my beloved, make the effort, if you want to be the true workers of the temple, today we can establish that covenant of peace. Do not think that you need to leave this planet to establish that alliance; no, what you need is will; the table is set and I invite you to sit down; come and take your places, let me lead you, serve you; take with me the bread of truth, illuminated with the highest light as a child of God that you are. I invite you, come with Me, sing this praise with Me: Glory to God in the highest and may the covenant of peace be established already on earth. Hallelujah, Hallelujah to the Lord. Receive my beneficial dew, my saturation; give me your sorrows, give me your sorrows and you will remember them no more; sing with Me: Hallelujah, Hallelujah to the Lord, do not lose heart, my beloved, that I am with you

12. If you could harmonize with the heavenly concert, you would not have the slightest desire to take the poisoned fruit again, you would let the immortal being always shine in you. Do you want to come to the table, my beloved children? It is set and I am your servant, I am the one who leads you, come I am waiting for you.

Love one another!

13. Do not be like the Pharisees who present themselves to the temple, to the synagogues with their faces changed so that men say that they have fasted and then give free rein to their evil and materialism; no, my beloved, you must be the same inside the enclosure, in the street and in your homes, always clean as pure water, so that those who want to attack the doctrine of Jesus, see and say, that in truth my doctrine is good, because you are in your public and private life the living mirror of virtue, because you are leaving everywhere love, truth and kindness.

14. At this moment I come closer to contemplate my people and write my word in their hearts. I come to leave you the memory of my communication through these spokespersons. If you meditate, you will understand that I have not been silent for a single moment; that I, the "Word", have always spoken and conversed with you. My voice, which in many ways I make reach men, whether to their reason, conscience or heart, is encouragement, strength, hope, inspiration and sometimes judgment.

15. I also tell you, Men have sought me spiritually at all times, some more earnestly than others.

16. Because you do not find everything on earth; there are knowledge and revelations that I reserve for Myself, so that when you search for them, you will find me. I have never denied you my love, my charity, going so far as to grant you that which you know does not suit you, in order that you may convince yourselves of your error in asking for it.

17. This time of spiritual manifestations and of the divine word has been a feast, a banquet, to which you were invited to get fed up with its delicacies. He who came naked, found worthy clothes to cover himself.

18. After long journeys and struggles you were able to arrive under the shade of the stout tree, where you have repaired your strength and learned to overcome the lurks of temptation, which at every step invites you to leave the road. So you are learning to be the good disciples.

19. This is why, after giving you my teaching, I find you fervent, ready to continue fighting for this cause. You have understood your responsibility, your obligation, to make this work known with the limpidity and purity that it has. You already recognize that if you work with zeal, gentleness and love, you have put many thorns and thorns out of the way of men. From different parts of the earth you have come to this call to become soldiers and disciples.

20. Today you have come to show me your fidelity to follow me, to offer me the fruit of your labor, which only I know. Only I know who you were, who you are and who you will be tomorrow. You are the ones who came hungry to do good deeds, thirsty for love and to be loved and the Father received you, mitigated your hunger and made you his servants.

21. When you have known and felt my divine love, everything that has enclosed your heart and hidden it from the world, you have entrusted it to me in a profound confession. Your repentance for sins committed has been true, because your spirit was illuminated with my light before.

22. I want you to be prepared, that this covenant of love that you have made with my Divinity, that you honor it with your works and your recollection when you listen to me again, because if you have had me as a Father now, I will come upon you as a judge.

23. I don't want to surprise anyone by sleeping, because he will wake up late and will have to cry.

24. Only three more years will you be able to hear this word; it has been teaching you incessantly. When will you be teachers? Will you be able to stay in my place, to continue supporting the crowds? Today my word is like a wake-up call, because you have penetrated into the time of the culmination of my word.

25. I have brought you closer so that you may unite in spirit, so that you may rise up with firm purpose of fulfillment and shake each other in a fraternal embrace.

26. Understand that you are all equal, that there are no lords or superiors among you; I want you all to be servants of my cause. See that the history of my word is being imprinted by those whom I have named golden feathers, and I do not want future generations to discover divisions among you through these writings; neither should you want it. Leave them your examples written with works and they will rise up, as you also found encouragement among your own brothers.

27. I have come down to give my caress to everyone, to cover them with my mantle, but this humanity has remained insensitive and deaf. I have spoken to him by means of wonders and before them he has not bowed down. I have made him feel my justice and he has fled from my justice. I speak to you with a word of love, so that you may bear witness, and you have not given the good news, nor have they sensed the time in which they are. You all have the same attributes in the spirit, but I prepare some of you as messengers and prepare others to receive them.

28. Go as husbandmen, always subject to my will, keep yourselves prepared, because if you were not, you will carry your hands empty, when they have been filled by my Divinity.

Love one another!

29. I have placed my perfect work in the hands of sinners, but this is no reason why you should not be able to manifest it. If you are unworthy, my love dignifies you and gives you the means to love and save one another.

30. If I am powerful, I want my creatures not to be needy and then I pour out my treasures and goodness into sinful hands, so that they in turn open up and overflow into others.

31. Blessed is he who has been able to give up all that he has carried in his spirit, because he who has been unbelieving, selfish or foolish, has not even known what he has carried in himself. Be ye men of faith, that ye may be raised from the dead, and cause the blind to see.

32. If, because you want to know how much truth my word contains, you put it into practice to put it to the test, it will not be her that you test, but yourselves, because if you do not have faith in what you say or do, what faith can others have in you? You must be like a mirror in which your brothers can contemplate themselves and recognize that you are my emissaries.

33. Carry out your mission and when you reach the end, you will find yourself before a large closed door that your hand will be able to open because it will have the key. Behind that door I'm waiting for you. Someone else's key will not help you to open the door, nor will you be able to pass from the first to the third rung on the ladder, without first having been on the second, because the seven steps of it signify the path of spiritual perfection, which you all have to travel.

34. I make everyone one heart, to leave you forming a single will and a single ideal.

35. He speaks to you at this moment who has given you laws and commands from the beginning of time, so that you may walk with uprightness and elevation and give your hand to those who weaken; but your fruits are scarce and you have not yet been fed with the substance of that bread that I have always offered you and that is love, it is good and charity. You silence my revelations and keep your gifts to yourselves and the spirit of men is poor and one day he will claim you and I do not want you to feel the rigor of his judgment, when they know your responsibility. Work, and I will multiply your seed.

36. It is true that you carry a very heavy cross on you and that the charges, penance and judgment weigh on you; if you do not comply, you will feel your responsibility much greater.

37. By this time, the good news should have spread and the number of my disciples should be much greater. Where are the sick you have healed and the sinners you have converted? The position I give you is not superior to your strength and ability. Your cross is similar to mine, a cross of self-denial, sacrifice and love. Everyone who takes it with true understanding will come to Me with his heart pierced with pain because of the misunderstanding of his brothers, but at peace with Me and satisfied with his work.

38. Upon these guides whom you see, who are your brothers, Elijah rises, illuminating and inspiring your spirit, and Mary, your Divine Mother, also presents her creatures and brings them closer to Me, so that there may always be communion between the Father and the Son. Mary is your constant intercessor. Before Her, you are all little and tender children and how she pours out her tears when beloved children sin. Indeed, you do not know her love and her anxieties, and you have not comforted her Motherly Spirit. My justice has often been stopped by her intercession, but do not believe that in Her there is a will opposite to mine, because it is part of my Divine Spirit. Mary represents my tenderness and is an example of maternal love.

39. Everyone who prepares himself at this time with prayer and good practice of my doctrine, will be freed from the unleashed elements. I invite you to pray and I give you all the opportunity to be saved; while the elements purify and reduce the disobedient to order, you remain vigilant and working, praying for your brothers.

40. I have asked you a lot for unification, so that you may bring one teaching to the world. For if you are divided, you will have great trials and your restitution will be greater, because knowing my will and your delicate mission, you will have departed from my precepts. Unite, remain as one spirit and one will. Love one another.

41. You stand in my presence and are ashamed of your lack of fulfillment; you come naked with good works and have lost the garment of grace with which I have adorned you. You have not heeded my commands, attributing imperfection to me, because I have given you orders through man. You judge that the human being is not capable of transmitting the divine word and I am proving to you that my determination is just. Man possesses my Spirit and is able to understand me; therefore I have made Him a spokesman and I am using him to communicate with the world.

42. You carry in your spirit a book, in which you have written your works through the different incarnations that you have had on earth and in the present time, time of justice, I have sent you some to restore and others to fulfill a delicate mission. I have chosen you from among great portions of beings, to carry out a work of purification, a work of regeneration and spiritual elevation among humanity.

43. The world will wonder why I have chosen you fools and sinners; I tell you that the destiny of all beings is in Me. I am going to polish you to make you my apostles and the fulfillment will finish purifying you.

Love one another!

44. Elijah has prepared your understanding so that you could clearly look at the beginning of the sixth stage, the Sixth Seal unleashed that has brought grace and light for every spirit. You have had my simple and understandable word, clarifying mysteries, opening paths and making light in every creature. You have seen many prophecies fulfilled, and in the face of so much trial you have awakened and are preparing to practice my teaching.

45. I grant you the grace to listen to me until the year 1950, when my spokesmen will cease to transmit my word. I ask all of them for fraternity and constancy in their work so that they can transmit with perfection and my teaching has the same essence in all the precincts, because it is only one Teacher who speaks to you. The world awaits the good news and my will has been to choose you to bring this message to it.

46. The rulers of your nation do not know that there is in it a people chosen by Me, who prays and watches over peace and good understanding among men. I prepare them and allow them to penetrate among you, to witness my manifestations and your practice.

47. Take care to interpret my words well and fulfill my commands. Do not give the multitudes fruits of ignorance or fanaticism; correct your imperfections; make your heart sensitive, and by your fulfillment I will stop the elements that destroy the life and tranquility of your brothers and yours.

48. A short time my word has granted you; the time appointed by Me is approaching and it is necessary that you be united, guides and farmers. Imitate. Remember that the Master, in order to bring his work to completion in the Second Time, suffered and carried the cross on his back to Calvary. Be humble and accept your mission. Your pain reaches Me and your cry mixes with mine, a cry of love and pain for humanity.

49. Do works of love and charity, guide the multitudes with zeal and righteousness as is my will.

50. Prepare yourselves, so that at the end of the year 1950 you will take my doctrine to the heart of humanity and the people will disperse to all nations, I give you strength because after this time when you hear my word, your path will be rough. I bless you.

51. My peace is with you the instant you welcome me.

52. I will be able to leave you an indelible memory of this manifestation and of this word that I have granted you for a long time.

53. My word has adorned you, but never go flaunting it; only I will know who you were, who you are and who you will be. Those who came to Me hungry and thirsty in the spirit, calmed their need by hearing my word and today they are my servants. These servants are the disciples to whom I have shown the light of the Sixth Seal.

Love one another!

54. On this day you gather coming from different regions, because my voice was heard in the spaces calling you to congregation.

55. I am not here to judge you or to complain to you; your conscience and your intuition are the ones that can best tell you your responsibility and the merit of your works.

56. Do not think that you alone love me; in all the ways of the world there are those who seek me, follow me and love me; but I do want that by preparing you in my teaching you can serve as an example to those who love me imperfectly or with impurity; truly I tell you that throughout humanity the gifts of prophecy, inspiration and word are distributed.

57. Don't sleep, there are only three years left for you to stop listening to me in this way. When will you be masters of this teaching?

58. I have gathered you today to give you my warning voice, so that you may unite in an understanding of true spiritual love and understand that among you I do not want there to be either lords or vassals. My word will be written, but see that it is not my will that your imperfections be written in that book.

59. Do you want to bequeath to future generations the history of your mistakes as a bad example?

60. My work is sacred, it is divine, and yet I have come to place it in sinful hands, because sinners, feeling caressed, dignified and forgiven by their Lord, are those who follow me with the most love, fidelity and self-denial.

61. Also: Where are the righteous on this earth?

62. To you, disciples, I say: Lend all your good will on your part so that I, through my lessons, may leave you perfected.

63. Do not doubt yourselves for your clumsiness, because I can make the stones themselves speak.

64. In your paths, in your life, there is a ladder that begins in man and ends in God; go through it step by step until you can reach the very bosom of your Father, when your spirit reaches the highest degree of perfection.

65. Elijah is like a beacon, illuminating your path at this time, he strengthens you in trials and prophesies to you those that are to come.

Love one another!

66. Blessed are the farmers who in these moments, guided by their conscience, listen to my word because they are the ones who on their way have known how to sow health, peace and joy.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Love one another!

Teaching 204

1. I receive you, people. The doors of my kingdom are opening to welcome you and to pour out my love on you. I am giving you at this moment what you need according to the faith of some and the need of others.
2. I come seeking the sanctuary of your heart, I come to give you the light of truth, which is the light of love, whose powerful force moves creation and keeps everything within it in order, in harmony, in balance. That is why I teach you to love, so that you may know the secret of life. Be generous, so that your love may be a song that gladdens the hearts of the sad.
3. It is in your hands to know and fulfill your mission. Your destiny is to overcome the spirit to all misery and all sin, to elevate your whole being, to ennoble and dignify you. I want you to come to dominate your body without violence, that you do it with wisdom and at the same time with charity. When men, instead of discussing my laws, fulfill them with loving obedience, they will make this world a paradise similar to the one that the first men enjoyed with their innocence and obedience, before they stained it with impure thoughts and acts.
4. If man lived according to the will of the Heavenly Father, this world would be a valley of material blessings and spiritual elevation; they would not regret the inclemency of the elements, because he would live in harmony with them and with all creatures. It would be a divine concert in which each man would be a note; but man does not live in harmony with the divine laws, and therefore he has fallen prisoner of pain, slave of himself. Man drags chains, suffers, cries and despairs, without recognizing that all this is due to his own work. If he understood that there is no unjustified tear, he would soon reach his elevation.
5. Verily I tell you that the solution to all the evils that humanity suffers is in the hands of man; he can be his own doctor. That is why I tell you that when you penetrate the path that your conscience dictates to you, your spirit will rise up to Me.
6. Why do you want this life, if not for the benefit of your spirit that belongs to eternity? You have come to this world of illnesses, tears, pains and you do not want to know that with a little kindness you would transform your life.
7. The one who truly loves me will be the wise one who embraces the world first and then the universe. See the love of your God manifest in all creation. He is wise work, perfect word, is the key to the kingdom. Love, which is the heart of the universe, will elevate your existence until you achieve the communication of all beings through thought.

Love one another!

8. People: The year has 365 days, but how many charitable works of love do you do in it? Why do you tell me that you love me if you do nothing for your brothers in need? When I tell you that I love you, I prove it by works of truth. Men say they love Christ and they hurt me every moment, they judge me, they destroy in themselves my memory and examples and refuse to follow my works. Don't you think that all this amounts to a crown of thorns and being crucified again? Why, when I am spiritually accompanying the sick, the sad, the poor, the prisoners, have I not seen you there keeping me company? Why do you deny a little charity to those who are asking for it? See why I tell you that you have crucified me again, because whoever denies love denies Me.

9. I was telling you that you must, as children of God, be identified with Him; why don't you help to embellish the Father's creation with your own mental, moral or spiritual creations?

10. The true servant of God is the one who administers the balm of love for men, the one who practices charity inspired by a heartfelt and profound piety.

11. My pain for you has lasted a long time, this pain comes from your misunderstanding and lack of love.

12. In this Third Time I return to sweetly repeat that phrase: "Love one another".

13. People: Prepare yourselves to receive my balm, everyone who prepares will be healed, everyone weak will be strengthened Concentrate on your heart, lift up your spirit to Me and wait; I will give you more than you have thought. Receive in silence, that in silence I give to you. I am the sun of your hope, beloved sheep. But as I give to you, give also; do not have misery in your heart. When you give something, do not think about what you are going to take from your children; because if what you give weighs on you, it is better that you do not do it.

14. Do not judge the life of your fellow men, for you will not only stain your lips, but also your heart. Instead, you must be willing to judge your every act and listen to the dictates of your conscience.

15. Exercise a purer life and as you come closer to harmony with all the children of God, you will begin to feel that peace that you long for so much.

16. Truly the Master says to you: From this dawn you have the likeness of the three times, symbolized in the three years in which I will give you my word. Therefore, my teaching will be more profound, since my light has opened your understanding and penetrated your spirit.

Love one another!

17. You are no longer the men of the First Time, who in their primitive state did not have an absolute knowledge of a spiritual law to which to adhere. It was necessary for the prophets sent from the Father to testify to the existence of God. All of them spoke of the same Divine Being and thus a belief began to form in humanity, a faith in the living and true God. Abraham, with his love for his Lord, Jacob, with his steadfastness in trials, and Moses, with his inspirations and the law, strengthened and increased the recognition of God by men.

18. Those men were the forerunners of one era, as you will be of another, of the era of spirituality.

19. In this year of 1948, which represents the First Time, you will know from my word many lessons concerning that time. You will know the meaning of the history of Israel, which was not the only people rescued in the First Time and spiritually redeemed in the Second; you will be able to find that people in the hearts of all races. You will also find Israel in all religions, because that people was chosen as an instrument to give an example and a teaching to all humanity. That is why I tell you that the history of Israel, to which you spiritually belong, must be known to all, because in it are contained the great revelations that I made to the first.

20. You will be amazed to find in those times spirits as great as Abraham, the one who loved his Lord above all created things with pure love. Meditate on the life and deeds of that man and you will find that his faith, his strength, his meekness and his love are the true trunk of the Israelite tree.

21. In those times there were idolatrous and Gentile peoples who worshiped the forces of nature as deities, to whom they offered impure cults; it was then that Abraham arose, making known the inspiration that he received from his Lord, which was the light of truth and justice, but men, hard and unbelieving, put the patriarch to the test. He came out ahead of all the snares and lurking, converting them to the doctrine of good, until he made them proclaim the God of Abraham as the invisible, but living God of all time.

22. Look at how long these spiritual struggles have existed among humanity, but see that always after them the light of truth has shone.

23. Understand that I have not come to complicate your life with my word, but to simplify your worship and your practices. I teach you that it is not necessary that you forget the goods of the world or your duties to please me, because as long as you are in matter, you will be subject to human needs; but I also teach you to take even what is on earth within a law, for the benefit of your spirit. If you live like this, you will be fulfilling my law.

Love one another!

24. From the First Time I have placed before you a spiritual shepherd, who at the same time was the forerunner of my arrival among my people. You have not perfectly recognized these lessons and through ignorance you fell into false cults, worshipping the elements or the "golden calf".

25. The God of Truth has always manifested himself in your existence, whether pouring out riches in you, light in your intelligence or power to rule the world.

26. You were lords yesterday, you knew about opulence, but you let yourselves be carried away by selfishness and vanity to turn the humble into servants and slaves. In spite of this, I have forgiven you and I have come as a Father, lifting up the one who has fallen and blessing everyone. I have been your servant to you, since I have granted you everything you have asked of me, but I have patiently waited for the hour when you will rise up to fulfill the mission that I entrusted to you from the beginning of time.

27. I am justice, however, I do not punish you, for even having crucified me I have not come to claim you. Therefore, it is your struggles and hardships that are purifying you. It is your disobedience to my law that makes purification, restitution, the restoration of the original state of spiritual limpidity necessary for you. But you are on the sure path of progress and the redemption of the spirit. But you must realize your mission and the time you live, because if you ask your conscience, what have you done for the benefit of humanity, if my law is already known to the world and if my work has advanced, she will tell you no.

28. Now that I am speaking to you, you become familiar with my word. See that in order to be believed I have sought simple and humble hearts to manifest myself through them. However, you have doubted and even come to believe that it is the man who speaks to you. That is why I have allowed you to search these beings out of ecstasy, through whom I communicate, so that you can witness their clumsiness and ignorance, I have taught you humility and charity, I have prepared you and I have poured out charges among me, people, but many of those who have already received them, have returned to aggrandize, to lord it and to want to be first.

29. First, only I, and I do not come to humiliate you or to make you my slaves, but to place in your hands everything that you need. I am the Father and I cannot be indifferent to your sorrows. I am God and I cannot abandon you in the darkness, that is why I come to manifest myself to you so that you can know me, know in front of whom you are and to whom you are listening.

Love one another!

30. You have not given an example of union and that is why you can see the lack of fraternity and harmony between religions and sects, whose differences and divisions feed the craving for greatness and prepare for a new battle.

31. You have not yet been able to fulfill my law. The way is of light and many times you are walking in darkness; you receive the love of the Master at every moment and you still feed hatreds; you receive continuous teachings of morality and virtue and you still have bad acts and thoughts for all that the last one scoffs, because he contemplates falsehood in my disciples. Likewise, when scientists attend my communications, they do not believe in the manifestation of my universal ray through human understanding. You have to give great proofs of authority, raising Lazarus from the grave, giving light to the blind and even to the paralyzed, all those proofs that man has to see to believe in my coming among you at this time.

32. It is your matter that stands as an obstacle for the spirit to carry out its mission and that resists before my will; but I have endowed your spirit with a sword, so that in the combat with the passions of his own body he conquers and makes merit, since the reluctant matter serves as a restitution or crucible to the spirit.

33. That is why I have come to help you, I am your Savior and I offer you the opportunity to know and inhabit the "promised land".

34. Take advantage of the time I have entrusted to you, you do not know the hour when I will call you. Get rid of materialism, practice, be the true apostle and I will manifest to men through you the power of divine mercy.

35. Great trials await you. Get ready! I do not want you to say tomorrow that you were not doctrinaire, nor do I want to see you lost and needy, when you can enjoy immense power. I who have given you so much love, who have made you taste the delicacy and wine at my banquet, I do not want to look at you later dragging the chains of misery and suffering.

36. If you do not comply, you will be carving out your future of pain and if you are the first you will feel the last, you will see your own perish, you will see your daily bread become scarce; the war will take away your loved ones and this land, which I have chosen to overflow my light and my peace, you will see it stained with innocent blood. You will feel the foreign yoke, you will be its slaves and you will be turned away from the true way then you will no longer hear my voice.

37. I, the Creator, do not demand or impose my law on you; I come down to ask you for fulfillment and humility.

38. Peace to you, people, when you hear my word with good will.

Love one another!

39. I am the divine gardener who cultivates the gardens of your hearts and irrigates them with heavenly waters and I have come to pour out a drop of divine love on so much bitterness of the earth; I come to show you the path that leads to the kingdom of the Father, a path of which you will never find the end, but in which you will always achieve progress and know new greatness.

40. Now my word polishes you and I give you shape; I am chiseling the inner man, the spirit; you learn to model yourselves and to give beautiful forms that I will bless your work, so that later you carry out in this world the realization of your great mission.

41. I am your Teacher, but do not see me separated from the Father, because I am the Father; there is no difference between the Son and the Holy Spirit, because the Holy Spirit is One, that is Me; see in my manifestations of all times a single God who has shown himself to you through multiple and different lessons, a single book with many pages, with many lessons of love.

42. Sanctify my name with your works and you will find in yourselves that light that will free you from the darkness of ignorance and sin.

43. Do you remember, people, what you were before you were shaped by my word? Do you remember that before you were capable of many actions that now you do not carry out? You cannot compare your life today with your life in the past; before you were the lonely pilgrim who crossed the path without a light that would brighten his existence and ignite hope in him; today you are a child of Jesus, in whose fountain of love you have quenched your thirst and washed your wounds; my love comes to tear out the thorns that you have nailed; and if your cross has nails, I will also tear them out.

44. I am the light of this and all the worlds, I want you to dress in that light. My word is a balm of healing; heal yourselves with it by listening to it. Why, if you have God in you, are you sick, suffering and crying? Examine yourselves and correct whatever needs to be corrected, clean up whatever needs to be cleaned up. I told you: "Clean the glass inside and out", so that your inner being harmonizes in will and inspiration with your material or human part.

45. I model your inner life, that which you hide from men, which is invisible to others, but which you cannot hide from Me. Model your exterior in such a way that its face is a faithful reflection of your spirit; then there will be sincerity, truth in your actions; that is the reason why men present one face to the world, while they hide another.

46. Have you already examined your wounds, have you left in them the balm that I have given you? If you doubt the truth of my balm, heal them again, but if you believe, remove the healing from them and you will see how my love heals them and when you seek them they will no longer be; I will grant others to find their health through faith, prayer, thought; multitudes of spiritual beings will come, who will unite their power and their strength, anoint you and heal you.

47. The spiritualist says: How beautiful life is! The profane, the materialist, says: How bitter, how sad and gloomy life is! The man without elevation stumbles over everything, hurts everything; the one who has risen, does not even notice the roughness of the road. The high minds, when they take care of others, are to praise the virtues of others or to excuse their mistakes, never to judge or sentence; the low minds judge, slander, publish the faults of others and find pleasure in it.

48. To those who judge and take up the cause of their brothers, I ask: Do you think your burden of sins is light, that you still want to add that of others? If you cannot get rid of your burden, why do you increase it with that of others? Why, instead of looking for spiritual values in your brothers to enrich yourselves, do you prefer to take the mire to carry it yourself?

49. "The Father's house has many dwellings," but those who dwell in the high spiritual regions help men to throw off their burden, or help them to carry it, but without judging them, or rejoicing in their miseries.

50. I have seen you one day murmuring and other days repenting; I have seen you denying my communication and then testifying its truth; I saw you one day slandering and the other defending the one you slandered. It is good that you rectify your mistakes, but it is better that you do not incur evil again so that you do not have to rectify. I saw you one day giving charity to the one who did not need it and I saw you denying it to the truly poor; but I do not come to blame you or to judge you, I come with the light of my teaching to enlighten you, so that you will not sin again; but I must also tell you, that sometimes I have seen you, helpful, noble, charitable and understanding and those merits have always been taken into account and noted by Me, but there should already be more wheat in your heart than tares.

51. Do not pray without feeling in your heart and spirit the desire to rise up, mechanically moving your lips; pray feeling, without speaking; that that facility with which in former times you promised falsely and swore in vain, you have now to tell the truth.

52. Do not take what is foreign; he who takes what is foreign must repay with pain and shame; I point out to no one, but I want everyone to take his rightful share of my word.

53. I will not blame you or complain to you about what you did when you were taking your steps through the darkness of ignorance, of littleness and materiality; but now that you have full knowledge of what my law is, if you persist in what is illicit, in what is impure, you will answer for your deeds before God, who would manifest himself inexorable for you in your very conscience.

Love one another!

54. You are all my seed and the Master gathers it; if among the good seed comes that of tares, I also take it with love to transform it into golden wheat. I see in the hearts a germ of tares, of mud, of crime, of hatred and yet I gather you and love you; I caress this seed and purify it, until it shines like wheat before the sun.

55. Do you think that the power of my love is not capable of redeeming you? After washing you, I will sow you in my garden where you will bear new flowers and new fruits; in my divine task is the mission of dignifying you.

56. My love comes to bless you, to forgive you and to make you worthy to listen to my word.

57. My word is the way. I have taught you my law from the earliest times, so that your steps would always be in the way of goodness and justice.

58. This doctrine is the same one that I have shown you in times past, the doctrine of love.

59. Your spirit is the son of the creator's perfect love. Your heart, that organ that you possess, where feelings lie, is a symbol of love.

60. Therefore, give love, that humanity is very much in need of him. There is hunger in the hearts of men, there is spiritual retardation, there is a need to live.

61. If you, whom you have heard, have been comforted and sustained by the bread of life, you will well be able to lavish nourishment on the spirit and on the weary heart.

62. Wherever you find a belief or a misconception, you will carry my light, but you will never impose my doctrine by force. You will never make a difference between the rich and the needy to give them in a different way and you will only see at the bottom of their sufferings a brother of yours who has fallen and who groans; then, moved by your heart before that pain, you will look for a way to alleviate it. Your charity will cover the naked; you will bring tranquility to the one who has no peace; you will be like a star on the path of the one who is lost in darkness. If you do so, you will be worthy to be called teachers.

63. My doctrine does not need the building of enclosures to gather new multitudes. My will is that the universal temple will be built, which will be formed by the hearts.

64. Know how to follow the example that Jesus gave you in the Second Time, who did not choose enclosures to deliver his word, but sought the fields as an appropriate place for his teachings and parables.

Love one another!

65. But whoever takes the precincts to profit from the innocence or pain of humanity, will not enjoy my light, nor should he be called a spiritualist.

66. You will have to fight and the field for your struggle will be anywhere, the same in your home, as in material work or on the roads.

67. There, at the right moment, you will prepare and speak under my inspiration, without the listener knowing who has been speaking to him through his consciousness.

68. Do not expect men to forget their habits from one moment to the next. Don't be surprised if someone calls you wrong either. My doctrine at the Second Time also seemed to many to be a mistake and was later taken as the most absolute truth.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Teaching 205

1. Come and receive the essence of my chair, rest, your spirit, quiet your mind and heart.
2. Draw near to Me in such a way that you feel melted in the peace of your Master.
3. As you have come, so you will see your brothers and sisters coming from distant lands, all seeking the light of this message.
4. I will give everyone the first lessons that will prepare them to understand later the teachings for the spirit.
5. Meditate on the word, penetrate the phrase always looking for the meaning, the essence of my doctrine. Understand that it is you, men, who must conform to my laws and not my law conform to your ideas and your conveniences.
6. If I agreed with you that you would apply my doctrine to your life according to your will and not according to mine, I tell you the truth, you would never get out of your spiritual stagnation and you would never allow your spirit its development, its development and perfection.
7. There you have humanity lethargic in its religions, without taking a step towards the light, because they have not submitted to what the divine law orders, but they have tried to submit the law to their will, filling it with myths and errors.
8. It has been necessary for many men of this time to emancipate themselves from all religion in order to be able to seek me with the spirit and to be able to develop all those attributes, gifts and potencies, that they feel beating in the most intimate of their being.
9. These are the ones who have been able to let go of the messages that tell them about eternal life.
10. I have had to take you away from the various paths along which you were walking, to bring you to this path where my revelations shine and my messages reverberate because I want you to be one of those who see life from a greater height of spiritual elevation.
11. What is matter without spirit? A set of inanimate cells. The spirit is the life of matter, but both come from God.
12. Have you ever thought that since everything comes from God, He is in you? And why is he in you and for what? Is it to remain unmanifested? It would not be God, since He arises everywhere, enlightens, makes himself felt and manifests Himself. Do not suppose then that God is in you to remain hidden without giving you His message; do not think that he can be in you without ideas. Know that God wants to manifest Himself for you in fullness.

13. Would you know how to answer me if I asked you why God is in you? Why is He, being the All, in what you call spirit, in that part of your being? Why does he want you to be a docile instrument of his manifestation? You still cannot answer me, disciples, because no one had taught you to meditate; therefore you do not know why you manifest the Father and why He expresses Himself through your works; but if you consecrate yourselves with love to the study and practice of my doctrine, do not doubt that you will soon be able to answer these and other even deeper questions; and when you have attained the light of that knowledge, you will know in truth why and for what purpose the Father dwells in each of his children.

14. There are those who say that God does not exist and others who, confessing to believe in his existence, are not interested in Him; and some and others, unaware that they carry Him within them, do not know that they cannot live without Him.

15. When all of you have knowledge of this truth and sincerely believe that you are, spiritual children of that divine essence, you will often wonder to what extent you have let the God you carry present in your spirit manifest through you.

16. The times will pass, you will travel the road for a long time and one day you will stop to contemplate in wonder the works that the Lord did through you; then you will remember Jesus, the Teacher, who let his Father's will be done in Him.

17. When will you understand that God, who entrusted life to you, wants to take it to manifest Himself? Look at how sometimes just one of these messages is enough, to make you look and understand far beyond where you had reached and this understanding will set you on the way to do wonders, because you will know yourself and therefore you will know how to use your spiritual inheritance.

18. O beloved disciples, you must learn to impart love, to do charity and to give with the spirit. I tell you that whoever manifests to the world the power of his spirit and takes from it, a source of knowledge to offer to others, he will be doing the will of the Father.

19. You need to know all the powers and forces that you carry in you, so that the essence of your being begins to manifest. You will see then how easy it is to solve the problems of life, how serene and peaceful is the struggle to ascend.

20. Misery, pain and illness will be driven away with the strength of the spirit, who will expel them with prayer.

Love one another!

21. Prepare yourselves to receive me, have frequent moments of spiritual preparation, in which you are willing to communicate with your Lord.
22. If you truly believed in carrying God in your being, could illnesses touch you or temptations make you fall? How could the weak force of matter dominate you?
23. I am freeing and strengthening you to triumph over the world and the flesh, because I am leading you and bringing you closer to perfect communication with the Father.
24. Do not think that you already have the perfect communication in this one that you have through these brains; it is not even the simple intuition that sometimes illuminates your mind. The highest, the most intense communication you will ever achieve will never be through your matter.
25. The body, disciples, is only a case, but inside there is a bottle whose perfume or essence is the spirit, and don't you think it's unfair that that perfume is enclosed, when its aroma could embalm an entire room? The room could be your home today, tomorrow it will be the world, then the endless space.
26. People: Open your inner temple so that you may receive in it the essence contained in this word. If you stay outside, if you do not, to enter your sanctuary, you will leave after listening to me, carrying on your shoulders the burden that you brought when you arrived, a burden of fatigue, of illnesses, of disappointments.
27. Learn from those who are already preparing to listen to me, penetrating first into the inner temple that exists in the spirit. They are strengthened and healed by my message of love.
28. You lack the faith to lift up your face and smile with hope and look ahead to the future, without misgivings, without distrust, because I am in the future.
29. How many times are you sick just because you think so, because at every step you believe that doom follows you or pain stalks you; then you attract with your mind the darkness, with which you surround your material life and your spiritual journey; but here I am to rekindle faith in life, in the truth, in the eternal, in perfect peace and also to teach you to attract the light to you.
30. Disciples: The divine plan has been, is and will be to make you perfect; and if God granted you the perfect idea for your formation, why tarnish the light of that truth that the Father placed in your being, as well as in everything he devised? Know that man is in the likeness of the universe and the universe in the likeness of man. The universe is the great abode of the children of the Lord, but in it there are many rooms, through which you will have to pass for your perfection and the spirit of man is the sanctuary in which your Lord must dwell.

31. Understanding my word, you will soon say: Father, from today I open the doors of my inner temple so that your essence, which is life and health, wisdom and strength, may penetrate into me.

32. I tell you that when you speak to me like this, it will be because the spirit has given himself to his mission; then you will see me manifest myself through you, even from your body, a small being, which nevertheless contains greatness in its formation.

33. Today you inhabit this dwelling, tomorrow you will inhabit another beyond the earth, and from each dwelling you will take what is necessary for your perfection.

34. Everywhere you will find your brothers, because the universe is full of creatures and they are all daughters of God.

35. Suns, stars, worlds, elements, beings of all kinds, atoms, forces, everything, from the highest angel to the darkest reptile, all are children of the Absolute Being, everything is His. You know that there is no wealth that has no owner and the owner of that universal wealth is God.

36. Now I ask you, disciples, Is it possible that you are sick? Is it possible that you are troubled when this teaching is to make you free and happy?

37. For the revelation that I have brought to you, the spiritual initiation is necessary, which only I, the Master of the spirit, have come to give you.

38. If you have always felt more matter than spirit, I come to teach you to be and to feel more spirit than matter. That is redemption, salvation and peace.

39. Sometimes you ask yourselves, why at this time you suffer more than the men of past times and why you had to come to fulfill a spiritual mission that you did not have before and I tell you: This mission of walking spiritually along the paths of good and light to reach the top of the divine mountain, has always been in your spirit and that, on the other hand, in the present existence past debts, unfinished works and unfinished missions have accumulated.

40. Whoever does not know how to understand the meaning of a new life, will deny against my justice, taking its restitution as a punishment; on the other hand, whoever sees in a new existence the opportunity to settle debts and wash stains, he will bless the name of the Lord.

Love one another!

41. You are still small and as small you must be sincere; do not be sorry to ask me for small things in your prayers; the essential thing is that you pray; that I will inspire and educate you.
42. Pray, take my phrases and with the faith and strength that they pour out, anoint yourselves and be healed.
43. Tomorrow, when your prayer is no longer to cure your ills, but to recreate you in your communication with the Father, the spirit will travel through regions unknown to the mind. To some you will bring strength and delights of the spirit.
44. God, who is in you, will manifest His messages through your lips, when your spirit and body know how to interpret it.
45. How is it possible that God speaks through man? You may ask yourselves, and I tell you: At that time the "Word" became man in order to speak the word of God. The "Word", which is the expression of wisdom, took flesh and his body was Jesus, the man.
46. You who are disciples of the One in whom the "Word" spoke, why should you not manifest Him through the spirit and even through the flesh?
47. Today you are children and you do not always succeed in understanding my lesson, but for now speak to God with your heart, with your thought and He will answer you from the innermost of your being. His message, which will speak in your consciousness, will be a clear, wise, loving voice that little by little you will find and to which you will later get used.
48. It is necessary that from the beginning you meditate on the messages that your prayer collects, so that you may truly come to know those that you receive from your Father and never confuse them with those voices, ideas, thoughts and even revelations of your confused spirit. Only in silence and in meditation will you be able to distinguish the path by which each message reaches you.
49. What man could say, in what spiritual regions does his spirit penetrate and to what height of light does he know how to rise? No one, that is why the one who does not know the ways of prayer, of communication with God, of the meditation of the spirit, is often confused, because instead of going to the light, he penetrates into darkness, from where he receives bad inspirations and false messages.
50. Fight, try to reach the knowledge that leads to the eternal light of the spirit, there where your origin and your purpose are.

Love one another!

51. My word overflows with floods of health; if you prepare to receive, you will be healthy. If you know how to seek health, you will find that you have been healed by the spirit.

52. Ask, pray, seek me; I will grant you in addition some advances, but try to make merits.

53. Little by little, penetrate into the harmony of life, forming with all your brothers, present and absent, visible and invisible, a single family.

54. Then you will enjoy an inner peace never known and that will be the one that comes from the fulfillment of the divine command to love one another.

55. Beloved husbandmen: I behold you busy cultivating the fields, preparing the land, depositing in it the seed that will bear fruit tomorrow, thus compensating for your effort. Select the seed and remove the earth, because you are beginning a year, which is the first of the last three in which I will manifest Myself among you in this way. The time that remains is short and you will have to hurry in your preparation, because I do not want to leave you as weak infants, but as advanced disciples, already close to becoming teachers.

56. After my departure you will be responsible for the interpretation that you give to my teaching with your words and your deeds. Humanity will judge my doctrine in your actions and in your life.

57. You will not lack My inspiration; by it you will know the moment when you have to speak and what you have to say. With a clear, precise and simple word you will make known the existence of the afterlife that I have revealed to you, tracing with true love a spiritual path to your brothers and you will always accompany your words with deeds or example.

58. Little by little you are learning to feel the sorrows of others as your own. It is because your spirit, being saturated with my teaching, rises, travels the distances and penetrates the mysteries of the beyond, where it discovers that the origin of all beings is one: the Father, in whom you are brothers and sisters in everything.

59. But not only your spirit has found in my work reasons for its advancement, also your mental faculties have had their development to feel my spiritual inspiration is becoming greater in you, to verify that the understanding of everything that yesterday you looked confused, increases and the mysteries are clarified.

60. If you do not manage to penetrate fully into the world of the spirit, to understand and feel, more closely everything that it contains, it is because you still have the oppression of matter and the influence of the world. I have revealed much to you, but in truth I tell you that man will never come to understand from this earth what the world that awaits him is like, in what form the spirit lives there, what joy he experiences before the Divinity and how he who is covered with imperfections finds his purification.

61. If the human mind conceived the joy of the pure spirit in the hereafter, that happiness would have limits, as man has them; therefore I tell you, from here you will not be able to understand, but you will sense it.

62. Nor can you imagine the intensity of the pain that a spirit experiences when his consciousness brings him closer to my Divinity. That is why I always say to you: Prepare yourselves and lift up your spirit, because the teachings that he must know are revealed to him. See how there must be a true harmony between the spirit and the mind, so that you can glimpse from here that truth.

63. I have let your intelligence expand and seek in the infinite the light it needs. I have given you free will to choose the way; but I have put my precepts before your will. In that law you will be able to see the straight path, in it you will be able to find knowledge so that you can purify your deeds. If you do not want to follow that path, you are free to depart from it, but you can no longer be deceived, your conscience will speak to you without ceasing. Also when you arrive before Me, already without matter, that inner judge of conscience will judge you and tell you which path of purification you should follow. That light of justice is part of the same God who is in you and who teaches you to love the good and reject the bad.

64. In these years of preparation you will dedicate yourselves to studying my teaching, because there are many hearts that need your word. There is fatigue from so much perversity, there is a hunger to live spiritually.

65. The disciples of this work will lavish spiritual nourishment, correct the misconceptions that humanity has carried so far, give the good news of the time you are living, announce the evolution of ideas and life that this time will bring, they will be at the service of humanity, without distinguishing classes, sects, religions or races, they will be sensitive to every spiritual or physical need. These disciples will be like the lighthouse that illuminates the shipwrecked boat, the star that saves those who grope in the night.

66. They will not build stone temples, nor will they erect altars to publish their works. They will build a great spiritual temple, the stones of which will be the hearts of humanity, uniting one to one by the force of love.

67. Listen carefully to my lessons of these last three years, because the disciples who learn this teaching will be the teachers after the fiftieth. At that time, wherever you gather and rise up in truth to Me, I will enlighten you with the light of my inspiration so that you may do great and profound works; but prepare yourselves for this, because when the moment has come, marked by Me, I will not use the pedestal again.

68. My light will radiate in any of my children who were preparing at the time of direct communication with the Master, but it will not be in those who, selling my work, become merchants. Prepare yourselves, so that at the end of my word in 1950, you will have understood the way to continue on the path because hear it well! , Confusion will arise in all those who have not prepared properly.

69. Understand, beloved people, the way in which I want you to carry my word among humanity. So that you do not stumble, do not try to transform from one moment to the next the customs that humanity has carried for centuries. Give her my teaching and she will understand the mistakes she has lived in. The power of conviction that my doctrine possesses will illuminate your understanding and the truth will be recognized, Then, what one day appeared before your eyes as false, will shine with infinite light.

70. My children, I have been with you and I have touched your heart so that in it you may make me a place where I can dwell forever.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 206

1. My charity towards you comes from my love and is poured out incessantly on all beings. My love always blesses and forgives you, purifies you and helps you to rise up the path of your evolution, so that you may feel close to Me and become worthy of recognizing yourselves as my children.
2. I have given you my law, so that you may be guided by it. That is the path that I have traced for you since the beginning of time, that is the foundation, the foundation on which you must build your works. That law will show you the principles necessary for you, because my wise men are enclosed in it.
3. This word with which I now teach you is the continuation of the teaching that I have been giving you from the earliest times that does not end because it has no beginning and no end. And as your spirit evolves, you will come to understand my wise lessons, my desire to perfect you.
4. I am inspiring you the highest spirituality, so that you may love me in the most dignified way and that you may be sensitive to my manifestations and be able to interpret them properly.
5. When you have studied my word and know how to extract its essence from it, you will feel strengthened, fully sustained, then you will speak with charity to all humanity, which is ignorant of my coming at this time and a feeling of pity will fill your being and you will go in search of your brothers, to reveal to them what I have spoken to you and you will give them all the wealth that I have left for them, as if it were a sacred deposit in your hands.
6. Humanity needs light to be able to take a step forward; there is hunger in all creatures, a need to live supported by faith, to know the truth and also to know where they are going. I will give you the teaching through those who have prepared and in your delicate mission you will know how to correct with love all the errors that you will find in your practices. You will begin this mission and try to imitate me. You will not distinguish between the poor and the rich to soothe the pain. You will not impose your faith, nor will you force anyone to accept your knowledge; you will not be divided because of my last coming, nor will you make war on those who possess the past testaments, if they do not know or do not want to accept my last lessons.
7. Make light in the darkness, bring peace to the hearts and calm the impatience of those who have waited for me. Go to the aid of your brothers and I will watch over your family and your property

Love one another!

8. If you work in this way, you will be building in the spirit of humanity the temple that will endure and where the worship that I have always expected from humanity, from these my dearly beloved children, will rise.

9. Take care that your works are sincere, always speak the truth, be my disciples. In this word I am speaking to the men of the future times, to all those who want to follow me and imitate me.

10. When 1950 has passed, do not look for a certain place to pray or to study my word. Choose a home as well as a valley or the place where you are working your bread. Imitate my twelve disciples who knew how to find the temple wherever they were, because they carried it in themselves, in their spirit and the great and solemn in their acts was in their elevation and communion with Me.

11. As long as there is suffering on earth, as long as there is misery, Mary's intercession will not cease for a single moment and her Spirit will be illuminating the life of all her creatures.

12. You offer me the abode of your heart, from where you called me and I rushed to the appointment.

13. On my way you have experienced the spiritual rest that you have never found on earth. You traveled many paths in search of sweetness for your palate, until you found the honey of my word.

14. From childhood, through youth and even to adulthood, you have searched tirelessly for the way, because you had missed the path and darkness stood in your way. But the light of my Spirit appeared before you and that day was that of your resurrection, as important as the day of your incarnation.

15. You do not forget the day you heard my word for the first time, because it was the moment when you returned to the life of light.

16. You came in need, searching my word, some humble and others proud, all attracted by the strength of my presence. You had to get to Me; I had been waiting for you for so long! And while some have despised my caress by turning their backs on me and turning the path uncertain, others have stayed with Me to delight in my words and devote themselves to the service of my work.

17. I am in all my children, even in the heart of the murderer. I am moving away from none and I am closer to the one who thinks himself most unworthy.

18. It behooves those who have come to pray for those who have fallen. But do not be their judges, for they will reach the light.

Love one another!

19. Do not wait for the regeneration of humanity on its own, without having been an example to them. I don't want you to become parasitic plants.

20. You will stop the unbridled race of men with the gift of the word that I have given you. I will entrust humanity to you as tender plants that need watering and care, because from all roads they will come to Me and even from the very prisons men will come to become my disciples. But if you do not fulfill your mission now, your spirit will have to come to raise the dead that you left abandoned on the road, you will come to heal the sick that you did not attend, you will have to look for bread to offer it to the hungry that you neglected. Moreover, why seek such a painful atonement, being now able to fulfill your duty?

21. Human science is great, but the spirit of the scientist is numb and let men die. That is why I have placed the healing balm in your hands, so that, becoming doctors of humanity, you may give the example of charity and love.

22. Epidemics will break out in the world and a large part of humanity will perish. They will be strange and rare diseases, before which science will be powerless.

23. The universe will be cleared of weeds. My justice will separate selfishness, hatred, tireless ambitions. Great phenomena will appear in nature.

24. Nations will be devastated and counties will disappear. In a touch of alert for your heart.

25. The way is prepared; I am your guide, I am inseparable in your journey.

26. Blessed people of Israel: Welcome are you in the presence of your Lord of this Lord who, meek and humble, comes to dwell before you in this dwelling place. But it is not the material dwelling in which I present myself. The dwelling place is in your heart, invisible, and it is the one that you offer me in this moment of spiritual elevation.

27. I know you need my word. What would become of you without her, my people? I know that you need me and I come tirelessly to strengthen you. My word counsels you and lifts you up, this word pure and full of light, which you do not find in any book written by the hand of man.

28. The men of science who have listened to me, do not confess to you that this word is not comparable to any other but they recognize it deep in their hearts.

29. I have come to make you feel on this path the spiritual rest that you had not been able to find on earth before. You have traveled many roads. Many honeys you have tasted like foolish hummingbird from flower to flower, but none has been sweeter for your palate.

Love one another!

And this word, which has turned to honey on your lips, has erased all the flavors that you had tasted before.

30. You have searched incessantly for the way and have found the various paths. You have fought against the darkness and your fast running pace had become weak and tired.

31. But the light of my Divine Spirit shone for you and that indelible day for your consciousness and spirit, is written in the album of the afterlife, where you will have to read with your spiritual eyes everything you do on earth and everything you have heard from the Master. That day was of resurrection to the life of grace for your spirit.

32. Some of you arrived magnified, the others needy, For one and the other, the moment was marked you had to arrive before your Father, who was waiting for you, who had to welcome you and make you resurrect to spiritual life.

33. You are filled with joy with my words and you feel that the corporeal matter that surrounds you prevents you from giving yourselves fully to my blessed work, but you resign yourselves, because you know that the disciples are not allowed to intercede in my high judgments, that the disciple must be submissive and obedient; that through this matter you will know the way of light as well as the paths of lies and darkness; you will taste the fruit of goodness under the shade of the corpulent tree and you will set aside the apple of discord; you will be recreated in the shade of the green palm tree and you will watch that the gnawing worm does not destroy its foliage, nor do the birds of prey make their nests.

34. I have left you on the way so that you know the taste of all the honeys and finally know how to choose the one with the best taste for your palate. I have let you know the two extremes, so that guided by the breath of my divine breath you can always distinguish and incline towards the good.

35. The Master has told you: Behind that door that you find closed and that you call death, there is life. Life is me. Death is the one that provides the temptation that blinds your eyes and that does not let you live next to me, But you carry a powerful weapon to get rid of temptation; it is prayer. It is the weapon that makes you feel strong, that brings you closer to my Divinity and makes you walk together with Me on the path of your spiritual evolution.

36. I, the Father, have rejected no one from my bosom of love and forgiveness, not even those who have allowed themselves to be touched by temptation and have fallen into the abyss. I haven't abandoned anyone. There are no helpless beings on earth or in the spiritual valley, which of you could be thrown out of my lap, no matter how sinful and unworthy he was to receive my charity? I live in the heart of the inveterate sinner who has not been able to receive the light of my Divine Spirit because he has not heeded the call made to him by the voice of his conscience. Do you think that by his chain of wickedness I have turned away from him? No, really. I am the Father of all creatures, without distinguishing any, of my children. I am love and as a loving Father I do not neglect anyone, my people.

37. It is up to you to pray for the lost one, to ask that the light of my Spirit enlighten his spirit, so that he awakens, breaks the bonds of temptation and separates the darkness that has blinded him.

38. But Israel has slept. Israel hopes that humanity will achieve its regeneration on its own merits. He has not taken his rightful place, because his mission is to be an example to others.

39. And I say to you, people, In whom have I left my law? Are they in the hands of sinners? The law is in your hands. Who, then, is responsible for the fact that my mandates are not yet being fulfilled? Israel! And I also say to you, Why have you made your plant a parasite on the earth? Why have you not risen up to fulfill the commands that I have given you? Why do you let the sinner go on his way in unbridled career? Why don't you bring him closer to Me with that gift of word that I have entrusted to you and speak to him in my name? Do you want the darkness to continue blinding, the pupil of man? Do you not know that through you the darkness will be dispelled?

40. Arise, people, says the Father to you. Go and pick up the fallen one. I have to give new mandates to humanity. I will give great and new orders to every nation, to each of its rulers, to each of its inhabitants.

41. Great phenomena will appear before you. Times will change Winters will be harsh and spring you will not know in what time it will come, Because men have measured time, but to my will, Who will be able to oppose? The waters will be withheld and will not reach your lands. Therefore, prepare yourselves, people, because the time of chaos is approaching among you and Israel must multiply its struggle.

42. Peace will be between you. Keep it! Do not cast this peace out of your heart. This nation was chosen by Me, and it is not my will that it be touched; but be prepared, because by your spiritual fulfillment humanity will reach this nation and receive light.

43. Here I am, Israel! You only hear a voice without being able to look at me, but you are satisfied hearing the echo of the heavenly bell.

44. I come at the voice of your call to the corner of your bedchamber. None of your sufferings can go unnoticed by Me, and I come to give you everything that is for the good of the body and the spirit.

Love one another!

45. I do not give you false riches, because you would be lost and I come to save you to bring you after this life to my right hand.

46. Ask me for riches for the spirit and I will give them to you. Do not embellish your matter and keep the spirit naked.

47. My law, given to man in the first two times, has not yet been obeyed; therefore you have me with you again to save you.

48. Since 1866, my word has been heard in this nation, where crystal clear waters run wild from their sources in those who thirst for the spirit. Here I present myself to polish the rock hearts of my dearly beloved children.

49 Oh, if only everyone would come and listen to me! But there are those who, having heard me, prefer to take the uncertain paths strewn with pebbles, to walk along the path of light of the Lord; and that is your brother, the ungrateful, the disobedient, the one who in exchange for the bread of eternal life prefers to eat the bitter bread of the earth.

50. Blessed are you who remain with Me, knowing that I am Christ who is waiting for the wayward son.

51. Your Father has come to teach you his doctrine, this spiritual teaching that does not admit fanaticism, that teaches you to give perfect fulfillment to the divine law and human laws.

52. I have not taught you to lacerate or mortify your body to achieve my forgiveness. The only penance that I accept from you is that in which you deprive yourselves of what is superfluous or bad, even often with pain in your heart. When you have done this, your heart has felt the peace of my Spirit.

53. I speak to you in this way, because I do not want your spirit to crawl on the dust of the earth, when its dwelling is another.

54. Do you know what awaits you after this life? Where will your spirit go? You are travelers in this world, but soon this journey will end and you will be closer to Me.

55. In all three times I have sought different forms of communication with humanity: Through Moses in the First Time, to guide your steps towards freedom and light. Becoming a man in the Second Time, by incarnating the "Word" and tracing a path of redemption for the world. Today I have come on the white cloud, like an iris of peace, to say to you: Come after the light of the Holy Spirit. I don't want you to wait for new times to get up, because the ones to come will be of greater pain and greater trials.

Love one another!

56. I am bequeathing the Third Will, so that you can study it and fulfill it, because 1950 is already approaching.

57. If you do not take advantage of my lesson, you will cry bitterly when you hear the Teacher saying goodbye. Are you waiting for this? Do you expect that plague and famine will also break out and that mourning and pain will penetrate into your home?

58. I want to leave you united and strong, do not go to ignore each other. Love each other and peace will be universal.

59. Which of you will sail the seas tomorrow, cross the mountains and penetrate into distant lands? Who will have to abandon their family, their children, to take my word to the nations?

60. Watch and meditate, because until before 1950 you alone have eaten the bread that I have given you. You have closed your hand to hide the remains of this delicacy and you have hidden the waters without remembering the thirsty. But events will change, and after these last three years in which I will give you my word, you will rise up as teachers to teach the kindergartens. Purify yourselves from many of your imperfections, so that you may find yourselves clean and be able to be an example before religions and sects. Prepare yourselves, because many of those who are listening to me will turn their backs on me, others will rise up doing their own will; among you is the one who will betray me, the one who will betray and sell me.

61. Study my word so that tomorrow you will not say that it was man who spoke and not your God. But who is able to speak to you, as I do? What human being has the power to transform and regenerate a people as I have done?

62. Soon you will no longer hear this voice, but you will remember that I was there from 1866 to 1950 and that while many listened to me, others threw my word out of their hearts. You who were with Me will also be with the Father in eternity.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

1. Blessed are you because you no longer need any figure that symbolizes me to feel my presence; this is a step you have taken towards spirituality.
2. You have before you an extensive field, in which you can analyze lesson by lesson, without ever reaching the end because this life, which as humans you have, will not be enough for you to understand everything.
3. How the face of what surrounds you has changed since you have heard my voice! The veil that covered your eyes has been broken and you can no longer close them, so who is he who, contemplating the light, wants to stay in darkness again?
4. You can no longer drown in your heart the admiration, gratitude and love that you feel for Me and you show it to me in your spiritual prayer and in your actions. You have already forgotten the learned prayers, full of far-fetched and flowery words that your mind did not understand, nor did your heart feel. Then you had no language of your own to speak to your God.
5. Today, when you are faced with the nakedness, misery or pain of your brother, you feel that a feeling of pity, of love, springs from the depths of your being, which is the language that best expresses your desire for good for your fellow men.
6. Once upon a time you had built a temple to worship yourselves, you admired yourselves, recognizing the power and dominion that you were going to exercise over other beings; you loved yourselves, you believed yourselves to be beings and powerful.
7. I have come to bend that pride of yours, making you feel humility, recognizing this material insignificance. I have revealed to you that there is something in you that constitutes your courage and your strength, of which you cannot boast; and that something is your spirit. That his greatness is far from being the greatness that you feel in your matter, because the spirit is part of God and is above everything material is the true greatness that I have placed in man; but you must fight so that its light is not tarnished, so that you may achieve by merit its elevation on the path of evolution.
8. Before, when your life was dominated by passions, your spirit felt chained and oppressed. Now you are learning to master these passions, because in the hearts of my disciples there is no place for pride, selfishness, or hatred. Your spirit already begins to direct the acts, the thoughts and all the steps of your life, and this subjection is like a voluntary atonement to which you submit to purge the faults committed.

Love one another!

9. Thus the spirit will gain strength in the good. And if he thus reaches the end of the human journey, his greatness will be so great that when he detaches himself from this world he will penetrate fully into the abode of the spirit, without bearing traces of pride or trace of miseries.

10. Whoever with that humility and elevation reaches the afterlife, will not be able to forget the needy he left on this earth; then he will return to them to become protector and guardian of the weak, the sick and the lost.

11. Develop through the practice of good the gifts of your spirit and truly I tell you: Calamities, plagues, diseases, will yield to the one who kept spirituality and good preparation. This will not be so that he will be puffed up, because he will not have achieved it with his physical strength, but by the spirit, who has power through humility.

12. Join Me and listen to my word.

13. The world needs salvation, it needs men of good will who stand up working for my doctrine.

14. This is a time in which man does not possess a complete knowledge of his spiritual situation.

15. The number of those who have woken up listening to my word is very small compared to those who have no idea of my communication. There are some who intuitively feel the proximity and presence of the spiritual.

16. Men need a helping hand and a saving word. That hand and that voice will be those of my new disciples, who through great struggles will carry the spiritual knowledge that will save the lost.

17. Testing times are approaching. I have prepared you so that you may have strength and courage to contemplate what I have announced to you. In this struggle, men will come to understand that the cause of the war between nations and the struggle of their doctrines is because they live in misunderstanding and distance from the teaching of Christ, because if it were put into practice, the world would be at peace; but if instead of love there is egoism, how can there be clarity in the, understanding and spirituality in the works of his life? How can the spirit in this way overcome the reluctance of the flesh to manifest its essence?

18. Today men, instead of remedying the misery that surrounds them everywhere, try to get the best benefit for themselves from it. Why have men not risen in search of an ideal that will make them have purer feelings and more worthy pursuits of the spirit? Because they have not wanted to see beyond where their mortal eyes can reach, that is, beyond their miseries, their earthly joys and their material science. They have dedicated themselves to taking advantage of the time they enjoy in the world to accumulate riches and joys, thinking that by finishing the matter, everything ended for them. Man, in his ignorant pride, instead of elevating himself considering himself a child of God, descends to the lower degree of being and if his conscience tells him about Divinity and a spiritual life, his fear of God's justice takes hold of him and he prefers to silence that inner voice, turning his thought away from those warnings. He has not meditated on his own existence, nor on his spiritual and material condition. How can he cease to be dust and misery, as long as he lives and thinks in that way?

19. That is why I come to teach you, and behold, those who listen to me have a different idea in their minds and think deeply about that higher life that is that of the spirit and that which can begin to be lived from matter, coming to understand that something high exists within man that is my divine grace.

20. From there you can recognize that the law or force that governs everything, is God whose power and wisdom is manifested in nature that is a reflection of his perfection. When this humanity recognizes and values the greatness of his father, when he understands that it is not necessary to create his image to worship him and knows how to find him even in the seemingly insignificant beings of creation, then he will be on the right path and will be on the way to contemplate the wisdom and power of God that encompasses everything created. Thus, those who are receiving my teaching are becoming spiritualized, because their understanding has already opened up to broader horizons. The wall that imprisoned them is destroyed before their eyes, to contemplate a world where they will be able to analyze and understand teaching by teaching.

21. But truly I tell you, What you have learned is not yet enough for you to come to understand how much my will is, You still have to walk a lot on that long road; but I tell you, from the moment you were able to break the veil of ignorance, you will no longer be able to turn back; who, having heard this heavenly song, will no longer be able to close his ear to my inspiration, nor will his lips cease from extolling his Lord.

22. Today you are able to create a different prayer each time, from the depths of your heart, when not long ago you were still uttering words searched in the mind and in books. Now your prayer has no limits, because every time you rise with true faith, you feel that you are getting closer to the struggle; and so in your own or someone else's pain, as in thanksgiving, instead of words coming to your lips, it is inspiration that approaches your spirit to bring it to the presence of the Lord. Today it is not your lips that sing the greatness of the Lord, now it is your whole being that testifies to His goodness.

Love one another!

23. Get to know each other and when you have discovered your mistakes, correct them; settle yourself in the hope of returning to the place where every spirit will have to arrive. With this eagerness, fight even against yourselves, prove to yourselves that you are superior in your spiritual nature; prove to yourselves that you will be able to overcome yourself when it comes to mastering passions and evil inclinations.
24. And that heritage of past times, when you lived for the satisfactions of the body and had built a temple to worship you believing yourself eternal, strong and powerful, will be destroyed with the real knowledge of what spiritual and material values mean.
25. The conviction of your strength and of your spiritual worth will not be a cause of vanity, because spiritual greatness differs greatly from material greatness.
26. Spirit is a spark of light, a seed of love, a germ of life.
27. See what a wrong path you were taking when trying to achieve greatness, you were only giving free rein to your earthly ambitions.
28. You are already understanding spirituality and so when you reach the end of this life that has been lent to you, your spirit will carry light, knowledge and grace.
29. Do you then understand the time in which you live?.
30. Pray that you will help the representatives of the nations who are meeting to resolve conflicts between peoples. Do you think they all have a different concept for each solution? No, people, they are deluding themselves inwardly. Their conscience agrees. It is material interests that make them pass over their own convictions. How easy would be the solution of all conflicts, if everyone acted according to his conscience; then the world would be at peace. The men who govern the destinies of peoples, far from thinking of their own greatness, would think of the well-being of all; but none of this exists and distrust makes men always lurking.
31. Again I tell you: When the world turns its steps on my path and puts my doctrine into practice, it will solve its problems and live in peace.
32. On this day my universal ray descends on your spirit to feed you with the bread of eternal life, it is my voice that has called you. Among you I contemplate the last ones whom I invite to be recreated in my word; some are unbelievers, others idolaters, some come like meek sheep to the fold, others have the mask of hypocrisy on their faces; they doubt my presence and inwardly mock my teaching, because for them it is impossible for the Creator to communicate through human understanding.

Love one another!

33. If it were not the true God who communicates, I would not be giving the tests that I give, nor would I be teaching you the way of virtue. He who does not believe, it is because he has not meditated, his heart has been closed and he is in darkness.

34. The voice says to you: I am the true God, the Father, the life and the light. I descend to communicate in this form, to destroy your aberrations, errors and low passions that prevent you from understanding and analyzing the truth.

35. I do not come to betray one among the others, because you are at my banquet, with my light that is in your consciousness, I speak to your spirit so that it shudders and awakens.

36. I am the same Christ whom you condemned in the Second Time, and the times have been marked according to my will.

37. If at that time you led me to the cross, on which, out of love for you, I shed every last drop of my blood, I made you appear as the innocent one who does not know what he is doing, even though you did judge the Messiah knowingly; but I left you in the care of twelve men, who, imitating the Master, spread my doctrine among humanity.

38. Today I find among you those who once shouted with a loud voice: Crucify him! It's the sorcerer! thus ignoring the benefits that I came to spill.

39. The times have passed and your spirit has come by my will to dwell in this nation so that you may listen to the "Divine Word" the word of love and life, in another form.

40. I am here with you! I am touching your heart to give me shelter. I am going down in search of your spirit whom I love very much, because you have chained him to sin, thus obscuring his light.

41. When your intelligence has shone, it has not been to love your fellow man, because your love has become lethargic within a life of conveniences and materialisms.

42. You forget the eternal life of the spirit and come to believe yourselves gods in this world. You come to doubt my existence and my justice, because you see that I do not prevent the shedding of blood among humanity, without understanding that I am inexorable as a judge and allow the atonement and purification of faults through pain.

43. Open your heart! Lift up your spirits! Let him say that the voice you hear is the same one that has always spoken to you of love, charity and perfection! The Third Time has surprised you! Do not want to contemplate me humanized as in the Second Half! Remember that I told you, that I would come on the cloud. My Divine Spirit descends to you and therefore from the scale of perfection I send my ray on the speaker and my voice is heard even in the mud of this world.

Love one another!

44. It is not only you who listen to my word. I, the Word, pour out my light into the universe, but if you ask everyone if they have heard a voice coming down from beyond, they will answer you in the negative. Why? Because humanity is walking deaf on the roads of the world, wrapped in sin and fanaticism without heeding the call made by his conscience.

45. Since the year 1866 I have given you my word, which is redemption for your spirit and which points out to you the path by which you will achieve perfect peace in the universe.

46. I have invested your spirit with a delicate mission, by means of which he will settle the debt contracted with his Lord. Cutting the weed I find myself, to tie it in sheaves and throw it into the fire, until it turns into ash, because at last, the light will shine and my doctrine will be recognized worldwide.

47. Man will create new doctrines and new laws, but no longer will his will be done, but mine. Then, there will be peace, harmony and fraternity. Hearts will no longer feed on hatred, the fratricidal hand will no longer be lifted up; but, so that all this may be, I will purify you first. Some of you will see these prophecies fulfilled from the spiritual valley and those of you who remain inhabiting the earth will bear witness to the new generations after 1950.

48. People: The way that I have marked for you to come to Me is one; it is traced with light; in it is life and prayer; it is the way of the spirit. Walking along it you will not get lost. If you are on the path, manifest the spiritualist doctrine to the world, bear witness to my revelations and teach your brothers to come to Me through perfect prayer.

49. Remember, people, that example of prayer that I gave you in the "garden of Olives", when I invoked forgiveness for humanity before the Father. The body of Jesus prostrated itself before the Heavenly Father, but not before any image, and I lifted up my words to heaven, the same ones that I bequeathed to humanity.

50. Once again I pour out my charity among you and I close you with love. Walkers of life, disciples and preschoolers. It is a day of grace when the voice of the Master descends to caress you. I do not present myself as a severe judge, but as a righteous Father and with my word I come to guide you along the path traced by Me, from which you had strayed.

51. You are all fighters; I contemplate that some arrive defeated, others have achieved victory and still others do not raise the song of victory. You are in the fullness of that struggle and you do not know the end. The lands that you have to sow and that you do not yet know are very extensive, but you have abundant seed and you will be able to sow it.

Love one another!

52. While some are submissive and strong in the fulfillment of their mission, others are surprised by fatigue and become lethargic, knowing that there is an eye that sees everything, an ear that hears everything and a hand that always writes down. Think that you are letting a precious time pass, that today you are living and that tomorrow your eyes without light will not open anymore. Then your sorrowful spirit will arise, because you would not listen to the word. An immense desire to listen to me as at this time will take hold of your spirit and only a stern voice will reach you, the voice of conscience, which will shake you. Therefore now I say to you, Do not depart from my word; do not be deaf to my commands. Take from this teaching its essence, as a sacred page from which you will have to answer me, because it is the law.

53. The blindness of the people to understand the greatness of my teaching comes from their sin and their pain.

54. This essence that I give you is life for the spirit and balm for every aching spirit. It is like dew on barren fields.

55. If you have not yet gathered good fruits, ask your conscience the cause and she will answer you that to obtain good results it is necessary to work and watch. Sow good examples on earth, sow virtue, manifest the gifts with which I have formed your spirit. Strip him of evil passions and clothe him with good deeds. Then you will be on earth my true children and a representation of my Divinity.

56. In each one of you I have placed the responsibility of making known my Trinitarian Marian Spiritualist work, which will be discussed by humanity and will arouse a revolution of ideas in the minds and will confuse all those who did not understand the beginning of this work, even less will they be able to understand the end.

57. My sowers sleep and do not manifest my work that is clean and pure, because they recognize that they have mixed their evil deeds with it. Only a few moments remain for the world to hear my word in this communication; if you sleep, tomorrow you will have pain and bitterness in your heart; but it will not be the Father who judges you, it will be your conscience.

58. There are a few moments left for you to savor these delicacies. Who will be with me at the end of 1950? Who will you present the fertile wheat of your harvest to?

59. The world sleeps in its deep lethargy, waiting for you to arrive and you will rise to life. You have not yet gone in search of the dead because you lack confidence in Me. What are you afraid of men? Do you fear his justice or death? I have told you that I will deliver you from death, remember that I have given you eternal life.

Love one another!

60. I have not tired of speaking to you, because I am the "Eternal Word". My word is the chisel that sculpts and polishes the hearts of rock from which I make crystal clear water gush.

61. In this time of pain and tragedy I want you to imitate me, but put all your trust in Me and your brothers and sisters will be able to know the splendor of spiritualism. You will be able to imitate me, you will not be uncertain. The weight of the cross is not greater than your strength.

62. People: In exchange for the great trials you have my word. You have been unknown and despised by your own because of my work. How many of you were given over to the orgies and pleasures of the world, leading to degeneration your spirit for whom every pleasure was a blow. And who came to turn you from that path? Your Master. You have understood my love and you thank me for it, because you know that in exchange for your renunciations I have come to converse with you.

63. You thought that there was no one who could know your past, and here you have me, reading the book of your life so that you doubt my existence and my presence.

64. At this time I have seated you in the place of my disciples, as I seated my apostles in the Second Time around me.

65. My word leads you along the path that my footprint marked. It has been a long time since you have been walking and the cry of triumph has not yet escaped your lips. You are in full struggle and you will get the reward when you reach the end of the day. Some I see strong, others I surprise fatigued. I will give you truces, so that you may meditate on them, for this is a precious time that no one should despise.

66. Do not neglect my commands, nor be deaf to my voice. Hear this word and take from it the essence. Cleanse your mind and your heart so that you may contemplate its greatness; in it is what gives life to your spirit. This is the dew that I pour out on the barren fields and it is the seed that you will bring to humanity. If any of my children have not been able to pick the fruit after sowing, it is because the seed was not clean. Sow the good seed and wait for the good fruit.

67. Cast off from your heart the fear of men that has always stopped you from fulfilling your mission. Deliver your spirit from all blemish, until it leaves it naked and then begin to clothe it with the light of your good works; then you will feel intimately worthy to carry my law. Expose my doctrine and let men search it; when they penetrate into my work, they will find no beginning for it, and they will not see the end of it.

68. My doctrine is so pure that you will have nothing to be ashamed of or ashamed of before humanity; but if you become ashamed, it will be because of what you have added to it, or that your life is not in accordance with what you teach. Many times you would like to go unnoticed but this will not be possible, because I sent you to give this good news with the example of your good works.

69. The world will realize that a new time has surprised it and will look for those who can tell it something about these lessons; but if you sleep, with how much pain you will wake up.

70. There are only moments left for you to hear this word. Who will be with Me when it's over? Who will keep my law clean as I have given it to you?

71. See that from there you will rise up strong to fulfill your noble mission. You shall not fear death, for I tell you that death will not be sent to you, but you will put to death the temptation that you are carrying in the matter, so that you will not stumble. The good disciple must learn to overcome himself, to teach others to overcome their weaknesses and their passions.

72. Do you not see the humility with which I speak to you? Truly I tell you, it is the same one that manifested itself in the Second Time when I limited myself to be similar to man and with my word and my examples to raise him up so that he would be similar to God.

73. Be my instruments, but never obstacles, so that I can reach the hearts. Why do you doubt that you can imitate me? You have misunderstood the teachings; if you are my children, you will have inherited some resemblance from your Father and your Father is good.

74. You have descended from the spiritual to the earth, to search through vicissitudes for the traces of the Divine Master and now that I am communicating for you, you leave everything you have to come and listen to me. Do you think that your renunciations and sacrifices will not have my reward? Do not forget for a single day the purpose of your destiny, so that you may take a step forward daily.

75. Bear in mind that you will give nothing to Me, everything that you will work will be yours.

76. Why do I bend down and sometimes even descend to the bottom of the abyss to save you? Because I love you.

77. Here you have a base in this doctrine, a brief and safe way to return to your homeland. It is the doctrine of spirituality; if you understand it, how much light you will have in your thoughts, in words and in deeds. Do not repeat with your lips only that you are spiritualists. When you truly are, you will have no need to proclaim it.

Love one another!

78. Meditate on these lessons that I have been delivering to your heart and spirit, tomorrow you will have to look for them there to teach them to your brothers.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Teaching 208

1. You have awakened with the echo of my word and you have come from distant nations, towns and regions, by a long way of vicissitudes, with the longing to find the Master, and you have achieved the purpose of your struggles and sacrifices, because you have come to my presence. It is the first step you take on the path that will lead you to the top of the mountain where I went ahead to wait for you.
2. You have opened your heart like a clean book, so that I may write this teaching in it. Some have presented to me their understanding, in which I have also written my word, waiting for the heart to be sensitized, because this light will penetrate to the spirit, where it will find a dwelling from which it will not leave again.
3. My word has never been so clear and extensive as in this Third Time, in which I have come to humanize it. My word makes you understand what I gave you in the past two eras. My whole Doctrine is enclosed in two precepts that I bequeathed to you from the beginning “YOU WILL LOVE GOD WITH ALL YOUR HEART AND SPIRIT” AND “YOU WILL LOVE YOUR NEIGHBOR AS YOURSELF”. Later Jesus came to say to you: “LOVE ONE ANOTHER” and now I come to continue my teachings, to let my Work be completed among you, in fulfillment of my promise to return.
4. I did not appear at this time in the bosom of any church, because I came in search of my temple that exists in your heart. The solemnity of the liturgies, the splendor of the religious rites are not what attract my Spirit or signify my Church.
5. In the Second time, the princes and priests were waiting for the birth of the Messiah in the bosom of the church, however, I was not born among them, because I found the stable of Bethlehem cleaner, I found more love among the shepherds and more mercy in the harsh winter. That is why the theologians of that time were confused and why the kings persecuted me from my birth to my death.
6. Today theologians are confused again before my new coming, because the prophecies and announcements of it have not been interpreted correctly.
7. From the beginning my coming has been questioned even though I have given you proofs, testifying to myself, and in this way I have raised the faith in the hearts of my people.
8. Great multitudes of disciples have arisen at this time, but with being so great, they do not manage to possess the faith and strength that those twelve who followed me had in the Second Time. And what are you going to do after my departure? You all know that I am speaking to you, within the last three years of the teaching that you will receive through human understanding. If you truly understood me, you would have the certainty that I am eternally with you, that I am eternally speaking to you. But who are those who are preparing to feel my divine presence and to hear my voice? Who will reach by 1950, the time marked for my departure, spirituality enough to communicate with the Master without the need for a pedestal?

9. I will not be offended if you do not offer me altars or flowers or if you do not light lamps for me, because what I have been looking for all along in the heart of man, is the spiritual altar.

10. The flowers are the offerings of the orchards and the valleys, whose fragrance and perfume, comes to Me as a tribute of love. Then do not usurp their offerings from the valleys and the gardens. Do not light lamps other than that of faith in my Divinity, for it will do you no good to light oil lamps if your heart is in darkness.

11. You have not managed to understand, and even less to practice the perfect Doctrine that I have revealed to you, and whose name of Trinitarian Marian Spiritualism says it all: spiritual elevation, recognition of the Trinity of divine manifestations and worship of Mary, the Divine Tenderness.

12. Before the beginning of the year 1948, I said to you through numerous spokespersons: "Prepare yourselves because I will reform your spiritual practices", because I do not want the world to judge you like the bad disciples, who have attracted their Master to participate in their superfluous customs. I have entrusted to you my perfect Work, which you must not deny with your deeds, everyone who rises to follow me, will carry his cross and deliver the truth with all his being, as far as it is possible and his powers allow it. You are not always ready, but I wish you always were, because at the least expected moment the test or the one in need may appear and you should be there instantly.

13. For parents, the burden of the cross is serious, because having brought the new generations into the world, he understood that this is not enough for them to finish their mission. The Father's Law for the first ones was this: "Grow and multiply" and in the current time, in which I find great evolution in the human spirit, I say to you again: "Grow and multiply", but do it not only in matter but in spirit, in virtues, in love. This is the Law of the beginning and the end to which you will fulfill, so that you may arrive satisfied in my presence and be able to say to me: Lord, behold my spiritual and human fulfillment, behold the fruit.

14. Beloved people: the times do not allow you to work; the elements, pain, war, conflicts and chaos, tell you every moment: Wake up and work! ...Let your heart be filled with this wine, which is the blood of the Master, so that it may overflow in life and in love upon your brothers.

15. See that my word comes from a Father who seeks you, who loves you and corrects you, who lifts you up when you stumble and heals you when you are sick. I have not even come on this day to order you, simply to caress you. I am going to point out all your acts before your conscience, not one before another, because I am the veil that defends you from your enemies, so that you may listen in silence to the voice of the inner Judge and remember that the disciples of Jesus are to glorify the name of their Master with their works.

16. I often tell you about my departure, as I did with my apostles in the Second Time: “Jesus was surrounded by his disciples, all of whom were older than the Master, while some were in the Maturity of life, others were already in old age. There was only one younger than Jesus, it was John. The Teacher used to tell them about his upcoming departure and before that announcement, those men wondered: How does he talk about his upcoming departure if we are closer to the end? And the disciples could not understand how that man, all life, all love and strength, could die for the world. They could not conceive that He who came from the Father could cease to live. But Jesus kept talking about his departure, he kept saying goodbye, making those hearts get used to the idea of separation and understand that they should take advantage of the time and store that precious seed in the heart. Then someone said to his Master, “Lord, if anyone tries to touch you, we will prevent him,” to which Jesus replied, “What is written will have to be and the will of the Father will be consummated, because sooner the Heavens and the Earth would disappear than his word would cease to be fulfilled.”

17. the disciples, downcast and sad, listened and inwardly wondered what they could do when He was no longer among them? How could they fight alone among mankind? How could they give light to the blind, cleanse the leper, raise the dead and convert the sinner? The Master was reading their thoughts and on one occasion he told them: You will remain in my place, like sheep among wolves, but if you believe in Me and remain on the way you will not perish.

18. My passion was consummated: my word was fulfilled and my apostles felt their spirits and their faith falter; when they saw Jesus sweating blood in the Garden of Olives, as if He were afraid of men, He, who had the power in his hand, before the shouting of the mobs, they thought that the Master could silence them, since he had silenced the possessed themselves. And when the wicked hands fell on the Rabbi to apprehend him, the astonished disciples asked, Lord, why have you let yourself be apprehended like any evildoer, if there is no sin in You at all? Then they hid themselves, forsaking their Lord. But Christ continued to teach as God and as man, because he wanted to be a man to set the perfect example and to feel human pain and in Him were all the anguish, all the loneliness: he received on his body all the ingratitude and blasphemies and the last hour arrived.

19. From the top of the tree, his eyes searched through the crowd for his friends, the disciples, those who had lived with him and who loved him and followed the paths; but those were not, at the last moment, his bodily eyes did not see them, only John, the youngest, was present accompanying the Master's Mother. To the disciple he gave his last message, and to Mary he consecrated her at that moment, before humanity, as the Universal Mother.

Love one another!

20. Everything was consummated.

21. The disciples, united by weeping and mourning, sought consolation in Mary. But the Master was already a spirit, he became visible. He visited the Mother and the holy women, who bore witness to the apostles of which they doubted. But Jesus, wanting to show them that He was still among them, also sought them to manifest Himself.

22. On a certain occasion the apostles were meeting in a house, Thomas was not among them. While those men were giving themselves over to the memories, the Master penetrated through the walls, into the bedroom, saying to them: "My peace be with you". The amazement of the disciples was indescribable, recognizing the accent of that unique voice for them.

23. The silhouette of Jesus was absent, and the apostles, full of strength and joy, communicated the news to Thomas, but he mocked his brothers, and while denying the testimony, the door of the chamber being closed, Jesus again appeared greeting them like this: "Peace be with you". Thomas, before the wonder, fearful first and repentant later, contemplated the silhouette of Jesus, but doubt tormented him. Then the Master said to him, "Come closer. Thomas, sink your fingers into the wound in my side"; and the unbelieving and material disciple sank them and could contemplate through that wound, the Promised Land. Thomas, then, fell at the feet of his Master and, a prisoner of pain and repentance, confessed: "Lord, Lord, it is You." "Yes, Tomás, you confess that it's Me. Because you've seen. Blessed are those who believe without seeing."

24. People: You are seeing all that now. I am announcing to you at every moment my departure. I am dematerializing you so that later you will not be the unbelievers, the ignorant or confused.

25. On the last day of my stay among you, I don't want to watch you mess up your hair, I don't want your mouths to exclaim Why are you leaving, Master?

26. At the final moment, I want to see you wrapped in a mantle of spirituality, serenity, recollection, full of confidence that I have not departed, that I am closer to you.

27. I have told you that every sinful and non-sinful eye will contemplate me; some will spiritually see the silhouette of Jesus, others will feel my presence in their heart; others will perceive my light in their understanding and others will see wonders in their path. I will manifest myself in prayer and in trials. But it will not be necessary for you to contemplate the human form of Jesus, but to feel me in the spirit and in the heart. And there will be no mourning, there will be no emptiness, no loneliness, there will be no sorrow or sobs.

Love one another!

28. I want you to be unified when you leave, so that you can gather all your spiritual forces and with them you can supply what the Master gave you with his word.

29. When the true unification is made between you, there will be signs in heaven and on earth and the nations will recognize it.

30. This is my chair, this has been my word of love and teaching: A perpetual caress.

31. You must prepare yourselves more and more as the moment approaches when I will stop speaking to you through the human understanding. You are seeking to saturate yourselves with the spiritual force that my word imparts. Materialism is in its fullness; so far it has lived the world without feeling or listening to me. There are very few who live with spirituality, those who contemplate my light and progress on their way; but how many are in darkness. There are those who are waiting for my new coming, in them there is the belief that Christ will become man again.

32. Disciples who have listened to me: the mission you have to carry out is clear before you: to proclaim to people the good news of me who has come at this time and to communicate my revelations and teachings to them. You are the witnesses who know that I have returned among you in the same way in which I was last contemplated in the Second Time; in spirit.

33. But before you come to communicate from spirit to Spirit with your Lord, I wanted to communicate by the understanding of the humble man, but graced by Me, so that this communication would serve as a basis or preparation for your future elevation.

34. Human science with its development, is a proof that the spirit has evolved and although it is another way, in each era it has been leaving the imprint of its advancement. The day will come when the same sciences will collaborate in the progress of the spirit, because everything is destined for that end. I tell you that the true man of science is the one who, out of love for his fellow men, searches the bowels of Creation for its secrets, until he finds the divine light. Whoever works in this way will never be puffed up by his work, he will only consider himself an instrument of the Creator; for the same reason, he will never deny the existence of Divinity.

35. There will also come a time when the religious imprisoned in their cells will come out of them, convinced of the futility of their retreat and of their mysticism; they will fight among humanity, to fulfill the end for which they were created, in a word: they will put an end to the spiritual world, to embark on the path of progress.

36. The seed of spirituality is the seed of the Third Time, which I have been sowing among you. She will give humanity the secret to achieving a better life.

Love one another!

37. See how due to the lack of spirituality, humanity is unknown and divided, she herself has been creating different paths that have separated one from the other. You are witnesses of this misunderstanding.

38. Again I tell you that the war between men is not over; because the war of ideas, of creeds and religions, of philosophies and doctrines will come, each wanting to be the only possessor of the truth, each seeking superiority over others.

39. My sacrifice of the Second Time has not yet been understood by this humanity. When those who want to recognize Christ, have not known how to recognize Themselves in Me, why seek Me by crooked paths, when I only travel along the path of meekness, charity and justice?

40. To reach Me, it is essential to love your brothers.

41. Today you have still needed ministers, judges and teachers, but when your spiritual and moral conditions have risen, you will no longer need those staffs, or those voices, in every man there will be a judge, a guide, a teacher and an altar.

42. I want to contemplate a people without rites, regulations or dogmas, who know how to lead themselves on the right path and who live my Doctrine of love.

43. This freedom I give you at this time, because you will no longer be subject to certain forms. This is not a new path, but a part of the same path that I had traced for you, but that you did not know. Study, penetrate into my words and you will recognize that the truth exists in them.

44. I am love, and as love I give myself to you without imposing any conditions on you. In the moments that you are living, you need this incentive, this love that is found above all human affection.

45. To achieve that elevation that puts you in communication with my Divinity, you no longer need to stimulate your senses, through the harmony of musical notes, or exalt yourself before the contemplation of rites or material objects, because your spirit is only shaken by what is deeply spiritual. Whenever you open your heart to lift your spirit towards Me, you experience that feeling of peace that descends from infinity.

46. How is it possible that there is someone who does nothing for his spiritual progress? How can there be human beings who come to descend lower than inferior or irrational beings? The irrational being does not sin, because he only limits himself to following his own laws. On the other hand, man does sin because he carries in himself a spirit of light, a conscience and a gift of intuition.

47. Among those called to fight in this work, there are also those who for a moment forget the path they have to follow; they forget the spiritual mark with which the Lord has pointed out to them so that on their path, they leave only traces of peace and blessing. How can you descend from the ladder on which I have placed you? This is why I am continually coming down to speak to you, so that my word, like a fine chisel, may polish the roughness of your heart. To make you understand that communion with God, you cannot realize it if you do not move away from the impure. Then, when you manage to overcome your thought to everything superfluous and seek me in infinity, you will feel a strange sensation of glory. Therefore you will recognize that if you seek me in this way, it does not take long for the Father's charity to manifest itself in your spirit.

48. You are certainly not in the material world at that time, even though your body is on Earth. The spirit has risen, moving away from all material contact, to penetrate into a different life and space; that is where the Father's love is felt, where the peace and bliss of his kingdom is sensed.

49. To awaken that longing in the reluctant, I become the foolish pilgrim, until I make them feel the good inside their heart, that feeling that will make them perform works that will bring them closer to Me. When they have come to take that step, they have contemplated the immensity of the field that stretches out before their eyes, inviting them to work and to struggle. How happy they feel in their hearts, understanding everything that they did not look at when they saw and did not listen when they heard, because everything was confusing, and they did not realize that they were called to carry out a noble and delicate mission!

50. I tell you all: When you come to identify yourselves with the Master, you will come to feel the misery of others as your own and to try to do with your brothers, what you saw that I did with you. If for a moment you come to consider yourselves unworthy or clumsy, it will be enough for you to feel charity and seek me, so that I will do what you cannot do. Everything is to begin, even if the task suddenly seems impossible, then the miracle will come and faith will be ignited. Then the hungry, the lepers, the ragged and the lost will begin to arrive at your door. Necessity in all its forms. But you must watch and pray, because temptation and seductions will stalk you, offering you the world in exchange for your spirituality; those who try to confuse you with seemingly great words and ideas will also arrive. Pleasures will tempt your matter by trying to make it weaken your spirit. You will have to face everything, sometimes alone, sometimes in union with your brothers. Your weapons will be the preparation, the faith, the purpose that you carry, the knowledge that you are acquiring from the Master.

51. Thus, if you are the vanquished of life, you will have become strong soldiers. You will have entered prepared, at the time of struggle that you are living. Your spirit will not be cowed, because it will feel that it needs that struggle to purify itself and elevate itself. Verily I say unto you, whosoever can present to me his finished work, it shall be taken as your last work in the matter.

Love one another!

52. Then, while your body is turning to dust, and your spirit, already stripped of its last human garment, has begun its spiritual work, it will contemplate the ladder by which it will ascend, stage by stage, the seven steps, until it reaches the bosom of the Father, who is power, grace and light.

53. Look how having descended to so much imperfection, traveling the paths of the world in different matters knowing the mud and impurity, you were worthy of my charity; but all that long journey was the experience that your spirit gathered, to be able to assimilate the value that my laws contain and the value that the spiritual has; to understand that in the evolution of the spirit there is greatness and perfect satisfaction. That is why I always invite people to this path, because as long as they do not reach it, suffering will continue to touch them and false pleasures will continue to scourge them.

54. What I am teaching you is for the benefit of everyone who embraces my Doctrine, so that his actions may make him the teacher of tomorrow, of the one who shares my strength and my light that will dominate the perversity of the world.

55. Evil in these times has opened up abysses of despair before men.

56. Many works exist among men, apparently great and good, for this reason I say to you: Watch, so that you may be able to combat every imposture, recognizing that in you you carry an incomparable and certain greatness.

57. What greater greatness than the good shared and practiced? What greater greatness can there be than the love that can be lavished on our fellow human beings, whose light and influence can contribute so that they too may penetrate the path of perfection? What greater joy for his spirit, than to be able to overcome the weaknesses of his matter to rise from the level in which he is?

58. From the Second Time I spoke to you about the spiritual life and your spirit understood part of what I was talking about and the end to which he is destined. Now that I contemplate you again surrounding me, I reveal and clarify everything that was confusing to your mind. And I tell you again: whoever wants to follow me, let him take up his cross and follow me, that my cross will not be of death, but of love and self-denial, of sacrifice of superfluous goods for the benefit of the spirit.

59. Disciples: Let my doctrine infiltrate today's childhood. Everyone who has understood my word must prepare his little ones with high ideas and put away all evil from the heart. Sow in them the seed of the good that is spirituality and thus, when this childhood has the sufficient capacity to understand the strength of my Doctrine, it will not hesitate on its way, rather, its step will be firm and no one will be able to deceive it.

60. Like a radiant sun of life, light and heat I have overflowed into everyone, but everyone will reach according to their evolution or preparation.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Teaching 209

1. As the appointed time approaches for this way of delivering my teaching to you to end, you are penetrating more and more into my divine message.
2. You know that while I have been giving you my word, the world has lived without feeling or listening to me.
3. Few are those who have known of my coming, the rest of humanity is waiting for when I return according to my promise, I will do it in matter, that is, I will become a man again.
4. Only you know that you are already in the Third Time, in which I have come to speak to your spirit through those chosen to be spokesmen of my word.
5. If human science gives you signs of its development, recognize that it also reveals spiritual evolution. Man in each Era has been leaving his mark of progress that those who come after assimilate.
6. Science is the light of my wisdom that inspires and reveals its mysteries to men. The scientist who possesses a high spirit, will not seek me through rites, because his gift of science every moment brings him closer to the Father who is Divine science. That man should never be puffed up by his work, because he is the one who, the more he discovers, the smaller he feels. Nor will he be able to deny my existence because at every step he will contemplate in nature the imprint of the Creator.
7. Disciples: I have also placed in you gifts that you must develop, so that you may be the ones who, with a simple word but full of truth, cement this Doctrine in the hearts of your brothers.
8. The seed of spirituality, which I have always sown in the world, is the one that I will once again leave in this time. That seed holds the secret to a better life.
9. If today humanity fights against each other, if it is divided into beliefs, classes and races; if men do not love each other, or understand each other, or have charity, it is because my seed of love does not germinate in their hearts, but in this time when I come as a dew of grace on the fields, keep my seed in the heart of every human creature, it will germinate and bear fruit.
10. Just as in the Second Time I announced to you my coming, so now I announce to you the war of creeds, of ideas and of religions, as the forerunner announcement of the establishment of my kingdom of spirituality among men.
11. My word, like a sword of fire, will destroy the fanaticism that has enveloped men for centuries, will lift the veil of their ignorance and will show the white, luminous path that leads to Me.

Love one another!

12. When humanity, by its regeneration, is sensitive to the spiritual, not only in spirit but even in matter, there will be no need of the rigor of the laws, nor of the justice of the Earth to behave well, because then each man will be able to be his own guide and his own judge.
13. My Doctrine does not establish dogmas, nor rites, it only inspires good. My spiritual doctrine does not subject anyone to certain forms, it is a perpetual invitation to the path of truth.
14. You come under the shade of the stout tree, where you know that there is the One who offers you the bread of Eternal Life. That food that gives you strength to resist the day.
15. The Word has come among you to open a new era.
16. I have always sent you spiritual messages inviting you to elevation, because matter, like a heavy link, chains the spirit to the Earth.
17. In your evolution, you have come to understand that your destiny does not depend on matter but on my will.
18. Man is not always satisfied with my designs and shows me his nonconformity and disobedience. Many times he has called me unjust and tried to penetrate my high judgments. Others, not getting from Me what they request, doubt my power and then, when they have achieved it, attribute it only to their effort. Hence they come to believe themselves gods and kings, forgetting the One who put spirit in man and surrounded him with a wonderful Nature.
19. Could man with all his science create something from what I have formed? No, people.
20. Human science has its limit and God the Creator does not. Science is light, but in the hands of many men it becomes darkness. On the other hand, everything in the universe is talking about Me. All the elements raise a song of life and love. And yet I am telling you through everything created: Here I am, you are looking for my image in imperfect works made by human hands. So yes, before them you bow down and worship them, preventing your spirit from all elevation.
21. I come to give you love, because I do not find a man whose heart is ajar to make his own the suffering of others. Those to whom I entrust riches and powers to serve their fellow men, deny all charity, and even those who claim to represent me on earth, surrounded by their opulence and dressed as kings, close their ear and their heart to the lament of the one who goes after love and charity.
22. Those are not my ways. The path that I have traced is that of good, that is why I tell you once again: My word is my way, because it always speaks to you of virtue, morality and love.

Love one another!

23. I am making your heart sensitive in order to engrave in it my teachings and so that you may truly feel nourished by the bread of eternal life.
24. I love everyone equally, however not everyone will listen to me in this era. As in the First and Second Times, I have chosen a place on earth to gather those who will hear me to it.
25. In every religion, men rise up at the head of them who call themselves my messengers, my chosen ones, my favorites, but I do not contemplate a single righteous one by whom humanity can be redeemed. There are no lips that can speak as I in Jesus spoke to you at that time.
26. In the midst of a whirlwind human beings are agitated and in the midst of their chaos, they suffer and groan at the threat of war.
27. Those peoples could have sustained themselves spiritually, while I was returning, with my word of the Second Time, but that bread has been hidden or has been adulterated. And there you have the men, walking free some, indifferent others, fanatical and ungrateful the most.
28. When will the wealthy rich man know how to distribute his wealth among the poor?
29. When will a man who is regally attired know how to take off his clothes to cover the naked? Humanity is hungry for examples and needs for justice and charity.
30. It is because they have forgotten that I have renounced my Kingdom to dwell with you and to give you all that is in Me. Where are my representatives who really imitate me?
31. I say to you: I have called you to inherit you anew, granting you the power to heal the sick with the balm of my love, which is my own blood.
32. Know yourselves, so that you may understand that even without merit, I have made you worthy of my grace and contemplate those beings who, like a lost sheep, raise their complaint! See men come home empty-handed, hear the voice of pain and desolation.
33. Look at your hand and in it you will find power and comfort to remedy those sorrows. Why do you doubt this grace? Let the lamp of faith burn in your heart, let it become a torch; do not close your heart, because then you will also become greedy rich. See, you have to testify to Me and speak about Me, but if you don't, the stones will testify about Me.
34. I am power and justice, but do not want me to show you these lessons through pain or the unleashed elements. Hope that it is my divine effluvium that envelops you and my love that always blesses you.
35. My Divine Spirit appears to alleviate your sufferings, because you have been very tested on your way. And the Master of humility descends to bring you his lesson and his consolation.

Love one another!

36. sometimes I claim your lack of compliance with my Law, because I gave it to you a long time ago, marking the perfect path for you with it.

37. It is no longer time for you to hide my Doctrine in your heart, learn to look at me and to feel me, so that you will not be confused.

38. I have made you possessors of infinite greatness, but you do not know how to share in your brothers.

39. It has been necessary to repeat a lot the lesson that I have been giving you since 1866, so that it could be engraved in you, and by it you know that I never lead you to delay. I lovingly help you to lead you on the true path. I have spoken to you with the utmost simplicity within your language, to make me understand and so that you can analyze my word.

40. I contemplate that you have stopped halfway and that your elevation is scarce, but turn your face and look at the world that cries, the unbeliever who mocks my word; contemplate also the thirsty for love and light. But you, disciples, cannot say that you are ignorant, or sick, or needy, or weak, for that would be to deny all that I have given you. Then you will have to remember those words that I poured out "Ah, men, of little faith!"

41. There are few hearts that have been able to rise and that listen to my word where she is. And there are many who, instead of bringing their spirit closer to Me, come only to present to me their earthly life with its miseries and needs. This is the reason for your weakness and the lack of unity among the people. When are you going to forget about yourselves to ask me for the world?

42. Mothers cry because their advice is not heard by their children; the desolate city presents to me the emptiness of its life. The wife shows me her heart misunderstood by her partner and you all forget that this is the path that leads to the Promised Land: that of sacrifice. "In the hollow of my hand is the destiny of each one of you."

43. Be content and if you suffer a lot, I am with you.

44. Do not increase your pain, judging in your own way that which only I can judge.

45. Think that I love you, I am not insensitive to your sorrows and that I truly understand you. Look how, being so close to Me, you still commit so many faults, but I forgive you.

46. There are those who, faced with the weight of trials, doubt my presence, turn away from the path and seek the one they left, hoping to find what they think they have lost, but turn their eyes to my Work, when they contemplate empty their hands and their impotent spirit before the great universal pains, the plague and death, which knocks on the doors of the nations and threaten you also, because the omen of a new war moves them.

Love one another!

47. Do not imitate in their unbelief those who ask me for proof to believe in my existence, those who tell me: "Make the war cease in an instant, pour the bread on all the tables and I will believe in You"

48. I tell you once again that there are only three years left for this communication with you to end and you must take advantage of the moments so that you can invite the world, with its sects and religions, to the path of light and spirituality, where everyone will be able to penetrate into communion with me, from spirit to Spirit.

49. This will be when fanaticism and idolatry will be torn from the hearts of the peoples.

50. You will then be like sailors in the midst of a raging sea, trusting in the saving boat.

51. I will still have to appeal to all those who, belonging to the Tribes of Israel, may be scattered, to also fulfill their mission. Then humanity will hear my voice and contemplate the resplendent light of the dawn, illuminating those who dwell on this Earth.

52. Do not familiarize yourselves with my word and when you hear it, do not look through which spokesman I am transmitting it to you. Penetrate into it and seek its essence so that your analysis is perfect.

53. The essence is the taste of the divine.

54. What you are going to hear and contemplate is not the routine ceremony, nor the rite that impresses your senses, because the solemnity of this manifestation is inside your spirit.

55. At this moment you are not within the four walls of this enclosure, before, I have waited for your elevation so that you can achieve communication with my Divinity in the true interior worship. I have allowed you the construction of these enclosures, so that in them you will find recollection, silence and the unification of your thoughts, through which you will attract my Divine Ray. But these four walls are not my temple. These precincts are places destined for your meetings, because the true temple, my sanctuary, is in your heart.

56. You ask me if these enclosures will disappear after 1950 and I answer you: No, you do not know for how long I grant you these places. For as long as there is no knowledge of my Work among the people, elevation and firmness in my Law, you will not be able to do without them. After my departure, on the day dedicated to rest, you will gather, not as a tradition or commemoration, but to remember and analyze my word and that of the Spiritual World; so that you may give each other true testimonies of my wonders on your way; so that you may continue to be united in loving me, paying me pleasant worship and your heart will not grow cold or fall into boredom, fanaticism or materialism.

57. You do not know the time that I will still grant you to these places, because after 1950, new precincts will still be founded, not so that my word will resound through the speaker in them, nor for the Spiritual World to present itself, because those times will have passed, but so that my word and my clean and pure Doctrine, which I have given it to you, will be delivered in them. And in that atmosphere of peace will be my presence, that of Mary, the presence of Elijah and that of the Spiritual World. There the sick will be healed, the blind will open their eyes to the light, the profane will know respect, the sinner will be redeemed and everyone will reach according to their needs, so that crystalline water, good fruit and good seed continue to spread.

58. You do not know if in the present incarnation you will come to know the true Temple of my Divinity, but you have the mission of preparing the way. If you do not reach the goal, at least leave the path prepared for your children or for their children to get to penetrate the Temple of my Divinity and then you will come to understand that not only in these enclosures is my presence; that not only in them you must prostrate your spirit, and you will recognize that the Temple of Divinity is the Universe, your heart the altar, your faith the lamp and the offering. Creation is also a temple: even the dust that your plants tread on. The mountains are altars that rise up to Me. The valleys with their grass and their flowers give me their offering. The king star, all the luminaries and planets, are worlds that pay their tribute of love to me and wherever you step or look, there is my Divine Spirit, as a Father. Then acknowledge that you eternally live within the temple.

59. Everyone has a temple inside and your home is also a sanctuary, because the human family dwells in it, which is similar to the spiritual family. There in the bosom of the home is my best temple.

60. But today I see that the true light is not understood by men who walk far from the path. I contemplate that the only place where they rise to Me is the material Temple.

61. I see the chaos among humanity, the ignorance of human and divine laws. My Doctrine has been hidden in this time and has been taken as something that belongs to the past; that is why men succumb, institutions divide and mock the most sacred. Thus I find humanity becoming unknown, destroying itself, giving itself death; confusing spirit with matter, the divine with the human, and light with darkness.

62. In this time of confusion and evil I have chosen an unknown and despised nation; the Mexican Nation, to make the call to it to the chosen ones who are dwelling in other nations, to gather them around me, polish them with the chisel of my word, deliver them, and already prepared and full of love, send them as emissaries of my Work throughout the World.

63. This is the responsibility that weighs on the multitudes who listen to my divine word.

Love one another!

64. I have been purifying my people and removing their imperfections, but this purification will not only be in your spiritual practices; it will also penetrate into your homes. I have arisen like a whirlwind and its force causes all the bad fruits to fall, leaving only the good fruits between the foliage of the spiritual tree and the human tree, because the time of trial is approaching when humanity will come to search you.

65. My work will be seen as a new sect, men will search you in your inner life, at home, at work, in all your duties, and if you are not prepared to bear witness to Me, if you do not confirm my word with your deeds, you will be like those hypocritical Pharisees who under the impeccable robe hid the rottenness of their heart.

66. The judgment of your Lord will be in the last year of my stay; especially on the day of my departure it will be felt by all and contemplated by every sinful and non-sinful eye. I prepare you all to be the true bearers of my word, of the word that the Holy Spirit gave you at this time.

67. Keep calm and serenity because you have penetrated into the time of the struggle that I announced to you long ago. This fight will be between yourselves; in it you will wield the same weapons. Those who understand me and love me will wield their weapons for my cause; those who have not understood me will put them at the service of their own cause. But in the end, the truth will triumph. It has been a while since I told you: remember a parable of the Second Time. “Let the wheat and the tares grow together and reap until both have borne fruit, so that you can separate the wheat and throw the tares into the fire” I, the Good Husbandman, have let the wheat of my word grow in your heart next to the tares of sin, but the time has come to reap with the sickle of my righteousness so that in the hearts of my husbandmen and in the bosom of their homes only the seed of truth and love remains.

68. You do not analyze my teaching and that is why the tests surprise you as unexpected. This is the reason why you are divided and do not understand each other, because when my word was fulfilled, you were not prepared. I am still preparing you so that you may have serenity and peace and let the whirlwind pluck out all the bad fruits; for everything that does not give life, fruit or shade, will die. Under the force of the gale many trees will fall, many farmers will turn their backs, many guides will want to return the mission entrusted to them but my will is that you correct yourselves.

69. The time will come when all those who have turned their backs, wake up and return contrite saying to me, “Master, how clean is your Work”

70. What is happening today in the bosom of this people is also happening in all the nations of the world. I have made myself present to everyone with my sword of justice and not only in this World: also in the Spiritual World and in every place where an imperfect spirit dwells to illuminate, purify and perfect it. The same one who speaks to you at this moment, spoke to you in the Second Time and of all the crowds that listened to me in Galilee, I chose only twelve and through them I spread my Doctrine throughout the world, through long paths. At that time the word of Jesus seemed to many to be false; nor are there lacking now those who think the same of the Spirit of Truth. But the heavens and the earth will pass away sooner than my word will cease to be fulfilled.

Love one another!

71. Who will be able to persecute you or accuse you of transgressors or slander you if you comply with my Doctrine? But you will only teach what I have taught you: love, inner worship, knowledge of the true temple of my Divinity.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 210

1. I come to deliver you from the torment in which your materialism has sunk you, by giving you the lamp with which you can illuminate the path.
2. You are the men of the Third Time, those who will truly know the reason for your life, and I come to help you obtain that knowledge through my revelations.
3. You are the men of the New Time in which my Kingdom seeks your heart to rise up in it, in which you will make good your spiritual ideal and you will learn that the best prayer is that of your works.
4. Love and truth correspond to the spirit, wisdom belongs to him because he was created to love and know his Father.
5. I, the Master, come to shake you with the memories of your spiritual past, which your heart does not know because they belong to the spirit, when it lived its true existence, when it was another of your abodes and you did not yet dwell in this body that you now have, which is a crucible, anvil and lesson for the spirit.
6. I bring you memories of the spiritual life, hidden behind the veil of your materiality, to tell you that this life awaits you again, so that you can enjoy it to the fullest after your pilgrimage, your experience and your evolution.
7. When you are back in the infinite abode and you feel the joy of inhabiting it, you will not tire of blessing this world of tears where you came to learn to appreciate happiness, peace, light.
8. My new coming, now in Spirit, aims to remind you of the path of the Law that will unite you with the absolute, that will make you penetrate into universal harmony and when you become part of that divine harmony, when you feed already on the bread of my wisdom, you will truly know who you are.
9. What can make you cry in the world when you are above the little things of human life? Neither sufferings, nor needs, nor moral tests, nor the elements, nothing will be able to overcome or bring you down when you have reached true spirituality.
10. Your sufferings will be for others, your worries will be for the salvation of all men, and every time you contemplate the salvation of a being, you will feel the light of the Father illuminating your interior and you will be blessing the day when you took the first firm step on the path.

Love one another!

11. My word is the spiritual path that you must penetrate with all your senses, with all your understanding and all your love, if you want to know where you have come from and where you are walking.
12. No one is known yet. If you don't know your body yet, how do you think you know your spirit? But you will get to know each other as you practice my divine teachings.
13. I teach you with the word, because it contains everything, since it proceeds from Me who am the Word. You learn to speak of the spiritual in such a way that every word you give to others passes from your heart to the heart of your brother as if it were a pearl, a jewel of infinite value.
14. Learn to speak to the spirits, teach them to hear the voice of their conscience, sensitize their feelings with my teachings.
15. Look how all my phrases go along the path that orients, and although for now you look at them superficially, tomorrow, when you can penetrate into a higher plane, you will find only essence in my word.
16. I do not descend, people; when I tell you that I have descended to you, it is in a figurative sense, because my communication is through an inspiration that becomes ideas in the minds of these spokesmen. As I know that at the moment of hearing these messages you cannot understand them, or even retain them in memory, I have ordered you to write down my words, so that what you do not understand now, tomorrow little by little, you will understand.
17. My manifestation of this time is very poor in appearance, because its splendor is spiritual, but you will already feel the greatness with which I have come to you and you will see this Doctrine work the miracle of saving humanity through spirituality.
18. The spiritual temple built with love for the children of the Lord, will be supported by many columns, each of which will be one of those who firmly remain in the way of my Law.
19. Don't you think it's possible? It is that you do not have faith in yourselves yet, but I do have faith in everyone, I have always had it and that is why throughout the ages I have come to entrust you with new and greater revelations. Verily I tell you, the day is not far off when you will give teachings of profound wisdom to your brothers, but not with the word that is studied but with that which springs from the veneration of the spirit when one is in communion with the Divine Master.
20. Why should it not be possible for good feelings to spring from barren hearts? Why should it not be possible that from the heart of the one who has sinned, the water of grace may flow to quench the thirst of those who suffer?

Love one another!

21. You are not only minds that think today and not tomorrow; you are not only flesh that throbs today and soon ceases to exist; for Me, first of all you are eternal spirits, children of God and that is why I draw the path that truly corresponds to you.

22. I do not come to deprive you of anything that I have deposited in this Nature for the conservation, health, sustenance, well-being and enjoyment of my children; on the contrary, I tell you that just as I offer the bread of the spirit and invite you to inhale divine essences and saturate you with spiritual effluvia, do not ignore or move away from what Nature offers you, since in this way you will achieve harmony, health, energy, and therefore, good compliance with the laws of life.

23. You know that I am your guide, people, but tell me, if I am your guide, do you already feel me in your heart, do you already obey me, do you already keep my commandments and my laws? If I am your guide, to what extent do you obey me?

24. The voice of conscience is the one who answers from within, telling me that still your surrender is not absolute, that your obedience is not constant.

25. Do not forget for a moment that in my word I tell you that whoever obeys my laws knows my peace. That is why those who know my word do not feel lonely or sad, because for them the words “misfortune”, “condemnation” and “death” do not lie in wait for them as a threat or as a shadow on the peace of their spirit; they are concerned about knowing the truth, living in the light, conquering health, peace and wisdom forever.

26. Those who come to Me on the path of my teaching know that they cannot get lost because a divine light leads them, it is that light that gives them the certainty of the end and the true object of life.

27. My way is the path of good, disciples. Come for him, step by step, sowing him with good works, good thoughts, and good words; but never keep an account of your good deeds, but I do advise you to take a careful account of your bad deeds, words, and thoughts, so that you may stop committing mistakes.

28. Leave the good seed gathered to me, and you take the vain seed; search it so that you may know the cause of your weakness, take care that it does not mix with the good grains, and then exterminate it.

29. Only goodness can give peace, joy, health, knowledge; therefore, whoever is abundant in love, will have to be great in spirit.

30. This is what I came to teach you when I dwelt in the world with you, and this I come now to remind you of. If through Jesus, touching with my hand I healed the sick, also at this time I come to touch them to restore them to health and make them enter again into the miracle of life.

Love one another!

31. Today I have no hands to touch your sick body, because I come in the Spirit, but the spirit can also touch you with his love and make you feel his presence.

32. The blind men of that time, blind of the spirit, shed the blood of the Master and nailed the hands that healed by touching, caressing, and blessing; but they could not destroy my Spirit, or imprison it, or nail it; He rose above the littleness of men, promising to return, since at that moment his word was not recognized, nor understood as the Supreme Truth.

33. Here you have me fulfilling my promise and waiting for humanity to recognize me.

34. But if I were to ask you, What became of that blessed body in which Christ dwelt? Would you know how to answer me? I must be the one who tells you that that body that was an instrument of Divine Love, once his journey was over, once his lips were closed forever and his eyes too, he came down to earth to finish fulfilling his mission as a man, but as soon as the earth wrapped him in its bosom, that body, whose cells only vibrated to love, were scattered in infinity to later fall like a rain of life on the very beings who had rejected the life that the Redeemer brought them. When you think that God Himself became man in order to dwell with you, you come to feel the vanity of being so loved by the Father and then you also think that you are the Lord's masterpiece. But verily I tell you, there is no work of the Father that is not masterful, and, moreover, you must know that there are spirits whose perfection, beauty and elevation you cannot even imagine.

35. Beyond you, there are works greater than those that you know here, and also the works of your brothers, superior to the works of men.

36. Why believe that man is the greatest thing that exists today within the works of the Lord? You are just little creatures who are going a long way in pursuit of true greatness.

37. You are great and perfect in that you are my work, but as for your works, you are still very small and imperfect, that is why I come to manifest myself as a Teacher before you, to teach you new revelations that will take you to the summit of good, of knowledge, of love and harmoniously unite you with everything perfect.

38. How is there going to be perfection in your world if there is pain, if there are needy, vicious, crippled, oppressed, if there are proud and selfish and also fratricidal?

39. Happiness is the patrimony of the high abodes and in your world I do not yet contemplate happiness.

Love one another!

40. Today I come to leave you in this word my new message so that you may arise to a new life.
41. Build your peace, build your world of happiness, using the virtue of my teachings for this.
42. You have certainly struggled a lot to procure comforts, pleasures and advances, but your ideals often contain selfishness, evil, excessive ambition; so instead of achieving happiness or peace, you collect pain, war and destruction, which is what you are collecting in these moments that you live.
43. How will your works on earth be perfect, when I see you at enmity with the elements of Nature that are the very ones from which you take life?
44. My Doctrine does not come to forbid you to use the elements and forces of Nature, but it comes to command and teach you to use them for good purposes.
45. The elements of Nature in your hands, may become, from friends and brothers, judges who punish you severely.
46. It was time for men to gather the fruit of experience so that they would no longer provoke the forces of the elements, because with all their science they will not be able to contain them.
47. O humanity, always far from Me! Despite your forgetfulness, my memory does not separate from you, world watered with my blood: I bring you my love again.
48. Do you remember my examples from the Second Half? Listen:
49. When I was on the outskirts of a village, an emissary of a powerful man came to Me and said to me, "Lord, how long have I had to walk to get to you!" I said to him, "Blessed are he who seeks me, for he will always find me."
50. "In front of whom are you?" I asked him. - "Before the One who heals with his power all ills. Are you not the Son of God? I said to him then, "I am the beginning and the end, I am the resurrection and the life, I am the One who came down from heaven into the world to save you. Do you see these men who follow me through counties, provinces and villages? So, you, will follow me tomorrow, leaving your royal cloak and confusing yourselves between the humble and the poor. Truly I tell you, you have come to call me in the name of your master, who desires me to cleanse him from his leprosy. Isn't that right?" The man was surprised and was overcome with fear, but I said to him, "Do not be afraid, for I have only told the truth, because that is why I came into the world."
51. Then that servant said to me, "Lord, since you know this, come to the house of my lord, who is calling you."

Love one another!

52. "O man," I said, "tell your lord that it is enough for me that he has believed in Me, that when you arrive, he will be clean!"

53. That man walked away and soon his eyes testified full of joy to the word of Jesus. At that Matthew came to Me and said: Teacher, a woman is coming to look for you. "I already know," I replied, "it is Mary, the Magdalene, who is coming to find me so that I may free her from the influences of the spirits that possess her." The disciple was surprised that I knew everything.

54. I was walking along a road towards a village, when I saw Maria coming towards Me. Oh, Beloved Son, I know that your lips have announced your upcoming departure, and although my heart already knew it, I cannot but tell you that I suffer infinitely for humanity! "Yes, it is written," I replied, "and so it must be fulfilled; my sacrifice is necessary, the seed must die in the bowels of the earth so that it may bear fruit and multiply. This blood of your son, which when spilled will make your heart feel very intense pain, will be like a flood of life for men, whom I will leave as your children. My death will be life and not for an instant will you and I be distant."

55. "Now I am going to the house of Lazarus, for he will shortly go to the grave, but I will bring him back from it, so that my Father's name may be glorified":

56. "You also go, so that your presence may comfort those women, because their pain will soon be great and in your love they will find very sweet consolation.

57. I rejoined my disciples again, it was already the last days of my sojourn among them. This is how they were made to understand so that they would not be surprised. Peter wept and received my orders in silence; John pressed my hands between his, when it was announced to him that he would be accompanied by my Mother so that both of them could be comforted in the hours of trial.

58. Thaddeus was already suffering from the separation of the Master and I was still among them. The moment was tender and painful, more than the lips, the spirits spoke. But I was the Word and my word had to calm the immense pain accumulated in those hearts.

59. I spoke as the Father to the children, as the brother to the brothers, as the teacher to the infants: "O disciples, who have drunk with me the water of the thirsty pilgrim, who have endured the fatigue of the long roads to follow my word and my works, truly I tell you that even if I depart from your sight, I will not abandon you and that if you want to take me in your heart you resign yourselves to my death, so that I may live in you and speak through your mouths".

60. Listen, my disciples, to the last of my words; then a regally attired woman came to my presence, it was Magdalene, who had been looking for me for a long time to find in my eyes the light that could save her. In a dream I had seen the Nazarene freeing her from her unclean burden and she was coming to Me, driven by her spirit eager for light and redemption.

Love one another!

61. She fell at my feet, to the amazement of everyone present, and when they expected me to turn away from her or at least have a reproachful phrase, I said to her: "Why are you crying? You weep for sorrow and for joy, but I forgive you very much, since you have sinned very much."

62. At that moment, all the chains that bound the world fell from that creature, and once free, he followed in my footsteps as the most faithful of my disciples.

63. That woman, who had been the shame and stain of her home and the abyss on the path of men, was transformed before a word of forgiveness into the most humble servant of the Master and later into the sweet staff of Mary, when the hour of pain covered everyone.

64. I, who listen to the voice of the spirits, heard that woman ask me: Lord, is it possible that I, with all my sin, am worthy to be with you in that last hour that you announce? Will it be possible for me to truly serve you? "Oh, woman! - I said to her - Get up, you are already clean, cover yourselves with the mantle of humility and return to the bosom of yours, go in search of my Mother and follow her!"

65. Then, seeing in all the faces the surprise portrayed, I said: "I am the light of the world, who has come to illuminate the way of the lost among darkness; I am the liberator who comes to break the chains of the captives. You have contemplated what you were missing to see and you have seen it, the more the moment approaches when you all feel my life vibrate in your being."

66. I left that room followed by my disciples, but stopping under the shade of a tree, I said to them, "The moment is already approaching, but you can still taste the fruit of my word. Surely you will remain like sheep among wolves, but you will not perish, for my mantle will cover you. Behold how great the multitudes are; you will feed them as I did in the wilderness, and you will know how to multiply bread as I taught you."

67. This is how I spoke to you through Jesus and caressed each of my disciples while their eyes overflowed with tears and in their hearts they expressed feelings full of tenderness to me and made countless promises to follow me.

68. Today I do not want to remind you of the last three days that I spent in the world, this will be on another occasion, blessed people, in which I will tell you about the Upper Room, about my last visit to the Garden, where I retired to pray and finally I will tell you about my sacrifice.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Teaching 211

1. I transform my wisdom and my love into human words to make them reach your heart.
2. I come to you, people, so that you may live for a few moments under the spiritual effluvium of my word, so that you may live for a few moments in the Kingdom of spiritual life.
3. Take and eat the bread of my word, which is strength and life, so that you will not fail in trials.
4. Some of my new disciples will have their Golgotha where they will consummate their mission on Earth, but that summit will only be reached by those who are all spirit, elevation and love.
5. For now, rest and listen to my word, take comfort, that tomorrow you will take up your cross, but do not be afraid, people, that whoever takes up that cross will do so because his heart will overflow with love for humanity.
6. Who will protest at having to fulfill this mission when his whole being is possessed of immense charity and great tenderness?
7. Everyone who is a strong spirit in this age of spirituality will know how to take up the cross with love and carry it with meekness.
8. That cross belongs to the great by the spirit, to those who come to feel saturated by the fire of true love.
9. A fire is now consuming this humanity, but it is not mine, the fire with which brothers with brothers are being destroyed, comes from the fire of their violence, passions, hatreds, their excessive greed, revenge and materialism.
10. That fire in which humanity is consumed is not the one that is born of the Holy Spirit, but of that hell that men have created with their sins.
11. My divine fire is life that gives off light for all beings, not destruction or death.
12. My fire is the light that purifies and ennobles, that illuminates and strengthens, but never the fire that torments without end or that exterminates the life of the spirit, he is life, not death.
13. If I have called you at this time to listen to me, think that it has been to offer you one more opportunity for you to emerge into the light, in a spiritual age conducive to the flowering of the seed that I have brought into the world.
14. I am depositing within your spirit my wisdom and my love, this torrent of spirituality that is life, health, joy and peace.

Love one another!

15. Pour out on humanity the word of truth, not only the one that I will leave written for you, but the one that springs from the spirit.
16. I want you to arise in this time and while some are like stars that guide walkers along the different paths of the world, others are beacons that send their light over the stormy seas of unleashed human passions, illuminating the route of the castaway. I want you to know how to carry my teaching on your lips, so that the word of God, which is the bread of eternal life, may be spread throughout the whole earth.
17. Understand that I have come to renew this world, to purify it, to change everything.
18. In these moments of remembrance, I make the whole space full of my light; that everyone who is standing stops for a moment before the memory of the Master and meditates; that everyone who is dying in this hour contemplates me with the gaze of his spirit, so that he is not afraid to pass beyond this world.
19. I am the sower of love, you are my lands, who can doubt my power to make you fruitful in love?
20. You cannot know the amount of seed that I am bringing you; if you cannot take it all, I will continue to keep it for those who come, and if those also could not take advantage of it, it will remain for future generations, until there is no land to cultivate or seed to sow.
21. Understand my message so that you can develop it on your way; open your eyes so that you realize the works that I am doing every day.
22. Do you see those men who want to be powerful by force? Very soon you will look at them convinced of their mistake.
23. I am going to show you that only by kindness, which is the emanation of love, can one truly be great and powerful.
24. But as long as some and others ignore what love is, I will have to continue teaching the world.
25. The Word pours out His light on you, to teach you to spread it in those who come after you and I will be watching over everyone.
26. I am the Eternal Sower, even before I came to Earth and was called Jesus by men, I was already the Sower, those who were beyond materiality, confusion or ignorance already knew me, those who inhabited spiritual regions and abodes that you do not yet know or can imagine.

Love one another!

27. Of those who knew me before I came to earth, I sent many of you to testify about Me in the world, to announce the arrival of Christ, the love and the Word of the Father. Some were prophets, others forerunners, others apostles.

28. This world is not the only one that knows the trace of my passage; wherever a Redeemer has been needed, my presence has been there, but I must tell you that while in other dwellings my cross and my chalice were taken away from me by the regeneration and love of your brothers, here, in this world, after many centuries, you still have me crowned with thorns, tormented on the cross of your imperfections and always drinking the chalice of gall and vinegar.

29. As my Work of Love contains redemption for all humanity, I await you with infinite patience; and I have granted not one, but many opportunities to each being for his elevation and waiting for many ages for the awakening of all those who sleep in deep lethargy.

30. Now you are in a time, in which you can rise full of light and full of life; I have come to untie one more seal of the book of life and wisdom, so that you may know one more chapter of this Work.

31. I come to give you with just measure as far as you can receive and only what you can understand and keep.

32. Men in their evolution will grow, and as their spiritual development and their elevation, in greater abundance I will give them my wisdom.

33. I want your spirit to be like a chalice capable of containing the greatness reserved by the Father for your spirit; understand that only the great is poured out in the great and that the small will not be able to satisfy the great.

34. Your Father's will is that you be useful within the plan of Creation, that you be harmonious notes in the midst of the concert of peace.

35. I know that the one who feels the inner illumination of love, will voluntarily take up the cross, and will go step by step in search of his Calvary knowing that this means elevation and approximation to the Father; if necessary you will allow yourselves to be crucified, because you know that in that renunciation, in that surrender you will rise like the Master, gloriously from the dead to ascend to the Kingdom of the Spirit, where life exists in fullness and perfection.

36. Humanity: Here you have me, I have come to save you from misery; that gentle hand that has touched the hard-hearted, has been mine; that sweet doctor who has penetrated your heart to heal you, it has been Me.

Love one another!

37. Sick and sad humanity, I was with you and you did not know who was visiting you; you did not know how to look into my eyes the light of Heaven. O humanity, who did not understand the content and meaning of every drop of my blood shed for you! You are not happy, because you have not wanted to irrigate your lands with the water of grace that I came to give you.

38. Come here to listen to the concert whose notes speak of perfect love and endless harmony for your spirit.

39. Let the divine light penetrate your heart, as it shone that night of my last prayer in the Garden of Gethsemane.

40. Do you remember when I gave myself up to the mob, which was looking for me to judge me?

41. Very great was the lesson that the Master was giving to everyone at that moment, but no one understood it.

42. That surrender was an offering of respect, of humility, of love; it was a living example for humanity, because everyone who surrenders to men out of love, will become worthy to surrender himself later to God.

43. Beloved people: My life was an open book so that in it you might learn to love, but you have not been able to read in it.

44. I have pity on your littleness that manifests the little strength that is in you; but I am strong and great to supply your weakness and littleness and loving to suppress your absence of love.

45. I approach you and teach you to be clean, to purify yourselves in resigned and elevated pain, which is sincere and true repentance.

46. Purification is necessary for the perfection of the spirit. About purification and perfection, do not be confused, because a perfect spirit is greater than a spirit only clean.

47. Soon you will be able to be clean, but in order to achieve perfection, you do not know how long and how many trials your spirit will have to go through.

48. It is necessary that you already know a lot about the spiritual life so that you will not be troubled when passing from this existence to the next. How many men, because they have wealth, comforts and satisfactions on Earth, consider themselves happy and cannot conceive that pain will someday come to them, least of all in the spirit; when they leave the flesh on Earth and with it everything they possessed, they then become the most unhappy beings, wanderers without peace, without joy and without the light of knowledge. They are like shadows that wander restlessly; they do not weep as one weeps in the world, but their sufferings, although no longer physical, are infinitely more intense than those experienced in the body, since the spirit has been left alone with the judge of his conscience.

49. In those regions where they managed to go with the little strength of their spirit, they have become needy, they have known what misery, loneliness, forgetfulness, need are. In their sad existence they retain only a slight glimmer of hope that the moment will come when the light will appear and rest will come.

50. Prefer to be poor on Earth, knowing that you are achieving something for the benefit of your spirit; prefer to be needy, needy, sick, small, but not in the abode where the true life is, because the pain in the spiritual world is incomparably greater than that of the material life.

51. Blessed is he who, recognizing the teachings of my Doctrine, passes from pride to humility, for he will possess the Kingdom of Peace.

52. You are not needy even if you wear humble material garments, understand it so that you may become great beyond your world. What do you worry about the miseries of that valley of tears? It is a thousand times sadder not to have peace, not to be strong, not to be great in spirit. Great spirits overcome everything, achieve serenity in the face of trials and live the true life that is full of light and peace.

53. You do not come to know the truth because you do not want to be disposed to it: only the simple and the humble of heart can know it.

54. Those who do not contemplate the light of truth, at every step tell me that my word was sterile, because they continue to feed perversity; they tell me that the way to Calvary and the sacrifice on the cross were useless, the wonders I performed, my teaching of love, my piety, my last words and the last sigh, which was an invocation of forgiveness for my persecutors and executioners.

55. What do those who do not know the truth know about all this? He who rises above the abyss and prays for his executioners and blesses his slanderers, he shines with his spirit more than the light of the sun.

56. For those who think that all that life, passion and works were useless, I tell you that there will not be one who does not receive that light in due time and be saved by it.

57. But not everyone thinks like these; there are those who, even being in the shadows of a prison paying the guilt of a crime, have moments when they put their thoughts on Me and in a babbling prayer they tell me: "Lord, if that sinner who came to your presence in repentance found salvation in You, why should I not hope that at the last moment like Dimas, you will give me your hand and take me away from darkness to bring me to the light?"

Love one another!

58. How many who have not yet managed to cast out the prince of darkness that they carry in their flesh, have moments of faith, enlightenment, repentance and hope in the Savior! How many, rejecting from their hearts the idea of a new and greater punishment in the hereafter, prefer to think and believe that Jesus is waiting for them to deliver them from their torture and anguish!

59. Those are the ones you call the scum of your society and see how there are moments when they sense the truth, and you who enjoy freedom of acceptance, of trust in the world, and who often think you know everything, because you judge and comment on everything, you do not have a moment of enlightenment that makes you look the truth face to face, on the contrary, you wrap yourself in doubts and shadows.

60. The seed that with my word, my passion and my blood I sowed in the spirits, does not always bloom in the fullness of the life of a man, of a people or of a world; many times it blooms until the moment when man goes to meet death and senses the life that awaits him, when he who was proud and proud in his strength, suddenly falls dejected and defeated on the bed of pain; there he meditates, purifies himself and ennobles thinking of Me, judging himself through my examples, then he weeps and is transformed, because the truth has come to him in an instant.

61. Even the proud peoples, when they have found themselves in the splendor of their material power and their men have been feverishly given over to their passions, have falsely and hypocritically been fulfilling towards God through religions, because all their attention and their love are under the dominion of their ambitions; but when defeat and destruction have come, when they have seen their dreams of greatness crumble and reality has come to awaken them, then they have turned their eyes to Me to say: "Lord, you are right, only for men of good will can peace be and certainly your Kingdom and ours are not of this world."

62. Do you see how my seed is not lost? To you who doubt this, I say that you seek with meditation that seed, without waiting for pain to put you in front of the truth.

63. This world is full of my word, it is a lie that my footprint has been erased, wherever you go, you will find my signs and echoes of my voice that resonate eternally in consciences.

64. I am present everywhere and I speak to you incessantly, because I have not yet finished giving you my message.

65. My people: Why do you still sometimes want to put your Master to the test again?

66. Yes, I know that there are also those who do not understand why Christ, if he was the son of God, gave himself up to his persecutors and could not escape death. If I had not wanted the sacrifice, it would have been very easy for me to disappear so as not to give myself up to those who were looking for me, and their eyes, amazed at a miraculous and incomprehensible disappearance, would have made them exclaim: Truly I was the Son of God! But that was not the lesson I was coming to give, because she would not have taught love. Moreover, I came to tell you that whoever does his will and it is not the Father's will, is not united to Him.

67. You must be interested in understanding all these explanations, because if you do not understand what is of this time, how can you intuit or sense what is to come? I want to anticipate some revelations to serve you as preparation, promise and prophecy.

68. I, the Master, tell you that when man is great and elevated by the fulfillment of the Law and lives truly united and in harmony with the spirit, the two lives that now divide his existence will cease to exist for him and that are the human on earth and the spiritual in the universal and infinite world of the spirit.

69. Then he will contemplate only one existence, because in his being there will be only one will; there will no longer be a struggle between the flesh and consciousness and he will feel fused to the universal life. He will dwell in the spiritual or on Earth and wherever he is, he will feel himself in his Father's house; everywhere he will enjoy the presence of the Lord and everywhere he will be consciously and obediently fulfilling his mission. The death of matter will then cease to mean what it now means. Those will be the ones who, overcoming death, will penetrate into eternal life.

70. After I have told you that it was my will to hand me over that night to my persecutors, you ask me, Lord, was Judas not guilty then? And I say to you, do not judge him, because in order to judge him as I do, you would need to have mercy in your heart. He was as small and human as you and in his weakness he let men penetrate into his being to betray his Master.

71. Do you think that that disciple had already come destined by God to betray his Master? No, it was no longer necessary for anyone to hand me over, the hour had come, the pursuers were stalking my step, the scaffold was waiting for me.

72. That man, like all the others who followed me, had also been chosen to sow the seed of love, faltered at the decisive moment when he turned his back on the one who had loved him so much, to side with those who wanted the Master's life; only because he proved that Jesus was not King of the Earth, but of an unknown world and the disciple's heart still dreamed of the wealth of this world.

73. How great was the repentance of Judas when he heard in his conscience one by one the phrases he had learned from Jesus, how great was his pain when thinking about what he had been called to do and what his work was!

Love one another!

74. I tell you all this so that if any of you betray me at this time, I don't want to apologize saying that maybe that's what I was destined for.

75. No one has been destined to betray; you have all been called to redeem yourselves with my love.

76. I was the one who was destined to die on a cross and then flourish in a tomb and show you the triumph of life over death.

77. Now I say to my new disciples: when it comes to fulfilling my Work, do not love money, because it is the false currency of the spirit, its value is negative and represents false values for eternal life. Money can divert you from the path of true charity, from the humility that every apostle of mine must carry.

78. I must tell you that I knew beforehand what Judas was going to do, and I gave you proof of this when I said that one of the twelve was to betray me. Each one of those disciples gave what he had to give, each one of them was like a note in the concert that I gave to the world.

79. If one gave the note of purity and elevation, another gave it of faith and strength, another of eloquence and persuasion, another of humility and meekness, so each one gave what he brought, what he had taken from the Master and what he felt. There was a weak one and his weakness also served as a lesson to humanity not to imitate him, but not to be his judge.

80. Disciples: Lift up your thoughts tonight, so that you may be at Dinner with me. Come to feed yourselves with my light, come to drink the wine of my word, in it you will find the book open for reading and at the same time you will find yourselves in spirit.

81. Approach the table where you will feel divine love vibrate, where anguish also pulsates, where the sweetness of hope mixes with the bitterness of farewell and with the kiss of betrayal.

82. This is where you can best hear the voice of conscience, which will tell you if you have also betrayed, if you have lied, if you have kissed without love.

83. Before you sit down at the table, wash yourselves in the limpid waters of prayer; wash your mind and heart, so that you may let the spirit attend this spiritual Dinner.

84. Are you ready yet? Sit around me and listen in the deepest silence and recollection of your heart.

85. Is everything ready, are you here for the party, ready and dressed up? I have wanted that in these moments your spirit is no less clear than the tablecloths of this spiritual table.

86. Leave out the whirlwind of material life, human trifles and miseries. Come incarnate spirits and also those who dwell in spirit. Humanity, come and learn to talk to me so that you will stop being slaves on Earth, because the one who speaks spirit to Spirit with the Master, that one has conquered full freedom over the flesh, the world, the darkness of ignorance, over all yoke.

Love one another!

87. Eat the bread of my word deeply so that you may know what was the struggle of Jesus in those hours of agony and how he overcame death.

88. Now I tell you: Pray in the Garden of silence and spirituality so that you let your whole being be saturated with strength and be able to resist the weight of the cross to the highest point of the mountain.

89. Pray that you may see illuminated your inner scale: that of spiritual perfection.

90. Be calm so that you will continue without fainting on the path of your mission and you will not be afraid to see your garments torn, nor the men who persecute you looking for guilt or errors in you to accuse you.

91. Forget your sorrows and even your material joys and attract those of the spirit.

92. There are few who know how to pray to rejoice, but there are more who pray to cry, to these I say: make a song with all the sorrows of the earth, but raise it with such faith and hope in Me that you may suddenly be surprised to hear yourself singing a deep and vibrant hymn of love and peace.

93. I speak to you of spiritual joy, and yet you cannot take away from your heart the hours that are approaching and that will continue to be of remembrance.

94. Yes, people: sad will you look at the sun on the new day when it is three o'clock in the afternoon, and sad will be everyone who gathers in himself and remembers me.

95. The sun will hide among the ridges as that day he hid behind the darkness so as not to contemplate the ingratitude of the people.

96. In front of each of the human imperfections, Christ the Teacher came to give His lesson.

97. Were they making fun? The Teacher took the mockery to give a teaching. Were they interrogating him with malice? He answered with love and wisdom, because that's what he had come for. Was he betrayed? He, in the face of that betrayal, gave his lesson of forgiveness. Did they ask for your life? He accepted and gave his life. It was necessary to accept everything in order to be able to save and convince.

98. Now tell me, beloved disciples, When you are betrayed by your brothers, will you not reveal yourselves, or protest? Know that to win a heart sometimes it is necessary to let oneself be betrayed; it is not violence that wins the battles of the spirit, it is true love.

Love one another!

99. My disciples: the book has been left open for this time, let Jesus walk in your thoughts in these moments, so that in your meditations and evocations you may bring to your mind all the moments of my passion that you know well; whoever in a high and spiritual way remembers me, will receive the light that in inspiration will make him discover the meaning of many ignored lessons.

100. Let me walk with my cross on my back through the streets of your thoughts; let Jesus, forgetting his sorrows, walk thinking of his children and forgiving their offenses. Let me stretch out on my cross and from there cry out for forgiveness for those who have not known me. Let me be in you until you see the triumph of love, of life and of justice.

101. Crowds: How do you want to be with me, as friends or disciples? Or are you forming my cross: are you going to do as the nails that my hands and my feet pierced? Do you want to be the thorns in my crown or the spear that opened my side?

102. You weep, people, and between sobs of pain, you tell me that you want to be with me as John was: at the feet of the Master on the cross; and I tell you that this is how I want you to be with me as that disciple in whom you were all represented when I left you under the mantle of Mary's love, as her children.

103. My love I leave you and my blessing.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 212

1. Blessed is the one who comes to Me, the one who seeks the Master, the one who seeks forgiveness, the one who takes up the cross, because in Me he will find the light to guide him and the forgiveness of his sins.
2. The Master receives you with love on this day of commemoration. The imprint of his passion that he left on humanity, is renewed on this day.
3. If the blood of that body evaporated, its essence remained in the spirit of all men. She is indelible in your consciousness, because you remember me when you feel at times the weight of the cross or the heavy slope of Calvary.
4. Since Jesus traced the way with the blood of love, every man who aspires to salvation or to the perfecting of the spirit, seeks the footprints that I left on earth, to follow them. That is the path that I am tracing for you at this time and by which you will reach the spiritual life, where there is no darkness or pain.
5. The Christian world adopted the cross as a symbol, because on that tree Jesus shed his blood and expired as a man, consummating in it his work of redemption. Since then, the cross has remained a symbol of love and divine forgiveness. She has been the banner of struggles of ideas among humanity; and now that an Era has passed since that sacrifice, I present myself again in the world, no longer as a man but in Spirit and in truth I tell you that this cross is no longer necessary for Me. I will no longer carry her on my shoulders, you will no longer see the Rabbi bloodied and crowned with thorns, with his flagellated body, wetting the stones of the road with his blood. You will no longer contemplate their eyes downcast by suffering, inspiring pity to some and terror to others. You will not see him reach the top of the mountain, to be nailed to his cross among the evildoers.
6. The cross, which was an affront and shame to the one who died on it, became the symbol of sacrifice for love. This was not even imagined by those who persecuted me and chose the most ignominious death for Me, to satisfy their cruelty, because the mobs needed to accuse and condemn the one who had done nothing against them, to whom kindness, comfort and forgiveness were for everyone. The man was in an abyss from which he did not conceive the good, the love that I came to show him with my sacrifice.
7. At this time I have not come as a man, and the cross will not be on Me, now it is I who places on your heart, a cross of love so that you follow in my footsteps.
8. You have already felt the grave weight of that cross, you have already felt your flesh scourged, when the pain has reached the spirit; you have also already felt, what it is to fall on the way. The sorrows of your life have been blows of the whip, and the mockery, when by your way of seeking me you have been judged lacking in reason, like Jesus himself, have been like the spear that opened the side of the Redeemer.

Love one another!

9. Here is your life as a calvary, disciples. Anyone who wants to imitate Me, follow Me and reach out to Me, will have to live with passion and drink the chalice of gall and vinegar.

10. You have rightly called this land the Valley of Tears, you have come to it to know good and evil, because no one was born perfect in knowledge and merits. So, I have granted you the free will to choose the path, so that your spirit may be the one who by his effort reaches higher heights.

11. But whoever chooses the wrong way, it is necessary that he knows the pain in it, so that when he feels that he is moving away from grace and light, he will be washed and strengthened in repentance and thus learn to overcome temptations.

12. How meritorious before God is the effort of the one who fights against the temptations that become more insistent, as he seeks more his regeneration.

13. My sacrifice was not useless, people, because both those who love and those who deny me will have to follow in my footsteps. That work will prevail in the book of times and will bear fruit always.

14. You cannot know why the weight of your cross, or whether the responsibilities and sufferings, are lighter in some than in others. Everyone on this earth is unaware of your past, no one knows the moment when his spirit received the light. Before this, take with resignation the cross that whoever follows me in this way will survive the same death.

15. My voice on this day is of law and justice, it is the same voice that you heard in Sinai. Today, as on that day, I behold the unbelief of many. Then I gave you my Law engraved in stone for the first and second time, because the first was broken by Moses exasperated at your idolatry and your frailty; but now that I have come to write it on your conscience; what are you going to make of it? Are you going to make Elijah, the messenger of this time, demand from you the fulfillment of my Law?

16. In the depths of your heart you say to me: Lord, it has been a long time since our ingratitude caused the tablets of your Law to be broken by the wrath of Moses; how would we be able at this time to ignore your Law again? And the Father says to you: it is necessary that you be vigilant, because in the Second Time Jesus came to bring you the Law of love and you made him shed every last drop of his blood and you did not recognize him.

Love one another!

17. I ask you, people, and you, humanity: Where is the Law that I gave you at Sinai? Where is the bread of eternal life that Jesus later gave you? You hear my questions with your heads down, because you recognize that you are out of the way.

18. At the first time you were a people made up of twelve tribes, but Israel, putting aside all fear of my righteousness, divided itself into several peoples. Today you are on Earth again, but how could you be divided into peoples or tribes, when a single family is made up of children of different tribes and marriages have also been formed by elements of the twelve tribes? Who conceived this plan? I am the one who has brought you out and gathered you together. That is why there are those who shudder when they hear this voice without knowing why, it is that they are the ones who listened to me in the past times.

19. Here you have the Third Era approaching its culmination, in it you are receiving the manna of the desert, the blood of Jesus and the light of the Holy Spirit. When your purification is necessary, you have Mary, your Universal Mother, who washes you with her tears of love and covers you with her mantle of piety.

20. Again the Father says to his people: Unite yourselves, for I am contemplating that while some make the purpose of fulfilling my commands, others are opposing it. Do not be divided, because by doing so you will open the door to temptation. My word is for everyone, no matter that there are among the crowds those who do not bow their necks to my voice, dominated by the doubt that it causes them to see me communicated through a rude, clumsy and humble understanding.

21. How many of those who have persecuted and mocked me in the past times, today have come to live full of peace, which I have given them as a proof of my all-forgiving love, but when they heard that I have come again, their spirit has been overwhelmed by fear and they have cautiously come to check if it is true about my communication; then when they heard me they have shuddered, because they have felt called by my voice!

22. This is the people that I chose to bring light and peace to the nations, which had spread and hidden among humanity; but my insightful and penetrating gaze knew where each of my servants was to make the call and point out their mission and for whose fulfillment I am still waiting for you.

23. The world saw with indifference the passage of Mary on Earth, but truly I tell you, today you will know her Mother's voice, her sweet voice that is lullaby, consolation, hope and balm. Some recognize her, others deny her, however, She, tender and loving, extends her divine mantle over the Universe, and under it she gives warmth and protection to all her creatures. She also saves and redeems, she is the Heavenly ark that contains her mysteries to be revealed.

Love one another!

If as for a woman, her womb was the ark where the body of Jesus was deposited, how much will she not keep her spirit for all her children!

24. How deep has been the pain that the world has nailed to the heart of her Mother and with how much tenderness she hides her tears, to show you only the sweetness of her smile and the loveliness of her caresses! Always between my inexorable justice and the sins of men, the intercession and tenderness of Mary, your Heavenly Mother, rises up.

25. From the cloud I am speaking to you and inviting you to come to Me.

26. I still contemplate you studying the first page of the book and the time of my teaching is already short.

27. I want that when you come to Me, you will be able to say to me, "Behold, Lord, the fruit of my harvest: the regeneration of some of my brothers through my example." For if you do not fulfill your mission, you will not be able to enter my Kingdom.

28. In three times I have come to offer you spiritual salvation and you have remained deaf to my Voice. This is the last call that I make to you; that is why I ask you to listen to me; to put on humility, to descend from your greatness and cast out all hatred from your heart.

29. My word is not florid, it is simple so that you all understand it and do not give it various interpretations.

30. There can be no ignorant among my people, for I have flooded you with wisdom.

31. In all trees I behold good fruits and other vain ones, but of the latter I do not want you to introduce me. You are the right ones to choose the pleasant fruits that you will show me. You are already aware of all your obligations. Yesterday you were stumbling through the world, because a veil of darkness covered your pupils, but I came like lightning in the night to illuminate your paths. Since then you know where you are.

32. You have learned to consult your conscience before taking a step.

33. Today, who are gathered together, be obedient to my teachings, because the great trials are approaching.

34. The Master is once again with you, on this day I have come to pamper you, to lift you up with my word of love, to give you my gift of peace and to ask you that you make me present in your heart.

35. I have not come to judge you, but I have come to ask you to have true love and charity in your actions, to listen to the voice of your conscience.

Love one another!

36. At all times I have come to shed my blood for you, sometimes in front of the material gaze of man and sometimes intangibly; every moment I find myself watching over you, so that you do not suffer in this world and so that after your material life you may attain eternal life in your spirit in the hereafter; but you have not understood me, you have not heeded my word and that is why at this time I have come from the white cloud to blow my sonorous bell and to ask you to gather and love one another.

37. You begin to study, but you have not understood even the first page of my book knowing that the time is already short when I will give you my lesson. You must study and analyze my teaching and stand up strong on the way, because I will not receive you until you have first studied what I have given you in this time.

38. You have made me cry and shed blood and I already want you to come to Me and tell me in front of my plant: “Teacher, here is the teaching, here is the harvest, here is the good example that I have given to humanity; there is the regenerated humanity”. I want you to make me present to the man and woman you have converted, because without this fulfillment you will not enter my Arcanum. Three times I have come to this world, to offer you different opportunities for salvation of your spirit, but you have let my words go unnoticed and have disobeyed my commands, that is why I tell you that this is the last of those opportunities and you must put into practice what I am giving you by putting on humility, descending from the pedestal of your false greatness, discarding ill will and hatred for your brothers, unifying yourselves, because this is what I am asking you, so that the scepter of my justice does not fall on humanity.

39. You are already ignorant of us, because I have poured out my teaching on you and I ask you: Why do I contemplate that my disciples have not wanted to understand me and are interpreting my words and my orders in different ways and according to their own will? Have I not come to speak to you in your own language, in simple words so that all of you may comprehend?...No I am speaking differently from one and the other, that is why I do not want you to tell me tomorrow: Master, we did not understand you; we did not understand your orders and therefore we did not comply with them. No, Israel, it is necessary that you discard the poison that your heart now harbors: you must understand this Law well, because it is not to blame for your sin and it is not fair that my Work pays for these ingratitude, Why have men not been able to appreciate it if I am giving it to you as white and pure as a snow cup?

40. Watch and pray, because every moment I contemplate the divisions of one and the other. I contemplate that you want to depart from my Law, some turning their backs on me, and the others raising their soles to walk according to their own will, taking missteps and preferring to find the hawthorn rather than walk with righteousness on the path that I have come to trace you. Everywhere trees grow offering humanity a different fruit from the one I am delivering, but I contemplate that the good fruit is also mixed and therefore I say to you: take out the vain fruit and leave the good, choose it and make present to me only the clean seed and the golden wheat. You are no longer the children of darkness as you were yesterday, because I have come among you as a luminous ray, to illuminate your path, to let you know which is the path of truth. You can already see and walk through it, because I have come to give you strength and to take you by the hand so that you take the first steps and then you can travel alone, but firmly, without falling into pain or sin and without letting yourselves be led by the evil that exists in this world.

41. Today you are no longer innocent children, today you know how to move forward, what acts you are going to develop and what are the good and bad ways, because I have given you heart and conscience to consult them. Therefore, I have been asking you for a long time not to eat the forbidden fruit, not to draw your two-edged sword to put your brother to civil death; may you realize the purity and perfection of my Law that has been one throughout all time, so that you may rise up with understanding and goodwill fulfilling my heavenly mandates, so that peace may be in the Universe and extermination will not continue to uproot lives; I do not want to contemplate you crying and with bitterness on your palate. On this day I too am going to give you my divine charity.

42. Blessed is the one who is prepared, because he will contemplate peace on his way and my charity poured out in his spirit and matter. From the Glory I pour out the crystalline waters so that you may rise up strong in this time. I entrust my love to you in torrents, so that you may go forward and realize that I am tireless, so that you may imitate me tomorrow, stripping yourselves of all materialism, of all vanity and taking with you only the good new works, you may be the clean mirror in which this humanity can be contemplated.

43. I have always come after the wayward, to lift them from sin and put them on the path of salvation, tomorrow the great trials will come and it is my will to leave you as the strong soldier of Jesus who can fight and get ahead of them.

44. In presence, power and essence, I have been in this dawn among you, I give you daily bread and balm, I bless you, your children, grieving mothers and the elderly, I give you all my peace, my love and my light.

45. Love, humanity, love with the purest love that can lead you to the truth, and then you will know what I want to tell you with these words; the force that moved the lips of Jesus when he was with you, was that of love, that voice that is why he told you: "I am the way, the truth and the life".

46. There is no greater power than that of love, it is also fire that purifies and water of grace that cleanses.

Love one another!

47. in spite of what I am telling you, there are disciples who believe today and not tomorrow, because they have their hours to believe and their hours to doubt.

48. I see in you a people tired of their human life and intensely worried, and this results in a people who, calling themselves spiritualists, live very attached to earthly things.

49. I have told you: Wake up to the truth and do not do what the scribes and Pharisees who clean the glass only from the outside, or who when they try to do charities think that “they should not give everything, because they would be left poor and without a loaf to bring to their lips”.

50. Oh how much you will have to wander like shadows those of you who think like that! You will be born and you will be born again, as long as you do not learn to give the love that I teach you.

51. I don't want you to be children forever, is it fair that this people is the one who in their prayer says to me: Lord, I love you and then on their way I don't do a single work of charity? Why am I still catching you cheating? Why don't you do true charity and when you do it is so that they will see you and hear you?

52. You get confused, and sometimes you flaunt your faith when your faith has cooled down; then I find you cold also in charity, in loyalty and in purity.

53. Truly I tell you, no one will pass through the door of the cross unless he learns to be loyal.

54. Dear disciples, I tell you that if I sometimes speak to you with a harsh word, it does not become as righteous as the one you deserve according to your deeds.

55. I only come to wash you of imperfections with my word, where are the white garments that you prepared to be with me at this feast?

56. I want to penetrate into your interior to contemplate my sanctuary, O spirits of men who believe that you were born yesterday and time ago that you sprouted from the One who carries in himself the love of father and the love of mother, because from Him all the forms of perfect love sprout!

57. Just as you see the human body developing, so the spirit is also developing in it; but the body finds a limit to its development while the spirit requires many matters and eternity to reach its perfection.

Love one another!

58. That is the cause of your reincarnations. You were born of the paternal and maternal mind of God, pure, simple and clean, like a seed, but do not be confused because it is not the same to be pure and simple to be great and perfect.

59. You can make the comparison of a child who has just been born, with a man of experience who teaches children.

60. That will be your destiny through the ages, when your spirit is developed. But how slowly your spirit is advancing!

61. It is almost two thousand years ago that with a few words I taught you the way to find the Kingdom of God. "Love one another," I said. You have lived many times, without matter or with it, in this valley and in others, and you have not been able to learn the lesson.

62. You will still walk a long way until that sublime teaching becomes a reality in your spirit.

63. This world is called to spiritualize with its inhabitants and thus end the sufferings and vicissitudes.

64. The fire of my love comes to melt the snow of your heart, and although the centuries pass, I will continue teaching, and you will come to learn and love.

65. Do you remember Mary Magdalene? Have you not understood the symbol that it contains?

66. The human mind does not know how to understand my symbols, it stops before the mystery and is satisfied with the symbol.

67. Symbols are fallen images that should no longer exist in the cult of humanity in its light age.

68. Mary Magdalene the sinner, as the world has called her, was deserving of my tenderness and my forgiveness.

69. She soon achieved her redemption, which does not happen with others who weakly ask for forgiveness for their sins; while she soon found what she was looking for, others do not succeed.

70. Magdalena made herself forgiven without showing off her repentance, she had sinned as you sin, but she had loved a lot; he who loves may have mistakes in his human behavior, but love is the tenderness that overflows from the heart; if you want to be forgiven like her, turn your eyes to Me full of love and trust, and you will be like her, absolved of all stain.

71. That woman did not sin again, the love that overflowed from her heart consecrated him to the Doctrine of the Master.

Love one another!

72. She was forgiven even though she had made mistakes, but in her heart she carried the fire that purifies, and because of that forgiveness that the sinner received, she no longer left Jesus for a moment, rather my disciples left me alone in the most bloody hours than that little one; Mary did not turn away from Me, she did not deny me, she was not afraid or ashamed.

73. That is why it was granted to her to cry at the foot of my cross and on my tomb, her spirit was soon redeemed by how much she loved; she also carried the spirit of an apostle in her heart; her conversion shines as the light of truth; she had known how to humble herself before my plant to tell me: “Lord, if you want it, I will be saved from sin”.

74. While you, how many times would you like to convince me of your innocence by covering your faults with long prayers.

75. No, disciples, learn from her, truly love your Lord in each of your brothers, love very much and your sins will be forgiven. You will be great when you make that truth blossom in your heart.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Love one another!

Teaching 213

1. The light of my Spirit is with you, Christ is on your spirit and through human lips manifests the word of life and truth as a way that leads to Me.
2. Open the doors of your sanctuary so that I may penetrate to the purest of your being.
3. You call this day Resurrection Sunday because in it you evoke the events that Jesus lived on his passage through the Earth.
4. Lift up the veil of mystery so that you may enter the sanctuary of truth. In this chair I reveal great teachings to you so that the darkness of the mystery with which you yesterday enveloped my light may disappear from you. Listen: Only he who dies can rise again. Do you believe that Jesus died at that time? Could you imagine your teacher dead?
5. Death is only a symbol, death exists for those who have not yet reached the knowledge of the truth; for them death is still an aspect behind which there is mystery or nothingness; I say to you: Open your eyes and understand that you will not die either; you will separate from matter, but that does not mean that you will die; you, like your Teacher, have eternal life.
6. When I left my body, my Spirit made its entry into the spirit world to speak to them with the word of truth as to you, I spoke to them of divine love because that is the true knowledge of life.
7. Truly I tell you that the spirit of Jesus was not for a single moment in the tomb, he had many charities to do in other worlds; my infinite mind had for those, as for you, many revelations to manifest.
8. There are also worlds where beings in spirit do not know how to love, they dwell in darkness and long for the light; today men know that where there is heartbreak and selfishness there is darkness, that war and passions are the key that closes the door of the path that leads to the Kingdom of God.
9. Love, on the other hand, is the key with which the Kingdom of light, which is truth, is opened.
10. Here I have communicated through materials, there I have communicated directly with the high spirits, so that they may instruct those who are not qualified to receive my inspiration directly.
11. those high, luminous beings are like here for you, the spokespersons.
12. Today you will know the reason for my coming to this world and the reason for my visit to those worlds.

Love one another!

13. I had said to the spirits, "You will be born again," and before atoning in body you will cleanse your spirit of all superfluous impressions so that in your new birth you will be like burning torches.

14. The men who carry in themselves the light of my Holy Spirit are like flaming torches; those who do not want to know the truth are like extinguished torches, lamps that do not burn because they have not been lit in the fire of my wisdom.

15. I do not want you to be extinguished torches, because you will not be able to fulfill your destiny, that is, the mission of your spirit.

16. Verily I tell you that at the moments when my word vibrates through the understanding of man, thousands and thousands of disembodied beings are here witnessing my manifestation and listening to my voice; the number of them is always greater than those who present themselves in matter. Like you, they are slowly coming out of the darkness to enter the Kingdom of Light.

17. You are immortal, I have told you. If the cell of your matter does not die, the spirit need not die.

18. This day of remembrance and meditations is the symbol of the glory of the spirit, of the resurrection of the light of your lamp.

19. It has pleased me to manifest myself among you in these days of commemoration, to awaken in your hearts feelings of faith, of piety, of spirituality; I have taken advantage of these hours to wash and purify your hearts.

20. Why have you been stained? Because you have not allowed yourselves to be led by the power of the spirit, whose strength you have confused with that of your human will, your vanities and whims.

21. It is necessary that you penetrate into your heart, into your interior, so that you may know to what degree you are for the voice of conscience, in what state of love you are for your fellow men; then you will know to what extent you are flaming torches or extinguished flames.

22. I tell you that according to your love, so will be the strength, goodness and light that you possess.

23. You too will have your day of deliverance and your day of glory. What will that day be? The one in which you win on the battlefield of your life.

24. The Earth is a field of struggle, there is a lot to learn there; if it were not so, a few years of life on this planet would be enough for you and you would not be sent one time after another to reincarnate. There is no more gloomy and dark tomb for the spirit, than his own body, if it carries in itself scum and materialism.

Love one another!

25. My word lifts you up from that grave and then gives you wings so that you can soar to the regions of peace and spiritual light.

26. As your spirit triumphs from darkness and overcomes obstacles, light appears in it; therefore, some of you will travel the path in a longer time than others.

27. Great will be the one who follows the trace of spiritual progress, and passing through the ages and eras, acquires light, experience and evolution.

28. after that struggle, efforts and tears, you will have your liberation and your glory, the one in which you emerge shining in fullness with the light of consciousness.

29. Glory is not a certain place, glory is the end of the evolution of the spirit; that glory not being a fixed place, it is necessary for you to understand why those who doubt the existence of the Spirit say: "I will die" and think of death as the end; and on the other hand those who believe in eternal life say: "I will always live".

30. He who materializes his faith and his worship imagines and seeks God in a limited way.

31. The spiritualist knows that the Almighty is in everything, that the world, the Universe and the infinite, are saturated with my essence and my presence.

32. The one who thus recognizes and conceives me is a living temple of God and will no longer materialize the manifestations of the spirit with symbols or forms.

33. Do not say anymore that there is only one Heaven and one Earth, and that these are certain places, there are thousands of worlds; do not forget that I said in Jesus: "There are many dwellings in my Father's house".

34. It is well that in the material life you adhere to the laws of your Nature, but also understand that these laws are not eternal.

35. I have come once again to the humble because they are the ones who understand these words the best; remember that I said, "He who has been humbled will be exalted." On this day that you call Resurrection, spiritualize yourselves so that you may say, "I am the temple and the lamp, I am the offering"" Love one another, yes, people, for he who loves bears the glory in himself. Blessed people, spirits of the twelve tribes of Israel incarnated at this time to form the shield of humanity, I am preparing you in spirit and in matter to make of you a docile instrument and to take you along this path that I draw for you, so that you may leave your example to the new generations.

Love one another!

36. Among you are the descendants of Reuben, of Dan, of Judah and Levi, of Issachar and Zebulun, and of all the patriarchs of the tribes, and as strong spirits that you are, you must continue to manifest that strength and faith in your God.

37. The name of Israel cannot be erased, and although it has been coveted, tried and persecuted, this people will not die because it is the seed of your first parents, who were the life and life of many generations. Today you look at that decaying race and in a high degree of degeneration, which has loved its flesh more than its spirit and has puffed itself up with its gifts; that is why I have made you incarnate on another earth, in another race, so that you will not fall into those mistakes.

38. Spirituality has been inspired by you since the beginning of time, it is a seed that was given to you to cultivate with care, and I entrusted you with the task of transmitting it to all peoples without distinction of races. Today in the fullness of time I come to you to ask for an account of that seed.

39. All men carry that seed because before you, you have been spirits, and spirituality is the path that is pointed out to you by which you will become perfect.

40. You are the most gracious people and yet you have not known how to use your gifts, you have not wanted to interpret my will. This world that I have prepared for the recreation, development and blessing of your spirit, you have loved it as if it were your eternal abode, and you have put deep roots in it; you forget the spiritual life and do not prepare your entrance into that valley that awaits you.

41. Look, that dwelling is populated by spirits lacking merit due to their lack of spirituality, preparation, and how much pain overwhelms them, how much regret. You should not inhabit that world, without first making progress to those spirits that either through ignorance or rebellion did not know how to work their elevation.

42. What humanity calls progress is not so for the spirits, because if they were elevated they would love me above everything created and there would be peace and harmony among men, they only present to me their nakedness and spiritual ignorance.

43. How hard humanity is to convert to good. You do not conform to my laws and you do not want to modify your life, my word hurts you when I talk about regeneration, how do you want me to be silent if you are not safe?

44. Be strong, O Israel, fight against evil; go even against yourselves if you bear traces of evil. Prepare the environment you breathe, overcome all extraneous influences, make use of your faculties and powers, watch and pray.

Love one another!

45. Cement the faith of humanity and build with it a tower so high that it reaches the heavenly whose base is immovable.

46. With your prayer and with spiritual works you can stop the advance of the elements of destruction, because they will be unleashed with greater force than now after 1950; humanity will purify itself so that it can receive the good news and after its great pain it will see the iris of peace shine and it will feel my call that invites it to penetrate into a new life.

47. Today that you have returned to Earth, you come to testify to my presence, it is one of the missions that you have always had and you are surprised when I speak to you in this way, because you think you have no knowledge of the past of your spirit. But this imprint is so deep that neither you nor time will be able to erase your history.

48. I am teaching you so that later you will preach my teaching, and those who will hear you will be surprised at your words and will take you for the new prophets and apostles, then they will love you. Make your work fruitful. Do not sow in a barren land, do not expose my Work to ridicule. Be prudent and please those who ask you and forgive those who do not know how to receive you.

49. My word has found an echo in the union of your thoughts and my Spirit delights as a Teacher teaching my new disciples.

50. If you meditate deeply, you will find that I have always been with you and that from the first revelation, my message directed men to spirituality. It is only natural that after some thousands of years of spirits inhabiting this Earth, I should bring you a Doctrine of greater elevation than you now have.

51. My Doctrine, which is at all times the explanation of the Law, has come to you as a path of light, as a sure gap for the spirit; however, men using the free will with which they were endowed, wanting to follow a path for their life, have always chosen the easy path of materiality, some absolutely ignoring the calls of conscience that always lead to the spiritual; and others, creating cults and rites to believe that they are firmly on the spiritual path, when in truth they are as selfish as those who have excluded my name and my word from their life.

52. If you could contemplate from here the spiritual valley where materialized beings live, those who have worked nothing for the spiritual journey after this life, you would be stunned; but not for an instant would you say: How terrible is the justice of God! No, instead you would exclaim: How ungrateful, how unjust and cruel we are to ourselves! How indifferent to our spirit and how cold we have been as disciples of Jesus!

53. That is why the Father has allowed those beings to manifest themselves at times in your life and give you the painful, distressing message of their dark and peaceless life. They are inhabitants of a world that does not have the radiant light of the spiritual abodes, nor the beauties of the earth they inhabited.

54. That vast valley, full of confusion, remorse, pain, sadness and despair, is only illuminated by the light of consciousness that awakens those beings one by one and when that light comes to invade the whole spirit, he recognizes his path, throws off the garment of materiality that he kept and returns to feel that he lives, that he has been resurrected, that a voice calls him from the infinite, and that this voice is that of the Father, who from the beginning of time traced the path of light and happiness to him.

55. Let none of you desire to go and dwell in the darkness of trouble, or to drink the cup of regrets.

56. To avoid that infinite bitterness, have charity of your spirit, do true works of love, not superficial works with which you try to deceive yourselves.

57. My Doctrine imparts spirituality, and spirituality means truth, purity, light, sincerity and love.

58. This is my path, the only one, the one that was traced to you from the beginning and was written in every conscience.

59. My voice, which resonates again in the recesses of your being, comes to call you to the lost path, to the forgotten path, so that you accumulate merits, which will be light, satisfactions and elevation for your spirit, when he has to pierce the veil that exists between the material and the spiritual.

60. I speak to you of that veil, because your little spiritual elevation does not yet allow you to unite all the existing dwellings into one, and just as on Earth, your lack of fraternity has divided you into peoples and nations, in the Universe, small beings have been divided by worlds, dwellings and spaces.

61. The time will come when the borders of this world will be erased by love and when the worlds will draw closer to each other by spirituality.

62. Meanwhile, the struggle between conscience and free will will continue, which man takes and takes advantage of to make his life what he pleases.

63. The struggle between these two forces will reach its culmination and the triumph will come from the spirit, who, in an absolute surrender of love for his Father, will tell him: "Lord, I renounce my free will, your will only be done in me".

64. I will bless the one who thus arrives before Me and I will envelop him in my light, but I will let him know that this blessed freedom with which he was endowed, I will never take it away from him, because the one who does the will of his Father, the one who is faithful and obedient, is worthy of the trust of his Lord.

65. Have you really understood what I have told you about the spiritual life? See how the spiritual is simple and transparent, contrary to your doctrines and teachings that complicate everything.

66. Meditate, disciples.

67. My Arcanum opens and I let some of it manifest to men through the speaker.

68. In the year of 1866 a star shone like that which announced the birth of the Messiah. Few contemplated it because the world was sleeping.

69. That star was Elias, and with his manifestation through the understanding of Roque Rojas a new spiritual era was opened. With his light he came to illuminate the way to guide men and announce to them a time of great revelations. But since Elijah is my prophet and my forerunner, through his spirit I prophesied the time of my communication in the same way.

70. The first listeners, the first witnesses of that manifestation, were surprised to hear that the word that Roque Rojas pronounced was not from him but came from beyond; that it was a word full of comfort, promises and hope.

71. The small number of kindergartners grew, becoming a multitude, which later receiving the presence of the Master through new spokespersons, recognized in the word a fruit with divine flavor and spiritual essence, which was the only one that could quench their thirst and mitigate their hunger.

72. A new apostolate emerged from among that people, made up of simple and humble hearts, but full of love and faith to follow me. There could not be missing among them a new Thomas who needed to see to believe in my presence; a new Peter who, believing in Me, denied Me out of fear of humanity and a new Judas Iscariot who betrayed me, exchanging my word and my truth for coins and flattery.

73. The multitudes that make up this people continued to increase and branch out into cities, counties and villages, and apostles of truth and righteousness were emerging from this people, self-sacrificing laborers full of zeal in the Doctrine of their Lord and prophets clean of heart who have spoken the truth.

74. Before an immense and invisible spiritual table I seat you so that you may eat my heavenly bread and my wine of eternity, so that you may never lack strength in your mission. While there are those who listen to me, remain spiritually lethargic, there are also those who question me every moment, because they are eager to know. They ask me: Why do I manifest myself to humanity in that form; why did Elijah come before; who is Elijah and who is Roque Rojas and who untied the Seven Seals?

75. I answer everyone and teach with the love of the perfect Teacher. If some are confused because I do not come among royal altars or sumptuous ceremonies, the spirituality that others have tells them that Jesus never sought finery or vanity but hearts.

76. I have always come after your spirit, not your body; because matter belongs to the Earth where its bosom claims it, while the spirit, through its consciousness, will always be listening to the divine voice that calls it.

77. Extensive has been the time of my preaching at my last coming, it spans from 1866 to 1950.

78. The first fruits of my teaching must be those of your spiritual and material regeneration, abandoning idolatry, fanaticism, superstition, erroneous interpretations and also egoism, bad wills, vices and all scourge; when that is, you will be able to speak of my Law without confusing anyone; you will not imprint your errors on my Doctrine, nor will you try to hide it by reserving it only for yourselves.

79. Elevate your spirit through a more perfect worship and elevate your heart through a virtuous life and you will be like the beginning for a new world, a new humanity that knew how to rise on the foundations of spirituality that I brought you in my revelation of the Third Time.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 214

1. Through human lips I deliver my word to you, because the messages that instant by instant I send to men, you do not even perceive them. That is the reason why I have had to communicate by the understanding of man. It is not that I need human devices to manifest myself, it is you who have needed it.
2. My Loving Law has only come to turn aside one buckle at a time from the path, so that you can come before Me.
3. For the Father, nothing is impossible or difficult, so I made the same man the instrument of my communication and with it I demonstrated my charity towards you, forgiving your imperfections and not repairing your stains; I also gave you proof of my power by giving you a wise, sweet, divine word, through a poor understanding and impure and clumsy lips.
4. You have all seen this miracle when you have felt the matter of the speaker disappear and you perceive the presence of the Master. Then you have enjoyed the divine word, you have felt transported to a world of light and you have delighted in the spiritual peace of ecstasy.
5. How long did the Teacher talk to you? How long were you inside that elevation? You could not tell, because in that hour you were beyond time.
6. Afterwards, when the lecture has ceased, you have felt infinite desires to come to your home to repeat my words, you have had noble desires to meet on the way with someone who had offended you to forgive him, or with someone in need to give him the good news of my presence.
7. When you finally find someone to tell what you heard, you feel that your lips are clumsy to express that divine lesson and then you understand that this word is truly profound and that the way these spokesmen work is also worthy of your attention.
8. The Master says to those who suffer considering themselves clumsy to express the divine word: Do not be afraid, that little by little your gifts will develop until the day comes when you do not even need communication through the spokespersons, because the message that he sends you, you will receive it directly through the perfect communication “from spirit to Spirit”.
9. When you reach that step, take a good look at what I am telling you: life will arise before your spirit, before your senses and before your mind, as a torrent of wisdom, as a song of love, as a ladder that lifts you towards the Creator.

Love one another!

10. Come soon to that height, people, so that you may live in a high, spiritual way and in true harmony with everything created.
11. Now you are just the tender infants of a Doctrine infinite in power and wisdom, moreover, the one who teaches it to you is the Teacher of teachers. Let yourselves be led meekly by Him and you will see how his love will remove from the path every thorn and every stumbling block.
12. My word in this Third Time comes to fill the immense void that exists in the spirit of humanity, an emptiness that men have never been able to fill with human love, with worldly riches, with material rites or cults.
13. The desired message has come among you, blessing those who waited for it and awakening those who were asleep. My message is for everyone and everyone will know Him as the hour reaches every heart, every people and every nation.
14. My word is the light of truth and justice that shines in the darkness of this humanity. Speak to your spirit inviting him to meditate so that he may know the reason for my coming and the explanation of every mystery.
15. In order for humanity to sing a hymn of peace, it needs to love and forgive. Do not feed selfishness or resentment, hatred or obfuscation anymore, because you are stopping my Spirit that wants to reach yours to form his reign of peace among men.
16. Yes, people, you who are a small part of humanity, you know of the moral and material destruction that exists, you see its misery and its scarcity, its sadness and desolation, that misery and that pain is suffered not only by matter but also by the spirit that has weakened for lack of merits.
17. Be guides of your brothers, be my forerunners; feel my love and love fully and selflessly; enlighten yourselves and take this light through the world, be inspired by the truth and deepen yourselves in the great revelations that I have made to you through the ages and take this knowledge to those who know less than you.
18. Penetrate with this light into yourselves and discover the power with which I have endowed your spirit and when you take advantage of the value of these gifts, you will know how to love life, and from this valley that you inhabit you will love and know eternal life.
19. Love and forgive very much if you want to call yourselves my apostles. Think of Me, and your sorrow will be dispelled. Do not feel pain if they offend you, bless and leave your cause to me; then you will feel happier than those who think they are rich because of their wealth, because you have forgiven; you do not know if that forgiveness is the price of your salvation and with that work you will be able to enlighten the spirit of the one who made you suffer and with it you have rescued him too.

20. Love everything, even the air you breathe, because in it is my love as it is in all Creation. Love the time and the hour in which you live, for my Spirit is manifested in everything. Don't you feel how this Nature that surrounds you asks for peace and love? I will return all the elements to their course; I will restore all creatures, but man will have to suffer all the consequences of his faults that have given rise to destruction.

21. This bread that I am giving you is the food that humanity needs, the only one that can sustain it. Receive Him with love and with him become strong so that you are within the fulfillment.

22. Live your life amply, live calmly and patiently so that you may demonstrate your faith. Fear nothing, I am with you. If you are strong, you will be able to see your city fall stone after stone and you will not be afraid, because within you is the divine power, that part of my Spirit that is in you and with it you will be able to build great works in the hearts of your brothers. You can give joy to the sad, wipe away tears, lift up the fallen spirits; the work that you build with faith and love will be great and indestructible.

23. Let yourselves be led by my love to eternal life. Open your eyes and participate in the greatness and beauty that I have created for the happiness of all my children. My blessing comes to all, believers and unbelievers. I clean the way of thorns so that you do not hurt your plant anymore and you go forward always firm, obedient to your Heavenly Father.

24. In my word I bring you healing for your ailments; in your word I come to deposit balm for the sick; but understand, people, that this balm is not only for the body, but also for the spirit, not only for the one who lives in the world, but also for the one who is in spirit.

25. sometimes, when I am speaking to you through these spokesmen, I contemplate that you are surrounded by some, possessed by others and persecuted by others, by troubled beings who dominate your will, disturb your mind or make your body sick; then I speak to them with the language of the spirit and I take them out of your way; but not everything has to be done by the; I want you to know what is the cause that these beings, your brothers, penetrate into your material life and what you should do to get rid of their bad influences, at the same time making light in those spirits worthy of your charity.

26. Those spirits that no longer belong to human life, come to men and still live with them: of this I gave you many lessons in the Second Time, taking advantage of the cases in which some possessed were presented to me; but that people and their priests did not know how to understand the meaning of those revelations and judged me according to their bad faith.

Love one another!

27. Now I come to expand my lesson so that you may be possessors of this knowledge and to give you weapons so that you may fight and overcome confusion.

28. Disciples: The cause that motivates the presence of troubled spirits, without peace and without light, among you, are bad thoughts, bad words, low passions, bad habits, vices; all this is like a force that attracts all those who, because they have not purified themselves, have to look for unclean dwellings in which to dwell. They are already disembodied beings, who in their confusion seek other people's bodies to express themselves through them, but because of their confusion and their influence, the only thing they achieve is to disturb the peace, cloud the mind or make those they approach sick.

29. Those spirits are the symbol of disease, the inhabitants of the shadows, those who know neither what life is nor what death is.

30. I, Who am the light of the spirit, seek one after another the lost, one after another the dead to spiritual life, to rescue them from their torment and make them feel peace, that peace that comes from understanding. But I tell you again that not only the Master, but the disciples must also know how to make light in those beings who, although invisible to the sense of your material sight, are perceptible to the sensitivity of those who know how to prepare.

31. The way to fight against the bad influences of that world more numerous and stronger than yours, is to pray, to remain faithful to the dictates of my Doctrine and firmness in the good. He who fights with these weapons not only liberates himself, but also saves and liberates his brothers.

32. How can you be a spiritualist if you ignore this teaching? How could the healing that Jesus practiced have been complete, if He had not revealed the healing of the possessed?

33. Study my words deeply and do not try to make use of my teachings, nor to make use of what I have taught, to deliver you without loving those who come to disturb you, because you will fall with them into darkness.

34. When will you, by your good deeds, make a world out of this earth in which everyone who passes through troubled, then leaves full of light? When will you cease to be a favorable room for the presence of that world of bad influences?

35. If you do not come to know this reality, you will never be able to get rid of those lies in wait, nor will you be able to do anything for the benefit of the great needy; you will be both sick and others who continually catch their ills.

36. Think then of the purpose of my teachings, of the meaning of my new coming, of everything that my word encompasses with its light, so that you may cease to imagine yourselves as the only inhabitants of this dwelling. Look at how much surrounds you and truly become the children of light.

37. Listen to me, analyze my word and I assure you that you will soon become disciples of the Master of all centuries and of all ages.

38. People of Israel, who have been forged in many struggles through the ages, you who know about the hardships of slavery, persecution, long days, rest and now be free in this Land that I give you as a temporary abode. At this time you will not go in search of lands that flow with milk and honey, nor will you go to Samaria, but you will seek my spiritual kingdom, you will come to this immense valley to which I invite you to breathe peace, to envelop yourselves in the light of my wisdom and to recover your lost strength.

39. Develop your spirit because you live in a new time and as the firstborn son of the Father, you have come to initiate among humanity this stage of spirituality that corresponds to you.

40. Before you begin your mission, hear and learn from Me; my word is the book, and when you have understood its lessons, go to your brothers, preach and join your words with your deeds. Pray and get in touch with me and your guardian angels, so that your inspiration may be fruitful. I invite you to enter into a life of recollection, so that you can concentrate on your fulfillment, all your forces and in a short time you will see the transformation of your being. You will look clearly at your destiny and you will be like a beacon that will illuminate the path of your brothers.

41. You will not fear the future because you know that I am your guide and that I have arranged everything with justice. The time will come when you will feel inspired by Me, and impelled by your spirit, you will go in search of the sick and in them you will pour out consolation, you will look for those who hunger and thirst for true knowledge and to them you will give the word that is light, and you will also reach the disinherited, the humble and to them you will also reach out your hand and soon you will find yourselves converted into counselors, guides and intermediaries of humanity.

42. The greater the abyss into which your brothers have fallen, the greater must be your patience and your charity for them.

43. You know that all of you were pure in the beginning and that at the end you will be pure again. Do not ignore your origin and hurry on the way so that you will quickly return to Me.

44. Mankind has multiplied in number and the earth is filled with this seed; man has fulfilled my command that I gave him at the beginning of time, but there are many laws that he has not been able to fulfill. It is not love that moves him to undertake great works. It's not the reason he's struggled. His spirit has fallen a lot and in his fall he has lost his balance. But I come to stop him and to bring him back to the plane that corresponds to him. The virtues that I have placed in his spirit are so great that if he had known how to make use of them, he would be on a very high scale and pain would not have ruled to make him suffer.

45. You can still recover what you have lost, that is why I have come to you and I give you all the means to achieve your elevation.

46. Come to Me, humanity, ask of me and I will give you! my pleasures are not over, the fountain is overflowing with grace for everyone who requests them. I forgive you and I leave you clean so that you may give beginning to your fulfillment.

47. Welcome to the source of inspiration, where you come to quench thirst and leave fatigue. In Me there is that crystalline water that quenches the thirst for love of the spirits.

48. In this time, the path of your life has become haphazard and the journey is hard. That is why I have come, to illuminate your journey with the light of my word, which is hope. In my teaching I do not cease to encourage you to continue and I always remind you not to forget the transitory nature of your existence, behind which there is a beyond waiting for you to envelop you in its peace.

49. You are indeed the pilgrims of the desert who feed on the essence of my word, and encouraged by the faith of your spirit you are going after the goal that you will have to reach.

50. Faith is a force that lifts, transforms and illuminates, by it man can go back to his Creator, because his light illuminates the path of the Law, where the Father is reached.

51. Thus, with this faith you come walking, accepting with all conformity of spirit and matter, the stumbles and vicissitudes proper to this time. But the day will come when you will speak and testify about Me, about the way I have been with you, about how you have heard and contemplated me, and also about how you have received my inspiration. I announce to you that you will find humanity prepared to understand the teaching of spirituality. Today you cannot proclaim that the Master is among you because they would not believe you and would judge you without reason.

52. See in history how the inspired of God have always been unknown, because men, covered with materialism, cannot contemplate the truth.

53. The same will happen to you when talking about my Work, when you stumble upon those who are mired in fanaticism, ignorance and materialism. Before them you will expose my doctrine and each one will take it according to his spiritual development, but in the end this truth will shine, because the truth is Me.

Love one another!

54. When men have achieved peace, it will be the time when the Master will reveal to you great teachings for the spirit, revelations that will be understood by the coming generations, who will have a greater evolution.

55. You are with me, learning to sow, knowing that the fruit will be tasted by those who come after you. Although they will not stumble over the obstacles that you encountered, but they will judge your works; therefore leave on the way a trace of love and charity, so that you can have in spirit, the satisfaction of having fulfilled the Law that I taught you. Analyze my word and let Me judge you, meanwhile, improve your life and your works.

56. If you want your brothers to discover that you are my disciples, make yourself known by the nobility of your heart. Let humility be reflected in your actions, that he who is meek in heart is also meek in spirit. The proud and vain one appears to be strong, but in reality he is poor in spirit.

57. Spiritualism comes to destroy customs and traditions imposed by men that have delayed the spirit. Spiritualism is the unceasing evolution and elevation of the spirit, which through its gifts and attributes is purified and perfected until it reaches its Creator. Spiritualism points to the way in which the spirit expresses, feels and receives his Lord. Spiritualism liberates the spirit and develops it.

58. The spiritual is universal force and light that is in everything and of everyone. My teachings will not be strange to anyone.

59. The attributes of the spirit are immutable because they are virtues of my divinity, they are eternal forces. But understand that, as you have lived, so will the purity that you can demonstrate be greater or lesser.

60. When you have put stains on the purity of your spirit and he listens to the claim of conscience, he welcomes the divine that is a source of purification, redemption and forgiveness.

61. My doctrine, like a book, opens up again before this humanity, so that it may bathe in the pure waters of this teaching and transform its life, turn away from materialistic tendencies and tend to rise in search of eternal life.

62. When the higher life is known, without not knowing this one in which you live, you will know how to put that one before all vanities and men will turn away from everything superfluous and useless. This will be a sign that this humanity begins to feel longing to reach the spiritual regions.

63. My Doctrine will make a more perfect concept of life exist in this world.

Love one another!

64. Since you came into this world, a mandate has been hanging over you, which is the cross of your destiny, with which you will reach the top of the mountain.
65. Understand me and do not be discouraged, that the Doctrine that you are going to preach is not a fantasy, because the spiritual vibrates in all men, since everyone has a spirit.
66. Verily I say to you, when Spiritualism reigns in the world, men will have laid the foundations of their true peace.
67. You will not contemplate that Era from this Earth, but you are preparing it and when it is in fullness, there will also be peace and joy in your spirit.
68. It will be the fruition of the Seed that Christ sowed in the Second Time, in the lands prepared from the First Age.
69. Today the Wheat is still mixed with the tares, but when this is exterminated and the wheat sprouts in golden ears, the Era expected by humanity will come.
70. I am the way, walk on it and you will be in Me.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

1. My words are like dewdrops that descend into your heart to resurrect it, because I find it withered, it is that you had forgotten my promise to return and you felt dead to spiritual life.
2. When the faint flame of your hope was extinguished, you heard knocking at the door of your heart; when you opened and saw me you did not recognize me because you had forgotten me. It was necessary to show you the wound on my side and to say to you, "Sink your fingers in there," so that you might know who it was who was knocking at your door.
3. You are like the walkers of Emmaus, who taking me to their side could not recognize me; you resemble Thomas who believed until he saw and felt my wounds.
4. Since you have asked me for proofs of my presence, and I have given them to you, know that I have come to rescue you from idolatry, to make you return to simple worship, to faith free of complications, to the practice of charity among you.
5. I have found you worshiping deaf, blind, and motionless gods, practicing rites out of your time and unbecoming of the spiritual evolution that you have today and practicing what I never instituted.
6. No one but Me could tell you the truth about your mistakes without hurting you and at the same time offer you a light, a sustenance and an incentive that instantly came to fill the emptiness of your heart.
7. Never again will you be dazzled by false and superficial splendors, nor will you be seduced by the word that only reaches the mind, but can never penetrate to the spirit. From now on, he who has truly tasted the essence of this word will not be able to feed himself with bread other than the Divine One.
8. What man had spoken to you as I have done through these humble men who are my spokesmen? Who had spoken to you about spirituality as you have heard in this word? Who has given you in your life proofs that were the confirmation of a divine revelation? No one, people.
9. My word, like a bell cast in flight, calls men to congregation and they are arriving in caravans, in crowds.
10. The time in which you will have communicated to me in this way is short and I want many to receive the light of my word so that at the end of the year 1950, all the people, aware of my mandate, will submit meekly to my will of the Father.

Love one another!

11. It is still time for the people to arrive prepared for that day and when they gather, no longer to listen to my word through a pedestal, but to study the lesson they received, feel my inspiration in their understanding and say convinced: "The Lord is with us".
12. This is how I want to contemplate you: as good disciples.
13. At the beginning of my lecture I was telling you that I have brought the simple worship, that which has no rites or ceremonies and yet rises beyond the smoke of incense, beyond the echo of songs: the worship of love, charity, fraternity.
14. It is necessary that you make a thorough examination of your practices so that you destroy every vestige of idolatry, religious fanaticism, superstitions and beliefs improper to this work.
15. If you believe in Christ and love all his works, recognize that this simplicity and spirituality that I have come to inspire you now is the same one that I preached in word and deed in the Second Time, why then have you departed so much from that simplicity without which spirituality cannot exist?
16. See how many confusions this humanity has fallen into, but the light of a new day has come and with it nothing can be hidden or tarnished.
17. That is why I find myself preparing all the roads of the Earth, so that the disciples and apostles of Spiritualism, spread throughout the world announcing my good news.
18. Before sending you to other lands, I want everyone who calls himself a disciple of this Doctrine to be spiritual in his life and in his works, so that his testimony may be true and therefore believed.
19. Reaching spirituality, the path is easy, the slope will not become heavy being encouraged by the ideal of ascending, temptations will no longer make you fall into the depths of the abyss, making you retreat, you will already know how to take from this world what is strictly just, what is lawful and indispensable, thereby giving freedom to your spirit to dream of a better world and let it fight to achieve it.
20. My light bathes your spirit and is a guide for all your steps, that light has descended on all men without distinction of races or beliefs.
21. Israel has returned at this time and is scattered throughout the world to fulfill its spiritual mission. It is the oldest people, the firstborn and therefore the first to communicate with me. His spirit has evolved according to the Law that was given to every spirit when he was sent to Earth.
22. In the First Time, at my first coming, I surprised humanity in its innocence and ignorance, he lived on a low moral level and I spoke to him from the top of the mountain to give him my first lesson. In the Second Time I came down, after a long era in which I granted you trials so that your spirit would affirm its faith and live in the observance of my Law, and I found you more awake, more developed, but far from the true fulfillment that I had asked of you, because you did not know how to put your gifts at the service of the spirit.

23. I came at that time to tell you how the Law is taken to fulfill it, how the Father is honored and how the truth is testified. You had me in Jesus so that all your spirit could touch and feel me, and I left you prepared with my word. Afterwards, I gave you enough time for your spirit to take advantage of my teachings and live imitating me, you continued to evolve and awaken, but to reach your elevation, you have not prepared your way to approach Me. Your light is weak, your faith fragile and you did not realize that my third coming was already near. In the year 1866, at the precise moment when my word and the prophecies had announced to me, I came among you to leave in your spirit a wealth of wisdom, in the new teachings that I promised you for this time.

24. How few have been watching and waiting for my coming. Humanity was asleep when this new era was opened.

25. My will has been that you should live alert at all times, waiting for the hour, so that in none of my comings you would be surprised and I would contemplate your advancement and recognition.

26. You have walked along many roads to get to Me and in them you have got lost; it was necessary that the Shepherd appeared looking for his sheep to gather them in a single pasture, because there is no man on earth to whom I could entrust this office, because I do not find a single one who is ready.

27. I am enlightening and preparing men of good will in all nations to speak of my coming in spirit and of the time of grace that is already approaching. Each one of them has a delicate office and through him I am awakening healthy ideals in the others; I am giving life to their spirit and inspiring love and trust in my Law, so that this may give them strength in their struggle for the redemption and spiritual progress of humanity.

28. Do not let the peoples be divided because of my doctrine. Do not make war, and do not feel superiority over one another. I am inspiring everyone equally, the spirituality that is peace, love and respect for your fellow man; make religious fanaticism fall, perfect the practices, raise the worship of your brothers, that is my will and when you meet each other, recognize each other, love each other and testify to me.

Love one another!

29. You who hear this word, submit to your spirit and study my teaching. Do not take into account the spokespersons, nor attribute this light to them, they are only my instruments by whom I make my will known. Rise up beyond your mind so that you can feel me with your spirit.

30. How small is man to realize a manifestation of this magnitude, the current stage of which began in 1866 and will end in 1950. Learn from this Master who has taught you at all times and also feel that you are judged, because he is a Father and a Teacher, but he is also a judge. The fulfillment that I have appointed for you is for now that you dwell on earth; later, when you are in spirit, you will receive new commands; your struggle is great, immortal, because you are my children. How do you want to perfect yourself in the short life that your soul has, and with it do you intend to come to Me to rest in peace, if the field of cultivation that each spirit has to prepare is so vast? Get rid of your restitution now, have charity for yourselves and do enough merits to pay off your past debt before my Law.

31. I want you to stop being infants and become disciples. Always be humble so that he does not ask you for tests beyond your ability. Reveal in your life, charity and patience, when you have gained the trust of your brothers, revealing my work, speak of my coming as a Consoling Spirit and awaken the spirit of men so that they live on a better level and are interested in being enlightened and elevated by spiritual fulfillment. His heart is fertile ground where you can deposit the divine seed.

32. When you are ready, you will be scattered throughout the world and will tread all roads. Where will you have to go? You do not know it, you will go for apparently material causes, but deep down there will be my will that guides you to the destined place.

33. Bring light and blessing to the regions, balm and peace so that you may be recognized as my messengers, true disciples of love and charity, watch over your steps, because you will be judged in your life.

34. Listen to me, because I am preventing and discovering your future. Do not profane my Work with your deeds, nor obscure the light of your spirit.

35. Climb the mountain and reach the summit of spirituality. Do not take root in this world, if I have told you that this is not my Kingdom, you, as my disciples, will not find it here either. Dematerialize and penetrate into your interior so that you know everything that is of value in your spirit.

36. The time of communication through the human understanding is coming to an end and you do not know what will happen next to humanity, you do not present the trials that will come upon it, because you have not developed your gifts. The intuition is not clear in your spirit and you have not prepared to counteract the forces of the elements, which will be unleashed with great force to overwhelm men, I have given you power in prayer to stop evil, sin, illness and calamities, without until today you have made use of those gifts.

37. O Thomas of the Third Time, you have not understood me! Where are your gifts? Where have you buried them? Why have you forgotten them? You do not know it, but I will tell you: These gifts are latent, they vibrate in you and you do not feel them because you are materialized; you must not live inactive, you must manifest them in all forms and do great wonders with them so that you can testify to your Father and to yourselves.

38. Work, O Israel, so that you may attain possession of the Land of peace, the spiritual land of promise that awaits you.

39. I receive your confession, your gratitude on this day when you come to receive the ratification of your gifts, prepare yourselves and listen: after 1950, you will only present yourselves spiritually, so will your children and the last ones to arrive receive. There will be no intermediaries, and your faith will tell you that I have fully descended to receive and grace all my children.

40. You will all be prepared and guided by Me in the times to come and my lessons today will be broad and clear when you remember them or pass your eyes over the books that have been written.

41. My love is with you, O my disciples! The light of the Holy Spirit pours eternally into you, that light comes to light your lamp of faith.

42. You, who feel the need for the gifts of the spirit, who try to cleanse your life, your mind and your heart in the waters of repentance and regeneration; you, who long to know the truth and claim it, hear my voice that comes to you as a caress, so that you may be filled with my light. At this time the truth is hidden and fantasy reigns, that's why I come to give you my divine essence that is truth and sustains the spirit.

43. The more you understand my truth, the easier your progress will be, through the development of your spiritual faculties, which are in the likeness of your material senses. Do you not feel that your spirit longs to approach a source of crystalline waters, that is, a simple doctrine, without complications, nor rites, nor forms? For this Doctrine that I bring to you is great and luminous, it is the one you are looking for. Time respects its firm foundations, because my will is in them. For those who love the truth, my Doctrine will be the same as always, that of love, wisdom and justice.

44. What is from God comes to man by virtue of the Father's love for the son, I only hope that he will be ready to receive me. The Father wants his wisdom, which is in you as an atom, to develop and manifest itself. I'm here to cheer you up. I only hope that you will heed my words, so that you may receive the secrets that He is making known to you.

45. In your world in times past I left the Doctrine of love with my example; now I continue to give you the spiritual Doctrine, which has the power to enlighten the world, dispel the darkness of the mind, facilitate the way, avoid useless suffering, confusion and tears. For so much gall spilled, there is the sweetness of my Doctrine and for so much shadow of war and misery, there is the light of my revelations.

46. The temple of the Universe has as its pillar and sustains my Doctrine, because in it is the divine and creative power that teaches, that redeems, that persuades and gives life.

47. I speak to you through human lips, but my love transforms my thoughts into material words, so that you can listen to me and be saved and live in God. I am the Teacher of this school of love that never disappoints the noble heart that longs to progress. I come to make every man a child, then a disciple and later a teacher who teaches the truth. I will make of each man a powerful light, which illuminates the path of many lost spirits, and each being will be an instrument of my will without them losing their own, because the greater your spirituality, the better you will harmonize with the will of the Father.

48. You have had many sorrows because of your free will, but I want you to know that I have never abandoned you. Do not give so many turns to get to the truth, love it, that it will come to you, when you open the doors of your love. Love the simple truth and get rid of theories and complications. That light will light the way in the desert of your life and you will not arrive tired or too late. Materialists do not discover the truth, because it is in love, because it is light, wisdom, revelation; therefore, love is a true Teacher.

49. The materialists will come to you, the usual profane ones, saying: our brain is tired of ideas, of books, of science, help us to find the truth, then you, with wisdom, will dispel the clouds that cloud its mind.

50. Listen in infinity to the questions and the answers like the rumble of the seas, like the echo of the wind; listen to wisdom, which turns ignorance into light, rest and tenderness; listen to that sweet colloquy of love, which makes existence pleasant in the knowledge of life and death, of the great arcana, of the laws of God in man, of eternity and of light, listen!

51. You have not come to make yourselves loved, nor have you come to make yourselves forgiven; because you are still little, and are you the ones who come to analyze in order to be able to believe? No one yet has the spiritual light to judge my word or my work perfectly. I have put to the test philosophers, sages, doctrinaires and thinkers and also those of eternal doubt, who are always asking: Is it really the Father? And I have said to everyone: "The tree is recognized by its fruit; my word says who I am; my word will continue to surprise philosophers and rude people". I say to you: Only by love will you know who I am and who you are, since through it, you will be able to see my face. Do not delay, do not think so many times about the eternal question, in love you will find the answers and in the broad horizon of truth, you will find true life.

52. Go along this path and the heavens will be celebrating and light will shine in your existence, because you will have exchanged the sadness of your heart for the sweet and healthy joy of living.

53. Do you think that contemplating the world and its inhabitants in the height of perversity in which they find themselves and needing me as they need me, I abandoned them? Think about this, because I have surprised you by talking and thinking like this.

54. I am the Redeemer, the Teacher who comes to the fallen sinner to lift him up, to spiritualize him and teach him to love.

55. The world will be transformed when it listens to its Redeemer and knows and fulfills His laws.

56. Take this word, which is a Doctrine for the spirit, and be ready to receive what the Promised Comforter gives you for your spiritual progress, because you will have to communicate spirit to Spirit with your Lord.

57. Do not forget my word when the emotion of having listened to me has left you.

58. The charity and love of the Father receive you.

59. The Father's arms are opened to embrace you and for you to rest in them. Take comfort in your worries and listen to this word that comes to sweeten your existence.

60. With what joy my Spirit descends among you, without stopping to judge your sins. I come to speak to you about love and in this word the one who bears a stain is washed, the sinner is redeemed and the sleeper wakes up.

61. The eternity clock, with its sonorous bell, is heard throughout the world, to make humanity understand the time in which it lives.

62. I come to find you because you belong to me, and because I love you, I don't want you to go astray anymore. You are a spark of my divine light and in Me you will have to melt. It is eternity that I come to offer you, so that you can admire all its splendor.

63. I come speaking to you with a clear and simple word so that you understand its meaning and do not go later to complain that I spoke to you with an incomprehensible word.

Love one another!

64. If in the Second Time I gave you my lessons in parables, many of which you failed to understand, now I come to make the clarification of all the teachings with the vibrant light of the Holy Spirit.

65. Understand that all the hardships of this life that you live are the consequences of human faults, because I, who love you, could not offer you such a bitter cup. I have revealed to you from the earliest times the Law as a way where you can preserve yourselves from falls, from the abyss and from death.

66. The moment will have to come for all of you when I will ask you to account for my Law and the gifts with which I have graced you.

67. You are going along the path of your life carrying on your shoulders some the cross of duty and pain, others carry the cross of their sin, but if you call me, I will be your Cyrineus to help you reach Me.

68. Comply with my teachings and you will instantly feel relieved of your burden, you will feel calm and a gentle freshness will mitigate your fatigue.

69. Open your eyes, penetrate with the spiritual gaze and contemplate my splendor. Look at how the door opens that will allow the seven spirits that I have entrusted to humanity to pass through; there are seven virtues that I want to always encourage in you, they are: Love, humility, patience, order, serenity, perseverance and charity. Let these virtues nestle in your heart and you will experience happiness.

70. In this way my Spirit approaches yours to saturate it with light and tell it: this body that you possess today, as a passing garment, is the instrument by which you will achieve great purification and spiritual elevation.

71. If I were to introduce a leprosy sufferer to you on your way, would you turn away from him filled with horror? Will you be unable to touch it with your hand? Are you afraid of getting infected? No, my disciples, because instead of contemplating the misery of that body, you must contemplate his spirit, who is your own brother, who is my son who awaits your charity. How much you have yet to learn!

72. Blessed is the human heart that repents of its weaknesses and makes a purpose of amendment, because in addition to being forgiven, it reaches my light. I am to make sinners my beloved disciples.

73. I am the resurrection and the life, come to Me and you will live forever, because in Me you will find peace.

Love one another!

74. The light of my Holy Spirit is poured out on the whole Universe. By the gifts of intuition, revelation and clairvoyance, men awaken to the new time.

75. Vibrate my Spirit full of justice and penetrate to the depths of consciousness to help it to turn away the spirits of sin, tie the tares in sheaves and throw them into the fire.

76. In order for you to be able to say to the world, "Behold, to the Father who is among you," you will have to prepare yourselves a lot.

77. Many nations are ravaged by hunger, hunger for the bread of the earth and the heavenly bread.

78. Through religions, philosophies and sects, men are looking for me, they are ways by which someday, they will find me.

79. As long as you walk along the narrow path that leads directly to my heart, even if you have to travel distances, climb mountains and cross abysses, you will feel in each of your steps that you are climbing on the spiritual path, from where you will be able to contemplate the silhouette of the Promised Land.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

1. Disciples: fulfill my commands so that you will not mourn for lost time. Deepen yourselves in the study of my word so that you may know what it is for you to fulfill and what is the part that it is for those who are to come after you to do.
2. I have revealed to you, the humble, this Spiritualist Work, before to the scientists, because I have found purity and innocence among you, faith and goodwill to follow my teachings, willingness to take this seed to the hearts of your brothers. That is why I have chosen you, because you are the poor who have felt sadness, those who have not sought comfort on earth, nor its pleasures; because you know that beyond this world there is true spiritual peace, goodness and joy and you have not allowed yourselves to be deceived by false greatness, you have not aspired to temporal power, the joys that only last for an instant. You aspire to more than all that this world can offer you, you love me and you trust that I will bring you back to the home that awaits you, to the bosom from which you have left and where you will possess my kingdom.
3. This hope makes you strong in tribulations and invincible in your struggle. If you remain faithful in your fulfillment, you will soon achieve the triumph of the spirit over the flesh, because you will have allowed your God to influence your life. In the simplicity of your life, you can better perceive my teachings, you will let yourself be enlightened by them and you will experience joys unsuspected by others.
4. That is why you follow me and nothing will be able to separate you from Me anymore. You feel loved by the perfect love and you are happy. You love me and in this you base your joy. Truly I tell you, this is how my disciples of the Second Time and all those who have followed me loved me; for the same reason you are not hurt by the doubt or the mockery of your brothers; pain, which is a crucible for the spirit, does not make you retreat; you know that you live a transitory life and seek to make merits to reach the end that you know awaits you.
5. Prepare yourselves, for I am going to leave you as guardians of humanity. Your gifts are latent, so that you may make good use of them. You will all be present with your work and with your gifts for the last day of the year 1950, to be judged by Me. Some in spirit and some in matter will stand before Me to receive my last commands. Then the paths will be open before you, where you will have to be disseminated, to carry the good news and leave in the hearts of humanity the testimony of me who has come at this time.
6. I do not ask you for sacrifices, nor for works greater than your strength, I only ask for your love, with which I have clothed you, humility and patience so that you may be able to carry out the fulfillment of your mission.

Love one another!

7. My manifestation will cease on the last day of 1950, to make way for the disciples on whom I have poured out my pleasures; the Master will be presiding over your works and I will not cease in my eagerness to bring you to the fulfillment of all my commands.

8. Disciples, I warn you, how many times will you see scientists deny this Work! but you will forgive them and continue your journey. If you do this, I will surprise humanity by granting you that through your spirit, you will discover what men with all their science have not been able to find.

9. Disciples I call you every moment to stimulate you in the struggle, to remove from your heart that idea of inferiority that poverty and humiliation have left in you, I want to make you great in the knowledge of the spiritual, so that you awaken men to a higher life, to a perfect life, in which the law of the spirit is harmoniously linked with those that govern material life.

10. You are not the only depositories of my secrets, nor the only ones worthy of a spiritual inheritance, I tell you this so that you will never boast of being the most worthy or the most beloved, and so that vanity will never germinate in your heart; if you let these feelings grow in your being, you would be in danger of being deprived of the acquired grace.

11. Humanity: your zeal and love will make you eternal possessors of the gifts of the spirit, I want you to always be humble, jealous of the good, the Law and the truth, kind, with the goodness of the spirit, which is superior to that of the heart.

12. My Doctrine is the light from which all wisdom, knowledge, revelations and sciences come, it reveals everything in a simple way. When it is the spirit who guides the steps of humanity, you will be able to verify that what the men of science managed to discover after a long time of study and great sacrifices and tribulations, by spiritual elevation, by prayer, by meditation on God and by inspiration in the good, the secrets will be revealed to you and the arcana will be opened, in which by other means, man could never have penetrated.

13. Much of what I have spoken to you at this time is prophecy that refers to times near at times, and sometimes to times of the future, that is why many men will not want to give importance to this divine message, instead, this word will emerge full of light among humanity of the times to come, who will see and find in it great revelations, the accuracy and perfection of which will leave men of science amazed.

14. That is the reason why I have commanded you to write my word, so that when you pass from this to the next life, or when this people comes to forget my teachings, it will be faithfully and indelibly written in a book.

15. For you, people, the time is ripe for you to stand up and prove this truth, working wonders on your brothers and sisters with the gifts that I have revealed to you.

Love one another!

16. Do not go to sleep waiting for those times that I have spoken to you to get up and say to humanity: “What you see was already said”, no, people, it is essential that you announce it in advance, that you prophesy it, that you prepare the way for the arrival of everything that I have predicted and promised you, and then you will have fulfilled your mission as precursors of spirituality on Earth. Thus, when wonders begin to appear in the world and the Spirit of the Lord speaks to you through events never seen before and the spirit of humanity begins to manifest gifts and powers never foretold, you will see all beliefs, theories, norms, institutions and sciences being removed and then humanity will confess that those who from their humility preached a seemingly strange Doctrine, were right because their words had confirmation when fulfilled.

17. You will then see the peoples of the earth, interested in spiritual teaching, the theologians comparing the teachings of Christ with the new revelations, and you will see many who had always been indifferent to the spiritual, become keenly interested in the study of the revelations of this and past times.

18. Now you cannot, even if you wanted to, look at the fulfillment of everything that I announce to you, but if you truly believe in my word, with the look of your faith you will be able to contemplate many events of the future, and if you are prepared, your dreams, your sights and inspirations, will not deceive you.

19. Listen to Me with deep attention: When I cease to speak to you in this way, pick up with love my word that you recorded in writings, to bequeath it, as a testimony of what I spoke to you at this time to the generations to come.

20. Consider my word as a seed so that you will not let the slightest impurity mix with it.

21. The lands, which will be the hearts of this humanity, will soon be clean and prepared for sowing, and would it be fair that if they were clean, the seed would not be?

22. Meditate on my word, beloved disciples, in it you will be transformed and refined for the good performance of your mission.

23. Now I have returned among men to accompany them in their present trials, The Master tells you: After 1950, do not worry when you see the signs of my coming appear in fullness, but rejoice, because I have allowed you to feel these revelations.

24. Just as in the Second Time, after the sacrifice, I presented myself in spirit to Magdalene and she, surprised and at the same time full of joy, exclaimed: “Lord, be praised and glorified forever”; Today I have appeared before you, when you believed that the Master was absent or indifferent to your hardships and after your surprise you have blessed me. You have received my light in your spirit, and after receiving so much grace, you have remembered your brothers and have interceded for them saying: I am blessed to hear your word, while others ignore these teachings; and the Master tells you: I have manifested my Spirit in all nations in different ways, those who have prepared recognize that they are living a time of grace and justice and have felt my presence.

Love one another!

25. Just as I forgive Magdalene, I forgive you, but I want you to become worthy of Me like her.

26. How many examples to be imitated can you gather from your brothers of other times! His work is like an open book. And don't you want to write down your example? I will take from your works what I find worthy, to present them to your descendants, but you will not gather, today that you live in matter, glory or veneration. Be humble and let others value your works.

27. In the great journey that awaits you, I will be your Cyrene. My Doctrine will cause great revolutions in the world, there will be great transformations in customs and ideas and even in nature there will be changes, all this will signal the entrance of a new era for humanity, and the spirits, which I will shortly send to Earth, will speak of these prophecies to help the restoration and elevation of this world, they will explain my word and analyze the facts.

28. Come and listen to me, concentrate in the depths of your heart and I assure you that no matter how little your faith in my presence, you will feel me.

29. I do not come to judge your lack of faith, on the contrary, I come to forgive it because you were not prepared to receive me; for many centuries humanity had been sleeping in a deep lethargy, intoxicated with fanaticism and idolatry and materialism.

30. Who had reminded you that I had announced my return and that, therefore, you would have to keep watch to wait for me? By chance your parents? Are your ministers? Who kept you on your toes?

31. Few were waiting for the events, eager for the symbolic cloud of my promise to appear on the horizon, illuminating your spirit, strengthening your matter and revealing to you that my new coming is in Spirit.

32. That is why your struggle has been so great to understand my presence at this time and you have had to overcome many obstacles to reach Me; but all this is meritorious, I take it into account and in truth I tell you that none of the bitterness that you have had for following me on this path, will remain without a reward.

33. What do you think is the compensation for your patience for suffering ridicule and contempt even within your family? But, since you have had patience to resist their misunderstandings, have it also to wait for the moment when their faith ignites, to achieve this, you will have to fight a lot with deeds, with words and thoughts, but at last you will see the miracle realized.

Love one another!

34. To you I will give the mission of announcing to your brothers my new coming; I entrust to you the message or good news of my spiritual communication with humanity. Enjoy thinking that you are the bearers of such a precious message and let that joy serve as a balm for the wounds that you receive on the path of struggle.

35. Some have come to the manifestation of my word with the innocence of those shepherds of Bethlehem, their simple faith was the humble offering of their hearts; others have come asking me for proof to believe, they were the sick, those who for a long time and from door to door had sought health without finding it; others come in the likeness of the scribes and Pharisees to search me, to question me and to test me, always fearing that the truth will expose their hypocrisy and their falsehood; I have received everyone, for everyone I have had a caress, a demonstration of my power, a proof of my truth.

36. I must also tell you that all those I have mentioned to you, many have stayed to follow me, because their heart has known how to beat with gratitude and their spirit has been illuminated with the light of my word in a longing to learn how to sow and cultivate the truth.

37. From a small group that came to meet to listen to my first lessons, you have already become multitudes that form a people, but for now not everyone will know how to become the true apostles of this message of spirituality.

38. Among these multitudes there are men of all kinds and conditions, as well as there are spirits of various evolution among them; and in order for this divine revelation, for this message that I have brought in my word, to become clarified and defined among the people who witness my manifestations, many trials will have to pass, many inner struggles will have to sustain and many crucibles in which to melt, until coming out clean of them as a true disciple of Spiritualism.

39. It will not be the first time that men have struggled to define a divine revelation or to achieve clarity in something that in their eyes appears as a mystery. Already in the Second Time, after my preaching in the world, men deliberated on the personality of Jesus, wanting to know whether or not he was divine, whether he was One with the Father or was a different person; they judged and searched in all ways my Doctrine.

40. Now I will again be the object of analysis, of discussions, of struggles, of scrutiny.

41. It will be judged if, when the Spirit of Christ appeared, He was independent of the Spirit of the Father, and there will be others who will say that it is the Holy Spirit who has spoken and not the Father or the Son.

Love one another!

42. But what you call the Holy Spirit is the light of God and what you call the Son is his Word; therefore, when you hear this word, when you take from my Doctrine of the Second Time or think about the Law and revelations of the First Time, know that you are in the presence of the one God, listening to his Word and receiving the light of his Spirit.

43. It is time for you to study this revelation, so that when you are questioned and put to the test, you will know how to answer with words of true light, leaving peace and joy in every heart in which you deposit the essence of my word and the light of your analysis.

44. I am hungry and thirsty for your love, people, let me be with you for a few moments, because I have something to tell you.

45. Why do you seek Me only when your sorrows weigh you down? Would you not also like to offer me your joys, your triumphs and satisfactions?

46. In the Second Time I came to inspire you with love and trust so that you could approach Me without fear. Why then do you sometimes doubt my love or my forgiveness? O prodigal children who fear to return to the parental home! I knew that despite the proofs of infinite love that I gave you at that time, it was necessary to look for you again, not so that you would contemplate me humanized but so that you would feel me inside, very inside your spirit.

47. Return to surround me as my disciples at that time, return to follow me as the great multitudes did, that I, in turn, will make you listen to the heavenly concert of my word, at the same time that I will do those works of love that you call miracles.

48. I come as a Father so that in Me all those who in the world have lacked love, affection, tenderness may find the divine warmth.

49. I come as a doctor so that you may deposit in Me your ailments, your cares and all the hidden sufferings that have sickened your spirit and at the same time the body.

50. I come as a friend so that you can entrust me with your most intimate secrets, struggles and longings, and let me walk in your company.

51. I come as a Teacher, because I want to open before you the book of wisdom and life.

52. I come as a judge to judge the living and the dead as you say; incarnate and disembodied, I say, without the smallest of your works going unnoticed by my justice.

53. Among these crowds that gather in the humble precincts to listen to me, there are many who understand and feel this word. They are the spirits evolved on the long paths of struggle, trials, experience, and purified in the great days of pain. They understand me and do not come to ask me for goods for the world; they know that in their spirit there is a book of knowledge and they only expect from the Teacher that divine lesson, by which they will be able to know how to overflow the light that the spirit brings, on those in need of experience and teaching.

Love one another!

54. Here are also those who, without having walked much, will take my word as a way not to get lost, and his love will save your spirit infinite sufferings.

55. These multitudes bring in their hearts only one prayer: that of their pain, they all come to tell me that their burden is too heavy and their chalice is too bitter; they come to present me with loneliness, disappointments, fatigue, weaknesses, misery, illnesses, mourning and many more sorrows; but not only they suffer, the pain is in all humanity. They do not know that this is the time of purification in which spirits and men wash away their stains and then take a step forward, towards the summit of the mountain. When those stains have been erased, then you will no longer experience one more moment of pain, because the balm of regeneration will have restored to you that health that the Lord deposited in His creatures when they sprouted from His bosom.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

1. Come to Me, beloved disciples, rest in my house and sit at my table now that I am still with you, because these times will not return. A new time will come for you in which you will take a step forward on the path of your evolution.
2. You are still children who live in the custody of the Father, who does not let you go far from the father's house, so that you will not stumble or fall into an abyss. But soon you will be strong and ready to travel all the paths.
3. Make your heart a chest in which you keep my words like jewels.
4. I have returned to you, knowing the unbelief of men. I come to remember and to live my passion. Today I remind you of the moment in which the Master who speaks to you ascended to the Divine Sun to be eternally in the Father. It was after Jesus had concluded his mission on earth, when he came as a meek lamb to the presence of the Eternal.
5. God manifested himself from the earliest times to men and His teachings were listened to. The voice of the Lord became human and understandable to primitive creatures. In them, the consciousness that is the divine wisdom, taught them to know good and evil. In good deeds they felt peace, and when they did wrong, they experienced pain. These were the first lessons, the first manifestations of consciousness.
6. In the course of time, when humanity has ignored that voice, I have sent men of all virtue and wisdom who ordered him with their words and examples to follow the good path.
7. Remember that in the early days I sent a righteous Abel, whose holocaust of love for my Divinity, was a precursor of prayer and perfect worship.
8. I sent you Noah, the fervent one, who ignored ridicule, attended only to the fulfillment of a divine mandate, to build the Ark of salvation for men of good faith.
9. Abraham, Isaac and Jacob were among you, who formed the trunk of a tree from which branches, foliage and fruits came out, and the example of those patriarchs was written with the unshakable faith of Abraham, the obedience of Isaac and the fidelity and spiritual strength of Jacob. And a fruit of that tree was Moses, the representative of my law, and the image of my righteousness. In it you could see a reflection of my Majesty.
10. From time to time I have been penetrating the sensitivity of humanity and that is why I had to become a man, to penetrate more into your heart. But in order to come into the world, it was necessary to proclaim me through the prophets.

Love one another!

11. I came to live among men by making my life an example, a book. I knew of all the pains, trials and struggles, poverty, work and persecution; I knew of the ignorance of relatives, of ingratitude and betrayal; of long hours, thirst and hunger, mockery, loneliness and death. I let the whole weight of human sin fall on Me. I allowed man to search my Spirit in my word and in my pierced body, where every last bone of me could be contemplated. Being God, I was made a king of mockery, a spoil, and I still had to carry the cross of ignominy and climb the mound where thieves died. There my human life ceased, as a proof that I am not only the God of the word, but the God of works.

12. In 1866, my charity opened the doors to a new Era: that of the Holy Spirit. Will all mankind know the time in which he is? Only the spiritualist people who I am gathering under the shade of these trees know, My Work will be recognized in the world after great battles and events, after wars of doctrines and ideas, so that men will rise up affirming that a new Era has arisen.

13. It has been a while since the one for whom I communicated for the first time at this time left this Earth: Roque Rojas, the messenger, whose steps were guided by the spirit of Elias, the forerunner. Thus I unleashed the sixth seal, opening the infinite gap of spiritualism.

14. And from Roque to this day, you have struggled a lot, O Marian Trinitarian Spiritualists! leaving in the struggle, strength, youth and life and everything you possessed, for following me and honoring this Work. Quietly and humbly have you labored, to make known to men the new coming of the Lord.

15. My word did not come to incarnate again. I am at this time on the cloud, symbol of the Afterlife, from where my Ray springs that illuminates the mind of the speaker.

16. I have been pleased to communicate with the man and my determination is perfect. I know man because I created him. I can use him because that is what I formed him for, and I can manifest my glory through him, because I created him to glorify myself in him.

17. The man! Here is my image because he is intelligence, life, consciousness, will, because he possesses something of all my attributes and his spirit belongs to eternity.

18. Many times, you are smaller than you have believed and other times, you are bigger than you can imagine.

19. The conceited person thinks he is great without being so, and he is small who is content with the superfluous riches of this life, without discovering the true values of the heart and spirit. How small are their desires, their loves, their ideals, with how little they are satisfied!

Love one another!

20. But he who knows how to live is he who has learned to give to God what is God's and to the world what is the world's. He who knows how to recreate himself in the bosom of Nature, without becoming a slave to matter, he knows how to live, and although he apparently possesses nothing, he is the owner of the goods of this life and is on the way to possessing the riches of the kingdom.

21. What I tell you at this time, I did not teach you in the past times. This is my new testament, I am the foolish pilgrim who incessantly knocks on your door and does not let you sleep. I am the shadow that follows you everywhere, what do you want? My love is infinite.

22. The time of my departure is approaching. My visit in this time, has been long, from 1866 to 1950.

23. Truly I tell you, if anyone says that my word has not done you any good, it has not caused you any harm either. But remember that I do not want you to be like the parasitic plants; that I do not want you to be satisfied with not doing evil, but that you be satisfied with doing good. Because the one who does not practice it, being able to do it, he has done more evil than the one who, not being able to do any good, only does evil, because it is the only thing he can give, according to his degree of spiritual evolution.

24. I called you to this path because I saw you sad in your spirit. You were looking for my light in the various rites, you were going after miracles to attest to Me, and when I crossed your path to ask you if you were satisfied, you answered: I have eaten, but I have not sustained my heart or my spirit.

25. Meanwhile, the Tree of Life has been waiting for the wayfarer to bring him its fruits, and the fountain of crystal clear waters has waited overflowing for the thirsty pilgrim, as a promise of peace. I the divine gardener who waited sad, contemplating the passage of the seasons over the fields.

26. Now the great crowds of those thirsty for love, peace, truth and work have arrived, You have brought the fruit to your lips and after having calmed hunger and thirst, you have taken the farming tools, to become gardeners.

27. There are no more temporal riches among you. Where are your assets? Do not remember it or regret having lost them, because today you have recovered the spiritual treasure of my truth, which is in my word, in this word that I have come to give you through the humble son, because if I spoke to you through a sage, or a philosopher, you would not believe me.

28. Men of all kinds come to Me, but these classes disappear before the Master, not all those who have come to hear me have stayed with me: "Many are called and few are chosen." Many will come and not all will follow me, but truly I tell you, I have sown my word in everyone, and the seed of Christ never dies. My seed is not vain, and the heart of man, being for a moment unfruitful, will be fertile and will bear fruit.

Love one another!

29. Women who water the path of this world with your tears, and who mark your passage through this life with blood: rest in Me so that you may gain new strength and continue to be the nest of love, the fire of the hearth, the strong foundation of the house that I have entrusted to you on Earth. That you may continue to be the lark, whose wings envelop the husband and the children, I bless you.

30. I exalt the man and the place of the woman at the right hand of the man. I sanctify marriage and bless the family.

31. At this time I come with a sword of love to put all things in their place since they were previously put by man outside of it.

32. Disciples of my Divinity: I am here among you, showing you one more page of the book of my teachings.

33. It is unleavened bread that you are eating right now. And the water that you drink is of the one that whoever takes it, thirst will not feel again.

34. You are like strangers in this land, because it is another your true homeland. I am pointing out to you a path, it is the one that leads to the Land of Promise. My word leads you on the path of progress, I am the tireless Teacher, who prepares you so that after my departure you will reach perfect communication with my divinity.

35. Today, the chisel of my word of love, polishes and shapes your heart.

36. As in the first time, you are going through the desert of vicissitudes. But you shall not perish by hunger or thirst during the day. From your own heart, hardened as a rock, I will make the crystal clear water of repentance and of love that quenches the thirst of the spirit to flow. And when the hunger for righteousness and truth takes hold of the people, my word, like the manna of the desert, will fall on you so that you may feed.

37. The moment will come when you will all return to Me, but for now stay among humanity so that you may teach it to walk on the path of truth. You will spread out on different paths, without carrying a double saddlebag, trusting in Me, but you will work quietly, humbly, without boasting, and I will accompany you in the struggle and comfort you in your prayer whether you call me in the corner of your bedroom or under the shade of a tree. The day will come when you will be recognized in Me.

38. It is necessary that you understand that my departure is near, that you open your heart and raise your spirit so that you can contemplate me.

Love one another!

39. Through many spokesmen I have manifested myself, so that you may not doubt Me. I have chosen them without distinguishing class, conditions or race, and by the mouth of all of them I have given you your inheritance, so that in the absence of my word you will not feel orphaned or abandoned.

40. If you prepare yourselves in truth, you will be the tree, the fountain, and the table for the feast that receives all the prodigal children who have been absent from the Father's house. Then the nations will not bow down to you, but they will recognize you and bow down to Me.

41. At all times, my Law has seemed to you too inflexible to comply with it, and that is why you have created sects and rites within the reach, according to you, of your spiritual capacity.

42. If you had complied with my orders of the First Time, you would have recognized Jesus and would not have sacrificed him. If humanity had lived my Doctrine of the Second Time, it would not be doubting my communication through the understanding of man.

43. It will not be you who judge the nations, but I, as it is written, will judge the nations and the religions in you. This people will be an example of zeal, cleanliness and spirituality.

44. The cry of humanity rises up to Me. It is the cry of children, it is the youth that cries out for justice, it is the old age that raises its invocation of peace.

45. It is that men have lost the seed of love that, without knowing it, they carry in the purest of their hearts, so deep inside that they themselves cannot discover.

46. The seed of love, has been drowned by hatred, vanity and low passions. And the chalice of bitterness is filled once again, to be drunk to the dregs.

47. While the world is shipwrecked in the midst of the storm, you, from the boat, calmly contemplate the disaster.

48. You are in the lap of the Father, without thinking about those who cry, and they, in the midst of the vicissitudes, celebrate cults dedicated to Me, which, although they are wrapped in fanaticism and idolatry, I receive them because I am a Father, but I make them understand that my heart is open to perfect worship.

49. From altar to altar, from rite to rite, and from sect to sect, men go in search of the Bread of Life, without finding it, and in the face of disappointment, they become blasphemers to take aimless paths and live without God and without Law. And think, people, that among them are the great spirits, that among them I discover the prophets and the disciples of the Holy Spirit!

50. The spirits of light that vibrate spiritually, are already preparing paths through plains, seas, mountains and deserts, so that those races, those peoples, in caravans and crowds will rise up after this nation, where my word has resounded and my wonders have been seen.

Love one another!

51. When those men knock on your doors, what are you going to offer them? You are not going to offer them imperfections, because they are fed up with it. They come in search of truth, charity and love. They will come to learn how to raise a cult as pure as the perfume of flowers.

52. Today I tell you to always teach the last ones the fulfillment of my Law, in it my teachings of the three times are enclosed.

53. Be inspired to pray in the prayer of the garden I taught you how is the perfect prayer.

54. As long as you are not prepared, the roads will remain closed for Me and I will not make the call to the multitudes.

55. I do not want to leave among you in the midst of your disunity, disobedience and misunderstanding.

56. I see that you are already preparing my cross, for the moment of my departure, cross of ingratitude.

57. It is still time for you to redouble your efforts, so that the hour will not surprise you and you will say: The Father has departed! Because you will only stop listening to me through the speaker, but I will be present and the seers will testify to this. You will hear my voice by inspiration, and when you are teaching in the homes and in the regions, it will not be your lips that speak but I.

58. The communication of spirit to Spirit will reach its splendor in those times and my presence will be felt more clearly, from time to time and from generation to generation.

59. In the face of these revelations, no one should regret the absence of my word and whoever weeps, it will be because his conscience claims not to have taken advantage of the time of my stay with you, and therefore feels weak, and clumsy to continue on the way.

60. I want you to be witnesses that you were with me. Let you show men the golden books that I have granted you to form.

61. There will be no priests or ministers among this people. There will be only servers. These enclosures will be places of meeting and study, where the guides will ensure the compliance of the people.

62. The reign of many doctrines will be very short, because anyone who does not have the seed of truth, justice and love will be destroyed.

63. But my Work of Love will be recognized, the stranger will come and knock at your door. Let him in. Prepare his bed for him to rest, but if he wants to go to the table first, let him. When he has had enough, if he sleeps, watch over his sleep. But when he wakes up and contemplates the light, he will review his past deeds before his conscience and even his last stain will be washed away with his tears. Then I will give him a white robe, and I will seat him among those who have been with Me.

Love one another!

64. It is the Third Age, and I am still giving my teaching to humanity, because in those messengers whom I have sent to you, you have not trusted.

65. While human creatures discuss my Divinity, my existence and my Doctrine, there are many worlds where I am loved with perfection.

66. At the same time that some have reached the maximum spiritual purity, your planet, morally and spiritually, is living a time of great perversity.

67. But you who listen to me, know that I have sent you among mankind to set an example of humility and obedience to my Law. I sent your spirit clothed with my grace, wrapped in my light and carrying the Law in his conscience.

68. If for an instant you fell into the abyss, penetrated into darkness and succumbed to infirmities, I raised you up with my voice, demonstrating to humanity that I can pull my disciples out of the same dross.

69. I am the divine goodness that manifests itself at every step. If you do not want to rise up looking for me spiritually and prefer to stop and contemplate Nature, there in it, you will also find me: The king star, whose rays of light, life and heat, speak of Me, the air that gives you life and that is my own breath.

70. But when you rise spiritually to Me, in your works or in prayer, you perceive the grace that exists in the hereafter and a path of light that promises wonders and revelations in the heavenly arcanum of the Father.

71. You have knowledge of these beauties that life contains in the hereafter, and that is why you work with eagerness in the vineyard of the Lord.

72. I want there to be love between farmers, there to be charity.

73. The tree that I have placed on your shoulders is not heavy, it is not impossible that you can fulfill the mission confined to your spirit. If you trust in my power, you will contemplate the impossible made possible in your path and you will verify that whoever lives in obedience to my teachings is close to Me.

74. To every farmer who reaches preparation, I will send him to the regions of the earth, so that he may bring the good news.

Love one another!

75. Your spirit today has a great struggle with matter; he has drawn his sword to face temptation, which in my name he will overcome.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 218

1. Blessed people, you have come to meet this Master who incessantly calls you to him, to nourish you with his love and to strengthen you in times of trial. You've been giving up everything to hear me. Parents leave their children, the mother the little one in the crib, eager to receive comfort for herself and for her own; youth turning away from earthly pleasures; the elders, forgetting the weight of their trials and all leaving behind what is human misery, illnesses, anguish, to appear before Me and tell me: Master, we have prayed at an early hour and lifted up our spirit, and Elijah, our shepherd, has prepared us to hear the divine word; receive us.
2. You gather under the shade of this tree, which has spread its branches to the ends of this nation chosen by Me, and you hear under its many branches the same word, the same essence, the same fruit that for so long I have given you.
3. With all of you I have formed a people who are the firstborn among all the peoples of the earth, chosen at all times, but not the only one in my love, because I love and have loved the peoples of the world at all times; but this one, my chosen one, has loved me in a singular way and has made himself worthy of my pleasures. But those favors that I have granted him, have not been only for him and the people have taken everything for themselves and has become the rich miser and has said: I am the most beloved, the chosen one, superior to others, the closest to the Spirit of the Lord; the others must bow down to me, because the Father has poured out his Law, his good pleasure, on me; and I say to you, Do not be arrogant. It has pleased me to give to you in the three times; through three long ages I have poured out on your spirit in the different wrappings that you have possessed, so that you may imitate me and participate in my gifts, and full of love for your brothers, you will be like a tree whose shadow and fruit will be for all walkers.
4. And now in this age, enlightened by my Spirit, you are understanding what the Father gave you in the first times, what Jesus taught you in the Second and I say to you: Do not become like rich greedy, be like this Teacher who gives himself to the disciples out of love, and when introducing yourselves to other brother peoples, do not feel superior, nor say that only you possess the three testaments and that you own them, that you have possessed the ark of the covenant, the tabernacle and the symbols. Not village. I want you to tell your brothers of different races that you can all become the chosen people of the Lord, of that blessed family, because you have all sprung from one Spirit, from one Father.
5. Then you will have understood your mission and you will be able to be the salvation of the world. You will no longer allow the Father to be the one who comes to materialize, to make himself understood by the children who do not know how to rise spiritually, and you will tell me in your prayer from spirit to Spirit: Father, remain in your solio, you have already descended for a long time, you have suffered for our materialization and sin; still in the Third Time you had to speak to us in one and a thousand ways to teach us and you have already poured out your strength and your virtues among this people, who is your disciple; leave us as responsible for humanity.

6. At all times it has seemed too difficult for you to fulfill my Law, being human beings; and that is why from the earliest times you have formed different religions, and have practiced imperfectly. If in the First Time you had fulfilled my laws delivered through Moses, it would not have been necessary for Jesus, the Word of the Father, to come among you, why did that Teacher suffer? For the people of Judah did not know him, they cast him out of their bosom and sacrificed him, without having looked or felt who he was.

7. This people had not prepared themselves, they had not complied with the divine laws, from these and the precepts they had made their own laws, in which they believed to comply. And the Divine Master became a man and with his birth, his life and his passion, he wrote one more page of the book of divine wisdom, in which every word was shaped by powerful works, words and works sealed with blood; thus you received the Second Testament, and if you had fulfilled those two testaments, would I have had to communicate at this time through the human channel, through imperfect and perishable understandings? If you had practiced my commandments and my Doctrine that I have given you with so much love, you would not be judging Me, nor doubting Me because I communicate by human understanding.

8. Gather the three testaments together and do not commit adultery or mystify my word. This is the legacy I leave to humanity. The light of my Spirit illuminates you and your spirit, who knows who he is, remembers his past and knows why I have come at this time and can understand my teaching.

9. Only in this way will you know the purity and perfection of my Work given in the three times, which is about human religions and ideas. It is the way, the life, the beginning and the end of every spirit, which contains the book of my wisdom.

10. Why don't the sects and religions recognize me, and show so much misunderstanding? You who hear me, judge no one; I will judge, as it is written, all nations and all religions.

11. If you comply with humility, the world will believe you. That world tired of words and rites, needs examples. O Israel, who have received the pure seed at all times, whom can you imitate? What religion from which they have sprung, have watched over the fulfillment of all my precepts? None, but I can tell you: if you find jealous men in them, imitate them; if you find love, imitate their love; if you see in them respect for Me, imitate them too, so that you may know how to appreciate virtue and give to each one what corresponds in justice; but the imperfect, the reprehensible, never imitate it. If you do not know what is right and what is reprehensible, pray, hear my word and let your conscience advise you.

12. The cry of humanity reaches Me, the anguish of childhood, youth, men and women of mature age and the elderly, rises; it is the voice that cries out for justice, it is an invocation of peace, of mercy that the spirit makes, because the seed of love in this world has been lost and do you know where love is? In the depths of the human heart, so deep that it is not enough to discover it, because hatred, ambitions, science and vanity have drowned the seed and there is no spirituality, no mercy; the cup of bitterness is filling up and the world drinks it to the dregs.

13. And you people, contemplate in peace from the boat the storm that has been unleashed, full of trust in the Father. While those nations involved in wars blaspheme against my Spirit, some, and others practice imperfect cults, you are glorifying me. But you will all awaken in this time of trials and come to be unified by love and spiritual knowledge.

14. Disciples: I receive you and I am ready to forgive you. I want to feel loved by you and I also long for you to live in harmony with each other. Let the absent son return to my lap, and if he has distanced himself from Me due to misunderstanding or ignorance, do not be afraid that I will reproach him for his actions. I want to caress your spirit and give back to it what it has lost, its peace, its joy and hope. It is my desire that you take from this life its sweetness, that you know how to receive its troubles, that you live meekly and patiently, that you work for your elevation. Who can take me away from you, or what power is there that prevents Me from loving and protecting you?

15. On the other hand, you do know how to turn away from Me and imitate the prodigal son; and only when pain wounds your heart, do you remember that there is a Father who loves you and is ready to help you, to deliver you from every danger that lies in wait for you.

16. I have always inspired you with confidence so that you may see in Me a loving Father, a loyal friend, a confidant.

17. Remember the parable of the prodigal son, you who carry the weight of a great fault, and think that first of all I am love and forgiveness. You must take into account that you are destined to come to Me perfected, free from errors, clean; and if today you are within that opportunity to model your heart and do great spiritual works, you must take advantage of these times and make the days of your exile short.

18. If you already have the experience of past eras and you know that the law of restitution exists, why do you fall back into the mistakes of yesterday instead of taking a big step forward on your way?

Love one another!

19. Look at humanity restoring its faults and washing away its stains; it is subject to great transformations in order to purify and restore all that it has defiled.

20. My word is fulfilled; you have seen much of my prophecies fulfilled before your unbelief. Many others are about to be seen, and of this you will bear witness. My trial is open as I announced for these times.

21. Chaos engulfs the nations; while a few watch and know the reason for their hardships, many sleep and are content to live without making an effort to know the cause of all these trials. You do know why, you have read in the book of wisdom and my word has prepared you, nothing can surprise you. But you are still too young to give the warning voice to humanity, you have not yet been strengthened and your steps are hesitant. You have heard my word and you cannot understand it, or when you have understood it, you do not put it into practice. You are divided, knowing that you are one people, and the charges I have given you feel that they weigh on you like an unbearable burden. I ask you, why have you not reached the bottom of this teaching if I have enlightened you with real light? Why are you not strong if I have fed you with this bread of eternal life, of which a crumb is enough to give life to the hungry? It is because you have become familiar with my word and have taken it without taking advantage of it; look, while you are fed up with it, there are many hungry who long to take it to feed themselves.

22. The time is approaching when this word will cease, then it will have remained in the hearts of my disciples and will be engraved in books to be made known to humanity. After 1950 I want you to maintain the greatest purity in your practices and obedience to my orders and commands, thereby testifying that I was with you.

23. All your positions have been given to you according to your ability and strength because I know and I know your virtue. Work out of love, not out of fear, look at the bottom of my teachings, my Father's love and my forgiveness always manifest over all my children.

24. How much joy I discover in your heart while you are listening to my word! I am the infinite patience, which awaits the moment when you rise fully to the struggle. I have revealed to you your future.

25. How great your journey is going to be after my departure, you have not even sensed it! By then I have some secrets to reveal to you, so that you can persuade men.

26. I surprised you like those fishermen of the Second Time, whom I found dedicated to their tasks and duties, saying to them: "Follow Me, from now on you will be fishermen of men. I granted them the virtue of healing the sick, I gave them the gift of the word, I enlightened them with my revelations and I taught them to liberate the possessed. And having been prepared and comforted, I pointed out to them the ways and offered them the regions so that they could put into practice my Doctrine of redemption.

Love one another!

27. At this time you have not been chosen twelve; you are a numerous portion that I have consecrated and taught under the shade of various bushes. You will be the ones who instill courage in humanity, in the great trials that threaten the world.

28. Soon the Spiritual World will cease to communicate, and I want you to develop your gifts, so that you will not hesitate.

29. I want you to live alert so that you may listen in intuition or in dreams to the voice from Beyond, when it tells you: Get up! and then you will direct your steps to the homes and to the regions where the disease or the fury of the elements have sown desolation. And when you have to go after remote countries, listen to the Father's command indicating the moment and pointing out the way.

30. Of the sects and religions will come to observe you, they will test your power. There will be those who, convinced of your gifts, tempt you with money to use you for material purposes. Do not forget that anyone who turns my Work into a commodity will lose my grace.

31. I am going to stop talking to you through the human channel because it is written, but I will not abandon you. I will give you the inspiration and I will make you feel my presence. And the tranquility of your conscience will not let time leave deep marks on your body.

32. Every house of prayer and enclosure where my Doctrine is not practiced with purity will disappear and only those that are a refuge and a boat of salvation for the needy will remain.

33. After my departure, purification will come in this people; it will be in the midst of world struggles and strife, after which peace will come and misery will flee.

34. Be strong, for in the time of strife you will be persecuted and harassed. You will be denied work and bread. But then I will manifest my mercy and my power in you, for you will not feel hunger, your face will never be changed, nor will you become needy. Then your spirit will remember the way to the Promised Land through the desert as in the First Time; and he will remember that before his thirst the rock was opened, to offer him the freshness of the waters; when the scorching sun of the desert burned you, the clouds, like a mantle, covered you and when hunger and scarcity threatened, the manna descended as a message of love from your Father.

35. I warn you of everything, so that tomorrow you will not say that I did not prepare you.

36. I explain my doctrine clearly to you, so that you will not fall into temptation, nor allow yourselves to be surprised.

Love one another!

37. I want to contemplate you always prepared, so that you may be understanding and respectful of my will. If you are the first who have received my teaching and have had in yourselves the trials that I have descended to communicate with man, you must strive to leave a good example to those who come after you. You must know your spiritual origin, your duties and the missions entrusted to you, so that you may watch over your spirit and know how to preserve yourself in virtue.

38. As you have evolved, coming to Earth again and again in different incarnations, you see that my Work remains unchanging, unalterable through the times that have passed. I always show you the same attributes, I make you feel my Father's love, my boundless patience, my works that redeem, and despite all these trials you do not recognize me. It is necessary that you wake up and realize the time that I have given you so that you can work out your salvation in it, the time is approaching for you to leave for the afterlife, and you have not hurried so that you arrive at the precise moment when I call you, so that you show me your harvest and that that harvest may be of seed cultivated with prayer, being also your spirit in the best position of repentance and elevation.

39. Think that if you are part of my Spirit, you possess life and grace just like Me. You are pure in your principle and this is how you must come to Me, on your return. That is why you must fight tirelessly at this time, so that you can return to your primitive purity and perfection.

40. Have charity for your brothers and for yourselves, since you form one family, one spirit. Above you there are beings who are working for your salvation, crossing space, spreading charity, becoming your protectors. What would become of you, without his help? because you have not been able to interpret my will and you fall into errors every moment.

41. Think about the struggle of your spiritual protectors and help them by making their work less painful. Do not sow thistles on his path, do not ignore his voice that always warns you of danger, his advice that guides your steps and his light that guides you. Live with them in harmony and you will be able to be in perfect communion with me.

42. You shall not distinguish yourselves from your brothers by any material insignia or sign, but distinguish yourselves by your works, of which your own brothers will be the ones to bear witness. This way you will be able to gain the trust of those around you and turn your enemies into friends.

43. Not all of you have awakened, but I will use the preparation of a single heart in each enclosure, to awaken the others; so that in the hour of the call, in the hour of the Lord's justice, all of you will give me a single fruit, always the same in the hands of all my farmers. So that the Father may make the call to humanity and all the peoples of the Earth may have access in your Nation; so that they may come to take not only the word that I leave written, but also your example.

44. And so my Doctrine will make its way among all doctrines. Because she will win and prevail, at last, among all the others.

45. Every doctrine that is not confirmed by facts and examples has pronounced its death sentence. But every doctrine that is confirmed by facts, that one will prevail. My examples, my sacrifice in the Second Time, speak to you a lot; and now I tell you: He who seals his word with his blood and his life, is setting an example of truth and strength.

46. At that time you will not seal your words with blood or with life. The world is not hungry for your life or thirsty for your blood. Man thirsts for truth, love and charity; and when you have been prepared and spiritualized, without falling into any fanaticism, when you know how to practice my divine laws and human laws sincerely, as the Father has taught you, then you will give the world the secret of peace and redemption in all ways.

47. Because my Work does not come against science, or human institutions, it does not come against marriage, or the family; it does not come against anything that contains justice and love.

48. If in other times man has risen up as a minister of my Divinity against science, truly I tell you, That minister has not honored me, has not understood me, and has not followed me; because I, being the beginning of all spirituality, am also the beginning of all science; and if you have often heard that the Father abominates the human sciences, they are not of the sciences in their beginning, but of the end that man has given them. I abominate the evil sciences that have led humanity to its destruction, the sciences that man has placed at the service of evil, for the destruction of life and principles; that is the abominable thing about the sciences before Me. But every scientific man who has become a benefactor of humanity, even if you have not named him a saint, I have Him in a select place on the spiritual plane.

49. This is what the Master tells you this day, so that you do not fall into fanaticism, because in truth you are participating in the fruit of science, because I have inspired men with my light so that they would find the elements of life in their path. If it had not been my will that man should take science to his advantage, I would not have created the elements, nor would I have placed in the bowels of the Earth or in the spaces, all that man has taken for his advancement and evolution; but I did everything for the pleasure, benefit and progress of the spirit and of matter also.

50. From the earliest times I gave the land to the first inhabitants, saying to them, I leave it to your care, it is your treasure, your garden, your dwelling place and your home. Grow and multiply! And I did not say this phrase to you only as humans for the multiplication of the species, but also as spirits and as intelligences; for I will multiply you in all ways and in all orders, in spirit and in truth.

51. At this time I come against everything superfluous and unnecessary, everything bad, everything harmful, every bad seed. Through my Spiritual Doctrine I will fight all those who have put science at the service of evil; I will fight all the bad sciences, until man awakens to my truth. Then this Doctrine will penetrate, like daylight, into all places and will awaken everyone. Therefore prepare yourselves and recognize your mission, your position and responsibility among men.

52. Look what my work teaches you. Look at the horizons that my Doctrine and my word open to you and see how great the spirit is and how short the distances are. The one who prayed with love, feeling the pain of his brother, has detached himself, has transported himself from here to distant places and has deposited his love, his balm and his caress in those who suffer.

53. By this prayer of my people of Israel, which rises up to Me in all the enclosures, I bless the Universe and I give it my light and my paternal caress; since they are not recreated with my word, I make my essence reach all hearts, that all of them feel me, that they rise in search of my truth, in search of the way because I am preparing everyone to come to Me.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 219

1. I give you at this moment my balm, my strength and my caress.
2. I am your Cyrenian, since on Earth when the weight of my cross became overwhelming, there was a man with mercy in his heart who helped me to share my burden.
3. Here I am, ready to come to your aid when you fall on the road, to give strength to your spirit and lift it to continue the journey.
4. Step by step you are approaching the Calvary of your life on Earth, where your spirit will tell me: “Father, into your hands I commend my spirit, everything is already consummated”.
5. Blessed are those who, when that hour comes and they utter those words, have left their mission completed, for their peace and joy will be great.
6. I want you all to reach that summit, no matter that you arrive shattered and without material goods, there you will feel as you have never felt my presence and my mercy.
7. There I wait for the man, there I wait for the woman, for the fathers, for the mothers, for all those who came into the world with missions to fulfill.
8. Do you want to reach the top? Trust in Me, who am your destiny, accept trials with love, abide by my will whatever it may be, with a smile on your lips, with faith and resignation in your heart.
9. Do not forget that I am Omnipotent and Omnipresent, so that doubt or weakness will not lead you into temptation.
10. Sometimes, when you weep in the world and think that I dwell in Heaven where everything is the happiness of the spirit, you doubt my love, because you do not conceive that the Father enjoys, while millions of his creatures suffer to death on Earth. It is that you do not want to understand that my happiness will not be absolute until the last of my children is in the land of salvation.
11. If I am your Father, think that I must necessarily feel what my children feel, only in this way will you understand that while each of you suffers and feels his own pain, the Divine Spirit suffers with the pain of all his creatures.
12. As a proof of this truth I came into the world to become a man and to carry a cross that represented all the pain and sin in the world. And if, as a man, I carried the weight of your imperfections on my shoulders, and if I felt all your pain, could I, as a God, show myself insensitive to the sorrows of my children?

Love one another!

13. In my Spirit there is a hymn whose notes no one has heard, no one knows it in Heaven, or on Earth. That song will be heard throughout the universe when pain, misery, darkness and sin have been extinguished. Those divine notes will find an echo in all the spirits, joining the Father and the children in that song of harmony and happiness. I tell you in truth, that even the stones will speak when that harmony illuminates the lives of my dearly beloved children.

14. Keep acrisolating your spirit, keep evolving and perfecting it, always carrying your faith lit like an inextinguishable flame.

15. I must tell you that as long as you live on Earth, you must strive to make your existence on it as kind as possible, it is not necessary to cry, suffer and bleed infinitely in order to deserve peace in the hereafter.

16. If you could transform this Earth, from a valley of tears into a world of happiness, where you love each other, where you care about practicing the good and living within my Law, in truth I tell you that this life would be before Me, even more meritorious and higher than an existence of suffering, vicissitudes and tears no matter how much you have to suffer it. When will you come to unite the spiritual life with the human life, in such a way that you do not see limits between one and the other? When will you make of your existence, a single life, turning away the idea of death, to penetrate into eternity? That light will be in men until spirituality flourishes in the world.

17. The light of my word comes at this time to save you from the darkness of materialism in which spirits have been buried, darkness that does not allow them to look at the truth even if they have it close and carry it inside.

18. The Third Time is with you and of this he is giving proofs and signs to men and he will continue to give even greater ones, as if he were an immense bell cast into flight to awaken the living and the dead.

19. Pray, observe, meditate, let my inspiration guide you, you will recognize it whenever you feel impelled to good and elevation, when the salutation to its Creator rises from your spirit.

20. "Glory to God in the highest and peace on earth to men of good will."

21. Blessed people, chosen by my charity, I have drawn you out in these times of perversity, confusion and pain, to gather you into one family and form among the peoples of the earth the people of peace.

22. You live in times of chaos. Only those who manage to spiritualize themselves in these times of trial can survive the pain, the confusion, the coming tempest. Only those who rise above all material vanities, human miseries, will be able to resist with serenity and calm the universal chaos and will be like castaways in the middle of the ocean who manage to cling to a tree, which will be faith in my love.

23. For that time I am preparing you. That is why I am teaching you to imitate me, but it is my will that you not be the only ones who practice my Doctrine, I want the virtues of your heart, your words and deeds, to attract all the hearts that will come to Me to receive my teaching at this time, so that the people may multiply in number, in strength and in elevation among humanity.

24. But what is this chaos, this storm, this coming trial? They are the dregs of the cup of bitterness that humanity has not yet drunk. It is necessary that man, who has prepared this chalice with his deeds throughout the ages, hurry it to the last drop, so that he may know his own work and its fruit.

25. Blessed people: Those men who rise up full of greatness and predominance in the nations, in the peoples of the Earth, are great spirits clothed with power and possessors of great missions. They are not at the service of my Divinity; they have not placed their greatness and their gifts at the service of love and charity; they have formed their world, their law and their throne; their vassals, their domains and everything they can aspire to. But when they feel that the throne is trembling before the trials, when they feel that the invasion of a powerful enemy is approaching, when they contemplate their flows and their names in danger, they rise up with all their strength, full of greatness, of earthly vanity, of hatred and ill will and they throw themselves against the enemy, not caring if his work, his idea, leaves behind only the imprint of pain, destruction and evil. They seek only the destruction of the enemy, to erect a greater throne, to have greater dominion over peoples, over wealth, over daily bread and over the very life of men.

26. I am preparing you to be my soldiers, but not those who cause destruction or evil, not soldiers of hatred and perversity, darkness or greed, but soldiers of spirituality, fraternity, love, meekness and charity. You will rise up full of strength and confidence in Me, who am your ideal, full of confidence in your weapons that are truth and justice. I am preparing you so that from now on you can fight against that enemy, who is also powerful, but who is no more powerful than you.

27. The day you awaken to spirituality, you will come to the realization that darkness is weak in the face of light, hatred is an atom in the face of the irresistible force of love and that atom vanishes at the touch of true charity. Materialism is dwarfed by the gifts of the spirit. The material is temporary and the spiritual has eternal life.

Love one another!

28. You are forming the spiritualized and qualified people to remove the confusion of the world, to dematerialize and dephanatize it, with your good example, with the good thoughts, words and deeds that you are practicing from now on.

29. If men ask you about teachings that you have not heard from Me, or that you have not been able to understand, I will speak through you and I will surprise men, the wise, the theologians, the great, the ruler and the judge, the teachers of the Earth.

30. I will make my Trinitarian Marian Spiritualist Doctrine penetrate everywhere, as air penetrates everywhere, as light dispels all darkness, to illuminate the world. This is how my Work will spread, this is how my Doctrine will spread: it will penetrate every sect, every institution, every human congregation, every heart and every home. It will cross the roads, it will cross the deserts and seas, and it will fill this world because the Third Time, the age of light, has arrived for all humanity.

31. At all times I have humanized my manifestations. Remember that in the First Time I chose Moses to communicate with you. He was my spokesman and my emissary, I called him to the Mountain and said to him: "Moses, bow down your face because you will not be able to look at me, go and tell your people that I am their Lord and their God; that I am the God of their fathers and it is my will that they cleanse themselves inside and out, so that they may be worthy to receive my commands, my law, my precepts". Through Moses I manifested myself as a Father, as a Law and as Justice. Through him I communicated with my chosen people. Through that man I made my commands reach out to all my heart.

32. In the second half, I wanted to be closer to you. It was not my divine will that that people should take me only as an inexorable Judge. I wanted to feel the caress of my children, of the creatures made in my image and likeness. And in an act of love and meekness, the Father became a man to teach humility, which is the greatness of the spirit, the true fulfillment of the laws, life within love; to teach man to strive for a just, eternal and true ideal.

33. The Doctrine of Jesus, given as an example, as an open book for humanity to study, has not been found by any other people on Earth, in any generation, in any race, anything like it. For those who have risen up delivering precepts of justice or doctrines of charity, have been sent by Me to earth as precursors, as emissaries, but not as Divinity. Only Christ came among you as a Divinity. He came to deliver to you the clearest and greatest lesson that the heart of man has ever received.

34. And now in this time, beloved people, I have not come to become a man as in that Second Time, but it has pleased me to communicate with all my creatures through the understanding of man. And even in the spiritual valley and in the infinite spaces you have felt my divine presence. Because on the Ladder of Perfection there are many rungs, in the spiritual valley and in the endless spaces, there are many worlds. And truly I tell you: I have always communicated with everyone; and according to the spiritual scale, the world in which they are, so has been my manifestation among them.

35. Some people ask me: Why is it that the Father communicates through the understanding of man, if man is a sinner, impure and harbors low passions? And the Master says to you: My blessed Ray is all purity and perfection, and although the Father is not scandalized by man's sin, he cannot come into contact with the impure. I come to the consciousness of the pedestal and it is the consciousness that transmits my light, my word and my teaching to the understanding of the speaker. Already the pedestal, in advance, has risen to Me in an act of love, of fear, of preparation, so as not to mix the low passions and the tendencies of the flesh, with the perfection of my lessons.

36. The sooner will I cease to communicate by human understanding, because the moment will come when you will be able to do it from spirit to Spirit. Then my divine ray will also reach your consciousness and there you will hear my voice, you will receive my inspirations, my prophecies and my commands. That's what I'm leading you towards.

37. I will continue to teach and forgive you, so that in the last moments of my communication by the human understanding, you can tell me: "Lord, how great is our sin and our wickedness; we have recognized it in time, we have purified ourselves inside and out, in our spiritual life and in our human life, and now we come before your infinite mercy loving one another, loving everything created, forming one body and one will.

38. If you come to that in 1950, the sinful and non-sinful eye will contemplate me in all my splendor, because it will be the moment when you give beginning to the fulfillment of the Law that the Father has entrusted to you.

39. Be firm on the way, people, because your spirit is fulfilling a delicate mission on this planet. Only the one who purifies himself by love, the one who practices my laws, can stop coming to reincarnate on this planet; but the one who in his last reincarnation leaves a trace of blood or evil, he has to return to this Earth to repair mistakes, to rebuild what was destroyed, to give life to what he left inert, to forgive those he did not forgive. In a word: to make restitution, that is why my infinite love tells you: O tireless pilgrim who for a long time have been walking with bitterness in your heart! Behold, the one who comes to comfort you, the one who comes to strengthen you, so that you may continue the journey to the end.

40. It has been a long time since you have started this journey and it is not the first time that I have come to manifest on your path. My charity has raised the fallen, healed the sick and restored the dead to life. My Father's voice has awakened the sleeper.

Love one another!

41. With the light that my Spirit radiates on you, your spirit is enlightened and contemplates its past as the long path of atonement and spiritual evolution. You also understand the responsibility assumed to your Teacher to be the faithful witnesses of my teaching. I have told you that the day will come when sects and religions will come to interrogate and scrutinize you and I don't want you to be caught clumsy. They will find you humble, but manifesting within your humility my wisdom.

42. Humanity will need you and you who spiritually form the oldest people on Earth, will not hide the gifts that I have given you, you will show the book that I have opened before you.

43. At all times, and from the beginning of creation, I have made a covenant with you. I have faithfully fulfilled what was offered by Me to you, but truly I tell you, my people have always failed in their promises.

44. Six times I have renewed this covenant with you because I love you and I want your salvation.

45. In the twelve that I chose in the Second Time, human virtues and weaknesses are represented. I used his virtues as an example and encouragement of humanity and took advantage of his imperfections to give you great teachings. Thomas' unbelief represents the positivist, the one who believes only in what he feels and sees.

46. Peter represents the one who fears the judgments of men and Judas those who put a price on the goods of the spirit.

47. At this time I have not come to give you earthly riches, I have already given them to you in other times. Now I come to fill you with wisdom.

48. In all times men of science have denied and combated my revelations and spiritual manifestations. But I don't fight science, because I am Science. I am the one who inspires man for good and recreates himself. Verily I tell you, whoever takes science to cause evil, he has not been inspired by Me.

49. Recognize by its essence my word, I am the vine, from it you are drinking the wine.

50. What do you need to be able to follow me? I will give you everything. I am building a sanctuary in your heart to always dwell in it, because my word through the human mouthpiece will cease to be heard and only your spirit will feel it vibrate in infinity.

51. Blessed are those who have spirituality, because they will feel my presence and will be those who, walking between misery and tears, bring comfort and salvation to this humanity.

52. My universal ray illuminates your understanding and in that light that bathes you, you feel full of my presence. The seers contemplate with joy and feel that light that envelops every spirit. You have seen a great book, which I show to Israel, in which the lesson is contained and is open in the sixth chapter.

Love one another!

53. You have felt very close to you the kingdom that was promised to you when you heard my word and you already feel the happiness that awaits you. All your fears are dispelled, because you begin to recognize me as Father; and as you contemplate the fulfillment of my promises that were once given to the people of Israel, to the chosen people, you are filled with hope and you begin to form great purposes of amendment and compliance with my Law.

54. In my new advent, I am accompanied by spirits of great light, beings who are announcing to you the proximity of my Kingdom and preparing the human heart.

55. Your world has been illuminated by my presence; soon you will enter an era of spiritual rebirth that will lead you to the resurgence of all the virtues and that will place you on higher planes; but just as I have come to you, I have come to other worlds, where the spirit struggles and is perfected and restored with pain. Between these worlds and yours I have come to establish an alliance. I want you to link your thoughts with the beings who inhabit them, that you dedicate a prayer that comforts and enlightens the troubled spirit of your brothers.

56. In this way you will be able to understand that your mission is not limited only to helping your visible brothers, but that there are beings that you do not know, that you cannot touch from your current abode and that, nevertheless, are in need of you.

57. This world that is your home today, where you have had my clear manifestation, is propitious for you to intervene before Me begging for those beings of whom I speak to you.

58. In each era I have manifested myself full of wisdom, of essence, of love. You have been witnesses of my manifestations. Who does not know that I, the Lord, have spoken to the world from its earliest days? Who does not know that I came in Jesus to give you my teaching? I want humanity to know that today I have come to clarify and explain every word and every mystery that would have contained the book of eternal wisdom.

59. In your continuous transit you have been protected by Me; you are eternal travelers and you do not know the future that awaits you. Do not guess when the storm is approaching, nor when the iris of peace will appear. Only I, Who am the one who watches over you, announce to you, when you are ready, what is to come. This valley, which has sometimes been propitious and kind to you, has also been hostile to you and has caused you to shed abundant tears, with which you have washed and purified your spirit.

60. Come to Me; you are tired of the road; come under the shade of this tree, which stands before you full of mercy and love for all its children; and when you have rested and all your sorrows have been alleviated, think of those who suffer and advocate for them. See that I can give them everything without your mediation, but it pleases me that love, charity and mercy be manifested in the son, in order to share the pain or happiness of his brothers.

61. Your existence has no limit, the end of the flesh is not that of the spirit, because when she comes down to earth, he survives her and finds in his new life infinite reasons to fight and keep climbing. It is then that the spirit, free from the matter that has been oppressing it, breaks free and finds a vast field where to apply its gifts and the virtues it possesses.

62. When Jesus expired on the cross, the figure of man was erased from your mind and you conceived me infinite, capable of penetrating all the dwellings, to encompass the Universe with my love.

63. Contemplate yourselves all as equals, love each other fraternally, because after 1950 the positions will disappear from among you, there will be no guides or spokespersons, columns or seers, faculties or golden feathers, or fundamental stone, there will no longer be distinctions; to be great it is enough for me to see you prepared even when you have not had positions, so that I pour out my inspiration through you and you will be guided by it.

64. Not only those who have held these positions are those who are qualified to carry out great missions. I want you all to serve this cause and that in each of you all the charges become enclosed, so that you feel responsible for my Work.

65. My word will cease to materialize and with it you will achieve greater spirituality, because then you will seek me in infinity, elevating your thought, you will seek to please me by executing meritorious works, and that will give you greater spiritual progress.

66. I want you to feel like true brothers, to live together, so that you may come to feel closer to each other, so that you may be closer to Me. Those of you who have reached a greater understanding of my Work, teach your brothers and sisters, all those who are taking their first steps. Shake hands, protect each other. This is my will.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 220

1. You are welcome before Me, disciples.
2. Here is the Master who fulfills his promise of the Second Time, coming as the Holy Spirit to illuminate the Universe with his light.
3. Before Me are those who doubted, those who blasphemed against me, but who now come repentant to ask for forgiveness and to become my servants.
4. Before I arrived, Elijah was with you, to dispel the night and bring you light, to bring you closer to the source of grace and wisdom that is Me.
5. I have found you ready and have made you sit down at my table, so that you may taste my delicacies.
6. Spiritually I am shedding my blood drop by drop, to trace the path of restitution to you, so that you will never stray from the path again.
7. My love overflows over you, but not all of you are sensitive to it. While some feel it in their hearts, others remain lethargic. However, I do not take anyone away from my table because the spiritual resurrection will be in all my children.
8. Those who have truly felt my presence in this communication, thank me for the comfort that my word has brought to their heart, which felt lonely and abandoned.
9. This enclosure is not the Father's house; my altar is in your heart, your faith is the candle lit to Me, and your conscience is that upper light that shines on your path, that turns you away from evil ways, that warns you from the abyss, that encourages you to good.
10. You know that I made the light, as I made everything created, so that that light that you called day, would discover the greatness of Creation and you would have knowledge of my love and my power.
11. I formed you in my image and likeness, and if I am Triune and One, the trinity also exists in you.
12. Your material body represents Creation, by its formation and perfect harmony. Your incarnate spirit is an image of the Word who became man in order to trace a trace of love in the world of men, and your consciousness is a radiant spark of the divine light of the Holy Spirit.
13. Whenever man has departed from my Law, ignoring the voice of his conscience, he has penetrated into the night of temptation, darkness and sin, then I have had to judge his actions and before my justice he has experienced pain. But I have always given him occasion for repentance and given him time for his restitution. The sinner has bowed before my justice, but later, when he received my forgiveness and my pleasantries, he has committed his sin again. In order to show you the path of your restitution, your God came to materialize among you and the Universal Mother had to become a woman to redeem you with her tenderness.

14. Spiritually you have come a long way and now you are amazed at the intuition and the development that the new generations manifest from their earliest childhood; because they are spirits who have lived a lot and who are now returning, to walk before humanity, some along the paths of the spirit and others along the paths of the world, according to their gifts and their mission. But in all of them, humanity will find peace. Those beings I am talking about will be your children.

15. It is no longer the time for you to travel through deserts, nor for you to occupy yourselves with vain missions. Think about the future, and prepare the humanity of tomorrow, because when you speak of my Doctrine and when you pour out my healing balm, surprised men will ask you from whom have you received such a great lesson and who has given you such a strange power to heal diseases? Then humanity will see my power in the works of love of my farmers.

16. The spirit is granted seven stages for its evolution and perfection in various reincarnations, for its progress and atonement, but it is not given to remember the previous reincarnations; matter is like a dense veil that covers them. Only consciousness gives you the intuition that you must walk forward on the path of light, which is that of perfection.

17. That path is the ladder with seven steps that will lead the spirit to my bosom, where it will remain eternally radiating its light on those who remain on the lowest steps.

18. That is my divine and eternal plan; you are my collaborators and you will come to reign with me, when you have broken the chains of materialism.

19. Hurry up! Whatever you can do now, do it! Practice my Teaching and you will experience my peace even in the midst of the chaos of this world.

20. Faith, Hope and Charity, like angels, remain hovering over your spirit!.

21. I enlighten your heart, spirit and mind, so that in this time of my communication, you may understand the wisdom of my word. This time will leave its mark on the coming generations so that they understand the era they are going to live in.

22. I have come as a beacon of light to illuminate your spirit, to strengthen it, and I have been a resurrection for all those who, listening to me, have believed; because knowing the peace of the higher life, they have risen up forming purposes of amendment and renouncing superfluous goods. If they manage to sustain themselves in the trials, they will form my army of soldiers of good will. They will go to face the world of evil, populated by troubled minds that, using what I have created, still deny me, to a world turned into a desert whose hot sands require the plants of the wayfarer, and in that inclement desert, gales of ideas will mercilessly whip them.

23. Listen to me: Prepare yourselves and do not be afraid, because if there is faith in you and you carry my Work as an ideal, you will have my strength as a staff that will sustain you on the journey.

24. Let love and faith take root in your hearts, because forgiveness will flow from them for whoever offends you. Truly I tell you, before that wall evil has always stood still. You will have to drink bitter chalices, O dearly beloved disciples.

25. The struggle will begin after my departure, when I have ceased to be your counselor through human understanding, and you will only find my word in the writings that I will leave you.

26. My Word has explained to you everything that was previously a mystery to you, so that you may know nothing and know how to face trials calmly and courageously.

27. You have had through my lessons, a time of indelible joys. Your spirit, which longed for high joys, will be satisfied, because it was able to contemplate in the essence of my manifestations, the light of truth, the life of the spirit that awaits you; that life where nothing is limited, where everything is beautiful and perfect, from which with only its reflection you could purify your spirit.

28. When you sense that existence, your spirit feels the joy of eternity, your matter is revived and rises, because it knows that all its pains, its struggles and its renunciations will find the fairest of compensations for the spirit: Peace.

29. What you are acquiring is spirituality, because spirituality is also knowledge of eternal life, but if you come to harmonize with Creation, you will have found one more form of spirituality, because you will be living within my laws. If before it was for you the decline of the body as the end of the road, today you know that this is where the path began. Matter is only a fleeting garment. You already recognize that you are not only substance but also essence, because you know that where man ends, it is not the end on the path of the spirit.

30. And you ask: Master, then is it possible that what is essence is mixed with what is matter? And I say to you, Yes, my children, for the Father, who is omnipotent and omnipresent, is in everything created so that it may have life.

Love one another!

31. Always listen to the truth, she is like crystal clear water that lets you see everything that is at the bottom. Know how to find me in your own inspiration.

32. Simple is my word even when I speak of great revelations, because just as in a clear and understandable way I have explained to you how is the way that leads to the true Heaven, so I also tell you that with my word, I will abolish in this time the hell that men through religions and erroneous interpretations, have forged to inspire fear and put a blindfold of ignorance to humanity.

33. My word is like a book, I have opened its pages before you to show you the simplicity of the hereafter. The times when men fulfilled in a religious way, forgetting the Law, will pass away, because that was to transgress.

34. I have not come to instill fear in you; I have come to inspire love in you.

35. I have taught you that I do not punish you, that I only let you go to gather fruits of your sowing, which if they are sweet, will be your happiness and your salvation, and if they are bitter, they will awaken you to repentance and the desire to perfect yourself.

36. To help you in your struggle, I have prepared a new day full of light and grace, so that you may rejoice in my word, people of Israel.

37. From your childhood, in your youth, in middle age and in old age, you have sought Me, you have come to Me, at different ages. I contemplate in the congregations that form the people of Israel, from the newborn child to the elderly.

38. The old man says to me: I come to you late, O my Father, and very soon I will enjoy your word, benefits and charity. And the Father said to him, Old man, be with me, never again depart from Me. Follow Me today, and when your spirit reaches the threshold of the spiritual valley, and it is in the new life, you will have no age. You will always be young and strong. Do not regret having come now that your body is tired and sick, to know the light of my Doctrine. Look that I have called the children and in the bosom of my Work they have grown, and today that they have become men and women, they have moved away, they have tired of my word and they have gone in search of new paths, forgetting my advice and my caresses. But I will attract them again and in the final hour, they will all be with me because I am in all the planes in which the spirit dwells.

39. When man strays from the path of good, due to lack of prayer and good practices, he loses his moral strength, his spirituality and is exposed to temptation, and in his weakness, he gives room to sins, and they make the heart sick. But I have come as a Doctor to the sick bed and have put all my love and care into him. My light has been like crystal clear water on the lips embraced by the fever and when he felt my balm on his forehead, he told me: Lord, only your charity can save me. I am seriously ill with the spirit and death will come to Me very soon. And I said to him, You shall not die, for I, who am life, have come, and all that you have lost will be returned to you.

40. Go to the fulfillment of your duties and all the evil that you have done, turn it into good. I give you the strength to carry out this great work of regeneration, because I have a great mission for you.

41. Thus I meet you in the Third Time, I know your evil and your anguish, but you will all be saved, because in you is the beginning of eternal life.

42. Prepare yourselves, so that by making yourselves worthy of Me, you can present your heart to me as a clean vessel inside and out, in which I deposit my word and with the light that I give you you can analyze it. From each of my words, form sentences and with them great books. I prepare your understanding, so that you can speak to your brothers and sisters and calm the hunger for truth and justice that humanity feels.

43. Appreciate my word, so that you will not say of my departure: "How great was the privilege I had, and I did not know how to understand it".

44. I do not want you to be like the children who, having a kind and loving Father by their side, despise him, and when he has closed his eyes to this world and I make him take a place in the spiritual valley, among the children favored by virtue; then those, mourn their lack of love and gratitude for that Father and recognize late the good they had and that they did not know how to appreciate.

45. Work now that you have me with you, so that you can say to the world: The Lord is speaking and giving proof of His presence. Draw near to Me those who seek Me, for they will believe. Tomorrow you will have to get ready to convince your brothers.

46. Every moment hardships come to you that make you cry and you say to me: Master, why do you test me, if you have promised me peace? and I tell you, it is because of these trials that the spirit remains alert. In the midst of tranquility, the light of your faith goes out and you stop on the path of struggle and perfection. If your body hurts you, or sorrows afflict your heart, be content, because you have recovered today in my Work the peace and health of the spirit.

47. The day will come when you, already prepared, will go to humanity with your pupils open and your intuition developed, to penetrate with respect into the interior of the hearts and discover their pain, their spiritual poverty and with my teaching you will be able to calm their need and encourage their spirit.

Love one another!

48. Whenever you put my word into practice, you will behold wonders. She will never let you down. If you prepare yourselves properly, you will be fulfilling your mission and my will.

49. I have given each one a specific mission: I have prepared some of them as a saving ark for all those who have not found understanding in their brothers, for the development of their gifts. To others as a source of light, where I have poured out my wisdom. In others I have manifested myself as love, pouring out tenderness and charity. New enclosures and new farms will still arise, for I am preparing the last ones. These will be like a staff for the first. Today they are little children, but they will become my disciples, and later, they will be the teachers of the new generations.

50. To be recognized, you have to live in virtue, in the fulfillment of all my precepts. In my Work you are all the same, first and last. The latter have had to prepare in less time to be instructed in my teaching.

51. To the peasants I say: Prepare yourselves, so that the Spiritual World may manifest itself with perfection through your understanding, and the word that gushes from your lips, may be pure and have spiritual essence. Do not let my inspiration, as it passes through your understanding, be tarnished. If your responsibility is very great, your reward will also be great. The joy and peace that you will enjoy, when you have fulfilled, you have not sensed. Your gifts are of great value and will lead you to true happiness.

52. Disembodied spirits, of different conditions, approach the farmers in search of charity, and when they have found the door of your heart closed and you have not given them comfort, your brain has been broken and they have left their influence of pain and restlessness among you.

53. Fulfillment awaits you. Be charitable. Israel has been prepared to bring light and peace to the needy spirits and as long as you do not fulfill, you will feel a great cross of duties weighing on you, which will not leave you until you have worked.

54. I promise you my peace as a precious reward.

55. You are purified in your thinking and in a disposition to listen to me. I tirelessly present myself among you to repeat my divine manifestations, so that you may come to destroy the doubt that may still exist in your heart.

56. I have manifested my presence and my essence so that no one can deny that I have been among this people.

57. This wisdom that I pour out through the pedestal, has not been taken from books, it is not the collection of knowledge that man has been able to acquire through the ages; nor am I making history for you as humanity does.

Love one another!

58. I come to manifest my light through a man equal to you, with knowledge similar to those that you carry, and the only thing I seek is the clarity of understanding and the purity of the spirit of the one who is going to become for an instant an instrument and spokesman of the Divinity, as well as the preparation and spiritual recollection of those who are going to listen to me. When this union of thoughts and wills is realized, the light of my Spirit comes to you, because in those moments your spirit has shed materialism and your heart understands the good; because your whole being feels the need to approach the Father, convinced that you are not capable of performing great actions, either spiritually or materially, without my help.

59. You came to Me with a heart broken by doubts, because you had been searching for the truth for a long time without finding it and when you heard my word, you suddenly doubted; but then faith came and you wanted to know what exists apart from your body and material life; you wanted to understand those gifts and you were convinced that, when the body that you now possess becomes inert under the earth, your spirit will continue to live, because a voice tells you that you are not only matter.

60. And you ask yourselves: - What is the spirit? In what form does he live? How should we prepare him to enter the world in which he is to dwell eternally? What evolution will it have to achieve? And what relationship will it have with other spiritual beings and even with the Divinity itself?

61. All these questions you have asked yourselves; the interest attracts you; that interest has later become a spiritual necessity, recognizing that what you have heard from the lips of the spokesman has deeply touched your heart.

62. You have come without being forced by anyone, you have not come deceived either. It has not been the ostentation or the splendor that has dazzled you, since you have found these poor and humble places; it has been the shining light of my word.

63. Do not be sad when you remember that from the Second Time I said to you, Many are the called and few are the chosen, for in truth it is not I who choose. I call everyone and with Me there are those who love me and want to follow me. If you who have been called want to be one of those who follow me, persevere.

64. My word and my revelations are for everyone; some will come to understanding first, others later, but all will come.

65. Man, by the free will he enjoys, is the one who voluntarily chooses the path that pleases him, the one he understands or the one that is easier for him to follow. I make the call to everyone, but the one who is most prepared is the one who chooses the best path. Thus, he who comes to hear my word and has been sensitive to the call and has shuddered at hearing my lesson, will find in it the truth he seeks and will no longer turn away. These will be those who do not need the ostentation and greatness of the temples built by men, because they no longer inspire them with devotion or faith. They know that such temples will be unnecessary when man has achieved spirituality; their preparation will be a call to perfection; and it is my Divinity who will approach him to purify him. In this way I will dwell in his heart and establish true spiritual communion between him and my Spirit.

Love one another!

66. If for a moment you could completely detach from your material part, your spirit would be filled with joy as you felt enveloped in the light of the Hereafter. That light is the one that comes to you in a limited way through my divine ray. I limit myself to make you feel my presence, because being a universal force, creation, power, light and life, I could not come to you in all my power.

67. Just as you take from the sun that illuminates you only the rays necessary to live, I also tell you, if you abuse that force, you would harm yourself because it is too big and strong for creatures like you.

68. The same is true of the spiritual. You have to take from the Divinity the necessary part to your spirit, knowing that in that spark that you receive you will have all the strength to feel the inspiration that moves the fibers of your heart, the light that gives you understanding and understanding to fulfill your mission. In it you will find that harmony that must exist between God and man.

69. I speak to you in this way to help you understand this manifestation, so that you raise the spiritual part and your mind receives the inspiration from beyond, the high advice that teaches you the way in which you should live. Then you will understand that the smallest part of you is the matter that you have by envelope.

70. I am like a sun, you are like a spark from it. You were created small so that you would grow by your merits developing your gifts. You were pure in the beginning, purity that later you stained in trials and sin, because you were put on a path where you rose up by the effort of your will, so that in it you would make merits and raise a harvest. What effort would you have made to elevate yourselves, if you had always dwelt on high? What desire for development could there be in you, if from the very beginning you had been great? Of what merits could I have rewarded you, if you had always been perfect? But you came to Earth and in it you found the opposite feeling to perfection, to good. You have found the temptation that leads to evil, the weakness of the flesh, the snares of the world. There began the struggle of the spirit within the envelope whose nature was different from his own. The spirit, disoriented at first by the world and Nature with which he was surrounded, fell into lethargy, leaving matter to grow and act in accordance with his earthly conditions, with his material passions.

Love one another!

71. It was necessary that the spirit then came to Earth to incarnate again, one time after another, in different matters, some more perfect than others, some with a longer life than others, all of different inclinations, so that the spirit formed a concept of himself, so that he acquired knowledge and elevation. Thus, step by step, the present time could come when he could not only understand, but even know his future among humanity and also the spiritual life that awaits him. He who comes to acquire extensive knowledge through his struggle will not need new materials for his evolution, because he will be able to dwell in the spiritual abodes. So he will climb the ladder of perfection step by step until he reaches Me.

72. If your destiny is so great and your spirit is like Me, how can you fall into idolatry and make with your hands an image to worship me in it? Why do you not admire me better through this Nature, since you do not know how to go to the spiritual, and you are inspired by the contemplation of its magnificence, in the life that springs and pulsates at every step you take, in the countless beauties and wonders with which I have adorned your dwelling, in the firmament where thousands of worlds unknown to you shine and that speak to you of life, of law and of obedience, so that you may form your prayer of love, your thanksgiving and your confession?

73. This is your time, O spirits! Wake up, get up, come to Me!

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Teaching 221

1. People, I am going to touch your most sensitive fibers to prepare you and make you worthy to receive my teaching.
2. I am going to tell you about the divine Mother, of that spirit who incarnated in the Second Time to fulfill a high destiny.
3. Mary was sent to manifest her virtue, her example and perfect divinity. She was not just another woman among mankind. She was a different woman and the world contemplated her life, knew her way of thinking and feeling, knew the purity and grace of her spirit and body. She is an example of simplicity, humility, self-denial and love. And despite the fact that her life has been known to the world of that time and of the following generations, there are many who do not know her virtue, her virginity. They do not explain the fact that she was a virgin and a mother and it is that man is an unbeliever by nature and has not known how to judge the divine works with the prepared spirit. If I studied the scriptures and analyzed the incarnation of Mary and the lives of her predecessors, I would come to know who She is.
4. Mary is essentially divine, her spirit is one with the Father and with the Son, why judge her human, if she was the favorite daughter, announced to humanity from the beginning of time as the creature in whom the Divine Word would incarnate?
5. Then why does man blaspheme and doubt my power and search my works without respect? It is that he has not delved into my divine teaching, has not meditated on what the scriptures say, nor does he accept my will.
6. Today, in the Third Time, she also doubts that She comes to communicate with men and I tell you that she has participation in all my works because she is the representation of the most tender love that is housed in my Divine Spirit.
7. I have given you proofs of this truth and I have allowed the prophets of all times to testify to Mary as the Universal Mother; today those who possess this gift have also seen her manifest in symbols or allegories that represent her; you have felt her maternal influence that caresses you, her strength and comfort alleviating your sorrows, and you also feel that her intercession has saved you from many dangers; in this time in which the world is traveling through various paths led by science in a dizzying career, in which materialization, vanity and pleasures have taken him away from the true path.
8. That is why I have come to call the hearts of my people to teach them and then send them as an emissary of this good news.

Love one another!

9. My messengers have always been unknown, but do not fear that the Almighty is with his servants. I myself was unknown, since not everyone knew how to see in Christ, the presence of God and only managed to see in Him, a prophet, or an enlightened one.
10. I had to bear witness to Myself, with my superhuman life, deeds and death. And before that truth many arose with burning faith in their hearts, who testified to my Doctrine.
11. Even when I was dead I did not abandon you, because after the sacrifice I manifested myself spiritually in fullness of life. I arrived among my people from the spiritual valley and there I prepared him, wrapped him in my light, clothed him with the white garment of purity and sent him into the world to incarnate again. But the time came to gather the tribes of my people, and I called them to this piece of land. For you are indeed the people of Israel, but not by blood, but by the spirit. My kingdom is not of this world, nor is your eternal abode on earth.
12. See your King and Lord, how he descends among human wickedness full of humility and love to make his teachings reach the dead in the light of the Third Time.
13. No longer look for me in idolatrous cults. It is no longer time for you to love me with fanaticism. From the earliest times I have combated these evil inclinations among you and have revealed to you direct communication with my Spirit, through prayer.
14. The scriptures of past times could reveal to you what I repeat to you today, but man has dared to falsify my truths in order to spread them adulterated. And there you have a spiritually sick, tired and lonely humanity.
15. That's why my voice of Alert! he lets himself be heard through the spokesman, because I don't want you to find the confusion.
16. By the path that I am tracing you, you will be able to find the one that I taught you in the past times, because everyone is one.
17. Men are walking with anxiety, in search of justice, truth, charity and love. They stumble and fall before human indifference. But those who have heard this voice in the Third Time, have felt my presence and in my essence have calmed hunger, thirst and pain. However, among those who have witnessed my manifestation, there are those who deny it, believing it impossible that God deigns to communicate through sinful man. To the unbeliever I say that the purest light of the Divinity will not be tarnished by human sin, because my light is infinitely superior to the good or bad works of men and I have also come to give light to those who are among shadows.
18. There is a divine pleasure in reaching out to the sinner, comforting his heart, making him feel the warmth of the Father, and making him know the taste of the bread of eternal life.

Love one another!

19. You who hear me and who know that you are the Lord's people, understand that until now you have not fulfilled the mission that the Father assigned to you from the beginning of time, that you have hidden the Law and have sown the ways of pain; but bitterness and vicissitudes have made you know the pain so that you can understand and love your sister humanity.

20. My word is universal, but if it is not heard by everyone, it is because of their materialism, which covers their eyes like a blindfold of darkness, and their spiritual ear has lost the sensitivity to listen to the Divine Word.

21. Times of danger are approaching. The war with its flood of pain, misery and mourning will make men shudder once again. Minds and spirits will be troubled, and all this will speak to humanity of their lack of obedience to my laws of love and justice. But I, as a Father of love, will stand before the chaos and make my light shine in the firmament as an aurora of peace and redemption.

22. I am preparing you so that tomorrow you may be the light of the world, that you may be life and bread, charity and love among your brothers.

23. Enter into my word and in its essence you will find me.

24. My word, it is light and peace for the spirit, descends in these moments to your heart. Seek my light to that people who in the three times have received my divine lessons.

25. Israel was sleeping, when suddenly the signs of my arrival began to awaken and disturb him. I introduced myself among men and opened for them a new era.

26. I brought in my new lessons greater teachings than those of the past times, because I found more capacity in the minds and greater evolution in the spirits.

27. Do not take as a distinction the fact that you have chosen one people from the earth among the others; I love all my children equally and the peoples they have formed.

28. Each people brings a mission to the Earth, and the destiny that Israel has brought is to be among humanity the prophet of God, the beacon of faith and the way of perfection.

29. My prophecies and revelations that I have made to you from the earliest times did not have a fair interpretation because the hour had not yet come when humanity would understand them.

30. Yesterday, Israel was a people of the Earth, today, it is a multitude scattered throughout the world; tomorrow, the people of God will be made up of all the spirits, which in perfect harmony, will form together with their Father, the divine family.

31. My word is the book of wisdom that will make man penetrate into an unknown, higher and more beautiful life, he will know its essence and through his spirit he will understand the revelations that previously seemed to him unfathomable arcana and that the Father was willing to reveal them to him when the hour was arrived.

Love one another!

32. You will seek and love spiritual teachings, and by pursuing that ideal, you will feel that your transit on Earth becomes light. Every hour that passes, every day and every year that passes, bring you closer to the culmination of that time.

33. I am pouring out my word in torrents so that when it ceases to be heard, you will not fall into confusion. I do not want that day to surprise the first or the last unprepared. With what confidence will you be able to give yourselves later to your fulfillment if you know how to understand and obey my commands!

34. It is necessary that you divest yourselves of many practices that still tarnish your life and your worship. You must be interested in elevating your existence more, so that you may come to read in the divine book that is in Me.

35. I speak to the spirit more than to the heart, because it is he who can conceive what elevation and eternity mean. And to those who have made this earth their eternal mansion and in it seek their glory, honors, pleasures and power, I say: look at your world shaken with pain, populated with misery and desolation and illuminated by the false lights of a selfish and vain science.

36. All the life and works of men are judged in these moments; even Nature, by means of her elements, touches the spirits and speaks to the hearts.

37. To every creature I will ask what is the fruit of his ambition. What will be your response to the Eternal? And you multitudes who have heard my voice at this time and know that in every word of mine you have received a command, what will you answer when the hour comes?

38. Verily I say to you, I am giving both of you the necessary time so that you will not appear naked before Me, stained or miserable. I want you to be strong so that you will be able to face the vicissitudes, the great lessons of life, the temptations.

39. Truly I tell you that you are stronger than you think, but that you need to penetrate more into my Doctrine so that you can discover within yourselves the spiritual treasure with which each creature is endowed.

40. You can resolve conflicts, dispel darkness and make light, ward off evil and attract good.

41. Those who know how to wield their weapons and overcome all adversity with them will be called soldiers of God. The most evolved spirits will intuitively protect their weaker brothers, and these, in turn, will sense near which heart they will feel more secure.

Love one another!

42. The greatness of man will not be given by his earthly possessions, nor his titles, nor his attire; in the poor there may be a spirit elevated by his evolution and spirituality, and among them there are many who will manifest to humanity the eternal truth.

43. In this hour in which you meet with me, it is for you a moment of spiritual joy, because you are preparing to receive my inspiration and my commands. Your spirit has been purified to receive the essence of this teaching and to understand it.

44. Some of you have been docile and willing to listen to me, others have stubbornly ignored me and I patiently await the awakening of these disciples. I have come as a warrior and I have launched myself to the conquest of the spirits, because they are my children. It will not be rigor that overcomes his reluctance, but my love and my patience. I want you to look at me, to recognize me, so that you can love me and know that you live within the Universe that I jealously govern, and that you must follow the path of righteousness that I have traced out to you.

45. I have given you the Law and I have waited for your fulfillment based on what your conscience tells you; I have not imposed my will on you, since I have given you my own will, free will, faculties, to make you similar to Me, But if you want to know my desire, I will tell you that I already want to see you walk zealously within my laws of justice, free of errors, so that you leave your descendants, a good seed, a clear example, a luminous path.

46. The lesson that I leave you today for your perfection is part of the book of my word, in which my wisdom is contained so that it may be studied and felt more with the spirit than with the mind or the heart.

47. There is a lot of poverty in the spirit of men because of their poor spirituality, hence sadness, orphanhood, hunger is born. This humanity that I love so much, needs to be fed with wisdom, with pure essence and only the divine word will fortify it. For humanity to have the testimony of the people who have heard me, it will still have to wait for your preparation and dedication to the fulfillment of your mission.

48. I have taught you to work with the spirit, so that your work may be lavish in benefits. I have told you that wherever your plant cannot go, because you cannot bridge the distances, your spirit can carry your message and prepare the environment of peoples and nations that are in danger, of homes that have been invaded by grief, or of sick people who invoke charity. All this you can do in my name, I allow it so that you can present me with greater merits.

49. For the spirit there is no distance that he cannot bridge. You can take your prayer or a good wish to your brothers, and you will not find an obstacle that stops you in your eagerness to send your message of goodwill to others.

Love one another!

50. Your spirit senses that the time is already near when he will enter a stage of greater elevation, in which he will reach the understanding of his gifts in all their significance.

51. I do not want you to remain without receiving until the last of the lessons that I have to give you. I will make known to you my Work of this time from the first to the last part, so that you may feel qualified to present to humanity the testimony of my word with your works of love.

52. I have taught you to pray, so that you may learn to be in communication with me and may receive my inspiration that will come to enlighten you in times of trial, because men will sink into a greater chaos than the one they are going through and it is necessary that you pray for all your brothers.

53. I am writing the history of humanity, everything you did in the world will be printed in that book. Do you want to present examples of meekness and patience, or do you prefer to leave an inheritance of disobedience and rebellion?

54. Many of you will no longer have a new opportunity to come to Earth, to repair your faults on it, you will not possess that instrument that you carry today and that is your body, on which you rely. You must understand that coming into the world is a privilege for the spirit, that it is never a punishment; therefore, you must take advantage of this grace.

55. After this life you will go to other worlds to receive new lessons and there you will find new opportunities to continue climbing and perfecting yourself. If you have fulfilled your duties as men, you will leave this world with satisfaction for the mission accomplished, carrying tranquility in your spirit.

56. At this time I have sent you not only so that you may be saved, but I have entrusted to you a legion of incarnate beings some and disembodied others, for whom you must be guides and guardians.

57. You must take my word to everyone with the same purity with which I have given it to you, simple on the outside and deep at the bottom, substantial, full of revelations for everyone, whether they are connoisseurs or rude. And after the great struggles that will be waged in the world in search of the truth, my Doctrine will triumph, a single idea will prevail; the worship of men to the Divinity will be simplified to become spiritual. You will have known all the paths and you will have chosen the shortest one to get to Me.

58. My work will come to crown the effort of all those who have lived in vigil, waiting for my return. It will clarify many of the mysteries that man has not yet managed to understand, it will be a powerful weapon in the hands of those who love goodness and justice, filling hearts with joy.

Love one another!

59. You will see the great princes convert to my teaching and leave their reign, their temporal power to reach that of the spirit, the one that never ends. In this way you will see churches collapse that once looked strong in their pride and vanity, to follow my trace of humility. The hungry will eagerly seek even in the last of my words the Spirit of Truth, the Comforter, the Master who returns in triumph to re-establish his Reign in the spirit of men.

60. Before all this happens, all imposture and falsehood will be pointed out, you will not allow any more adulteries. The books in which the Truth is not contained will disappear and only the only book that I have entrusted to men and that has been written since the beginning of time in their own spirit will remain.

61. Whenever humanity has found itself in danger, I have come to save it. Today I am preparing my people to be the bulwark of this humanity that has been engaged in so many struggles, that has fallen into chaos from which it has not been able to rise. When this test has passed, the iris of peace will shine.

62. Who of you will be on earth by that time? Who will see that era of peace? Verily I tell you that that day is not far off and then this world will be an image of the Land of Promise that exists in the hereafter.

63. Love, which is the principle and the reason for being of you, will be in all the hearts of those from whom a simple and pure worship will rise that will reach Me.

64. You have not thought about tomorrow and are quietly waiting for events. You are confident that the Master will come out in defense of his Work and you must remember that with my Work it is man whom I have come to rescue; I have always come against his enemies, these are his vanity, his egoism, his love for the world, his materialism; and I want you to be the invincible soldiers in that fight so that you can stop and extinguish the evil that dwells in you today.

65. Repentance, like purifying water, is washing the spirits and light is penetrating into them, recognition of my commands, good intentions have begun to germinate.

66. I bless all the works and good thoughts of my children.

67. I come to grant you what you need, what can these creatures through whom I communicate give you to feed your spirit? Although they are like you, my image and they carry my virtues, they are not qualified to offer you the bread of the spirit, look at them only as my instruments for this communication that I have established with man.

Love one another!

68. The spirit of Israel has evolved and yet has not reached complete spirituality, and it has been necessary that I, through human understanding, give you my teachings in material language to make me understand you.

69. The times in which Jesus, my incarnate Word, manifested Himself to men, have passed; He is an example for the spokespersons of today, and if they imitate Him, great inspirations will reach and great multitudes will follow them.

70. Not everyone has understood my Work written with indelible letters throughout the ages; that is why I approach you to help you analyze my lesson of the past times and to study the present revelations. Free yourselves, people, no more slavery or captivity, be free to love, believe, think, and work for the universal good.

71. Seek and recognize in yourselves the likeness that you have with me, so that you may do mighty works and let my image be seen in your works of love for your brothers and sisters. If, on the contrary, you turn away from the path, you will turn away from your Creator and you will not allow my Spirit to manifest itself in your works, you will be limiting the virtues with which I have given you, you will lose the route and you will not know where you have come from, where you are going and when your return to Me will be.

72. The spirit of men is hungry, it seeks in religions, ideas or doctrines, the food it needs; it feels the call of its Father and does not know where to find it. I spoke to his spirit from the mountain, so that he learns to rise and reach direct communication with my Spirit.

73. I invite everyone to my mansion, I have made my manifestations palpable; as a good Shepherd I am pointing out the pasture that is my bosom, to make the spirits rest in it.

74. I will give everything to you for that journey back to Me. Analyze the essence of my word, and in it you will have the necessary knowledge and strength.

75. Do not distinguish anyone, on all roads there are men of good will, spirits who love me and who know how to receive my gifts. Keep in mind my precept that says to you: "Love one another"

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 222

1. You look very close at the departure of the Master, and therefore you weep in silence because you have become accustomed to my sweet word. But I tell you, I will not depart until I have given you my last lesson first, and so you will not be clumsy in transmitting my teaching.
2. Great trials of pain are coming, and your prayer will be able to achieve much in those hours of bitterness. Unite yourselves in your spiritual work, obey my orders, because I do not want your faults and disobediences to be imprinted in the Golden Book.
3. In this time the number of those called has been great; every time I appear among you, new hearts arrive to swell these ranks; which resemble tombs, because they keep inside a dead person, who is their own heart.
4. But pain purifies the spirits, so many will not incarnate again. They will go to other worlds to take care of the missions that their Father points out to them.
5. I come to help you in your regeneration, so that when you detach from this world, you will not have to atone for your faults but that you will arrive before the Supreme Judge, clean from all stain.
6. Understand that whatever you do to your brothers, you do to Me, because you are all part of Myself. Do not forget this, so that you can look into each of your fellow human beings to your Father.
7. Men come to feel pleasure in causing pain, but sooner or later remorse also comes as an inexorable judge, to judge you and to wash you away.
8. If at this time you fulfill your high mission of regenerating yourselves and save your brothers, tomorrow your name and that of my people will be pronounced with respect and gratitude, even in the most distant regions.
9. Do not miss out on feeling the satisfaction of being able to be worthily called my disciples after my departure, but you must be prepared to present yourselves in the counties, towns and villages to teach the Good News of my Third Testament, bearing witness with your works.
10. At this time some human doctrines have apparently triumphed and there is a diversity of ideologies; but the hour is approaching when a single idea prevails, when humanity is unified in a single Doctrine and this will be Spiritualism.
11. The elements of Nature will be in charge of awakening men and whenever they try to distort my truth, those forces will speak of my justice.

Love one another!

12. my Work will reach the ministers, the kings and lords of the earth, and you will contemplate them prostrate before my Divinity. Then many books will disappear in the fire and the book that my golden pens wrote under my dictation will arise, for the knowledge of the generations to come.

13. This book will be studied and men curious to know the future will look at it, because the great chaos will be sensed by humanity.

14. Persevere all in hope, because peace will be very great after that chaos! And the bonanza will be very great, the same Nature that sometimes seems hostile to you, you will see it kind in its different seasons. The mountains, valleys and hills, will show exuberance and beauty. Trees will be loaded with good fruits and health, well-being and peace, will envelop human life.

15. Today the earth is cleansed of all impurity, until it reaches new virginity.

16. When the plagues are about to be unleashed, I will give you the feeling and I will speak to you in dreams so that you may be warned and pray for others.

17. You have not yet contemplated the beginning of the struggle against my Work and you must wake up because prepared men will fight it.

18. Stop thinking too much about the needs of the body and think about the spiritual future of all humanity.

19. My Doctrine will spread throughout the world, but it will not be made known by transgressors, they will be my new apostles of humility and spirituality, those who testify with their works to the charity and love of their Creator.

20. Do not let mankind see that you are weak and that you have learned nothing from Me; see that men will have much to learn from you. Do not imitate those who, saying, "Lord, your will be done to me," and at the time of trial are dissatisfied and still dare to attribute imperfections to me.

21. I speak to you simply, in your language, because I don't want to leave anything a mystery. In these last years of my stay among you, I will make many lessons known to you. O blessed people of Israel, who as tireless pilgrims are crossing the desert, stop for a moment to hear my word. My house opens its doors to all walkers who call to them with humility. Calm down your hunger and thirst and you will no longer be the hungry or the thirsty.

22. You are going through days of trial, times of purification and restitution, but I am close to you, to help you not to faint in the trial. Do not think for a moment that you are weak, affirm yourselves in the certainty that you are the same people of the past times. Strong people, courageous, saving boat for the shipwrecked, good travel companion, friend, brother and example. The mission that I have now entrusted to you is to love. Love is the seed that I have sown in you, because she is the beginning and the reason for all her creatures.

23. If you contemplate that I am Wisdom, that wisdom springs from love. If you recognize me as a judge, that justice is based on love. If you consider me powerful, my power is rooted in love. If you know that I am eternal, my eternity comes from love, because love is life and life makes spirits immortal. Love is light, it is life and knowledge. And that seed I have given you since the beginning of time, the only one that I, as a perfect farmer, have sown in the lands that are your hearts.

24. Today, in the Third Season, once again you rise up in the lands of the Lord, to go sowing that seed that you have found, but you have seen that not all lands are easy to sow, you have also seen that some bear fruit soon and others are late. Some you have found as hard as rocks, others have been covered with weeds and weeds and very few have been clean and prepared. It is much that you had to work to clean those lands, and after sowing them, but when you have been patient and have watered them with the water of your faith, you have been able to contemplate in the previously unfruitful lands, that the seed has germinated and grown and with them you have rejoiced. Those lands that seemed to reject you every moment, today are your joy, your hope and have brought peace to your spirit. There is your work, your eagerness and your sleeplessness, you can no longer turn away from them.

25. Keep watching and praying for those plots, because the fruit that you gather will be able to feed you eternally; but in order for this fruit to give you the good taste and reach you the true life, you have to cultivate it with care, so that the seed becomes a plant and this one a corpulent tree with extensive branches that provide the walker with the welcoming shade and the abundant fruits that give life to the great multitudes. And then, that seed must return to the heart of the earth; to continue being born, growing and bearing fruit there until the consummation of time.

26. How great is my joy to find myself among my disciples in these moments of true spiritual communion. It is the happy moment when the Father feels the love of his children and they receive the paternal oscar that he offers them. It is the moment when when you came you said to me: Father, we have worked according to your teachings; but since we are not perfect, we come to You, like little children full of meekness and humility, to show you our sowing as it is this day and so that You, Divine Teacher, with your love and wisdom, teach us, correct us and tell us how we should follow. Point out to us what we have done wrong, to amend it with your help and already prepared by your charity let us show humanity the Work, without adding or subtracting any merit from it.

Love one another!

27. I answer you: Blessed are you because you trust in Me, you know that you are not coming before an executioner or before an unjust judge, but you are before a Father who is all love and teaching.

28. I give you one more lesson, so that you may prepare yourselves and take advantage of my words until the last moment, so that you may remain after 1950, as teachers, and guides of humanity.

29. The world is being tested, the nations feel the full weight of my justice falling on them. And my light, my voice that calls you, makes itself felt in all humanity. Men feel my presence, they perceive my universal ray that descends and rests on them; and they lift up their spirit to Me to ask me: Lord, in what time are we? These trials and bitterness that have come to men, what do they mean, Father? Do you not hear the cry of this world? You said you'd be back. How long are you coming, Lord? And in every sect and religion, the spirit of my children rises and they seek me, they invoke me, they ask me and they wait for me. And when they, because of their unpreparedness, do not come to feel me, their faith weakens, they are confused and blaspheme. And I tell you that it was about time that your emissaries were crossing the borders of your nation and had reached them, as precursors of my teaching giving the good news, helping them to understand the meaning of the trials, the why of the chaos in which humanity lives.

30. You have slept, people, letting the times pass by and you have concretized only to taste the sweetness of my word, to receive my wonders, to listen to my forgiveness that caressed you every moment, without remembering that in those very moments when you were enjoying peace, there are millions of your brothers and sisters, who are confused and lost in their faith; who walk without God and without Law, who lack daily bread and spiritual nourishment.

31. While you gather with your brothers, with your children, wives or husbands around your table to savor your delicacies, there are thousands of scattered families, who see their homes destroyed by the wars that have ignited human passions and ambition. Many fathers have been left without children, many mothers do not have support for their little ones, there are many orphans who have long been deprived of contemplating the beloved face of their parents; widows who have gone mad with pain, multitudes of men who have been imprisoned, who find themselves hurrying a cup of bitterness, eating only a handful of bread that is not enough to feed their body.

32. And if the material pain that the nations are suffering is bloody, consider how much greater will be what the spirit is suffering. Truly I tell you, they are already drinking the dregs of the bitterest chalice.

Love one another!

33. Arise, O people, prepare yourselves in prayer, so that you may go with your thoughts, like larks of peace to those nations and open the doors of light, of reason and of justice to those peoples. I am preparing you, but first I wanted to purify you. Remember that to get to Me, how many trials you had to go through and how much bitterness hit your spirit and your matter! Illness in some, misery in others, ignorance of loved ones, their abandonment or their departure. Pain in all its forms, like a very bitter cup, was drunk by you in order to purify you. Your heart opened in the midst of the pain that was purifying you to come to recognize and love me.

34. When you came to Me, led by Elijah, the good Shepherd, you came very humbly to ask me what I was going to do with you, because you humbly asked me to do my will in you. And my will has been to teach you love, forgiveness and charity in all its forms. For them I have given you gifts, faculties and graces.

35. I still remain among you, because you have not yet taken advantage of and assimilated my divine teaching. You have not yet come to understand the greatness of my divine teaching in all its magnitude. You are not yet ready for the struggle and that is why I will continue to speak to you until the end of 1950.

36. This doctrine has come not only to save my chosen people, but all the nations of the earth. I will save my children from all slavery or captivity so that they will feel masters of themselves and will not fall back into the captivity of ignorance or fanaticism, and when they have achieved absolute liberation, they can go to save their brothers. Today you are purifying your customs and practices both spiritual and human; later you will go to perform the same work with humanity, but I must warn you that you must do it with humility, without showing off spiritual elevation, with meekness that reveals the purity of your purposes, with true love in your works.

37. Go and fulfill your mission full of firmness and confidence in Me, and do everything that you had not done in times past, so that you may leave your work completed and you may finally reach the spiritual fulfillment that awaits you.

38. If this world has been a valley of tears until now, it is because man has departed from my Law, I formed a paradise for him and made many of the first spirits incarnate in the first matters, while remaining angels. I wanted that when they came to Earth, they would not lose their grace and live in peace and conformity; but man did not want it that way and his weakness and ingratitude, his lack of spirituality gave rise to a world of pains and struggles.

39. The man suffered to make his daily bread and the woman accompanied him on his journey of pain and vicissitudes. But this world, which has been the valley of tears for so many ages, will become a valley of peace, when you, my first disciples, have redeemed yourselves and go everywhere bearing witness to Me, with your good works.

Love one another!

40. This planet that has received spirits in different degrees of elevation, most of them delayed, will receive in its bosom, beings of great elevation, who will be able to communicate with me, from spirit to Spirit. And every generation that passes by will live with greater purity, until the kingdom of Heaven is established in the hearts of men.

41. To achieve all this, you will have to fight within your own home so that you make it a temple of love and of teaching my Law, where parents are for their children my representatives on Earth and children are for their parents, jewels of great value, tender plants that must be cultivated with love. May the man in his field of cultivation, in the work assigned to him, carry as a banner the fulfillment of his mission with fortitude; may the woman be the loving companion of the man and the self-sacrificing mother, so that both, in union with their children, bless the bread that gives them sustenance.

42. I want you to take the bread of my teaching wherever you go and preach with humility, because there will be those who, when contemplating your life, will be intrigued and wonder: Who are these who know how to live with so much love and simplicity? Who are these who know how to be happy with a piece of bread and who, despite its scarcity, show themselves healthy and strong and do not need to turn to men of science for their advice or health? And when they come to ask you who has taught you, you will tell them: The Divine Teacher in Spirit, who has come to us in the Third Time, in fulfillment of his promise made in Times past. I want you to bear witness to Me with your deeds, because humanity is tired of words. There you have many of your brothers who strive to preach the Gospel and despite the fact that it is the word that I gave you in the Second Time, they have not managed to save humanity from this Third Time, because they have lacked the practice of good works, the example. My apostles gave their lives for those very words, but they did know how to imitate me and sealed their fulfillment with their blood.

43. Today I do not come to ask for your blood, nor that you sacrifice your life; what I ask of you is love, sincerity, truth, selflessness.

44. This is how I teach and teach you, preparing with them the disciples of my divinity in this Third Time, because I see you indifferently contemplating the progress of the world, and it is that you do not know how to penetrate the heart of humanity, where there is so much misery and so much pain. There is great inequality, because I see lords who only need the crown to be named kings and I contemplate subjects who are true slaves. Hence the fight has been ignited. Among those gentlemen who are rich in the world there are many who call themselves Christians, but I tell you that they hardly know my name.

Love one another!

45. Those who do not see their neighbor in others, those who accumulate wealth and seize what belongs to others, these are not Christians, because they do not know charity. The struggle between the spiritual and the material will come, humanity will enter into that struggle and for the triumph of justice to come, how many bitterness will it have to suffer!

46. In the midst of that contest of doctrines and ideas, my teaching will arise, as the light of the lighthouse appears in the midst of the storm. Understand through my word the situation that will overwhelm humanity and then you will know how to judge with better tino and you will know what you must do so as not to remain inactive.

47. Understand that the only spiritual treasure for which you must fight is that of my Law. You have sacrificed the symbols through which you worshipped me yesterday, to make way for a more perfect idea. However, see how even at this time peoples are rising up disputing the possession of that land and those places where in the past times I manifested myself. I have made many symbols disappear, but men do not lack reasons for their idolatry and fanaticism. I tell you that before the coming generations bow down to the idols of today, my justice will destroy them and the only pillars that resist the power of my justice, will be those that support the shrines erected in the depths of your heart: Shrines of faith; of peace and fraternity, because the spiritual is indestructible.

48. My spiritual Doctrine in the Third Time, when the Earth is already prepared, it will meekly reach the heart of humanity, its triumph will not be achieved with blood or with offenses. Spiritualism will be established by understanding each other. No one who tries to impose my Doctrine by force will be a soldier of the Truth; because my Doctrine does not come in terms of material conquest, because if the Second time I came to prepare you to reign in your heart I told you that my Kingdom was not in this world, today that I come to raise your spirit to reign in it, how could I tell you otherwise? My doctrine rests on foundations of love, but you have forgotten it and that is why I have told you that it was necessary that I return among men to remind them of the forgotten Law, the one that your ancestors loved and for which many martyrs and apostles died thinking of you.

49. My sacrifice of that time was not enough and here you have me again. New apostles are needed and soon I will send them with the divine seed. Like the winds that go from one end of the earth to the other, so my Doctrine will spread. My messengers will not go alone, a world of invisible beings like armies of light, will accompany you to make your passage more prodigious and in truth you will be heard by all.

50. Disciples, learn from Me, while the moment comes when you have to get up to teach my lesson to your brothers, know from now on that the year 1950 has passed. You will not enter into ecstasy again to speak, for then it will be enough for you to raise your thoughts to Me, with that preparation that I have taught you so that words of light may come out of your lips. Develop your gifts so that you will know how to receive my inspiration.

Love one another!

51. I give you this lesson, so that you may study it carefully and analyze its essence, which will be useful to you tomorrow, when you have to teach your brothers, with my doctrine of love.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 223

1. I have come down to you to look for you, because for a long time you have been walking far from the path and you have done nothing to find the true path.
2. You needed My presence as a Teacher, and that is why I have presented myself among you to give you courage, strength and faith to fight for your salvation.
3. A great spiritual ignorance envelops humanity; it does not realize its destiny or its responsibility on Earth, and therefore it has lost the path.
4. Man does not know who he is, so he does not know how much he treasures in his spirit. He has concretized himself to develop his human faculties, but he has ignored those of the spirit due to his lack of interest in what is high and noble.
5. How could humanity discover the powers that it carries in itself?
6. It was necessary that I approach your heart to awaken you from the deep spiritual lethargy in which you were plunged and remind you that you are not just matter, that you are not small and even less outcasts.
7. When you heard my word, full of joy you said to me: Lord, is it possible that there are so many gifts in our being? Then you have begun to understand something of who you are and what you mean in the Universe.
8. Sometimes you doubt the gifts that I have told you that you possess, and I tell you that your doubt comes from the fact that you have not developed them, so they cannot manifest themselves in the way that you would like.
9. It is true that there are cases in which with faith alone you can perform amazing works, but you should know that it was my love that granted you that miracle to encourage your faith, even when you were not yet able to carry out that work.
10. The development of the powers of the spirit is long, so long that a single matter is not enough for him, not a single existence on Earth is enough for him. But my providence, which is in everything, is preparing for each spirit new bodies in which it can continue its development, helping it in its perfection so that it can reach the place that is destined for it. I tell you this, because I have surprised you by thinking that what you have achieved is very little compared to what you have been told that you possess; then doubts arise in your heart and decay invades you.
11. With what I have now told you, you will already be able to understand that it will not be possible for you, in a single existence, to develop the gifts of which your spirit is formed to their full capacity, because since they are part of a being that belongs to the eternal, which is part of the infinite, it is natural that in such an ephemeral life, such as the life of man on Earth, you will not be able to look at the complete development of some of your gifts.

12. However, I must make it clear to you that not because you know that in the present existence you will not be able to achieve the maximum development of your gifts, will you falter in your efforts to achieve your evolution. On the contrary, think that if in a single existence you could contemplate the complete development of your spiritual gifts, they would be very small.

13. I only ask you to take one step in each incarnation, but that it be a firm step towards perfection; then it will be your spirit that will notice its advance, manifesting itself with increasing wisdom through those bodies that are being entrusted to it.

14. Now you are in preparation: all the gifts you possess have already been revealed to you by my word and the mission that you will have to fulfill in your spiritual journey has been made known to you.

15. You have already been tested with the trials to which a spirit must be subjected to receive a message or a divine revelation; it remains for you only to start your development, in the confidence that your path will be illuminated with the light of consciousness, which will always tell you what you should do.

16. You would like your communication from spirit to Spirit to be perfect, that the gift of clairvoyance had been fully manifested, that the healing power allowed you to perform a miracle in each case and that the gift of the word bloomed on your lips overflowing in consolation, in wisdom and in prophecies; but when you are convinced that you are still far from reaching those heights, you grieve and become silent and taciturn; why, disciples? Don't you understand that a lot of what you want to achieve depends on your preparation?

17. You well know what is the preparation that the disciple must have in order to be able to recreate himself with the fruit of his spirituality and that is to lead a clean life, to be ready for prayer, to serve your fellow men, to resist temptations, so that at the moment of needing your spiritual strength and your gifts to carry out some work of love, you will find your being ready, and thus you will have the satisfaction of seeing the miracle that in your prayer you requested from your Father come true.

18. Then you will be able to see the first lights of the Great Day announced by prophets and messengers of old; you will be able to feel how I descend in Spirit to tell you about the eternal life that awaits you all, because you are all destined for it.

Love one another!

19. Even the intimacy of your being I penetrate, to prove to You that for Me there are no barriers or obstacles that prevent my light from reaching the bottom of your spirit.
20. I have come to tell men that since they have walked through material life, disregarding the duties and the mission of their spirit, I am sending them this message of wisdom so that they may prepare themselves and know how to penetrate the spiritual life when each one is called.
21. I come to tell you that, since here on Earth you have closed the way to the spirit, at least let him prepare for when he no longer needs matter.
22. Do you believe that life is concrete to your existence on Earth? Do you think that my Law and my Doctrine only illuminate your life in the world? No, multitudes who listen to my word, I did not give the divine Law to your body; I came to enlighten your spirit with it.
23. I know why I speak to you in this way, because my gaze discovers among the mobs those men who need me to speak to them in this way.
24. They are the materialists, those who do not see beyond where their eyes reach to look, without believing that beyond their mind and their senses is where eternity, truth, wisdom begins.
25. They do not need me to speak like this to those who are already beginning to let the spirit rule in their works, in their thoughts and in their whole life; those who are already beginning to detach their spirit from what bound them to the world. They came materialized before the manifestation of my word, without knowing what they were hearing, without understanding its meaning, and I also touched them on what they loved most in their life.
26. The Kingdom of the Spirit is infinite and to reach the elevation that allows you to enjoy and live it, it is necessary to know the way and have light to ascend through it; but do not think that I despise your material life, no, disciples, why should I despise it, if I prepared it for you? Understand that life in the material world is also part of life in the spiritual Realm, infinite and eternal.
27. Precisely the purpose that my word comes to fulfill among you is to show you the right path along which you must travel to achieve spirituality.
28. When I speak to you about the spiritual life, I am not referring specifically to the existence of disembodied spirits, but I am making you understand that the spiritual life is everywhere, because everything proceeds from it.
29. Only the light of that life will be able to reveal the truth to you, only in it will men be able to understand what they want and need to know.

Love one another!

30. Those who insist on ignoring the life of the spirit will only be poor beings who will live on Earth walking aimlessly, stumbling and falling, without realizing that at the bottom of their being they have the key to the door of eternity and also carry the lamp that can illuminate the path that leads to peace, wisdom and happiness.

31. But my charity comes to awaken them from their lethargy, it comes to raise up the last, so that they may help the first in the struggle of this time against materialism, in everything that they have not been able to do.

32. The world is prepared and aching with pain, waiting for the disciples of the Divine Master. Humanity is going through an hour of trial.

33. Understand the greatness of your mission.

34. I will illuminate your path when its light is dimmed for a moment, so that your spirit will not stumble or be confused, because you are the emissaries of peace, the possessors of an eternal revelation.

35. Your worship will no longer be polluted by foreign influences, nor will you fall back into spiritual slavery.

36. Men will not come to put the image of their Lord before your eyes, because they have not yet been able to find my true image, despite carrying it in themselves.

37. In every man there is an afterlife, an arcane, an infinity, a mystery. There is the sanctuary where the Father dwells, whose door is closed, because you have not been able to penetrate into your interior. Man has not been able to find the true sanctuary that he carries with him. Just look outside and feel the outside. It is matter and bodily senses.

38. This is a time when spiritually all of humanity sleeps. There is not a single religion that elevates true worship to its God. You will rise up to give my word, bearing witness to Me by your example. Without works of love, my doctrine will not have force on your lips.

39. I will send you to the nations when I see you prepared, when there is truth in your spirit and in your matter. Then you will be able to solve the great conflicts; you will be able to pass through great whirlwinds without being caught away; you will be able to withstand storms and pass through thick mists, because you will already be opening your eyes to a light superior to all human science.

40. Being humble, you are destined to open many veils before philosophers and sages; for everyone you will be peace, consolation and redemption.

41. In all the peoples of the Earth I am giving signs of my new manifestation through intuition and dreams. The echo of my footsteps is already heard nearby.

Love one another!

42. Understand how much I love you, why are you afraid? Whoever is within my Law, has nothing to fear from Me.
43. You are listening to me with respect and preparation and yet you fear me: It is because your conscience tells you that you are not yet doing perfect works.
44. Fulfill to your God and to your fellow human beings, pay your debt of gratitude and you will all be received by the Lord.
45. If some people stop on the way due to clumsiness, lack of study, lack of spirituality or ignorance, let the others not stop, but give your help to the one who falls and wake up the one who sleeps.
46. Verily I say to you, the former will not come to true fulfillment on this earth, nor will you, even when you advance on the way. Others will come after, who will take a step further forward; after them, others who will advance further and so on. But as long as they are advancing in their evolution, you in spirit will have already climbed spiritually. Therefore I tell you that the first must always clear the way for the last.
47. Soon you will leave this matter and as you enter the spiritual world you will be convinced that your journey on this Earth was not sterile and that the knowledge of Spiritualism allowed you, by detaching yourself from matter, to spread the wings of the spirit to reach close to your Father.
48. Encourage the hope of this new life and you will console yourselves in the vicissitudes that you are now suffering in this valley of tears, blood and death.
49. Make your brothers my disciples, see how the last one understands that you will not be able to offer him a bad fruit.
50. Humanity is reaching a certain spiritual maturity to understand my Work.
51. After 1950, this Doctrine will not decay, but rather will flourish, work will intensify and the golden books will be opened so that wisdom will sprout from them and you will come to understand what you did not understand before. The writings containing my maxims and my parables, will be taken from county to county, from home to home and from heart to heart.
52. Then you will see how many will welcome you and receive you with open arms, because their spirit will be eager to contemplate the Father on his true altar.
53. You will give my teachings by taking examples and precepts from Moses, remembering the word of Jesus and what I have revealed to you in this Third Time, uniting everything into one work.

Love one another!

54. A war of ideas and doctrines will arise in the world, but I will make that movement lead you to the light.

55. My light is all over the earth. In all of it I will raise up men and women for whom I will manifest myself.

56. This nation that you inhabit will fulfill a great mission in this time and in times to come. In the greatest pain and in the great trials, it will be a stronghold, it will give light and peace and it will be sustenance for other peoples. His heart will be stripped of selfishness and conveniences, becoming charitable and fraternal.

57. All religions will be judged and the most powerful will be the most touched. You do not know which of them will take their throne of greatness on their backs to transfer it to other lands, fleeing from my justice.

58. Today I want to tell you that no material temples, no altars of fanaticism will be erected among you; the rite and tradition will disappear. Neither priests nor ministers shall rise up before you.

59. You will not have any authority or power to give titles of holiness to any human being.

60. Those who achieve great spiritual communication with my Divinity, will be the most humble.

61. The time has come when not a single stone remains of imperfect worship, when the only temple is inside man, the altar in his heart, the offering in his works, the lamp in his faith and the bell in his voice that awakens sleeping spirits.

62. I come to speak to you with love so that you will recognize me for that love.

63. You are little creatures whom I lead along the path of spiritual elevation and whom I forgive for their faults so that they may learn to forgive their fellow human beings.

64. Analyze my word syllable by syllable, so that you may be strong in spirit and be able to be like a staff among humanity.

65. I have given you of my light with which you will be able to enlighten your brothers. With this power you will unleash, in imitation of Jesus, the spirits in darkness who, chained and troubled, are populating the Universe.

66. My light embraces and envelops everything, because you have all sprung from my Spirit, you belong to me and to Me you will have to return.

67. Do not think that I am coming only after the people of Israel. Indeed, I have deposited in you from the principles, laws, offices and orders, to make you my disciples who will teach humanity, those who will be the light of the blind, the staff of the paralytic, the balm for the leper; therefore, I have only left you as older brothers. But I also want you to understand that when I refer to these hardships, I am talking about blindness of the spirit, lack of movement or spiritual freedom, and leprosy, which is vice and sin. Know that it is to your spirit that I come to save, although your matter is also worthy of my charity, but to it I give in addition.

Love one another!

68. In your spirit there is a great healing power that has not been manifested in all its fullness, due to your lack of faith and trust in that gift.

69. The spirit is clothed with my grace, but stumbles with the weakness of the flesh. Strive for harmony and unification between your spirit and your matter, so that you can do my will.

70. My word is crystal clear water that I offer you, so that you will never feel thirsty again in this world.

71. Humanity, through its religions and sects, seeks me and loves me, and she receives my caress and my light.

72. Spirits are on different rungs of the ladder, but I love them all equally and give them the means to reach the top. In the same way you must love your brothers, regardless of the degree of spiritual elevation they possess.

73. I want you to open your heart fully, to make my home in it and to light the torch of faith there. I want to teach you to feel the pain of others as if it were your own.

74. The tribes of this people will be spiritually unified, before the great predicted hardships arrive.

75. Now you have to do merits so that the world reaches light on its path and spiritually combat the egoism and hatred that have taken over the heart of humanity again.

76. Blessed is the one who listens to me and opens the doors of his heart, because he will be my good disciple!

77. Give shelter in your hearts to faith, hope and charity, so that there may be absolute trust in your Lord, so that you may not feel fatigue on the way, nor stop, and so that you may do works of mercy among those who suffer.

78. This is the seed that I have always come to entrust to you, but if you have not done perfect works like your Father, it is because you are still halfway there and your flesh is still sinning. I know all this, and that is why I seek you with infinite patience.

79. Thus, lesson after lesson, I am forming the book of wisdom that I will leave before your eyes and when I lift up my word, and in it you will find the lessons that will encourage you to continue walking on the path of your fulfillment, full of hope, in pursuit of the land that I have offered you, which is my own bosom.

Love one another!

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 224

1. I am writing in the book of spiritual elevation, each of your works. And so that you may not be ignorant of your mission on Earth, I have come to awaken the spiritual gifts that I have entrusted to you since the beginning of time
2. You have sprung from Me and from that moment, you have been prepared and by sending you to the Earth that is the abode of struggle and perfection, I have given you the Law, which teaches you love for your Father and which also tells you: Love one another, so that you may be in harmony with all the beings that I have created. In front of Me, you are all great, worthy. I have formed everyone with the same love and for Me there is no difference between one and the other.
3. I have been waiting for the return of the son for a long time. If, when you hear my word, your heart is not moved, if you do not shed tears of attrition, it is because you have not watched and waited for the fulfillment of my promise made to you in the Second Time. I have come now to pour out spiritual and material benefits. My word, which is the fruit of the Tree of Life, comes to satisfy your hunger. I bring for men of good will, peace, which is the reward that I grant you on earth, through the fulfillment of my precepts.
4. Lift up your spirit, cleanse your heart and in an act of love for My Divinity, enter into spiritual communion with me. I will pour out my pleasures on you.
5. Pray, and your prayer will convert sinners, and will convince of his error the one who through ignorance has sinned and does not know how much he has lacked before Me. I remove the germ of iniquity and make known to you the benefits of regeneration and fulfillment.
6. For each of your good deeds, I have a blessing, for your problems a solution and for your pains a balm. And when you are healthy and strong, teach your brothers, inspire the good and be an example, so that it is not only the words that speak of Me, but your actions, which testify that you are my disciples and that you are imitating me.
7. I am going to speak to the Christian world and to those who have not believed in Christ; to the People of Israel, that is, to the mosaics, I will pour out my light and my caress on everyone. This light will dispel confusion and ignorance; and faith in Me will unify all spirits and make them like one another.
8. After great struggle, peace will come to men. Today you find enemies for your faith, spirituality and good practices, because the environment that reigns is impure and you have not been able to stop the advance of evil, and in truth it is you who are responsible for transforming this world by restoring it to health, peace and the faith that it has lost.

Love one another!

9. In your struggle, you will not be alone. Your God fights before and always. The forces of evil will be bound, humanity will be free and will rebuild its life and faith will return to its heart.
10. If in the exercise of your gifts, you have great triumphs, do not be arrogant, do not make your matter be admired, just because it has been the instrument of which I used to speak to men.
11. Think that I have forgiven your faults and set aside your imperfections. I have used simple, crude and ignorant understandings, which I have polished to carry out my designs.
12. My word will be written. This book will be the guide and teaching of the people. If you are not ready to understand my new inspirations, keep studying my word. I am preparing the hearts of the disciples who are to form this book. In him, you will find my essence and my presence. It will be the inheritance that I will bequeath to humanity and the men inspired by Me, will dictate laws of love, wise precepts, thoughts and maxims that the world will know, because my word will find eager hearts, willing to receive it in all the peoples of the Earth.
13. Those nations that have gone through the rigors of war are waiting for the emissaries to confirm their belief that I have come once again to establish my Kingdom in the spirit of man and make with him a covenant of love and justice, as it was written.
14. I have left at your right hand a guardian angel, who knows your life. He has the mission to guide you, to free you from dangers. It is the spiritual world that accompanies you, fulfilling a great mission of love. You have Elijah, a self-sacrificing Shepherd who guides your spirit, incarnate or disembodied.
15. His name is not known to all mankind, nor is his mission, but soon you will know that he is my forerunner in all times. Mary is your sweetness and consolation in all the tribulations to which the spirit is subjected. She watches over you and in this time of rigors accompanies you to give you courage in the trial. She is the intercessor between the son and the Father. And the Master who is speaking to you has come to teach you and to prepare you as my successors when I depart.
16. I return to you, humanity, through the human understanding, to deposit in your spirit my teaching and in your heart my essence. I return to you as a heavenly torch of light to guide men along the path of spirituality, which is the path of eternal life.
17. The light of my teachings illuminates you so that you shine through the shadows of this world.

Love one another!

18. Receive this message that Christ sends you, so that you may come to communicate through thought with your Heavenly Father, Who will lovingly answer you through the same thought.

19. Welcome you, sad humanity, tired of suffering. Come and rest in my love. I am peace and serenity, and I have come to leave that in your spirit. I am your Cyrene and your hope. Rejoice and be strengthened, I am with you!

20. The moment you hear my word, feel happy. In my Divine Spirit there is peace in feeling heard by you, and I want to transmit that emotion to you. You have been waiting for my return for a long time.

21. Keep my word, which is golden wheat, and do not lose it. It is necessary that you know the immense meaning of charity, because then you will know the wonders that love does, How sad it is that one of my children does not feel in his heart the joy that his spirit experiences! I want to see you comforting, loving, healing, either the body or the spirit of the one who suffers. He who loves, does not know the hatred that makes life bitter. He who loves, does not know the rancor that destroys the heart and saddens the spirit. The one who loves has sweetness in his word, in his look and in his deeds, his life is sweet and his bodily death will have to be gentle.

22. Eternally my spirit is consoling yours with his paternal word, but when you suffer deeply and in the midst of your pain you call me, you believe that your voice has not been heard by Me. You doubt because you are not in a position to feel me, because taking me inside you do not know it, nor do you believe it. When did I stop telling you that I love you? If you knew how to listen to me, how happy you would be. Every man would be a sower in my countryside, a cultivator in my orchards, and his seed of love would be watered by Me.

23. You are materialized and therefore you are lost and you feel distant from Me, but I will give you the spirituality that brings you closer to this source of wisdom and revelation. There are many who live on the pages of my gospel without practicing or living my teachings, what is the use of repeating my words? On the other hand, those who follow me on the path of the heart, of feeling, will approach their Teacher.

24. Truly I tell you: Come to Me, humanity, but let it be on the scale of love, of high thought. Start now, so that you can stop your suffering, so that you stop crying and wake up from that dream in which you are immersed.

25. There are so many ways to serve me and be useful to your fellow human beings! Spread my seed for the consolation of those who suffer. Resist with faith the trials of pain that you find in your path. Faith knows no impossibilities because it is a divine gift; together with love it will be your bulwark against the storms of this world, what will you be without the practices of good in life? Take advantage of this existence, because if it were not so, you will not recognize the health of the spirit because he draws his strength only in goodness. Let your thoughts be as white as lilies, let your works have the fragrance of flowers.

Love one another!

26. Arise, humanity, and come to Me because I am waiting for you. Come by the way of the heart and by it you will arrive and even if centuries pass I will still be waiting for you.

27. Do not be like little birds that die in their nests before they have learned to fly.

28. I speak to you through thought, which at the moment of preparation is of God, even if it is interpreted by human lips. My presence comes to you, caresses you and awakens you. Then do not wait for tomorrow to give your caress to those who are waiting for you in turn. I don't want to hear you saying to me: tomorrow I get up at noon, because if you don't take advantage of your life, you will be left crying and I will be waiting. You are my beloved seed, the one that promises to give beautiful flowers and good fruits under my cultivation.

29. There in eternity are the spirits of those who in the world were great for love, for charity. There they meet after they finish their mission on Earth and from there they lend their help to weak beings and timid spirits who still cross the world and continue to pour out their love on humanity. There are no separations there, no distances as in your world in which men do not love or understand each other, because their religious creeds and dogmas separate them. Know that religions are simple temporal paths that lead spirits to the light, where all will shine equally united by the law of love.

30. That is why I tell you that love should be the cornerstone of every religion, because that light is outside of any theory, science or philosophy, and is felt and contemplated by all beings.

31. Among the multitudes who listen to my word at this time, there are those with a strong and advanced spirit who come in search of the spiritual, fleeing from ceremonies, rites and forms. They come in search of God as love and as wisdom, whom they worship above matter and once free they feel that they no longer need priests, teachers, or doctors. Those are like torches that light the way for others.

32. Many who inhabit the spiritual valley today traced the path of evolution for you with their indelible imprint of faith, charity, wisdom and love. They are high, brilliant beings, whom you will meet when you return to the afterlife, because they will unite everyone in the infinite love of the Father, with whom all religions should be united on Earth. The messages that those beings send to this world come like white birds to settle in the minds of men prepared with love and inspiration. How many of those thoughts, inspirations or messages that in the form of angels have arrived among men, have had to return to the afterlife, because they did not know how to receive them. There, in my bosom they will wait for human hearts to prepare to send them back as a breeze of love.

Love one another!

33. Prepare the abode, O humanity! No longer close your heart when the message returns to you, as you see the waves return, as the song of birds returns with the dawn, as hope returns to hearts tired of suffering and waiting.

34. Love, he who does not love carries in himself a deep sadness: that of not possessing, of not feeling the most beautiful and elevated thing in life.

35. That is what Jesus came to teach you with his life and with his death, and what he bequeathed to you in his divine word condensed in the phrase of “Love one another, with that love that I have taught you”.

36. The day will come when those who have not loved, divesting themselves of their bitterness and their prejudices, will come and rest in Me, where they will return to life listening to my sweet word, of infinite tenderness. Truly I tell you, in love is my strength, my wisdom, and my truth. It is like an infinite scale that presents itself in different forms from the lowest of humans, to the highest of the spirits that have reached perfection. Love, even if it is in your own way, but love always. Do not hate, because hatred leaves a flow of death, while for love all rancor is forgiven and erased.

37. Study my word, I want to hear you talking about the faculties of the spirit, of love, of charity.

38. Know also that wisdom is acquired by the feelings of the heart. Those feelings are transformed into words that contain deep lessons, sublime ideas that love dictates.

39. I give you this light so that your life may rise and be transformed, so that you may give that light to the sick, to children, to those in need, because this path will not tire you.

40. Become apostles of the good, and your spiritual face will be made in such a beautiful way that it will be reflected in your works.

41. If by listening to my lectures you have believed that you get the glory, you are in error. Only those who practice my teachings will achieve glory. If you believe that by attending the rites of the various religions, the spirit will have the necessary rest, verily I tell you that no, the spirit rests only when the conscience claims nothing from it.

42. My love is always looking for the one who is missing the most. So at that time I became a man to come after a people, that people heard my word, but despite having heard the truth, they did not know me, culminating their blindness by shedding the innocent blood of the lamb.

43. Jerusalem! Jerusalem! The land where my preaching and my sacrifice were consummated, you will not be the only one in pain and in war, however you are greatly afflicted; but there will be war in other places, because men are forging it with the mind and in it it will have to end.

Love one another!

44. If humanity carries the war in its thoughts, it is because it does not have love in its heart. And I ask you: Why can't you love or forgive? Do you think that I love those who sacrificed me less than those who wept for Me? Know that you are crucifying me with your lack of love and understanding.

45. Jerusalem is now a land of sorrow, and I say to you, take care that you do not shed innocent blood or insult my messengers, for your children will shed many tears for each one that you pluck out, and great pains, for only one that you cause to an innocent. It will not be my punishment, but the fruit of your sowing.

46. Weep, humanity, if you do not know how to love; weep if you do not know how to forgive; weep with the bitterness of one who mourns his own death, because whoever does not love, cannot reach Me. Therefore I say to you: weep, be moved, because if you feel, it is that you still have life and you can wash yourself in your repentance.

47. In all times I have sought the children of my people, to remind them of the covenant covenant they made with the Father and to tell him that they are the emissaries of my peace among this humanity lost in the ways of sin.

48. My light has always illuminated the path of Israel, so that in it they may do works pleasing in the sight of their Lord.

49. The light of my divinity has always descended on the people, but when they have believed alone, they have lost their spirituality and their faith, and have fallen into idolatry.

50. That is why his spiritual progress has been slow. If this people from the earliest times had divested themselves of selfishness, and had given to the peoples of the earth all that I gave and revealed to them, my Law and my Doctrine would be respected by all mankind. But look at the world walking without my Law, hurrying a very bitter chalice and suffering from hunger and pain.

51. My people did not know how to prevent the Earth from being soaked with human blood. Peace has never been made because its emissaries have kept it to themselves in their hearts, because they have doubted that they are capable of working that miracle. You resemble Thomas, my disciple, who gave you a painful example by showing you an Apostle of mine doubting my truth. There are also among you those who doubt.

Love one another!

52. There are children of this people whose hearts have been puffed up to the point of believing themselves to be absolute on earth. They are spirits dominated by the materialism of the world and the ambitions of the heart.

53. They are the ones who have forgotten my justice and the immortality of the spirit, to whom they have put a blindfold of darkness that prevents them from contemplating the clarity of my light. And it is my justice and my love that descend at this time to the components of this people, who have incarnated again on Earth by my will, to tell them how they should spread my peace and my blessings among humanity. Among this people are those whom I sent at this time to testify to my new manifestation among you and to later testify to your brothers about it. You now feel a deep pain when you contemplate that even being close to your Lord, you do not love each other, you have not recognized each other and you have moments when you feel in need of peace.

54. You will not see me incarnate at this time and despite not seeing me with your eyes, you will believe in my communication. You will have to recognize the time in which you are spiritually and the mission that I have entrusted to you.

55. This time of responsibility weighs on you. In order for you to come out ahead in the struggle, analyze my word first, feeling that you are listening to the Master on the riverbank. At this time, your spirit, through regeneration, will reach great limpidity, becoming worthy to share its gifts with others and worthy to be in my presence.

56. When the world learns that you had me among you and listened to me, it will look to this people for virtues, examples and teachings capable of persuading it.

57. It is not only you who will do charity to others; I am the one who prepares hearts to give you charity when you need it. And you who are sensitive, you will know to whom to attribute this charity.

58. But it will not be my will that puts the thimble in your path, because I really love you, you will only find what you sowed on the way and if it is pain, if it is ingratitude, if it is tears, do not claim your God, no less blasphemy, because you are the children of light.

59. Understand that you are all heirs of my kingdom, but to conquer it, you will have to do great merits.

60. Practice my Law in your life and it, like a shining star, will lead you to the gates of the Promised Land.

61. Be in the world the light, the way, the knowledge, invite your brothers to come to my table that awaits you, in it you will delight yourselves with the bread of eternal life.

Love one another!

62. Eat rich and poor, for this feast will cost you nothing, but you must mingle with one another, so that true joy may reign in this feast.

63. Come and listen to this word because soon you will no longer hear it.

64. Some, when I say that the end of this manifestation is approaching, you fail to understand why I do not allow it to continue indefinitely among humanity, to which I reply that none of the ways in which God has spoken to men throughout the ages, has been eternal, your Father has always had to materialize and humanize in order to be heard, seen and felt by you; therefore, material communication will never be the highest and most perfect form of your communication with the Lord.

65. When you have achieved through spirituality the elevation of your life, when the justice, love and light that exist in my Doctrine are the norm of your works and the worship that you offer me is absolutely spiritual, then you will be in the time of communication from spirit to Spirit, of perfect communication; when the Father no longer has the need to engrave his Law on a stone to make himself understood and obeyed; when he no longer has to make his Divine Word incarnate, to speak to men through human lips; when I shall no longer have to employ the rude understanding of the spokesmen, in whom I have bestowed my inspiration in this Third Time.

66. My law engraved in stone, in essence if it is eternal, but its outer form was transient, I made disappear the tablets where the commandments were engraved. What your Father wanted was for the Law to be written on the hearts. I also tell you that even Jesus the promised one, the anointed one, the son of God, was not eternal on earth; his word, his Doctrine, his works, and his exemplary life, if they were enduring, had the essence of eternity; but his human life was brief in the world, because having overflowed in wisdom, in love and in piety, he did not have to stay one more moment, once his exemplary work was completed. The voice of Christ, who is the word of the Father, vibrated and will vibrate eternally in all spirits.

67. The same will happen in this time, people; this way of communicating with you through the spokespersons, will soon have its end, because it is not the most perfect; instead, the essence that emanates from the word poured out by the lips of the spokespersons, that, will be eternal, since it is the same essence of the word that I brought you yesterday and the same essence that contains the Law that I gave you in the First Time.

68. Analyze serenely as good disciples and you will see that the external forms, the humanized or material part of each of the manifestations of your Father, cannot be eternal among you, because if that happened, you would never get out of your stagnation, you would never evolve, and you must understand that your spiritual destiny is to ascend, reach, conquer, know.

Love one another!

69. The outer part of that revelation of the Father on Sinai was the stone that served as a means for the divine Law to be engraved on it.

70. The exterior in the communication of God with men through Jesus, was the envelope, the human form of Christ, and at this time, the exterior part of my communication has been the spokesman, so this form, like that of the past times, will have its end.

71. Understand that you are the children of the Spiritualist people, who should not feed on forms, but on essence, if you understand my word well, you will never again fall into idolatry, nor will you cling to external practices, to forms, to the transient, because you will always go after the essential, the eternal.

72. See how you live clinging to everything, to the material, I have seen you when one of your loved ones leaves this world, embrace his inert body wanting to give him new life or retain him, ignoring that it is not that body, that form to which you should bind, but the spirit of the one who from that moment contemplates you from a mansion of more light, without leaving your side, without knowing or forgetting, without breaking the eternal bonds with which you are all tied.

73. The one who mourns the death of the flesh believing that he sees the end of a loved one there, is a dead person who watches over another dead person, is an ignorant and lightless being who has closed his heart to the one who contemplates him from the light.

74. If instead of complicated religions, humanity concretized to study and live fulfilling the teachings of my Doctrine, in your world there would be more light, there would be peace in the spirits.

75. Great is the testament that God has placed in your hands; but you do not yet know what you possess, that is why your planet is still a valley of tears.

76. If, instead of dreaming of finding the ark that contained the tablets of the Law and wanting to perpetuate the form of the Divine Master in various images, men would become concrete to penetrate the meaning of the Divine Law and Doctrine, they would truly unite and peace would be made.

77. I tell you all this, because you who have received one of the great revelations at this time, are in danger of clinging to the outer part, that is, to the form, in order to try to keep it always with you; those who do so will be dead watching over their dead because all forms pass away and only the essential, the spiritual, the eternal remains of it.

78. Use your understanding so that you understand and make use of your will so that you practice.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Teaching 225

1. Beloved disciples, my love and my peace are with you. I come to teach you with my divine lesson to forget the goods of the Earth, so that your spirit may detach and communicate in the hereafter with the Master.
2. There is in every heart a little concern, a complaint that you try to hide from my gaze; you come to learn from Me and you do not want to show me your bitterness, but you are in front of my insightful gaze that penetrates to the bottom of your heart and feels your sorrow.
3. Before I give you my teaching, I want to pour my balm on your wound, to fill your spirit with peace. I want to see you strong, to feel you close to Me, that the bonds that exist between you and the Father may be closer every day, so that the chains that bind your heart to the Earth may be broken and your spirit freed. I have taught you to give just fulfillment to spiritual and human laws, with which you will not fall into materialism or spiritual fanaticism.
4. You have suffered a lot to get to contemplate my third manifestation and hear my word again. Among you there are those who, despite having heard me, are not exempt from sorrows, because their spirit has not been able to get rid of human miseries, but I come as a patient and loving Teacher to help you with my lesson so that the little ones advance in their walk. The trials of life are part of my teaching, they are forging and giving courage to your spirit to resist the new trials that are to come. Pain has been the means by which you have come to Me. The same thing happened in the Second Half. It was the blind, the lepers, the paralytics, the possessed, the deaf-mutes, those who bore blemishes not only in the body but also in the heart, who bore witness to Me.
5. The works of love and charity that I did among you, which you called miracles, ignited the faith of those hearts, and through them, many others came to Me. It was my will to do those works, to shake the deepest fibers of the heart and spirit so that humanity could feel the power of Jesus. That supernatural man who did works impossible to be done by other men; works superior to science and to everything that the messengers of the Lord had done in times past. It was not yet the culmination of the times and that is why the Father, being a Spirit, descended among men, hidden in the flesh of Jesus so that all his works and his words would be visible and palpable.
6. That is why on many occasions I healed the sick of the body before, so that the proof would be evident in the eyes of the most unbelieving and materialized, because if those wonders, I had verified them only in the spirit, they would not have been contemplated or believed by the people.

Love one another!

7. Times have changed. If you were not the same, I would repeat those miracles among you to testify about Me, but you were my witnesses at that time, you not only lived, but also received my charity. How many of you felt the caress of Jesus, the sweet weight of his hand on your head; how many of you listened to the echo of that word, which saturated your body and your spirit with its balm and its love.

8. Today I come directly to your spirit, because I have found it blind in some, deprived of movement in others, deaf to my divine voice others more and some lepers because of sin and vice. Then I have called you, so that you may come to Me docile and in peace, but you have been hard of heart, until the pain has been very bitter you have risen up in search of me. Before you knocked door after door, looking for peace, health or comfort, and not finding these blessings anywhere, you humbly bent your neck to come before my presence. You've all come this way. Not a single heart or spirit has come before Me that does not need my charity, so I tell you again that through pain you have come to the way.

9. Some in their unbelief demanded a miracle from me in order to believe, so I put them to the test by not granting them the miracle they were asking for because whoever believes in Me and loves me will never make conditions to the Father. Others, despite their lack of faith, persevered in listening to my teachings until their hearts gave way, and the miracle was performed in them. When they opened their eyes full of faith in their Lord, they beheld with infinite joy, that they had regained health and peace; and still others who also persevered in hearing my word, forgot their bodily pain and were lifting up their spirits, until they came to bless their own sufferings, because they were the ones who brought them closer to Me.

10. Blessed are you because you have recognized that in this way I have tested your faith and love and that because of your longing for redemption you have achieved my charity and my gifts.

11. I have been a Teacher, I have been a Father, a Doctor and a Judge. I am the love of loves. Always seek Me as a Father and as a Teacher. Do not get sick so that you will not seek me as a Doctor, nor challenge my justice so that you will not have me as a Judge.

12. The practice of morality, virtue and spirituality will free you from the diseases of matter and the reclamation of conscience.

13. I tell you again that now I have not come before humanity to repeat the miracles of the Second Time, because I have come in search of your spirit, although without forgetting your matter, because she is also my creature. I have come closer to fill your heart with peace and make your face smile in the midst of the vicissitudes and sorrows of this time.

Love one another!

14. I have come to light up your heart with the light of an ideal that is a reality, because that ideal is Me, the goal of the path, along which you will have my presence, my company. In him I will be an alert voice, a friend, a doctor and a guardian who will watch over your sleep.

15. Your spirit is finding its world, even dwelling on Earth; it is getting to know its sanctuary, it has found the way and from it it contemplates its true homeland on the horizon. In your heart you ask me who will come to her and I answer you: everyone. But in the future it will not be pain that leads you, nor trials that force you, it will be your love, the light that guides you to Me. The trials of the way are only to awaken you from your materialism.

16. When the storms and whirlwinds have passed, calm and peace will be in your heart and then you will achieve your unification and the Father will give you, you are already prepared, think about others now, you already have the right to teach your brothers, because you can already set a good example.

17. The new Jerusalem will open its doors, the guardians will remain inside it and the emissaries will leave it to follow the nations to carry the good news and the testimony.

18. Your word will bring idols down from their pedestals, and the light that emanates from you will dispel the darkness.

19. Although it seems too much responsibility to you, I tell you that you can fulfill this mission because your spirit has long since begun its path of evolution.

20. In the First Time, Israel kept the Ark to itself, but when Jesus preached on Earth, he erased the borders of Judea and sent his apostles to other nations to spread the seed of love.

21. Today I come as a Holy Spirit and my Universal Doctrine embraces everyone regardless of race, wise or ignorant, rich or poor. This doctrine is for the Spirit. In it all the inhabitants who inhabit the Universe in an infinite number of worlds will unite.

22. From this people will arise the spiritual temple where I will dwell eternally. Inner temple, in which an altar of love to my Divinity is raised, a sanctuary that will not be built with stones, but with prayers, works of charity and true testimonies. In that temple will be my image, not the one made by the hand of man, but the one that I have made in My likeness: the human being endowed with spirit and illuminated by the light of conscience.

23. In you you have a reflection of the divine, you carry me in truth. The intelligence, the will, the powers, senses and virtues that you possess, speak of the higher essence to which you belong and are a living testimony of the Father from whom you sprang.

24. Sometimes the image that you carry of Me in your being, you get to stain and desecrate it with disobedience and sin, then you do not resemble Me, because it is not enough to have a human body and a spirit to be the image of the Creator; the true similarity with me is in your light and in your love for all your fellow human beings.

Love one another!

25. "Grow and multiply"" I say to your spirit in this Third Time, as I said to the fathers of the human species, when they were commanded to "Fill the earth with human creatures." Grow and multiply, beloved people, but grow in spirituality and multiply in virtues.

26. Be a lamp among so much darkness that reigns at this time. Be prayer and manna, be balm and caress, then you will be harmonizing with the beings who love me, with the spirits who worship me.

27. On Earth you have a refuge that is your home, that institution that is the image of the Universe, so that in its bosom you may take strength to fight.

28. Make sure that your home has something of a temple, that it is a small kingdom, an oasis in the arid and hostile desert of your life. Watch over the virtue of your home, but do not by an excess of jealousy go to fall into selfishness, because then it will cease to resemble the Universe by its lack of hospitality, love, and charity. Let your roof be hospitable and let your table be fraternal.

29. Only by the way of love will you come to Me and know Me, that is why I have taught you how to walk within this Doctrine, because it inspires you with true love.

30. My word will be your guide in this Third Time and will open a gap for you between obstacles, abysses and darkness, because my commands are in it.

31. Remember that I alone am your salvation. In times past, in times present and in times to come, my Law was, and will be the way and guide of your spirit.

32. Blessed are those who trust in my Law because they will never get lost at the crossroads of the road. They will come to the Promised Land and sing the hymn of triumph.

33. Beloved people: I bless every step of advance that you take on the way, filling your spirit with peace and confidence, as an incentive so that you do not stop or become lethargic as you did in times past.

34. Do not be satisfied or satisfied with your first works, keep in mind that the goal is still distant and that to reach it you still need to walk a lot, make new merits and strive to achieve your elevation.

35. The perfecting of the spirit cannot be subject to deadlines on earth, whether they be centuries or eras. The perfection and evolution of the spirit has eternity as its field, but not because you have eternity ahead of you do you despise the days or the minutes of your earthly life, thinking that if you lose them you have a very ample opportunity to replace them. You have not realized what your spirit suffers when it has lost a step in its journey or when it has delayed an instant. It is necessary that you know the value of each of the moments of your existence so that you live alert, taking advantage of them for the benefit of your material and spiritual improvement.

Love one another!

36. I know that not all of you can come with the same step on this path, that's why I say to those who have already managed to walk safely and firmly: Do not forget those who come after you, see that some arrive fatigued, others have stopped, and others lose faith at times.

37. I give you the mission to watch over those who stumble and fall along the way, so that you may find the opportunity to practice your fraternity and to prove what you have understood of my teachings.

38. If anyone tries to reserve his knowledge, his faith and his gifts for himself, fearing that others will take advantage and enjoy what he has tilled, he will arrive alone and empty-handed before Me, he will present his seed to me, but not his harvest because he never sowed, since he was determined to receive seed and take it for himself.

39. The one who forgets himself for giving to his brothers what he carries in his spirit and his greatest joy is to help his fellow men to rise to the summit of the mountain where the spiritual goal is located, he will arrive followed by crowds blessed by his brothers, with the spirit full of light in the fulfillment of his mission.

40. Come to Me, disciples, first and last. I call those of you who have studied my teaching disciples, from the moment I revealed to you that it is already the Third Time, in which the spirit of man must rise and place himself at a great height in order to harmonize with the Father. And you who feel like infants, truly I tell you, this is not the first lesson you receive from Me; for a long time, in other eras, I have conversed with you and since then you have known my Law, and also since that time, I have waited for your fulfillment. Those whom I have called last, I say to you, do not be surprised that I am coming to manifest myself among you, for it was prophesied that I would return among men.

41. Listen to me everyone and prepare your spirit, because I am going to give you spiritual food, unleavened bread, as I told you in the Second Time. Only from Me can you receive this bread, which is the essence and love of my Spirit for every creature. From today on, feed yourselves with him, so that none of my children lacks this sustenance; do not die of hunger because I, the Father, have come to tell you that you have never had me so close to you as now.

42. I have promised to support you and to give you protection, because you are my children. Do not hesitate any longer, do not feel hungry or orphaned by this love and on any scale where you are, feel my presence.

Love one another!

43. I want you to know the taste of this fruit that I offer you, so that you will not be deceived; because the end of my communication is approaching and after that time there will be dangers and lurks for the chosen people. Those who do not do the analysis of the teaching they receive, may fall into temptation. Only the disciples who remain vigilant and praying will be free from error and will carry the pure seed and will know how to transmit it to their brothers.

44. I have marked the time that my manifestations have lasted in the three Eras. From the first man to the birth of Jesus was the time that understood the First Era of humanity. It was a long stage of trials, combats and experiences for your spirit that was in full evolution. Jesus marked the beginning of the Second Age and man studied the lesson he gave him by his example and was moved to feel the Word, the One sent by the Father, close to him. His stay in this world was brief; a short time and he returned to the Father, from whence he had come, after preparing and disposing the elect so that his word would be carried to the ends of the earth. From that time until the year 1866 in which the signs appeared that made known the beginning of a new Era, it was what covered the second stage. After that time, a new cycle has opened for humanity, the third, and my Spirit in fullness has come to teach you to move from one stage to another and to take the seed, the light and the grace that correspond to this time, so that you know in what degree of evolution you are and approach spirituality step by step.

45. The time when I gave you my teaching through man is appointed, and like every command of mine, it must be fulfilled. Then your faith, intuition and trust in Me will tell you that I am close to you, and you will feel me very much inside your spirit, guiding your steps and always pointing to the summit of the mountain, helping my children to reach the perfection that is the goal that awaits the spirits.

46. Blessed women: you too are part of my apostolate. There is no difference between a man's spirit and yours, even if you are physically different and the mission of one and the other is also different.

47. Take Jesus as the Teacher of your spirit and follow him on the path traced by his love; make his word your own and embrace his cross.

48. I am speaking to your spirit with the same word with which I speak to men, because spiritually you are the same. However, when your womanly heart is looking for a model to imitate; when you need perfect examples on which to lean in order to perfect yourself in life, remember Mary, observe her throughout her journey on Earth.

49. It was the Father's will that Mary's humble life be written by my disciples, who knew her through her works and conversed with her.

Love one another!

50. That life, humble for those who know her, was luminous from her birth to her end in the world. Mary wrote many pages of loving teaching with her humility of spirit, with her infinite tenderness, with the purity of her heart, with her love for humanity, which she expressed with silence, more than with words, since She knew that the one who came to speak to men was Christ.

51. The spirit of Mary was the same tenderness emanating from the Father to give humanity the perfect example of humility, obedience and meekness. His passage through the world was a wake of light. His life was simple, elevated and pure, in it the prophecies were fulfilled that announced that the Messiah would be born of a virgin.

52. Only She could have carried the seed of God in her womb; only She was worthy to remain after her mission before Jesus was fulfilled, as the spiritual Mother of humanity.

53. That is why Mary is your perfect model, women, but seek her and imitate her in her silence, in her works of humility, of infinite renunciation for the love of those in need; in her silent pain, in her tenderness that forgives everything and in her love that is intercession, consolation and sweet companionship.

54. Maidens, wives, mothers, orphans or widows, lonely women whose hearts are pierced by pain, name Mary your sweet and caring Mother, call her with your thoughts, receive her with your spirit and feel her with your heart.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

1. The Master blesses you, people. I am preparing you so that you may rejoice in my presence and receive strength, to withstand the spiritual, moral and material trials that are already among you.
2. I have told you much about the trials that were to afflict the world at this time. If you observe, you will see that they have already manifested; even greater ones will come tomorrow. You, who have the antidote, will be able to be respected. If you fulfill my commands, you will be able to order the elements to stop and not harm yours, and they as submissive servants will obey. Your power will reach not only a small portion, but regions and nations will receive a mitigating in their affliction by the prayer of the people of Israel. But alas! of you if you do not remain praying and watching, because then your lack of fulfillment will weigh on your spirit and you will feel fragile to face the vicissitudes.
3. In this time of meditation and fulfillment you must prepare to conclude the mission begun in times past. Repair mistakes, lovingly restore their purity to your spirit. Your debt is great, because you have not given as my emissaries everything that I have entrusted to you for humanity.
4. Blessed is he who has faith, but I also bless him who comes to Me, asking Me for that precious gift. "Faith will save you," I have always told you. In difficult trances, in great trials, everyone who prays and trusts will be saved. Why do you sometimes fall into the abyss of despair and distrust, knowing that I love you and that you have all my protection? If you have not practiced the faith, look for it in yourself, and when you have found it, you will carry it as a lamp to illuminate your path. Then you will be strong, patient and content with your destiny.
5. I have taught you to pray, and in that prayer we have conversed. You have called me in your sufferings and in your hours of peace; even when you have sinned, you have sought my presence to mourn with Me your faults and thus reassure your spirit. My love and my patience are infinite and they manifest themselves every moment between you.
6. The appointed date for my departure is approaching. My word will cease, but I will remain in the Spirit in the hearts of my disciples. By that time you will have learned to look for me in the inner temple of your being, the greatness of it will be in faith, in love and elevation of the spirit. No one will be able to destroy that sanctuary, if you have built it firmly. Persevere in my Doctrine, so that you may know the mission that I have entrusted to your spirit, in all times.
7. Seek Me in the infinite with the sensitivity of your spirit, but do not pretend to look at me. Your eyes will not be able to look at my Spirit. John, my disciple of the Second Time, did not contemplate in his great vision my Spirit in all its magnitude. I only presented to his spiritual pupil, symbols that contained a great mystery, which he with all his elevation failed to interpret. He thanked me for what I had granted him and wrote down what he saw and heard in that great mirage, for future generations.

8. Prophets of this time: Enter with respect into the infinite and I will grant you for your preparation beautiful sights that encourage the people and announce to them the events that are going to happen; the children will testify of what they have seen. I will grant you great visions; the light of my wisdom will descend among you.

9. The word that the Master has come to transmit at this time has the grace to manifest the teachings ignored by men, through the prepared man who fulfills with true understanding his mission of spokesman. And this grace, at the same time, teaches you to understand, through my manifestations, the evolution that the spirit has reached in the Third Time.

10. It is My light that has made you look clearly at this truth, it infiltrates into your whole being; it is, for the fatigued spirit, crystalline water to quench its thirst; for the heart it is strength in the fight against misery and temptations with which you have to face day after day. That knowledge is the strength that encourages you, it is the grace that clothes my disciples.

11. To get to know something more about the spirit and the life that surrounds you, you have had to develop through various existences. You have entered the Age of Light, which allows you to contemplate the lessons of my Doctrine in its true sense, no longer in the way you imagined it. And that allows you to distinguish the way that leads to eternal life. By this light, how many revelations will man know and how many past mistakes will he have to regret upon discovering them! Because it is the hour of awakening, it is the era of freedom of spirit and thought.

12. All the superfluous customs that man dragged along like chains will disappear from him when he frees himself from materialism with his new preparation.

13. You will have to raise your voice for the world to hear. You will be the spokesmen of this Good News, as true witnesses who know how to explain what their ears heard and their understanding received, confirming it with your works of love and charity.

14. If up to now there is no perfection in your actions, it is because you have not wanted to transform yourselves within my Doctrine; you have lacked will, self-denial and effort, but your spirit wants to rise eager to approach Me and fulfill its mission.

15. If men of science proclaim the greatness of their wisdom, it is because they are convinced of it. In order for you to be able to talk about my Work, you will also have to delve into it until you are certain of its truth.

Love one another!

16. Of what you do not know, understand that you cannot speak or affirm, for fear of falling into falsehood or error. When there is preparation, knowledge and deep faith in you, you will possess the light of truth.

17. See that my teaching is not limited to your concepts and your ability to understand. My divine wisdom has no end. There is no one who can say that any of my revelations he had or conceived before I revealed it to Him.

18. While scientists try to explain everything through their material knowledge, I reveal to the humble the spiritual life, the essential life, in which there is the why, the reason and the explanation of everything that exists.

19. From the knowledge that you impart, the concept will arise that men will be formed from my Work. Many, for lack of understanding, will judge my Doctrine by your humility, as in the Second Time Jesus the Christ was judged by his humble appearance and his poor clothing, and because those twelve who followed him also showed the humility of their clothing. I tell you in truth, that they were not covered in rags and that they had only renounced material vanities, because through my teaching they had understood what the true values of the spirit were.

20. I tell you, disciples, When men arise to study my Work and seek and question you, do not let yourselves fall into temptation believing yourselves superior because of the knowledge that you have received from Me. The more humble you show yourselves, the more noble and trustworthy they will contemplate you.

21. Thus, from man to man, the light that dispels fanaticism and liberates the spirit will penetrate. And those who named themselves Christians without being Christians, will know and interpret the true teachings of Christ through this light, because it will give them a high concept of the spiritual life, which Jesus spoke about in his teachings.

22. Disciples: Listen to me, because the One who taught you humility and in his love called you brothers is the same one who comes to speak to you today at this time.

23. My Arcanum opens before the disciples to turn them into teachers. Listen to me and study my word so that I can send you to the regions and towns to spread my teachings.

24. At this time I speak to you from my Solio and my voice is heard in your world through the man donated by Me.

25. Just as in the First Time the coming of the Messiah was announced, so I also announced my new coming, and here I am!

26. In 1866, through Roque Rojas, the spirit of Elias, the prophet and forerunner, was manifested to prepare the ways of the Lord, to light a lamp in the hearts of the first, to announce my upcoming arrival and prepare the spokespersons through whom my Holy Spirit would manifest, men and women lacking material enlightenment.

Love one another!

27. Through these channels I have come to communicate so that my word may be heard even by the appointed ministers of God on earth, so that everyone who in any way violates my laws, exempts himself from following them by profaning and rises up teaching men the true way that leads to Me.

28. Again the scribes and the Pharisees will rise up to judge me and put me to the test; now it will be in you, but I tell you, Be humble, with this humility that I have been teaching you, so that they may recognize you as my disciples.

29. The people of Israel are not yet gathered together, for while some are in spirit, others still have matter; while some are saved, others are on the brink of the abyss. Among these are those who, believing themselves to love the Father, worship the golden calf. But the time is coming when this people will be gathered and prepared.

30. You who are listening to me and who are part of that people, are the ones who have come to the voice of my call, which rings like a sonorous bell in flight and the reward of your submission and good will you have by listening to the Divine Word, the same one who spoke to you in Jesus, the Rabbi of Galilee.

31. I teach you not to censor the beliefs and practices of your brothers and sisters in their different religions. My Doctrine, which is universal, teaches you respect for every belief. You know that I am in everyone, both in the one who is clean and in the one who is stained by sin.

32. I love everyone and punish no one; it is my justice that corrects and perfects the spirits.

33. The Divine Spirit is full of love; in Him there is no anger, believe that if the Father, before your offenses and faults, for an instant felt angry, that instant would be enough to exterminate you.

34. That is why I have come on the white cloud to make you hear my word, turning away your wickedness, opening your spiritual eyes to the truth and presenting myself in the desert of your life like a palm tree, under whose shade you have rested.

35. I have not come to give you material wealth, because if you turn your back on me in need of everything, what would you do if I made you wealthy? But truly I tell you that what I am giving you is more than a jewel, it is a treasure.

36. Where do spirits go after bodily death? Your heart does not know, he does not know those abodes. But you must rise on the path of your spiritual evolution so that your spirit will not penetrate the valley in darkness.

Love one another!

37. Rise up to live a new life, a life of peace, I want you to watch and pray now that destruction threatens humanity.

38. There are those who do not believe in my presence because they judge the poverty and humility of these precincts and the insignificance of the spokespersons through whom I communicate, but if those who doubt this studied the life of Christ, they would see that He never sought finery, honors, or riches.

39. These places can be as poor and humble as the stable and the straw in which I was born at that time.

40. Disciples: You have been at my heavenly table and on it you have eaten the bread and drunk the wine of my love.

41. From my solio I send my ray to delight you with the concert of my word.

42. I was waiting, as in the past, for your arrival.

43. Sit at my table and surround me. If you are hungry and thirsty, behold the delicacies; take and eat. If you feel sad or sick, here is my presence to give you health and comfort.

44. Always encourage the hope that you will come to dwell with me eternally. If I have fulfilled my promises to you for the world, I will also fulfill my promises to you for the spiritual life.

45. Do merit on earth and you will never lose the way that leads you to Me.

46. At this time, you are crossing a new desert, in which you have not perished of hunger, because in it the miracle of my word has been performed, which has sustained your spirit, as you were fed with manna in the solitude of the desert and then ate of the loaves and fish of the miracle of Jesus, also in a desert.

47. Now it is not the desert of hot sands that you are crossing, nor is it the bread of the earth that I am offering you. Now you are going to the top of the mountain and the bread of eternal life feeds you. Your spirit perfectly understands the figurative sense in which I speak to you, because your spiritual evolution allows you to penetrate into the depths of my teaching.

48. You are climbing the mountain step by step under the weight of your cross. When you get tired, call me and I will soon the Master, like a Cyrineus, will help you with your burden, so that you can continue until the end of your restitution. You all have positions and duties, that's why I am with everyone, the same with the child, as with the young and with the old. But if I am the one who has drawn your destiny and entrusted you with the cross, it is because I know that you can fulfill it towards your Father.

Love one another!

49. No one will be able to determine his degree of spiritual evolution, nor the plane in which his brother is, this only I can judge.

50. I have come to break the chains that bind you to the world to give you the spiritual freedom to rise up in search of the light that is truth.

51. No one wants to be the last, you all want to be the first. So do merit, work; irrigate the lands with love, let them be fruitful and sow the seed of the Master in them, and the generations that come after you will recognize, by your footprint, that you were taught by your Father.

52. Defend your lands with the sword of light that I have given you, so that temptation does not come to spoil your crops.

53. I have offered you glory as a reward for your spiritual work and in it you will be with your Creator, who in this age comes to you as a Father and Teacher to comfort and enlighten you; this is my teaching in which you will see manifested my love, my righteousness, my justice and also my advice with which I want to lead you to wisdom.

54. At all times I have manifested myself to man, in a simple way so that he could understand me, I have always done it within the reach of your understanding and your heart. I have come down to you to give you an example of humility by reaching out to your humble life to lift you up to a better life.

55. I have asked you in what way you would prefer me to speak to you and you have replied that in any way I did, you would come to recognize me. Do not put me to the test, what you must do is try to spiritualize yourselves so that you can better interpret my manifestations and with them fully testify my Doctrine with works of true love.

56. I have always brought you the light and pointed out to you the upward path. Today I come to prepare you so that you may penetrate with your prayer into a greater ecstasy, and be able to contemplate the spiritual life closely and look to your Father in all his splendor over his creatures.

57. My Spirit is calling every spirit, understanding and heart to feed on Me, because you are hungry. You have not been able to sustain yourselves with my word, you have not taken advantage of the teachings that I have given you in the past times; the Book of Life, in which my Law and the commandments are, is kept, forgotten by the present world.

58. I have come in the Spirit and my presence has moved you. My light has come to you and your conscience has reminded you of all your deeds.

Love one another!

59. I invite you to enter into a new life and conquer a greater spiritual elevation. I have allowed your spiritual evolution through the ages, so that today you will understand my revelations, and after having heard me, you will embrace with your spirit all the responsibility that corresponds to you and embrace with love your mission.

60. How will you manage to invite humanity to reach spirituality in an age of so much materiality and confusion? Think that your work is difficult, that in order to fulfill it, you have to be strong and patient in the struggle. You must work hard to correct the erroneous interpretation that has been given to my Law and also the imperfect way in which you offer me your worship, but you must consider that you will not be able to change your concepts and practices in an instant, but to achieve this you must put on patience and goodwill and set an example of love with your works.

61. In the first time, your offerings were material. Your tributes were innocent beings, lambs or birds, seeds and fruits of the fields with which you thought you pleased me. You were very young and could not look beyond your world. I gave you time after time, always waiting for your awakening.

62. In the Second Time you received my word through Jesus and He taught you the most perfect love that a son can offer his Father, and with his word, he opened a new world to the spirit of men, bequeathed to you a wealth of wisdom that you have not yet come to understand. Today, in the Third Time, I am opening the Book of Life to you and I am showing you new lessons that speak to you of the proximity of my Spirit, of the era of peace that awaits man after his purification and spiritual elevation.

63. All these lessons live in the depths of your spirit. Now I teach you so that tomorrow you will be guides and teachers of the new generations and you will watch over their spirit so that useless traditions or false knowledge do not take root in it. Carry the Law and my word in your spirit, instruct with it and lead this humanity that is beginning to live on the right path.

64. I have not sent Moses or the prophets to bring you this message, I have come Myself to prepare you to make you take a decisive step on the spiritual path.

65. Watch and pray, meditate always and practice my teaching so that you may know the magnitude of this revelation of the Third Time.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Teaching 227

1. O beloved people, once again you have me listening to your prayer, in which you ask me to comfort you because you are going through hard trials, which make you shed tears!
2. I contemplate prematurely folded wrappings, graying temples at an early age, aging faces of children and young people; in the heart I do not contemplate joy, nor peace in the spirit of men.
3. You yourself, who are the chosen people, do not have perfect happiness, because you, before the others, know that you live in a world of struggles, of atonement and of trials, that peace reigns in other valleys superior to this one and that to climb it is necessary to make merits.
4. I have granted this humanity small truces in the midst of its struggle, so that it may gather strength and rest for a moment in its journey.
5. In vain man seeks well-being, peace, dominion and earthly greatness. Through the ages he has only encountered the stumbling block, the disappointment, the pain.
6. Ah, if he knew how to accept his destiny with humility and understood his condition as a spirit endowed with strength and power, his struggle would be different and his real conquest, his lofty aspiration and his true triumphs.
7. Do not believe for this reason that I am telling you, that this humanity of which you are part, is in an abyss. I lead you step by step towards the light, towards salvation, because you have all been destined to dwell at my right hand and I am your guide.
8. This humanity is a land hungry and thirsty for knowledge and spirituality. Verily I say to you, sin will not prevail, but good will reign and peace will be established on earth.
9. The spirit of men has become acrisolated in pain, in trials, and it is time to hear me, to look at me and understand me.
10. Many of you find my Doctrine impossible to practice, it is because you have materialized and confused, but those of you who are humble, those who have allowed pain to polish you and have reclined before Me your neck and have nothing but your longing to rise to Me, have believed the practice of my word possible and have looked with joy at the first fruits of your sowing.
11. You come from different paths, but I do not distinguish you by classes, titles or races. You are all gathered together as disciples forming one congregation. I discover among you great spirits hidden in a poor and insignificant envelope and if they are not recognized it is because they are humble and lack enlightenment; but they love me, testify to me and understand. I want to form my new apostolate with all those who have believed in my word of this time and prove to this humanity that my Doctrine is for all time, that my teaching is eternal.

12. In the second half I was not recognized by everyone. When I appeared in the bosom of the Jewish people, who were already waiting for me because they saw the signs given by the prophets fulfilled, my presence confused many who had not been able to interpret the prophecies, and they expected to see their Messiah as a powerful prince who would bring down their enemies, humiliate kings, oppressors and grant possessions and earthly goods to those who were waiting for him.

13. When that people contemplated Jesus, poor and without shoes, covering his body with a humble robe; when they saw him being born in a stable and then working as a humble craftsman, they could not believe that He was the one sent by the Father, the promised one. It was necessary for the Master to do wonders and tangible works so that they would believe him and understand his divine message.

14. Truly I tell you, I did not come down only to give sight to the blind, or to cleanse the lepers, or to raise up those who had died. My Work was that of a God of all wisdom and eternity, who came in search of the dormant spirit of men, to raise them to the true spiritual life.

15. Those prodigies were only proofs that what I executed, others could not do and in that way move and make an appeal to the spirits who had fallen into deep sleep.

16. Who recognized me at that time? The sinners whom I forgave; the hungry and thirsty for justice, the anxious for truth, spirituality and eternity.

17. Who didn't recognize me? The powerful, the theologians, the Pharisees and for many who did not believe, my word was a cause of confusion.

18. Many said, "What this man preaches is impossible to be fulfilled." But you know that twelve followed Me closely and learned from Me and to them I said, Keep my teachings, practice and teach. I will soon depart, but I will not be far away, you will have me in your heart and I will continue to bear witness of Me. What I have done to you, do to your brothers.

19. And that people prepared by the prophets, could not understand me. But my seed was already sown and was taken by those twelve disciples to the nations and regions, and while the chosen people rejected them, persecuted and judged in their courts, in the pagan and Gentile nations they received my seed and it bore fruit.

20. Pagan Rome received my disciples and with them the seed of my Doctrine, that nation fertilized by pain, jaded by pleasures, embraced my teaching and was spiritually strong; from there new apostles emerged who took my Doctrine to other peoples.

Love one another!

21. That people who did not know how to follow me, who judged it impossible to practice my teaching, where are they? I tell you that he is again on Earth divided into portions; some magnified by the earthly power moving the destinies of this world; others with me, witnessing my new manifestation, and the others waiting for me incarnated once again.
22. You represent that people who followed me, composed of the sick, sinners, those hungry for justice.
23. Today I have come not only to repeat my teaching of the Second Half, but to give you one more lesson to make you take a step forward. The seed that I have sown in you, I come to cultivate it and then reap the fruit.
24. Fill yourselves with spirituality and continue receiving my benefits so that you can bring the fruit of my teachings to humanity. Feel my presence. I come to you as a ray of light that becomes bread, consolation and caress when it reaches your heart.
25. I do not present myself as a judge to discover your faults in the eyes of your brother. My word of love is the one that corrects and polishes hearts.
26. There is no one on earth who teaches my Doctrine with the truth with which I revealed it, more if there are those who have hidden it. That is why I have descended to this world under this form of communication, so that humanity may contemplate the shining star again, so that the shipwrecked may discover the saving boat.
27. I have come to inherit the outcasts, I have healed the sick and then made them doctors, so that they would show my power to the world, because in the face of these facts, even the man of science himself will have to wake up, realizing the time in which he lives.
28. I am teaching you to bend your matter, making it a submissive collaborator in your spiritual mission, but I am also teaching your spirit to detach itself from the envelope when it contemplates it tired, so that it beats its wings and free from its chains, it works full of love in the spiritual valley, bringing back to the heart a message of hope and strength.
29. That is why I tell you that you will be the light of the World by being apostles of spiritualism; but take advantage of my stay among you because 1950 is approaching. I will cease to speak to you in this way and I do not see you ready yet.
30. My Law and my word of this Third Time, with their revelations, their prophecies and their gifts, form the ark of the New Covenant in which the spirit of humanity will be identified and united, but first it will have to be unknown and combated.
31. You will be the ones who defend the New Tabernacle, the new soldiers of my cause who will not weaken in the fight because my presence and my word have strengthened you.

Love one another!

32. You shall not hide yourselves in the days of trial, for it will not be right that I, having come to give you my wisdom and power, should go and hide your gifts from those who lack your charity.

33. See the Master once more surrounded by his disciples. I come to manifest myself in wisdom and your spirit must tremble, because having passed through the trials to which I have subjected him, he feels the longing to be saturated with light and strengthened. It is a ray of my light that reaches the brain by which I communicate, it is an inspiration by which I send my message to you. In this way I come to reveal to you the spiritual life, in this way I enlighten you anew the path that Jesus traced in his Doctrine.

34. As you are listening to my word, light is becoming within your being and the thirst for justice is being quenched; then your conscience illuminates the way for you and you are prepared to offer me acts that are in accordance with my Law.

35. As you draw near to Me, you are not only seeking the health of the spirit but also that of matter, and the Father, contemplating your effort, is granting you benefits for one and for the other, according to his will.

36. Spirit is the part of your being whose life has no end; he has existed before your matter. I have come to speak to the spirit, because it belongs to another world; however, I also speak to matter and caress it because having peace and tranquility in its heart, it will know how to receive me better.

37. When you worry too much about material needs, you distract your spirit and often take it away from its duties.

38. There are still those who listen to me and ask themselves: Is it true that the Master is communicating through man, that God, being a power, a creation, comes to communicate through a brain unworthy of transmitting his greatness in a humble enclosure? I tell you: Do not contemplate the wealth or poverty of these enclosures to form an idea of your God. Is it necessary that you always have to look for the false splendor of the rites to believe in my presence? Do not forget the example of humility and material poverty that Jesus taught you, from the place where the Messiah was born to the place where he expired. There is the greatness of your Master, in humility. The Kingdom of God is based on the truly eternal, not on the boast of power. Understand my true greatness, humility and mercy, so that you will no longer be surprised that I come to communicate to me by an understanding that you judge unworthy, in an enclosure that has no material importance, nor judge the importance of this Work by the small number of those who surround me today, because this that I have revealed to you, in due time will have fulfillment and will amaze the world.

Love one another!

39. Truly I tell you, your life and your actions will be the ones that testify that you are my disciples.

40. Love Me through everything created by Me and discard the idea that God may be limited in some way. Humanity has made my image in various forms to feel that I am with it. Why don't you look for me through my works? I have let you all be able to contemplate the wonders that surround you so that you may see my power in them, from the least perceptible creatures to the majestic king star. But I do not tell you that I am Nature, nor that she is God. Nor do I tell you that the sun is my Divine Spirit, because they are just atoms in the Work of the Creator.

41. If you limited your mind to those beliefs, you would imitate your ancestors, those who worshiped me through the sun. But you must not misjudge your ancestors, because the man of that time could barely conceive in that force the power of God, because in it he found warmth, light and life; think that they were not very far from the truth.

42. When I come to communicate through a human channel, I do not say that this man is your God; I certainly have to limit myself only so that you can receive me and hear the essence of my word, which is the same in all the spokespersons, although the form of expression changes. A single understanding is not enough to manifest what I have to reveal to you.

43. In this simple way I have come to give you my Doctrine, so that you may find the way that leads your spirit to the peace and perfection to which he aspires; for this I advise you to put off vanities and bad inclinations. I teach you to love and impart charity to your brothers with true fraternity and knowledge of your duties towards them.

44. I have taught you that your matter will disintegrate and that only your spirit will survive; which will rise after this life as far as its merits lead it. From there he will continue to strive to rise higher and closer to perfection, which is to get closer to God.

45. To achieve this, I am teaching you how you should pray and seek me and just as I am teaching you, I want you to teach your brothers with true charity.

46. Just as I have not come to judge your imperfections, I also do not want you to judge those of your brothers.

47. Show them only what I have taught you; whoever is prepared will be the one who understands you.

48. Sow, even if you do not reap the harvest here.

49. Analyze my word, my children, because in these last three years that you will still listen to me, you will become disciples from kindergartens.

Love one another!

50. You are coming along the perfect path that leads you to your Redeemer. And once again, as in times past, Israel comes before humanity. You are in a position of the knowledge of the spiritual life and you are responsible for the Law.

51. Rest and laziness have passed; you have risen to fulfill your mission; closing your heart to the temptations of the world.

52. You are in a new reincarnation, that is, in a new envelope, so that your spirit concludes its destiny on Earth and can arrive purified to Me, to receive what I have prepared for him in the Hereafter.

53. You are the new disciples, the ones like those twelve of the Second Time, who sometimes went away from the Master, to test the gifts and teachings received; and who then returned sad, because they had not worked miracles due to their lack of faith or charity.

54. It was then when I was teaching them the parable of the mustard seed and when I was telling them that faith can change the place of a mountain, they saw Me raising the dead, freeing those possessed of troubled spirits; they saw me healing the incurable and saving sinners; and after the Master departed, they awoke to true faith in his gifts, to carry with perfection the Doctrine they had learned and teach with love to their brothers.

55. You too are now waiting for my departure, to rise up to give the Good News.

56. Analyze my word, learn from Me, so that you may soon be the good apostle who bears witness to the Holy Spirit with his works of charity.

57. I am on the top of the mountain; I am speaking to you from there and recording my words in your heart, hoping that you will know how to make use of your free will, so that you renounce the vanities of the world and consciously do my will that is perfect.

58. Do not try to understand my word only with intelligence, ignoring the voice of your conscience, in which the wisdom of the Arcanum is manifested.

59. I have called sinners to become virtuous beings. My mission as a Teacher is to teach continuously, until the spirits have been perfected. Many of your brothers are preparing to follow you, to imitate you, knowing that you are my disciples. Are you ready to receive me yet? Have you learned from Me yet? I tell you that only the fulfillment of your spiritual and material duties will qualify you to be called my disciples.

60. If you work for the regeneration of humanity, you will come to contemplate the beginning of a new day and you will feel my peace.

Love one another!

61. My word teaches you, but it does not oblige you; I have given you free will so that you may feel masters of your actions and fulfill the Law by conviction, so that your merits may be legitimate.

62. Once again the Earth has been stained with blood, the war has overshadowed the spirit of humanity, the environment is full of mourning, bitterness and anxiety and in the midst of that chaos, I have appeared, and I have made myself visible to some and made myself heard from others. Of the pain that the world rushes, my chalice is full that is what you offer me at this time and I accept it.

63. My Doctrine comes to make light in every spirit. I propose to you peace, concord. Do not ignore my voice, which is that of a Father who loves you.

64. Keep my word because the year 1950 is already approaching and it is my will that at that time my teachings will be printed so that they will be food for your spirit; then you will prepare to read them and you will remember these moments of joy that you lived listening to the Master.

65. Fighters of the Third Time, who are delivering my word: Be tireless. You hasten to prepare yourselves as the moment approaches when I will leave you without my word. Little by little you have become saturated with the strength that is in my Doctrine.

66. Not all those who listened to Me in the Second Half had faith in Me; it was necessary to return to the world, to give you new proofs. And in this time, not everyone who listened to me has believed me. Matter, like a thick veil, prevents the spirit from receiving the divine light. But that veil vanishes when analyzing my lessons, to make way for the impulses of the spirit to get rid of materialism and get closer to its Creator. If some of you listening to me have not felt this elevation in your being, I tell you that the time will come when you will contemplate that light. Others, listening to me with faith, have not reached the knowledge of spiritual revelations, because they have lacked preparation to understand the teaching.

67. If many beings in the world have stagnated in their evolution, it is because they are confused in the idolatry of their beliefs; they cannot conceive high ideas because they have atrophied their spiritual capacity. In my Work you have felt that the higher is approaching you to surround you with an atmosphere of peace; even your matter has participated in that peace, since it is also a creature of the Lord, made with perfection. Perfect is both the spiritual and the material. Thus you can contemplate, even in the atom and in the cell, the divine omnipotence manifested, and if you study the spirit, you will discover in it its simple nature, like the atom of a higher life. Then you will see that there is nothing that is detached from the divine.

68. Everything in my Creation is movement, harmony and order that lead to perfection. In order for man to wake up and the voice of his conscience to bring him to reality, he should not look at Creation only in its appearance, not knowing the essence of it. A man without faith in the spiritual life will fall into materialism, because he will contemplate the life of this world as the only life; but if he becomes tired of its pleasures or despair in its bitterness, what will happen to him? Some will lose their mental balance, others will attempt against their existence.

69. Not all men are at the same level of understanding: while some marvel at every step, others contemplate everything imperfect, while some dream of peace as the pinnacle of spirituality and morality of the world, others proclaim that it is wars that make men evolve.

70. About this I tell you: Wars are not necessary for the evolution of the world; if men use them for their ambitious and selfish purposes, it is because of the state of materiality in which those who promote them find themselves; and among them there are those who believe in existence in this world only, because they ignore or deny the spiritual life and are considered wise among humanity; therefore it is necessary that this revelation be known to all.

71. Those who, in their religious fanaticism, wait only for the punishment of hell in the Hereafter, as long as they hold that belief, they themselves will forge their hell, because the disturbance of the spirit is similar to that of the human mind, although more powerful. You ask, Master, is there salvation for those? I tell you, There is salvation for all, but peace and light will come to that spirit until the darkness of trouble is turned away. Have you ever felt pity for a man whose lost reason makes him contemplate what does not exist? How much greater would be your pain if you contemplate in the Afterlife those troubled beings who are looking at their imaginary hell!

72. Who who has an idea of what bodily death and the true atonement are, would be able to attract confusion in that supreme hour?

73. My Doctrine of love and perfect wisdom is not only of this time, nor does it date from the Second Age. I have spoken to you of these lessons in all ages, but it is the erroneous interpretation of the revelations that has led man into fanaticism and confusion.

74. When the pain of materialism itself becomes unbearable for the troubled spirit, that pain will awaken him to the light, and then he will deeply regret his mistake.

75. Teach my Doctrine before your brothers, so that the desire to seek a world of perfection may be born in men, where spirits, when perfecting themselves, reach the bosom of the Father.

76. I am the light that comes to unite you all in Me. To give you this word, I am using one of you, as lacking in merit as all of you; here is my love and my charity.

Love one another!

77. The year 1950 is approaching and at the end of it I will say goodbye to you. There will be pain and you will need my word, but it will be printed and there you will all find the Master's lesson. Then you will say: How sweet was his teaching! For that time I will prepare understandings and lips that speak to you by inspiration; others will read my lectures and you will feel again the essence that you received when I manifested myself; so I will be among you, in your spirit and understanding, in the midst of harmony and fraternity.

78. I have given you all more light for your life, if in every step you find a thorn, because the way of man is painful, pray, and your faith will sustain you longing for eternal life.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Teaching 228

1. On the top of the mountain, where the Master is, there is also Mary, the Universal Mother; She who became a woman in the Second Time so that the miracle of the incarnation of the Divine Word would be realized.
2. Man has judged and searched Mary a lot and also the way in which Jesus came into the world, and these judgments have torn the garment of purity of the Maternal Spirit, whose heart has shed its blood on the world.
3. I have come at this time to uncork the veils of the unknown, to remove doubt from the unbeliever and give him knowledge of spiritual teachings.
4. Of my truth, which is like a road, men have made many paths in which, more often than not, they get lost. And while some seek the intercession of the Heavenly Mother and others do not know her, her mantle of love and tenderness envelops everyone eternally.
5. From the beginning of time I revealed the existence of the Spiritual Mother, of whom the prophets spoke before She came into the world.
6. Sometimes I claim you on my word, but my claim contains light, people. I would not be a perfect Teacher if I did not make known to you all that you should know. I would not be a Father if I did not let you know when you have taken the wrong path.
7. I do not want your spirit to be stained or to find death to the true life. That is why I touch you with my justice when I find you given over to insane joys and pleasures. Your spirit must come clean into my bosom, as it came out of it.
8. All those who leave a body in the bowels of the Earth and detach themselves from this world in a state of confusion, when contemplating my presence, manifested in the light of infinity that illuminates consciences, awaken from their deep sleep, in the midst of crying and the despair of remorse. While the pain lasts in the son to get rid of his sorrows, the Father also suffers.
9. Do not doubt that I am communicating through the human understanding, so that the last ones, hearing the echo of the bell and the call of the Lord, may contemplate the light of the Holy Spirit who will give them salvation.
10. I did not look for churches or synagogues at this time. If in the Second Time I was born under the roof of a stable, today I present myself through man, even if he is a sinner. The medium in which I present myself is one of poverty and humility, but do not be surprised by this, if you remember that at that time, I lived with the poor and even in my clothes I manifested my humility.

Love one another!

11. In my love for men who do not know how to seek Me, for the lost and for all those who need Me, in my divine task of loving you, I have sought a way to approach you so that you may look at me, listen to me and feel me.

12. Today I give you my word under the humble roof of these houses that are an image of the places where I gathered you at that time; the banks of the river, the mountain or the desert.

13. But if the events are repeated, will you have to take me to the cross again, stabbing the pain in the heart of Mary with seven daggers?

14. When Jesus was expiring on the tree, for an instant he was enveloped by darkness and by infinite solitude. At the same hour, Mary felt an immense loneliness in her Mother's heart. It is that at that moment the son felt misunderstood by men.

15. You come to Me, humanity I am the way, the truth and the life, I am the Master of love that transforms man into spirit. Sick and tired humanity, I receive you and bless you and by blessing you, I mitigate your pain.

16. Come full of tenderness so that you may rest in Me and take the teaching you need. I am the one who comes to meet you to encourage your heart. The space is populated with complaints, woes of pain and bitterness of yesterday and now.

17. Those of you who hear this word, or those of you who will review it tomorrow, upon receiving its essence, leave all your problems, weaknesses and desires, to give yourselves to meditation on the divine that I have come to give you.

18. The spirit also has problems, and it is necessary that you take care to solve them: How? Giving the opportunity for wisdom to penetrate into you, that seed that with my care and your efforts will germinate and develop, until it becomes a tree of eternal life. Then you will give good fruits to the world that is so in need of them. That will be the fulfillment of my Work among you.

19. I have come to say to you: "Get up and walk", but now I have said it in a simple word to your spirit, showing him the way that leads to the true paradise, to eternity.

20. I want to awaken you from your sad lethargy, so that you may know everything that is in store for the spirit and also teach you to possess it. Years, eras and ages have passed on this planet, and humanity still does not know the truth, it still denies Christ; because for men only the apparent life of material bodies and forms is what exists, only they give importance, leaving unnoticed the faculties of the spirit without wanting to notice them.

Love one another!

21. Man, being formed of spirit and matter, forgets the importance of the life of the spirit that for him should be primordial, and only attends to the human part, seeks in the material his happiness, his delights, his satisfactions and passions, and when I talk to him about the spirit he comes to say that these teachings are simply one more knowledge; that is the reason why he is lethargic on his path.

22. On the other hand, the man who longs to be spiritualized, cleanses his heart and mind, washes himself in the waters of repentance, detaches himself from material ambitions and feels that the steps of his life are illuminated with the light of God. That man knows that those who achieved greatness in the spirit, were modeled in the crucible of their sufferings, becoming guides of humanity on Earth, and later, luminous beings in the spiritual space, protectors of men, inspirers and guardians. These spirits are linked to men by love and thus shine in a firmament, beyond the visible, in the sweet spiritual life, illuminating this humanity with their light without ever abandoning it.

23. It is necessary for you to awaken so that your spirit realizes the longings to manifest through his material body. Know that by your works, you can show the degree of evolution of your spirit; start by being tolerant of the weaknesses of others, think that if you have already passed through rough paths you have already corrected your mistakes, there are others who have not yet traveled them, and therefore, you must be understanding towards your fellow men helping them to get up from their stumbles and giving them the light of your experience.

24. Truly, I tell you, your older brothers and sisters, who traveled the path along which you are now traveling, climbed the spiritual height, because they lived to love their fellow human beings being benefactors, doctors and teachers on earth. That is why I tell you that if you obeyed the impulses of your spirit, you would be in a better place, and that if you do not take advantage of what I have come to offer you in this Doctrine, later, in the spiritual world I will claim your lack of fulfillment. Therefore, do not waste this opportunity, work full of love and trust in my word.

25. He who denies love to his brothers denies Christ. If you see that your fellow man is suffering and crying and needs you, why don't you serve him? It is that you have materialized even the most noble and subtle of your feelings.

26. Transform your being and your life, dematerialize what you have materialized; spiritualize your feelings, thoughts and deeds, be increasingly aware of the mission of the spirit and with that transformation you will cease to be useless to become useful and your life will bear witness to my truth.

27. The time will come for everyone when the spirit will feel a fervent desire to triumph over matter, annihilating selfishness to manifest the love that he received from the Father, and the wisdom and power with which he was inherited. When the spirit takes its true place in man, he will have a likeness to Christ. To say Christ, that is to say love, power and wisdom, truth and life.

Love one another!

28. But a few generations will pass in this world without humanity understanding the great meaning of Christ. Christ disappeared as a man and has appeared as a triumphant spirit, without matter, all love; he is the constant revelation of divine mercy before humanity.

29. Know that it pleases me to see you useful and helpful to your brothers; it pleases me to see you at the bedside of the sick, I take pleasure in seeing you sow the seed of my Doctrine, caressing, comforting, helping the needy. Remember that when I was in the world, I established my Doctrine on the foundations of this maxim: Love one another! And the centuries have passed and I continue to hope that you feel that commandment in your heart.

30. Prepare your heart, your understanding and your spirit because you are going to listen to my heavenly word.

31. You should not be confused, because I am speaking to you with perfect clarity and through different spokespersons.

32. I also come to search your heart to contemplate what you have analyzed of my teaching, I come to look for the lamp of your faith.

33. Listen to the voice of your conscience. Meditate, so that you may come to fulfill what you have promised to your Father.

34. My Law has been tainted in this land and I have always charged you to take care of it and defend it.

35. Do not defile the Law, do not sleep, do not materialize your spirits. Work!

36. Think that your spirit is the same one that in other times did not fulfill the commands of the Father, and that now he is facing a new opportunity for redemption that out of love your Lord offers him.

37. I know, O Israel, that in spite of how much I love you, the multitudes will rise up as in the Second Time to hurt Me and to mock Me. I know that Iscariot is hidden among you, but my communication through the understanding of man will not be useless, it will not be in vain that I have unleashed the Sixth Seal.

38. My coming among you has been to save you by regeneration and amendment, turning you away from dross and iniquity, offering you in return the way of peace and well-being.

Love one another!

39. Blessed is the one who purifies himself and prepares himself because he will triumph in trials.
40. The elements of war and extermination are unleashed. Famine and pestilence, with their strange and incurable diseases, threaten you. Therefore, watch and pray. Work on your mission and the test will pass.
41. I am Christ, the same one who manifested himself in Jesus in the Second Time. In this way it has pleased me to manifest myself to you.
42. At this time, all the peoples of the earth must feel me.
43. My word is the book of the teaching which I have placed in your hands for you to study. Sects against sects, religions at war with other religions and doctrines against doctrines will arise. In the face of this chaos of spirits, I want you to set an example and be a bulwark.
44. Do not be arrogant because you are my chosen ones. After having acquired this responsibility, do not go to sleep, because then you will fall back into the abysses that you left and when you encounter misery and pain on your way, you will ask yourself How is it possible that having been one of those who listened to the Master's teaching, we have to hurry up such a bitter cup?
45. Remember my examples and learn to love the spiritual over the material, and really worry about the well-being of your spirit after the earthly life, work for him from now on a life of light and peace; because until now you have cared more about the well-being of your matter, its vanities and its finery, than the spirit that succumbs to hunger and thirst, and whose garment is torn.
46. Make no mistake. Matter is the garment of the spirit and the spirit is the one who has to ascend to Me. The body is dust and to dust it will return along with its earthly possessions. Let your spirit reach spiritual riches because he will take them with him to eternity.
47. For the rich of the goods of the Earth, there is no Me, their flow is everything. They don't remember Me. What do they care about the misery and pain of the world? What do they care about the mourning of others? They have closed their ears to the voice of conscience that in each case judges them and at each step speaks to them of my power.
48. Verily I say to you, Thus they defy my righteousness.
49. But everything will change, complacencies will cease and that power that I have granted to certain men to do good and evil to humanity, will be put on trial
50. How many would have already known my Work if you had risen up inviting those in need to eat of the bread from my table!

Love one another!

51. Remember that what I have given you is for your brothers.

52. "Love one another" I taught you from that time. The centuries have passed and I keep telling you about the same teaching and you still do not feel that sublime commandment in your heart.

53. I ask you so that you may answer yourselves inwardly: Who can love the selfish? Understand that I am speaking to you of those who think only of themselves, who do not do a service, nor give bread, nor offer anyone a consolation. Only I who understand their weaknesses can love and understand them.

54. When you understand that you have come to this world to gather experiences and to put into practice the divine Law of love and charity for your fellow human beings, you will have penetrated into the harmony of this life; you already know from my revelations that whoever does not obey my Law will have to return to this world.

55. You are like the thousand-year-old trees, which show the countless number of their cracks as a trace of their struggle against time and hurricanes; the light of their spirit does not yet shine fully on man. I love you very much, however, the fury of the elements will continue to scourge humanity because it has defied them and its effects will be destructive. It is the war that the materialistic man will unleash and this will bring desolation among the peoples, who will weep bitterly and who can console them? Listen: Humanity will receive one alert after another, the unleashed elements will come on the planet and will devastate entire places; then you will realize that you have not fulfilled the spiritual Work, that you have done nothing; I speak to the entire Christian world.

56. Humanity will cry on your chest and you have this one hard as granite and cold as the tombstone of the grave, how are you going to comfort him?

57. If you were fertile land, the seed would have already sprouted, but you are barren land that does not bear fruit. Humanity will set its gaze on you and how are you going to give it the tenderness it needs when only contempt, reproaches and hardness emanate from your heart? Who will listen to the woes of men with emotion? Who will be the refuge of those who suffer? I will have to be the one through my interpreters who comforts the one who suffers. Nevertheless, I say to the Christian world: Open your hearts, so that at least you may receive the cry of humanity. Make an effort to counteract the effects of wars and calamities, because in truth what has happened so far is little for what is yet to come. Human pain has not yet reached its greatest degree and you must, as Christians who claim to be, show what you are. If you are not trying to be now, when are you going to get up to fulfill your mission?

Love one another!

58. In space, the desperate echoes of pain resound, of your brothers. If you look at what comes up to there, you would repent of your lack of fulfillment and then you would do something for the good of your fellow men. There are beings in the spiritual valley who cry and plead for men who are blinded by their egoism and also for the tempest that hovers over this world to calm down. Like them, I want to see you become a balm, a caress, a light, a mercy. Remove from your heart the indifference that distances you from the human family and observe that death is passing through this world that will devastate most of its inhabitants. Sickness of the spirit and of the body reigns. There are bodies that heal with material medicines, others that cannot be cured because the spirit is the one who is sick.

59. Disciples: Do you not desire to heal the diseases of the spirit as well as those of matter? Truly I tell you that you can do it, but when is your activity going to start? When will you put an end to your materialism? When are you going to the new life full of spirituality?

60. Transform yourselves under my teaching, feel like new men, practice my virtues and the light will appear in your spirit and Christ will manifest himself on your way.

61. My messages are the force that animates the Earth, they are like a sun that gives warmth and life, they are water that irrigates. I speak of the land of your heart which, despite my continuous manifestations, remains sterile.

62. Humanity, humanity: get up time is pressing and if you do not do it on this day, you will not wake up in this existence. Are you going to remain numb despite my message? Do you want to be awakened by the death of the flesh, with the ravenous fire of the repentance of your spirit without matter?

63. Be sincere, put yourself in the case of finding yourself in the spiritual life face to face with the truth, where nothing can excuse your materialism, where you will look at yourself in your true rags, stained, dirty and destroyed, which will be what your spirit brings by clothing. Truly I tell you that there, as you contemplate your misery and feel so much shame, you will experience the immense desire to wash yourself in the waters of the deepest repentance knowing that only clean will you be able to go to the feast of the spirit. Look beyond human egoism with all its scourges that are now your pride, your satisfaction, and tell me if you have ever been concerned about the pain of humanity, if the complaints of men, the sobs of women or the crying of children find an echo in your heart; then tell me: What have you been for humanity? Have you been life?

64. After having made an examination before the light of your conscience, are you not willing for my Divine Spirit to appear freeing you from the chains that you formed with your mistakes? Resolve to achieve spirituality so that the tatters fall from your spirit. I am helping you to know yourself inwardly as you are.

Love one another!

65. And you, those of you who will read with great interest the writings that will carry the essence of my word, will be moved because you will know that I love you as I love all those who are listening to me now.

66. The Master has been waiting for you for a long time on the path of life and even though the ages pass, I will continue waiting for you. Keep in mind that no one comes to the Father except by the way that Christ has drawn for you; but now come, even if you are stained, ragged and dirty. I will cleanse your mind and heart, I will renew your clothes and I will lead you to the room where I celebrate a spiritual feast; there you will find the exquisite delicacies of wisdom and love, there you will listen to the harmonious hymn that raises the whole Universe to Me.

67. I want you to learn to love, that your love converted into piety may lead you to the sick and make you seek those who have lost the faith. I want you to bless everything without there being anything that you cannot bless, so that little by little you may come closer by your spirituality and perfection to the understanding of the sublime.

68. It has been materialistic egoism that has taken over most of humanity, and the spirit, centuries and centuries has been waiting for opportunities to manifest itself. Truly I tell you, if it were permitted, the stones moved by the essence of my word would move to demonstrate your lack of spirituality and you would see how they would get up and exclaim, "Christ is right." More I will get to overcome you with love. Know, humanity, that all sinners fit inside my love. Though the world may be ashamed of you, I will not leave your side; if they judge you mercilessly, I will defend you and in your falls I will raise you up.

69. There is in you a part of matter that is from the earth, and a spiritual part that is from heaven. There is a time when man feels matter and a time when he feels spirit. When you leave this matter and move on to the spiritual state, you will understand what you have not understood now. Your body will remain here, because it belongs to the Earth, but your spirit will fly to high regions where you will continue to live to continue your spiritual evolution.

70. "Blessed are those who suffer, for theirs is the Kingdom of Heaven" "Blessed are those who mourn, for they will be comforted." Now I add: "Blessed are those who understand the hidden and the simple of the great phrases, for theirs will be wisdom."

71. Everyone who loves will be rich, because he will feel loved; love, even if you are not loved; be in the likeness of Jesus. Love is above the little things.

72. I could have stopped suffering among you, but I tell you that my love is linked to your destiny. I knew that you needed me and I came to you, but I never said to you, Love Me so that I may love you.

Love one another!

73. Do you know that there are those who are loved without deserving it? That's how I love you. Give me your cross, give me your sorrows, give me your hopes that have failed, give me the heavy burden that you carry, I can with all the pains. Feel free of your burden so that you may be happy, penetrate the sanctuary of my love and keep silence before the altar of the Universe, so that your spirit can converse with the Father in the most beautiful of languages: that of love.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Love one another!

Teaching 229

1. Beloved Disciples: I present myself inside your sanctuary, in the abode of the Master who has opened himself in your spirit with your elevation.
2. Some of you have listened to me a lot, others for the first time hear my word and are surprised, although in truth I tell you: some of you and others have already heard this voice in another time.
3. I am the Word of Love who comes to comfort the one who suffers, the troubled, the one who weeps, the sinner and the one who has sought me. And it is my word in those hearts, the river of life where they quench their thirst and cleanse their impurities, it is also the path that leads to the eternal abode of rest and peace.
4. How can you imagine that the struggle in life, its sacrifices, vicissitudes and trials end with death without finding a just compensation in eternity? That is why my Law and my Doctrine with their revelations and promises are in your heart the incentive, the caress and the balm in the day. Only when you turn away from my teachings do you feel hungry and weak.
5. I feed you with love so that you may feel fed up with it and carry it like the perfect seed to the hearts that are sleeping and to those who are hungry for it.
6. There will be peace in you, when you love each other. Remember that I am the Spirit of peace.
7. Spiritually you are the chosen people in all times, to point the way to humanity. Now I have come to tell you, You will be the salvation of your brothers. Great is the weight of your cross, O people, that yesterday you were formed by tribes and now you form a spiritual family. I, as a pilgrim, tirelessly knock on your door, to give you the strength, so that you can fulfill your destiny, and you can be the example before humanity, whom I love just like you.
8. You are the firstborn among the peoples of the earth, the one who was born first in the light of the Holy Spirit.
9. Do not feel fear or doubt before your responsibility, because being rich in spirit you would feel needy if you came to doubt.
10. In this time as in the past, humanity has communication with my Divinity, through you. Through you I trace the way to others, and tomorrow all sects and religions will come for it, one by one. Men will become spiritually unified, because there is only one God and in Him you will all be.

Love one another!

11. Men are on different spiritual planes, but the degree of evolution of each one, only I can know.
12. All have come to atone for their faults and to achieve their elevation by their merits, for all I have light, because I love all.
13. Today you are in an oasis, but you do not know what paths you have traveled.
14. Do not divide yourselves again, remember that in former times, from one man I formed your people, and that man, in whom I found grace, was Jacob, called the mighty Israel by Me. In his heart there was a sanctuary for my Divinity and I rewarded him by giving him twelve sons who were to be the patriarchs of the Lord's people, the trunk of this people that has followed me in all times.
15. I do not want you to get lost anymore, see that you carry my light as a seal in your spirit, it is the pact that you made with me to follow my light always, to be faithful to me.
16. Here is my table, to which I come to seat everyone without distinguishing lineages or races. I have been offering you all the same bread.
17. So I come to wake you up as I did Lazarus, when I said to him, "Get up, don't sleep anymore."
18. This is the path of progress on which you should never stop, because when the weight of your cross overwhelms you, the Divine Cyrene comes to your aid saying: "Do not stop"
19. Just as I manifest myself to your spirit, I let your matter feel my presence in Nature, so that both, forming a single being, ascend to the top of the mountain.
20. You came out of Me and you will have to return to my Bosom. I am the beginning and the end, the alpha and the omega.
21. Do not care about the humility of your human condition if you know that you have spiritual greatness within your reach, like a jewel of incalculable value.
22. Do not close your hand to the needy, nor judge him unworthy of your charity, because he is evil. Look at my table at this time; many surround me who yesterday were in the mud; today they are my disciples.
23. So the Master has spoken to you this day. I forgive and bless you.
24. The light of my wisdom is with you. I come to quench the thirst of your spirit with the crystalline water of my love that is consolation and balm. I am forgiveness, whoever makes a firm intention of amendment, will experience the sweetness of my forgiveness at the moment of reconciling with his own conscience. The world thirsts for spiritual knowledge, proof of this is that humanity is investigating the mystery of Creation. The Spirit is naked of perfections, that is why he seeks the presence of God to purify Himself in Him.

Love one another!

25. The awakened spirit is the one who seeks the light and the way without often realizing it his human part, then being the matter, which rebels against the spirit, which stands in his way of spiritual evolution. That is why I clarify the mysteries through my revelations and leave them within the reach of the human being, manifesting myself clearly and speaking to his own senses; and yet, many times man resists accepting what is clear as light.

26. How much the spirit has had to struggle with the rebellion of matter! Man, many times achieving great development and advancement in the sciences and in human life, spiritually has no advancement at all. And from this spiritual lethargy he is not awakened by religions in which he finds only mystifications and fanaticism.

27. Then the understanding refuses to penetrate into the spiritual, for fear of breaking the mystery that reveals to him the reason for his spiritual backwardness and creates for himself a way to silence the calls of his conscience trying to adjust the Law to his conveniences, to his beliefs, to his life. So he feels calm and justified in his actions. Thus, he will be able to appear love for his neighbor, piety and charity, although he is very far from feeling it. He will be able to present himself before the ostentatious altars that man has forged and pretend a love and a faith that he does not even know.

28. I come in the Third Time to give light to the world, and to you, disciples, in truth I say to you: Do not fall into fanaticism in my Doctrine, see that I have come to prepare you, freeing your spirit from ancient traditions to make it evolve. Take responsibility for correcting the mistakes of your brothers. Remove from your heart and from your lips all criticism, so that you may judge serenely everything that you contemplate on your way.

29. You will find that men still believe in the sanctity of the places where they gather to celebrate their rites, and that even the objects that exist there come to consider them sacred, and that their representatives believe themselves to be superior and just.

30. But I say to you, is it because you are listening to me with a loud voice and because I have clothed you with gifts that you are already very close to Me? Are you going to feel superior to your brothers? So far you have only allowed your understanding to become clear in order to understand my word; once you have understood it, you will be able to work the advancement of your spirit, recognizing that everything you do for the good and for the good of your fellow men will be a merit for you and will contribute to the development of your spirit.

Love one another!

31. My Doctrine prepares you to live eternally developing that being of light that is in you created with perfection and wisdom, which is the spirit, so that the stains left in him by earthly passions, purify and cleanse them one by one, until reaching the original purity.

32. Truly I tell you, before my departure, there will be so much light in your understanding, that you will see clearly what was difficult for you to understand before. Then, your knowledge and your faith will be greater and you will have learned to manifest the power of your Father through spiritual elevation in prayer. You will not hesitate and you will not show yourselves dissatisfied as you do sometimes when you have told me: Master, I have prepared myself, I have prayed, I have deposited the balm in the needy and I have not achieved what I have asked for. To which I can tell you: Why do you doubt? Is it not your faith that must save you? Have I not taught you that not everything you ask for is what suits you? You do not even know the material nature of your brothers. What are you going to know about his spiritual nature? What do you know of what that spirit needs for his development, for his atonement and perfection?

33. I come to teach you to simplify the teachings; love, have charity, pray and ask for your brothers and then, let me do my will, you have already fulfilled. In this way you will learn to receive everything as a benefit, even that which you previously considered contrary to your health or your faith.

34. It will not be only resignation that accompanies you, but the knowledge that everything you receive from Me is for your good, but when I grant you according to your request because it suits you, be filled with joy and ignite your faith more.

35. I am the old Teacher, the one who teaches you again today. Christ came as a perfect Spirit to manifest himself among men, his charity was infinite, since he became a man and came to sacrifice for the love of humanity. Jesus is an example of charity, imitate him, do not forget that every creature has a mission to fulfill, because of which he will hasten a test that you must accept with the humility with which Jesus accepted bitterness.

36. Beloved disciples: Now that you have entered the time of preparation, understand that the momentous moment of the end of my word is approaching, in this form.

37. The Master does not sleep, you, do not sleep either, because I am preparing the end of my manifestation through the human brain. My Spirit will not depart from you, but rather, you will feel closer to me because of your spirituality.

38. He who does not prepare himself and let my teaching pass, without analyzing it, will feel orphaned after my departure and will feel me absent.

39. The good disciples will not bear mourning or sadness, because they will have a broad understanding of my orders and will then contemplate how a horizon opens before their spirit

Love one another!

in infinity from where they will receive great inspirations from the Father, which will no longer be limited by passing through the father, because they will come directly from the Holy Spirit.

40. After the day marked by my Divinity, you will no longer hear my word, but it will have been imprinted on your conscience, in your heart and in the books.

41. Whoever stands up as a spokesman invoking my Ray, does not know the sentence he is throwing on himself. I warn you not to listen to false prophets, false spokesmen and false Christs. I awaken you so that you may avoid confusion in time and prevent the access of spirits in darkness among you. Watch, for of these teachings you will answer me if you are not prepared.

42. He who from now on disposes, will enjoy great inspiration, will communicate with me and will delight in listening to me through the reading of my Lectures that I will leave you as an inheritance. His path will not be uncertain; the performance of his mission will be light, he will feel my presence in trials.

43. Then you will understand that you have taken a step forward.

44. It will be when you begin to demonstrate the purity and elevation of my Doctrine, because you will not admit among yourselves external cults, fanaticism or idolatry.

45. With thought, word and action, you will bear witness to my Spiritual Work.

46. As long as you do not understand my Doctrine, and have not prepared yourselves in heart and spirit, I will not be able to use you as emissaries of Good News, and you will see before your steps the obstacle that stands in the way. But when the disciple lives and feels my Work in the spirit, I will open paths and bring needy travelers to him so that he may make my teaching known to them.

47. Rejoice, because the Voice that awakens you is my word of love, but watch, lest another voice come to wake you up and tomorrow that voice will be the justice of the earth.

48. Men will have to look at you, they will be the men of justice and laws, theologians and theosophists, scientists, they will come animated by various intentions, but they will search you and put you to the test. You are not going to hide your life and your works by presenting them only my Law, you are not going to hide your imperfections with the perfection of my written word in your books.

49. If there are bad examples in the history of humanity, do not imitate them.

50. I did not speak to you like that in the past times. In the First Time, the Law enlightened the human spirit; in the Second Time, Christ illuminated the human heart with the light of love. Today the light of the Holy Spirit illuminates your spirit to elevate it above everything human.

Love one another!

51. From one God you have received these three messages and between one and the other an era has passed, time necessary for the evolution of the spirit, so that he could receive the new message or new lesson.

52. Now you can understand why I have called you disciples of the Holy Spirit.

53. Everything created worships me, from the atom to the star of greater dimensions; from the most retarded human creature, to the most evolved spirit. You who feel everything that exists in your world, you look at how each being and each matter performs a mission and fulfills a destiny, in that fulfillment you worship me; it is the tribute of your harmony with the whole; in truth I tell you that all creatures recreate themselves, even the rock that, due to its hardness and immobility, seems insensitive or dead to you, because the Spirit of God who is in everything created by Him, is life.

54. Look how the king star sends its light, which is energy, life and heat as far as its power reaches. It is his warmth that raises the waters of the seas to be carried by the wind, turned into clouds and let them fall in fertilizer rain on the arid fields that will later be covered with greenery, flowers, trees and fruits; foliage whose branches serve as a home for the birds; that in his language raise their songs to infinity; while everything germinates, everything grows and multiplies, everything is adorned in a constant tribute to the Father. The Creator recreates Himself with His work and lets all creatures be recreated in Him.

55. And what are you in the midst of creation? You are also creatures who fulfill a mission, but in addition to belonging to material Nature, you are endowed with spirit, which possesses consciousness, intuition, intelligence, revelation, will, freedom, reason and feelings. For this reason, you are, among all the creatures of this planet, superior beings who have everything at your disposal as instruments, as servants, as sustenance, recreation and element for your spiritual and human progress.

56. If your spirit, in its evolution, makes you superior, think that your worship also has to be superior and that worship that is of the spirit, I have come to reveal it to you in all times.

57. Humanity, from its beginnings, has sought the way to render spiritual worship to me; the intuition of my existence has induced it to seek me and to penetrate into the beyond, and when I have contemplated in man that restlessness, I have come to manifest myself before him. And what I have come to reveal to you is the spiritual path that leads the spirit to perfection. But in order for this humanity to reach the spirituality that it has not yet reached, I have had to see you go through the great mistakes and the greatest confusions, through long paths of suffering and trials, through times of light and times of darkness, until you reach the gates of the time of the spirit, which is this one in which you are living.

Love one another!

58. The worship that your spirit was to offer me in a high and pure form, materialized in your heart, when your body offered it to me, the prayer being forged in the mind, and pronouncing it with your lips; offering me the fruits of nature as if they were your works; recreating your senses with the brightness of ceremonies, while your spirit presented himself before Me, naked, hungry, mute and clumsy, because the mission that corresponded to him had been usurped by matter.

59. In the Third Time, my spiritual Doctrine will give the spirit the freedom to spread its wings and rise to the Father to consecrate true worship to him.

60. But man, as a human being, also has a cult to render to the Creator and that tribute consists in fulfilling his duties on Earth, practicing human laws, having morality and good judgment in his actions; fulfilling the duties of father, son, brother, friend, lord and servant.

61. Whoever lives in this way will have honored me on earth and will give occasion for his spirit to rise up to glorify me.

62. The love of the spirit should not be concretized to your material children and brothers; spiritual love should be universal, so that it loves without distinction of class, nor of planes of spiritual evolution.

63. The spirit must be strong in the face of the weaknesses of matter, which is what induces it to fanaticism and idolatry; it must strip itself of prejudices and passions so that it knows how to grant reason to the one who possesses it and accept the truth wherever it is found.

64. Then you will be men of peace who with your life fulfill my phrase of giving to God what is God's and to Caesar what is Caesar's; not giving to the Father what belongs to the world, nor offering to the world what belongs to God; but knowing how to harmonize all the laws, to reach a just fulfillment of them, recognizing that every divine Law of love and justice has sprung from Me.

65. In the Second Time, Jesus spoke to you with great perfection, now I come to speak to you with great clarity and simplicity, but much of what I have revealed to you in this time, I did not tell you at that time because you were not able to understand it.

66. Everyone who has been called before my Chair and has been appointed to a mission, it is because he is in time to understand these lessons. And once again I tell you that it is not the first time that your spirit has crossed this planet, nor is it the first time that it has received the light of a divine revelation; but its past is momentarily hidden behind the veil of matter; your spirit knows this and upon hearing my word, awakens and feels that it really comes from far away, for a long, very long way in which it has contemplated and lived a lot.

Love one another!

67. In order for you to hear these teachings, you had to walk a lot, but your spirit has not decayed, it has not aged, because old age, decay and death are not with the spirit; rather, evolution, experience and development that give the struggle and trials, give maturity and bring you closer to the fullness of eternal life.

68. You have had existences of well-being and pleasures, of splendor and pleasures, others of vicissitudes and failures. Some have served as expiation, others as experience, some for the development of the mind, others for that of the feelings, and this one that you now have is for the elevation of the spirit.

69. You have known everything and you have possessed everything, so if today you see that you have no riches, no splendors or titles, do not regret it thinking that in order to walk firmly in this time and achieve spirituality, you had to lose everything superfluous and unnecessary to acquire your spiritual progress.

70. Since you are the bearers of an essentially spiritual Doctrine, you will not be able to present it to the world in forms of external worship, because with your contradiction you would only provoke distrust and mockery.

71. The Kingdom of peace is approaching and even though you do not know how long it takes for that time to arrive, I have already begun my Work of moral and spiritual reconstruction. Then this world, which until now has been a valley of atonement and tears, will be the abode of advanced spirits.

72. Be calm, for I am still with you; trust in Me, since you cannot yet trust much of yourselves. but persevere until you achieve that spiritual preparation that I ask you to have confidence in.

73. Soon you will see humanity interested in spiritual gifts, questioning some while others argue.

74. I give you my caress and my balm.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 230

1. I contemplate you arriving from different places, you come to recreate under the shadow of the paternal roof. You have been united and there is joy in the Father's heart for this, for it is enough that two hearts are reconciled for Me to celebrate.
2. You are going through a time of trials, the transcendence of which you have not come to understand, even having the light of my word. But since time is a treasure that I do not want you to waste, I come as a Teacher to teach you how to take advantage of it, making known to you your destiny and your mission.
3. Take advantage of these moments, because I will soon depart from among you. My divine word that for so many years I have given you through human understanding will cease forever.
4. There is still a short time left in which I will give you all my teaching and write all my book.
5. That is why I arrive in haste at the doors of your heart, to tell the son who has become so accustomed to my word, to wake up from his deep sleep, to wield the hoe and the shovel, to dig and cultivate the lands and love them as his own life; to know how to share his lands and his waters with his brothers; that his eyes may look with kindness, his right hand may be extended in proof of friendship and his heart may be free from selfishness, so that he may be the true tiller of the Lord's lands.
6. Do not expect the hearts of men to be moved to make peace on earth. Get up and work! Do not desire the fall of some and the triumph of others in order to obtain peace and freedom; what must triumph is justice, fraternity, love.
7. It will not be men who establish true peace on earth; peace will come from my Kingdom to this world, when you have achieved true spiritual preparation.
8. The light that illuminates you at this time is the light of the Sixth Seal and if anyone says that it is another seal that is open, he is in error. The sixth candlestick is burning like an inextinguishable lamp, illuminating the living and the dead with its revelations and awakening the spirits with its new prophecies. But do not think that this light illuminates only those who hear this word, because I tell you the truth, scientists and theologians are also under this light.
9. Why don't you go out and study my Doctrine, so that the Teacher doesn't have to materialize explaining what you should understand by analysis?
10. Come to unite the fruits of science with the fruits of love of the spirit and you will bring the good taste to your palate.
11. Rest walkers, enjoy the freshness of this tree and eat its fruits.

Love one another!

12. It is before you the Father who has always appeared on your way.
13. I receive you as representatives of all humanity and I contemplate you prepared to receive and feel my spiritual presence.
14. You have always sought my Divinity; when you thought you had not found me, you turned to the images forged by your hands to feel me close. This is how a large part of humanity lives at this time, seeking and adoring me in the images, while I find Myself speaking to the world in the fullness of the time of this communication.
15. Through dreams I am awakening humanity, symbolic and prophetic dreams, to which men do not pay attention or analysis for lack of faith and preparation and thus forget that vision without knowing that it is a divine message.
16. How far removed from the true path humanity is! He lives the world governed by his free will and goes after pleasure and the passions of matter.
17. The spirit sleeps, the intelligence has not yet awakened to the light that is the truth, nor does it sense the true life.
18. Humanity has not yet given occasion for its conscience to speak and judge. There are still those who believe themselves to be infallible and free from errors, carrying darkness in their hearts.
19. But men are already tired and that is why I have come approaching them to point out the path to them, to fill their spirit with light; making them understand their mistakes and the lost time, and to engage in the interior of man a combat between light and darkness.
20. In many ways I manifest myself to my children, always with infinite love so that their spirit is not lost.
21. If you have entered these humble houses of prayer, it has not been by your will. It has been my charity that has called you to give you spiritual sustenance and point out to you the path of redemption by which you can come to my presence, you will not come downhearted, nor haughty, but dignified and humble.
22. I am offering you eternal peace as I offered you in the First Time the lands of Canaan. You cannot get lost from the path because it is traced with my blood. My blood is truth, it is love and eternity. Watch, for my truth revealed in my Doctrine has been falsified by men and some revelations have been hidden.
23. My example and that of my apostles has not been imitated by all who have tried to follow me. Many have become lords instead of servants, have filled their hearts with superiority and pride and have only pursued wealth, pomp and honors, forgetting the needs of the poor, becoming indifferent and insensitive to the misery and suffering of others. That is why men go from one religion to another in search of truth. Hence the spiritual need they experience to create new sects to search for me freely.

Love one another!

24. Those who yesterday were seen as saints and demigods, today are unknown to a disillusioned humanity.

25. Men are ceasing to seek the confessor to absolve them of their faults, because they find him unworthy. And the threat of hell with its eternal fire no longer impresses or shakes the sinner's heart.

26. Taking advantage of this spiritual disorientation, the wolf lurks behind the undergrowth.

27. Every minister of my Divinity and every representative has the mission of making peace among men and it is the opposite that you are doing at this time. Everyone believes himself first, everyone wants to be the strongest, forgetting that the only strong that I am, is in everyone.

28. Now you can explain why in the Second Half I promised you to come back. Now you can understand why I have come to teach you again. Because only my word can remove the blindfold of darkness from the spirit, only my love is capable of redeeming you from your sins.

29. You have been called and chosen to give an example of faith in my coming and of trust and obedience in my word, but do not wait for the last ones to give you the example of the good fulfillment in my Law, because your pain will be very great. And when you see them marching, crossing borders and penetrating the nations as emissaries of my word, you will understand your negligence and ingratitude.

30. Think again and if you want to be believed, start by setting a good example in your home. I want that if yesterday you were unknown to each other because of the difference in tribes, now you love each other as one family.

31. Here is my clear word: if I came to speak to you in another language, it would be unfair.

32. I come to prepare your heart so that you can dwell in it. The world will also be prepared, in the minds of men the seed of peace will germinate and you, who will have scattered it to all corners of the Earth, will be pleased to contemplate the fruit of your work, because walking in imitation of the Master, you taught the good life and prayed for everyone.

33. In all nations there will be talk of reconciliation, of fraternity and peace; and this will be a principle of unification.

34. I have been preparing you and I have asked you if you are already willing to get up after the paths, in search of your brothers to show them the wisdom that I have given you in inspiration and to answer satisfactorily to their questions. To no one it seems impossible to fulfill this position, look that the knowledge that I have given you, allows you to understand your mission.

Love one another!

35. It will not be indispensable that you all have to visit the nations that you call foreign, in order to extend my Doctrine, it will be enough for you to raise your thoughts in prayer and cleanse your heart, so that your spirit may manifest itself and identify itself with your brothers, however distant they may be. And they will be made alert by the beings of light.

36. You will unite with the spiritual world, forming with it a barrier that prevents new wars and new sufferings. You will continue to pray for those who intend to achieve spiritual mastery through force. You will be surprised, and the world will be surprised, when men will see that force has not mastered reason, fraternity and justice

37. Take care to give apparent charity, carrying egoism in your heart. Do as much good as you can without any personal interest. Do it out of love, which is the Law that I have taught you, and you will have accumulated merits for your spirit. Show my teaching as I have given it to you; it is the same as I taught my prophets and my apostles of old.

38. Man, in his materialism, has found it expedient to modify the word that I gave you in times past. But my Work is perfect and does not lie in material words. Prepare yourselves and you will always discover my truth; then you will find that I have given my seed to you in abundance at all times, so that you too may give it in that way.

39. It will not be necessary for you to impress anyone by making use of rites or external forms; the temple of your heart will become visible and in it your brothers will contemplate their lamp and their altar.

40. Learn from now on to feel me, the same in your works, as when you are struggling to leave the mud when you have fallen.

41. I have taught you to seek the truth in simplicity. How poor still is the human mind in seeking the truth in the complicated doctrines which it forges for itself! Why seek me so far taking me with you? Who is unaware that he is created in the likeness of the Father, endowed with divine attributes such as consciousness, intelligence and will?

42. I came to live with men in the Second Time, I shared your bread and your roof, but the greatness of Christ lies in his humility.

43. This is how I teach you so that you may be able to detach yourselves from the material for the sake of your love for your neighbor; but first you must purify yourselves, because it is a law that you evolve, and if it is a law that everything evolves, the events that are about to happen should not amaze you. What your eyes contemplate will only fill you with joy when you realize that everything is governed by a most perfect Law, and that what is happening today could not have happened before, because everything is moving towards its perfection.

Love one another!

44. Not only on Earth they work for the advancement of humanity; from another world they also ask and help for their salvation and their progress; it is the spiritual world, that is why I tell you that the spiritualist seed will bear fruit in the bosom of all religions, after the great struggles, and when men say that it is a new religion that comes to sow division, you will answer that Spiritualism is a doctrine, which is the same as the first and the only one that has ruled the spirits; but that voice will come from your heart that is where your feelings lie. They will manifest themselves when you weep for the pain of others, also when you weep for joy for that of your fellow beings; because that is what I have always taught you.

45. I speak to you through the human understanding, my light and my grace infiltrate it and are translated into words, that word that traces the only way to reach Me: That of perfection and that of purity of feelings.

46. Beloved humanity of Jesus: You need great tests of spirituality so that your faith can be reborn and your hope strengthened. You need the clear word, to get up from that lethargy in which you find yourself. It was necessary for my Divine Spirit to manifest himself in this way, so that you would feel that the Father never abandons you, that he guides you from the Kingdom of truth.

47. Are you not convinced by this proof of love? My thought is light that descends to revive the dying light of your lamp. The Master tells you that the truth of the Universe will be manifested through the spiritualized man, because he will know how to vibrate harmoniously in this world, to which he comes to learn profitable lessons for his evolution. This world is not eternal, nor does it need to be. When this dwelling ceases to have the reason it now has for existing, it will disappear. When your spirit no longer needs the lessons that this life gives, because higher ones await it in another world, then, with the light acquired in this struggle, it will say: How clearly I understand now that all the vicissitudes of this life were only experience and lessons that I needed to understand better. How long that day seemed to me when sufferings overwhelmed me; but now, that everything has passed, how brief and fleeting it seems to me before eternity.

48. Man is called to magnify his spirit, he is called to spiritualize his existence as he rises in search of perfection.

49. This matter that you possess is also called to achieve spirituality, when that is, the living conditions of humanity will change, spiritual faculties will sprout from it, today unknown to the inhabitants of the world.

Love one another!

50. You need this Doctrine that comes to encourage your hope, that fountain of inexhaustible and true wisdom, where to quench your thirst. My light descends into the darkness of the mind of the one who says that he does not love the spirit because he does not know him, instead he loves material wealth, physical beauty that flatters his vanity, intelligence that is cause for admiration, the name, the titles, that is what he loves and that is to love the not being. Man is not matter, nor his riches. The human being is only valid and exists by his spirit. I tell you again that man is called to be the one who manifests the truth of the Universe, of the heavens and of the worlds. Even today he does not succeed, because his materiality does not allow him to develop the subtle gifts of the spirit. When this materialism disappears, he will become a seer who will enjoy contemplating the wonders of the spiritual life. Then he will understand the conversion of Saul into Paul, the transformation of man to such an extent that it was necessary to change his name. With her previous name, the memory of her passions disappears and the matter and the evils that she caused turn to ashes. If the spirit understands that it is evolved, that it lacks elevation, or that what it had to learn and develop in the material world is about to end, then it tends to join the light of divinity because the spirit is light that goes to the light.

51. Rejoice, humanity, think that you are birds of passage in this world full of tears, poverty and suffering. Rejoice because it is not your dwelling place for eternity. Better worlds await you, so, when you say goodbye to this Earth, you will do it without bitterness and here the woes of pain, the works, the tears will remain. You will say goodbye to this world and rise up to those who are waiting for you on high. From there you will see the Earth as a point in space that you will remember with love.

52. Do not be sad, because the day will come when you will move away from this valley of tears in which you have suffered so much and which you will love tomorrow recognizing that in it, you acquired the light that your spirit longed for.

53. Be happy loving your fellow men, healing the sick, comforting the sad, encouraging the poor, and then the blessings of heaven will come to you. Do you want to be spiritualized? Christ will help you to attain that grace.

54. Truly I tell you, if men are more matter than spirit today, tomorrow they will be more spirit than matter. Men have tried to materialize their spirit absolutely, but they will not achieve that complete materialization; because the spirit is like a brilliant and a brilliant will never cease to be, even when it has fallen into the mire.

55. Humanity does not know the happiness of the perfect spirit, because it has not reached the height of perfection. When you cleanse your heart and keep my truth in your spirit to put it into practice, you will discover a peace and happiness that you did not know before. That will be the life symbolized by the tree of the first parable revealed to humanity whose ripe fruits will calm the hunger of the spirit. Perfect yourselves, rise above the Earth and do not suffer from the ingratitude or misunderstanding of others.

Love one another!

56. Love is the ladder that leads to God who loves you, and to Mary, the spiritual Mother who also loves you, as well as to your spiritual brothers, who also love you.

57. From the divine mind, a torrent of messages is released, keep from them as much as pleases your heart.

58. Give me the darkness of your sufferings, I will turn them into clarity of peace; give me your sobs and tears. When I visit your heart in silence I will penetrate like a ray of sunshine to illuminate it.

59. I have given you a chair of love, so that you may feel this essence in your heart. Behold, my consoling balm pouring out in each of your afflictions, your spirits are strengthened.

60. I say to you, blessed are you who approach Me with your heart prepared, because my word becomes a balm and a caress that kindles the flame of your faith.

61. My kingdom descends on suffering humanity and my word resonates through the chosen of this time, so that those who listen to me, become the consolation of humans.

62. In all times I have had intermediaries between men and my Divinity; they have been the meek and humble of heart with whom I have served. I am preparing the new messengers of my teachings so that this good news may be among men the awakening to spiritual life.

63. How many of those who are qualified to carry out a noble spiritual mission are sleeping scattered throughout the world! They will awaken, and their spiritual advancement will manifest it by becoming useful beings to their fellow men, in the nobility of their feelings. They will be humble and will never flaunt superiority.

64. Vanity, which has been a weakness manifested since the first man, will be combated through spirituality. It is the struggle that has always existed between spirit and matter; for while the spirit tends to the eternal and high in search of the essence of the Father, matter seeks only what satisfies and flatters it, even if it is to the detriment of the spirit. This struggle that occurs in every human being is a force originated in man himself by the influence that he receives from the world, because what is material seeks everything that is related to his nature. If the spirit manages to master and channel that force, he will have harmonized in his own being his two natures and will achieve his progress and elevation. If, on the contrary, he allows himself to be dominated by the force of matter, then he will be led towards evil, he will be a rudderless boat in the middle of a storm.

Love one another!

65. You who hear me, you feel the desire to get away from everything superfluous to free your spirit, you are in full struggle for what I tell you: Keep watching and praying that the time will come when your spirit will identify and harmonize with your body. Today you are still suffering from the attraction of the world and you feel weak to resist temptation. By intuition humanity senses an era of perfection, but it does not know the time when it will be.

66. Men will go on different paths in pursuit of this goal, but those who strive for the progress of the spirit will reach it. Those who cling to religious fanaticism will not evolve, and those who devote all their time to the study of the material will only obtain material results.

67. Spirituality will be the one that leads man to perfection, but do not confuse the practice of true spirituality, which is communion and rapprochement with the Creator through love, charity and interior worship, with the practice of those sciences through which men profane and materialize the beings of the Beyond. This is my Doctrine that comes to remove the veil of ignorance that hides the truth from men.

68. My Doctrine of love has prepared you at this time so that you may receive in your bosom the presence of my spiritual world, so that he may help you to understand my word, a time that is now drawing to a close.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 231

1. My perspicacious gaze penetrates into you, and I contemplate that you form with your hearts a bouquet of flowers to make it present to my Divinity.
2. I see your sufferings and relieve them with my paternal caress, so that encouraged by my word you may become a people strong in trials.
3. Whenever you have come to Me to present your weaknesses or to ask me for help in the storms you are going through, whenever you have been in danger of falling under the weight of the cross and have sought me, I have freed you from your burden and your pain, becoming strong spirits. Then I said to you: Go ahead! do not turn your face away, for your spirit will be filled with fear as you contemplate its past.
4. I came to bring you out of the abyss to take you to the port of salvation, which is where you are now savoring this bread. You have rested in my lap of peace. I have been a ray of light in the darkness of your existence to help you walk without stumbling.
5. If these conduits or spokespersons through whom I communicate, spoke for themselves, they would not be able to teach you the way of truth, but if their mouths pour out words of light, it is because I communicate by their understanding and I have told you that I am the Way.
6. You have seen how many are surprised by these teachings and wonder if it is true that the Rabbi is the one who is speaking, if it is true that the Word has returned to this world who crucified Jesus.
7. You know that I promised you, you know that I am forgiveness and that I am fulfilling my divine mission, raising the dead, healing the sick and restoring light to the blind. You know the reason for my return and the way in which I have come, but all this the world will discuss and they will doubt a lot.
8. I have told you why instead of looking for the sage, the theologian or the scientist, I looked for the humble, the rude and simple, to manifest myself for him, because the testimony of the humble will surprise the world.
9. If you look deeply, you will be convinced that in all times I have communicated with humanity through men, and they were always humble and simple.
10. I have granted you several existences on Earth so that you may witness these manifestations and come to fulfill your mission.

Love one another!

11. It is necessary that you take advantage of my teachings so that you penetrate into the secrets of the Hereafter, which the Father is pleased to reveal to you. My arcanum has not been hidden from your gaze, otherwise you could never penetrate eternal life.

12. Study, analyze, because there are those who get confused thinking that if your spirit is a particle of my Divinity, how is it possible that it suffers? And that if the light of the spirit is a spark of the light of the Holy Spirit, how can it be for a moment enveloped in darkness? Recognize that this day is to make sufficient merits before God, with which you can convert your spirit, from innocent and simple, into a great spirit of light at the right hand of the Father.

13. Come to Me and hear once again my word which is sustenance for your spirit. This word that I have delivered to you through the human understanding in this Third Time, has worked the miracle of unifying you, of lifting you up full of zeal and faith in my Divinity, when it manifested, full of truth and teaching. Because your spirit was tired of earthly doctrines; your plant was tired of traveling the roads in search of peace, love and truth. Your hands were also tired from working the land, without being able to harvest a harvest that would give satisfaction to your spirit.

14. Thus it was my will, O people, that you should walk the paths, that you should taste the fruits, that you should knock on different doors, and that you should know the hearts of men of different races and lineages; that you should extract from the contents of the books the different philosophies, doctrines and theories; that you should come to know the humble life of the Earth with all its misery and pain. That you would know of the false opulence of this world with its pleasures and its deceptive greatness, that you would hear the voice of men and know their inspiration, that you would gather the good and the bad that they have given you through the ages; so that after this journey, you would come to meet me as the last one who arrives at the doors of your heart, as the last one who crosses your path, the last of the pilgrims who passes by your side and asks you: Where are you going? Where do you come from and what are you looking for? And that then you, without pride and without greatness, bent by pain and strengthened by experience, enlightened and tempered by struggle, would instantly recognize me, open your heart to me confessing your littleness, manifesting to me that only I can understand your pain, your failures and also your longings.

15. This is the reason why most of those who come to Me, when they hear my word, feel captivated by this essence, they feel that I contemplate them to the bottom of their heart and they experience my love that envelops them. And it is that you were waiting for me, you knew that after the great struggles, the great combats of existence, after that dark night in which you have lived, the light of a new day had to arise. Did you know that after you had drained your cup of bitterness to the dregs, someone would come to fill it with sweetness; because the hope, the trust in my promises that I made to you in other times, had not been extinguished in your spirit, the flame had been preserved in your heart and even those who have denied that it is I who communicates at this time, have not done it with their spirit but with their matter, ignorant and insensitive to spiritual manifestations, who does not know about Me. But I, who know everyone, have given these unbelievers, the reluctant ones with necks, one more time, because I know that it is not their spirit that denies me, and full of my light he must rise up and free himself from the chains of his own envelope, so that he can look at me and feel me, and exclaim like Peter, in the Second Time: “Truly, You are the son of the living God”.

16. I am turning you into disciples from your infancy, because after you have listened to me I will entrust you with a Book of Wisdom, so that with it you may teach your brothers and bring the good news to the inhabitants of your nation and then to other nations. If you learn from Me, you will be meek and humble, you will not limit yourself to only analyzing my word, nor to speaking eloquently to surprise the multitudes with it, but your inspirations and analyzes, your clear and profound words will be confirmed with works that will be the fruit of your understanding. I do not want these works to spring only from your understanding, but to be dictated by your conscience to your heart, which is where the seed of love is sown.

17. Then you will succeed in converting humanity, because after finding herself tired of hollow words, sick and tired by the falsehood of the various doctrines and ideas, she will look for a teaching that tells her about true love, charity and peace; that makes light in the darkness and pours balm where there is pain, which transforms those who carry spiritual or moral degeneration in their being. Then my doctrine will triumph and the number of those who continue to carry their banner of peace, union and goodwill will grow.

18. I want you to make the best use of this time, for the spirit to teach and stimulate the soul, to bend it and become its own instrument, its humble servant; that it is not the flesh that comes to render me the worship that the spirit should offer me; that it does not come between your spirit and Mine, because then the purification will be continuous and what the matter feels will reach the spirit, because it does not yet know how to overcome pain and weaknesses. Spiritualize yourselves without falling into fanaticism and you will see how much peace you will experience, how much strength you will impart to your heart and how strong you will be in the face of the lurks of pain, old age and diseases.

19. This is my teaching. Who among you does not understand it? It is clear as daylight and that light you can all look at it. I am giving you this lesson so that you can indelibly engrave it in your spirit, because it will give you strength tomorrow, when trials are looming over you.

20. On this Earth there has always been the struggle between men, the war, the argument, the division. From the earliest times the ideas of some have always risen up against those of others; and thus you see that evil has risen up against virtue; before justice, injustice; before the voice of the spirit, that of the flesh; before one knowledge, another, and those who have propagated my spiritual Doctrine from the earliest times, have found men of science as adversaries. Still in this Third Time I contemplate these struggles between men, but the day has come when I will say the last word.

21. All wisdom, knowledge or science has sprung from Me. I prepared this planet to be the abode of incarnate spirits, and before sending you I prepared this world with grace, with love and wisdom. I deposited in the bowels, on the surface, in everything, the necessary elements for your life, for the conservation, pleasure and satisfaction of my children. That you may discover in the bosom of this Nature all the sources of life, everything that was wrapped in mystery or kept in deep arcane; I gave you talent, I enlightened you and I gave you the gift of science, so that through that talent and according to your needs, evolution and trials, you would be the inexhaustible source of life and wisdom.

22. You have all enjoyed this gift of science, but I have chosen some to give you great missions, so that they would discover everything that would do good to the spirit and then offer you the inexhaustible water of that source and help you in your earthly life and happiness. To these chosen ones I also entrusted the intuition of the spiritual life, of that which lies beyond the sciences, above this terrestrial Nature, and for this reason, from the earliest times man has worshiped me and sensed the existence of a universal being, of a powerful, omnipotent and Creative God, who has reserved for you a high life, which is beyond this world; a life in which consciousness, love, light and reason will shine, because all this is part of your spirit. And although you all have that intuition that incessantly tells you about these faculties, it was necessary for me to send spirits of great power among you to come and reveal the greatest mysteries to you; to open the gap to the spirits and lead them to Me by the shortest and most accurate paths. They are the prophets, the patriarchs and the messengers of all time.

23. Behold, bringing some the mission of giving light to the spirits, and others of making science known, they have risen up against each other throughout the ages, without thinking that they are not opposite missions, but that both complement each other. My light has been poured out on all beings so that you understand your mission and respectfully take your rightful part.

24. If you have heard from Me that I censor the work of scientists, that I claim science, that is because that source of life, those revelations that I have made to them, some have not used them for the good and advancement of humanity, but have put them at the service of evil and destruction. But all those who have fulfilled their mission, who have penetrated with humility, elevation and respect to discover what it has been my will to reveal to them, in them I have poured out, I have been pleased and look how many charitable works they have done.

Love one another!

25. Your material life has evolved; it is no longer the same as it was in the past, and as your steps have taken you along the path of evolution, you have found the fruits of science granted to all who have fulfilled their mission. To those who have mistaken my command and penetrated into my arcana to discover the mysteries of Nature, to those who have taken the strength of the elements only to use it in works of destruction and death, I censure and appeal to you, because I have come to order and channel all the elements, and everything must be restored and returned to its place.

26. There will come a time when humanity will know how to distinguish the divine light, the wisdom allowed by Me, and will come to recognize that I am the source from which all natures have sprung, that in Me is the seed and the fruit, and that I have participated in all this so that you may make a life worthy of your spirit and of my Divinity.

27. And it is in that time of spirituality, which I now announce to you, that men will put their mental strength at the service of the spirit, and science itself will bow to its light. When will that day come? You are preparing the way for humanity to reach that goal, because the work I have entrusted to you has a universal mission.

28. Men, without departing from their duties, from their missions in the world, will put their science, their strength, their talent and their heart at the service of my divine cause. They will seek healthy pleasures, those that are healthy for their spirit and their matter. They will fight for their regeneration and for their freedom, they will not defile themselves, they will not take what is not necessary for them. It will be then when evil, frivolity disappears from the Earth; then the spirit will have achieved absolute dominion over its envelope, and while still dwelling in a matter it will make a spiritual life of love, fraternity and peace.

29. That will be the time when wars will disappear, when there will be respect and charity for one another, when you will recognize that you can no longer dispose of the life of a fellow man, nor of your own; you will know then that you are not the owners of your life, nor of that of your children and spouses, nor of this Earth, but that I am the owner of all Creation; but that being my dearly beloved children, you are also possessors of everything that is Mine. And being the owner and possessor of everything created, I am unable to put my creatures to death, to hurt or cause pain to anyone; Why, then, have those who are not masters of life taken what is not theirs to dispose of it?

30. When this teaching is understood by men they will have climbed in their spiritual evolution and this world will be an abode of advanced spirits. You do not know if after this time you will inhabit this planet again. I will point out to those who will have to look at those times of grace, to those who will have to come to contemplate this valley that was once a valley of tears, destruction and death. Those seas, mountains and fields that were witnesses of so much pain, will later be converted into an abode of peace, into an image of the Afterlife. I have announced to you that when the struggles cease, my Kingdom will already be near you and that your spirit will flourish in virtues; my Doctrine will be present in all spirits and through men and women I will manifest myself.

Love one another!

31. The spiritual gifts will develop; the gift of speech, healing and spirit-to-Spirit communication will become amazing in the men of those times.

32. Science will not stop on its way, and the scientist will penetrate my Doctrine to study it and will marvel at my revelations, and inspired by them will do charitable works that will lead to advancement and progress, not only to humanity, but to the spirit of incarnated and disembodied.

33. If in the past and in the present times my Spirit has enjoyed contemplating the works of my children, whether these are spiritual or material, beautiful works that have sprung from the heart, sensitivity or intelligence, how great will be my joy when it is not just a few who meet their high spirit, but it is humanity as a whole that is practicing love. Then there will no longer be tears, mourning or orphanhood in homes because of wars, and it will only be faith, health, strength and harmony that will persist in the lives of human beings in those times of bliss reserved for this planet.

34. You are the first generations who have received the Good News of this Third Time and you must be the ones who prepare the way for all those who will come after you. Pave the abysses, remove the stones from the road so that you leave as an inheritance goodwill, strength, good principles.

35. You are not the ones who are going to bring my Work to its completion. He is not among you who will unite the people of Israel. The establishment of my Doctrine throughout the world you will not contemplate materially. I will do this work, because if someone were to arise among you who would bend the reluctant neck of my people and achieve their unification, that man would become great or would not endure the trials that would come upon him.

36. But I, the strong one, the one who loves and forgives, will unite you to one another. Test after test I will send you, so that they will polish you and identify you in the same spiritual ideal.

37. I do not want my people to prepare a new cross for Me, a scaffold or a court. I want to dwell in his inner sanctuary, I want to occupy my throne in the spirit of my people, to communicate every moment with him and wait for him in my eternal abode, in my universal throne of humility, in my place of loving Father; when all of you, full of merits, of fulfillment, strengthened by the struggle and achrysolados by virtue, come to Me, worthily, to receive your reward.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Teaching 232

1. Chosen people, who are listening to my word through the understanding of man, who have been prepared through the ages to march before humanity: everything has been granted to you by my grace. I have come down to you because I love you and I have come to entrust to you the third part of the Book, in which the commandments are contained, the Law for you and for humanity.
2. The world is stirring in the midst of a tempest and has lost its way. He did not get up to look for the right way, he was content to live, looking for what is necessary for the sustenance of his body and has forgotten in the depths of his being the spirit, to whom I have entrusted a very high mission. I have appeared among you and I have caught you living in the midst of chaos, and my word has said to you: Stop, return to fulfillment, take up your cross, follow me and peace will be among you.
3. At this time I have prepared you by pouring out my light in abundance in your understanding. From your first steps you have been firm, and that faith, that love for my Work, encourages you to speak in my name to your brothers. Many will listen to you and will come to Me, hungry and thirsty for love; others will approach in search of relief to their ills; others will come driven only by their curiosity, and I promise you that all will reach, to all I will grant a test, because I am pleased, to give the son a sign that I have listened to his request.
4. After my departure, you will continue to prepare the hearts; you will turn them away from ignorance, from erroneous beliefs, from fanaticism. But how can you be teachers of your brothers? How can you attain humility, justice and righteousness? Praying and fulfilling my Law. Do not pretend to be righteous men, because you are not yet righteous. Show yourselves as little children or as my disciples, who strive to perfect yourselves every day. And when I behold you full of self-denial in the fulfillment, I will draw near to you a multitude of your brothers appointed by Me, to receive the knowledge of my last lessons.
5. I am going to choose from the sects that men have formed, which are detached branches of the Tree of Life, those eager for spirituality, those who seek me imperfectly, but who love me; those who pronounce my name with anointing and present to me acts of love, humility and recognition. I come like the good fisherman in search of hearts, and if today the number of those who follow me is short, tomorrow they will multiply. The hour is already approaching when the trials will convince the world that I have come to leave you my legacies of love and you, as witnesses of these revelations, will speak with justice.
6. Do not make any distinction between your brothers; all races and human conditions will be united in the spiritual ideal.

Love one another!

7. Present to me the needs of your brothers. The more sinners, the more worthy they are of my love and charity. The time is approaching when my Doctrine will spread and the farmers will go to different regions. They will be established by my will in the places where my word is to be poured out in the hearts that I have prepared as fertile soil ready to receive the divine seed in their bosom. There's your job. I make you responsible for a portion that I will put in your care, when I see you strong and willing.

8. The good news will reach men of every doctrine or sect. Everyone will know of my coming in the Third Time as the Holy Spirit. The time will come when these revelations will be fully manifested and for this reason they will make war against you; but do not be afraid, my light will not be dimmed. It will be then that my word of this time will shine with greater splendor.

9. I prepare you like busy farmers in the countryside. The word will be abundant on your lips. You will speak many times of lessons unknown to you; they will be the new inspirations that will come from my Spirit to your prepared heart. Your actions will always corroborate your words. Let all your actions be sincere so that you will be believed. I will look upon you and judge your works.

10. Remember the pure customs of Israel from the earliest times and return to them. His health and strength came from his obedience and abiding by my Law. From that people sprang exemplary men, patriarchs and prophets. There you have Abraham, Isaac and Jacob who are the trunk of your lineage. They were tested in their spirit and in their matter and the strength did not abandon them. It was necessary that those who were to give life to the people of Israel, should give an example of strength and love to all their descendants. You will recognize your strength and virtue in the hour of great trials.

11. I am preparing the spirits who will continue to inspire the people after my departure. They will watch over the fundamental teachings of my Work, and you will listen to them and respect them.

12. Fulfill your mission at this stage and then the generations to come will continue your work. I will always send beings of great elevation to Earth to watch over the Law, over the essence of my Doctrine.

13. Be content with your deeds. He who has not achieved what he asks of me and believes that it is for his good, I tell him; I know your destiny and what you ask of me, will not make your happiness, it will only give you bitterness. Think of your restitution; on Earth you will not taste perfect peace, only the fulfillment will give you tranquility today; and tomorrow, when you meet in the spiritual life, you will tell me: Father, you knew how to guide me as it suited my spirit, because if you had granted me what I asked, I would have strayed, or I would have delayed my arrival to You.

Love one another!

14. I have given you at this time the light of my word, so that you may strive for the peace of the world and so that your spirit may climb one step further on the path of perfection. I have made you understand the gifts that your spirit possesses, so that it may master all the obstacles and adversities that cross in its path. I have made you understand that this time of bitterness that you are living is a time of atonement, which you must hurry like a cup with conformity and faith.

15. Thus I have come from the infinite to free you from the chains that oppressed you.

16. In this Third Era, I have gathered all those who received in the past times the mission of making my truth known to humanity, so that it may achieve my blessings.

17. For this I have given you new revelations.

18. Assimilate my teachings, so that you can practice them, but when you leave these enclosures that are like trees for walkers and under which you heard the lark trill, do not go after superfluous pleasures, instead of seeking recollection to meditate, because the spiritual essence that you received from the Master will disappear from your heart.

19. The passions, like hurricane winds, are those that snatch from your spirit that grace with which I come to clothe you and by stripping you of it, you let weakness and diseases take over your being.

20. Raise the prayer of your spirit to infinity, so that you may form an atmosphere of peace around humanity. When you contemplate your brothers under the weight of my righteousness, do merit and their penalty will be shortened. Pray for the world when you hear the voice of the elements, do not seek refuge only for yourselves; if you care for your brothers in the hour of affliction, forgetting yourselves, I will protect you. You protect humanity with your prayer and your charity.

21. Believe in the power of prayer, but you must know that in order for it to reach Me, it must first of all be felt.

22. If you already had a great and true faith, you would be doing wonders. Make haste, for the hour will come when you must rise up to carry the knowledge of this Work on the roads of the earth. By then you should not fear the justice of men, nor should slander worry you.

23. You have advanced on the path, turn your face and look at your past. Gone are materialism, pride, low passions, idolatry, ignorance, sin.

Love one another!

24. But persevere on the way, so that you may achieve greater spiritual progress; then you will experience in your heart the peace of the Promised Land.

25. This is the day when the spirit of the chosen people receives inspiration and their understanding is enlightened so that they can understand the lessons that were stored in the great Book of Life that I was to show them according to my word given in the past times.

26. And in order to come to Me, you have left the world, you have purified yourselves and already prepared, you have prayed to receive my universal ray; he has bathed your spirit and under his influence your faculties have awakened and the most sensitive fibers of your being have vibrated. You have seen arise from the bottom of your heart, many feelings that until today were unknown to you, that have made you look at this life in a different way. And once you have already been able to give way to love and charity, you feel strong to embrace great works and understand great multitudes of your brothers. You want to multiply your care for those in need and send messages of light with your thoughts to those who are distant from you. All this you can do, because I have discovered before your spirit a vast field in which you can work.

27. Your gifts have no limits, they will not be exhausted even when you come to assume that you have already given all your wealth. The more you give to others, the more your inheritance will multiply. Your mission at all times has consisted in working for peace and interceding for the world.

28. I have tested you so that you may have confidence in yourselves, so that you may know what you are capable of. Whenever you have been hesitant, or when you have lacked faith, or when you have distrusted your strength, I have sent you the proof you need and by it you have obtained the answer. Test after test I have put you through, but first I have prepared you, because I have never wanted to surprise anyone.

29. I am directing your steps, I am surrounding you with an atmosphere of peace, in which you can study and deepen in my Doctrine. And when you are ready, you will be at the head of the people who will rise up at this time. Today your works do not shine yet; but my people must strengthen themselves in virtue, they must fight against materialism, to help humanity find the sure path that will lead to Me.

30. You have already enjoyed the peace of my Spirit, when you have risen up making communion with me; but the lasting peace is not yet yours. You are at the beginning of the way and only your merits will give you the ineffable joy of approaching Me, I will multiply your fruits, and I will shorten the path, so that you will come to Me soon.

Love one another!

31. You have been among the first to receive this divine message and I want you to know how to transmit it to others. This humanity that doubts and mistrusts today, will believe. I have given him enough tests in this time and all of them tell him about Me. She will still remain deaf for a few more moments, then she will hear the call I make to her, she will be attracted by my teaching, she will want to discover what awaits the spirit after this life and the answer will be found in the Book that I leave to everyone: The Book of Life. Everyone will come to possess the light, because this is divine patrimony, it is the inheritance that belongs to you and that will not be denied to anyone. I will teach them all, the same to the one who knows how to fulfill and interpret my commands justly as to those who disobey me.

32. When you have searched your works, and wept at the sight of the scarce fruit that you have conquered, it grieves the spirit to realize how far you are still from the end that I have destined for you, and you remember that prophecy that was given to you in which it was said to you: "If Israel does not work for its unification, a new war will be felt, and once again the woman will weep and the man will shed his blood, and there will be mourning, need and hunger in the homes and the spirit will suffer."

33. Therefore I say to you, do not be ignorant of one another, do not do deeds of division. My teaching tends to unify all spirits, to bring them closer, so that you can all identify and recognize me as your Father.

34. Leave for now your burden of sorrows, come to Me without doubts or fears, trust fully and let me do my will in you. I know what is going on inside you and I give you the strength you need.

35. I am the beginning and the end of everything created. By my will you have come into this world and by my will you will leave it.

36. I come as a loving Father to give you my forgiveness because you are still weak.

37. This life has been entrusted to you as an opportunity for your spirit to make merits, therefore, all human thoughts and acts should be within my Law of love and justice; but men have turned away from the path that my Law points out to them, and it has been necessary to return to them to remind them; to that end I have come to communicate with you at this time. The object of your coming to listen to my word is that you may deepen your understanding of my Doctrine and prepare yourselves for the spiritual life. Do not come out of curiosity, out of obligation or because you think you will comply. Come with the longing to find in each new lesson one more revelation, one more teaching. Take advantage of my presence, so you will be more prepared to fulfill your mission.

Love one another!

38. If you have been healthy in body, if you have had satisfactions and comforts or if you have endured illnesses, vicissitudes and poverty, all that remains here on Earth, where the human journey ends and the life of the spirit begins. For the elevation of the spirit you have struggled and you have had to suffer and subdue your matter. That is why I say to you: Listen well, interpret better and analyze yourselves so that you may find the truth.

39. And when you meet those who say that you are practicing a new doctrine, you will tell them that you have only left the religious practices that belong to the external cult and that you have turned away from fanaticism.

40. My work will be recognized throughout the world, because just as in former times I sent prophets to announce my coming, so in this time I will send my new prophets to make my teaching known and announce the kingdom that is approaching to all men of good will.

41. Each revelation has been in accordance with the spiritual capacity of humanity and with the time in which it has lived. Today I have come in this form, tomorrow I will speak to you in a higher form. This manifestation is about to end, it will cease at the end of 1950; then my disciples will arise as teachers, who will not feel alone because in the light of their consciousness, that part of my Divinity that is in each of you, I am there to speak, to forgive, to love and teach.

42. Within that consciousness your spirit will be free, because it will not need any enclosures to deliver my Doctrine. You will speak wherever the occasion presents itself and your life will be the sanctuary where you worship me with the purity of your works.

43. Even if at present it seems impossible for you to cement peace among humanity, I tell you that peace will be made and even more, that man will practice spirituality.

44. The world will suffer many calamities before the establishment of that time; but those sufferings will be for the good of humanity, both materially and spiritually; they will be like a "so far" to the unbridled race of evil, selfishness and lust of men. Thus a balance will come, because the forces of evil will not be able to prevail over the forces of good. Purification has the appearance of a punishment without being one, because it always comes to touch the most sensitive, the most delicate and dear; but in reality it is a means of salvation for the spirit far or lost from the way. He who judges materially, cannot find anything useful in pain; he who judges that he carries with him a spirit that lives eternally, draws, from the same pain, light, experience, temper and regeneration.

45. If you think spiritually, how can you believe that pain is an evil for humanity, if it comes from a God who is all love?

Love one another!

46. Time passes and there will come an instant when those great trials begin to appear and flee the world until the last remnant of peace, which will not return until humanity has found the way of my Law, listening to that inner voice that will tell you every moment: God exists! God is in you! Acknowledge Him, feel Him, be reconciled to Him!

47. It will be then that the order of your life will change, selfishness will disappear and everyone will be useful to others. In my justice men will be inspired to make new laws and govern the peoples with love.

48. Take my message to humanity soon, so that they may take advantage of my teachings and warnings; man will recognize that this word was indeed a prophecy, and that I had everything foreseen.

49. When that troubled sea has calmed its waters and the winds have calmed down; when there are no more epidemics that plague the peoples and the plagues have been exterminated, then the era of peace will begin for humanity.

50. You will pray and ask for this world, which will have to pass the greatest of its trials and will have to hurry a very bitter cup.

51. How many who today believe they have faith, when contemplating those calamities will tremble! How many of you who think you are strong will go to hide your cowardice! I am preparing you so that you will be aware of your actions, the time has come, and you will be able to fulfill the mission that I have entrusted to you.

52. Every mystery has been clarified to you at this time, even that of the Trinity of manifestations of my Divinity, which I will repeat in brief words.

53. The Father, God, has no figure, no limit, no beginning and no end, a lesson that you would not understand, because the more you say: God is the Creator of Everything, the light, the force that sustains the Universe, the life that pulsates in all beings.

54. And the son? The Son is the Word, he is the power of God, who was limited in a perfect man: Jesus, so that the Father's love might dwell in Him.

55. If the Divine Spirit was in Jesus, he was man and he was God; man by his material nature, God by his spiritual nature. As a man he had manifestations proper to the human being: he felt and suffered as a man, but the knowledge he had of his own mission and his spiritual strength, made him overcome material needs and temptations. Everything that was not in harmony with His mission was disdained by Him. Thus, through that just and pure man, God was able to manifest himself as a man.

Love one another!

56. Having concluded his mission, Jesus returned to the Divine Spirit bearing in himself the imprint of human life, the trials to which he subjected himself as a man, that is why the son, being the love of the Father, has something of each of you and you feel understood knowing that he lived in your world and stepped on the same dust that you tread.

57. But the Father and the Teacher are one and the same God.

58. And the Holy Spirit, I can tell you, is the highest form in which that same Being manifests itself to all men, who possess in their consciousness a spark of the very nature of the Creator.

59. Therefore, the Holy Spirit, the Father, and the Son are one and the same power, one and the same will, not three persons, but a single divine being who had to manifest Himself in various forms to His children in order to become understood.

60. See how much love there is in your God, who being all omnipotence, does not stop to limit himself, so that you can feel and contemplate him. Who multiplies to show you that he is not only your Maker and Judge, but at the same time your Father, your Friend, your Brother, your Teacher.

61. You say: How is all this possible? You are still little creatures before whom I come to limit my explanations by putting them within the reach of your understanding.

62. I forgive you and I give you my blessing.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 233

1. The light of my Spirit be with you.
2. Disciples, who have been struggling with yourselves, who aspire to spiritual eternity, who are not satisfied with your works; prepare yourselves, because although it is true that you have not achieved what your spirit longs for, nor have you contemplated the fruit of your labor, I tell you that you have achieved elevation and advancement. This you are going to confirm in that life that awaits you, in which you will have full knowledge of your spiritual progress. It will be there that you will feel that the love of the Master has really infiltrated into your being and that the feeling of charity towards those who suffer, has been acrisolated in your spirit. That will be the harvest gathered by you after the different reincarnations that you have had.
3. The spiritual valley will be populated by spirits of light, whose virtues will be at the service of the good and progress of humanity.
4. Those who in this world really prepare themselves and carry out their mission with true charity and love, will not aspire to contemplate the realization of their work to hear the cry of triumph, because whoever aspires to this, still has a lot of matter and very little of spirit.
5. If I have told you to give your matter the importance and the place it has in your destiny, I have meant that you know how to conduct it so that it may be an instrument for your perfection; because it is your spirit that has to reach Me.
6. See how simple my Doctrine is in all its phases, that is why I tell you never to seek to complicate it. Look how I facilitate the way to fulfill it, more, as I see that you understand my teaching, I make you feel the responsibility that you acquire with it. The more ignorant a man is of my teaching, the less is his responsibility.
7. Why are there those who, having been with me, abandon me? Why do they come to exchange me for satisfactions that hurt their spirit? And when I catch up with them on their way and call them, they come in their ingratitude to tell me that they have never seen me or felt me. How soon they thought they had forgotten the one who walked with them step by step, the one who accompanied them in the hours of trial and in the vicissitudes; the one who carried in those moments the tormented heart, the heavenly harmony of my caress and of my divine peace that says to him: Come to Me, rest in Me; follow me, I am the Heaven you seek. At that moment, that heart felt overwhelmed with emotion because it has verified that man is not only on his way and a prayer of love that is thanksgiving to the Master has sprung from him. Is it possible that someone can forget these tests of my love? Is it possible that after receiving them there are those who deny having felt me?

Love one another!

8. You who are listening to me ask me: Master, how can I know what is good and what is bad? To which I answer you: I am divine justice and as justice I manifest myself in each one of you through the consciousness that is the light of my Divine Spirit. That is the voice of God within man, and since there are faculties in man that enable him to interpret and understand that voice, its calls and its judgments, he will not be able to justify that he does not know the way of good, which is the Law of love and justice. What are those faculties or attributes which enable a man to hear the voice of his own guide and judge? Intuition, reason, feelings.

9. That is why whoever does evil, it is not that he lacks ears to listen to that voice, it is that he has closed them so as not to listen to his own judgment. It is not that he does not have eyes to contemplate the good way, it is that he voluntarily becomes blind to walk along the path that he has created of his own free will.

10. I say to you: Why silence the sweet and harmonious voice of God who speaks to you through your conscience, if she always guides you with certainty on the path of good?

11. It is the flesh that many times, like a dense veil, does not allow you to look at the light of truth, that is why I tell you that you will hear that voice with all clarity when you are already free of matter. And that moment can be that of the supreme happiness for the spirit, which reached the fulfillment of its mission on Earth or also that of infinite pain, when checking its faults and seeing its stains, which will make it desire a new matter, as an opportunity to start the path. There the Father's justice, which has love as its principle, manifests itself in power, granting the spirit one more human body, where to fulfill his destiny.

12. Like that, how many opportunities I have entrusted to each one of you so that after time you may come to Me, since as children you belong to me. But I do not want you to come to Me only by my charity and love, but also by your merits so that you may become worthy to possess and contemplate all the greatness of my Work.

13. Truly, I tell you, there is more joy in heaven at the arrival of one converted sinner than if a hundred righteous people entered it. It is the triumph of good against evil, when the spirit fallen into darkness regains its greatness.

14. I come to speak to you in this way to destroy in you all those fanatical beliefs that hindered your path of spiritual evolution, because my Doctrine had not been clearly exposed to you by its interpreters.

15. People: be strong in the face of pain and when you come to understanding, you will thank me for having tried you.

16. Come near to Me and listen to me, for in my word I will sustain you spiritually.

Love one another!

17. My teaching at this time has worked the miracle of raising you up in crowds eager for light.
18. In the silence of your heart you have listened to the Master and before Him you have rested from the long paths, from which you bring as a harvest your fatigue and your pains.
19. What the world is hungry for is love, peace, truth.
20. Bring union where discord reigns, light where confusion exists, morality where sin dwells and balm where there is pain.
21. Then you will be the clean mirror, the mirror that is your consciousness, where my divine lesson is reflected and where humanity contemplates its imperfections.
22. Great is your destiny among mankind, that is why I have come to teach so that you will not have any stumbling block that would cause your brothers to judge you.
23. Make of your body a humble servant who will never come between your spirit and Mine; who knows how to render me the worship that touches him and let your spirit elevate me the worship that corresponds to him.
24. Well understood spirituality will give you strength and health.
25. Since the beginning of time, the emissaries of the Law and the Doctrine of the spirit have found the man of science as an adversary. And great struggles have been waged between one and the other; and the time has come when I will tell you something about these controversies.
26. I made this world to serve as a temporary abode for incarnate spirits, but before they came to populate it, I prepared them with the gifts of consciousness, understanding and will. And I, knowing in advance the fate and evolution of my creatures, deposited on Earth, in its bowels, on its surface and in its atmosphere, all the elements necessary for the conservation, for sustenance, development and even recreation of the human being. But so that man could discover the secrets of Nature as a source of life, I allowed his intelligence to awaken.
27. And so the principle of beliefs was revealed to man, whose gift you all possess, although there have always been men of greater capacity, whose mission has been to wrest from Nature the secret of its forces and elements for the well-being and joy of humanity
28. I have also sent great spirits to the Earth to reveal to you the supernatural life, that which is found on this Nature, beyond science. And through these revelations the existence of a powerful, creative, omnipotent and omnipresent universal being has been sensed, who reserves an existence for man after his death; the eternal life of the spirit.
29. But bringing some spiritual missions and others scientific missions, religions and science have always been in conflict against each other in all times, always as enemies.

Love one another!

30. Today I tell you that matter and spirit are not opposing forces, there must be harmony between both. Light are my spiritual revelations and light are also the revelations and discoveries of science. But if you have heard from Me, that I censor the work of scientists a lot, it is because many of them have taken from Nature, its energy, its elements and forces previously unknown, for perverse purposes of destruction, hatred and revenge, terrestrial domination and excessive ambition.

31. I must tell you that, in those who have fulfilled their mission with love and good intentions, in those who have respectfully and humbly penetrated my arcana, I have been pleased to reveal great mysteries for the benefit of my daughter humanity.

32. Science, since the beginning of the world, has made humanity walk along the path of material progress, in whose path and at every step man has been encountering the fruits of science, some sweet bitter others.

33. This is the time when you must understand that all light belongs to my Spirit, everything that is life belongs to my Divinity, because I am the arcanum, the source and the beginning of all creation.

34. These struggles of the spiritual against the scientific will disappear from men, to the extent of uniting spirituality with science in a single light that illuminates the path of man to infinity.

35. You are beginning to prepare that time, because spiritualism has a universal mission to fulfill, he will be the one who reveals true life to all men.

36. Conceive of a humanity that consecrates its science, its talent, to the service of itself, that without fanaticism or idolatry, renders pleasant worship to God; that even pleasures be healthy and their healthy enjoyments to the body and the spirit and you will have a new world, morally, scientifically and spiritually elevated. The life of one's fellow man will be respected and one's own will not be disposed of, because those men will understand that they are not masters of themselves and that the only owner of everything is Me.

37. Appointed are those who will have to dwell in the world in those times of grace; and what was a valley of tears, a field of destruction and death, will be turned into a valley of peace.

38. It will be a propitious time for the development and flowering of the gifts of the spirit. Then science will not impose itself on the advancement of the spirit, but I will grant you to penetrate even more into my arcana, where I will reveal great mysteries for the benefit of humanity.

39. My Spirit will be recreated as always, with the good works of my children, whether spiritual, scientific or fruits of their sensitivity to beauty.

Love one another!

40. This people will prepare the way, but you, with the eyes of your body, will not contemplate that time.

41. No redeeming call will arise from among you, not even a unifier of this people, it will be my word that unites and redeems you.

42. At the end of my communication in 1950, I want to present myself in your sanctuary; there in your heart, it will be for Me, the throne of love that my people prepare for me. Do not want me to appear on a cross, on a scaffold or in a court of law.

43. Do not let time erase these words so that you can form with them, the Great Album of wisdom of your Father.

44. Pray, speaking to me with the spirit, since the voice of your matter does not resound in Glory.

45. While some present themselves in spirit, because they could not come together with their matter, others present me only to their envelope, since their spirit is far away, occupied in materiality and I have told you that to hear me it is necessary to prepare; but I want my light, like a spiritual manna, to descend everywhere where my children are.

46. I will prepare for this day a feast, so that those who live on Earth and those great multitudes of spirits who live in the Hereafter may be recreated with it.

47. I come to receive you in the light of the Book of the Seven Seals. Elijah at this time prepared the human understanding for my communication; since then you have been discovering in my Work a new revelation. Some gave a just interpretation to my teaching, others twisted its meaning and when the time came for the people to branch out into congregations or precincts, each one acted in the way in which he had been taught by those who were going ahead.

48. When you began to hear my word, the number of my listeners was small, among them there were men and women, adults and children. That small gathering grew and became a people and then I revealed to him that spiritually it was Israel that was hidden and scattered throughout the world. Time passed and the crowds multiplied, so I called them to congregation because I had discovered that their hearts lived apart, that there was no union or harmony between them.

49. My word was glorious and my heart was opened like an ark where the Law and the promises gushed out; the people bowed their necks before it and lifting up their right hand swore to follow the Father, swore to be unified. My word of that day was indelible, because it was written on the conscience of the people, just as the promise of this people was taken as a new covenant before the Divine Spirit.

50. Since then you have been fighting for your union, so that a single light and a single cult may be in the hearts; but this pact, not everyone respected it, not everyone made the ideal of union and spirituality their own, and that has caused whirlwinds and hurricanes on this people, sometimes making it weaken. Today I see that while some strive to preserve the purity, purity and simplicity of this Doctrine, others, not understanding this purity due to lack of spirituality, have been contaminating it with strange rites and influences of various religions.

51. I brought to the disciples of this time a Doctrine whose content is the essence of what Moses taught, of what Jesus poured out on humanity and what my Spirit comes to reveal to you, but I have contemplated how there have been among you those who have hidden my truth in order to be able to rise up as lords and kings before their peoples. If they could, they would wear a crown on their head, a mantle on their shoulders and a scepter on their right hand; but for lack of it, they humiliate their brothers and like to receive tributes, flattery and praise.

52. Men come to my precincts day after day; new multitudes and later disciples are increasing this people; if they come to an enclosure where my children are concerned to show the goodness and purity of my Work, they are filled with light and glorify me, but if they reach where vanity and passions nestle, they are confused and thus confused continue on their way. How can they stop the chaotic advance of those peasants, who go in front of the crowds? How can they prove to the world that it is not a sect or a new religion, but the eternal Law, the light of the Divine Spirit made Doctrine to lead men to the perfection of his spirit?

53. If from the beginning you had understood the essence of my Doctrine and its purpose, there would not be so many confused on the way. You believed that your gifts were for your earthly satisfactions and you let the light of my word go out when it reached the hearts. The spokesmen have transmitted my word from the first to the last of the enclosures, making their throat growl, so that at least the intensity of their voice, would awaken and impress your hardened heart.

54. You have seen the congregations being ignored because of their diversity of criteria and concepts and you have remained insensitive, without trying anything to avoid that division. Sometimes you want to get up claiming your peoples to teach them, but what can you teach them if you know nothing?

55. I know that those who have suffered and struggled to demonstrate my Doctrine with all clarity, are crying right now when they hear these words. They ask me for forgiveness and strength to continue in the gap and I give everyone forgiveness, strength and light. I bless the humble, but to those who are not, I say: be humble, do not forget that I have compared you to the prodigal son of my parable, who after squandering his inheritance away from his father's house, when he saw his empty hands and his exhausted and naked body, returned home in search of his Father's arms. He welcomed him and celebrated for the joy of having him with him again. Then that son would become humble, obedient and loving towards his Father, because the pain of his faults had made light in his heart; but you, whom I have said that I have received at this time as the prodigal son, do you think it is right that after having celebrated at your arrival, having sat at my table and having filled you with graces, you should be filled with vanity and rule over my house?

56. My word has managed to move your heart and in it some form the purpose of improving their works and others the purpose of amendment. Then the Master says to you: the time of purification has come, go to the bosom of your congregations and unfold the gifts with which I have graced each one of you. It is my wish that so many imperfections and profanations cease, if you do not want to be deprived of my word before the time marked by my Divinity.

57. Analyze my words, meditate on them and then get up with the firm purpose of correcting mistakes, correcting imperfections and purifying practices. Pray and watch, it is still time to exterminate the bad seed, sow the good and reap its fruit.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Teaching 234

1. You have left the world for a few moments to be with me. You have passed trial after trial, acquiring the light in your spirit, because my love has been with you in difficult hours, reminding you of my words of comfort and strength.
2. The Spiritualist Doctrine is the Ark of the New Covenant, where humanity will find light and comfort in these times.
3. When you contemplate that these enclosures are insufficient to accommodate the multitudes, I will call you to the valleys, to the fields, to the mountains, and there I will manifest my Spirit among you.
4. In general, humanity has not listened to my word at this time, its spiritual lethargy is deep, therefore it does not find peace.
5. You have had the Holy Spirit as your Teacher, that is why He makes you responsible for peace.
6. This divine teaching requires deep analysis so that you can discover all the truth it contains. It is the star that illuminates the path of salvation of the spirit.
7. The Third Time shocked the world into an abyss of hatreds, sins and fanaticism. He was not prepared to feel the arrival of the new time, the dawn of the new dawn. And he will still have to endure his chains for a while longer, until regeneration and repentance break them, in order to rise morally and spiritually.
8. Do not think that I am only with you. All over the World there are religions in which humanity shelters its spirit, and inside every man there is a dwelling that I visit to manifest myself in it: consciousness.
9. My love knocks on every door with a promise of peace. From the man of power, the one puffed up in his earthly glory and the one who has attained wisdom, to the outcast or the darkest being, they have the visit of their Lord.
10. I have come at this time to prepare a people, whose sonorous voice should be heard in all the earth. I have entrusted him with a handful of wheat to become your grower. Before, I have seated him at my table and given him to drink the juice of the vine, so that he will get stronger and can withstand the walk. In my wise counsels, I have taught him to know the false ways, so that he may turn away from them. I have shown him the true sanctuary so that he may penetrate it and feel my presence everywhere. I have freed him; I did not want his feet or hands to feel the weight of the chains at this time. But if I have been giving him great virtues and positions, it is not so that he becomes blind and conceited believing himself king, god or judge, because if I have been pouring out a lot on his spirit, it is so that he may be filled with humility and consecrate his life to be useful to his brothers and to serve humanity.

11. I want that when he appears before my Divinity, it is to offer me the fruit of his sowing and not to ask forgiveness for his faults. You are the spiritualist people that I am preparing; today you still make mistakes despite being under my teachings, because you are part of this sad humanity that crawls on Earth because it has not known how to rise.

12. I have set before you a shepherd, Elijah, to lead you to the prison of salvation, the fence of which you do not try to jump.

13. My Work, which rests partly on you, will weigh like a cross of responsibilities, of renunciations and sacrifices, but you will have in every step and in every fall, a Cyrene full of love, who will lift you up with all charity.

14. So far it has been your clumsy, uncertain, hesitant step and because of your imperfection, you have gathered bitterness and shed tears; but it is that you are still infants, tomorrow, when I send you to the roads that lead to the regions, you will walk with security and faith on the way.

15. On this day, I say to you: form in your heart and spirit the purpose of following me in peace, union and goodwill, and thus you will wait for what the Eternal has decreed for 1950.

16. See that in these moments I forgive your faults so that you may walk free from that burden, but do not carry the heavy burden of sin on your spirit again.

17. Behold, when I give you my word of forgiveness, light is made in darkness.

18. Disciples: Although you all come by the same way, your destiny is different and your mission is also different. Before the spirit arrives on Earth, he has contemplated the path, and that knowledge has been translated into experience and intuition once incarnated, with which he has been freed from abysses and stumbles. In these lessons I have been pouring out my wisdom, because you are my disciples who have come to prepare the way for the teachers that I will send to humanity. That path of preparation is bristling with dangers and temptations. Take care that you can surprise the wolf among the weeds, then you will wield the sword of love, which your adversary will not resist, and the fields covered with thistles and thorns, will become flowery valleys.

19. If you have listened to this word of light, it would not be fair for you to fall into false ways tomorrow.

20. Practice love, practice the charity that is the daughter of love, and you will be safe. Do not hide the bread that I have entrusted to you.

Love one another!

21. Do not be indifferent to the pain of your brothers, because you will not sow faith in my Doctrine; penetrate into the interior of any spirit and you will see that everyone is seeking the light, which is the truth. The flesh rarely manifests the struggles of the spirit.
22. Prepare yourselves, because while you are learning the lesson, the needy cry out for charity and tenderness.
23. Disciples: Take advantage of this precious time. You are going to become farmers of the Lord's lands that are the heart of humanity. You will penetrate tirelessly into counties and homes, because the time to sleep has passed.
24. Indeed, you will be surprised and rejoice to see that your brother's heart was already ready to receive you.
25. Spirits of light who descend from the spiritual watch over and work on the path of men, both in the great and in the humble.
26. This is an instant of grace for those who dwell on the earth and for those who have ceased to live on it, because they are hearing my voice, which was heard for the first time in this form in 1866.
27. The first to listen to me took my Work as a tree, cutting the first branches from it to plant them in different regions. Some interpreted my teachings well, others got the path wrong.
28. Small were the portions that gathered under the shadow of the humble enclosures, but when these multiplied the multitudes grew, I called them to unification, so that all would recognize themselves as disciples of one Master and all would practice the lesson in the same way, so that the seed would be sown, not under the free will of the farmers, but under the divine will.
29. Before the Spiritual Ark of the New Covenant, the multitudes promised submission, obedience and goodwill, but when the hurricanes and whirlwinds blew hard and hit the branches of the Tree, there were those who weakened while others, impassive, remained firm teaching the new farmers how to cultivate the lands. There are those who, recognizing the greatness of this revelation, have tried to penetrate into my arcana, beyond where it is my will, in order to acquire a knowledge and a power that makes them superior to others, but they have not been long in finding themselves before my justice.
30. Others, not knowing how to discover the greatness of this Work in purity, in simplicity, have copied from sects and religions, rites, symbols and ceremonies, believing thereby to give solemnity to my manifestations.

Love one another!

31. I have named you the strong people, because you have been sustained by my divine word, which is a true book of wisdom not written by man's hand. Every word of it is a page, every page a volume. Analyze, do not concretely record my inspirations in your memory and, then, this book will have been saved in your heart.

32. As the time approaches when I will stop speaking to you, I come to correct you for everything that the first ones did not know how to correct, because I do not want among the disciples, children who do not understand my teaching, or farmers who do not know how to sow.

33. The Doctrine that I have come to teach you is not new, do not say that with my coming a new religion has arisen on Earth; my communication in this Age, comes to point out to you the same path that I traced to you from the beginning of time, and my word explains and reveals to you the mysteries of the Law and the Doctrine that you had not received before.

34. Those whom you call foreigners, have been among you, passing to swell your ranks and to become disciples of my Divinity; look at all as true brothers. Don't give bad examples. Do not sneak appointments or responsibilities ahead of time or that do not correspond to you, because you will see the plants you grow dry up. This will cause great pain to your heart.

35. Prepare yourselves, because I have already told you that your brothers of different religions will knock at your door, some to claim from you what they think you have stolen from them; others to ask you for the explanation of many mysteries; others, seeking refuge and comfort in your heart. Prepare yourselves so that you will give shelter to the needy and a satisfactory answer to the one who interrogates you.

36. Let the great and the humble, the wise and the dull of understanding enter the way, but do not allow mystifications to be introduced or mixed into my Work, nor do you allow profanations.

37. My Doctrine is to transform men by persuading them with his love, his sweetness and his justice and will bring them regeneration and peace. Kings will humbly descend from their thrones; fratricidal wars will give way to forgiveness and concord; evil passions will be restrained, and that thirst for blood, comparable to that of beasts that kill themselves to satisfy their instincts, will give way to feelings of humanity.

38. This people will be the taste of the earth, a taste of peace and blessings.

39. Beloved disciples, My teaching is with you, which is not yet recorded in material books.

Love one another!

40. I surprised you at this time by making you hear my word through humble and simple understandings. But it is not the first time that I have come to use the humble or the ignorant to surprise the wise with my power.

41. You who hear me, cannot say that for this reason you are all at the same height; for the spirit that is active on this path evolves faster than the indolent and that one who, delighting in the fruits, becomes lethargic in his egoism.

42. Even though it is your spirit whom I have come to seek, preparing him in this way so that he can soon communicate directly and spiritually with me, humanity will turn its eyes to the living and true God, forgetting effigies and images. But I tell you, you have never lacked my Law as a light of spiritual salvation, because it has long been inspired to Moses, in which there are two precepts that if they were practiced by men, they would be attesting to all my Doctrine, they would be fulfilling the whole Law and they would be one step away from perfection; they are those who tell you about loving God with all your heart and spirit and loving your brothers and sisters as yourself.

43. My Law is not practiced among men, proof of this is that there is injustice. See the rich humiliating the poor, the strong dominating the weak, the one who enjoys, regardless of the one who suffers. That is why I have wanted in this time to do justice, giving to the poor, the weak and those who suffer so that their hearts may be softened and their lips may utter words of love and forgiveness, for those by whom they were offended. This is how I discover for you the way to come to possess the treasures of the kingdom.

44. Soon I will raise you up in counties, villages, cities and towns, spreading charity, so that this humanity can purify its stains and obtain its salvation or do you want this world to remain indefinitely a site of atonement? I want you to feel the peace of my Spirit on this earth, a precursor peace that you should enjoy in my Bosom.

45. See how persevering and tireless I have been since in 1866 I began to speak to you in this way, because I want to leave you prepared and united after my word is suspended and the time of direct communication of my Spirit with yours begins between you, that is, the communication of Heaven with Earth, but I will continue to overflow my Word from the cloud in intuition, clairvoyance and inspiration.

46. The theologians of this time will come to search my word and the new scriptures and will ask: Who are you, who have spoken thus? How did the scribes and Pharisees of that time arise, saying to me, Who art thou, that comest to know not and to change the Law of Moses? Then I will make you understand that the three revelations are the one Law that I have always come to teach and to fulfill it.

Love one another!

47. Many of those who judge me at this stage are of those who doubted in the Second Time, but I have preserved them and sent them to Earth again so that they may contemplate the triumph of my Law and open their eyes to the light.

48. Disciples: You have indeed drunk milk and honey in my word. Prepare your heart to converse with your Master. Elijah leads you to Me, inviting your spirit to rise to the regions of peace. He makes you forget the vanities of the earth, so that you may stand at my right hand and taste my word.

49. I have called you from different regions and nations to gather you into one people; and in these humble houses I gather you, to make you hear my Teaching. You have felt my presence and have followed in my footsteps, because you, will be the faithful witnesses of this Work that many will not know until after 1950. More blessed is he who fulfills my commands, for he will be prepared for all times.

50. I will make known to you in the essence of my Word, the reason for my coming in this Third Time and for my manifestations, so that you will never be confused; because I tell you that after my departure, false prophets will arise and you should not listen to them. Do not seek me after this time in the way in which I have come to speak to you today, because you would commit a grave offense before Me, after I have warned you.

51. You will only seek me spiritually, you will present to me your faith and the progress you make in your practices, and you will work for unification. You will attract the new disciples to your meetings, because this people will multiply in this and other nations.

52. The path that I draw for you is one of love, of renunciation and sacrifice. To get to Me, many times you will have to sacrifice the dearest. Your heart, which is tied to earthly satisfactions, will have to turn aside to give itself to the study and analysis of my Doctrine.

53. In the Second Time my word was heard by a multitude of beings, from among them I chose twelve whom I made my disciples. They were taught by my word. My love, like a chisel, polished in all ways his heart. They lived close to Me, they sensed the greatness of those divine manifestations; they read in my examples my destiny of love and redemption; they suffered for my sake, and when I was absent, they became my apostles. They left everything to follow in my footsteps. False testimony, or false testimony, did not turn them back. In them dwelt only love and loyalty. What I had sown in their spirit had borne fruit, and before and after my departure they gave me to taste its fruits, which I found full of sweetness and submission, and I said to them: Keep listening to me and later, I will speak through your mouth of great revelations unknown to yourselves. The Word will be inexhaustible and the inspiration fruitful, which will overflow in many ways through you. You will all be a present to humanity, a present that I make to it as a testimony of my truth.

Love one another!

54. My disciples promised to imitate me in all their acts and to do with humanity what I did with them. They carried out their work and their example is imperishable.

55. Thus, with the same love, I prepare you in the Third Time and I say to you: Are you willing to receive the trials that it was my will to send you to perfect your spirit? Yes, you tell me from the bottom of your heart. We love you and want to serve you, but we are waiting for all your help. I tell you, My strength will never leave you. I will guide you so that my light will always point out to you your duties, and your works will always be within my laws.

56. You have risen, people, and you already have a glimpse of the spiritual life; you feel at times the peace of the kingdom that awaits you, you have known the satisfaction of fulfillment and you say to me: Master, examine the seed that I am presenting to you, and tell me if I have fulfilled or I have failed. And I say to you, I have received your love, and good intentions; do not be afraid, you have great power to overcome in trials and an antidote against all evil. Use all your gifts so that you will see how strong you are. I will cultivate your virtues, I will make them grow and I will use them, because you will bear great fruits to humanity and then you will look at yourselves full of my pleasures and benefits.

57. When you find yourselves like this, do not look with indifference at those who suffer, do not despise the poor, impart charity, let my light illuminate their lives, let the love that I have placed in you reach them and give them warmth, encouragement and hope.

58. Love spiritually with a pure and disinterested love. Love Me as I love you, love your brothers, for in each of them I am.

59. Be humble among the humblest, be servants of all as I am your servant; I have received your orders many times and obeyed you to teach you. He who serves does not descend, but dignifies himself. And in exchange for your service do not ask for any payment. There is no one on earth who can appreciate your work. I will give you with justice according to your merits.

60. Leave all your causes with Me and I will know how to judge you with kindness. If I consider that your purpose was to do good, that you fought defending the principles that I have given you for your salvation, that you knew how to listen to me and obey me, I will take your works and by them not only you will be saved, but the spiritual portion to which you are bound by the fraternal ties and those that form your family. And your example will have an impact not only on the world in which you live, but on other valleys, and it will be like a seed that will multiply infinitely through the ages. And you, in union with me, will reap the fruits and feed on them forever.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Teaching 235

1. I come to you as a new day, lovingly dispelling with my light your misunderstanding and your doubt.
2. Come to the banquet prepared by Me, so that you may bring to your lips the good food that will fill you with strength and grace.
3. I invite you to enjoy the peace of having rescued yourselves from the raging sea and I point out to you again the path of fraternity and love, because I want you to become an example of virtue and fulfillment.
4. Dangers lurk and threaten your spirit; but my light makes you alert and your prayer will make you overcome. You behold this world sown with wickedness and selfishness; man and woman hurting each other and sowing thistles and thorns on the path. You feel sadness when you contemplate childhood getting lost in the crooked paths. This is where the emissaries of light, consolation and peace are needed.
5. While the storms strike humanity, I continue to leaf through the Book of Life before your spirit to make you soldiers of peace.
6. My Spirit speaks to you through the human understanding. The Word has not incarnated at this time and that is why I can tell you again: Blessed is the one who has believed in Me without seeing Me, because he will know many teachings of my arcanum.
7. Think, disciples, about the imminent end of this form of communication. The year 1950 is approaching and later you will no longer hear this word. If you do not watch, temptation will surprise you and the false Christ will present himself through peasants who today are at my service and tomorrow, because of their weakness, they will deny that my word has been lifted up. They will put a blindfold of darkness on the eyes of their brothers and will lead the multitudes along the path of pain and darkness, they will put chains of ignorance on the spirits and before them they will open chasms of loneliness and bitterness. Then those who have fallen into this confusion will turn blasphemously against Me to judge Me, forgetting that the Master warned you in time so that you would not fall into temptation.
8. Know the way, see that with his wisdom the Holy Spirit from the top of the mountain calls you to give you rest, to make you hear the heavenly voice, blessing the arrival of your spirit who knew how to overcome the weakness of matter and the lurking of the world.
9. Let your spirit drink the wine that I offer him, let it continue to be sustained by my love; the sick will regain health and the blind will see my light, because these hearts will open like a flower whose perfume will reach the Father.

Love one another!

10. May the charity of my Divine Spirit encourage your body and spirit, beloved disciples.
11. I receive you as little children to give you a lesson through human understanding.
12. Come closer to Me, listen to me and retain each of my phrases, analyze them because with their essence you will be able to forget your pains, sorrows and sorrows. Forget the past for a moment and live in the present moment. I am the way, the truth and the life.
13. Consecrate this moment by elevating your pure thought, because I want to reach the innermost depths of your heart.
14. When through my word you come to understand and live my Doctrine, and have developed the powers of your spirit, you will have filled your heart with the waters of this divine source with which you will be able to quench the thirst of those in need.
15. The purpose of my Doctrine is the moral and spiritual salvation of mankind. To help you in your elevation, my Spirit is radiating this light. That is the object of my message.
16. Truly I tell you, human regeneration must begin with the woman, so that her fruits, who will be the men of tomorrow, may be cleansed from the stains that have led them to degeneration.
17. And then it will be up to man to do his part in this work of reconstruction, because whoever has perverted a woman must regenerate her.
18. Think, men, that many times you have been the ones who have made virtuous women fall into your nets, looking for sensitive and weak fibers in them. And those mirrors that were clean and that today are tarnished, you must make them reflect the clarity and beauty of his spirit again.
19. Why do you despise today the very ones you led to perdition yesterday? Why do you complain about the degeneration of women? Understand that if you had led her along the path of my Law, which is the law of the heart and conscience, of respect and charity, loving her with the love that elevates and not with the passion that debases, you would not have had to cry and complain and they would not have fallen.
20. Man seeks and demands in woman virtues and beauty, but why do you demand what you do not deserve? I see that you still think you have great merits, despite being scarce of them. Rebuild with your deeds, words and thoughts what you have destroyed, giving honesty, morality and virtue the value they have.
21. If you fight like this, men, you will have helped Jesus in his work of salvation and your heart will rejoice when you contemplate the homes honored by good wives and worthy mothers. Your joy will be great when you see that virtue returns to those who had lost it.

Love one another!

22. Redemption is for everyone. Why should not even the most sinful be redeemed? That is why I say to you, men: work with me to save those whom you have led to perdition, encouraging them with the light of my Doctrine; make my loving thoughts reach their minds and hearts; take my messages to them even to the prisons and hospitals, even to the places of the mud, because there, they will cry with repentance and pain for not having been strong when the world with its temptations dragged them towards perversion.
23. Every woman was a girl, every woman was a virgin, therefore you could reach her heart by the way of sensitivity.
24. Of the men who have not sullied those virtues, I will use myself to entrust them with this task, remember that I have told you: "By your works you will be recognized"
25. Let the spirit speak through matter.
26. But to those who have not known how to respect the graces deposited by Me in that being, I say: Why do you say that you love, when it is not love that you feel? Why do you try to get others to fall and nothing stops you? Think, what would your heart feel if what you do with those defiled flowers were done with your mother, with your sister or with the woman loved and, therefore, respected? Have you ever thought about the wounds you caused to the parents of those whom they cultivated with so much love?
27. Ask your heart in a right examination in the light of conscience, if it is possible to reap what has not been sown.
28. How do you prepare your future life if you are hurting your fellow human beings? How many will be your victims? What will be your end? Truly I tell you that you have many victims sacrificed in the whirlwind of your passions, some belonging to your present and the others to your past.
29. I want the heart and lips that have been a nest of perfidy and lies, to become a nest of truth and chaste love.
30. Enlighten the way of others by word and example, so that you may be the saviors of the fallen woman. If only each of you could redeem even one! Do not express yourselves badly about that woman, because the offensive word that hurts one, will hurt all those who listen to her, because from that moment those too will have to become bad judges. The acts and secrets of others, respect them, because it is not for you to judge them. I prefer men fallen in sin to lift them up, than hypocrites who pretend to be pure and yet sin. I prefer a great but sincere sinner, to the pretense of a false virtue. If you want to dress up, let it be with the finery of sincerity.

Love one another!

31. If you find a virtuous woman, with high feelings and you feel unworthy to reach her even if you love her, if you then lower her and despise her and if after having suffered and having understood your mistake you seek her to find comfort, in vain you will knock on her door.
32. If all the women who have been through the life of only one man had received from him the word and the feeling of love, respect and understanding. Your world would not be at the height of sin in which it is.
33. Do not treat your wife badly, have charity, she is part of yourselves, I have told you to “Love one another”, start with your own family because that way you will love and understand others.
34. The Master of love and peace, has shaken you with his word full of tenderness but also of justice, because if I always spoke to you with gentleness, my Work would not be complete. Sometimes I am a spring breeze that caresses and sometimes an autumn gale that whips. And it is that at times you feel too big, you feel loved and admired and in truth you are vain, selfish and cruel. You do not know your misery that only I have come to discover for you so that you may contemplate your littleness.
35. Begin to think, to act and to live; humanity needs new men and women who come with the example of their good works to show it the path of redemption.
36. Humanity, humanity that you are stumbling over each other! I have found you denying your iniquity and flaunting what you think is greatness, while you hide your blights. And I tell you that the man who flatteringly believes in his apparent greatness is a poor man in spirit. And to those who, for lack of virtues, murmur about the defects of others and judge the faults of others, I must say that they are hypocrites and are very far from justice and truth.
37. Not only do those who take the life out of the body murder, but also those who destroy the heart with deception. Those who kill the feelings of the heart, the faith, the ideal, are killers of the spirit. And how many of these go free, without prison and without chains.
38. Do not be surprised that I speak to you in this way, because I contemplate broken homes among you, because neglecting your duties, you have created new obligations outside of them without caring about the pain and abandonment of yours. See everywhere, how many homes destroyed, how many women in vice and how many children without a father. How can tenderness and love exist in those hearts? Do you not judge that whoever has put to death the happiness of those beings and destroyed what was sacred, is a criminal?
39. You have become so familiar with evil that even the men who invent these new weapons of death, you call them great, because in an instant they can destroy millions of beings. And you even call them wise. Where is your reason? Great can only be by the spirit and wise only the one who goes on the path of truth.

Love one another!

40. Do not confuse the agitators with the great geniuses, so that you do not give your admiration to those who carry only evil in their spirit, although outwardly they appear to have a dignity that they do not have. If for an instant they listened to the voice of reason and conscience, she would knock them down from their pedestal, but the perverse does not like to know himself as he is, and when for an instant he contemplates the miserable man inside, he prefers to direct his thought to another point, he does not like to contemplate and value his mistakes.

41. Ah, men of the Earth, how long will you listen to the message of that inner voice of conscience that rises at every step to reproach your unworthy deeds!

42. You listen to Me with trembling and it is that when the truth of Christ speaks, man is silent recognizing his faults.

43. Today I have inspired you to save the woman who has stumbled on her way, and when you introduce me to the one you have saved, I will give her a flower, a blessing and a very great peace so that she will not fall again.

44. If you fulfill this mission in this way, those beings wounded by the world will feel the love of Jesus penetrate into their hearts.

45. I will listen when in their prayer they tell me: My Father, do not see my sin, see only my pain; do not judge my ingratitude, see only my suffering. In an instant my consolation will descend to that troubled heart and it will purify itself with weeping. If only you knew that the sinner's prayer is more heartfelt than that of the vain one who thinks he is just and clean!

46. Among the multitudes who listen to my word are those women of whom I have spoken to you. My hand has protected them from your looks and your judgments, because I have also seated them at the great banquet of the spirit.

47. You call them to this feast of love and forgiveness, so that in my presence they may feel the love that they sought and that they never felt or found among men.

48. In those sad hearts my tenderness will descend to speak to them and they will know how to feel and believe me.

49. Then you will see which is the work that stains and which is the one that redeems, you will see the wonders that true love does and thus you will have helped your Lord to rebuild what you yourselves destroyed; what you defiled, I will purify. And those fallen little flowers will once again adorn the altar of the Universe with their virtue and their fragrance.

Love one another!

50. Behold how I come to give redemption to sinners by the lips of sinners also.

51. And you women who consider yourselves of higher classes and are ashamed to approach those who have sinned, woe to you if you are offended by it, because you have not understood that spiritually you are all equal! How many of you have not sinned materially, but with thought, and how many others have been able to hide your falls! So, if you have sinned, why are you scandalized? I tell you that maidens as well as wives and mothers must also strive for the noble idea that I have inspired you with this day.

52. This is the teaching that the Master gives you with a word that carries essence and love for you. Work and love so that the peace and spiritual happiness that I spoke to you about in what you called the Sermon on the Mount may come to your heart.

53. It is not I who descend, but you who rise up to the cloud to hear my voice.

54. In the Third Time the Divine Word did not become man, he came to you in a spiritual form. And this part of the earth in which you live has now been destined to receive the fulfillment of my promises and designs. Here I am writing the third of my testaments, and here I have gathered you to wait for me, for you are the same as of old. Just as at this time you were waiting for me and your wait was painful, full of anxiety, only animated by the light of my promise to return, so in the First Time, when the chains of your slavery creaked, you endured the hardships of exile, encouraged by the hope in my promise made to your parents. I tested your faith, you made merits of patience, and at last you achieved, as a reward, the possession of the Promised Land.

55. And you found a new life, the people forgot their past slavery; the false gods were far away; oppression and servitude ended, and each son of Israel opened his eyes to contemplate that the sun was his, his children, his own lands, that bread was pleasant to him and abundant fruits. You made great progress while you were within my Law. The fame of your splendor reached other kingdoms awakening their greed, and when the division arose among the tribes of the people, other peoples fell on you, to make you again servants and tributaries of kingdoms and empires.

56. My justice took that land from you, but at the same time I rescued your spirit, in order to destroy him and send him in search of this piece of land similar to the one you possessed and whose virginal womb has given you milk and honey and has been prodigal in blessings.

57. In it I have come to look for you. Here is my presence with you again enlightening and strengthening you, so that you will no longer be slaves of the world, nor of low passions. The chains that you broke must not fall on you again, and even when you feel your human life oppressed, your spirit will vibrate free of chains, so that you may rise up and contemplate my truth.

Love one another!

58. Take all your bitterness and calamities as the crucible that purifies you or as the anvil that forges you, to be strong on the path of ascension and purification of your spirit.

59. I know that you suffer, because I taste your daily bread and find it bitter, I penetrate into your home and I do not feel peace in it; I look for you in the corner of your bedroom and I surprise you crying, then I make you feel my presence and I give you my strength so that you do not succumb under the weight of pain. You're going with the Ouch! distressing and Universal, but blasphemy will never come out of your lips.

60. When the days of trial have passed, you will be surprised to have come out ahead of them and you will recognize that I was always with you.

61. I have called you at this time to give you a new opportunity to fulfill your mission, because you will share in your inheritance to all your brothers, since I love everyone equally.

62. The perfect peace for your spirit will be found at the end of your struggle in the spiritual valley. Now you are soldiers fighting for this cause and you will not sleep.

63. This spiritualist people lives ignored. The world does not know about your existence, the great ones do not notice you, but the struggle between spiritualists and Christians, between spiritualists and Jews is approaching. This struggle is necessary for the establishment of my Doctrine in all humanity. Then they will be united in one essence to the Old Testament with the Second and the Third.

64. This will seem impossible to many of you; for Me it is the most natural, just and perfect thing.

65. When I lived as a man with you, the church of Moses was established and represented by princes, priests and scribes, who, possessing the prophecies and knowing the coming of the Messiah, did not open their eyes to contemplate my signs, nor did they open their hearts to feel my presence, but when they heard my word, they lowered their eyes, because their conscience told them that they were before the judge, but not being prepared they did not know how to explain my presence to themselves in that way, and doubting Me they made the people doubt.

66. How few felt me! How few confessed, when they looked at Me, that I was the Son of God!

67. After my sacrifice, the struggle began; the persecution was great on those who followed me along the path of pain, slander and imprisonment, until death. They were driven out of their own land and walked through foreign nations sowing my seed, which found fertile lands, in which it germinated, flourished and bore fruit.

Love one another!

68. When the disciples of the Doctrine of Christ found themselves strong, they sought unification with the first, making them recognize that the God who gave the Law through Moses was the same one who spoke through the mouth of Jesus.

69. The fight was intense and was sealed with blood. But at the end of it, my will was fulfilled when the testaments of the First and Second Times were united in one work.

70. That is why I say to you that, before the revelation of the Third Time joins the previous testaments, you will have to go through the great spiritual battle that is foretold.

71. Do not be surprised that the fusion of the three testaments did not take place in the nation designated in the Third Time for these revelations; nor did the union of the First Testament with the Second take place in Judea. Remember that I was not even a prophet in my own land.

72. Do not want the miracles of past times to be repeated, penetrate into the depths of my teachings, so that you may discover that in all times I have come with the sole purpose of redeeming you.

73. I say to you once again: do not forget the Law for the sake of traditions. I erased many traditions, but I taught to fulfill the Law and if in the last hours that as a man I spent with you, I blessed the bread and wine transforming them into my Body and my blood, so that through them you would remember me and carry me in your heart, you must recognize that in this Third Time, you no longer need symbols, because my Body and my Blood that are my love, I am offering it spiritually in my teaching.

74. Now I want your heart to be bread and wine for your brother, loving him, enlightening him, raising him to truth and love.

75. At no time have I come as a minister, I have never celebrated rites before you. I have only been the Teacher who has given you his lessons in a figurative sense.

76. Today Humanity is penetrating in spiritual preparation; the great ones of the Earth are slowly bending to understand his work. But it is not yet time for pain to rise up from this world, because men would rise up again against me, taking science and the elements as instruments of revenge. Therefore, the cup of bitterness will be drunk a while longer.

77. And when humanity is ready, my voice will vibrate in all consciousness, and men will see that there is no other power, another justice and another wisdom like mine.

78. Long is the history of this world, long also the journey of humanity, with the struggle of its peoples to reach the zenith, after which came the descent and collapse. How much blood shed for my children with which the earth has been reddened, how many tears of men, women and children! How many sins and mistakes! but also, how many proofs of love I have received and how much virtue I have contemplated! And after so much living, you have not yet reached the goal of peace and redemption.

Love one another!

79. The last fights with their bitterness and the last whirlwinds are still missing. It is still necessary that all the forces are agitated and the atoms are stirred in a chaos so that, after all this, lethargy, fatigue, sadness and boredom come that seem like death; and that will be the hour when the vibrating echo of a bugle is heard in the sublime of consciences that, from beyond, announces to you that the Kingdom of life and peace is approaching among men of good will. And before that voice, the dead will rise, shedding tears of repentance and the Father will receive them as prodigal children tired by the great journey and fatigued by the great struggle, to seal their spirits with the oscar (holy spear) of love.

80. From that day on, man will abhor war, cast out hatred and resentment from his heart, persecute sin and begin a life of restoration and reconstruction. Many will be inspired by a light that they did not contemplate before and will rise up to create a world of peace.

81. It will be only the beginning of the time of grace, of the Era of peace.

82. The stone age is already distant. The age of science will pass away and then the Age of the Spirit will come to flourish among men.

83. The fountain of life will reveal great mysteries, so that men may build a world strong in the science of goodness, in justice, in love.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 236

1. The weary, the afflicted, the sad, the sick, the sinner are welcome before Me; for I come to comfort you, to heal you and to forgive you, I have the same charity of the fervent as of the unbeliever.
2. To the tired one I say: Come, I am going to deliver you from the heavy burden that you carry, so that you may carry in its place the cross that you will carry along this path traced with my love.
3. To the sick man who has lost all hope of health, I will heal him and raise him to true life.
4. Spirits and matters, I come healing you, because my charity descends to heal all ills.
5. I have always sought you, and in moments of trial I have clearly manifested myself. Remember that in the lonely desert, when hunger threatened the people, I sent you manna as a message of love; if thirst embraced the people, I made the rock open and a spring sprout from their bowels, to ignite faith in hard hearts.
6. Do you not think that this need for love, peace and truth that you present to me now is hunger and thirst for the spirit? and do you not believe that my word at this time is the manna and the crystalline water that I send you to ignite your faith and encourage your heart on this journey that reminds you of the desert of the First Time?
7. Even feeling my trials of love, many remain with their hearts hardened and that is why the walk is longer and heavier for them.
8. Understand that whoever does not know how to receive my charity, neither will he be able or know how to do it on his way. And I have sent you to the earth, not only so that you may receive my benefits, but so that you may bring my charity to the hearts of your fellow men.
9. Blessed are those who are surprised by bodily death in the practice of charity, for their spirit will find its abode, since on this earth you are strangers.
10. If, when you come to my presence, you show me your nicked or broken sword, I will bless you because you fought with courage. Some will arrive earlier, others later, but the coming and going of the spirits will continue until the last one arrives at his mansion of eternal peace, having fulfilled his mission.
11. Now I find myself testing those who will not return to this Earth anymore. Meanwhile, the world will continue to be a dwelling place for men, women, the elderly and children who purify themselves and acrisolate to get one step closer to perfection so that they are prepared at the moment of the call.

Love one another!

12. Feel my caress, you who have raised your spirit to hear me in infinity.
13. Once again my communication is with you.
14. I send a message of love to the world, a message of forgiveness for this humanity that is unknown. I want men to love each other with the pure love of the Father.
15. To you, who are learning from Me, I will appoint you messengers of this love, because you will know how to leave in your path a trace of charity and fraternity among your fellow men.
16. Each spirit sprang from a pure thought of the Divinity, that is why spirits are the perfect work of the Creator.
17. After the material work was completed and the earth gave you shelter, I sent the first spirits to incarnate in human beings. If for a moment the spirit has been lost at the crossroads and in the abysses of the material world, as a pearl is lost in the depths of the sea, the Father, who does not withhold his charity from any of his children, extends his help to rescue him, putting in his way the necessary means for him to achieve his elevation.
18. You have been rescued, and in this time when humanity is lost in the abyss, I will send to men through you, this message of hope and faith in salvation.
19. Your word will imitate mine, which has been like a fine chisel, incapable of hurting your heart. She has been caress; therefore, the more you hear her, you feel that she is returning the lost brilliance, because you are more and more understanding and more spiritual.
20. This doctrine, which for revealing the spiritual is called spiritualist, is the path traced to man, by which he will come to know, serve and love his Creator. It is the book that teaches men to love the Father in their own fellow men. Spiritualism is a law that dictates the good, the pure, the perfect.
21. The duty to abide by this law belongs to everyone, however, it does not oblige anyone to comply with it, because each spirit enjoys freedom in his will, so that his struggle and all his acts, when judged, can be taken into account as their own merits.
22. See then that this Doctrine is the flame of divine love that has illuminated and given warmth from the first to the last of my children.
23. In order for you to come to understand, to feel and to live these teachings, I have waited for your spirit and even your understanding, to have all the necessary lucidity to interpret my revelations of this time.
24. Today your spiritual evolution is great, as well as the capacity of your mind. Otherwise, I would not have called you, because if you did not understand me, you would be confused. I have given to your lips the power and the gift of the word, so that they may know how to express and interpret spiritual knowledge and inspiration.

Love one another!

25. In the greatness of my Doctrine, the human mind has never intervened. Just as at this time when I speak to you through the mouth of the human mouthpiece, the essence of the word that flows from his lips, does not belong to man.

26. The path of the spirit begins and ends in Me, that is the one that the Master comes to teach you again.

27. Whoever has achieved some spirituality by his perseverance, evolution and love for the lessons of the Father, will be a spiritualist even if his lips do not say so.

28. Whoever has faith, and elevation in his actions, will have to reflect what his spirit possesses.

29. This world that is agitated in a whirlwind, will reach its maximum of confusion and then will enter little by little, in an era of perfection.

30. Before the end of the year 1950, many events you will have contemplated. Nations engaged in wars, new doctrines, conflicts and calamities. You know that all of them are the signs that mark the departure of my word, signs that will later be recognized by humanity, as the indication that the Master was among men at the time announced. And this word of which I have made you depositories will transcend, it will reach many hearts; because the truth, the perfection of it, will not be able to go unnoticed. She will unleash a time of evolution and spiritual rebirth in the world.

31. If man were weak to announce that time, nature with her voices will testify and awaken the lethargic; but in everyone who prepares, it will be the voice of the spirit that will speak of an era that is about to arrive among humanity.

32. Then those who thought themselves strong men in the world, will feel weak. The powerful will see their power lose, and those who by their humility were considered weak, will be the strong by the strength of their spirit; by their ability and understanding, because the spiritual will then prevail.

33. Understand my word that I give you my light so that you may reach the end.

34. I come to you by the way prepared by Elijah, to illuminate with my light the beloved son who is humanity. I do not come to judge your faults or to contemplate your blemishes. I only come to make the ignorant my child and the child my disciple, so that in tomorrow you will all become teachers.

Love one another!

35. Since you have such a delicate mission among humanity, you cannot walk like blind people, nor remain ignorant, nor show weakness. Meditate and you will be able to understand your responsibility. Prepare yourselves because your spirit will have to show the Father the fruit of his mission, but calm your hearts and keep listening to me as I find myself speaking through the human understanding.
36. I sent your spirit to Earth to fulfill this mission, indelibly engraving my Law in his conscience and I still came to look for him to reveal great lessons and give him an example of love and humility, so that he would know how to meet his brothers, to give them the good news and to make them sharers in my light.
37. My word is like a banquet to which I invite everyone to eat and drink; because not only incarnate spirits are before Me, no; also the inhabitants of the spiritual valley are recreated with the divine concert of my teachings, because my Doctrine is universal.
38. When they hear my voice, both of them feel relieved of their faults and get up to follow in my footsteps carrying their cross. And when you have experienced this peace and this rest in my bosom, it is when you have turned your gaze to that humanity, to understand its tragedy.
39. As you eat the bread of eternal life at my table, you think of the spiritual hunger of your brothers and sisters. Feeling the freshness and the shade of this tree, you have considered those who are crossing the desert, scorched by the sun, hunger and thirst, sometimes deceiving themselves with the mirage of false oases.
40. I bless you because you feel the affliction of others. Pray and work, that in you there is what is necessary to alleviate sorrows and heal ills.
41. You don't have to swear that you're going to follow me. Promise yourselves to be faithful, constant and obedient to me and fulfill your purposes.
42. My word becomes caress to make the disciple understand that the time has come to get up to practice what he has learned.
43. May my word, like a ray of light, reach your understanding, O beloved people; illuminating your path.
44. Know how to concentrate in the depths of your heart, because those who do not prepare will not feel my presence; they will listen to the voice of the pedestal, but they will not receive the divine essence that I send you.
45. Make your heart a clean fountain where you receive the torrent of the purest water that is my wisdom.

Love one another!

46. This is a day of remembrance; on a date like this, I consecrated my first spokespersons to make known through them my new commandments and my new revelations. The spirit of Elijah vibrated through Roque Rojas, to remind you of the way that is the Law of God.

47. The moment was solemn, the spirit of those present trembled with fear and joy, as the heart of Israel trembled, on Mount Sinai, when the Law was promulgated. How the disciples who on Mount Tabor contemplated the transfiguration of Jesus shuddered, when Moses and Elijah appeared spiritually to the right and left of the Master.

48. That first of September, 1866, was the birth of a new era, the dawn of a new day: The Third Time that opened before humanity.

49. Since that moment and without ceasing, many prophecies and many promises made by God to men thousands of years ago have been being fulfilled. They have come to be fulfilled in you, men and women who inhabit the world at this time. Who among you were on earth when those prophecies were spoken and when those promises were made? Only I know, but the important thing is that you know that I promised you and that I am fulfilling it.

50. Do you know about that cloud on which my disciples saw me ascend the last time I manifested myself to them? For indeed it was written that he would come again on the cloud, and I have fulfilled it. On the first of September, 1866, my Spirit came over the symbolic cloud to prepare you to receive the new lesson. Then in 1884, I began to give you my teaching. I did not arrive as a man, but spiritually limited in a ray of light to place it on the human understanding. That is the means chosen by my will to speak to you at this time and I will take into account the faith that you place in this word, because it will not be Moses who guides you through the desert in pursuit of the promised Land, nor Christ made man who makes you hear his word of life as a way of salvation and freedom; it is now the human voice of these creatures that reaches your ears and it is necessary to spiritualize to find the divine essence where I am present, that is why I tell you that it has merit that you believe in this word because it is given through imperfect beings.

51. The merit will be greater than that of those who believed in Me in the Second Time or that of those who followed Moses through the desert; but you will not lack guidance for a single moment, since my word has not been vague or imprecise, but a definite and perfect Doctrine; moreover, the spirit of Elijah will always watch over you, who came at this time to awaken the world and to prepare the ways for the spirit of humanity to come before my spiritual presence.

52. Blessed people: may this moment of remembrance be of joy to your spirit and may it also be of meditation on all these lessons that I have come to give you. Prepare your minds and open your hearts, so that I may place my grace in them. Forget for a moment the vanities of the world and come spiritually to Me.

Love one another!

53. You are going to hear my word once again through a human spokesman, who, although chosen by Me, is not superior to you and has nothing divine. They are the spokesmen of my word, still imperfect creatures, although the elevation of their spirit allows them to penetrate into communication with the Father. Listen to the lecture with a fine ear so that it passes clearly to your brain, let it then cross like a ray of light through your heart and the divine essence will reach your spirit as bread of eternal life.

54. If you prepare in this way, you will feel that I have truly been with you.

55. I don't want you to be traditionalists, but it is my will that you remember all those events through which I manifested myself with you and gave you examples and teachings. Make by means of remembrance a feast within your heart and your steps will be firmer on the path.

56. In 1866 I promulgated the Law again among my people, opening a new spiritual era, thus fulfilling a promise of mine made to you in times past. Since then my Holy Spirit vibrates from the cloud, through my ray and also the voices of my angels are heard on Earth.

57. This is the Third Time, in which I have come to merge into one Law the commandments that I gave you through Moses, the Doctrine of love that like Jesus I gave you in the Second Time, which was a confirmation of the first. And at this time I give you this Doctrine as a luminous beacon, as a saving boat, as a ladder of perfection so that you may reach the evolution of your spirit.

58. I give you my teaching with great simplicity and clarity so that, as good spiritualists, you will know how to answer those who ask you if you are Mosaics or Christians.

59. Before the Law was revealed to you in the First Time, you lived in the natural law, encouraged by men by whom I counseled you virtue, by whom I manifested my truth and my justice, men by whom I manifested myself as the God of good and love.

60. That people who knew how to keep themselves in the fear of the true God, and who knew how to preserve the institution of a God of justice and goodness, is the people of Israel. But this people did not know a concrete and definite law until the Father, contemplating them in danger of falling into gentility and idolatry, from his own bosom I raised up a strong man of spirit to deliver through him the Law of God for men, written in living rock. The man was Moses, liberator and legislator, who with unshakable faith and great love for the Lord and his people, led the crowds to a favorable land to build a sanctuary and raise a pleasing worship to the living and invisible god.

61. Look how from the earliest times I have inspired spirituality in you. With the promulgation of the Law on Sinai, the First Time culminated before humanity. That first messenger was like a star in the desert, he was the index that guides, he was a counselor and legislator, he was bread, when hunger was felt and water that quenched thirst. He was kind company in the solitude of the deserts and conductor of the people, to the very gates of the desired Land.

Love one another!

62. When Christ appeared among mankind, in the bosom of that same people, many centuries had elapsed since Moses.

63. It was the new dawn for the people who were waiting for the arrival of the Divine Teacher, who was coming to be born and live among men to teach them the second part of the book of life.

64. You had known the God of Justice and now, He was coming to show Himself as a God of Love, preparing with his word and his works a new time, a new life for the spirit. The Second Time and everything I taught you with my word, miracles and examples, until culminating with my passion, was the sheet of the Law of Love that I wrote for you.

65. Now, in the Third Time, Elijah manifests his spirit, as an Envoy and Precursor of the Holy Spirit, saying through the human understanding: “Behold Elijah, the prophet of the First Time, the same one who later appeared on Mount Tabor next to Moses and Jesus in the transfiguration of Christ before the disciples”.

66. Elijah holds the key with which the Third Age, the new time, has been opened.

67. Now you will be able to understand what even the apostles themselves failed to understand about some of my revelations.

68. Elijah is the ray of God, with whose light he comes to dispel your darkness and to free you also from the slavery of this time that is that of sin, and who will guide your spirit through the desert to reach the Promised Land in the bosom of God.

69. These are the three messengers by whom you have received the Law and the highest revelations.

70. This has been a time of light for you, in which you have had the revelations of the past times explained and the prophecies of what is to be foretold.

71. But this time of my communication through the understanding of the spokesman, will soon pass and a time of grace and spirituality will come in which he who prepares, will be able to converse with me in a spiritual way.

72. And when my Kingdom has been established in the heart of humanity, when temptation has been dethroned and man loves me above all created things, this world will be the abode of great spirits, where men truly love each other and know how to receive with charity needy spirits to regenerate them and fill them with wisdom.

Love one another!

73. You do not know now in what form I manifested myself to the whole World, from 1950 onwards, but I leave you alert, because you will see that the gifts and potencies of the spirit will impose themselves on the senses of the body, and humanity will feel that it is living the new time, the time of spirit-to-Spirit communication.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 237

1. Welcome to be disciples and children. You are persevering in receiving my teaching. Your Master is coming to you, because it is the announced time when I have called you to help you take the first steps on the path of spirituality. You have known the first lights of this stage that began in the year 1866 and you do not know when it will end.
2. In the year 1950, my word through the human understanding will cease, but I will continue to teach you in a higher language: that of the spirit.
3. If you fulfill your mission, O people of Israel, you will leave an example and after you will come those who will continue this Work. You will teach true prayer, you will preach love and you will testify to it with your works. The nations, upon hearing your words, will penetrate into meditation and deep prayer, to find the solution to their great conflicts. And I, the Father, will descend on all, to strengthen and quicken all my children.
4. O mankind who find yourselves hungry and thirsty for my word, while the people of Israel are fed up with it! You have not contemplated the descent of the Holy Spirit among men. I have come to enlighten your spirit and I am calling you for the third time. I want you to open your heart and let this traveler penetrate, to leave in everyone, what you need. Open your ears, and my word will fall on your heart, like a balm. You will feel my peace and my light will illuminate your path and you will be able to contemplate the future.
5. I accompany you in the great and small tests.
6. I am preparing the valley where I am to gather all my children for the Great Universal Judgment. I will judge with perfection, my love and charity will envelop humanity and on that day you will find salvation and balm for all your ills. If today you atone for your faults, let the spirit be purified, so you will be prepared to receive from Me, the inheritance that I have destined for each one of you.
7. If I have called the people of Israel before and have prepared them as the firstborn son, it is because he has always brought a message of my divinity to men. He is my emissary who carries my essence on his lips and my truth in his heart.
8. You will know your mistakes, you will know why you stumbled, because my light will illuminate your being; and your heart, which had been closed to Me, will open again and a torrent of crystal clear water will flow from it.
9. I speak to you from beyond. If you lift up your spirit you will be able to contemplate me. You still have to travel a space of the path of your evolution for the day of your return to Me to arrive. I, your Father, will sweeten your days, I will give you peace so that you can go through the last great trial that awaits you.

Love one another!

10. The prophecies corresponding to this time are being fulfilled. Those who have slept, have been surprised to contemplate the events. For you have not read in the book of the prophets, in the book of your God, but I will make you my disciples who know how to interpret my word for all time.

11. Humanity is slowly waking up. Everyone is waiting for the light of a new day, the dawn that will appear bringing peace, understanding and light that will illuminate everything. A force that brings everything back to order that has been changed in its beginning. He also waits for the guide who will correct the imperfections, who will give health to the sick and resurrection to the dead.

12. That light has already been among men, the Master tells you, and you have not been able to recognize it.

13. I come to help you in the restoration of all that you have profaned.

14. In the near time of the propagation of my word, do not commit adultery, do not complicate this teaching. If you prepare yourselves in spirit and in truth, you will have a good answer for those who question you, you will show an infinite world of light. You will speak of the simplicity of my teaching, in which my purity, my wisdom and my truth are reflected.

15. You will tell them that with my coming at this time the prophecies and my promises given in times past are fulfilled.

16. That Elijah came before Me to prepare the path through which my Divinity was to pass.

17. That he called the spirits to prayer and congregation, announcing that the time of the Holy Spirit had come.

18. All these lessons with which you have become familiar will be a great revelation for your brothers, and will touch the most sensitive fibers of their being.

19. The communication of my Spirit through man, the coming of Elijah, the presence of the Spiritual World advising. All this you will testify, and they, in turn, will have witnessed other spiritual manifestations, with which they will confirm my word.

20. Do not be satisfied with what you have achieved so far, always keep studying. How much more can you broaden the knowledge of my Doctrine by practicing virtues. I will always reveal new lessons to you to encourage your spirit on the path of evolution.

21. Rest for a few moments, beloved people, listen and analyze the word of the Master.

Love one another!

22. You are getting ready to reach the end. Those who have received the grace to transmit my word in their understanding are in a hurry, the disciples who have had an understanding for Spiritualism, for this Doctrine that will make whoever embraces it, a new man, attentive to my teaching.

23. You are still my disciples whom I cannot yet call teachers; therefore, continue to interpret my teaching, taking as a principle its essence and its simplicity. Do not complicate it through your analysis, and work so that the interpretation is uniform in this people, so that division does not appear among you.

24. You will meet on the way those who, knowing that you are the disciples of the Spirit of Truth, ask you the following question, very natural in those who want to know more than they know: What is the Hereafter like? You will explain to them the transformation that the spirit undergoes when it ceases to live in a human body, to inhabit the spiritual regions. No one yet knows that life in all its fullness. That has always been an idea that has worried man, an unanswered question that intrigues them. From this spiritual need to know and understand, how many have used themselves to profit from ignorance, sowing their seed of falsehood in hearts of good faith. No one can say with any certainty what the Hereafter is like; no one can say exactly what the spirit is like and in what form they live in other worlds.

25. The human mind is still limited to conceive what only the high spirit can know and penetrate. Limit yourselves, for now, to understanding and explaining how far my teaching has revealed to you, which contains infinite light and serves as a firm foundation for your spiritual future. Do not leave your imagination free to give the explanation of those mysteries, because they will seem strange theories to humanity, and my Doctrine is based on the truth.

26. Every revelation I make clear to you so that there is nothing that is not properly understood by you. For now you do not need to know more than what I have revealed to you, because if you manage to understand more about the spiritual life than what has been manifested by Me, you would lose interest in this life, you would fall into mysticism or fanaticism; you would live in useless contemplation and you would cease to carry out the important mission that you have to fulfill in the world.

27. Many have tried to probe the abode of the spirit without managing to look beyond what is allowed. But to whom does he ask: How is the spiritual world communicated through a human understanding? I answer him thus: By making use of your faculties of understanding and intuition, just as your own spirit does.

28. My Doctrine in this, as in the Second Time, will move humanity. Hypocrites will have to face sincerity. Falsehood will drop its mask and the truth will shine. The truth will prevail over the lie that envelops this world.

Love one another!

29. Man will be able to understand and recognize everything that contains reason and truth, but everything that he was forced to believe even if he did not understand it, he will reject it himself, that is why my Doctrine will spread, because it overflows light of which men are in need. A great part of this work touches you, revealing to your brothers its beginning and its end.

30. Take good care not to adulterate her, for she is a treasure that I have entrusted to you and that you must return to me. Your responsibility is great, not so that of those who have not listened directly to my word, because while they act in ignorance, you do it with absolute security, because you know what you should accept and what you should reject. If you feel a danger and fall into temptation, it is of your own free will, with all knowledge of what you are doing. There is no justification in you for doing evil anymore.

31. Wherever matter wants to do its will, demonstrate the strength and superiority of your spirit. What good would it do you to acquire knowledge if you don't practice? You have before your eyes a book of wisdom that explains to you what you should do in each step that the spirit takes. If you closed that book selfishly and did not take from its knowledge to dominate or lead you, how could you then preach its truths if your works demonstrate the opposite of what you are teaching? How can you serve as a staff to your brother if you are falling on the way? How to raise the fallen if you have no strength to raise yourself? Bear in mind that if you want to exert a beneficial influence on your brothers, you have to go ahead and set an example.

32. Do not forget that the truth must always prevail in you.

33. To get to the end of the road, you have to find many stumbles. The one who has the most merits will be the one who has overcome temptation.

34. The work in my lands is hard but full of satisfactions.

35. Do not go to close your ears to the voice of conscience, because a precipice could open before your feet and already set on the slope it is difficult to retreat.

36. Gather the spiritual manna that descends on you, so that you may feed along the desert that you are crossing.

37. Here is the oasis, walkers; rest a few moments under this palm tree and recover the lost strength; look that there is still a lot to walk and you need energy to reach the end.

38. What can stop you on your way? What fears do you harbor? Pray and you will destroy obstacles; have faith in prayer and you will see the impossible made possible.

39. You need to be a strong people for you to succeed and nothing will give you greater strength than the fulfillment of my Law.

Love one another!

40. Many temptations, persecutions and stalking will come upon you; there will be those who will be pleased to sow thistles on your way, but you will emerge triumphant from all this if you trust in Me, if you remain united and if you persevere in fulfilling my teaching.

41. This people will increase day by day, but if the crowds that come to hear my word seem great to you now, truly I tell you, they will be small when you compare them with those who will gather after my departure, at the time of your testimony.

42. But I must tell you that the rumor of the New People of the Lord will spread until by your union and fraternity you become worthy of the great wonders and tests of power that I have reserved for my people.

43. I do not demand any sacrifice from you, I do not demand the highest perfection from you, I only hope for the unshakable purpose of obeying my commands and a little charity towards you and towards your brothers, the rest I do; but when you have firmly taken that step, then I will ask you to take a greater one so that you do not stop in the desert, because there is not your dwelling place. You already know that in its evolution your spirit will find the blessed Land of promise, which is where I direct your steps.

44. Never say: I have struggled a lot and no one has seen my efforts and my sacrifices. Do not forget that I am watching each of your steps and writing down each of your works. Do not expect rewards from the world or complete understanding or justice from your fellow men. Trust in Me, for truly I tell you, I will never keep what is rightfully yours as a reward.

45. Nor do you think that you necessarily have to die to reap your harvest, no, some fruits will be given to you in this life, as a reward for your merits within human life, on the other hand those merits that have been spiritual, will have to wait for the moment when you are in the Hereafter.

46. Let there be light in your understanding, O people, so that you may understand and later practice the divine inspiration.

47. Beloved disciples! You come to Me, having cleansed your heart, like a vessel that you cleanse inside and out, to receive my word. Everything that flows from Me is pure; and if you want to know Me, you have to prepare yourselves with purity, so that you can gather the essence and understand the meaning of my word and then put it into practice.

48. Love and respect each other, whatever your belief, ideal and spiritual condition. Practice togetherness. I'm sorry, too. Do not take the causes of others to judge them. But if you want to intercede, do so, and the day will come when you will unite and go after an ideal.

Love one another!

49. I have tasted your charity. I have brought to you the sick, the afflicted and the weakened by the great pains of this time. I have sent innumerable tests within your family so that you may have an opportunity to apply my teaching. You have suffered for your own and full of fervor, you ask me for them and I say to you: Ask Me also for others, for all who cross your path, as you have done for your parents or for your children, so that you may practice true charity.

50. The pain has sensitized the hearts and in their eagerness to find comfort, they seek me. I direct their steps and I know the propitious moment in which they will penetrate my Work. There are many who are not yet ready to hear me, and I will delay their passage, until they can find themselves ready to receive my revelations.

51. To believe in my Work, you need faith. Everything about her is spiritual. I have not given you the materials. I have only asked you to rise up to come into my presence and feel my love and my charity enveloping you.

52. I have prepared the eyes of the spirit, the eyes of faith, so that you may look at me; and I have kept the feelings of your heart pure, so that I may serve them. Your gifts are latent and my word comes to awaken them, so that you may give beginning to the fulfillment of your mission.

53. Everything that I have placed around you is perfect and pleasing, and yet, I contemplate that you are not happy, that you are not satisfied with your destiny. It is that you have not analyzed life, nor have you understood your true mission. I will not be the one to list the benefits that I grant you, but it will be you who, out of gratitude, recognize the love that I profess to each one and the good that I give to you.

54. I have sent you to restore, because I love you and I want to see you clean and worthy of Me. You have found the path strewn with thorns, like Jesus in the Second Half, and I want you to imitate me, to learn to fight so that in each victory you obtain, you will be stronger. I have prepared everything for your benefit. Everything is done according to my love and my justice because I am an inexorable Father and Judge, who does not turn back in his determinations.

55. Beloved people, let me do my will. Submit to my Law and I will lead you to peace and spiritual glory. This is the fate of all my creatures. Take up your cross and follow me.

56. You are full of gifts, you possess the intelligence, the will and the reason, to carry out your work. Your journey is long, why do you stop at every step; if you took the right path, that of self-denial and fulfillment, you would be happy, you would appreciate life, you would know how to love, you would know the value of your spiritual gifts and you would not desire what others possess.

Love one another!

57. My work is about freedom. I come to enlighten your spirit, so that you can know me. You are the beloved creature, whom I have formed in my image and likeness and in you I have placed my pleasures.

58. The scale by which you will ascend is great and you do not know in what degree of evolution you are. According to your evolution, this is how the path you are crossing today has been marked for you, since everything is related and subject to invariable and eternal laws.

59. The temple of which I speak to you figuratively, is spiritual. It is not the house finished with quarries, but the temple of love, the faith of the man who wants to rise up to reach Me. On the good foundations that you lay, the next generations will build.

60. Great will be the joy of the last, when I present to them my Work, my word. How much they have searched for me! How much they have suffered to reach Me! His ideal is only one: to find the spiritual path, to reach the source, where he can sustain and perfect his spirit. And as they will advance in their practices! They will testify to what they have traveled seeking my word, and you, that you were waiting for them, because I announced these prophecies to you. I have entrusted to you a part of my Work for its fulfillment and when you have finished, you will smile with satisfaction for having collaborated with your God.

61. Rest, let your spirit be nourished. Let your heart, when you feel my presence, beat hastily.

62. I come to encourage you on the way, so that you do not stop your step, I am the one who knows who has taken advantage of time and opportunities; who has wasted time and who walks lazily on the path of spiritual evolution.

63. You can realize your advance or delay, only when you are in spirit.

64. I have prepared everything so that at this time, when you come to dwell on Earth again, you will find the Master communicating through man, to remind you of your mission to trace a trail of good examples, so that through it those who lived in ignorance, idolatry and religious fanaticism would reach the path.

65. I prepared you so that your humble lips, surprised humanity with the light, the depth and truth of his words. You are my witnesses, my messengers and even my forerunners.

66. If for a moment I correct you and even come to claim you, it is because passions, whirlwinds or vicissitudes come to momentarily cloud the light of your understanding and make you fall into faults, into materialism or coldness.

67. My charity is guiding you on the way of salvation, and has removed every blindfold of ignorance from your eyes, so that you may contemplate the lights of this day. Remember that every sinful and non-sinful eye will behold me.

Love one another!

68. Have you ever wondered if there is true faith in your heart? Have you felt the heat of that flame?

69. I am going to tell you what is the proof that there is true faith:

70. When the heart does not sink at the time of the test. When peace floods the spirit in the supreme trances. He who has faith is in harmony with me, because I am life, health and salvation; whoever truly seeks this port and this lighthouse, does not perish.

71. He who possesses this virtue works wonders beyond all human science and bears witness to the spirit and the higher life.

72. The unbeliever will not be able to make you faint if you believe in Me, nor will slander be able to hurt you.

73. I have encouraged faith in you, with trials I have strengthened you to continue making the call to the multitudes that will be fed by your faith.

74. I have told you at this time: Do not look for me in the matters on which I speak to you, because you will stumble over their imperfections and you would attribute these faults to my Work; penetrate to the bottom of the word that those lips pour out, and in its meaning, in its essence, you will find the Master.

75. Do not fall into idolatry with those through whom I communicate, because then they would be the ones who would occupy the place that the images engraved on canvases or sculpted in stone had in your heart yesterday and you would continue to sink into that materialism and that religious fanaticism that has not allowed the Father to fully possess your spirit.

76. Keep the essence of the Word, so that when you no longer hear this teaching, you will feel that in the depths of your heart the heavenly word resonates that elevates and invites you to penetrate into direct communion with your Lord.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 238

1. Beloved people, the Master says to you: I come in search of my people, of the sanctuary that exists in your heart. Those who have closed it for Me, it is time to open it to spirituality; whoever has destroyed it, rebuild it and give it firmness; whoever has it in darkness, must illuminate it with the light of faith, but in truth I tell you, that you will not waste your time building material temples, thinking that the devotion, grace and art that you put in them are the best tribute that you present to me. I only grant that you prepare humble places where you put yourselves under cover of the weather or prying eyes; do not call those enclosures intended only for your meetings temples because it could happen that the ignorant came to worship those places as if they were sacred.
2. Do not introduce them into your practices, rites or ceremonies, this could lead you away from the mission that I have entrusted to you, which is to sow charity and love.
3. Simplicity and humility, both externally and internally, is what I ask of you, and with this you will have my presence full of splendor in your spirit.
4. I am in your hearts and I vibrate in your spirit. Why should you represent me with material objects, if you are feeling my divine presence in the innermost depths of your being? Do you not think that if I sought worldly splendor, instead of having been born as a man in a stable, I would have been born inside the temple of Zion? What obstacle would have prevented my birth in that place, if you know that Mary was known in the temple and was submissive and obedient to all divine commands?
5. Meditate on my word and think that I have never sought external worship in men, that I have only come to ask for their love, their elevation, their faith and everything that is the fruit of their spirit.
6. You will keep these places for a while longer, dedicating them to holding your meetings in them, because they are still necessary for you to learn to listen to the word that I have left you, to analyze it and try to put it into practice; but the time for doctrinating yourselves, the time for your preparation will pass and then you will no longer need them.
7. The flame of faith will be kindled more and more in the spirit of my disciples, every heart will be an altar, love for their fellow men will be for them a cult, and in every home there will be a sanctuary. You will make your brothers understand that with their prayer their spirit rises above everything superfluous and all earthly misery, and they will be able to contemplate that the Temple of the Lord is universal, it is infinite and that it is everywhere, the same in the spirit of man, as in his body, in the visible as in the invisible; you will understand that just as the time passed when blood sacrifices were offered to me, so the worship by means of external rites or ceremonies must pass. Spirituality will come to purify your environment and my Doctrine will become understood.

8. True prayer will arise, the high spiritual worship, pleasing to my divine gaze; penance well understood, that which is repentance, amendment and reparation for the faults committed. True love based on the purity of the heart will appear in men and they will come to understand that brief moments are enough to pray, but that to fulfill their mission, which is to do charity among their brothers, they need to use all the moments of their life.

9. Meditate on my lessons, O disciples, analyze them, and you will find in their background more, much more than words express. I will help you and enlighten you so that you may know everything that has been hidden in my word, because the mind of the speaker has not been able to translate it.

10. Today I welcome you, sit at my table, I receive the same who loves me, who denies me, I caress you all equally because you are all my children.

11. I stand among sinners. Is there a righteous man on earth? I come to offer you the goods of my Kingdom and to put at your disposal the means to achieve them. If you ask me for my glory, I will give it to you, because it has been promised to you since the beginning of time. You, the children of the Lord, are the heirs of the kingdom, how many merits will you have to do to conquer the Promised Land! Some will reach it with a long and painful struggle, others, on the other hand, will take great steps along the way and will soon approach the kingdom of Light. Do you remember what I promised Dimas, while he was in agony, when I saw his repentance, his faith and his humility? I offered him that he would be with me in Paradise that very day.

12. Humanity, I ask you, taking this people as your representative: Until when are you going to rise up loving each other and forgiving each other your grievances? How long do you want peace to be on your planet?

13. Forgiveness that comes from love, only my Doctrine teaches and he has a powerful force to convert, regenerate and transform the bad into good, the sinner into virtuous.

14. Learn to forgive and you will have the principle of peace in your world. If a thousand times it were necessary to forgive, a thousand times you must do it. Do you not realize that a timely reconciliation prevents you from rushing a cup of bitterness?

15. I am speaking to you of the pain to which you become creditors, the one that you have been accumulating and that will overflow when the hour arrives. I would never offer such a chalice to my children, but in my righteousness I can allow you to gather the fruit of your wickedness, arrogance and foolishness, so that you may return to Me in repentance.

Love one another!

16. Men have defied my power and my justice by desecrating with their science the temple of Nature in which everything is harmony, and their judgment is going to be inexorable.
17. The elements will be unleashed, the Cosmos will be shaken and the Earth will tremble. Then there will be fear in men and they will want to flee, but there will be nowhere to direct their steps; they will want to stop the unleashed forces, and they will not be able, because they will feel responsible, and belatedly repent of their recklessness and recklessness, they will seek death to escape punishment.
18. You, people, who are not ignorant of these prophecies, are responsible for whatever happens if you do not watch and work to preserve the peace that I have entrusted to you.
19. Prepare your staff and your saddlebag, for I am going to send you as prophets and as messengers to warn the peoples.
20. Some will go to the East, others to the West and others to the other points and roads of the Earth.
21. Do not be filled with vanity thinking that you have been the privileged ones, in whom I have placed my commands at this time to make you my disciples; but I also say to you: Do not be content with being called, do merits so that you may be of the chosen ones.
22. Throw away all vanity so that you do not imitate the worm that swells with the moisture of the earth and then becomes nothing.
23. Do not sleep, trusting that I love you very much, to prevent you from having stumbles. You are certainly very loved, but also for the same reason, you are very tested.
24. Three quarters of the beam of the Earth will disappear and only a part will be saved to be a refuge for those who survive the chaos. You will see the fulfillment of many prophecies.
25. You, people, fulfill my commands and I will fulfill what I promised you.
26. Pray, watch, sow love, spread the light, leave a trace of charity, and you will be at peace with your conscience and in harmony with the Creator.
27. Listen carefully to this word, so that later you may analyze it and sow it in the hearts of your brothers; do not be content with understanding it; speak, give an example and teach with your works. Be intuitive, so that you may know what is the right moment to speak and what is the opportune moment for your deeds to bear witness to my Doctrine.
28. I give you only one language so that you may spread my word, and that language is spiritual love, which will be understood by all men. A sweet language to the ear and to the heart of humanity that will tear down stone by stone the tower of Babel that it has raised up in its heart; then my justice will cease, because everyone will understand each other as brothers.

Love one another!

29. The lands are propitious and fertile, people, prepare yourselves truly in spirit and matter and you will be in a position to rise up to sow the seed of this revelation, at the same time preparing the way for the new generations.

30. I have promised to send to dwell among you the spirits of great light, who are waiting only for the moment of approaching the Earth to incarnate and fulfill a great restoration mission, when those beings inhabit this world, what will you have to teach them? Nothing, verily I say to you, for they will come to teach, not to learn. You will be amazed to hear them from childhood speaking of profound teachings, holding conversations with men of science and theologians, surprising the elderly with their experience and advising the good path to youth and childhood.

31. Blessed was the home that received one of these spirits into its bosom. How grievous will be the charges made against those who try to prevent the fulfillment of My messengers!

32. Now see why I want you to purify yourselves and regenerate yourselves, so that from generation to generation your fruits may become more and more pure.

33. Perchance will your home be the one that receives the presence of those beings of light? If you are ready, I will choose you; if you are not, I will look for willing hearts and I will send them there.

34. You believe in my prophecies, but there will be many who deny my words of this time, as they have denied the revelations of the past; but do not be afraid, because when my words are fulfilled, they will be the first to bow their faces, ashamed of their unbelief.

35. Every divine revelation that has been denied by men, recognized and believed will be; everything that has been forgotten or hidden by religions and sects, will come to light.

36. You will teach the world by your example to penetrate with spirituality and respect the teachings of what is revealed by the Father and not to try to go beyond what is granted by Love, humility, respect; that you will have to teach a humanity that without spiritual preparation has always tried to interrogate the arcana of the Lord.

37. Do you not respect the bedchamber of your parents? So respect the secrets of your Heavenly Father more. There is so much that I have discovered and what I have shown you, that you have not yet finished knowing it and you already want new arcana in which to penetrate.

Love one another!

38. To you, disciples of a higher science, of a wisdom that belongs to a life higher than human life, I say that you do not want to know more than what I reveal to you, because you would soon fall into confusion. I have taught you many lessons and I still have more to deliver to you through the understanding of man. Many new revelations you will know and understand more than you have imagined.

39. My word, which is the divine lesson, will always be accompanied by trials and events in your life, so that this Doctrine will be affirmed in your heart and you will not be the theoretical disciples, but the disciples who bear witness to my truth with your works.

40. Is it not true that many times you understand some of my words only until you have passed a test?

41. Speaking to you on occasions about the immortality of the spirit, about the erroneous concepts you have of life and death, you did not understand me at the moment of listening to my lesson, but the test has come in the bosom of your home, you have seen a loved one leave this world and your eyes have been opened to reality, to the light of truth and you have thanked me for having put so much perfection in all my works and for having taken you out of your ignorance and your confusion.

42. Penetrate with the mind and with the spirit into my word. Unite yourselves at the bottom of your being so that there is only one will between spirit and matter, in this way you will understand my Doctrine more easily and you will go through the trials with greater elevation.

43. Blessed are the needy of the goods of the world who come to take the bread of my word with the desire to be great, because in my way they will achieve it. Blessed are those who, being rich in the world, leave their comforts to come and learn from Me, because they will know true wealth.

44. Today my Spirit descends in a ray of light on humanity, at a time when there is no fear of my justice, nor the love of one another.

45. You are a humble people, a witness of my presence and also of my word, but in this people there is a lack of love and I do not contemplate respect for my manifestation, because they have become familiar with them. That is the reason why sometimes I claim to you, touching with my word full of justice, the indifference of your heart.

46. Think, O disciples, that if you do not now have respect for this divine Work, you will not be able to be later those who go on the path of fulfillment as obedient labourers in the Work of your Master.

Love one another!

47. That moment is a test for humanity, the great peoples of the world are making preparations to launch themselves against each other like bloodthirsty beasts and blind with hatred. Small towns are afraid of the omen of war, which is mourning and destruction. Homes are darkened, hearts beat full of terror and lovers of peace and justice are tormented by the ghost of war that threatens the peace of men.

48. How many dreams of progress are fading away right now! How many illusions are extinguished and how many lives are already doomed! This is the time to begin work, to make your presence felt in the world, O people. This is the right time to pray.

49. Pray making your faith felt, uniting your heart to that of all those who in this hour of anguish invoke me and pray for peace to be made in the world. Pray for all those who have turned away from all practice of the spirit and who only live in the pursuit of a material goal that their ambitions, their hatreds have set for themselves.

50. Fill the space with pure thoughts and let each one of them be like a sword that in the invisible, there where the thoughts of men vibrate, goes fighting to achieve the destruction of the darkness that threatens to invade the world; but have faith in the strength of prayer, because if you think that it is lost in infinity, it will not have the necessary power to reach the minds of your brothers.

51. Your thoughts always reach Me, no matter how imperfect they may be, and I listen to your prayers even if they lack the faith that you should always put in them. It is that my Spirit captures the vibration and the feelings of all beings; but men who are distanced from each other by their egoism, distanced from the spiritual life by the materialism in which they have allowed themselves to be involved today, are not prepared to communicate with each other through their thoughts. However, I tell you that it is necessary that you begin to educate your spirit; to achieve this, speak to the spirits even if you have no apparent answer from them. Tomorrow, when everyone has learned to give, they will begin to have signs of a spiritual communication never felt by men.

52. I tell you again that I capture every thought and prayer, but the world does not know how to receive my inspiration nor has it prepared to let my divine thoughts shine in its mind, nor does it hear my voice when I answer its call. But I have faith in you, I believe in you, because I have formed you and endowed you with a spirit that is a flash of mine and a conscience that is my image.

53. If I were to tell you that I do not expect you to become perfect, it would be as much as if I were to declare that I had failed in the greatest work that has sprung from my divine will, and that cannot be.

Love one another!

54. I know that you are at the time when your spirit will emerge victorious from all the temptations it has encountered in its path, after which it will emerge full of light into a new existence.

55. In this communication that I have had with you today, I have given you only one lesson that will serve to give you an idea of what will be in the future your communication with the Father, and also with your brothers through thought. That is the goal that you must achieve, but you must take care not to reach it by using improper means of such a pure work as this.

56. Analyze, practice, be persevering and insensibly you will reach spirit-to-Spirit communication.

57. Today you come under the shade of the tree, where you hear the voice that speaks to you in the Third Time, the voice of the Holy Spirit.

58. Your elevation on this day has been great because the test has been on your way.

59. The fear took hold of your heart in the last dawns and having watched over you. The lethargic woke up and the weak got up in search of the tree where the strength to resist the whirlwinds is found.

60. Why do you fear, people, if you are under the protection of my mercy? Do not lack faith, fulfill my commands, remember that whenever you trust in Me, my word is in your mouth, my light is in your understanding, then you will have amazed humanity. Do not forget that whenever your distrust has separated you from Me, you have seen all authority flee from you.

61. Your spirit is very afraid of slavery, because it already knows it; you are very afraid of Pharaoh's yoke. You love freedom in the world and through it you pursue peace. You do not want war, blood or pain, you seek to make merits so that your children do not penetrate into chaos and you pray to have lucidity, to regenerate and have an atom of limpidity.

62. Only I can give you peace because it exists only in Me.

63. Penetrate into the bosom of the mind looking for that peace and you will not find it. Listen to the so-called princes of the word and you will be convinced that their word has no essence of peace. Search for her from the royal mansions to the humblest huts and you will not find her, because at this time she has departed from the earth.

64. Why is it that when believers and unbelievers hear my word in these humble enclosures, their hearts feel flooded with peace? Could this fact alone be enough to prove to you that my Divine Spirit is the one who communicates with you?

65. This is the third time that I have come to bring you my peace, to fill you with courage, faith and strength; to remind you that you are destined to bring blessings and peace to the hearts of men. Humanity is already waiting and longing for those who will reach out to it with true charity, and the earth is already fertile to sow the seed of love in it; the plague advances from region to region; strange diseases appear without science being able to combat them; confusion of ideas and moral degeneration has led the world to the abyss. And my emissaries have not yet arrived to alleviate those sorrows and make light in those darkness, because they are preparing very slowly.

Love one another!

66. If anyone hesitates because he judges himself needy and contemplates his threadbare or poor clothes, it is because he is lacking in faith and without realizing it he is blaspheming before my Divinity.

67. Do you still bow down before the great ones of the earth? Are you still surprised by human riches? No, my people, the only great and truly valuable thing in the life of man is spiritual elevation and my word leads you to it.

68. How needy those who were great and powerful on earth come before my heavenly gate, because they forgot about spiritual jewels and the way of eternal life! While the truth of my Kingdom is revealed to the humble, it is hidden from the wise and knowledgeable, because they would make of spiritual wisdom the same as they have made of material science, they would seek in this light thrones for their vanity and weapons for their wars.

69. Who are you to whom I have opened this arcane? You only know that you have been before, but you do not know who you were, so you do not know who you are and who you will be and where you have come from, or where you will go. That is why I have come to you as a Teacher to teach you how much you are ignorant.

70. In the First time Jacob and his family recognized the true God and when the Father saw that those men preserved the seed of faith in his Divinity, he sent them to dwell in the bosom of a pagan and idolatrous people to testify there of his existence and of his power.

71. There the patriarch's family multiplied, his children formed new families and these became tribes. But behold, the king of that region was afraid of that people who were growing under his reign, he took away his freedom and made him his slave, burdening him with chains and labor.

72. The test was big, long and painful. Men toiled and succumbed under the whip, and weeping and bitterness was in the hearts of women. Humiliation and misery came upon that people, to test their faith and strength before the Gentiles. But the Father, moved by the pain of his people and wanting to show Pharaoh his power, called a man named Moses whom he prepared and inspired to free his people. He said to him, "Go and show my righteousness and power to Pharaoh and to my people, because even my people have wavered, they have forgotten me and have let their hearts be polluted with the customs and beliefs of the Gentiles. To you, who have been faithful, I give this order so that you may kindle in your hearts the ideal of freedom and convince Pharaoh to let Israel march to Canaan, the Promised Land, so that it may serve its God. Let the people pray, let them watch and recognize that their freedom will not be achieved through fratricidal weapons.”

Love one another!

73. That man appeared several times before Pharaoh to ask for the freedom of the people, which was denied him again and again. The Lord then made his justice felt and the plagues and calamities were unleashed on Egypt, the pain and extermination reaching such an extent that the king called Moses and granted him to leave his lands with his people.

74. When Israel was marching after their freedom, Pharaoh recognized that this man really had Divine power.

75. Moses encouraged the faith of his people to endure the hardships and sufferings of the day. The journey was long and perilous, many fell on the way overwhelmed by fatigue or old age, unable to contemplate the Land of Promise, but their children arrived in the Land that flowed with milk and honey and that awaited the people of Israel.

76. As a new paradise that land was offered to those who had conquered it. There was peace, fertility and abundance, extensive valleys, crystal clear water and beautiful skies, and in it that people multiplied, there their worship of the true God flourished, but that peace and that happiness was not eternal, because that people fell into temptation, idolatry and division in the very bosom of that land of blessing. It lost its vigor and was again dominated by pagan and ambitious peoples. When he prayed and sought me, he was strong, but when he forgot me for pleasures and vanities, he stripped himself of my grace.

77. Remember the wisdom of Solomon and the inspiration of David, great was the splendor of his reigns, but when they fell into temptation they lost everything.

78. That people became vassals of foreign peoples and later subjects of Caesar. The people had forgotten their covenant with Jehovah and it was necessary for the Father to renew it so that the word of the prophets would be fulfilled, by which a Savior, a Messiah, had been promised to the people. And the Messiah became man to come to save all lost and teach the world the way that leads to the spiritual mansion, to the kingdom of Heaven, the true Land of Promise.

79. The new liberator was Christ, who came to teach you meekness and who, finding his people as slaves, taught them to give to Caesar what was Caesar's and to God what was God's, thus freeing the spirit.

Love one another!

80. If Moses did not penetrate into the Promised Land and only contemplated his silhouette from the top of a mountain, Christ from the cross contemplated the Kingdom of Heaven, where he was to wait for all his children.

81. How much those who followed me suffered! By counties, provinces and kingdoms they were sought and persecuted; the whip, martyrdom and the scaffold stood in their way, and many, in order to pray and pronounce my name without fear, sought the bowels of the earth, but how many times did the executioner's hand tremble before a Christian when contemplating his fortitude and his faith! How many times did the kings themselves shudder at the presence of those, or at hearing the inspired word of their victims who died pronouncing the name of their Master.

82. The mark of Jesus was of Blood and that was the path followed by the apostles and the martyrs. But the struggle ceased when at last light was made in the spirit of humanity overcome and overwhelmed by so many miracles of faith and so many sacrifices of love.

83. My word resounded in the nations and my Doctrine penetrated into the hearts, and there was a time when the peace of the kingdom of God was felt on earth. Christ was loved as much by kings as by the poor, and His presence was felt in hearts. The peoples drew closer to each other and many hatreds disappeared. My name was then pronounced with love by all tongues.

84. But where is that people who overcame Pharaoh and withstood the trials of the desert? Where are also those who, later with their sacrifice overcame empires and reigns carrying the word of Jesus as a weapon? Truly I tell you, they are on earth, but again I have been forgotten and my Law and my Doctrine adulterated. So, the spirits who have been faithful, humble and self-sacrificing, I have sent you back to Earth to bear witness to my coming and my words; but I have not formed this people at this time into one race, nor into one nation, for I have told you that Israel, the people of God, is not in the flesh but in the spirit.

85. I am the only one who can clarify who you are and I am coming to tell you. I come to reveal to you what you have come for and to point out to you the point where you must go; You are the seed of that strong people and you have come to this life to fight to reach the kingdom of peace of the spirit and bring light to the world, as in another time you overcame the bitterness of the desert to reach the Promised Land.

86. That is why I point out to you your inheritance and reveal to you your gifts so that they may be the tools with which you till the lands and the weapons with which you fight.

87. Why are you afraid then? Do you want to remain slaves? No, your heart tells me.

88. I announced to you by different spokesmen, great chaos on Earth and while some believed although they slept, others doubted and it was necessary that the rumor of the war reached them so that they woke up, it was necessary that your children were called to arms so that you believed in my word when you saw its fulfillment.

89. .Watch and pray and do not be afraid for your children, for I will make them soldiers of peace among the multitudes.

90. Elijah is before you and the nations, opening the way and setting spirits free with the light of truth.

91. Know how to judge my word and analyze it so that you can discover its divine essence.

92. I give you strength and I leave you my blessing.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Teaching 239

1. Feel me, because in truth I am very close to you. Who is convinced of my presence feels me deep inside his heart.
2. However, once again I say to you: No one forces you to believe or to follow me, the light of faith will be lit by itself and it will make your love spring up.
3. You are the favorite creature in this valley, whom I have endowed with the gift of reason and whom I have placed in the middle of a vast world full of works, creatures and manifestations of my power, which are testimony of the one who gave life is Almighty.
4. I granted man freedom of thought from the beginning, but he has always been a slave, sometimes to fanaticism and other times to the false beliefs of Pharaoh and Caesar. This is why at this time, before the freedom that the spirit is achieving and before the clarity that appears to his eyes, he is dazzled, because his mind was not used to that freedom.
5. Man had reduced the strength of his understanding for the spiritual and so he fell into fanaticism, walked crooked paths and was like a shadow of the will of others.
6. He had lost his freedom, he was not master of himself and his thoughts.
7. But the age of light has come, the time when you will break the chains and spread the wings to fly freely to infinity in search of the truth.
8. Spirituality is freedom; that is why those who listen to me now and have understood the meaning of this liberating Doctrine, see opening before them that vast valley in which they will fight and bear witness that the time has come when God, the Omnipotent Creator, has come to establish communication between Him and man.
9. That direct communion that men believed would be impossible between a God of all strength, wisdom and perfection and the human creature so full of poverty, ignorance and sin, I have realized. It is I who have come to you.
10. Who could have imagined that man could communicate with his Lord? You thought that this had only been the privilege of the righteous and the prophets, of those who fell dazzled before their own sights and then announced the coming of the Messiah; of those whose prayer was so deep and fervent that they reached ecstasy and could contemplate the divine.
11. Now there is hardness in the hearts, a lot of disbelief in the spiritual and men limit themselves to believing only in what they manage to understand, and what they do not, they reject despite the fact that inside they never cease to sense the life that awaits them beyond death.

Love one another!

12. I give you this teaching using a human understanding like yours, so that you may feel this word closer to you. What does it matter that I come to communicate through the sinful man, if he knows how to prepare to receive me?

13. How strange is it that I communicate in this way if I also talk to you through your dreams; if wherever you go, when you need me the most, I get to touch your heart with my love? There is something in you that lifts you from the world in which you live. What can it be but the spirit that is a reflection of the divine?

14. Wake up, people, understand me. Take care of my teaching and your spirit.

15. As a teacher and as a Father, I come to you. Each lesson that I give you strengthens you for the coming day, because it is my will that in the midst of the chaos of ideas and doctrines, you remain serene, and be the ones who give the right interpretation to my Doctrine.

16. There are those who have been surprised because I communicate through man, and they cannot understand if it was by the will of the Father or by human will. But I tell you, it was the Master who surprised humanity: the Chaste Bridegroom, who found the virgins asleep and their lamps extinguished.

17. There are religions that try to prepare for my new coming, not knowing that I am already saying goodbye.

18. I called everyone, and in truth that my call and the rumor that I am communicating with men, reached all corners of the earth, accompanied by testimonies and proofs that speak of Me, regenerated sinners, converted unbelievers, dead who rise, evicted who heal and possessed who are freed from their evil.

19. But I found many deaf, others puffed up in their earthly glory and others afraid to make known my manifestation as a Spirit of Truth. I received and taught all those who came to Me trusting in my love.

20. When you came to this fountain, you have all washed yourselves from the dust that you had gathered from the world, so that you would be worthy to take bread from the table and so that you would not stain the page of my Law.

21. The hour is approaching when the full judgment will make itself felt in the world. Every deed, word and thought will be judged. From the great of the earth who govern the peoples, even the smallest will be weighed in my divine balance.

22. But do not confuse justice with revenge, nor restitution with punishment, for I only allow you to gather the fruits of your sowing and eat them so that you may know by their taste and their effect whether they are good or harmful, whether you sowed good or bad.

Love one another!

23. The innocent blood shed by human wickedness, the mourning and crying of widows and orphans, the pariah suffering misery and hunger cry out for justice; and my perfect and loving, but inexorable justice descends on all.

24. I come to take away from man his thrones, his pride with which he challenges me, his power; I come to persuade him that he is my son and that I want him to be humble, because my kingdom belongs to the humble and I come to inherit it. Remember that I said to you, "It is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for a rich miser to enter the kingdom of Heaven."

25. Always be with me and you will always have my peace.

26. Farmers: Behold how I come down to gather the fruit that you have reaped in my countryside.

27. Although I contemplate some cold, others question me with interest and there are those who thank me because the joy springs from their heart.

28. Truly I tell you, the struggle that you have today in cultivating lands that were barren yesterday, will give peace and joy to your spirit.

29. How much peace your heart has experienced after having received the tired man into your arms and after having given the light of reason to the one who was troubled by his mental faculties.

30. It certainly took you a long time to develop your potencies and gifts, because that evolution did not begin in your present material life. Fear or lack of faith still stops you from walking more firmly, although there are a multitude of spirits among you who can be called the firstborn among humanity.

31. Now you are living the Third Era in which I have communicated through the human understanding, communication that is already coming to an end, but after which you will not lose me, because I am the one who is close to the one who knows how to look for me and wait for me.

32. When I retired to the desert at that time, I was not absent from humanity, but I thought of it and suffered for it. Later, when the earth was opened to be the tomb of my body, I did not turn away from my children either, because behind the death that you gave me, my Spirit rose up to be in everyone as a light of redemption.

33. When I tell you that at the end of 1950 my word will cease and my Spiritual World will cease to speak to you, understand that both the Father and his spiritual servants will continue to watch over your life and vibrate in pursuit of humanity and every wandering spirit in need of light.

Love one another!

34. Behold, I am bequeathing to you a New Testament, which will not suffer adultery because I leave it kept in the temple of your heart where I dwell. How can you then lose me if you carry me within you?

35. You will study my lessons in which you will find justice in some, wisdom and teaching in others, consolation and balm in others more and in some also prophecy. My word is law and command, it is the way and the goal, it is love. Watch out, because in times of struggle temptations will stalk your path, and the greater your purpose of regeneration and your consecration in my teachings, the louder will be the voices and calls that try to turn you away from the path, but temper your spirit so that you will have the vigor and strength of good soldiers.

36. Feel all my oscar of love and peace.

37. Rest with the Master, beloved disciples. Recreate your spirit and strengthen your body.

38. I come to shed my light on everyone without distinction of races or classes, just as in all times and to all peoples I have sent great spirits to incarnate, through whom humanity has received my divine messages, the Law, prophecies, revelations.

39. In my love for you, I also became a man so that you would feel closer to me, and even though many did not recognize me in Jesus, later the light was made in them, they understood their error and loved me.

40. Again I come to give you my teaching, but now instead of becoming a man, I have come to communicate through him.

41. I find you spiritually deviated from the path, weak and sick, tired and indifferent, within a world whose science has given you a false greatness, and when you recognize that in the midst of the splendors of your century, you do not possess peace, nor do you yet know the spiritual, nor do you find sustenance for the heart; you turn your eyes to infinity questioning him about when the new apostles of peace and love will come to Earth.

42. This is why I make those whom I have called to listen to me responsible for peace, because they have been prepared by Me as guardians.

43. When humanity raises its gaze to its Creator in search of forgiveness and consolation, one of the prophecies of the Second Time will be fulfilled; then men will see my light as a saving star that will lead their steps towards the new Jerusalem where they will find the bread of life.

44. The ringing bell has long been ringing relentlessly, inviting to meeting.

Love one another!

45. I see sadness in your heart because you have stumbled over unbelief, indifference and mockery, which like thorns and thorns you have felt digging into your heart, because you have received this pain from yourselves, from your own brothers and also from the enemy.

46. Do not be afraid, Jesus tells you, because you are not alone; I will knock on the door of those hearts and they will knock on yours later, I just want you not to keep bitterness or rancor, that you watch and be prepared.

47. Your spirit is invited to my table so that he may come to eat the delicacy of eternal life. Here at this table, there is neither first nor last in their places, all the places that you can occupy are next to the Master. Later, when you go after men to teach, you will also have within your heart a single place to receive and love your brothers. That hour will come and you will have to get up to take the roads that lead to the great peoples of the Earth, as well as to the humble counties and small villages, you will see how everywhere you will find the hunger and thirst of the spirit as a propitious land to receive your seed.

48. 1950, the year appointed for my departure is approaching, and when it has passed, the time of preparation will begin among you so that you can then begin to walk. I will tell everyone the time. I want you, at the beginning of your mission, to have reached a little spiritual maturity, to be strong in the faith and to know how to persevere in virtue. In your journey you will be accompanied by my inspiration which you will receive from Spirit to spirit. You will see then how many were waiting for you!

49. Immense charity I poured out on humanity in this Third Time with my communication and that of the spiritual world through your understanding. But I had already spoken at the first time through the mouth of my prophets and at the second through my apostles.

50. Today I am among you again. I have come to pick up the forgotten leaf of the Doctrine that I once brought you.

51. I come to remind you of my past lesson and to teach you how to interpret it.

52. I am the book, which I have opened at this time in its Sixth Chapter, to reveal to humanity one more lesson of the wisdom that it must possess to call you worthily: children of light.

53. Only by understanding the content of this message will you be able to say wholeheartedly to the world that it was my voice that you heard; that it was my word that taught you; that the light that you saw was the one that radiated the Sixth seal.

54. Time by time and stage by stage I have been showing myself more and more before your spirit. Could children love their Father if they didn't know Him? Understand why I show you my love, I make you feel my presence and I make you hear my voice.

Love one another!

55. Until now, your impulse to seek me to find truth, peace, upliftment has not been spontaneous.

56. You have had to penetrate the great spiritual desert to know thirst, loneliness, needs, vicissitudes, hunger, weakness. It was then that you got up in search of the life-giving water, in search of the oasis, in search of some trace that would take you to lands of peace.

57. How many lessons the desert of your life has revealed to you! How much you have learned in the struggle and how much you have strengthened in the pain! Tomorrow, when you have entered the Promised Land of the spirit and the doors of the new Jerusalem are opened to receive you into its bosom of peace, you will bless the time of your restitution, which was that of your journey through the vast desert of trials and purification.

58. Moses spiritually sustained his people through the desert and Joshua led the multitudes into the Land of Promise, a land that was only a symbol or image of the eternal and true mansion that has been promised to your spirit.

59. Now it is Elijah, who invisibly marches at the head of the People, a hundred times multiplied, to take you step by step along the desert path to the end of your pilgrimage that will be the mansion of the righteous, of the spirits full of true love and true wisdom.

60. Do you know what will bring you closer to that promised Kingdom? Your works of love, charity, humility.

61. Now my people do not know who they are, or where they are, or what they are going to do, but when spiritualists arise all over the world, preaching with words and bearing witness with their works of light that my Doctrine inspires them, they will all identify, recognize and finally unite, thus forming the new People of Israel, which will be a bulwark of spirituality and the true interpreter of the Father's Law.

62. With my light I come to mark all those who follow me at this time. My light will descend from Spirit to spirit.

63. In the Second Time it was the blood of my sacrifice, which was poured into the hearts to enlighten the spirits.

64. In the First time, the symbolic act of marking the door of the home with the blood of an innocent lamb, was the Father's mandate for that people, which from that moment he put on the path of divine revelations.

65. In all three times the Lord has singled out in a certain way those who are to follow him; although I tell you that the seal of my love is always indelibly imprinted on every spirit.

Love one another!

66. Listen and meditate on my lesson, disciples who have had the grace to listen to me at this time, because later you will have to explain to humanity my teachings.
67. Do not believe that my word through the human mouthpiece has to be heard in all nations, no disciples; the moment is approaching to silence my communication through these channels, but a people will remain as a witness, through whose works and words humanity will hear me. This testimony and that explanation that you give of my doctrine, will be the preparation that men receive to begin the communication of spirit to Spirit.
68. See many people at this time searching the scriptures of past times, meditating on the prophets and trying to penetrate the promises that Christ made to return.
69. Listen to them as they say, "The Master is near"" "The Lord is already here," or "he is not long in coming," and they add, "The signs of his return are clear and palpable."
70. Some seek me and call me, others feel my presence, others more sense my coming in Spirit.
71. Ah, if that thirst for knowledge were already in everyone, if everyone had that longing to know the supreme truth!
72. Many do not know that I have come into the world, that I am communicating with men through human understanding, and if they do not know that I have been with you, they will be less able to know that the departure of my word is already approaching.
73. But I tell you again, this people will come out of darkness into the light to bear witness to my coming.
74. Today I do not want humanity to discover this people yet, because their small and imperfect works, instead of raising faith in men, would be before them the denial of the spirituality that my Doctrine proclaims.
75. How would the world judge you if it beheld your ingratitude? How would those hungry and thirsty for the spirit judge you if they looked at your negligence and selfishness? But I still trust you and I still give you my teaching.
76. The days will come when emissaries, missionaries and apostles will arise from this people, sowing this seed through towns, regions, villages, cities and nations, and in them I will reveal the good disciple of Jesus.
77. Strong men of spirit will be the ones who bear the testimony of my truth, nothing will be able to stop them on the way and I, through them, will give great proofs of my power.

Love one another!

78. Before the testimony of love of one of my farmers, men of faith will rise up, spreading my message, walking to other lands, to bring the light and they too will conquer hearts and peoples, with their faith, their love and spirituality.

79. The struggle will be great, intense, but fruitful; because the earth is fertile at this time. Before it will be removed so that when the seed comes to it, it will be prepared.

80. I tell you this, people, because before you stand up with your testimony, you will have to contemplate the war of ideas, the struggle between religions, the struggle between doctrines. My righteousness will be there and then you will listen in the midst of so much confusion, to those who ask: Where is the truth? Where is the light?

81. These distressing questions will be the ones that mark the opportune moment of your arrival, people.

82. You will arrive clothed with humility, full of knowledge to answer every question, full of confidence in the triumph of the truth; not thinking of saving your life, nor of getting ahead in difficult trances, but thinking only of the hearts that my Doctrine wins with your words and deeds of love.

83. Do not fear for your life, disciples, because I must tell you that at this time it will not be with your life or with your blood that you give humanity the best testimony of my truth.

84. Times pass, customs change, men evolve; now they will ask you for love, sincerity and charity as tests to believe in the truth of the Doctrine that you are going to preach.

85. The times when only by giving your life or sealing with blood the word spoken was believed, have passed, for which reason I tell you, that rather than preparing to die sacrificed for those who persecute you, prepare to bear witness to the truth with your life in deeds, words and examples.

86. This people has been walking for a long time under my divine charity, animated by the essence of my word, advancing step by step on the path, and the Master, seeing that his disciples cannot yet be the teachers, has hidden them with his cloak of charity from prying eyes, telling them: "Come near Me, learn my lesson so that you may put away your faults, let here, next to my Father's heart, your feelings may be ennobled and purified and you may be able to love your brothers with purity.

87. Yes, people, do not want the world to correct or awaken you, because men when they become judges are cruel, inhuman and inflexible.

Love one another!

88. Pity and mercy are not with men, what justice can you expect from your brothers? It only remains for you to prepare yourselves in truth and in spirit and to trust in Me, in your lord, in whom there is mercy and therefore justice.

89. See how I prepare you for after this time of my communication by the understanding of man, for it will be when you will set out on your own path towards the fullness of the third Time. It will be when you approach the perfect communication between my spirit and yours, communication that humanity has never reached. It will not be the voice that Moses heard on the Mountain, a voice materialized in the roar of thunder; nor will it be the humanized voice that men heard through Jesus, nor the way that you now have, listening to me through a man in ecstasy, because it will also soon pass, as those forms or means that the Lord used in other times to speak to his children passed.

90. Now direct communication with your Father is coming to you, when your spirit has learned to detach itself from its matter, when it already knows and interprets the divine language, when your heart is truly a sanctuary where there is pure, simple and elevated worship towards God.

91. People: This grace of communicating from Spirit to spirit will not be yours alone, it is necessary that you understand that it is a gift that belongs to the spirit, which, developed, brings man closer to God by putting him in communication with the spiritual. Today that communication still seems difficult or impossible to you, but truly I tell you that when you have achieved the preparation that spirituality gives, you will see how the way of communicating with the Father and with the spiritual world is the simplest and the easiest of all you have practiced.

92. Spirit-to-spirit communication has a broad, infinite meaning; within it is the development of all your potencies and all your gifts.

93. In it you will find the book of eternal wisdom; in prayer you will feel enlightened by great inspirations; intuition will be a compass in your life and the healing balm will reach your hands directly from beyond. All the gifts, dormant until now, will awaken from their lethargy and blossom in the human heart; and when spirituality becomes a reality among you, your hand will be able to be as it was that of my apostle John, and you will write in the hour of your inspiration, everything that the divine voice dictates to you through consciousness. In that message you will receive everything that the spokesman in his littleness has not been able to transmit, as well as you will also feel the clear and luminous prophecy coming to your mind, to point the path to the generations that will succeed those who initiate the time of spirituality.

94. When these times come and you find yourselves speaking to great multitudes, do not say that you are speaking under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit, you will let men discover the truth at the bottom of that inspiration.

Love one another!

95. Remember. When I was speaking to the crowds, there was no shortage of people who, amazed at the wisdom of my word or the justice of my works, approached to ask me: "Are You the Son of God, are you the Messiah?" To which I simply replied, "You said so."

96. My communication, if you analyze it thoroughly, will not cease in 1950, but will continue, because the Word of God is eternal and has never ceased to enlighten his children; but this form of communication through a human spokesman, will cease to be at the hour fixed by my will, to give way to the time when I will have to communicate through your consciousness.

97. Let no one say that I am going to be absent, or believe that the Spiritual World that has manifested itself among this people is going to its rest, because you would be very far from the truth. Know from now on, and have faith in what I am telling you, that it will be in the days when you no longer hear this word when you begin to feel the presence of the Master within you, when you understand the preparation that you must preserve to make yourself worthy of some grace and when you look for ways not to distance yourself from those blessed beings who are like beacons or stars that illuminate the path of your life.

98. I promise you that in each of your meetings I will give you proofs of my presence, provided that you also give me proofs of your elevation.

99. Watch, people, because also among you, among this people, those unprepared will arise as false prophets; those who have not been able to penetrate into the depths of my word, saying that it is communicated from spirit to Spirit and that the Father orders this or that the Teacher orders that, not being true.

100. Beware, disciples, none of you who hear these words will fall into such errors, nor will you allow falsehood to arise in your bosom or vanity to blind anyone. I have taught everyone to distinguish good fruit from bad, to distinguish truth from falsehood.

101. Go giving to your brothers what you are achieving thanks to your evolution and your merits; but never try to give what you have not yet achieved.

102. I tell you that those who prophesy falsely, who lie to become great among their brothers or feel like prophets without being so, will later be pointed out by the multitudes and will have to shed many tears to reintegrate among the zealous and lovers of the truth.

103. Be alert, I tell you, people, because dangerous times are approaching for you!

104. You will also be searched by your brothers to whom your practices will seem strange and after observing you, they will judge you; because you have no altar, because you have no images or symbols, ceremonies or rites; but do not be afraid, beloved people. You will speak by saying that your worship is spiritual, that the sanctuary or temple is being built in your heart;

Love one another!

that the offering is all that work that you carry out in life and that your conscience tells you if it is worthy of offering it to God and that your prayer is from spirit to Spirit.

105. If you speak clearly, you will leave your searchers absorbed and they will leave you alone, understanding that you have spoken a truth and that there is no mistake to attack you.

106. Those who defend my Doctrine in this way will be called disciples of Spiritualism, because with their works they will be confirming their words; they will not be one of those who say a thing and contradict it with their works. I contemplate many who call themselves spiritualists, who spend their lives worshiping objects they call symbols, what will men think of them who discover such a contradiction? I am still giving you time to reflect, to refine your practices and regenerate your life. Some will be docile to my call, others will be rebellious because their fanaticism has blinded them.

107. I will bless those who turn away from their mistakes to come on the path of spirituality. I will bless those who renounce their idols and those who, having danced around the golden calf, leave their materiality and take up the cross of spirituality.

108. O people!, your Teacher tells you: Watch over the innocence of your children, pray for the children. I don't want those generations to inherit remnants of your past fanaticism. Be his teachers, see that the spirit has not yet revealed his mission to matter, because he expects you to guide them first along the path of light. What does the Master mean by this? That you, parents, have the duty to form the hearts of your children, so that it may serve as a foundation for the works of the spirit.

109. Your tenderness and your intelligence to lead them, your wisdom to guide and correct them, your love to sweeten their passions, will be the chisel that polishes and shapes the moral and intellectual part of those generations.

110. Your best and richest inheritance for your children will be the one that allows them to form a strong people, a united family, healthy, fraternal and useful to all, but, so that this is, strive to leave them a beautiful example, loving each other.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

1. Prepare yourselves, because on this day I tell you: whoever believes in Mary, must believe in her purity, because she was chosen among all women, to be the symbol of immaculate perfection as a woman and as a Mother. She was to be in the world the example of tenderness, of love, of gentleness and chastity.
2. She is the perfect model for every woman, because the mission of all of them is delicate, noble and self-sacrificing to the point of sacrifice. Her bosom should harbor the best feelings, in it the man is formed. The woman awakens the heart of the child to love, directs the feelings of the son on the path of good, wipes his tears when he cries and comforts him when he suffers. It is the mother who teaches man the first prayer and reveals to him the existence of the Creator. Until the end of the earthly journey, the shadow of the mother accompanies man, just as Mary, at the foot of the cross, attended the sacrifice of the most beloved son, and received in her lap the spoils of the one who gave his life for the love of men.
3. The spiritual mission of a woman is great, her heart, her mind, her breast are delicate, all her fibers are delicate. Only in this way can he be able to fulfill his mission so high and drink his chalice so bitter.
4. Physically, men and women are different, but spiritually they are the same. They are all spirits striving for their perfection.
5. I have placed woman at the right hand of man to sweeten her existence, to fill her with charm.
6. He is the man in the woman's life, shield, guardian; her lord, because in him I have placed my light, my Law, my strength.
7. In this way I have united you in this world, tracing out for you the path that you should follow.
8. Know yourselves and then you will be able to give examples and teachings to your brothers.
9. You are in front of men of different beliefs, living with them in the same world, but do not want to get up to teach if you are not practicing my Doctrine first. First come to the conviction of what you have learned so that you can be the teachers. Do not deceive yourselves, and do not forge complications for yourselves.
10. Carry in your spirit my fundamental revelations so that they may serve as a norm in your life.

Love one another!

11. Obtain through this spiritual teaching the knowledge necessary for the life of the spirit. Be alert because on your way you will find many versions about spiritualism and you must be prepared not to follow a wrong path.
12. Keep the proper preparation so that at any moment of your life you will find yourself ready to leave this world.
13. Know that the spirit will not be able, by his immediate presence in the spiritual world, to enjoy that eternal happiness with which you dream. Just as he will not suffer eternally for his sins, because you already know the basis of my Doctrine, which is love. Therefore each one will receive according to his deeds and regrets, and this will awaken in the even greater spirit his ideal of perfection.
14. Nor do you believe that in the course of material life, it is where the spirit enjoys happiness or receives punishment.
15. The spirit is purified and perfected, because his intuition and my revelation tell him that he comes from the Divinity and he will have to return to it.
16. That is why I give the spirit every opportunity he needs to obtain his development and achieve his eternal happiness in Me.
17. Spiritualism is the revelation that discovers and teaches you everything that you possess and carry inside. It makes you recognize that you are the work of God, that you are not just matter, that there is something about your flesh that raises you above the level of the nature that covers you and above the uncleanness of your passions.
18. .When men come to spirituality, every precept and every maxim will become part of the light of their consciousness. Even if your memory does not retain a single phrase or a single word of my teaching, it will carry its essence within your being, because you have understood it, because you feel it and practice it.
19. The spiritualist must be the pure Christian, the one who recognizes and practices the Doctrine of Christ, the Divine Teacher, who redeemed men in his tireless desire to bequeath to humanity his own Kingdom of love, to be theirs a great family.
20. Now in the Third Time, enlightened by the light of the Holy Spirit, you recognize that the Doctrine that I have given you in the three times has had the same principles and that it is only the external form of my manifestations that has changed from one time to another.
21. Thus, in the First Time, there was such simplicity in your life and in your heart, you were so close to nature, that in accordance with all this I manifested myself. In the radiant Nature you saw and felt my presence and your spirit was absorbed in the contemplation of the wonders through which you understood the will of your Lord.

Love one another!

22. In the Second Time, when egoism had already germinated in the heart of humanity and the understanding of men had awakened to evil, it comes to be born in your bosom to make you understand that what you were practicing as a cult of the Divinity and the works that you manifested of one for another, were not what I had ordered you and therefore would not lead to your salvation. That what you were doing was only an apparent fulfillment before men, but you hid hypocrisy and selfishness in your heart.

23. It was necessary for Jesus to show you the principles that you should follow and from which you had departed.

24. I showed you all my gentleness, my love, my wisdom and charity, and I hastened before you the chalice of sorrow, so that your heart would be moved and your understanding would awaken. It was necessary that hearts be born to good, and the pain of seeing me crucified for love of them, was like a thorn that reminded them that you all must suffer for love to reach the Father. My promise to anyone who wanted to take up his cross and follow me was eternal peace, the supreme well-being that has no end in the spirit.

25. My promise at this time stands, it is the same, but you will enjoy it in truth until you are purified.

26. From the time when I wrote with my blood on your conscience my Law of love and justice to the present in which you live, I find your spirit evolved; its capacity and understanding is greater, its faculties and potencies are about to receive my new revelations.

27. Today, for yourselves, you know how to separate false beliefs from true ones. However, it is a time of trial for the spirit, because ideas, theories, doctrines, religions and sciences have emerged from everywhere, the strength of which sometimes weakens the spirit of the weak who does not know which way to follow.

28. This time is decisive, because men will take definitive steps on the spiritual path.

29. Many bands of darkness will fall, fanaticism and idolatry will disappear, many visions of the past will be erased and traditions will be uprooted. Then, everything that is transitory will be abandoned.

30. My children: Be content with your position, do not be envious of those who live better than you. Think that in humility you remember Me more and serve me better.

31. See well where you are going, in what form you take life and what you do with the goods that I put at your disposal.

Love one another!

32. I give you my love. My love is with you.

33. Whoever doubts Christ manifested in this Third Time will also doubt Jesus as a man in the Second Time, because my love and my essence are the same. If you want to have a greater understanding of the legacy that the Divine Master left you then, you must observe how as the evolution of your spirit has been allowing it, my wisdom and my revelations have been manifesting in your life with greater clarity.

34. If you want to penetrate the mystery of the teaching that I want you to know, destroy the fear of the unknown in you, prepare yourselves with spirituality, which is respect and humility, and I will reveal a lot to you. When the eyes of your spirit are opened, you will see Christ there walking the streets of pain of the needy, still carrying his cross of love and shedding his blood on so many miseries of this humanity. You will see the Master pouring out his charity on one another, you will discover that even spiritually he surrounds himself with disciples who eagerly listen to his word, his chair, with whose inspiration they are enlightened to then send their light to those who live in darkness.

35. So you will see him if you know how to penetrate into the spiritual. So you will know your Lord a little more. If you try to know what the Holy Spirit is like, you will find Him in the light of the wisdom that springs from the Divine Word. There you will know him as infinite intelligence, as spiritual grace that at the same time enlightens, comforts and saves you.

36. Therefore, when you hear this word, I tell you to look for its meaning, because in it there is the essence of my Doctrine.

37. When you have penetrated into the word that Christ as a man and as a spirit has given you, you will have reached the knowledge of what your God is, of the Trinity of manifestations and then you will truly love Him, you will believe in Him in all the ways in which He has come to you.

38. When you have reached that elevation, you will be like those high spirits who, as teachers, invisibly come to illuminate the understandings of men to lead them on the path of good. You will not manifest yourselves by taking human brains, but you will exert a good influence on all who are prepared in this world. You will enlighten and inspire them. Your communication will be spirit to Spirit and when you have fulfilled that mission, one more step will be presented before you to climb. This is how, along this path, the spirits reach the bosom of the Father, purifying themselves, perfecting themselves until they can be confused in the purest light of the divine Spirit.

39. I am preparing you from now on for the next step that you are going to climb, I am not telling you about others, because you would not understand them. It is enough for you to know that there are seven stages or steps that you have to go through. In each of them you will find a grace for your spirit that will serve to help you take the next step, until you reach the presence of God and the fulfillment of my promises to whoever follows me to the end.

40. Your thought does not reach to understand all this lesson, because even when you think that you are going to see me, you imagine me as a being similar to you in material form. But no one expects to join his material body to dwell eternally in my bosom. That is not the resurrection in the flesh of which the apostles spoke to you; only the spirit will know eternity after having arisen again and again on Earth through different matters and after having spiritually traveled the way to the end.

41. The Final Judgment, as humanity has interpreted it, is a mistake; my judgment will not be of an hour or a day; it has been weighing on you for a while, but truly I tell you that the dead bodies are dead and have gone to be confused in their own nature, because what is of the earth, will return to the earth, just as the spiritual will seek its abode that is my bosom. But I also tell you that in your judgment, you will be your own judges, because your conscience, knowledge and intuition will tell you to what extent you are worthy and in which spiritual abode you should dwell. You will clearly contemplate the path that you should follow, because by receiving the light of my Divinity, you will recognize your actions and judge your merits.

42. There are many confused and troubled beings in the spiritual valley; take my message and my light to them when you penetrate it.

43. From now on you can practice this form of charity, through prayer, with which you can establish communication with them. Your voice will resound where they dwell and will make them wake up from their deep sleep. It will make them weep and wash away with the cry of repentance. At that moment you will have received a ray of light, because then you will understand your past vanities, your mistakes, your sins.

44. How great is the pain of the spirit when conscience awakens him! How then he humbles himself before the gaze of the Supreme Judge! How humble the petitions for forgiveness, the promises, the blessings for my name spring from the innermost depths of your being! There the spirit recognizes that he cannot approach the perfection of the Father and, turning his gaze to the Earth, where he did not know how to take advantage of the time and the trials that were an opportunity to approach the goal, he asks for one more matter, to atone for faults and carry out unfulfilled missions!

45. Who did justice then? Was it not the same spirit who formed his judgment?

46. My Spirit is a mirror in which you have to contemplate yourself and He will tell you the state of purity that you keep.

Love one another!

47. As soon as you find yourselves in spirit before yourselves, your consciousness will enlighten you, your memory will be cleared and you will remember the forgotten. Why then do you fear my justice, if you are not going to receive more than you deserve? Why not fear your actions from now on? See how kindly I let your understanding comprehend the mystery of what your judgment is.

48. Stay away from fanaticism, which is very far from the truth. Meditate on my teachings that contain a Doctrine of peace, light and blessing.

49. If you come to forget those who have passed into the spiritual valley, the Master of none forgets.

50. Also in the spiritual there are those who sleep, those who have closed their eyes to the light of truth and those who go wandering dragging chains of remorse, troubles and pain.

51. I have called you to tell you that not only can you do good by healing the sick and pointing the way to your brothers and sisters who live with you on Earth, but also to the beings who dwell in the hereafter; among them are the sick, the lost, those in need of love and consolation. They are the ones who purify themselves in pain to come clean to my presence, but you can help them in their atonement with your prayers, with your charity and noble thoughts and you will shorten their time of bitterness.

52. My Doctrine of universal love will unite and bring all spirits together without distinction of worlds and will make beings love each other with spiritual love.

53. Legions of beings arrive among humanity in darkness like storm clouds, causing disorders, disturbing the minds and obfuscating the hearts of men. And this humanity having weapons to defend itself from these stalks, some do not know how to wield them, and others do not even feel they have them.

54. In wars, in murder and in the low passions, there is the influence of these forces. You who have opened your eyes to the light and who know the spiritual weapons of love and justice that I have entrusted to you, pray for the world and for the spiritual world, reconcile those who hate each other, teach to love, to forgive and to pray.

55. But keep in mind that the good works that you do on earth will be those that enlighten troubled spirits, and your prayers will be a balm for them that will relieve you of their confusion. Fight against temptations and bad inspirations so that you will experience the triumph of the light.

56. Prepare yourselves, that the message that you will have to carry to humanity, will be so that it knows its unknown attributes and powers, some and others without development.

Love one another!

57. With good works you will teach, restoring health to the one who is evicted from science and saving the spirit that men had said to condemn to eternal punishment. Some and others will see the splendor of my Work and the blindfold of darkness will fall from their eyes.

58. It is the time when I will let myself be looked at, when I will make myself felt in everyone and when I will speak to the world.

59. I say to you on this day: blessed are those who are following the example of Mary on their way, carrying purity in their spirit. Mary is purity and tenderness; whoever loves her, imitate her in this. It will be of no use to you to repeat her name or to say that you love her, if your actions do not correspond to those words.

60. Recognize the true human and spiritual values; do not let yourselves be seduced by the false splendor of earthly glories. Already your light can reveal to you everything that is false. See that there are many works that, appearing to be pure, only enclose darkness and lead you along dark paths that apparently shine.

61. Understand, then, the responsibility you have assumed to show in your life, in your conduct and in your trials, a behavior worthy of the words that pour out your lips. The people have their eyes fixed on you, hoping that in your actions you will show spiritual elevation. You must be like a clean mirror, because if the acts of those who have not listened to me at this time and call themselves servants of God, are not always lawful, the world sees them without being surprised, but if these same illicit acts, it sees them in you, if there will be surprise in those who observe you, because they will not conceive that carrying this grace in you, you can still do actions contrary to the Doctrine that you have received. The Master says to you: From the moment you have made the intention of following me, keep yourselves from scandal, see that your spirit has renounced from that day everything that could harm it. You have to persevere on the path of good, feeling all your responsibility. If you are serving me, if you have abandoned yourselves to my will, it is that you have recognized me, it is that you are fully certain of the truth of my communication and there is not a doubt in you.

62. When I saw you given in this way to my service, I told you that you are doing a great work of charity in your brothers. I have already told you that this spiritual fulfillment does not prevent you from fulfilling any of the human duties. Let no one attempt to complicate the simplicity of my doctrine. You give the essence of my teaching and let men be inspired by it.

63. How extraordinary it seems to you that my divine will has been unified with your understanding! To what I say to you, which is the most natural, in the case of God who is Spirit and of man, who by his spirit is similar to his Creator. You would like to penetrate into many mysteries that you still cannot know and I only tell you that it will not be science that reveals them to you but the spirit for the love of his Creator.

Love one another!

64. Manifest my Work with the same simplicity with which I have given it to you and your brothers will understand it thanks to the evolution they have achieved, and when your acts can manifest that you are worthy of the greatness that you receive, your work will be wonderful and man will believe in Me, for you.

65. I receive your spirit in Me so that he may leave his fatigue and the troubles of the world.

66. From different points you come in search of my lesson and my peace. When you hear my word, you feel the paternal warmth and your heart is still.

67. There is no shortage of those who would like to follow you to the place where I am giving you my word, but fear of the world stops them; others, on the other hand, look with contempt, even hearing as an inner voice that tells them that the way you are going is safe, and that it is the one that leads to the truth even listening to the voices of the unleashed elements and extraordinary events that proclaim that a new time has arrived: the time of judgment, the precursor of the time of grace. In all places on Earth and in all hearts, I have manifested, I speak to you by inspiration, by intuition and by dreams or revelations.

68. I am preparing the future generations, who will not hesitate between doubt and faith, and who will give their true value and interpretation to the scriptures of the books that I will leave you.

69. They will announce the fulfillment of the prophecies of the first times.

70. I will leave the writings of this time under your responsibility, so that you can make them known to all those who did not listen to my word. Your real struggle will come later.

71. My Doctrine, your worship and your practices, will be a judge for all those who from sects and religions come to search you; it will not be necessary for you to point out to them their errors, on the contrary, you will welcome them with sincerity and love, showing them my Work in all its parts.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 241

1. I receive you, people, who come to feed yourselves with the divine word, which is the bread of the spirit. I come to you because of the love I have for you. Oh humanity, you are only going in search of pain, blood and anguish; the shadows of materialism have clouded the gaze of men and they cannot contemplate the path of restitution!
2. At least you who hear me, rejoice with my word and take comfort in Me, because this humanity has lost its mind and its feelings, since instead of going after the truth, it is going after confusion. The great human intelligences flourish today in the world, and they make their ideal out of them, that is why I have said a lot to those I have named my disciples, that by fulfilling this mission that I have entrusted to them, their example will influence life, in the thinking and speaking of others, to the extent that they can say: today I find myself using my spirit that I previously thought useless.
3. Disciples: When the spirit of humanity rises, frees itself and works in the fields that belong to it, the chalice of pain that rushes this world will end; when spirituality blooms in the mind and in the heart of man, there will be flowering in all the paths of your life. I am speaking to those who aspire to be my disciples and in whom I find sensitivity when listening to me.
4. My people: do not let a single moment of your life be lost, love one another and feel the pain of not having done it before. Meditate deeply on the main good and bad acts of your past, because from that meditation you will obtain good fruits and then think about the future. Ask yourselves: What have I prepared for the times to come? You will understand that you have something to say to humanity, that you will have to do something to wake it up from that dream that does not let it contemplate the mantle with which death is covering it and lurking at every moment, that something you have to do so that it wakes up and hears the voice of conscience.
5. Ah, human vanities! O men who seek your flourishing and your glorification on this earth!
6. To speak words that kill you have come to make a throne for yourself, from which you make your orders of war, of invocation to destruction and death, be heard.
7. What is human intelligence, if it is not united with the spirituality that is conscience, justice and charity? With what words will the men who with their light have invented the great destructive weapons answer before God? With what will they pay off the debt they are contracting? How will they reap the harvest of their great sowing?
8. And to all those who speak of Me and call themselves my disciples and ministers, I ask: What are you doing at this moment and what do you have in store to protect the world?

Love one another!

9. O little ones who listen to me at this time! Work on my Work of Love, hasten to consecrate that part of your life that I ask of you for the benefit of your fellow men, which at the same time will be for your benefit

10. My Work needs soldiers, why not give your life on this spiritual front, when you give it to no avail on the battlefields?

11. That part of time that I ask of you, use it teaching, give a chair of love and knowledge, touch and awaken the hearts; look at my divine existence consecrated to love you, to take care of you and to give you salvation. Remember that I too, as a man, dedicated my whole life to you. Do not settle for collecting little seed. What will be the gift or present that you deposit in my hand when you penetrate into what you call the Afterlife? I give you showers of water from my fountain, and are you going to give me back just a few drops? Testify with your good deeds.

12. The spiritual gifts that have been manifested in you at this time have been to help you overflow those crystalline waters on the spirit of your brothers. Learn from your Teacher, who has always shown himself to be a beacon of love for you, as a perpetual gift, as a lamp lit to illuminate the heart of the one who suffers. Is not each of my words like a torch of light on the path of the traveler who goes in search of the goal of his destiny? Is not this message a new revelation that brings you closer to God?

13. Only he who feels and lives my Doctrine and my Law can be called a master in my Work. This word leads you there so that you may know the high and the deep, because the spirit who wants to be great is interested only in great works, the little spirit walks only around the small, and in order to believe, he has to strip himself of the superfluous with pain and strengthen himself with the love of his Father.

14. The great spirit sacrifices even what you may deem dearest, for the sake of his high ideal, or for the sake of his mission of love.

15. Do you wonder that my disciples of the Second Time have left everything to follow me, have given everything to you for loving you?

16. My word invites everyone to return to the path of love, there many will be ashamed of having felt hatred or grudges for their brothers, of having stopped loving them; and then, with the pain and at the same time with the joy of repentance, they will shake them with their hearts again. Then spirituality appears and materiality disappears.

17. I will tell you even more about the great spirits; they are not sensitive to offenses, nor weak before blows, they see with indifference those miseries and see with pity those who carry them, they are above those little things and go only to what is great.

Love one another!

18. All of you will have to go through great trials, you need to be very strong so as not to faint and thereby avoid the shame of your weakness. You who have heard this word, and who have come to the table of good delicacies and have fed on my wisdom, be strong and encourage your brothers with your love.

19. The one who practices the good is an apostle of Christ, but he will not need titles that prove him as such, nor will it be necessary for him to flaunt it.

20. What was he saying to me when he revealed to you the painful events of the future? What will you be able to offer to the profane who come to you for comfort?

21. I only say to you: sow my seed. This Doctrine is your legacy, if you know how to penetrate into the depths of your spirit, there you will find the Messiah who returns every moment to your heart to illuminate it with his light.

22. Of those who are to come tomorrow to know of my coming, two groups can be made: Some who will come doubting and will come out believing and tender, because the love of my word touched them; and others who, coming incredulous, will continue dissatisfied, because they are more matter than spirit, more foolishness than reflection; but to you who have been appointed my new disciples and who have been pointed out by the Holy Spirit, I say: When do you begin to enlighten the world with the example of your works of love?

23. Listen: When I was on Earth with you, men came to Me in caravans, men of high positions, covered with vanity, rulers who secretly sought Me to listen to me. Some admired me, but did not confess it out of fear, others denied me. Crowds of men, women and children came to Me, and they listened to me in the morning, in the afternoon, at night, and they always found the Teacher willing to give them the word of God. They looked at the self-forgotten Master and did not know at what time he was fed so that his body would not decay, nor would his voice weaken, and they did not know that Jesus took strength from his own spirit and in himself he found sustenance.

24. Thus, someday you will know that he who, inspired by divine love, consecrates his existence to comfort, to sustain and to love his brothers, will find in his own spirit strength and unknown food that will sustain him without fading for an instant in the struggle.

25. This is how I manifested myself in that people, which is this very people of now and which tomorrow will form a single conglomerate in the entire world; the people of God.

26. Learn from Me and take advantage of your gifts so that you can pay off the great debt that you and humanity owe; gladly accept your restitution, and do not want to pay that debt with something that, while pleasing you, does not bother you, because many times you will have to come to sacrifice or renunciation.

Love one another!

27. I'm not asking for your life, just a few hours, just a part of your time.
28. Remember that Jesus, because he was with you, left his Mother, that sweet Mother who was the only thing he had on Earth. He was absent from her in life, and only gave himself into her arms when he was already detached from the cross; I don't ask so much of you, just a small part of what I gave and taught you.
29. Give your life consoling the sad, healing the sick and saving the lost, but do not let yourselves be killed just to prove that you know how to die for Me.
30. In my Doctrine there should be no accused or accusers, offended or offenders; in it there should be only those who aspire to rise by the practice of my teachings.
31. You possess everything in order to reach Me; the world is a school, life is a book, my inspiration is a light; I am the Teacher, men are my disciples; behold, because I call you incessantly and I tell you: you all fit in my love.
32. Do not leave me alone with my teachings; do not be cold before this love that I am manifesting to you, look that through human lips, the word of my Spirit illuminates you.
33. If on Earth you say that I, with my Doctrine, with my Law, have brought you religions, I tell you: that before Me there is only one cult that is that of love, love for the Father, for one's fellow men or brothers, and for everything that has sprung from the Creator.
34. That divine maxim of loving one another, will be the Law that unites all men, that enlightens them so that they feel brothers, protect themselves, help each other, defend themselves from temptations and recognize each other without stopping at differences of races or creeds.
35. Imagine such a world and you will imagine it in peace, as a single family governed by the laws of love, respect and justice.
36. These prophecies will be fulfilled because your world is not condemned to be eternally a valley of darkness and sins.
37. Virtue will shine in the hearts of men like flowers in the gardens, because I tell you: flowers are in their beauty, similar to the ideas and inspirations that spring from God to save sinners.
38. Come, this is your way, here is the bread of the poor and the consolation of the sad, come and fear nothing
39. Blessed people of Israel, the Father says to you: Listen to the voice of your conscience, prepare your understanding, because I am going to leave my word indelibly written in each one of you. Listen to the living word that I am pouring out, which springs from the fountain of wisdom, which is my Spirit.

Love one another!

40. I have opened all the paths, so that they may come to Me, all my children, it is the time of awakening, in which I will clearly show my word of the past times and the new revelations that I will make to you and that are the complement, the third part of the Book of which you will be possessors.

41. I have come to lift before you the veil that hid the greatness of my Doctrine. At the Second Time I gave you the seed to sow and cultivate, and at the right time you would make it present to me.

42. But I have asked for the fruit from those in charge of spreading it, and I have gathered few grains, after a long era. I had already told you: new generations will come to Earth and she will receive my last message. I am preparing them and I tell you: the time has come when this new era began.

43. The forerunner initiated the first laborers of my Work, and then the master opened the Book to show all its content that is light, wisdom, salvation for humanity. This is how that moment of grace came for you. I brought together men and women of different beliefs and ideas. I penetrated into their heart and saw only bitterness, disappointment; and when they heard my word, they did not reject it, they did not close their hearts, they did not discuss it, but they welcomed it with love and respect.

44. I made them devote themselves to studying each of the manifestations of my Divinity, and they found them true, full of great transcendence and their heart was strengthened. But the moment came when I said to them: I have lulled you, you have delighted in my caresses and now it is time to fight. And the lips that had been clumsy or dumb before, spoke with the Divine Word. I poured out my word for themselves and they were my spokespersons. Others I found full of faith, I made them guides and said to them: Attract hearts and with them form multitudes. Prepare yourselves with fortitude, because you are going to stumble over the hardness of humanity. You are going to fight with the unbelievers, because the seed of Thomas is watered and has sprouted in the hearts. But I will nip this seed in the bud and help you in your work. Each one of you will be like a torch that illuminates the path of your brothers. And when this time of my communication comes to an end and you only communicate with me from spirit to Spirit, you will continue teaching. And men will be surprised and will ask where you have learned and you will show the book of your heart, where my teaching will be engraved and from which new inspirations will spring.

45. I will fight until I leave you ready for after my departure. That is why I marked a long time, so that in it you would have great opportunities to understand my Work. I have no longer been visible to material eyes. I have said that at this time every sinful and non-sinful eye will see me, but it should not be the eyes of matter, but the spiritual gaze that contemplates me, illuminated by conscience; and the spirit, like a sanctuary, that feels me.

46. I have prepared farms in many regions, to manifest my Work. Listening to my teaching, how many moments of bliss has your spirit had! How have you enjoyed the wonders that I have bestowed upon you! In order for you to recognize Me, I have given you innumerable tests, for I want you, already prepared, to receive those who are appointed by Me, to come to the knowledge of this teaching. As elder brothers, you will be close to the hearts that suffer to support them and serve them as a staff. Return the straying sheep to the fold, relieve sorrows, save your brothers.

47. I will help you with your cross, when you are tired, and I will teach you to climb the mountain of fulfillment. What could you expect if you didn't comply? How will you feel strong, how will you be able to live if after having heard me you do not bear witness to these lessons?

48. Be strong, love one another and my blessing will fall on you like dew to encourage you always.

49. When you feel the joys of life, you attribute this pleasure to the world and I tell you: I want you to be happy, that's why he sends those moments of happiness to you, because when the son smiles, the Father smiles too. Seek wholesome pleasures that do not disturb the spirit and in them you will find me. But if you can smile in the midst of your sufferings, blessed are you!

50. My Father's gaze rests on your heart, O beloved children, and I contemplate your recollection. You have forgotten what belongs to your material life and you come to feed on my word, to fill you with its essence and to deeply feel my presence in yourselves. I come to manifest myself to you because I love you and I want you to understand my longing; you, full of recognition, show me your heart with humility and tell me: Teacher, read in it as in an open book and do your will in us, we will be conformed to what you order in you.

51. I contemplate your faith and trust in my Divinity. You know that I love you and I grant you all that is just and is for your good. That's why you trust and ask me for help. It is a time of restitution that you are living in, in which you will not have perfect joys or lasting peace. This land is not your homeland. You are the dwellers of it and you are only carving out a better life, superior to this one according to your merits.

52. On Earth you will feel, when you are ready, the peace of my spirit, that peace that you have tasted and that the rest of the world does not know; that sweetness that is poured out in my word, that greatness that you have experienced when you are elevated in communion with me.

Love one another!

The world does not have that incentive and it needs it, it is waiting for it, because it knows that it is coming and some are preparing themselves, sensing that the time is approaching for Me to reach them. But I tell you, you will all be masters of this peace, everyone will know the light of truth. My word will spread, and it will go from lip to lip, from household to household, and from one nation to another, through husbandmen. But I have seen in them and in the people their slow walk, their fear; and my Work has not gone beyond the small limits in which they have enclosed it, and that is not my will.

53. I have asked you to unite so that you may form a single spirit, a single mind and heart, so that wherever your brothers and sisters meet you, they may hear the same word from you, the same testimony in everyone and see reflected in you my divine love.

54. I have taught you love, patience, humility, so that you may carry your mission like a sweet cross. The work of regeneration, purification and spirituality of humanity is a work of time, one generation will transmit to the next the same spirit of struggle and spiritual elevation, until the world, through the ages, is perfected and reaches the fulfillment of its mission.

55. Don't be afraid of tomorrow. Do not be afraid either to go too far ahead and lose the way. The journey is so long that you will not reach the end in a short time. I am in your every step. The same in front of you and behind you, to your right and left. The strength of my Spirit clothes you; that inner strength that encourages you to fight without tiredness, will not abandon you. Some of you have struggled year after year, and you have contemplated the dawn of each day as the first in which you are going to work for my Work.

56. Seek in Me all perfection, but do not demand absolute justice and perfection from the peasants; they are human and are prone to fall into weakness; they are also fighting for their redemption. That perfection that your spirit longs to contemplate, seek it in the spirits that inhabit high spiritual scales, where everything is love, beauty and light.

57. Your heart aches in fulfillment. Each one advances according to his love, his zeal and eagerness to serve. My word has been the same for everyone, and yet, I have found farmers taking great steps of spirituality and others delayed in their evolution.

58. To know the depth of my teaching, you need to practice. If you only listen to my lessons and then forget them, you will not be able to preserve or impart that delicious essence that my teaching contains; it is so simple that you can practice it from the first moment you hear it. Love is the first law that I have made known to you, and from which all other laws and precepts spring.

59. I have told you that I have trained everyone equally and I love everyone. Why do you not love without distinction of races, classes or beliefs? Why do you love some and do not know others? Do not only love those who do you good, seek everyone and strengthen bonds of love. Practice the all-encompassing universal love and love your material and spiritual brothers. My Work places all spirits on the same plane. I want to contemplate everyone forming my family that loves each other and makes universal peace, that I make a pact with my Divinity so that each one of you is my representative wherever you are.

Love one another!

60. Prepare yourselves so that each one of you will be a fruit of the Great Tree, and that fruit will multiply infinitely.

61. Pray for the world and that this prayer may be like a mantle that protects humanity, like an antidote against war, which every moment approaches and makes man fall.

62. I bless all my creatures and leave them united in a close embrace.

63. Come to Me, you who are crying, I am the consolation. Love draws near to you because you are the creatures who in their exile need the caress of the Father to rise up.

64. You all carry a cross on your shoulders so that you can imitate the Master in this, but I do not want to see that cross in an insufferable or annoying burden due to your lack of understanding and elevation.

65. The vicissitudes hit your life like hurricanes, but that love for the Father and the trust you have placed in Him give you peace of mind in the trials and make you emerge triumphant from it.

66. Whoever truly trusts in Me will never be disappointed.

67. Pain sensitizes the hard heart, he will be the one who makes crystal clear water gush from the rocks. Trials keep the spirit awake.

68. You have risen up after my word, because you recognize the voice of the divine Shepherd whom you have been following for a long time.

69. It was not duty that prompted you to follow me on this path, nor was it fear, but the desire to be useful to your fellow men to please the Lord.

70. This is how the new disciples are prepared, to be the torches that illuminate the world. Blessed are those who understand me and believe in my word, for they will not hunger or thirst in the spirit.

71. I do not want your heart to be filled with vanity and greatness tomorrow when you feel the wonders accomplished through your gifts, but I also do not want to see you shy, because you would not know how to awaken confidence in your brothers, be firm in what you speak and do.

Love one another!

72. You will have to increase your preparation and perfect your steps, so that you will be recognized after my departure.

73. I have entrusted to all of you the gift of healing, with which you can work miracles among the sick in body and spirit.

74. you will go in search of the lost one, even to the same mud, to give him the saving hand. If you think that my seed does not germinate there, you are mistaken. I can show you that flowers as white as snow white can sprout from the mud. The more lost a spirit is found, the more love is required to go in search of him and he, feeling the caress or balm, will feel a ray of light penetrate and will be one of the most fervent. Your gratitude will be very great, because your debt, which was also very great, will be forgiven.

75. You will look for these as I have always come to look for you. Do not forget that the righteous are already with me.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Teaching 242

1. In this time when humanity's pain is acerbic and its journey painful, it has been my will to approach you to help you find your inheritance.
2. Turn your face and see the path you left, of which some are horrified today. I will bring you back to the same paths, but not so that you may stain yourselves there, but so that you may rescue those who are lost.
3. Take advantage of my stay among you, disciples, so that you may carry my peace in your spirit and he may make it felt to his brothers.
4. My Doctrine in this Third Time will lift you up from your spiritual stagnation and will make you take great and firm steps on the spiritual path.
5. I granted you the grace that my communication was by your own understanding, so that you would feel worthy of my Divinity, so that, seeing that if you were able to transmit my word and that great multitudes would gather around it, tomorrow, when this voice is no longer heard, your heart would not cower before the struggle knowing that my word was engraved in your being.
6. You will take care of the seed that I am entrusting to you, see that I never disinherit the son, but he, with his evil deeds, disinherits himself.
7. When men knock at your door demanding explanations and testimonies, do not hide yourselves, nor do you ask: What will I do? what will I answer?
8. You will be the ones who, with a serene spirit and a firm voice, speak of Me and defend my name with the weapons that I have given you, which are: charity, love, truth.
9. That is why I have remained among you manifesting myself for a long time, so that my many lessons may enlighten you and my wonders may ignite your faith. The essence of my word has made you forget your old religious fanaticism and when you are searched, you will only find in you the simplicity of true spiritual worship,
10. My word overflows in torrents in the different enclosures where it makes itself heard, so that in the times of greatest struggle and trials, you will not feel lacking in teaching, but the moment is already approaching when my word ceases to be heard among you.
11. Do not be afraid to run out of this grace, think that from the First Time, I have been preparing you for spirit-to-Spirit communication.
12. Each time has been a new lesson for your spirit and a step forward on the path of evolution.

Love one another!

13. I am giving my message of peace to the world, making my voice heard through many spokespersons. And as in all times, my teaching tends to perfect your spirit.

14. If man were devoid of spirit and were an absolutely material being, his mission and destiny would end with his last breath of life, but there is something in him that is imperishable, for which he will fight, watch and raise his gaze to the eternal.

15. My word prepares you to live in the world of tomorrow, at that time when my message will begin to be understood, then you will see that I knew how to anticipate the events, which I predicted to you long before.

16. My Doctrine will fight and sustain real battles in the hearts of men, as long as they insist on living a selfish existence, making them understand that where there is no charity and love, there can be no peace.

17. My spiritual lessons are not only for those who live oppressed in poverty and humiliation; they also have the mission of channeling the spirits and minds of those who lead and govern humanity in the different orders. My word is making an appeal to the noble feelings that every human harbors because it is the way in which you will understand the higher destiny that is in each of you.

18. If, instead of keeping hatred, selfishness and pessimism in their hearts, men harbored the desire to do good and nourished hope in the triumph of justice, spirituality would spread and you would love each other as brothers, forming a powerful force before which all situations that lead you to war would vanish.

19. I do not punish you, but I am justice and as such, I make it felt in everyone who contravenes my commandments, because the Eternal has made known to you his Law that no one can modify.

20. See how the man in the midst of the trial, when he falls into an immense abyss, when he sees that the woman cries at the loss of loved ones, at childhood deprived of food and homes plunged into misery and mourning, cries, is dismayed at his misfortune, despairs and instead of praying and repenting of his faults denies against Me, saying: how is it possible that God punishes me in this way? While the Divine Spirit in truth also cries for the pain of his children and his tears are the blood of love, forgiveness and life.

21. In truth I tell you that at this time, due to the evolution that humanity has reached, the remedy for its situation does not depend solely on my charity. She is a victim of herself, but not of my punishment, because my Law and my light shine in every conscience. My justice descends to uproot every harmful herb, and the very forces of Nature manifest themselves as interpreters of that justice. So, it seems that everything comes together to exterminate man, when it is only for his purification, but there will be those who will be confused and say: "If we have to suffer so much pain, why did we come to this world?". Without reflecting that pain and sin were not born of Me. Man is responsible for remaining in ignorance of what is justice and what is atonement, hence first his nonconformity and then his blasphemy. Only he who has observed my teaching and is attentive to my Law is incapable of bringing charges against his Father.

Love one another!

22. The spirit is a spark sprouted from the, Divine Spirit and tested through different matters. Because of this evolution that you have already reached, it is possible that at this time, my spiritual message will reach him directly and be understood. If everything is perfected, it is natural that you also evolve. How is it possible that you continued to imagine your God in the very limited way in which your ancestors conceived of Him? You will no longer be able to live and think like those who acted according to the rites and precepts that forced them to follow. You can no longer be like them, too small to face what is spiritual.

23. If before men tried to find their salvation by building material temples and tried to achieve the purification of their spirit in the practice of external cults, you will not remain in this stagnation of fanaticism and ignorance, because the faculties you possess to understand and contemplate the greatness of your God would become lethargic in your being.

24. I have told you: concentrate in the depths of your heart so that you may contemplate, not with the eyes of matter but with those of spirit, the infinite and unfathomable. So, in the face of so much grace received from my charity, you will not pretend to demonstrate your gratitude with material offerings.

25. Your feelings and works of love will constitute your best and most worthy offering.

26. If you want to achieve glory, make a book written with your good deeds then you will be solely responsible for yourself and you will no longer relegate your responsibility to other people.

27. After having pointed out to you the path that is the same one that I have traced out to you since ancient times and that is a firm foundation for your future, you must beware of establishing new laws or precepts that could appear as new doctrines, because they will depart from the meaning of my word.

28. I am not here to attack any religion, each of them has its responsibility. I only show the perfect; whoever wants to perfect himself, let him follow me.

29. I shed my blood to teach you how to conquer salvation. The hour is approaching when you too, in the hour of trial, will recognize how just the words of Jesus were.

Love one another!

30. My light manifests itself in the consciousness of the multitudes gathered under the shadow of these humble and small enclosures, which are a tree for the weary traveler and an oasis for the pilgrims of the desert, she illuminates and comforts them.

31. In the love with which I forgive and correct you, He makes me known. When you lived under your will, offending the Father at every moment, I did not cut the thread of that sinful existence, I did not deny you air or bread; I did not abandon you in pain or ignore your complaint; and Nature continued to surround you with its fruitfulness, its light and its blessings. This is how I make myself known and manifest myself to men. No one will be able to love you on Earth with this love and no one will know how to forgive you with the forgiveness that I give you.

32. Your spirit is a seed that I have been cultivating and perfecting since eternity until it gives the most beautiful flowers and the most perfect fruits. How could I let you die or did we abandon you to the fury of the storms?

33. How can I abandon you on your way if the only one who knows the fate of all creatures is Me?

34. I am revealing much to you, so that on your way you may learn to listen to the complaint that does not come from the lips, to discover the sadness that is hidden behind a smile and to heal the diseases that have no relief through science.

35. Now that the needy cross your path, deposit in them something of what you have received, but do not waste time and be surprised by the clock of eternity calling you to the spiritual valley, because you will bitterly regret the lost opportunity.

36. Work from now on peace for the spirit.

37. Disciples: My word has often been just among you, but deep down you have found the sweet taste of the fruit that has raised you to regeneration in this time.

38. I have reclaimed you with rigor when you have been obstinate in sin, but you have not been slow to discover the intention of your Father, which is to save you. And so, the reluctance of matter has been giving way to spirituality.

39. Of the love with which I have given you life, men give few proofs or signs. Of all human affections, the one that most resembles divine love is maternal love, because in it there is selflessness, self-denial and the ideal of making the happiness of the child even at the cost of sacrifice.

Love one another!

40. But love will flow from the hearts again, which will transform the world. This love is inspired by my Spirit, the Holy one who sends his flashes on humanity, to awaken it from its deep sleep, so that it can enjoy the clarity of this new dawn.

41. Anyone who wants to follow me at this time will have to abandon something to follow my footprint. Some will leave possessions, others will forget false loves, there will be those who descend from their high places and thrones, while others abandon their altars.

42. Passions, vanities, fleeting and insane pleasures will remain behind.

43. It is that I come in search of your spirit, whom I help with love to save him. I have not opened the doors of the room for your envelope to penetrate into it. That white city is the abode that awaits like a bride in her best clothes the arrival of the betrothed, who has conquered her with his merits and his victories in the great battles of life and that is your spirit.

44. I come to teach you how to make the necessary merits to reach the eternal abode. I have taught you to pray for the world with that deep and simple prayer that rises to Me like the nectar of flowers. I have given you faculties and gifts, so that you can do charity in many ways. I have clothed you with spiritual and moral strength to live and go through the trials with a serene spirit. I have stimulated you in your purposes of regeneration and amendment; so that you may feel the joy of calling yourselves my disciples and the satisfaction of sowing my Doctrine with examples,,

45. Your spirit has prepared to receive my presence. I see that as time passes, you will stop worrying about earthly life and begin to be more interested in your spiritual future.

46. The sufferings and vicissitudes that you are encountering on your path, you take them as small stones that only slightly hurt your plant and not as a decisive obstacle, to stop your march. Now you save the sob and tears for the big trances.

47. My charity is leading you and you are understanding. You are no longer those who concretized to enjoy yourselves while you heard my word without keeping anything of it, and you were only attentive to request material goods from the Lord.

48. Now you come as true disciples in search of the Master and as such you find me. If I told you before, "I am the Way," now I can tell you, "I am the ladder by which you will ascend to Me," because you have already found in my light the way to rise up, to draw closer to Me and to converse spiritually with the Master through prayer.

49. You are finding Me within yourselves, in the abode where I have always dwelt since you exist. You have looked inward, and you have discovered a sanctuary, which keeps an altar of love, an offering of humility and a lamp, whose flame is not quenched by the most violent storms: Faith.

Love one another!

50. Your spirit has been an emissary and bearer of spiritual missions, since the beginning of time he has been destined to save and bless his fellow men.

51. For him, the time passed when he created the image of his God to feel him accessible and close, to touch him, look at him and speak to him.

52. For a long time you have turned your back on those images, figures and symbols, because you have understood that the real image of the Creator is carried in you, since you possess something of each of the powers and attributes of Divinity, such as life, love, consciousness, will, reason, strength, spiritual eternity.

53. In this time I will be understood and loved by your spirit, I will also be imitated. My light is revealing all that was confusing and incomprehensible to men.

54. I have come to speak to you through your understanding, the light of my divine effluvium being translated into human speech; but know that when the spokesman and the multitude of listeners have been able to prepare to receive me, I have manifested myself in divine essence, but when my children have not been able to rise, nor have they arranged the sanctuary for Me, the Divine Ray has remained floating over the spirits without penetrating fully into them.

55. I will reveal much more to you and I will teach you in these last moments. My legacy will be great, there is still a lot of what corresponds to each one in my arcana. Not all of you will reach the same degree of understanding, even if you are of the number of those indicated, because some are on higher steps than others. Understanding this, do not try to force anyone, be kind and condescending and help each other in your mission.

56. You are strengthening yourselves for the trials, which will come in unforeseen ways. An indication of what they have to be, you have had it under symbolic forms through prophetic dreams and spiritual mirages. Watch and pray that I will warn you.

57. You feel unworthy and small before me, and before your own destiny, but in truth I tell you that all the roughness of your imperfections will be polished by the chisel of those trials that I announce to you.

58. Everything will speak of Me and I will be speaking to you through all the manifestations of this Nature; the voices that were not heard before, today will be heard and understood. The whole Creation will beat, tremble and be moved to bear witness that the divine judgment is in the Universe. And after having been judged, the beings will return to their channel, but having taken a step towards perfection. It will be the awakening and rebirth of this humanity.

Love one another!

59. The light of virtue will be able to shine in this world without being extinguished by anyone; reason will succeed in imposing itself and love will cease to be a word to become a deed. Lords and slaves will begin to disappear. I will have my disciples in all the earth and they will be light, peace and revelation for the peoples.

60. This world, turned by human ambition and egoism into an apple of discord, will finally be shared by all, even without being its owners, because by making you the Owner of everything created, you will obediently leave all your goods.

61. Humanity is preparing for when those times of light come. When you feel yourselves in the midst of trial, do not despair, much less blaspheme; pray, watch and resist. Blasphemy, disavowal, and imprecations against my righteousness, shall proceed from the mouths of the ignorant, whom you will forgive and teach to rise. When in the midst of the despair of men there is silence, you will speak and you will be heard. Then you will see how those who turned away from Me so much and offended Me, by their repentance will be forgiven like the prodigal son of the parable, but then you will not be surprised to contemplate that instead of punishment, forgiveness and caress were on them. Rather, you will weep with joy as you contemplate the feast of peace and love in the world.

62. When the temple of the Holy Spirit rises to infinity from the heart of humanity, there in its bosom, they suggested the new revelations that will be greater the more the spirits rise.

63. Now I try to unite everyone who listens to me in the different venues. You are not united because you have not understood me, when that is, you will love each other, and by loving each other you will be beating as one heart.

64. The lack of understanding is due to the fact that your analysis is superficial and weak, and you are always worried about the goods of the Earth; you settle for the first thing that bequeaths to you, that is, a little peace of mind in the heart, a safe roof, a little bodily health, the warmth of yours and a handful of coins.

65. I do not say to you that you despise the goods of the earth, but neither that you prefer them to the gifts of the Holy Spirit.

66. Seek in my way the elevation of your spirit, but flee from earthly flatteries and honors, know that no names will stand out from among you, but the works of the people as a whole. The memory of the one who sowed good seed, will be respected, blessed and his example, imitated; that will be his only monument on earth.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Teaching 243

1. My fire of love descends to you to give warmth to your heart and kindle a burning flame in your spirit, because the lamp that internally illuminates you, has been about to extinguish in some, while in others it has gone out and only darkness of uncertainty present me. But my light is made in everyone at this moment.
2. Why go back or stop on the path taken? Go ahead, disciples!
3. Humanity is already waiting for my messengers, the bearers of the good news. Those emissaries are you, witnesses of my presence and my word in the Third Time. Will men be able to reach Me, through different religions? I will only tell you, that there is only one path for the evolution of humanity and that is the one that I pointed out to you in my Law in the First Time, a path that was sealed in the Second Era with my blood and illuminated by my Holy Spirit in this time.
4. My whole Law is condensed into two precepts: love for God and love for neighbor. That's the way.
5. Religions are small paths that lead the spirits to the true path through which they will be able to ascend step by step until they reach Me. While men profess different religions on Earth, they are divided, but when they are on the path of love and truth, they will have united, they will have identified with that one light, because only one is the Truth.
6. But the walkers, the pilgrims have stopped and are sleeping; love and truth have fled from them, that is why I have come to speak to you and to prepare emissaries who with love and charity awaken and raise those who are lost or tired, before the elements are unleashed and with their imposing voices take care of awakening spirits, feelings and intelligences.
7. Their enemies will rise up against the Spiritual Doctrine, wielding their best weapons, using all their Strength, seeking testimonies against this revelation. But truly I tell you, this light that has arisen at this time, there will be no human power to extinguish it, just as at that time men could not silence the voice of Christ, even with the sacrifice on Golgotha, because the blood shed there for them, continued to speak for an eternity.
8. Do not be afraid to be called impostors or sorcerers, all these blasphemies were thrown on your Teacher and were also the title that the unbelievers and perverse gave to my prophets and my apostles. But when the truth of the Lord and of His people triumphed, those who blasphemed the most were later the most repentant and fervent, like Paul.
9. In my apostolate of the Third Time, there is also the woman, who, having been the one who accompanied the Master on the path of bitterness to the feet of the crucifixion tree, ignoring blasphemies and enduring ridicule, now in the Third Time has been a faithful labourer, a strong spirit and a soldier of struggle, that is why I have given her a seat at my table of this time, because the apostle is in the spirit, without distinction of sex.

Love one another!

10. Work together and walk the path of truth, until you reach the Promised Land.

11. This is the time when Israel will rise up full of humility, without showing charity. Let his left hand ignore what the right hand gives; let him not make an ostentation of being a disciple of the Lord, nor seek flattery. When that happens, the spiritual legions will join them in true armies, to form one will, one front, whose struggle is aimed at combating ignorance, sin and religious fanaticism.

12. This people, this army of men and spirits, will be the guardian of this Work in future times, so that Doctrine and the Law are not mystified, so that man ceases to fight against the truth.

13. Under the shadow of my Doctrine, no thrones will be built, from which exalted men can dominate the spirits of their brothers; no one will crown himself or cover himself with a purple mantle, trying to occupy the place of the Lord, nor will confessors arise who judge, forgive, condemn or sentence on the acts of humanity. To judge a spirit from a just and perfect tribunal, only I can do it.

14. I can send those who correct, teach and guide, but I will not send those who judge and punish. I have sent those who have been shepherds of humanity but not lords or fathers. The Father by the Spirit is Me.

15. Spirituality will infiltrate your spirit and it will be the future generations, who will find in their instrument docile to the commands of consciousness and great clarity to receive divine inspirations. From those generations the great teachers of spiritual teaching and also great scientists, with clear minds and intelligence, may arise; there will be exemplary patriarchs for their morals and virtue, prophets and apostles of truth will arise.

16. When I tell you to prepare yourselves, it is also so that you can leave to your children, as a testament, your example of obedience, of spirituality and fraternity, your works of love for your brothers and sisters.

17. Then your name will be blessed and remembered by the generations of tomorrow, who will love you through the imprint of your struggle, of the good deeds and examples worthy of following: How can you not be recognized by your children if you are the ones who are cleaning the road from thorns and thistles so that they do not get hurt? Therefore do not pass indifferently over the roughnesses of the path without averting your stumbles, because those who come after you every time they encounter the obstacle or the thorn, they would claim you and there would be those who cursed you.

Love one another!

18. You will have to perfect your practices in my Doctrine so that those who come after you, contemplate that you were able to fulfill and practice what seemed impossible to many; you will have to prove that Spiritualism is not a fantasy, nor a Doctrine too advanced but that it has come to manifest itself among humanity in due time, when the spirit is enabled by its evolution, to understand and execute it.

19. This is the time when the spirit of Elijah vibrates throughout the Universe illuminating all the worlds, all the paths, and all the spirits, awakening those who sleep, raising the dead, and discovering among the huge crowds those who are part of the 144,000 marked or marked, who have since the beginning of time a commission from the Lord for humanity.

20. Thus I have now formed, with spirits that once belonged to the twelve tribes of Israel, the new families of this people, at whose table those who were of the tribe of Reuben sit, next to those of Levi or Zebulun, to erase with this borders, limits and schisms. In this there is divine justice.

21. Do not work to magnify the name of one or your own, work so that my name and my Doctrine are recognized and honored by your brothers. When I have to speak to you for the last time in 1950, it will not be to receive the people divided into groups or enclosures; I will receive all my farmers without judging which enclosure practiced my teachings better and which was the one that did not know how to submit to my will.

22. I will not count the large or small number of farmers that each enclosure houses, I will receive from each heart its tribute and with all I will make a single heart where to build my sanctuary.

23. Elijah has been on your way and his power has made you overcome in the fight against unbelievers, fanatics and materialists.

24. He united the people at the First Time, when the schism divided them; and at this time, spiritually with his light of love he came to unite you again.

25. Remember that at that time the people were divided into two kingdoms, leaving ten tribes on one side and two on the other; the greater part had fallen into idolatry and had become worshipers of Baal. Then Elijah arose among them, to make my glory, my existence and my power manifest before the pagans, and he spoke to them like this: "I, Elijah, come in the name of the Lord your God, whom you have ignored and offended and before whom you have raised up false gods and idols; I come to tell you to put their power to the test, that I will also call on the presence of the Lord, my Lord, and he who will be heard will possess the true God."

26. The worshipers of Baal accepted, making a holocaust, invoked their god and asked him to send them fire, to show their existence and power. For days and nights the priests and the crowds were invoking the false god with dances and feasts, while the holocaust remained unchanged. Elijah, then, built his burnt offering on an altar made up of twelve stones representing the twelve tribes of the people of God, invoked the Lord and said to him: "Lord, I, your servant, please manifest yourself to these who have not known you, so that they may worship you again and glorify themselves." And the Father was pleased to manifest himself in the midst of a tempest from which a lightning burst out and fell on the prophet's burnt offering, setting him on fire. And the idolaters, the blind and the unbelievers, understood that the messenger of the True God was Elijah, the prophet of the fire in which all evil disappears and with whose light the darkness is illuminated.

27. That is the one who prepared the way for Me to come to you, the one who gathered at this time spirits that were from those twelve tribes, which were now like rocks, to bring down on the new world the Universal Ray of my Divinity, because again you were divided and distant, but this light united you again for an eternity.

28. Now I say to you, all of you are welcome, the first as well as the last, the disciple as well as the infant, the fervent as well as the unbeliever.

29. I prepare you all because the world will ask you for proof of my new manifestation.

30. Many religions exist on this Earth, but none of them will unite men or make them love each other. It will be my spiritual Doctrine that will carry out this work. It will be in vain for the world to oppose the advance of this light. When the persecution of my disciples is more intense, the elements will be unleashed, but they will be appeased by the prayer of these peasants, so that humanity may contemplate a proof of the power that I have given them.

31. Do not sleep so that you will not be confused between the pain and the chaos of the world, after I have raised you above it all.

32. Do not waste this time trusting that another better one will come, because the moment will come that is marked for you to return to the spiritual valley and then, although you ask for the prolongation of your life, to fulfill your mission, you will find the justice of the Father who will tell you that this opportunity has passed.

33. Recognize that you have the mission of receiving into your bosom the weary wayfarer and the sinner exhausted by vice, who in your example, in your counsels and teachings will find their regeneration.

34. I do not come to you as a judge, because I see you coming to Me in search of consolation to mitigate earthly hardships. But I teach you to do to your brothers what I do to you. Remember that when I entrusted this spiritual inheritance to you, I said to you: give to your fellow men, those in need, that if for their sake you neglect your own. I will watch over them.

Love one another!

35. This doctrine will not be defended with murderous weapons, the only weapons that I have entrusted to you to fight for it, are the words of light and the works of love; whoever wields them well, will see how the evil intentions and the attacks that he will suffer are destroyed before them.

36. When you try to exhort a sinner to good, do not do it by threatening him with my righteousness, with the elements or with pain in case he does not regenerate, because you will instill in him aversion to my Doctrine. Show the true God, who is all love, charity and forgiveness.

37. But you are not the only ones on whom the light of the Holy Spirit has come in this Third Time; this light is within and on every human creature, in every spirit, just as this time has opened up to you as a precious opportunity to rise up; it has also presented itself to the ministers, priests and pastors of all religions as an opportunity to correct mistakes and fulfill the will of the Father.

38. You, seek to please me; for this you will have to please your brothers. They will listen carefully to the good news, if with true works of love you bear witness to my truth.

39. After 1950 you will not hear my word in this form again, but I have already taught you how you will be able to achieve spirit-to-Spirit communication, make yourselves worthy of it by the elevation and good practice of my teachings; you will not be left without my inspirations and my new revelations.

40. The places where you meet will not be adorned with ornaments, seeking to please my Divine Spirit with these finery. My presence will be better felt in humility and simplicity.

41. I will prepare strong men who understand and interpret my Doctrine in a clean way, so that they will be a stimulus among the multitudes, and childhood will see in them a good example; because this people will be the seed of fraternity, unification and concord.

42. I wanted that at the end of this time in which I am communicating, you form a family in which you love each other, that the pain of one is felt by the others, as befits true brothers, understand that you have sprung from the same Father. When you reach this ideal, your strength will be invincible.

43. Do not judge the value of your own gifts or compare them with those of your brothers. Do not say that he has given more to some than to others, because having given to each one his gifts and his mission, each creature is gathering on the path of his life the fruit of his love and his perseverance, as well as that of his faults and deviations. In the different positions that you hold within my Work, there is justice, restitution and also a prize, but no one knows if he has achieved it by merit or by a debt contracted with his Lord.

Love one another!

44. My teaching will be unforgettable for your spirit, the same on Earth as in the spiritual valley, he will never again be rebellious in his journey and being in contact with his Father, he will always be able to hear his voice, because I am the light of the world, he who comes to Me will not perish.

45. The union of the human flesh with the spirit, I made it. Thus I formed the first man, to whom from the beginning I revealed my Law by means of different manifestations, to make him recognize the love that he must keep to his Lord and to his fellow men.

46. My teachings have made humanity recognize itself as a daughter of the Father, that's why I tell you that the wars between men have no foundation, because the Creator has trained everyone to reason, feel and understand, but not everyone reasons through consciousness and less value their own spirit, because they let themselves be carried away by their earthly ambitions. Man should always keep in mind that he is a part of Myself, that he is made in my image and likeness,

47. Soon you will know that you have come more than once to this planet, but not to get confused or lost on it. Then he will understand that this body that he owns and loves so much, is only an instrument of the spirit to which he is united while living in this world,

48. You have been witnesses of this advent, you have received my revelations and teachings and you have contemplated my manifestations.

49. For many today these lessons are incomprehensible and yet, when the time comes, they will understand them through your word and your works. My word comes to illuminate human thought, its light will reach all spirits to lead them towards the path of truth, to lead them away from fanaticism, awakening them and making them hear the voice of their conscience.

50. In different ways I have used myself through the ages to come to you, until I became human in Jesus. The way you have me now is the highest and deepest, because you feel me, you touch me and you hear me through your spiritual elevation and your inspiration.

51. To communicate through the human understanding according to the ability of the one through whom I speak and they listen to me. There are those who, listening to me, cannot understand me, while others, without hearing me, understand me. Those of you who have heard me now are the ones called in this Third Time to take one more step towards spirituality. Even in the earliest times, the people rose up at the voice of the prophets to abandon their idolatry. Until now you have been the conservative people of traditions, but in the depths of your being you were waiting for my new advent to abandon useless traditions and vain rites, in exchange for spirituality that is interior worship of humility, charity and love.

Love one another!

52. I am leaving you this message that you will have to carry beyond the seas. My word will cross the old continent and reach the men of Israel, who in fratricidal struggle have risen up for a piece of land, unaware of the misery of their spirit. You cannot understand the test the world will go through. Everyone expects peace and it will only be effective until after the elements have testified of Me.

53. Men are no longer afraid of my justice. The war has been cruel and humanity is not regenerating; and it is not that I punish human sins with war; if my justice allows it, it is because man has to purify himself.

54. There are many who call themselves children of God, but very few who truly recognize him, because you must seek my Divinity with the spirit. But the time of awakening, of revival, of resurrection is already among you. After the sowing, the fruit will come, but this will not only be the product of human evolution, but also the work of my heavenly power. It is necessary that you prepare yourselves and contribute so that the new generations can flourish and bear good fruits. Take care that your faith does not diminish, because after 1950, you will have to testify and prophesy the truth of my Doctrine.

55. John, my disciple, contemplated the events that were to be. By divine command he contemplated the future and made it known for the salvation of humanity. He saw that the dead were saved. You are among the appointed ones and you will not perish, nor will those who come to you as a last refuge.

56. Your lips will be heralds that make my word known to humanity.

57. People of Israel: I have prepared you to caress and anoint the sick, to multiply the bread of those who suffer scarcity and to bring peace to your brothers.

58. I come on this day to search your sowing, what you have reaped, and to ask how you have led your children and if you have prepared the way for the generations to come.

59. You look for my imprint every moment and you tell me: How should I conduct myself in this or that trance? I tell you: my word teaches everything, study it and in it you will find the solution you are looking for.

60. The path you travel is rough, but every step, every work you do within my Law, brings you closer to the purpose that every spiritualist has.

61. Your restitution is great and therefore your pain is also great, but when you have paid your debts and have worked out your salvation, you will understand that the pain was not in vain and that your destiny is just.

Love one another!

62. Why have you not served one another, as a servant does to his Lord? Understand that he who serves is no less, because his humility elevates and signifies him. All the commands I have given you, you can fulfill them, they are within the scope of your ability and virtue. I have told you to love each other and to do charity without any interest; not to expect from your brother the reward, that money is not the price of your love or sacrifice for others.

63. Forgive one another and in this you will find relief for yourself and for the one who has offended you. Do not carry the weight of hatred or resentment on your spirit, be clean and you will have found the secret of peace and you will live as apostles of my truth.

64. On this day you remember the beings that belonged to you on Earth: your parents, children or brothers and there are those who, in the midst of their confusion, claim me for having taken them to the spiritual valley and I tell them: the bonds of love that unite you have not been broken, you all live within this Universe and you will go from one scale to another until you reach the end, and there you will all find yourselves. Those beings for whom you ask me have not died, they live and there is greater clarity in their spirit than in you. They are enlightened, and far from having lost him, they are for you a staff and consolation in sorrows, intercessors and protectors; unite yourselves to them, because they are united to Me by love and knowledge. They do not suffer, they are satisfied, because they are evolving and perfecting themselves to reach Me.

65. Mary, your intercessor, sends her tenderness, her strength and her peace over the world.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 244

1. My love and my charity are among you, O beloved people of Israel!
2. Men and women who bend your necks before the presence of the Father: I bless you. Spirits of God's chosen People in the three times and that today you open your eyes again to contemplate my presence and my light: Blessed are you!
3. Penetrate to the bottom of my word. Christ is communicating through the human understanding, to give you the teaching, but I tell you, when he has delivered his word to you, there has been Jehovah the Father and the Holy Spirit, Do not look, in my Divine Spirit three persons but one Creator Spirit, one Father who has come to you in three different times and phases.
4. Truly I tell you, how much the theologians have confused humanity!, But I give you my light to save you, redeem you and raise you up, telling you with truth, that it will not be your mind that reveals these teachings to the spirit, but the spirit who reveals to the human mind the spiritual and divine knowledge, therefore your Lord tells you: it will not be theologians, but spiritualists, the true disciples of the Holy Spirit, the spirits who learn to communicate and to be in contact with my Divine Spirit, to hear my voice and feel the caress, the strength and lullaby of your Lord.
5. That is why at this moment, I have limited myself to a single ray of light to communicate with you through a single understanding and I speak to you as a Father with my own Word, which was the one who incarnated in the Second Time, with my Holy Spirit who has always been in Me, because I am Myself and from whom all of you have sprung. Recognize the true Divine Trinity, seeking one Spirit, one essence and one warmth.
6. You have entered the time of evolution, of the manifestation and revelation of the Holy Spirit, and each of my revelations will awaken the people and make them meditate. There will be moments of confusion when you will say: "Father, the reason is always in You, the truth is You and I am always a child in your presence".
7. I receive you on this day of commemoration and the tradition that is still with you will be erased in future times and the advent of the Divinity and the Spiritual World will not be commemorated in a single day: I want you to always be in contact with me and with your brothers.
8. In the First Time you gave me a cult of fear and not of love for Me, which sprang only from your material part, because you had not yet discovered in the heart of the Father his infinite and perfect love for his creatures and you only looked in Me to an inexorable, severe and righteous

Love one another!

Father. You possessed my laws and fulfilled them out of fear of my justice and I was waiting for the time when you would recognize me as a beloved and not feared Father. But despite the fact that I gave you great proofs of my love, my warmth and my tenderness, you continued to fear the righteousness of the Lord, you continued to fear the voice of your conscience, through which the Father spoke to you tirelessly. And in that time of preparation and awakening for the spirit, in which you were beginning to take the first steps firmly on the path that would lead your spirit to Mine, I gave you to understand that it was not my will that you penetrate into communication with the spirits of the afterlife, because you were not yet prepared for it and you would not know how to make good use of that grace; Neither the Spiritual World nor you were prepared to have communication with each other, but the intuition of this already existed, as well as the faculty and grace and that is why since that time men were already emerging in the world who sought communication with the spirits.

9. The prohibition was not to be eternal, how could the Father, who loves his children so much, forbid communication between themselves? How was my Divine Spirit to put barriers and distances to the brothers who were looking for each other with eagerness and love? It was not the propitious time and that is why I avoided it; but in my infinite love for man, for your own incarnate spirit, I became a man, prophesying to you, warning you before these teachings, so that my coming would not be a surprise and I could find you watching and praying, on vigil and waiting for my presence.

10. I fulfilled my promise and he embodied my Spirit. I came to be born as a man and to dwell among you; to live, grow and die and at that time when I, your Father, became a man, I gave you manifestations, lessons and teachings full of spirituality. I have given many revelations to your spirit, which filled some with light and by which others were confused.

11. I prepared you with my coming in the Second Time, so that you would raise your gaze and contemplate my Kingdom more closely, so that at that time your spirit would feel that the Kingdom of Heaven was getting closer and closer. And then, I found among humanity great legions of spirits invisible and intangible to you, who were a mystery inaccessible even to your own spirit; that life that vibrated and stirred among you, I revealed it to you, I discovered the mystery of those manifestations and I showed, to the theologian and the scientist that my revelation was superior to their discoveries and words.

12. I healed the sick evicted by science, because their illnesses were supernatural, because they belonged to the spiritual nature. I freed those possessed by the great legions of troubled spirits and those who believed in Me rose up glorifying my name and recognizing my power; those who did not believe in Me judged me and attributed those powers to evil, treating me as a sorcerer. I opened a door of light to humanity, so that you may contemplate that for the spirit there are no distances and at the instant of my death as a man, my Spirit awakened the spirits who dwelt in their tombs, I raised them up like Lazarus from their tombs and sent them among you to testify of his presence and of his existence.

13. Your eyes beheld them and your hearts felt very close to them, because I, in that moment of trial, raised them up, so that they could testify to the glorious life of the spirit, the eternal life of the hereafter, which awaits you all. And it was also my will, that after passing my body through the bowels of the earth, I would return to you in the form of Jesus, to manifest myself before your eyes, for the first, second and many more times to leave eternally open the door that communicates the spiritual valley with this one that you currently inhabit, to give the spirits access to my blessed and promised Kingdom and that they would contemplate that that door of love of the Father, of the Holy Spirit, was forever open to all; that that door, closed for a time only, because your spirits were unable to cross its thresholds, was opened by the charity of the Lord. From that moment the spirit of man awakened for spiritual communication.

14. But it was not yet the time for the full understanding of the spiritual revelations, but the thirst for these divine teachings began to envelop humanity, the men of the different generations of the Second Time, began to search hard for the hereafter, making use of their faculties and gifts, asleep in their own bosom and were finding the path that led them to the spiritual valley.

15. Humans had many stumbles and disappointments, many desecrations were committed in my Work and in my Spiritual World, but the Father forgave everything, contemplating the anxiety of the spirits who populated this Earth to achieve communication with their spiritual brothers. And while part of humanity longed for the discovery of these revelations and communication with the hereafter, another part viewed spiritual communication with suspicion and repulsion.

16. But the Third Era has come among you, the time in which I, your same God, the same Father who came in the First Time as the Law, the same one who became man to pour out his Word among you, have come as the Holy Spirit; not to materialize me as in the First Time, nor to humanize me as in the Second, but to prepare you through the understanding of man, communicating for brief moments, so that later I can do it with you from Spirit to spirit; because even now, speaking as a Holy Spirit, I had to materialize to the extent that it was my will to speak through man himself.

17. In a short moment a new era will open before you, the Time of the Grace of the Holy Spirit, in which you will find me, not through rites, nor religious ceremonies, nor through the understanding, but in your own spirit.

18. The times have passed and with them the trials, the struggle, the evolution for your spirit; and now you rise up in the time of the Holy Spirit as beings capable of understanding me.

Love one another!

19. It is no longer the time of the ban on communication with the afterlife. It is no longer the time when I come to you only to prepare and to promise; it is the time of the fulfillment of my promises, time to tell you that you have not only enslaved your matter on this Earth, but also your spirit you have chained to material needs, being that your true abode is the infinite, it is the Universe, it is the endless spiritual space that I offer; because it does not matter that your spirit is incarnated, from here you can conquer the spaces, you can really dwell in the spiritual world and draw closer to each other as brothers.

20. If my light has erased the borders, I have prepared you first so that you can enter into communication both with my Divine Spirit and with your brothers in the Spiritual Valley, because I do not want you to be the children of ignorance, but as disciples of my Trinitarian Marian Spiritualist Work, you can enter with all purity and elevation into that communication. Only the one who does not know how to prepare, will not be able to stay inside it. He who finds himself stained will also not be able to reach the happy communication of which I am talking to you, because I have already told you that the stained does not reach Me

21. If only curiosity leads you to seek communication with the hereafter, you will not find the truth; if the desire for greatness or vanity leads you, you will not obtain true communication; if temptation clothes your heart with false goals or petty interests, you will not obtain communication with the light of my Holy Spirit either. Only your respect, your clean prayer, your love, your charity, your spiritual elevation will work the miracle that Your spirit will spread its wings, cross the spaces and reach the spiritual mansions as far as my will is.

22. That is the grace and consolation that the Holy Spirit reserved for you, so that you may contemplate only one dwelling place and convince yourselves that death and distance do not exist. That not a single one of my creatures dies for eternal life, because in this Third Time, you will also be able to close in a spiritual embrace with those beings that you have known and that have departed from this earthly life, of those that you have loved and lost in this world, but that you have not lost in eternity.

23. Many of you have communicated with these beings through my labors, but truly I tell you that this is not the perfect communication and that the time is approaching when incarnated and disembodied spirits will be able to communicate with each other from spirit to Spirit, without using any other material or human means; by inspiration, by the gift of spiritual sensitivity, revelation or foreboding. The eyes of your spirit will be able to feel the presence of the beyond, then your heart will feel the passage of the beings that populate the spiritual valley and then the joy of your spirit will be great, as will your knowledge and love for the Father.

24. Then you will know what the life of your spirit is, who it is and who it was, recognizing yourselves without considering yourselves with limits as small as those that correspond to your matters, for the Father tells you: if indeed your matter is small, how similar is your spirit to my Divine Spirit.

25. I speak to you for the present and for the future. I am preparing and awakening you with my word through this revelation. You will raise your plant to do the same with other men, telling them about my Divine Work, not only about the Third Time, because what I have taught and revealed to you in it is not my complete Work. What I taught and revealed to you in the First and Second Times, are also part of it and that is why you will have to know the teachings of the three times, so that you can be the true Trinitarians; because you have been with the Father in the three times, in his three manifestations, in his three revelations.

26. Prepare yourselves in this way, beloved people, so that tomorrow you will not confuse humanity and so that there will not be in the heart, in the mind or in the spirit of men, a single question that will leave you silent; if not that you, with the light of my Spirit, will be able to answer or illuminate everything, so that you will not leave a single spirit in confusion, but that you will give everyone life, the explanation of what man had seen shrouded in mystery, in darkness or uncertainty.

27. I am light, simplicity and truth; it is no longer time for you to see mysteries where everything is clarity; I am revealing my wisdom to the spirit as it rises, as it advances and becomes spiritualized, it understands more and more the revelations that he ignored and along this path your spirit will eternally enjoy the ever new lessons that my Divine Spirit shows you.

28. You already have the certainty at this time, that you have come to dwell on Earth many times, because you believe in the reincarnation of the spirit, but this revelation, as I have given it to you, will shake the world, it will make revolution among men and with it they will reach the explanation of many mysteries and the strength for their spirit, because it is the law of love and in it is my light.

29. You do not yet know, O beloved people, how many times you have been in this world through different matters and even when the flesh searches itself and asks its own spirit, you do not manage to contemplate your past, your previous lives, because I, as Father, have forbidden this knowledge, I have prevented your spirit through human life from discovering its previous lives, this being still a prohibition of the Holy Spirit that exists among you. But you are preparing the coming generations, those who are to come possessing spirits of great spiritual elevation and who are still inhabiting the hereafter, where they are acrisolating and rising to come to this planet; to them it will be given by the Holy Spirit, the faculty of remembering their previous lives, knowing their past, because this will be useful to their own spirit. If I have not granted it to you, it is because I still find fragility in your spirit and even more so in matter and I understand that you would cower, contemplating your past. The one who greatly lacked and offended his Father, would not have the strength to resist repentance and the claim of his conscience; and the one who was great would be filled with vanity, the one who was small would feel humiliated and in his heart the desire for revenge would be born; that is why your Father, who is perfect wisdom, has not wanted to reveal to you yet through your matter, the past of your spirit.

30. That grace is reserved for the generations of the future, to whom the knowledge of their past will not make a dent and you will be for them like an open book before their eyes. It will be these spirits who will reveal many mysteries, who will come to clarify the life of the spirit through their own material lives, who will speak to this world of other worlds and of that very long path that is the spiritual path.

31. Prepare yourselves, people, so that you may inherit this preparation to those who will sprout from you, so that this grace may exist in your descendants; so that the matters that you will beget and conceive, may be docile instruments to the spirits of the generations to come, because I find myself preparing through yourselves, a new world for this humanity. You are the wheat that I am cultivating at this time and watering with the crystalline waters of my teachings.

32. The incarnate spirits and those who dwell in the Spiritual Valley pay homage to me at this moment. All Creation gives me its tribute of love.

33. He who did not prepare himself on this day to receive me, carries sadness in his heart. But that door that was closed for Me, I will open it with the key of my love, because I am the pilgrim who visits everyone, to leave as a mark of my passage my perfect teaching.

34. My voice comes to awaken the sleeper and to strengthen the one who is tired to make him understand that the time he has is short and it is necessary to take advantage of it.

35. My word has been for everyone, the same for the cult as for the rude. I have spoken to all of you in a single, humble and simple way, because before the spiritual chair of the Divine Teacher, you are all infants. But within that humble word, how much life, how much truth and how many revelations have you found, not having yet come to fully understand and analyze it!

36. Great is the responsibility of those who have listened to me at this time, because they must be like a seed of regeneration in this world and an incentive for men to convert. My new apostles and farmers, will bring the resurrection to those who have died to the life of grace although they continue to live materially. They will hear the voice of my messengers, similar to that "Get up and go!" that Lazarus heard.

37. Some have prepared themselves by developing their gifts and practicing my divine lessons and full of zeal and hope they are preparing for the fight. Others, on the contrary, are downcast, because they have not taken advantage of the time, have not fought yet. I speak to everyone and enlighten, so that each one takes what corresponds to him.

Love one another!

38. I do not want to see some satisfied by the good fulfillment, presenting the golden wheat in abundance, while others hide their empty hands in sorrow, because my joy cannot be absolute. But I do not want to rob with this the joy of the one who has fulfilled his mission, because to show me his harvest he has had to work, wake up and often cry, but it is also up to them to revive and stimulate the shy, the cold, those who have been fatigued, so that there will be a celebration throughout the village when the Master comes to ask you to account for the result of your work.

39. With love I am forging your heart, so that works of charity and fraternity may flow from it.

40. Always keep walking forward and do not think like those who have been satisfied with what they have done, believing that they have already conquered the Promised Land.

41. You are on the path of the spirits, traced by God from eternity. It is not a terrestrial path visible to human eyes, because if it were, the lands of Canaan would still be the goal and I brought the spirits out from there to disperse them throughout the World, like you who, having dwelt in times past in the East, have now emerged in the West without having left the spiritual path.

42. For some the symbol represented in material form is still indispensable, others carry in their minds the figures representing the spiritual forces. When you come to true spirituality, you will have no need of visible or invisible images or figures, to believe in the presence of the divine or to understand its meaning.

43. You are forerunners because new generations of you will sprout up and new spiritual legions will incarnate in them.

44. You are preparing the way for them so that their worship, their practices and communication with me will be more advanced.

45. Walk with a firm step and you will climb step by step. Strip your cult of errors and materialism and you will give greater elevation and freedom to your spirit every day.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 245

1. My Spirit is rejoicing because you come in search of me. Why do you remember more on this day the beings who have passed to the afterlife, if for the spirit there are no days or dates? Do not be confused with the dead who watch over their dead. You are not dead, nor are those who belonged to you in this life, such as your parents, children, brothers, relatives or friends, and why not also those who have caused you harm, if they have been purified?
2. You are eager for light and my Work really satisfies that need of your spirit that, as it becomes enlightened, moves further away from apparent death.
3. Your heart is saddened when you see your brothers and sisters crying without hope and without consolation for their dead; pray for them and work so that you may learn to raise the dead of this and the next world.
4. When humanity has understood the reality of these lessons, it will stop crying over the grave that keeps some spoils, to turn its crying into respect for the places destined for the rest of the body and in prayer for the spirits that inhabit the Spiritual Valley, prayer that will be hug, greeting, greeting and caress.
5. You are already in the Third Age and humanity is still spiritually behind. His ministers, his theologians and spiritual pastors reveal very little and sometimes nothing to him about eternal life. To them I also reveal the mysteries of my arcanum and I tell you: why do they keep them quiet? Why are they afraid to awaken the lethargic spirit of men?
6. You who are listening to me, know how to carve out the evolution and advancement for the future of Your spirit here, but how many ignore or forget these truths and death surprises them unprepared.
7. I want pure thoughts to be the language with which you communicate with your brothers who dwell in the spiritual; that in this way you will understand each other and in truth your merits and your good works will be profitable to them, as well as the influence of those my children, their inspirations and their protection towards you, will be a powerful help in your journey so that you arrive, united to Me.
8. Spiritualize yourselves and you will experience in your life the pleasant presence of these beings: The lullaby of the mother who left the son on Earth, the warmth and advice of the father who also had to leave.
9. After giving you this lesson, you will understand the judgment of those who take their own lives, of those who put their brother to death and of those who foment homicidal wars. Watch and pray for all of them, from Cain to the last murderer, that their judgment may be tempered.

Love one another!

10. Like black clouds that foreshadow a storm, so do legions of troubled beings hover over you. Pray that you will not fall victim to his influences. Pray that those darkness will become light.

11. Do not get tired of this life, do not deny in your sorrows because you do not know what debts of past existences you are paying off.

12. Live in harmony and peace in the bosom of your home and your society, so that many of your brothers and sisters can follow your example, who will be led to you by beings of light.

13. Be of good cheer in this Third Season, for my word has come full of splendor to you.

14. It is a moment of peace for every spirit. The worlds are illuminated as the Father pours His light on them. They are moments of glory for all beings who are prepared to receive that divine gift, that grace has reached your world and in it I have contemplated the dead burying their dead, paying worship and adoration to the goods of the Earth and making material offerings to God through vain ceremonies.

15. The light of my Holy Spirit is poured out on all people at this time and through it they will be able to understand what is the pleasing offering to the Lord. The spirit will know how to prepare itself as an offering that will reach the presence of the Creator when it detaches itself from its body, from that matter that, when it descends to earth, disintegrates and loses its form and will be only a small bundle of atoms. Where there is the end of a human being, there is the beginning of a life that men have not been able to understand.

16. Men are conservative in their traditions and customs; it is well that they keep an indelible memory of the beings who have gone down to the grave and are attracted by the place where they deposited their remains; but if they delve into the real meaning of material life, they would see that when that body disintegrates, it returns from atom to atom to the different kingdoms of which it is formed and life continues to unfold.

17. But man through the ages, due to his lack of study of the spiritual, has created a chain of fanatical cults to the matter. He tries to make material life imperishable and forgets the spirit who is the one who truly possesses eternal life. How far are they still from understanding the spiritual life!

18. Now you know that there is no point in taking offerings to those places, where a tombstone that says "death" should say "disintegration and life"; because there is Nature in full bloom, there is the earth that is a fertile and inexhaustible bosom of creatures and species.

19. When these lessons are understood, humanity will know how to give the material its place and the divine its place. Then the idolatrous cult of ancestors will disappear.

Love one another!

20. Man must recognize and love his Creator, from spirit to Spirit.

21. The altars are black ridges and the tombs are a proof of ignorance and idolatry. I forgive all your faults, but in truth I must wake you up. My teaching will be understood and the time will come when men will exchange material offerings for high thoughts.

22. Disciples: When you have gone through the ordeal of losing a loved one, a prayer like this begins to flow out of you: "Lord, I know that the one who left this world is with you, that he only advanced his journey to ours and that the moment will come when you grant us to be all united in the same dwelling. There are no tears in our eyes, because we know that they are not the dead, but we who are in this world are, that in the spiritual valley there is true equality and fraternity, because while those who have already reached the light in fullness, advance along the path of progress and others who only have a weak spark that illuminates their path, are helped by the former, there is perfect harmony, help, charity among them."

23. So why concretize your memories of those who left, to their material existence? Remember them with spirituality so that you will not disturb them and once they have divested themselves of all human tendencies, they will invisibly return to you; it will be granted to them to come to your heart, although you will not know in what way. In the spiritual life there is only one aspiration, one desire: that of approaching divine perfection. I said to you at that time, "Man will not enter the Kingdom of Heaven unless he resembles Me."

24. Whoever does not understand my teaching is because he has not cared to study it, because it is light for all. The time will come when all mankind will rise up saying, "I believe in You, in the resurrection to eternal life."

25. Disciples: This atmosphere of peace that you have had and that you have contemplated like a clear sky, is indeed the bosom of the second Jerusalem, in whose firmament the star will shine that will lead men who come in search of peace and truth.

26. My spirit delights to speak to you and so great is my joy in heaven when a repentant sinner comes to them, as when a righteous man arrives, because this one was always safe, but that one was lost and was found.

27. Not because you are listening to my word do you think you are safe, saying, "We were lost, but we have been found and we have Heaven secure." No, you must understand that I have only come to put you on the path that leads to my Kingdom and that you will have to strive to never deviate from that path and to advance one step each day until you reach the door, behind which there is the eternal mansion, cradle and true homeland of the spirit, where you will all have to arrive, never to err again and thus enjoy the fruit gathered in the struggle, as well as the reward promised by the Father to all who know how to persevere in faith and love.

Love one another!

28. You feel chained to the flesh, to the world and to pain, but before you become discouraged by them, thinking that they are obstacles to your elevation, I want you to understand that these obstacles are actually the means for you to test your faith, love and perseverance in the good.

29. I am your Savior, your Liberator, but understand that if I give you my love to rescue you, you must also give yours to me: I will have done my part and you yours, giving you the opportunity to do merits to reach Me, aware of your works and knowing to whom you are coming and why.

30. What merit would it have for you if I, out of compassion alone, took you away from the world and from pain and took you to the heavenly regions? Truly I tell you, you would not feel worthy to live in them, nor would you know how to appreciate that life; in a word, you would not even know where you lived. That is why I tell you that it is my will that when you get there, it will be on your merits, because then you will be worthy of everything that surrounds you and of everything that you possess.

31. You know that in each of your steps, in your trials or difficulties, in your desires, deeds and thoughts I am present, giving you my love, speaking to you, strengthening your will and encouraging your faith, because without my help, who could approach perfection?

32. Wake up! Get up! Come into the light and take up the fight! Do you feel like prisoners? Break the prison of your materialism. Are you overwhelmed by pain and misery? Learn to overcome human miseries. Do you feel small with others? The great being is in you, developing the spirit through good. I have not created spirits destined to always be small or to always live in darkness. If there are great spirits in the high mansions, it is because they have ascended by the way of love; but in their beginning they were also small.

33. See why my Spirit rejoices when it converses with those who are little, with those who dwell in darkness or live chained to pain and misery, because I know that with my love your spirit awakens to the light, is flooded with hope and faith and embraces the ideal of elevation.

34. I want you all happy, at peace and dwelling in the light, so that you may come to possess everything not only for my love, but also for your merits because then your satisfaction and bliss will be perfect.

35. To help you in your elevation, my divine ray descends among you to be translated into words of teaching. And I tell you as in the Second Time: "I am the way, the truth and the life" and thus I have manifested myself on your path, getting you out of the dross to put you on the path of truth, morality and perfect spirituality. I have broken your chains so that you can follow me.

Love one another!

36. Jesus, the Nazarene, was among men in the Second Time to leave you a living example of how the Father should be loved and served, and how humanity should be loved. I speak to you in this way so that you may not harbor the belief that I have come only to heal you of your sorrows, but also to teach you to do charity to your fellow men. I remind you of the passages of my life and my passion as a man, so that you may understand that the path that I am pointing out to you now is the same one that Jesus traced for you. It is the way of always, the only one, the eternal one.

37. It seems to many of you a falsehood or an impossibility that I am communicating through the human understanding. And to these doubts I answer that in all times and since the beginning of humanity I have communicated through men, through whom I have given to the world my orders, my inspirations and my revelations. What is happening now is that humanity is materialized, chained to the world and matter and imprisoned by its religious fanaticism.

38. I am speaking for everyone because I do not distinguish you, since in the beginning I only sent equal spirits to inhabit the crust of the Earth.

39. I am the only one who knows everyone's destiny, the only one who knows the path you have traveled and the one you have to travel. I am the one who understands your sufferings and your joys. I know what you have walked to find truth and justice. My charity is the one that perceives the anguished voice of the one who inwardly asks me for forgiveness for his faults.

40. And as a Father I come to answer every request, to collect your tears, to cure your ailments, to make you feel forgiven and absolved of your stains so that you can rebuild your life.

41. I am also the only one who can forgive you the offenses done to Me by you who are my children

42. You are the seed that I am preparing; if in times past you have gone so far as to ignore me, I have forgiven you and I have now seated you at my table, to become my disciples.

43. I see your spirit tired, with the fatigue that he has picked up in the world and that is why he has sought the path that will lead him to true rest. The deep imprint of pain that the sufferings have left on you, will be erased as you walk along this path occupying your spirit in the practice of love for your fellow men. In this struggle he never gets tired. If this people arrives in their present existence at the end of their mission on Earth, they will no longer return to it, because their abode will forever be the spiritual universe.

44. You are not of this world, but you have come to it to learn profound lessons, to make merits, to atone for faults, to take steps forward on the path of spiritual perfection, to sow good by bearing witness to Me.

Love one another!

45. Those who have listened to me in this time should have a greater understanding of their works and their responsibility. Those who have not listened to me, may be considered innocent. The first ones will have to answer for everything they learned, practiced and stopped doing.

46. If you search yourselves, you will find that nothing is needed for you to be able to serve me and to reach the top of the mountain. Whether you serve me or not, you will always continue to possess the mission and the gifts, but why do you want gifts and power, if you will not have to put them into practice? Do not go to imitate the rich miser whose wealth may be very large, but who is useless.

47. When the spirit arrives on Earth, he is animated by the best intentions of consecrating his existence to the Father, to please him in everything, to be useful to his fellow men; but once he is imprisoned in matter, tempted and tested in a thousand ways in his journey, he weakens, gives in to the impulses of the flesh, gives in to temptations, becomes selfish, and ends up loving himself above all things and only for a moment gives ear to the conscience where destiny and promises are written.

48. My word helps you to remember your spiritual covenant and to overcome temptations and obstacles. No one will be able to say that he has never left the path traced by Me; but I forgive you so that you may learn to forgive your brothers.

49. Who are the ones who love me? Truly I tell you, only I know. There are those who love me and don't know it and there are those who think they love me and even flaunt it and don't love me.

50. You will not be left alone after my departure, the beings who love me I will leave among you, because in their heart there will be no evil seed or vanity. In them there will be love, charity and humility.

51. Not because some love me more, they enjoy greater gifts for it, no. I am giving everyone the opportunity to awaken to true life to be the instruments of my high designs.

52. I made the call to many at this time and not everyone came. The rumor of my presence among men reached many places and many hearts and I can tell you that humanity has been deaf to this call. But when the great trials will accumulate and the forces of Nature will utter their voices of justice, humanity will awaken from its long sleep, recognizing that in truth, I was among you.

53. I did not come to save only a certain people or nation, I came for the whole of humanity, to teach everyone the prayer that communicates them with the Creator in a true spiritual communion.

Love one another!

54. There are those who, when they hear me speak, ask me: Lord, in the future should we no longer sing songs to your Divinity? To which I answer: Children, the birds glorify my name with their trills since dawn rises. If you need it to raise your spirit, do it, if not, there is another hymn that is born of the spirit and whose notes do not resonate in your ears although its echo vibrates in infinity: prayer.

55. No one brags about spirituality. Who can say that he is already more spirit than flesh and that he can walk on the waters without sinking? It will not be your matter that rises, it will only be the one that, in its recollection, helps the spirit to cross the distances.

56. My divine Spirit who dwells in your heart tells you:

57. Beloved people, if there were a righteous man on earth, the world would be saved by that righteous man. That is why my Universal Ray descends to illuminate the path traced by the Father to men from the earliest times, that path of morality, virtue and spirituality that has raised you up, when by weakness you have fallen from fennel before false deities.

58. From the First time I have communicated with humanity through men chosen by my charity, they were the prophets, the inspired, the righteous, the patriarchs, those who made known to you my commands and my will. See how all of them led you from the beginning along the path of spirituality, taught you to pray before the invisible Father and to prepare your heart as a sanctuary so that you would have the presence of the Lord, the same in the corner of your bedchamber as on a mountain, on a road or on the banks of a river.

59. For a moment you had lost yourselves in the ways of materialism, turning away from the Father, mistaking true worship, replacing it with fanaticism and idolatry and in the end many fell into disbelief.

60. But you felt the footsteps of the Lord closely at this time; you heard like the distant echo of a bell and you had to attend to the mysterious call that was made to you. What did your bodily eyes look at? Some humble enclosures where my new disciples congregate and some insignificant creatures through which a sweet word, full of tenderness, wisdom and persuasion flowed like an inexhaustible spring. Since then, for many, this word has been the bread of life, the water that quenches their thirst and the balm that relieves their pain.

61. Before the wonder of my presence again among men, the deaf has heard, the blind has seen, the hardened heart has become sensitized, the spirit dead to the life of grace has risen.

62. And men and women have become busy labourers, studious disciples who will later speak of the truth. They will not deny me again, they will not ignore me anymore, nor will they doubt my power again.

Love one another!

63. They will be on the path of the lost as a shining beacon. And so at this time the spirits will find the path of truth to get one step closer to their Creator.

64. While you have a breath of life, look for those who have gone astray, raise up your brothers fallen in the struggle; heal the spirit, the heart or the flesh of the sick. Do charity, thus bearing witness to Me it does not matter that those, who received a benefit, do not convert to my Work. The seed you sowed will never die, it will germinate tomorrow or in eternity.

65. Recognize the strength of your gifts that no wise or powerful man could have given you, so that you may truly become the light and the good taste of the world.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 246

1. Beloved disciples, you have been called to carry out a spiritual mission in this time. In order for your spirit to be worthy of attaining these positions, it had to go through great trials and rush very bitter chalices, but that crucible gave you mettle, evolution and experience.
2. You are the same ones whom I have sought in other times to teach you, but this portion that you form is only a small part of the people of God who are scattered in the Universe, and whom I love equally as you.
3. You all have the same origin, you all possess the gifts of the Holy Spirit and you will reach the same end, but I have named you my people because you are like elder brothers among humanity, who have the mission of bringing the seed of love to every spirit. From Me you sprouted as virgin seed and you will have to return to me as seed multiplied in infinite number but it will have to be clean like the original one.
4. Thus the spirits will come to my bosom; great by the development of their gifts and clean by the purity of their works.
5. I have entrusted to you a part of my Work, because if the Father did everything, He would not give you an opportunity to perfect yourselves.
6. Throughout the ages I have given you a Doctrine that I have been expanding so that it, as a law, governs your human life, and affirms your spirit on the path that leads to eternal light.
7. From my Law, which is like a tree, men have cut branches that are the sects and religions, which because they have been detached from the tree have lost the sap, its shade has been scarce and among its foliage there are no love nests or fruits of good taste.
8. I have not revealed my Doctrine to you just so that you may live well on Earth; it is the path that leads the spirit to the highest part, to the highest regions of love, wisdom and harmony with all beings.
9. Religions have not fulfilled the mission of leading spirits to the thresholds of eternity; when they detach themselves from this world, they get lost at the crossroads of death, ignore the way, stumble for lack of light and fall into materialism, looking for the life they left.
10. That is not the path that I have traced; my path is one of light, of revelation, of profound wisdom for all, of charity and love. Not to deviate from him requires sacrifice, renunciation and perseverance in the fulfillment of my Law.

Love one another!

11. And my Spirit, who loves you, has appeared on the path of each of my children, to awaken them to the light of truth and put them on the way to find the Tree of Life that provides pleasant shade and offers good fruits because its sap is perfect.
12. This gives you to understand that times will come when you will have no more shepherd, no more gluttony than your own conscience, in which my light shines.
13. In this world there are no sources of true spiritual knowledge, the source of grace and wisdom you will find in Me through your humility, in your spiritual communication with the Father
14. These humble and small enclosures where you penetrate to have and enjoy my manifestation, protect you from the inclemency of the weather and from prying eyes, but they can never be the temple of my Divinity, because I prefer to look for it in the Universe that I have created, where every being is an offering, where every life is a sanctuary and every heart a lamp,
15. Wherever you go and look, you will feel my presence, because my Spirit dwells eternally in his temple, where the divine, the spiritual and the material are linked in perfect harmony to form the Sanctuary of God.
16. But not only do I inhabit this temple, but all my creatures are inside it, each occupying the dwelling that corresponds to him.
17. Truly I tell you, there is no teacher on earth who can teach you a shorter way and take you further than this, nor who can show you such a wide horizon whose light will make you contemplate eternity.
18. Man has developed his science greatly, but he feels that he is reaching a limit, but it is not that science can have limits, it is that I have interposed in the career of him, to make him meditate on his work, to make him hear the voice of his conscience and wait for his rectification; when man applies his science to the good of his brothers, Nature will overflow on him its secrets and as a servant will remain at his feet, because I sent man to Earth so that she ruled and was his lord.
19. Purification is universal, because from the little one who is being born to the one who has reached old age, a cup of bitterness pours. All elements and forces are engaged in a battle.
20. Legions of spirits of all kinds fight each other and an atmosphere of war, pain and sadness, is breathed everywhere. Be strong, because when this battle passes and the bitter dregs have been drunk, the empty chalice will be filled with the wine of life and there will be in all the spirits of the Earth as a rebirth.

21. Among those who have learned my lesson by listening to me during this time, there will be those who will not leave their region to carry out their mission, but others will have to rise up after other peoples and other nations. Today I want you to remain listening to my last lectures, so that you may carry to the last of my words as an inheritance.

22. Woe to the spokesmen who close their lips before their time! Woe to those who withhold my revelations for lack of preparation or inspiration, because later their conscience will implacably claim them!

23. In 1950 I will stop communicating in this way, but your mission will not be over, on the contrary, it will be the beginning of a life of struggle. I will show you a new way of communication, I will speak to your heart, I will communicate with your spirit, I will inspire your mind and in this way you will continue to hear the voice of the Divine Master more and more perfect, more elevated, more spiritual.

24. After lifting up my word from among you, let no one try to attract my ray to listen to my Word again, because he does not know what he is exposing himself to. If in other peoples or countries where they do not know these teachings, they would come to communicate with the spiritual world and invoke my Divine Spirit. To hear it through human understanding. I will forgive those who do not know what they are doing, but I say to you: hurry up so that my light comes before chaos, because a time of confusion is coming in which the wise will think they know nothing, in which many convictions will be destroyed and many lamps extinguished. And in the midst of that whirlwind, my name will go from mouth to mouth. Humanity will turn its eyes to the scriptures in search of prophecies in search of faith. Theologians, ministers and men of will be questioned. And that time which I announce to you and for which I am preparing you is the same one for which you must prepare the new generations, those who will continue your mission, so that my people may not die in you, but may grow and multiply in number, in spirituality, in knowledge and in virtue.

25. The day is coming when I will leave you as teachers, as an example and as a book, because when my Doctrine resonates among humanity, my gaze will search you.

26. The times passed when you listened to me without feeling any responsibility, when you ate the fruit and bread at my table without contracting debts and drank the wine you wanted until you spilled it and you were happy finding the balm for your illnesses.

27. Now you come with the awakened spirit, now you feel your responsibility. You care for humanity, you suffer for your sick and you fight for my cause. And aware that you are witnessing my last communications, you hasten to hear me and to keep in your consciousness my inspirations. You are doing well to prepare yourselves to receive the judgment on the last day of this communication.

28. The world will see Israel emerge from its ashes, but not the metallic and carnal Jew, but Israel by the spirit, who making an act of presence among men, will testify to the reincarnation of the spirit, law of love and justice that will move foundations, criteria and beliefs. At first you will provoke struggles and cause wars of ideas, but then you will make your peace feel, that even in the moments of greatest agitation it will make you remain serene and immutable and the confusion will pass because spiritual turmoil is never eternal, since at the bottom of each being there is a spark of light that never goes out.

29. Then you will be called to explain what I have taught you and to give light to destroy the confusion of your brothers, and when the world has penetrated in peace, my Kingdom will be close to men, because my charity will be ready to untie the Seventh Seal.

30. Without proclaiming that you are my apostle, you will be. Even if you are teachers, you will say that you are disciples. You shall not wear a garment that distinguishes you from others, you shall not carry a book in your hands, you shall not build enclosures, nor shall you have on Earth the center or foundation of my Work, nor shall you have before you any man who represents me.

31. The guides you have had so far, are the last. Prayer, spirituality and the practice of my Doctrine will guide the multitudes along the path of light.

32. It is solemn the moment in which the essence of my word reaches your heart, leaving a trace of light, it is the same one that I traced to you in another time with the blood of love.

33. The spirit, in his eagerness to redeem himself, seeks the way in this time and in it he finds Me, Me who am the forgiveness that washes and the love that elevates. Truly I tell you that this love is the force that unites everything created by Me, it is the divine breath that gives life and strength to all beings. In the course of your evolution, you have been transforming yourself towards perfection, both spiritual and corporal, although I tell you that the essential of your being is the spirit, since matter is only an envelope in which the spirit develops.

34. If through the ages you got lost, following the inclinations of the flesh, now understand that you have already found the way, that you have penetrated into the recollection, in which. The Father is manifesting Himself to the world, so that it may attain salvation. You, in the desire to save yourselves, have sometimes come to sacrifice, because you understand that sooner or later, but inexorably, you will have to penetrate into the spiritual life.

35. Do not fail to recognize that this life, sown with beauties and wonders, is great; you cannot deny that man has also put his work into it, that he has given advance to your way of living; however, the time has come when you turn your eyes to Me, to tell Me that I am the Creator and owner of everything that surrounds you and that I am the light that reveals science to men.

Love one another!

Not everyone has reached this degree of elevation, because not everyone has understood the times in which they live, nor have they any notion of the life they have previously had.

36. How can those who, wrapped up in religious fanaticism, take away all freedom from the spirit and deprive it of all natural expression, sense the grace of this time? Every spirit keeps great gifts in himself, since he has been before the world, but if he finds himself chained and deprived of expressing what he encloses, he will have to live misunderstood and confused; he will have to live on presentiments of the spiritual and reminiscences of his own past, hiding and keeping quiet everything, because of the fear that fanatical beliefs have instilled in him about the spiritual. So you will not be able to feel my presence if you are surprised even by the word spirit. How can he have faith in the resurrection of the spirit, which is reincarnation? How will he be able to believe in these manifestations that now exist?

37. The last moments are approaching in which I will speak to you like this and humanity has not given proof of feeling my presence.

38. How few are those who have known about my communication in this time! How few who, in addition to giving credence to my communication through the human understanding, have the certainty that the Divinity to manifest itself, can do so in an infinite number of ways! But if you, whom I am preparing to be my witnesses, do not bear witness to my manifestation at this time, Nature and its elements will speak, and the new generations will know my Work even if they have not heard my word.

39. Weigh your responsibility and see that it is still time to take advantage of my teachings, which you know contain a deep spiritual sense, which mark a path of development for your perfection. Keep in your heart the impression that my essence leaves you and forget that it was manifested through a man, whose lips only expressed my inspiration.

40. You will not teach unless you have practiced it before, because no one will believe you. Men will ask you for proofs, which I have taught you to give. Of what hitherto you can and ought to know of the spirit, I have spoken to you; you will add nothing to what has been revealed by Me. You will continue fighting to be strong in spirit and matter, because if until now there are diseases among you, it is because you have not known how to rise above the misery and pain of this life, due to the lack of spirituality and faith.

41. My Doctrine teaches not only to have faith in the power of God, but to have faith in yourselves. Whoever is a true spiritualist will be able at any hour to receive in his understanding the pure idea of his Lord, because both in his spirit and in his body there will be dignity. Finally, I say to you on this day: watch and pray, and may the power of your thought, raised in prayer to the Heavenly Father, descend and spread like balm over the sufferings of this humanity.

Love one another!

42. Beloved children, behold my divine presence with you, not made man as in the Second Time, but spiritually.
43. I speak to the whole that listens to me, but if you penetrate into my word you will feel that the Master speaks to every heart.
44. Do not become familiar with my word, see that it is modeling your spirit so that it affirms its plant on the path.
45. Elijah is the invisible Shepherd who leads the sheep to the safe fold, as Moses led you in the First Time to the Land of Promise.
46. When will this lost humanity follow in the footsteps of its Shepherd? I will enlighten her to find the way.
47. The path of which I speak is that of regeneration, that of spirituality, that of the practice of charity. May everyone who hears the anguished voice of the sick, the request of the tired and comfortless, open his heart and feel it throb with love and pity.
48. It is my desire that you let your spirit manifest in its true essence, so that you may be recognized as apostles of my Work.
49. I am preparing myself for the new generations who will take a step further along the way. You prepare the path for them.
50. It fell to you to listen to my divine teaching at this time, for so it was written. The clock marked the time when each one had to get to recreate under the shade of the corpulent tree where the Father dwells waiting for the return of the prodigal son for whom he always has a look of forgiveness, a welcome hug and a smile of love,
51. The light of my divine Spirit reaches the bottom of the heart through your brain. And I put my word on your lips so that you may fulfill the mission that I have entrusted to you.
52. This word is not the work of human fantasy. It is the elevation that the spirit has reached, which has brought him closer to Me in this way; because you are understanding my Law, and as you develop within it you are reaching greater evolution.
53. Whoever does not understand me, even having listened to me, it is because he mixes his theories and ideologies of the Earth with my teachings, it is because he confuses spiritualism with dogmatic creeds and religious customs, imposed on them by their ancestors.
54. My Doctrine does not impose any dogma on you; your spiritual capacity is the only one that will give you the knowledge of my teaching. You should only follow that development without stopping, until your spirit has reached its perfection.

Love one another!

55. My desire, expressed in my Law and in my Doctrine, is that men fraternize, that they love one another, that there be peace in the world, that each man represent me on Earth by virtue and examples.

56. I have surprised the confused humanity in this Third Time and I have sent this divine inspiration to him so that he may be saved.

57. But I have had to fight their customs and ancient ways of worshipping me, because I have judged them inappropriate already of this time, and my struggle has been great with the conservatives of this heritage that is not mine.

58. The doctrine that I have brought to you and that I have named Spiritualist is the eternal one, the one that I have always taught you, but truly I tell you, whoever has never felt it, will not be able to say that he has understood it.

59. You must be at ease, because my coming marks in you a step on the path of spiritual progress.

60. Since you are still small and weak, you are not able to contemplate all the greatness that my revelation contains. But you will develop under my teachings and you will become a good example to those who expect you to mark with your life the spiritual path that humanity has lost. Do not despair or disappoint them if you come to them only with words and no example, because they will not recognize you as my disciples, you must bear witness to my teaching with your works.

61. How far men are from understanding the spiritual peace that will reign in the world! They try to impose it by force and threats, it is the fruit of his science, of which he boasts.

62. It is not that I come to ignore, or I am against the advances of humanity, because they are also a proof of their spiritual evolution; but I do tell you that it is not pleasant to Me, their boast of strength and earthly power, because with it, instead of making the cross of humanity light, they outrage the most sacred principles, they attack the lives that do not belong to them and sow pain, tears, mourning and blood, instead of peace, health and well-being. Why if the source from which he takes his science, which is my own Creation, which is inexhaustible in love, wisdom, health and life, his works manifest the opposite?

63. I want equality between my children, as I preached from the Second Time, but not as men conceive it only material. I inspire you equality through love, making you understand that you are all brothers and sisters, children of God.

64. Do not be afraid to bring these revelations to humanity; you will not be led to martyrdom, because those times have already passed, although you will be motive and investigations.

Love one another!

65. Thus I prepare you through the understanding of man. My word has the same essence in all the spokespersons and if you judge that it is different in everything, it is because you stop at the form and do not see the meaning.

66. I want to receive your works for the benefit of your brothers, I want to contemplate in you the practice of my teachings. How many wonders that surprise men you can do!

67. Fulfill, and through your merits, possess the Promised Land, that promise that will be in you eternal reality.

68. The son comes to his Father in search of warmth, he comes to make him his confidant to deposit in him, worries, bitterness, and concerns. And indeed I am pleased to listen to the inmost beat of your heart. This is what I approach among you, to give you the light of my teachings so that you may rise up. If I do not come to pour out the riches of the earth into your hands, nor do I want you to live in misery, then you will be able to show a clean example to future generations, when they know that you followed me and regenerated yourselves without pursuing petty interests or fanatically turning away from your material duties.

69. Build on solid ground, so that what I have raised up of spirituality and regeneration in you, unbelievers will not come to destroy it. But do not go to hide yourselves for fear of the world; this truth you will have to show to the world in the light of day; at this time you will not seek catacombs to pray and be able to love me. You will not weaken by speaking or by testifying about ME, in any way, because men will deny that I communicated with you, they will doubt that the multitudes of the sick and needy healed and found comfort in their sorrows, they will deny the wonders that I did to ignite your faith.

70. I will leave you the book of my teachings so that you can tell the world, this is what the Master bequeathed. And verily, how many, when they hear the reading of my word, will believe and how many sinners will be regenerated! Remember all these teachings so that you will not be surprised by the trials in your life.

71. You will continue to impart the balm throughout your journey, your word will be sweet advice for children, young people and the elderly, and just as you have been sought now, tomorrow you will continue to be requested. You will be called by the dying one who seeks your help, and your words will be like a path or a beacon in the supreme hour of the spirits.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 247

1. You are welcome, O people, who come to Me in increasing numbers every day. Here is the Master of all times who comes to deliver the lesson of love to those who wait for him with good will.
2. I receive you all as I did in the Second Half and I speak to you with the same essence, because I am the same Teacher. Among you are many of those who heard my word, of those who witnessed my passage through the Earth and who looked with indifference at my Works; but among them, many fell to me with respect, drank with anxiety my words, and were ecstatic with the light of my lessons, which offered them a paradise and an unknown world of eternal joys for the spirit. This is how the hungry and thirsty for love received me. The sick, the sad and the oppressed. How many sought Me and came to Me after long journeys, because they knew that healing was going to be done in them, that I could heal them, because I am the life and resurrection for the spirit!
3. Also in this time I have found hearts full of faith, which have come in haste and have known how to receive my divine word in their spirit and have healed.
4. There is much that I have to teach you so that you become my disciples and when you are ready, I will send you to humanity, I will open the ways for you to sow my seed and harmonize with all those who love me and seek me spiritually; but those who have not yet begun their steps on the path of spirituality, take them by the hand until you can find yourselves all unified marching along the same path.
5. Always go forward, my children, seek wisdom so that you may find the essence of life. Love and you will be able to penetrate my arcanum, there will be no secrets, everything will be revealed to you when you climb the peak of true love.
6. The children of today will be the apostles tomorrow, and you can become them from now on. Do not want, out of vanity, to leave the memory of your name in the brotherhood. Imitate the good apostles, surpass them if you want, but do it only for the love of humanity. Seek the good, work for peace, always point the way to perfection.
7. I inspire you in your meditations, so that you may go in my name to comfort the sick and to teach your brothers to return to Me, seeking harmony, health and peace. Give that beloved humanity the secret of health, tell it that it is necessary for it to return to simplicity, purity, prayer and pious practices and in this it will find everything it can desire. I will accompany you in the hour of your fulfillment, I encourage you to continue along that path in which you must all recognize each other, draw closer and form one family. Whenever you extend your hand to give charity, my effluvium will descend and you will perceive that the atmosphere will be saturated with exquisite perfume that will emanate from your good works.

8. Blessed are all those who are opening the way for humanity, who are preparing its future. Mark this time of grace in which you live, with works that will be impressed on the conscience of your brothers. These will be your precursor steps, the best call you can make to them and the inheritance that will endure. .

9. Avoid them pain, prevent and teach with examples, so that humanity is soon channeled, I do not want to see her cry or continue stumbling is my beloved daughter whom I have come to rescue.

10. Walkers: you are under the shade of the stout tree and delighting in its fruit. Right here there is a source of pure, crystalline waters where you can quench your thirst. Because everything you need here you can find it.

11. You have left behind the mobs of men and women seeking the tree and the fountain.

12. I have seen you strong, when hunger, fatigue and thirst have disappeared from you, I have said to you: turn your eyes to those who are perishing from need.

13. The star that leads you and is your guide has shone on everyone, but not everyone has been able to contemplate it, and those are the ones who have gone astray.

14. This is how I contemplate the spirit of humanity at this time: hungry, because bread has been hidden from him, shipwrecked, because he has weakened before the passions of the world and has not found a saving hand that reaches out to him.

15. I am preparing you from now on as fishermen of spirits so that you can rescue your brothers with love.

16. Be a staff for the sick and the weary, for you are already strong. Heal the wounds, whether of the spirit or of the body, by pouring my balm on them. If the thirsty one does not have the strength to reach Me, you take him, the water to his lips.

17. This is my eternal Law of love that I am dictating to you; let your heart be the new ark where it will be kept, and then that inner light will be the one that guides your steps and traces the path to those who follow you.

18. My word is at this time the manna that nourishes your spirit in your journey of vicissitudes, hardships and struggles, similar to the crossing of the desert. But this manna is of eternal life, it is not like the one who fed the people of Israel only for the time that the desert journey lasted and of which the children of that people kept memory carrying a handful as a relic,

Love one another!

19. Men and women: remain faithful to my teachings, so that you may be among your brothers like suns that dispel the darkness; give a good example to childhood so that she may be in the bosom of the home like a lamp of inextinguishable light.

20. Blessed are my beloved creatures, in whom I contemplate the effort and at the same time the pain, a deep pain, because you know that this time is ending, and very little is what you have benefited from my teaching. But truly I tell you, the time of grace will not end. I will be close to you, guarding your passage. The eyes of the prophets will behold me, walking before the chosen people.

21. I am infinite love, sublime charity and I never leave my children helpless. My Spirit is always close to yours, waiting for the call, to give you my caress. You have never been the orphans and if at times you feel lonely, it is because you have abandoned me. But now I see that you want to feel the outpouring of my grace.

22. Blessed is the one who calls me, for I descend and remain in his heart. Whoever seeks the light of my Spirit will be enlightened. He who calls me as a Father, as a Father will find me. If you need me as a Doctor, you will have me with you and you will feel my balm. Whoever calls me as a brother, I will extend my charity to him to lead and comfort him, and whoever asks me as a Teacher, will receive the lesson in his heart.

23. Nothing is impossible for Me. I am the Almighty, and the infinite love that I feel for my creatures, makes me pour out my charity and my forgiveness among humanity, that I do not see your weaknesses, that I only come to raise the spirit, because he is part of my Spirit and belongs to me. Above him is consciousness, which is the divine spark that I have deposited in every creature. I have come to prepare you like a pillar, because I am going to build a new world, a world of peace and light.

24. And you, who, like the disciples of the Second Time, listen to my word, ask me to be a valuable instrument for my Work and I give you the strength and the light. In each of your steps you will feel me.

25. I want you to understand my word of this time, that it be engraved in your heart and also that you understand the meaning of my coming in the Second Time, because what happened at that time was the Work of Redemption of the Spirit.

26. I descended from perfection as a Savior, becoming a man on earth. I came to fulfill the mission of saving all creatures who, since Adam, had fallen into sin, due to their disobedience. His weakness caused his spirit to fall more and more, and at the right time, in fulfillment of the announcements of the coming of the Messiah, I became a man, in order to give my teaching and remove the chains of the spirit and give him the resurrection.

Love one another!

27. You all know what happened in the upper Room. The bread and wine that I offered to my disciples, was sustenance for the entire universe. It symbolized my essence and my love, which floats over all my children, believers and unbelievers. To all was given the light of my Spirit,

28. I washed the feet of my apostles to demonstrate my humility and ask them to get up on the roads of the Earth, to prepare with all my heart with my love, with this immense love that I feel for everyone, so that no one would get lost and everyone would come to Me. And this act teaches you to cleanse yourselves from all sin, when you are going to give beginning to the fulfillment of your mission.

29. He had hidden nothing from Me, what could men be plotting against me, that I had not known before? Everything was prepared according to my will, and as it unfolded, so was the way destined by Me, to convince the hearts. They took me to the cross and stripped my body, they tied my hands and my feet on the tree and this is the symbol of the cross.

30. The horizontal tree is the sin of the world, which stands in the way of the vertical tree. He ascends and points to the heights, but sin is always the barrier to rising to the divine.

31. I was buried in that tree and as my Spirit contemplated the coldness of the hearts, the horror and then their joy at seeing that martyred body and the face decomposed by pain, my lips uttered those words: "Forgive them Lord, they do not know what they are doing". And now at this time, I forgive you again, because you have not understood me yet; how many of my creatures claim to love me and do not love me, how many, believing to serve me, are serving temptation.

32. Again my eyes rest on the crowds, recognizing one and the other of those who surrounded me, of those who, having received wonders a while before, did not know how to recognize me.

33. I saw in those faces, not mercy, not love, that's why I said to humanity: "'I have thirst'. It was not the thirst of the body, it was the thirst of the spirit, that made those words come out, I was thirsty for the love of humanity. Far from loving, I saw in those the satisfaction, the pleasure for having made me suffer until death. Then the earth trembled, the sun went down, and it was that my Spirit was departing from the body of Jesus.

34. My children contemplated the body, on whom the whole weight of sin and the reproach of the world fell, and the tortured matter exclaimed: "My God, my God, why have you abandoned me?"

35. I then fixed my gaze on Mary's face full of pain, on my apostle John and on those women who accompanied Mary and knowing that humanity would recognize me, wanting to leave one more proof of love, I entrusted Mary with the care and protection of all my children and said to her: "Woman, behold your son" and to John: "Son, behold your mother". It was the inheritance that I deposited in humanity at that moment. John represented the son, humanity. Mary was entrusted to you to watch over eternally, comfort and protect all creatures.

Love one another!

36. Then I looked for the one who was crying out in anguish, the one who could also be found hidden on a cross, and I penetrated into his heart and saw his great repentance. He said to me, "You who are perfect are being sacrificed, have mercy on me who have sinned." I comforted him by saying, "Truly and truly, in a few moments you will be with me in Paradise."

37. Bodily death was approaching Jesus and then I pronounced these words: "Father, into your hands I commend my Spirit"; I taught you to return to the Father, after the fulfillment of his commands. My Spirit was returning to His presence, to be unified with His Spirit.

38. My last words were, "All is accomplished." Blessed is the heart that can reach the end of his journey because I will receive him and he will find himself full of grace and perfection.

39. These are the seven words that the world, year after year, hears, without understanding their spiritual meaning.

40. My disciples and friends, after the death of Jesus, rescued the body, embalmed it as usual and buried it. For the next three days, my Spirit descended to the worlds where the spirits were waiting for me to give them freedom and point the way. Redemption also reached those creatures who dwelt in darkness, waiting for their Savior.

41. Then I appeared, making myself visible, and visited my Mother, Mary Magdalene, and also my disciples. And before my ascension I gave you the last teaching, to indicate to you how you were to conduct yourselves among humanity, carrying my infinite wisdom, the perfect teaching, to resurrect all spirits.

42. And now that the time to say goodbye to you is approaching, I say to you: After this stage of teaching, do not be afraid, the spirit has evolved and you do not need to contemplate me with material eyes. It is no longer necessary for you to hear my Word on material lips. The Spirit has evolved, has risen and he will receive spiritually. I will continue to point the way to each of my disciples.

43. I am giving my instructions for all my children. The Master tells you: when you have transformed your portions into fertile plots, where love bears fruit, union and fraternity will reign among you. Then you will be able to consider yourselves my disciples.

44. Sometimes I speak to you in figurative language so that you can penetrate into the deep lessons as my word is engraved in your imagination and I speak to you at length, so that there is nothing in which you stumble or fall into confusion. If it were not so, you would have already created insignia, grades and classifications among the disciples and the infants, between the first and the last in your congregations; and in the midst of feasts, you would crown yourselves with fictitious laurels; because humans are inclined to vanity and ostentation.

Love one another!

45. Sow among yourselves the seed of brotherhood, which my apostles cultivated at that time. That seed was the example, with which they founded congregations, villages and cities.

46. What do you need to know to teach my doctrine? Love. It is impossible for you to be missionaries of Christ if you do not have love in your heart. You will all come to Me and it will be for love. Some will arrive sooner and some later; those who take longer for their own cause, will have to cry more; you are all like flowers, which do not open at the same time to receive the clarity of the new day. If your heart has remained closed to divine love, now I tell you: your past is past, now eternity claims you. I have in my hands the book of your past life, in which there are certainly many stains, but there are also the clean pages of your future life and of your transformation. I see everything and I know it.

47. I tell you again that you will all join me; but each one will have to conquer the height for himself. You can make that conquest easily by love or painfully by pain. I help you, I comfort you and I direct you, but it's up to you to do the rest. I strengthen you, and that strength is that of love, the true energy that moves the Universe, everything created and without which, you would not exist. I also hide from you the book of your past, for if you looked at its pages, you would weep with sorrow and become ill with sadness. In many, their horror and bitterness would be so great that they would consider themselves unworthy of forgiveness and redemption. There, in those darkness, my love also shines, preventing you from a terrible and endless agony, and preparing new paths where you can, with clean works, regenerate your spirit. But if you knew the future pages of the book of your life, how you would smile with joy!

48. When you have already risen, you will remember with joy your past sorrows and you will thank the Father, because those sorrows were less than you deserved.

49. Here is my word given by the understanding of man, which, in order to be perfect as you desire it, it is necessary that you be spiritualized and that you share in it with your brothers through whom I speak to you. Give them ideality, tranquility and encouragement; their work is delicate for the spirit and strongly burdensome for the matter. My Work needs strong spokespersons, only in this way will it be able to do the wonders that the unbelieving world demands, that is, those who imitate Thomas in their doubt, those who need to see and touch to be convinced, ignoring that they could also do wonders, if they imitated Thomas less and more the Master who speaks to you.

50. Spokespersons of my word: as long as your work is not understood and you see that you do not receive the care and consideration you deserve for the work you do, resign yourselves,

Love one another!

forgive, do not lose your affability; but when you feel the spiritual touch of my light that seeks your understanding, and then flows from your lips, think of Me, give yourselves with joy in my love, serve me with infinite joy, knowing that you are serving your brothers. I will respond to your preparation, filling you with grace in those moments. In order for you to be worthy of all this, it is necessary that you become sweet and carry in your heart the feeling of true charity.

51. Do not think at the moment of preparing for my communication, of wisdoms or philosophies of the Earth, because all this will be useless before my wisdom. I am the one who inspires you in your ecstasies and who gives you strength for the performance of your delicate mission. If you surrender yourselves to Me, what can you fear?

52. Pray, but let your prayer be formed with your intentions and deeds of the day, that will be your best prayer; but if you want to address me a thought, formulating with it a request, then tell me: "Father, your will be done in me". In it you will be asking for even more than you could understand and expect, and that simple phrase, that thought, will simplify that "Our Father", which you asked me in another time.

53. There you have the prayer that asks for everything and that will best speak for you, But let not your lips say it, but let your heart feel it, because to say is not to feel and if you feel it, you do not need to tell me. I know how to listen to the voice of the spirit and I understand his language.

54. What greater joy for you than to know this? Do you think I needed you to tell me what I have to do? Do not assert yourselves in the belief that for my communications it is necessary adequate places, special clothes and even determined attitudes for Me to manifest Myself. Days will come when my inspiration will be with you anywhere and at any time; in front of various crowds before which you will express my thought in words and languages that everyone will understand.

55. The only temple where this word will resonate will be in the heart of your brother. Are you going to learn languages in order to be able to give my word in languages other than the ones you speak? I tell you that you will express my ideas, which are light and each one will receive them in his own language, as it happened when my apostles spoke of my Kingdom to men of various tongues or languages. Those who accept these wonders, call them miracles, while others deny them, judging them impossible. But I tell you that they are small things that you will be able to do without effort when you are truly disciples of my love. Follow the impulses of your heart, O my spokesmen, without imitating anyone, see that each one has a mission to perform.

56. People: multiply, help these who are my instruments with your thoughts; they in their ecstasy give you the spiritual light, the delicacy that strengthens and delights you. They are for you to learn. Tomorrow, others will do for you what you do for them today. You may say that the outer form of the language with which I spoke in the Second Half and the one I use now are different, and you will be partly right; because Jesus spoke to you at that time within the terms and customs of the peoples in which he lived, as I do today, according to the mentality of those who listen to my word; but the essence that comes from that word given in one time and in another, is the same, it is one, it is unchangeable. However, this has gone unnoticed by many who have a hardened heart and a closed mind.

57. There are always those who turn away from the root to go to the outside, where they get confused and lost without knowing it. The language manifested in any of my children by whom I speak to you, is of great simplicity and purity, reveals love and has a spiritual essence, but do not let yourselves be seduced by flowery terms that sound very good in your ear and say nothing to your heart.

58. Let your heart tremble before your brain, because the one owns this one. The higher a man is, the more he loves, the humbler he feels and the healthier he is.

59. Seek My Work in the purest and highest of your faith, your love and your conceptions. Do not complicate the clarity of this Doctrine with useless knowledge, nor obscure it with external cults, Do not forget that for these reasons and others that I will tell you later, you have strayed from the true path.

60. What do you prefer: to seek me through the objects you create to represent me, or to receive directly in your heart the touch of my love or the call of my voice? Spiritualize yourselves. Truly I tell you, whoever achieves this, will have something that is worth more than all, the titles and appointments of the Earth combined.

61. You will see wonders when this is and even before, many incredible events will happen. Go ahead, disciples! Do not allow yourselves to be surprised by spirits lacking light, whether incarnate or disembodied; but love them and help them, who are also my dearly beloved children, who will seek me as you sought me. Then I will go out to meet them and in my arms I will receive them as the prodigal.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 248

1. My peace be in every spirit. Feel this peace deeply, so that the light may spring up to discover the true paths for you, and you may turn away from the dark paths that for centuries you have traveled, stumbling among heathlands, From how much sadness you have covered the beautiful planet that I entrusted to you so that you may dwell for a moment of your eternal life.
2. Only with peace in your spirit will you be able to follow me and understand me. This chair that I give you is for strong spirits, for men tempered in pain and in love, so that these may later shine before humanity as examples.
3. If you think of the example of Jesus, you will make the most of my lessons, but if you persist in eating the bitter fruits that humanity cultivates, you will understand little or nothing of the Teacher's Doctrine. There are many dangerous or treacherous fruits, because they offer sweetness on the outside and hide poison inside.
4. I tell you again: Quiet your spirit, momentarily forgetting your problems, thinking that they are those of all humanity, since the world is living a time of restitution.
5. You are like shrubs, which sometimes have branches so dry and diseased, that they need the painful cutting of pruning, to ward off your ills and make you recover your health. My justice of love, by plucking from the human tree the diseased branches that eat away at his heart, lifts him up. When a man is about to have a limb cut off from his body, he groans, trembles and cowers, even knowing that it is to take away from him what is sick, what is dead and threatens what can still live. Also the rose bushes, when they suffer the cutting of the pruning, pour out their sap like tears of pain; but then, they will be covered with more beautiful flowers. My love, in an infinitely superior way, cuts the evil in the hearts of my children, sometimes sacrificing Myself. When men crucified me, I covered my executioners with my sweetness and my forgiveness and gave them life. In my words and in my silences I filled them with light, defended them and saved them. This is how I cut off evil, stopping it with my love and defending and saving the evildoer. Those pardons were, are still and will be eternally venerated of redemption.
6. Today, as yesterday, I come to lift you up in your falls, to interpose myself in your error. See how from Me, you have nothing to fear. Be afraid of yourselves.
7. I always show my children the easy, beautiful and safe way. I avoid the long, heavy and bitter walks that you create with your works. If you are lost or lazy and delay your arrival on the path of light, it is because you are obstinate in it.

Love one another!

8. I give you new revelations, so that you may also achieve new transformations. Nothing and no one will be able to oppose that my lectures, in the form of writings, reach the spirits. My word will destroy all the falsehood that has accumulated in human life.
9. I do not come to provoke a slight strife, but a great war of ideas, in which the inspired will shine. I will inspire the word to you, so that you will analyze my teaching.
10. Come to the Master and learn from Him so that you may destroy the misinterpretations that have been taught you about the scriptures of past times. Those erroneous interpretations that have been like thick veils, have not allowed you to look at the truth.
11. You have been told of the AntiChrist, to whom my disciple John refers in revelation, and in your confusion, you have attributed that personality to many of your brothers, both of the past and of the present. Today I tell you: that AntiChrist, as humanity has conceived him, neither has existed nor will exist. AntiChrist, is everyone who does not love, because Christ is the love of the Creator. See then how your world is full of AntiChrists blinded by materialism.
12. I tell you, it is better for you to be full of uncertainties and denials, than full of false statements or lies that pass for truths. The sincere denial that is born of doubt or ignorance does you less harm than the hypocritical affirmation of a falsehood, the clean doubt that is hungry for understanding is better than the firm belief of any myth. Desperate uncertainty, crying out for the light, is better than fanatical or idolatrous firmness. Today, the unbelievers, the distrustful and the bitter abound everywhere. They are rebels who often see more clearly than others, who do not feel ritualism, nor are they convinced by the affirmations they have heard from those who lead men spiritually; because all those complicated theories do not fill their thirsty heart with pure waters that calm their anguish. Those who you judge rebellious, often have more light in their questions than those who, believing themselves wise or great, answer them. They feel, see, feel, hear and understand more clearly than many who call themselves teachers in the divine lessons.
13. And so you dispute about the dreaded and terrible end of the world that you assumed at the door of each of your wars. I also tell you now that the end that you are waiting for will not come; my words of the Second Time referred to a materialized and scientific world that does not honor me, love me, or recognize me.
14. You have believed to the letter in the coming of men who will call themselves Christs and you have ended up believing and understanding that these will be the false Christs.
15. You persist in wanting to understand the symbols backwards, you become so attached to them that you get confused and at last you don't know what to think. Stop thinking so much,

Love one another!

purify your spirit and your heart and come to Me. I will give you the light and reveal to you what you should know, both for your material improvement and for your spiritual ascension.

16. Who are the false Christs? All those who proclaim superiority and virtue and claiming to be disseminators of good, do the opposite.

17. You still speak of the terrible justice of God, of the wrath of Jehovah, of the "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth" of the day of judgment in which I will be the avenging judge, how many days of judgment have you had during your existence? But in those sad moments for your spirit, I have not been your judge, but your defender. Anger cannot exist in my Spirit, so how could I manifest it? There is only harmony in me. Those who are paid an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth, are you. My justice is loving and it is you who ask for the opportunity to purify yourselves, for I do not punish you.

18. To those of you who are walking on lost paths, I am soon to receive you and give you my strength and my light when you call me, No matter that in your matter and in your spirit you bring the imprint of the great sinners. I will make you bless those who have offended you and that you bless God for having seen this wonder possible in you. Then you will be beginning to feel the love of Christ in your heart. There will be those who think when they hear these words: How is it possible that great sinners can receive this grace just as the righteous who possess it by merit? Oh, humanity, humanity, that you do not see beyond your eyes! I have always given you my benefits by grace, before you become deserving.

19. I respond the same to a pure thought, as to the sad lament of anyone who approaches Me stained, provided that even a small flash of humility or recognition arises from him, for his lack of love for his brothers.

20. I am the defender of the weak who cry in the midst of their helplessness and ignorance. I am the divine hope that calls and comforts the one who cries, I am the sweet Jesus who gently caresses the one who moans in his pain and in his restitution.

21. I am the Savior, your Redeemer; I am the truth within the reach of man.

22. Here is one more of my lessons disciples, truly I tell you that when you think you are strong, great or exalted, you move away from Me, because your pride drowns the feeling of humility; but when you consider yourselves small, when you recognize that you are like atoms in the midst of my Creation, then you come closer to Me, because through your humility you admire me, love me and feel me close; it is when you think of everything great and mysterious that God encloses and that you would like to know and know, it seems to you to hear the echo of the divine murmur in your spirit.

Love one another!

23. I am the Teacher of your spirit and your Savior. The matter in you, is one of so many instruments that have been given to you; but the most when incarnating, they tend to forget me and go astray influenced by the life that surrounds them on Earth, it is when the spirit of true greatness and elevation is still lacking, others, without forgetting that I am their Lord and their Father, they are insatiable in asking, but greedy when it comes to giving, those lack greatness of spirit to know how to love; they think they know how to ask, but they do not know how to give; they do not care about learning to ask and less about learning to give, the only thing you should ask Me is that I do my will in you, because you have already recognized that my will is just, perfect and loving.

24. I have said to you, "Ask and it will be given to you."

25. Do you consider that sentence or that request insignificant? Truly I tell you, whoever raises her to ME, feeling her, will have found a source of wonders; as for giving, give all that love advises you.

26. You try in the world to lull the purest feelings of the spirit to sleep with vain sensations; but since the Divine Spirit is latent in your being, you will all have to surrender to Him, some first, others later.

27. Men will not be able to fight eternally against God, against the only one who can raise you from your condition of imperfect beings, to the heights of the perfect.

28. I will teach you with my Doctrine the true meaning of life, and to interpret with justice not only my word of this time, but also that of the past time, because with your erroneous interpretations, you have created fanatical practices based on my words, that is why your materialism does not let you understand, when I told you: "The Heavens and the Earth will pass away, but my word will not pass away". Do you think: Is it possible that the Heavens will also pass away like the Earth? Here is your lack of penetration, I wanted to tell you in this, that this Heaven that you look at and this Earth in which you dwell, would pass, since time marks its imprint on them second by second, but that the essence and substance of my word would not pass, because it is eternal because it is divine, and the divine is immutable; your Earth and your Heaven are transformed and pass insensibly for men, while my love remains unalterable, my love does not pass, because the Universe is full of it.

29. Jesus came to teach you love, not to satisfy your vain curiosities; but how few know how to love in his name. Whenever you do something good, you say: I am noble, I am generous, I am charitable, that is why I do this; I tell you: if you did these works in the name of your Lord, you would be humble because goodness is from God and I have given it to your spirit, then whoever attributes his good works to his human heart, is denying his spirit and; on the other hand, when you do an evil, you wash your hands like Pilate, and you attribute that fact to the Father saying: it was the will of God, it was written; God willed it, it is destiny.

30. You say that nothing happens without the will of God to apologize for your mistakes, but in truth I tell you that you are mistaken because if your mistakes, your little things happen without the will of God; see how the Almighty never imposes himself by force on you, by his power, that you do with your weaker brothers. Verily I say to you, evil, impurity, disharmony are yours; love, patience, serenity are God's; when you love, it is the Creator of your spirit who is inspiring you, but when you hate, it is you, it is your weakness that drives you and loses you.

31. Whenever something bad happens in your life, be sure that it is your own doing, but then you ask yourself: Why does God allow it? That He will not suffer for our sins; will He not weep when He sees us weep? What would it cost you to prevent us from these falls? I tell you, as long as you do not love, God will be something for you that you will not be able to understand, because the magnanimity of your Creator is above your understanding.

32. Become strong, great, wise, learn to love; when you love, you will not have the childish tendency to want to analyze God, because then you will look at Him and feel Him, and that will be enough for you.

33. My love comes to answer those questions that sometimes in your sorrows you ask yourselves: I only allow you to come to know the taste of the fruit that you have cultivated, so that you may feel something of what you have made yourself feel; but I also tell you that when you fill your chalice, being within my reach to avoid pain, I let it and even death be in you, because your spirit is higher than all those little sensations that prove it through matter.

34. This is why Jesus came among men, to teach you how a high spirit should receive the lashes, the insults and the thorns, so that if they crucify you, you will have the courage to stand before the executioner or the slanderer, loving and blessing him.

35. This is how you must leave the world and the body.

36. But today I welcome you in this dawn of grace, in which my word returns to you through the human understanding.

37. You are preparing, humanity, to commemorate the birth of Jesus.

38. Christmas party, of joy and evocation.

39. For the rich and powerful, it means worldly satisfactions and pleasures; for those who are in imitation of Christ, who had neither bed nor home the night he was born, it is a feast with privations, but with spiritual joy.

Love one another!

40. Christian humanity, who are preparing to adorn your altars and prepare your feasts, truly I tell you, your heart is empty. Have you not thought that these altars that you erect and those images with which you represent me, are only a recreation for your eyes and an imitation of the divine, which is very far from reality? I have always come to dwell in the temple of true humility. This is how I have taught you to fulfill your mission with all love and self-denial.

41. Today I contemplate that that teaching has been distorted, that its essence has been forgotten by this Christianity, because those who mourn homes are called Christians, those who make ostentation of greatness and power and those who promote wars are also called Christians. But not everyone will follow that example and that path, because many will awaken, recognizing that the greatness of the spirit is in the essence of the heart, where the pure feelings that God inspires in man nest.

42. It is about two thousand years since I came into the world as a man. If I remind you, it is so that you can see how far you are from fulfilling my teaching. My example of a perfect man began from the moment of my birth, continued throughout my childhood and my youth, until it ended when I breathed my last on the cross of martyrdom. That story, written with my blood, is the book of life and the beginning of human redemption.

43. I came to dwell among men to make them understand that the Father's love for them is so great that I came to limit myself to live humanly with you far from all this, from the concept that the princes who exercised the Law that Moses left them had of Divinity. How could they conceive the Son of God in poverty, when they lived in opulence? How could the carpenter's son bow down to Jesus, if they felt privileged? My doctrine of love and gentleness was not understood by them. My cradle was so humble that no one of those approached, not even to lavish a caress or a look at me; but Nature was moved by my presence as a man and she in her different kingdoms, opened her bosom to welcome me, while the light of the Eternal, symbolized in a star, announced to the world the arrival of the Messiah.

44. Now, in this time when I did not have to be born as a human creature, or become a man to be persecuted, the light of my Spirit that descends on you will be contemplated by humanity, which will be able to recognize where my word is being poured out.

45. Today I come as a light, as an essence, to fill men of good will with peace, those who have known how to remember this day with spirituality and joy, and those who have offered me as a tribute, their heart.

46. Suffering and humility, is what you offer to your Lord, remembering that your Master thus came into the world to suffer.

Love one another!

47. I receive this offering and kindle in your heart an inextinguishable flame. If I offered myself in sacrifice to teach you the way of your redemption, do not forget that I am always ready to extend my charity to save you.

48. Your spiritual childhood has passed and you must understand your evolution.

49. I have given you my representation, because I have said to you, He who fulfills as a disciple will be like his Master. Sow love, deposit peace in hearts, perform miracles; raise the dead to the life of grace, to the truth.

50. Spiritualist: be the interpreter and emissary of my word. On this day I caress all men who remember my coming, according to the teaching they have received.

51. As my divine ray ascends from heaven, my inspiration will descend on you so that you will understand my word. I want to contemplate you united in a single desire: peace among humanity.

52. Blessed is he who comes after Me, for he will have the light of my Divine Spirit. The one who seeks me, it is because he has felt within himself that the time of his evolution has come.

53. The human mind tries to break the chains of slavery that have bound it. I have told you that this is the time when the mind and the spirit must seek their freedom, because an infinite field stretches out before them where they can know and achieve more than their heart has shown them. Thus man will be perfected and will attain more wisdom, then there will be truth in every human idea.

54. Today I come speaking to you through multiple spokespersons, leaving through it a book for your spirit, as in the Second Time I left a legacy of wisdom and love to this humanity; because the foundations of my Doctrine are of love, that universal and superior force that tends to unite all beings in a single family.

55. This divine quality you must possess because there can be no charity where there is no love. But I have filled you with love so that whenever the opportunity to practice charity presents itself, you do it, knowing that it is not limited or subject to a certain form. In order for you to develop these faculties, I have given you a part of Myself, the one that has lived in you, it is your spirit enlightened by consciousness that makes you understand that you come from Me.

56. Thus you manage to understand that the divine force manifests itself in everything that is life, because life is everything that surrounds you. I have taught you not to limit your God in one way. I can have all the forms or not have any, because I am the Creator.

Love one another!

57. When your intelligence takes you to the beginning of life and you discover there how creatures are born and transformed, you will marvel at understanding the explanation of many of my lessons. There you will discover that God is manifested in everything, from beings imperceptible to your gaze to the worlds and major stars.

58. In this way you will understand that man is not the creator of life or elements, that he only uses and transforms what has already been created, for that I have put man in the midst of creation and to develop all the gifts and powers that I have clothed him with.

59. Creation is God himself and the time will come when men who are unaware of the relationship that exists between the Creator and man, understand that everything that man does, he takes from the divine power.

60. Man has a development as has everything that forms Creation. He was small at first. His intelligence was in accordance with the primitive life he led; but God made him develop by himself, that he knew what is good and evil so that he could discover in himself his spiritual part and his material part, because he at first did not know his spirit. Thus man developed, knowing where he comes from and where he is going, recognizing his faculties that will lead him to perfection. Thus he has come to this time when I have revealed to him that an existence is not enough for the perfecting of the spirit.

61. Of this you can have a clear proof, when you verify that the experience of the man of now is greater than that of men of long ago; because it is the spirit that brings with it the light gathered in the paths of previous lives. And you have called this time the century of light, because of the advances of human science and it is that the divine light has shone in every understanding.

62. I, the Father, am the one who speaks to you. For those who doubt, I make my word clear and precise; it manifests itself according to the capacity of the speaker, his brain receives the transmission of my wisdom and expresses it according to its scope, but the essence is the same in all interpreters.

63. I receive and bless you all.

64. Here is the perfect judge among you, the one who knocks on the doors of your sensitivity to make you understand how little importance your thoughts, words and deeds may have, before his omnipotence, justice and wisdom. It has managed to evolve your spirit in such a way that your conscience not only judges the faults of your present existence, but also reveals to you ancient debts contracted with my divine justice.

65. When your senses have reached a greater spirituality, the memory of your past and the intuition will be clearer in you. Now it is only a vague presentiment that you have of all this,

Love one another!

but that nevertheless helps you to carry your cross with resignation and conformity, with the certainty that in this way your spirit is cleansed and saved.

66. Those who yesterday mocked Jesus by looking at him panting with the cross on his back, are those who have now meekly taken up his cross to climb the hill. Those who shouted at that time: Crucify him! now they have consecrated themselves to serve and love me.

67. Those cries pierced my heart, those hatreds and blasphemies wounded me, but I did not put them to death, I forgave them and gave them new life, because they did not know what they were doing.

68. Spiritually I am still embedded in the cross, although materially you have detached my body from the tree. Even my side pours blood and water and all the wounds are fresh, because you still do not love each other, because there are still hatreds and wars.

69. Verily I say unto you, prepare yourselves that ye may hear clearly the voice of conscience, and that the eyes of your spirit may behold the truth of all that I have told you.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Teaching 249

1. Beloved people, behold the Word among you, the same one who spoke to you in the Second Time, who today manifests himself spiritually through the understanding of man.
2. Truly, I tell you, Jesus' existence among men was not sweet. From my childhood the chalice of bitterness came to my lips. But this is what I came for: to suffer from the beginning to the end, to show you the way of redemption and to teach you that if I, the owner of life, peace and happiness, renounced my Glory to suffer for you on earth, what is it for you to do? What can you expect from the joys, pleasures and victories of your earthly plane?
3. The Christian world still commemorates the day when Jesus came into the world, but even on the days of commemoration the din of war is heard, and men are killed. Women are left homeless and children orphaned. While Mary, the Mother, spreads the mantle of her love over the Universe. She is tenderness, warmth, the eternal lap, the hearth. The most perfect Mother of Jesus as a man, she also gave her divine lesson that began in the manger of the stable and ended on the cross of Calvary.
4. May peace be with men of good will who love, bless and watch over humanity.
5. My creatures who come to seek me without asking me for anything, waiting only for what it is my will to grant you; and when you feel my love and my caresses, you receive them with deep love, you are entrusting your thoughts to me and you tell me that you long to perfect yourselves.
6. You are like the birds that go after the nest in which to take shelter, you have approached each other in search of warmth, and my word has fed you and satisfied your heart.
7. On this day, you come to present to me your works. You leave behind you, tears and sufferings and you hope that the new year will bring the long-awaited peace for humanity.
8. You thank me for having found me after having suffered misunderstandings and disappointments and by feeling loved by me, you raise a song of gratitude.
9. You are discovering the treasure, the inheritance that you were looking for and by penetrating into your spirit, you have marveled at finding your gifts, at contemplating virtues that were hidden and forgotten,
10. You have found in Me the love you had sought, the true Teacher, the loyal friend. All the noble fibers of your spirit have been awakened and you feel the longing to tell humanity that my Spirit is vibrating above all being, that my light has become a word to be heard by all and that the instrument I have chosen is man, the one who has become by my will the spokesman of my teaching. If, when the good news reaches men through you, you are heard, rejoice, if they do not hear you, do not be afraid, for I will manifest myself in many ways to overcome human reluctance.

Love one another!

11. In the Second Time I said to my disciples, "I will return and speak to the spirit of man, when he has known sin in its greatest height," but I warned them in what way I would return, spiritually, and here you have me fulfilling my promise. Those disciples asked me, "How will we recognize you?" And I gave you the signs of my coming. But you see that although those apostles are not on earth, you whom I have chosen at this time to give my teaching to you, have known the voice of your Father.

12. When I arrived at Calvary and took my chalice, many of those who are now hearing me speak through the channel of man were present. They did not understand who the One who was speaking to them was and those are you who despised my teaching and who now say to me: "Teacher, we love you, we want to follow you, if at another time we did not recognize you, now we understand our mistake and we ask for forgiveness. Let us follow closely in your footsteps."

13. And I say to you: O disciples, open your hearts and let my word, like a fertile seed, germinate, grow and bear fruit, let this teaching leave in you all its benefits and may these be for all your brothers and sisters!

14. The time is coming when the human spirit will seek the truth, by then my seed will be scattered over the entire face of the Earth and apostles will arise everywhere,

15. Today prepare yourselves, be patient in the struggle. All your sufferings will be rewarded, feel my caress and my forgiveness that come to soften your sorrows. In this way you are purifying yourselves to come to Me clean and by speaking to you like this, you feel peace and your heart is calmed.

16. Leave your sadness, do not look for me on the path of pain, come to Me who am love.

17. I want to see you strong, patiently carrying your cross and spreading gifts in your path. Watch over each of your works so that you may always be worthy of the peace that I offer you.

18. Multitudes, my children who come in search of light: you wait for my words, you wait for my thoughts to be able to forget your bitterness.

19. Here you have gathered and found my light in the essence of my teaching. When you talk to each other, you have understood that it was the same cause that made you all look for me in this word and that this cause was the thirst for truth, the thirst for love.

Love one another!

20. There is very little that I have had to give you, people, because everything that you have come to ask of me, you already carried in your spirit. I have only had to teach you to look into the eternal of your being so that there you may discover your inheritance and your wealth.
21. Only my light opens the eyes of the spirit to the truth, only it illuminates the endless path of true wisdom, the path of your redemption.
22. The more you search on that path, the more you will find; the deeper you go, the greater treasures you will find, treasures that were hidden but that exist in your spirit and in the life to which he belongs.
23. How many riches that you had forgotten and how many new wonders, you will find on this path!
24. You have to learn a lot to become sensitive to my inspirations, and to my calls. How many times do you perceive the vibrations of the spiritual without being able to understand who is calling you! That language is so confusing for you that you fail to understand and end up attributing spiritual manifestations to hallucinations or material causes.
25. Hard are your hearts and foolish are your understandings that do not allow the spirit to receive the influence of its true abode. Not so the people of God in the early times, spirituality was cultivated by those men of simple heart and high spirit, who were concerned with the fulfillment of the Divine Law and the observance of the laws of the Earth.
26. I want to be felt and loved again as in those times, but in a more spiritual way.
27. This was announced by prophets, by my word and by one of my apostles. If you really came to unite all those revelations into one, you would be amazed at the clarity with which they tell you about this time that you are living and the manifestations that you are contemplating,
28. My communication through the human understanding will be brief, because if it were prolonged you would stay stationary, you would devote yourselves only to recreating yourself with my word and you would end up familiarizing yourselves with my presence. Soon my manifestation in this form will end and then you will be forced to study what you have heard, to perfect your prayer to feel my presence and to prepare yourselves better to become worthy of my wonders,
29. Two mistakes I wish you to avoid: that you get stuck in the routine of your practices, and that you pretend to walk fast. Go step by step, firmly to the goal that I set for you, so you will ascend, cleaning the stains of your spirit and paying off debts; you will be approaching eternal life, destined as a shelter for all spirits when they reach the perfect state.

Love one another!

30. When you hear me, O my little ones, some of you pray imploring my forgiveness, others weep: I see tears of love, of repentance, of fear: I receive everything. See how many ways you are listened to by your Teacher, who knows how to interpret all languages.

31. When you are listening to me, you would not want this hour to pass. What peace, what tranquility, what infinite sweetness! your spirit tells me. But I answer you: this peace, this sweetness, this joy of feeling, of loving, of knowing and of power, you will have in the spiritual life, not for an hour, but for all eternity.

32. I will wait for you in that Promised Land and my light will follow you on your journey until you reach Me, because I am the light that descends to illuminate your path.

33. In my word I have given you prophecies that you have seen fulfilled, so that those who hear your testimony may share in your faith. How much joy there will be in those who, living dead to the faith, suddenly open their eyes and discover eternal life above them and within them, the likeness to the same Divinity! In that instant, existence will change for those beings, because they will stop being those who ask to be those who give thanks. Because the one who asks is because he has not recognized that he has enough, and the one who gives thanks is the one who is convinced that he has more than he deserves.

34. When you contemplate the wonders of nature and realize that you have been objects of divine love and charity, has not a thanksgiving sprung from your heart? What greater proof of gratitude can you give me at that moment, than your admiration, your humility and your confession of my greatness? It was then neither pain, nor need, nor interest, that have exalted your love for Me.

35. When you say a prayer of gratitude, accompany it with works that confirm that feeling.

36. I must remove all confusion from you, because the time in which I speak to you in this way is already very short and at the end of 1950, you will recognize in yourselves a greater understanding of my Work, because you will have studied my teaching more thoroughly, helped by the wise counsels of my spiritual world. These pedestals, to whom the mission of transmitting the divine message has been entrusted, will increasingly be prepared with greater knowledge of their responsibility.

37. By the time I lift up my word, there will be a cleansing of practices and customs among you all. Then, whoever wants to follow me with the banner of truth, let him get up and follow me, and whoever out of selfishness or personal interest persists in falsifying what is pure, will be subject to suffer the consequences of his disobedience and lack of zeal.

38. I will not be the one to punish the son: he will pass his sentence himself. All weeds will be cut off by the roots.

Love one another!

39. To this spiritualist people, I have liberated them, I have illuminated their fields and I have removed the barriers and obstacles, but for so many benefits, they also have great responsibilities, Watch, so that you listen clearly to the voice of your conscience, which will indicate what you should do and will give you the alert voice at every moment.

40. In this year, which has been one of preparation for you, because you have struggled to break the chains that bound you to a fanaticism that impeded your spiritual development, you had the great will to divest yourselves of many prejudices. From that moment you feel freer and closer to the truth, now you will feel stronger for the fight.

41. How many events will happen! How many small worlds that man has created will be destroyed! Verily I say to you, all false greatness and all selfish work will be annihilated.

42. Among you, there are few who have understood my teaching, but when the time comes for my departure, I will leave my disciples with the knowledge and the necessary strength to face the struggle, because the Master is forgiving of you, because he sees your effort, which although small, is worthy and I receive it. You are convinced that you are working for the spirit, that what you sow now with bitterness will bear sweet fruits tomorrow. Who, knowing this, will dare to waste his time?

43. Soon you will see that my Doctrine is being made known in different languages. Then, my word, my teaching, will put you in communication with men from distant regions, and even if you have never looked at each other, you will recognize each other, although there are lands and seas in between, you will be united and identified by my Work.

44. When the year 1950 ends there will be uncertainty and doubt in many of you. Why do some who have greater intelligence than those who believe in my communication doubt my manifestations? Because it is not human knowledge, nor is it the mind that can judge my truth, and when man thus understands it, he allows himself to be invaded by a fear of everything new, of everything that he judges unknown, to reject it unconsciously. And you, the weak, the unprepared, those who cannot reach the height of men recognized for their intelligence, are those who believe, those who have faith and know how to delve into the mysteries of the spiritual. Why? For it is the spirit that reveals to the mind eternal life and its wonders.

45. Human intelligence represents a force, with which you are going to engage in struggle, because through it, man has forged ideas and concepts of the spiritual, which have not been revealed to him by the spirit.

46. For that struggle you will be strong, with a strength that will also come from the spirit. Your strength will never rest on your matter, nor on the power of money, nor on earthly supports; only your faith in the truth that you carry will make you win in the contest.

Love one another!

47. The world will tremble when my word is heard among the nations, because the spirit of humanity, which is prepared for this revelation, will vibrate with joy and at the same time with fear; then, whoever wants to know the truth, let him free himself from the slavery of his material ideas and recreate himself before the luminous horizons that are presented to his sight. But whoever persists in his obfuscation and in fighting against this light, remains free to do so.

48. Conversion to spirituality will bring friendship and fraternity among the nations, but you must prepare yourselves, because the contest will be great. If men rise up in wars, it is not because this is my will, but because they have not understood the Law of God.

49. Since spiritual evolution is subject to a just law, man finds purification in his path, in this way he makes himself justice before God.

50. This time has surprised humanity very far from the road. War, famine, plague, mourning and destruction are voices that speak of the lack of charity, spirituality and justice that prevail in the world.

51. Understand that I inspire you with peace, I have never incited you to war.

52. In the midst of this chaos, I have come to teach you, taking you away from the whirlwind of passions to reveal to you what I promised you in other times, to tell you that, although you are small and humble, your spiritual preparation and your faith will transform you into strong soldiers and self-sacrificing apostles of my Work.

53. The world will feel my presence in you, it will remember my Law forgotten today and it will know the new revelations and teachings. Humanity will see me in all my splendor as I receive the testimony of your works of love.

54. If your faith weakens in the face of great trials, you will not be able to inspire your brothers and sisters with faith, you will not be able to heal the sick, or move the sinner's heart, or comfort the sad. You will feel at times deprived of that power to illuminate the paths, to open doors to those in need. You will feel unworthy to take the blind man by the hand to guide him and then your heart will weep bitterly. It will be when you pray with all your trust placed in Me that I will receive you, I will listen to you, I will give peace to your spirit and I will light the lamp of your faith with the inextinguishable light of my love.

55. I have wanted to form with you a people, a family united in my Law, that loves one another, where there is no ill will, so that you may serve as an example to your brothers and be the foundation of my sanctuary.

56. I am not asking for impossible things, I just want there to be truth in your works and words. If you practice my teaching with humility and understanding, if you know how to have virtue and simplicity in your life, you will not have to speak or strive to awaken the spirit of your brothers, the testimony of your charity will suffice.

Love one another!

57. You will not be the only ones on whom this responsibility rests, new multitudes, new farmers and new soldiers will come with as much or greater zeal and love than you, those who will manage to take a step further on the path of evolution.

58. As I taught the twelve apostles of the Second Time to heal the sick, to love one's neighbor, to forgive offenses, to free the possessed and to raise the dead with words and deeds of love, I have also taught you, so that you may be the true apostles of my Doctrine.

59. Quiet your mind, prepare your heart, for truly I tell you that according to your preparation, so you will receive from Me and I can tell you: here you have me fulfilling my promise that I would be with you again.

60. Speak to me in the most intimate of your being, because I listen to your spiritual language, you make me aware of your vicissitudes, but I also contemplated that you suffer when you see the suffering that humanity rushes like a cup of bitterness in this time, because the world has unknown me and has fallen into the clutches of temptation and is debating in its darkness and suffering. I approach full of humility to knock on the doors of every heart to give men comfort, peace, bread for their spirits, but humanity has forgotten ME, throws me away from itself because it has unknown me. Humanity cries its loneliness because it feels far away from me, because it has not heard this word that I am giving to you, that is why I remind you again of the sublime mission that you have to fulfill among humanity.

61. I have filled you with my power so that you may awaken the spirits, so that you may give my peace, so that you may pray for those who do not know how to pray, so that feeling the pain of your brothers, you may pray for them. You are the people to whom I have awakened and to whom I have graced so that you may take the first steps of fulfillment full of love, fraternity and forgiveness. Be the true disciples who study and practice the lesson that I have come to deliver to you, because as my disciples I will leave you on earth.

62. People: among you are the unbelievers who are not satisfied with the essence of my word, those who, not feeling a true faith in my spiritual manifestation, seek me in materialism, in material songs and prayers, in rites and ceremonies, because their spirits have not yet been strengthened in the truth and for this reason they turn away from Me.

63. I have taught you a lot, I have promised to dwell in the sanctuary that you prepare for me in your heart, but those who practice a materialized cult believe that they please me and fulfill their mission better and I say to them: I have clearly given you my teaching, why do you still remain asleep? I have spoken a lot to you and very little is what you have learned, when I have come to make great revelations to you, you have rebelled and said: this way of worshiping the Father does not please us, we will remain stationed in our practices because the way of paying a spirit-to-Spirit worship to the Father, we have not learned it. But I tell you: the times will pass and you will fall asleep and you will not have the luminous awakening that lifts your spirit, tomorrow you will think yourselves orphans of Me and being so close to you you will not feel me because you have not learned to feel me.

64. Remember, O beloved people, that in all times your Father has spoken to you. In the Second Time the Divine Master showed you the path of evolution, leaving imprinted on it his footprints so that you reach the true Homeland. At this time I have enlightened your spirit, I have prepared you with my word and with my grace so that you may rise up to work in imitation of Elijah and thus become the guides of humanity.

65. This is the time when I have come to gather and to gather the twelve tribes of the chosen people of Israel so that they may receive anew the teaching of the Divine Word. As a Teacher I have materialized my teaching among you. With my word I have come to prepare you, to guide you, but this form of communication with you will soon pass.

66. Israel, become the guides of humanity, give him this bread of eternal life, show him this Spiritual Work so that the different religions will be spiritualized in my Doctrine and thus the Kingdom of God will be over all men.

67. I come to give you milk and honey, because you are the people who have to fulfill a delicate mission, a mission that will not be a heavy cross on your shoulders. You are the people who have once again recognized me and you want to rise up full of spirituality to show your banner before humanity.

68. I have taught you to live in harmony with me and to be humble and simple in all your acts and thoughts. I have taught you that while man feeds his wars to kill himself, you must be the soldiers of my Divinity, who carry in your hands the weapons of light to combat hatred and the darkness of the world.

69. See, my people, how humanity is struggling around you in its anguish and in its pain and you are the ones indicated to bring the comfort, the encouragement and the love of my Divine Spirit.

70. Behold, when you have fulfilled in this way, you will feel my peace and from this peace you will share humanity. Strip yourselves of all material ambition and put on my love so that my mercy may be manifested for you throughout the earthly world.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 250

1. What spirit, hearing me speak of the Land of Promise, does not feel the desire to dwell in it? The purpose of my communication between you is to help your spirit to reach the abode of light and eternal peace, from where the greatness of your Creator is perceived. A path has been traced for you from all time, so that through it you may arrive at the gates of that eternity, of that life that awaits your spirit.
2. I have forgiven you and I have lightened your burden of restitution so that you may hasten your step, wash away your guilt and feel comforted to start the walk again. Great is the mission and the struggle that you have on Earth, but it is greater in these times of wars and calamities, in which you must learn to pray with such devotion that your spirit, invisible and intangible to others, manages to stop the advance of the war and spread the mantle of my peace over the peoples.
3. That nation where you dwell is not the New Jerusalem, because that city awaits you spiritually; but it has been chosen for my manifestation at this time and will be like a door that will lead you to the white city that my apostle John contemplated in his ecstasy.
4. Foreigners will enter your city and you will see them as brothers by the spirit, without despising those because they are of other races.
5. Lift up your thoughts for a few moments and I will make the rumor of war reach your heart, the lament of men, the pain of mothers, the cry of children, so that you understand your mission and rise up to fulfill it. This is the time of justice, in which you are seeing how the rich miser and the powerful and selfish nation have their power taken away from them; just as the one who has taken what is foreign without the permission of its owner to increase his wealth, the day has also come to see how other hands take away what he rightfully owned.
6. You, in your material poverty, think that you are exempt from my justice, but I tell you that you are mistaken, because you can also become rich greedy for the spiritual wealth that I am giving you.
7. Today I have invited you to raise your thoughts so that you may try to feel the pain that afflicts the nations and I have contemplated that you still do not know how to feel the pain of your brothers, even when even the air you breathe is saturated with that pain. Will it be necessary for you to go through that test and to hurry that chalice, so that you can understand the pain that overwhelms humanity? Your heart is still hardened and the crystal clear water of love does not flow from it.

Love one another!

8. Blessed is the one who rises up to serve his brothers, because he has seen the calamities that afflict them, I will give him rest in my bosom after his work is finished. Remember that when life smiled at you, you have seen with indifference those who suffer, and others, after having known misery and having reached splendor, instead of helping those who knock at their doors, reject them from their presence and tell them: Go your way, suffer and fight, as I suffered and fought and then you will have what I achieved with so much work.

9. My Doctrine teaches you that if the peace that your heart enjoys in the light of your spirit, you have reached it through great trials or sufferings. I tell you, that you distribute these jewels among your brothers without trying to know if they have made merits to possess them.

10. My word has done in you the same as when Lazarus was raised from the dead. A breath of death had penetrated into your heart destroying all hope that you had harbored to survive this war that threatens your peace every moment. But at the same time that the rumors of the war have arrived, you have heard that the voice of the Master is being heard in the bosom of a congregation of simple and humble hearts, and without asking you any more about whether it would be true, if such a miracle were possible, you have come in search of me, because you know that I am peace.

11. When you heard this voice, every fiber of your spirit was moved and you exclaimed, "It is You, my Lord, who speaks." However, your faith has not yet become absolute, because when you are with me, you are still afraid, like those disciples who were sailing with me in a boat, when they saw the waves of the sea rising, they cried out, "Lord, Lord, save us who are perishing."

12. Why do you fear, O people, if you find yourselves refugees under the protection of my mercy? Why do you distrust my power? Do not thereby make your effort to come and listen to me useless and sterile. Realize that many to hear my word come from distant regions, others have to overcome the skepticism of their family others are forced to abandon their material jobs and their duties of the world and that sacrifice should not be sterile.

13. Consider that if, instead of doubts and mistrust, you come to place all your faith in my word, it, being written with the fire of your love in your spirit, will illuminate you every moment and strengthen you in each of your trials.

14. Your spirit is very much afraid of the chains of slavery, because it already knows the taste of that cup of bitterness.

15. You love peace intensely and it is this longing of your spirit that has brought me to you, O people, because you know that peace has been concentrated all in Me. It would be in vain for you to look for it in the various human institutions, among the men of power or among the most advanced theories of Moderna, because humanity has lost that treasure. When man wants to recover that gift that he has rejected, he will inevitably have to look for it in Me, as it happened with you.

Love one another!

16. Clear and accessible to all my children is the lesson that I have come to give you, because I want to prepare you so that you will be the emissaries of this good news who will discover to humanity the best way to seek me to find peace.

17. Here you have fulfilled the word that I gave you when in the Second Time Jesus thanked his Father for having hidden his wisdom from the wise and knowledgeable, instead he had given it and revealed it to the humble. Yes, my people, because those whom you call wise, magnify themselves and want to humiliate the humble, teaching them only what they consider the crumbs of bread, which they have received from Me; while the poor, the humble, who do know the needs that life presents and their deprivations when they come to own something, feel that it is too much for them and help others. Now I add that, when the miser becomes generous and the proud humble, they will instantly come to enjoy what I have in store for the one who knows how to practice virtue because my love is not partial, it is universal, it is for all my children.

18. All this you must know because if anyone wants to become wise in my Doctrine, do not forget that to achieve it, he must first be humble like Solomon whom I made king and wise to the extent that his name was famous and respected in the world of that time, the one who marveled at the wisdom of his counsels and his judgments; but all his power, his light and splendor fell under the force of my justice, when he failed to my orders.

19. People: fight and work for peace, as Israel conquered the Promised Land after so many vicissitudes and conflicts that it had to go through and overcome. I know that your spirit understands me well when I talk about Israel, because you carry that seed in your being and that history was written in your conscience.

20. There is your experience, evolution and light, there is the open book in your spirit, pointing out the Law and preventing you from falling into error. I have caused your spirit to come to incarnate at this time, far from ancient earthly possessions that would have materialized for you as has happened in other races and peoples, so that your only passion would be to open a spiritual gap to humanity, show it where to direct its steps and lead it to the peace of my Kingdom of justice and love.

21. Today you come in search of charity, and who can say that he has not received it? The sick have healed, the tired walkers have found peace and the hungry and thirsty for spirituality, have calmed their hunger and thirst; but there are still among those who follow me some who have not woken up, who doubt and ask for proof to believe, to them I am going to grant what they need, according to my will, but it is not the earthly possessions that I am going to give them, I have for my children the goods of the spirit and of them I will give without limit to the one who asks me with their works of charity and love for their brothers.

22. I seek the spirit that is part of my being, to teach and guide him, I want to lift him up and make Him come to Me, but not everyone recognizes me, nor do they know how to receive me. The world and its innumerable trials have embittered your heart and you do not have the strength to think about the spiritual life and I tell you that now that the world has become hostile to you, you must more eagerly seek refuge in my infinite love.

23. My Doctrine falls slowly on you like an incessant drop of crystalline water, it will lay the foundations of faith, hope, trust for the work that I have entrusted to each spirit.

24. The elements are unleashed against man, you should not be afraid, because you know that I have given you a power to overcome evil and protect your brothers. You can order those elements of destruction to stop and they will obey. If you keep praying and watching, you will be able to do wonders and surprise the world.

25. Pray with purity, make communion with my Spirit, do not look for a certain place for it. Pray under a tree, on a path, on the top of a mountain, or in the corner of your bedchamber and I will descend to converse with you to enlighten you and to give you strength.

26. When you hear this word, open your heart and let its light quicken you, and then, already clean and prepared, go into the world shedding the testimony of what you have received. Many offer their first fruits to me full of joy, while others, fearful, hide their seed. These put all their effort and did not obtain the desired fruit, but I see their zeal, their love, and I say to them: wait, persevere and you will gather.

27. Take care that the bad seed does not prosper, that it does not germinate in the earth. Today that the time is favorable for sowing, work and I will help you to cultivate.

28. I have left your nation in the image of the second Jerusalem, soon brothers, your of different races, will come to it, and seeing it prodigal, their ambitions will awaken and they will want to dispossess you. I warn you and I tell you: I have prepared it to offer peace to tired walkers, bread to the hungry and light to the spirits; I do not want to see them turned into lords and you into slaves; I inspire you with love, justice, so that you may live in peace.

29. Take advantage of the time and analyze my teaching because it is already approaching 1950 when I will stop speaking by this means, let me correct you and take you step by step to perfection.

Love one another!

30. Mary watches over you and although you do not look at her, you feel that her love and consolation pours into your being like a dew of grace. The sad have been filled with hope, the sinners are purified and you have all been blessed and anointed by It. Seek in the Divine Mother the consolation to your sorrows. Do you think that she can deny her company and protection to her children when she is sought with love? No, people, in his divine spirit you will find only love, tenderness and charity.

31. Women of the world, imitate Mary, evoke the time when she lived near you as a virtuous woman and selfless mother and you will feel your spirit fill with strength.

32. And you, men who have been created in my likeness and who are on the path of trials, feeling divine justice, fill yourselves with strength, use your gifts and govern your life with love and prudence.

33. To strengthen you, I say to you, eat of this bread and you will never die. Drink of this crystal clear water and you will never be thirsty again.

34. In this Age I have come to communicate with you in this form to prepare your spirit for spirit-to-Spirit communication. I come to speak to you at length so that you may come to know the divine essence of my word and not be confused with other doctrines.

35. I have made you enter a path of regeneration so that you will not feel ashamed when you are in my presence and so that you will feel worthy to listen to me.

36. I contemplate to the innermost depths of your heart. I still discover what you are about to do, so do not be surprised that sometimes I correct you before you have failed.

37. Thus, when the Father formed the world and gave it as a destiny to be a valley of atonement. He already knew that his children would have weaknesses and faults in their way, that a dwelling would be needed for them to make the first payment towards regeneration and Perfection.

38. When the first human beings inhabited the Earth, the Creator placed his love in them and endowed them with spirit, lit his light in consciousness, at the same time they were given free will.

39. And while some struggled to persevere in the good, fighting all temptations in order to remain clean and worthy of the Lord and according to their conscience, others, from sin to sin and from lack to lack, were forging a chain of sins, link by link, guided only by the voice of the senses, dominated by their passions, sowing error and temptation among their brothers and sisters.; but next to these troubled spirits, my prophets have also come as messenger angels of my Divinity, to awaken humanity to warn it of the lurking and to announce my arrival.

Love one another!

40. The spirits of darkness, crossing the spiritual path of humanity, confuse it by inducing it to idolatry, paganism, fanaticism.
41. My prophets, my messengers, my servants, have come to fight perversity and falsehood, they have come to suffer and die for their brothers, pointing with their index finger the way of truth, justice and love.
42. Seek the word of the prophets and in it you will see that they were preparing you from that time and were telling you about deeds that were to be fulfilled. See how Joel spoke to you about these times of spiritual manifestations. Realize that all the prophets have fought idolatry to teach spirit-to-Spirit communication.
43. When Christ came into the world, humanity had already sinned a lot, the flood had already washed the face of the earth. Sodom and Gomorrah had been consumed by fire and Babylon had been destroyed. He was coming to claim disobedience to his Law and the blood of his prophets and he also had to be judged and killed by his own children.
44. The Word became man, and took flesh from a virginal womb, spoke of humility, forgiveness, love and spiritual elevation, and was persecuted and judged. Being God, he suffered and died; as a man, he was mocked and mocked.
45. Men who have managed to penetrate the mysteries of those revelations have discovered the truth and bow to it today.
46. But at this time confusion arises again, and men, full of pride in their false greatness, try to banish the name of Jesus and his Doctrine from the human heart, behold the darkness. Meanwhile, the Father, in fulfillment of Joel's prophecy, opens a new era and pours out his spirit in all flesh and in every spirit he lets himself be heard, makes himself felt and lets himself be contemplated, manifesting himself in many forms.
47. Nature opens her bosom and surprises the world and science by revealing secrets that have amazed man and that are voices that speak of a wisdom and a power that is above all human knowledge. The graves keep the dead, but the spirits escape and materialize to testify to the survival of the spirit.
48. The eyes of men, the same in the child, in the young or in the old, cross the material to delve into the Beyond and contemplate the spiritual life.
49. Hear these clumsy and humble mouths speak to you of divine teachings, and you will find that this manifestation is one of the greatest of this time announced many centuries before.

Love one another!

50. Who has not had dreams that have been true prophecies and then you have seen them fulfilled? It is the time of the light, of the awakening of the spirit that had become lethargic with science, marveling at the material discoveries.

51. Men have also called this time the time of lights, because of its science. Look at them like birds crossing the heights; see them dominating the seas and the land, and how they have found light to illuminate the night. Every day they discover strength and elements to combine them and create new surprises for humanity, but that light has blinded them. Materialism and vanity have made them deaf to the voice of the heart and conscience,

52. Today the light of the Holy Spirit descends to the world so that men may lift up their faces and recognize that there is only one God and there is only one Law in which everyone must unite so that the works of humanity may be great and worthy of the Creator.

53. Do not be confused, because before the Sixth Seal closes, great events will happen, the stars will give great signs, the nations of the Earth will groan and three parts of this planet will disappear and only one will remain in which the seed of the Holy Spirit will sprout as new life. Humanity will begin a new existence united by a single doctrine, a single language and the same bond of peace and fraternity.

54. How far are you from the time when you lived under the natural law carrying in your conscience the voice of the Lord, who said to the first: "Grow and multiply, fill the earth".

55. Now spirituality will make you return to simplicity and naturalness, but carrying in your spirit the light that you have gathered through the long journey.

56. The light of consciousness that illuminated man's first step and accompanied him along paths and paths, over peaks and abysses, will make him return to the beginning of the path, consciousness never goes astray because it is my own light. Peradventure did you hear that she ever said to you: kill your brother, that she ordered you to ignore the father who fathered you or the mother who conceived you? Did you hear that she advised you to take the forbidden? No, my children, conscience has been a good guide, counselor and judge, because I am in conscience.

57. That is why I have always told you that wherever you are, you have me with you. Then why, if I am omnipotent, do you look for me in objects made by your hands? Why do you have to enter certain enclosures to say: Is the Lord here, because this is his house, when you know that I am universal? Why do you allow yourselves to be dazzled with feasts and ornaments if you know that in the splendor of Nature and in the inner sanctuary of your spirit I dwell and manifest Myself?

58. Study my Teaching as good disciples and there will be more light in your spirit.

Love one another!

59. While my word descends day after day among you, faith is kindled in some and doubt is raised in others; some intend to amend and others doubt if in truth it will be I who limit myself in this word, to believe and be regenerated. They feel the desire to contemplate Me in order to believe in Me and stop tormenting Themselves, but not seeing me with their material eyes, they look for spiritual and supernatural phenomena to ignite their faith.

60. Others close their eyes trying to penetrate the invisible to contemplate my face and in their effort they have become fatigued, but when their tired mind has penetrated the dream, the spirit remains elevated in the spaces. I have come down to converse with them, give them my teaching and ignite their faith. Upon awakening from that deep sleep, both the spirit and the body have felt renewed and have contemplated life illuminated by a new light. Then you vaguely remember your dream and say: I dreamed of Jesus, has the Master really been with me?

61. Truly I tell you, the spirit has many eyes to behold me. Recognize this gift and develop it, because through it the word of that prophet who said that the time would come when humanity would have prophetic visions and dreams will be fulfilled.

62. I also say to you, study these lessons well so that you will not go looking for the false prophets and seers of this world and believe in them.

63. In all times I have prepared your spirit for him to communicate directly with me and in this Third Time I should have already reached a great elevation; if that had been, when I came in spirit, you would not have hesitated nor would you have wanted to touch me with your hands.

64. When I tell you about the early times, many of you understand nothing because you have not even read the scriptures.

65. I am manifesting my third teaching since the year of 1866 and everything being foretold, many of you have doubted, some out of ignorance and others out of confusion due to misinterpretations. Therefore, now that I have prepared the room and the table for you to come and eat the delicacy of eternal life, I have found you unprepared and I have had to manifest myself with infinite patience in anticipation of your elevation and your awakening. ,

66. Regenerate yourselves, put aside your religious fanaticism, stop being hypocritical and selfish and you will feel like new beings; then you will not have to wonder if it will be I who descends among you, because the purity of your heart will let your spirit feel my presence. Faith is one of the greatest virtues, reach for it.

67. You are every moment before the blind, before the paralyzed, before the homeless; you have to heal them with your faith and kindle the light in the hearts of your brothers.

Love one another!

68. There are already examples among you of what you can achieve with your faith in Me; there are many testimonies of the wonders that you can achieve with faith.

69. Do not let 1950 surprise you weak in your faith, because great will be your tribulation, because you will feel like orphans.

70. Today I stand before the walkers to show them the true way. I do not stop to judge whether her garments are regal or miserable, but to search her heart for a sanctuary.

71. To the one who is falling down overcome by fatigue, I help him to get up and make him understand that when he has blasphemed he has rejected my strength and my light.

72. Pray that your spirits will not be disturbed in trials, because in an instant of violence you can become blind and lose what you have in your spirit.

73. Now you will be able to realize why humanity has been stripping itself of everything that made it great and spiritually elevated.

74. I have come out to meet you, because I have seen you about to fall into the abyss, ready to ask that your days be shortened, but when you heard my word you rose up realizing that you will have to dwell on earth until the moment marked by my Divinity.

75. To prove to you that your spiritual gifts are with you again, I have said to you: stretch out your hand in my name when the elements are unleashed and you will see that they obey you.

76. These wonders will increase your faith and when you least think about it, you will have become my labourers; then you will receive deeper lessons from your Teacher so that you will achieve great preparation and know how to receive those who will come to test you and those who will want to destroy you.

77. If you truly know how to bear witness to my word, you will see many of your brothers glorifying me by fulfilling the commandment that says to you, "Love one another."

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Love one another!

Teaching 251

1. At this time, you will marvel, when you see the wonders that you can do with your gifts, then you will no longer feel poor or disinherited, because at every step you will have proof that I love you and that I have set my gaze on you.
2. The gifts were deposited in your spirit from the moment of your formation; but it was necessary that I came to teach you and that you walked a lot, always evolving so that those gifts began to manifest.
3. This time is precisely in which the spirit of humanity has felt that it is living in a new era, which is illuminated by the light of a new day. He has experienced a shudder, a restlessness that has made him wake up from the deep lethargy in which his gifts and potencies were dormant.
4. Now humanity is questioning, it only senses, but the hour is coming when it exclaims with certainty: Behold the way! And follow it with faith.
5. Who will be able to stop the advance of the spirit of this humanity, once it undertakes the march and what power will manage to change the route traced by my light? Nothing and no one will be able to stop the spiritual awakening of men, when they rise up after the inheritance and the message that the Third Time has brought them.
6. I could have awakened you a long time ago, but I wanted to reach you at the right moment, when you had tired of the deep sleep in which you had been sleeping and when the horror of your sins and your continuous wars freed you from the passions of your matter.
7. Today one people, tomorrow another and the day after another, will wake up illuminated by an inner light that will tell everyone about spirituality.
8. At the moment of the awakening of these peoples, I will be ready to manifest myself before them. It will be the voice of the Father responding to the call of the children: but truly I tell you, I will not manifest myself to all in the same way; for example: this communication that I have had with you through the human understanding, was granted only to you and you can consider yourselves as the people who first woke up at the arrival of this Era.
9. The time to communicate in this way with you is already appointed and there is no spiritualist who ignores the year and the day for the completion of this stage.
10. At the conclusion of my lesson among you, you will have to prepare to spread this seed among the peoples of the Earth, with which you will greatly help your brothers in the critical moments of their awakening. They, in the certainty of their forebodings, in the reality of my message, will prepare to receive me in a spiritual way and just as I manifested myself among you and poured myself out according to the preparation of each congregation and of each spokesman, in the same way I will pour myself out in those, according to the spirituality of each people and the preparation that there is in their congregations.

Love one another!

11. Write and keep my word so that, when the time comes, you will make it known, because it will be the foundation and starting point for the new peoples that are emerging in the world to the spiritual life.

12. Do not let my message be mixed up with the materiality and the errors of those who have served me as instruments, because then you will not have delivered clean the fruit that I have come to entrust to you. I have taught you for a long time to know my divine essence, so that you may depart from every human tendency.

13. The light of my Spirit will follow in the footsteps of those who understand me and wake up tomorrow interpreting my commands as faithfully as possible, because they, on their way, will see that their struggle, their sacrifices and efforts have not been in vain. I will come to surprise you in your work, announcing to you that other peoples are already waiting for you, that you can already get up to sow because the seed has reached its maturity.

14. There will be spiritual excitement and tears of joy in my disciples when they witness the fulfillment of my word.

15. You will not have to go knocking on doors looking for someone to listen to you, because you will find that it will be your brothers who seek you and call you. It is enough for me that you are prepared and I will be the one who will point out the ways, who will inspire you what you should do and who will put in your path those who have to approach my people in demand of a testimony of love, of spirituality, of charity.

16. When you come to form with your harmony the people that I expect from you, you will not have to make an effort to make yourselves known, because it will be others who fulfill that mission, spreading from heart to heart the news that there is a people in whose bosom shines the light of a divine message that is the bread of spiritual life for all men.

17. Trust in Me, people. I tell you, if you are thrown out of the bosom of your society, if they reject you from the cities where you live, I will take you away from your persecutors, I will take you to the desert, to the mountain, to the valleys or to the shores of the sea and I will feed you there, as I fed the people of Israel in the desert, sending them manna.

18. Now I bring a new manna for my people, the one who will soon descend, as soon as trials weigh down my chosen ones.

Love one another!

19. The trials will come, because my word never ceases to be fulfilled, they will serve to unite this people, as Israel was united in Egypt, under the slavery of Pharaoh.

20. When the trials come, only those who love me, the strong and the faithful, will remain on this path; the false, the hypocrites, those who fear the world, those who did not follow me out of love will turn away. It will be enough for Me to see those who truly love me united, to say to the world, "This is my people, this is my seed."

21. I assure you that neither water nor bread will be lacking to those who follow me with all the faith of his spirit, because no one has ever been disappointed in his faith.

22. I already hear that some are asking me in their hearts: "Master, when will all this be?" It is that you are afraid, it is that you tremble when I announce the trials to you, but I tell you, whoever is afraid, do not come to the desert, let him stay in the city, where he likes oppression more because he has become accustomed to servitude and humiliation, but when he opens his eyes to the truth and his heart is filled with courage and faith, come to the desert, run in search of freedom of his spirit and peace of his heart.

23. Do you ask me when that test will come? I tell you, for some it has already arrived and then it will be presented to others, until you are all prepared and strengthened.

24. The tests arrive in such a subtle way that many times you don't even realize when they arrived or when they ended, what would it be like for you, if I announced the date, day and time for you to wait for them?

25. How many of you are already dwelling in the desert of which I have spoken to you this day, and you live fed with the new manna. They are those who, thrown out of the bosom of society, have been unknown by relatives and friends. They are those who have been denied the greeting and the doors of work have been closed to them; they are also those who have been judged as heretics, traitors and apostates and have been thrown out of the bosom of religions.

26. They suffered slander, bad looks, humiliations, ridicule, contempt, but they suffered everything patiently, knowing that they lost nothing and gained the grace to listen to me.

27. They had to retire to the desert, but not to a material desert, but to a spiritual retreat, even though they have materially continued to live where they have always lived,

28. There, in that spiritual retreat, they have found a peace that they did not know before, they have had satisfactions that no one gave them before and if at first they felt loneliness because they did not know how to perceive my presence, today they thank me because they have lacked nothing and because no one has overcome them.

Love one another!

29. The life of frivolities that they previously led, was left behind, everything false, everything superficial passed, because for them the time came to find the truth and embrace it with all the strength of their being.

30. Blessed are the people of good will and faith, for they will not be victims of their enemies. My power stops the hand that treacherously wants to hurt them, my light surprises those who lurk in its path, so that they move forward without stopping, because the Promised Land awaits them, in it there is a feast prepared for when you all penetrate to its bosom.

31. My word has touched the fibers of many hearts that have told me: "Lord, no one like You to tell the truth, because indeed since we rose up to follow you at this time, we had to resist the judgments of our brothers who were like the bitter herbs that your people ate on the night of liberation in Egypt".

32. Think about your faith, O beloved people, and you will see how those very ones who did not know you, will come to swell your ranks, because they too will be called, they too will be given the opportunity to free themselves from their materialized and false life, to fill the emptiness of their spirit with the divine essence that overflows this Work.

33. The call can come to everyone at the same time; but not everyone can answer at the same time. Some will be ready to come, others will not be able to do so because their spirit has not yet evolved to rise to the fulfillment of their mission.

34. I tell you this, so that when I tell you about the called and the chosen, you will know that at all times the called are many and the chosen few, because I select only those who are prepared and all those who were called and did not become among the chosen, will wait a while and will be called again.

35. Do you not remember that many times I have told you that I have knocked for the first, second and third time at the doors of your heart and that until you have been alert and prepared, you have come to my call? Therefore do not despair before those to whom my message reaches and do not show interest.

36. Fulfill your mission of making my word known and be content with the immediate or delayed result of your work.

37. You come to seek in my word the strength that you felt you lacked to move away from the superfluous that is in your life and that is that you had let the customs, habits, traditions and vices of your ancestors take root in your heart.

Love one another!

38. Now the struggle has arisen within you, because the voice of conscience is making itself heard more and more clearly; but your heart still opposes resistance to him, because he, in his materialism, leans more towards matter than spirit.

39. I bless your inner struggle because it is a sign that you feel love for Me, that you grant truth and justice to my word.

40. There are moments when you fear that the flesh will triumph in you, because your faith and your love still feel weak in the face of temptations, it is when you come in haste to listen to me, in the hope of finding in my word the necessary weapons to combat sin and darkness. You arrive contrite, sorry, wishing that, if possible, my gaze would not discover you, although you know that you do not escape my sight for an instant. Then, when you receive the tenderness of my word in your heart, you let your tears run, in a relief that instantly lightens your burden. Then you come to think that if I have received you with such love, it has been because I have not penetrated into your heart nor have I discovered in it everything that embarrasses you in front of Me.

41. Ah, little and weak children, who do not yet know your Teacher! What would become of you who come to seek strength in Me so that you would no longer sin, if instead of words of forgiveness, encouragement, love and wisdom, I received you with judgments and sentences, with complaints, threats and punishments? You would end up doubting these words one day and then give yourself completely into the arms of materialism. Do not say then that my gaze does not discover you at the moments when I give you my word through the spokesman.

42. Look at this group of farmers, servants in this Work: they also arrived like you, with a heart full of sufferings and unleashed passions, they were also moved by my word and knew about the inner struggle of the spirit and the flesh and also believed that my gaze did not discover them among the crowds, because in my word I did not claim their sins. Now they are here, in my countryside, carrying out in peace a mission that I have entrusted to them, because at last faith came to their heart, because serenity was in their spirit after the struggle and because they understood that they could never escape my divine gaze, which follows you wherever you go.

43. Still the world and the flesh tempt them and that serves to test their love, their faith and their loyalty and so that they do not sleep. There are those who usually defy the world when their spiritual strength is still not great enough to free them from all the falls, those are the ones who are falling and rising, those who today move away and tomorrow return until a day comes when they are no longer weak and know how to persevere in the truth to the end.

44. Of you, who today come distressed because you cannot master your weaknesses, I will make new labors, even if it seems impossible for now, that you can be useful to someone; then you will see a miracle take place in your being, because you will contemplate your spiritual transformation. Then the weak will feel strong, and the unbeliever will be fervent.

Love one another!

45. Blessed are those who, when they sin, repent and weep for having offended me. Blessed are the poor in spirit, because I have come to give them courage and make them triumph over the world, sin, materialism and vice.

46. Tomorrow you will have to bear witness to the miracle of your conversion, to the wonder of your regeneration. Tomorrow you will be an open book before your brothers and from your pages, that is, from your past, you will draw all the light of the experience and wisdom acquired in my Work, so that you may offer it to your brothers, as the ripe fruit of your struggle, of your preparation and of your triumph.

47. In the nations, in the counties and villages, where men long for my arrival, where the presence of my word is felt, the testimony of my labourers will arrive like a true dew on the thirsty spirit of men.

48. I have already told you that my witnesses and followers will have to be denied, mocked and persecuted; but they will also be believed and blessed by others, that will be another struggle that I will also bless, because having a struggle, there will be triumph.

49. In order that all men on earth may attest to the truth of this message, I have caused those signs prophesied in ancient times, prophecies that spoke of my new coming, to be felt throughout the world; thus, when this good news reaches the nations, men will search and investigate everything that has been spoken in all these times and surprised and joyful they will find what was announced and promised for my new coming, has been faithfully fulfilled, as befits one who has only one will, one word and one law.

50. I have told you in my teachings that life is the via dolorosa of the spirit and the end of his existence on Earth; it is his calvary in which you will try to imitate me, putting my examples into practice.

51. Blessed are the spirits who know how to reach with faith and virtue to the top, because at the moment of detaching themselves from the envelope, they will experience the caress of the Father as a reward for their strength and their love: those are the ones who will penetrate without stumbling into eternity.

52. My word at this time will help men to understand the full meaning of my Law and my Doctrine and the fulfillment that humanity gives to them will provide happiness. Happiness of the heart and peace of the spirit, because the perfect bliss will only be found by the spirit in the dwelling to which he belongs.

Love one another!

53. How many opportunities you have at every step to be good and useful to your fellow human beings. Every home is a favorable field to sow my seed; every city and every town are like a land thirsty for charity and love, and I have been making you sowers so that you can spread your comfort among humanity and sow peace.

54. Works, words and prayers are the means that you must and can use to fulfill the mission of serving and loving your brothers and sisters in the world.

55. I have taught you the perfect prayer, the one that is the true language of the spirit, the one that puts man in direct communication with me.

56. I have given you the gift of the word, which is an expression of the light that is in the spirit and of the love that treasures the heart.

57. People, who listen to my word: do not say that I am asking too much of you, when I know better than yourselves what you are capable of.

58. Today you feel weak, clumsy, powerless and unworthy, because you examine your interior and discover many weaknesses, many needs that do not let you feel the pain of others; but first I am going to heal you, to make you feel my peace, to strengthen your heart and to clear your path and then you will not feel shyness, nor will you have doubt or feel incapable.

59. That is why I have left you listening to me for a while, strengthening you little by little in my word, without yet sending you to the regions; but when your spirit is saturated with my essence, it will not wait for trials or signs to get up, because it will know how to receive by inspiration whatever it should do.

60. Pray, people, and while you pray I will pour out my peace on all the peoples of the earth, I will bless your homes, I will illuminate your paths.

61. I will give you a proof that what I have promised you is true. What proof will that be? The one that you see realized in your life something that you have been waiting for for a long time, something that for some it is impossible to obtain. Some will soon receive what I have offered; others I will keep waiting, but truly I tell you, there will not be one who will not receive my proof of love. When that grace comes to each of you, you will remember my word and your faith will increase.

62. Do not despair, do not shed your tears, know how to wait for that hour practicing my teaching, praying and watching

63. Do you see how in these moments when you lift up your spirit, you forget your sorrows and fill yourself with my peace? Seek to be always before Me, through a complete practice of my Doctrine and you will see my peace and my light prevail over your vicissitudes and labors.

Love one another!

64. Understand that your sorrows are not useless, but that you have the mission of tempering yourselves spiritually and bodily so that you can be part of the number of my sowers.

65. Those who are going to bring comfort to men, those who are going to lift up those who have fallen, those who are going to give strength to the weak, have to be illuminated by the light of experience, have to be tempered in struggle and in trials. Let no picture of pain frighten them, let them not tremble at the misfortune of a fellow man; let them not flee from pain when hands are stretched out to them in demand of charity.

66. There, among those who have hardened in vice and in pain, you will see many rise to the light, seeking regeneration and spirituality; but, in order for that inspiration to reach them, you have to deposit in their hearts a true test of fraternity, an action that is the ray of light that separates the darkness from the one who suffers.

67. Understand, then, that the pain that has accompanied you in many ways, has been the chisel that inwardly has been modeling your spirit, for the performance of a delicate mission.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 252

1. People, who have been witnesses of my manifestation in this time: you are the one prepared to interpret and remain as an example for the last. You know the reason for my coming, as you also know the reason for my departure, when the hour appointed by Me has arrived.
2. You have nothing to fear from the world because you are my disciples. Not because you are humble will you become destitute, do not confuse the humility of the spirit with the poverty of matter. Not because you are spiritualists you are going to lose your human rights, on the contrary, whoever understands and applies spirituality to his life, owns everything around him, and lives and enjoys with greater intensity than he who only sees and feels the material.
3. Spiritualized men are those who will worthily bear the name of disciples of Christ in the Third Time; men who know how to give to God what is of the spirit and to the world what is of matter; men who make all the laws one: that is to love their Creator and love him in their fellow men.
4. A man spiritually prepared by my Doctrine will be qualified to perform superhuman works.
5. From his spirit and from, his body will emanate a light, a power and a force that will allow him to accomplish what intelligence alone is not capable of accomplishing.
6. To that degree of elevation I want you to reach, beloved people, because then every work of yours will be a testimony of my truth. From your word, as from your prayer and even from your own hands, the divine balm will flow that will be joy and liberation for the sick in body or spirit, from your word the light that brings faith to the spirits will arise and your prayer will be the means by which the spirit is transported, sowing good in its path.
7. That is the future of those who follow me and know how to interpret and fulfill my teachings.
8. Watch from now on so that your mind will never be clouded, so that in the trials that you have to go through, you will not betray what is your faith today.
9. How much joy there will be in this people when they have got rid of their imperfections and are practicing my word according to my will!
10. For now you still have many obstacles that prevent you from moving towards spirituality. You know that these obstacles are your lack of union, your attachment to external cults and the lack of true charity.
11. The strong idealistic and fighting people have not yet risen from among you, the people in which humanity can find the counselor, the doctor, the brother, the guide, there has not yet appeared among you the people who in their union and fraternity resemble an immense home, full of peace, respect and love, where one's bread belongs to others and the roof of one is that of all.

Love one another!

12. Where is that example? When have you fought for such an ideal?

13. It is not a reproach to what I am telling you, people, it is the word of a Father who wants only the good for his children and who, to achieve this, has to point out his mistakes to them and help them correct them.

14. I will still be giving you my word for a while longer and in it I will continue to make revelations, I will continue to discover what I had in store for this time, I will continue to pour out in my teaching the light necessary for humanity to be saved from the approaching confusion.

15. I have announced to you that the time will come when you will see many "spiritualisms" arise and that you must be prepared to discover in whom there is truth and in whom there is imposture.

16. You will see false communications attributed to Me appear. Rumors of divine envoys bringing messages to the world, sects with the name of the Seven Seals and many confused and indefinite doctrines.

17. All this will be the product of the great spiritual confusion that humanity has been preparing, but do not be afraid, try to live watching and praying and you will not succumb in confusion, because my word, in the moments of greatest darkness, will be light that makes you contemplate my diaphanous and perennial truth.

18. Understand that this time is one of study, of teaching and revelations. Do not be slow or negligent because later you will mourn the lost time.

19. Develop your intuition so that your spirit may reveal to you the mission of which it is the bearer. Let him work on my Work, make it easy for him to fulfill the promise he has made to me and that he has written on his conscience. If I, your Teacher, promised you to come at this time to illuminate your existence with my word, why should the disciples not fulfill their word to return to Me?

20. I did not come to surprise you with my presence at this time, because my word was written and the world knew of my return that no one should be surprised that when I called him to listen to my teaching, it was in order to ratify the gifts and missions that I deposited in his spirit when I sent him to Earth.

Love one another!

21. Fulfilling my promise to you, I have given you proof that my word is carried out over all that is created, so that when the time comes to make it cease among you, no one will say that he did not know, no one will say that he was surprised, or reply by saying that he did not have time to prepare.

22. Learn from now on to respect my will by obeying my orders and loving what I have at My disposal. He who loves and does my will is my son and is my disciple, he who does not respect my will and does his own is my son, but not my disciple, because he neither loves me nor imitates me.

23. In my Doctrine I come to give you the rules so that you may succeed as disciples of this Work, so that you may not stumble or make mistakes that later make you cry painfully.

24. I tell you from now on, that those who truly sow this seed with the grace with which I have entrusted it to you, will walk in peace, the doors that had been deaf to their call will be opened to them and even if they become combated, they will never be defeated in the fight because their virtue will make them come out ahead in all trials.

25. On the other hand, those who do not listen to the voice of their conscience, those who disobey my word and betray me, will always be at the mercy of their enemies, they will live uneasily and will be afraid of death.

26. Will it be fair, I ask my disciples, that a perfect work such as the one I have come to reveal to you, be exposed before humanity to be judged as a falsehood or to be considered as one more of the doctrines and theories that have arisen in these times, as the fruits of the spiritual confusion that reigns?

27. Would it be right that you, whom I have loved so much and prepared with my word so that your testimony would be clean, had to fall into the hands of the justice of the earth, victims of your mistakes or were persecuted and disseminated because they considered you harmful to your fellow human beings? Do you think that my well-practiced doctrine could give rise to these events? No, disciples. Let me talk to you like this because I know why I do; tomorrow, when I have stopped speaking to you in this way, you will know why I spoke to you in this way, and you will say: "The Master knew well how many weaknesses we were going to suffer, nothing escapes his wisdom."

28. I want that when my communication is concluded, you will have a well-defined idea of what this Doctrine is, so that you will give it its due fulfillment, because until now true spiritualists have not emerged among the multitudes who have heard my word. So far it has not been Spiritualism that you have practiced, but a form that you have conceived of what is my Work, but which is far from true spirituality.

Love one another!

29. You need to put on strength to accept that you have been confused; you must rise up to amend your practices, seeking hard for the truth and purity of this Doctrine to shine among you.
30. Do not be afraid to change the outer part of your practices and your worship, as long as you do not alter the essence of my teachings.
31. I will give you your reward, I will reward how much effort and sacrifice you make for the improvement of your works within the path that I have pointed out to you.
32. Many of you search my manifestation to convince you whether it is true or not; but many times, instead of searching it in its essence, you judge it on the outside and for that reason you get confused.
33. I have seen you observe my spokespersons even in their slightest movements, I have seen you be surprised when you have seen them cry or be as human as you, and then your heart has exploded in blasphemies denying truth to my communication. I have heard when you have said: How can these be called pedestals or spokesmen of Jesus, if I have seen them weak, small and human like any mortal? Ah, materialistic spirits who only seek the truth in what they can see or touch! Also at that time men judged me because I was born in poverty and were scandalized when they saw that my body was bleeding on the cross and that my lips were complaining. Poor beings who could not understand the mystery or the meaning of each of my acts!
34. To those who feel my presence in their spirit, the essence of my word, the light of my teaching, the outpouring of my love, the consolation of my spiritual caress are enough. Those are the ones who close their eyes to everything outside to look for me with the spirit, those are the ones who always follow me.
35. In those who felt the presence of God in the word of Jesus, it was in those who the essence of the Master's sacrifice remained as the divine seal of love, as in this time the essence of my word will remain in those who sought me in spirit.
36. Will it be necessary for me to repeat to you at every step that my Kingdom is not of this world?
37. My word at this time comes to remind you of the past, to reveal to you the mysteries and to announce to you what is to come. She will set right all that men have twisted and perverted, because I, jealous of the truth, come with the sword of my zeal and my justice to tear down everything false, to destroy hypocrisy and lies, to throw merchants out of the temple of truth again.

Love one another!

38. Understand that you do not have to look for the truth in books, in advice or in the commandments of men in order to achieve your salvation.

39. You are all here to be saved, I cannot find one who is already on dry land, you are shipwrecked in the middle of a stormy night, in which each one fights for himself without remembering his brother, because his life is in danger.

40. And truly I tell you: I am your only Savior, the one who comes once again in search of those who have been lost, because they have strayed from the path that is the Law; I come to illuminate your path so that you may reach land, that blessed land that awaits you, because in its bosom it holds infinite treasures for the spirit.

41. Let my word sweeten your heart, O people, so that tomorrow you may know how to love your brothers and sisters and be with them in their pain, as I have been with you in these hours of trials.

42. Help the branches of the Tree that is this Doctrine to grow and spread over the world, giving fruit and shade to every hungry and tired being who wanders on Earth.

43. I am the Tree and you will be the fruits by which humanity will recognize me.

44. If there is sweetness and life in your works, you will have given faithful testimony of who has taught you and given you the sap of love and truth.

45. The lesson that I have come to give you in this Third Time is a new testament that will remain united to those of past times, because all three form a single revelation.

46. My light will illuminate the understanding of men destined to unite in a single book all my teachings.

47. My spiritual servants will guide the hand of my chosen ones so that there is no stain in that book.

48. The differences that have existed between this people, their arguments and their disunity, will disappear when you delve deeper into this book and come to understand the truth of my Work.

49. Today you do not realize the consequences that your disunity is going to cause you; but in truth I tell you that tomorrow you are going to cry because of it. How many times have I asked you for the unification of thoughts, of practices, of spirits; how many times have you disobeyed my divine advice!

50. I have inspired you to form a people, giving you the name of New Israel; I have given you various missions and positions so that in your journey and in your struggles you will have all the necessary elements, as happened with Israel in the First Time, when he crossed the desert, in pursuit of the Promised Land; but, you have not tried to understand my commands until now, nor have you wanted to observe the example of union that that people left written, an indelible example because it was their harmony and their union that made him overcome the vicissitudes that he encountered on his way.

Love one another!

51. A new Land of Promise awaits you, but you are still far from it. You are crossing the vast desert, you left Pharaoh's slavery behind and you have already received the Law, however, you have not completely abandoned idolatry and without realizing it you sometimes worship the golden calf.

52. Trials, obstacles and persecutions will have to come to you in order for you to wake up from your sleep. Then you will be ready to fulfill my commands and zealous to watch over the Work that I have revealed to you, as at that time the Israelites built the Tabernacle and the Ark to keep the Law, because the trials had awakened them to the light.

53. Your Tabernacle will now be your spirit, and your ark, the conscience. There will be my Law illuminating the path of the Lord's people.

54. There has not emerged in this time a man who, imitating Moses, walked in front of this people encouraging their faith with wonders, but with a little preparation you will be able to feel the spiritual presence of Them, who is the one who guides, encourages and inspires you on this journey.

55. The crowds that listen to me are crying. Only I know the reason for their complaints, only I know all the obstacles and difficulties that they have encountered in their path and that are stopping them.

56. Persevere, multitudes, be faithful and you will see obstacles brought down. Pray and work, with ever greater truth, purity and perfection, so that in your mission you may find the consolation and the strength necessary to overcome the vicissitudes of life. If you walk like this, when you least think, you will see the path cleared and the stumbles disappeared.

57. You are my fields, where for now the wheat and the tares grow together. It is not yet the time to reap, but when it comes, the works of each of you will be judged, then I will leave the good disciples on Earth and raise up from this world those who have not borne fruits of unification and spirituality.

58. Keep watch and keep in mind my word, not because you have received very great offices and missions from Me, entrust yourselves, believing that my justice can never reach you. Remember David and Solomon, who, having been great before their people, fell asleep in their greatness, they broke the Law and saw my divine justice, inexorable and wise, coming upon them, when they believed that because they were so loved by the Father they would never be touched by Him.

Love one another!

59. Think, O people, of the new generations. Think of your children as the patriarchs did, who prepared their peoples so that they would know how to receive the arrival of the Messiah.

60. Pray for what is coming, prepare the way with charity and love, understand that they will have even higher missions than yours and that it will be good for them to find a trace of spirituality through which to walk. What will that print be? That of your life, that of your deeds.

61. Why do you always make me come with complaints? I come to you out of love, because I see that you carry pain in your heart and I want to comfort you, because I want you to carry my peace in your spirit.

62. Sometimes I appear before you as a judge, sometimes you have me as a Father, and I always present myself as a Teacher. Under these three phases you have the divine essence that is One: the Law, Love, Wisdom, that is the Trinity that exists in my Spirit.

63. Close your eyes and let the spirit free, so that he may live intensely these moments of communion with his Master. Let him feel close to Me like those who in the Second Time followed the Master along roads, valleys, villages, banks and deserts so as not to lose a single one of his teachings. Then you will be able to understand the figurative sense with which I sometimes speak, when I take from the material of the Earth to represent to you the spiritual and put it within your reach. You will see how my word brings the Kingdom of Heaven closer to your spirit.

64. Come, humanity, for Me to teach you, or do you want pain to continue teaching you throughout your life?

65. Come to my countryside to sow the lands with fraternity, I assure you that my. the countryside will not disappoint you; like the world.

66. Here is the way, in front of your spirit, inviting you to take it and never stop, because every step you take in it will be a step that brings your spirit closer to the perfect abode that awaits him.

67. The time that I will still be among you others speaking to you in this way is very brief and I want you to learn to make merits so that in these last years my Word overflows through these spokespersons.

Love one another!

68. How can the divine inspirations be like a reward for your merits? With your faith, your zeal and your spirituality. Let there be love in the bosom of the people, let charity be practiced, let truth be loved.

69. Verily I say to you, if you do not unite as is my will, humanity will scatter you, and will throw you out of its bosom if it sees that your life departs from what you preach.

70. What will happen if men discover that in each enclosure there is a different cult and a different way of practicing my Doctrine? They will not be able to conceive that it was I who taught you.

71. I entrust the last three years of my communication to you so that you may work for the union of this people, unification that encompasses what is spiritual as well as what is external, so that your work, full of harmony and equality, may be the greatest proof that all of you, in different enclosures and in different regions, were taught by a single Teacher: GOD.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 253

1. My presence on this day is that of a judge; my light penetrates the sanctuary of your being.
2. I come to receive and also to give, to receive the fruit of the good sowing and to give you new seed to cultivate.
3. You come before my presence to thank me for the benefits received and for the good result of your works on the spiritual path. There are those who come repentant before Me, they are those who bring the weight of some remorse and before my voice of justice they shudder and are filled with fear. Both seek my forgiveness and pray that they will not lack sustenance in the times to come.
4. Today begins a year among you, precisely the penultimate of my communication by the human understanding and it is natural that my word manifests itself justiciera towards the people who for a long time have received these lessons.
5. With the fire of love and justice I will make you understand my teaching written from the beginning in your conscience, so that tomorrow you will be able to testify to this truth.
6. All my works are written by Me in a Book called "Life"; the number of its pages is countless; the infinity of its wisdom, outside of God who is its author, cannot be reached by anyone; but there, in each of its pages, there is a summary in which the Father has limited each of his works, to make it available to every understanding.
7. You are also writing the book of your life, in which all your works and each of your steps along the path of evolution will be written. That book will be written on your conscience and will be the light of knowledge and experience with which tomorrow you will illuminate the path of your younger brothers.
8. You cannot yet present your book to anyone, because you do not even know its contents; but, soon the light will be made in your being and you will be able to show your brothers the pages that speak of your development, of your restitution and of your experiences. You will then be an open book before humanity. Blessed are those who take possession of their mission, they will feel that they are ascending the ladder that Jacob saw in a dream, which is the spiritual path that leads beings to the presence of the Creator.
9. Take with love all the trials of your life, knowing that they are lessons that enlighten your spirit and strengthen it to walk the long road that it still has to travel; the greater your understanding, the greater your love will have to be towards the One who sent you on the path of the struggle for perfection and who has always helped you in the fulfillment of your trials.

Love one another!

10. I certainly test you, I touch you and I judge you; but at the same time I sustain you, I forgive you and I raise you up, a spirit will never be disappointed from my presence, because injustice does not fit in Me.

11. I bless you, multitudes who have learned to listen to me in silence, silencing the sobs that tear the thistles from the path. Your lip is silent, so as not to leave any complaints, but your heart blesses me. How can the Father not bless you in turn, who thus feels understood by His creatures?

12. The light is being made in your spirit, it is the time when the darkness rises from the people that I have now come looking for and gathering,

13. Many congregations form this people, and from each of them I am receiving on this day their tribute, that is, the fruit of their work, so that each one receives the reward according to their works, their aspirations and ideals.

14. The one who goes looking for honors and praises of the world, will have them here; but they will be of little duration and will be of no use to him on the day of his entry into the spiritual world; the one who goes after money, will have his retribution here, because it was to what he aspired; but, when the time comes to leave everything here, to present himself in the Hereafter, he will not have the slightest right to claim any compensation for his spirit, even if he thinks he has done a lot for charity. On the contrary, the one who has always renounced flattery and favors, the one who has cleanly and disinterestedly loved his brother and has renounced all material rewards, busy sowing the good, enjoying the realization of charity, he will not be thinking about rewards because he will not live for his own satisfaction, but for that of his fellow men. How great will be his peace and his happiness when he is in the bosom of his Lord!

15. It is necessary to let the trees grow to recognize them by their fruits, then it will be the hour of Judgment, in which all those who have borne poisonous fruits will be destroyed in the fire of my justice of love, and only those who have borne fruits of life and health will be respected.

16. In this way the religions and all the sects that exist on Earth will be judged, so that only those who love and follow the truth will remain and all those who hide it behind the veil of lies, falsehood and hypocrisy will disappear.

17. There is only one Law and therefore, only one way to fulfill it, is the one that you should all seek so that you find yourselves spiritually unified.

18. Judge yourselves intimately at this moment, you who hear my voice; ask yourselves if your ideal is high and your works clean; ask yourselves if you are already prepared so that after my departure you will be able to remain among humanity as patriarchs, prophets and apostles. Tell

Love one another!

if you have already spiritualized yourselves, if you are honoring the name of spiritualists that I have given you to designate you.

19. In the year of 1948, a commotion shook this people, it was the touch of my justice that came to awaken you, as in all times, when you have fallen into the lethargy of fanaticism or routine.

20. If, since you began to have my manifestation at this time, you had tried to understand the essence of my New Message, how much pain, how much discussion and how many interior struggles you would have avoided; but you inclined as always, to the exterior worship, which prevents freedom and elevation to the spirit, and the moment had to come to put a limit to your errors. Are you spiritualists? For you need to demonstrate this in your worship of God, in your life and in your relationships with one another.

21. While some have woken up understanding what the truth is and have risen up striving for spirituality, others, clinging to their past customs, have embraced their symbols, their forms and their habits, saying that I showed you all the symbols and that therefore, they are the law for them.

22. The struggle has arisen, but this is not the first time that this has happened among the doctrinaire People for God. Already in the First time, in one of the commandments dictated by God on the summit of Mount Sinai, he commanded men not to use any figure that represented the divine and at the same time made them understand that the true worship was that of the fulfillment of that Law, which was enclosed all in love of God and in loving neighbor.

23. However, the people created an infinity of traditions, growing every day in fanaticism and idolatry. The symbol was no longer the form through which the explanation of something superior was received, but the object of idolatry and adoration.

24. It was necessary that I should come into the world to teach you the way from which you were departing, but when the priests and Pharisees realized that I had not been preaching traditions, they accused Me by telling the people that my word was against the Law of Moses. There, my voice rose to reply to the hypocritical representatives of the Law, that I was not coming against what was instituted by the Father, but to fulfill it with my life, that what I was coming to erase from the hearts, was the useless traditions and ceremonies, by which they had forgotten to comply with the Law, that is, to "Love God by loving one another".

25. Do you not think it right that now, when you are living in the time of the Holy Spirit, He should come to take away from your heart how much tradition and external worship you have introduced into this Work, which you know by Spiritualism?

Love one another!

26. It is well that in initiating you into each of the three revelations, which God has given to humanity, some symbols and some acts have been allowed to facilitate your understanding and assimilation of the divine teachings, but not so that you keep them perpetually and much less so that you worship them. That has always been the cause of your spiritual stagnation and the reason why I have come in all times to rescue you from the uncertain path to lead you to the true path of light.

27. Nor do I come now to ignore what I instituted in times past, but to teach you to fulfill it, elevating your life and your works to a greater degree of spirituality that is at the same time true.

28. Thus, when I stop speaking to you in this way, you will have no need of materials, nor of rites, nor of forms, because you will have already freed yourselves from idolatry and materialism, to seek with the spirit the presence of the Father, who is also Spirit.

29. You are going to penetrate into the bosom of a humanity tired of external cults and fed up with its religious fanaticism, so I tell you that the message of spirituality that you are going to bring to it will reach its heart like fresh and life-giving dew.

30. Do you think that if you arrived with fanatical cults and practices opposed to spirituality, could the world recognize you as carriers of a divine message? Truly I tell you, they would take you for fanatics of a new sect.

31. Given the clarity with which I have been speaking to you, there are those who tell me: "Teacher, how is it possible that we do not know many of the practices that Roque Rojas bequeathed to us?" To which I tell you that that is why I gave you that example of the Second Time, when I made the people understand that by complying with rites, forms, traditions and festivals, they had forgotten the Law, which is the essential thing. I reminded you of this fact about your Teacher, so that you would understand that even now you must forget about traditions and ceremonies, even if you have learned them from Roque Rojas, as at that time the people had inherited them from Moses.

32. Now, I do not want to tell you that they have taught you something bad, no, they had to resort to symbols and acts that helped the people to understand the divine revelations; but, once that object was achieved, it was necessary to erase all form or symbolism already useless, to make the light of truth shine.

33. What I have been asking of you is cleanliness, from the spokesman who transmits my word, to the last of the children.

34. The greatest responsibility rests on the spokespersons, because through their lips I am explaining the Law; but they have not understood their responsibility. To them I say: Wake up!

Love one another!

Listen to the voice of your conscience! Look at this innocent people, eager for my word, they have clothed themselves with humility and conformity to what you offer them, what would become of you if the people rose up demanding preparation and spirituality from you? And how right and right he would have, since it is about his faith, his spirit, his peace on earth and his path to eternity.

35. Spokespersons, interpreters of my word, prophets of the Third Time, it is not your clumsiness, nor your smallness, nor your poverty that hinders Me from being able to manifest myself through you to humanity, it is your sin and lack of preparation that limit the essence and hide the truth that I have brought for my people.

36. Truly I tell you, whoever does not feel able to spiritualize himself, it is better to close his lips, but do not mix darkness with the truth, because the multitudes who listen do not yet know how to separate the chaff from the wheat, that is, the lie from the truth, the superfluous from the essential.

37. My word is severe and strict, but see that this manifestation is also coming to an end and it is necessary that your best work be the crowning of the spiritual work that I have entrusted to you.

38. Know that this word that has gushed from your lips is the spiritual message that comes to overthrow reigns, empires and thrones so that the Kingdom of Heaven, which is a kingdom of love, peace and justice, may be established in the spirit of humanity.

39. I have sent messengers of my word to other nations, pray for them and give them strength with your thoughts. They will raise up seed and gather multitudes, which, once spiritualized, will join you, with bonds of fraternity and understanding.

40. I am preparing new envoys of my word, who will also have to take this Good News to other countries. Over all I spread the mantle of my peace.

41. This time that you are living is one of transition, of evolution, of trials, changes and surprises. Live alert, watch and pray and persevere in my Law,

42. Today is the struggle, today merits are made, today one suffers, one battles and one works; tomorrow, when you are all in Me, when you have conquered the perfection of the spirit, you will have your abode in the bosom of the Father, where everything that reaches its perfection arrives and is kept; a bosom that contains wisdom, perfections and beauties that you cannot conceive here.

43. My word is the way, the truth and the life that leads your spirit to the Land of Promise; come for him, do not get lost, beloved people.

Love one another!

44. My ray of light lands on the mountain from where I ask you: why are you still on the skirt of it, why have you not managed to climb it?
45. Many listen to me with great joy in their hearts, but there are those who, upon hearing my word, allow themselves to be invaded by great sadness, these are those who, like Israel in Egypt, feel like slaves, they still bring the signs of the whip and their hunger is for freedom and light.
46. Know that it is for you that I have come, because I have seen you hungry and thirsty for justice, freedom and love.
47. Come and hear this voice, which comes to give you courage, to fill you with strength and to enlighten you so that you turn your back on Pharaoh and leave his lands, where you have been captive, wounded and humiliated.
48. Look up and contemplate the Divine Mountain how it invites you to climb it, come to it, have faith that you will reach the summit, walk the first steps, ascend and soon your joy will be great when you feel that the chains that held you down and the yoke that oppressed you have been left behind.
49. O people of all times, remove ingratitude from your hearts, so that you may truly experience the peace of your Father!
50. On this path the blind see, the weary regain strength, the crippled walk, the sick heal, the sad sing for joy.
51. I come to gather my people again and to ratify their spiritual mission before humanity, turning the outcasts into useful beings to their fellow men and those who believed themselves disinherited by making them prophets and doctors of the spirit.
52. You are the ones who will have to testify to my coming in this Third Time. I know that the nations and the regions need your testimony; but know that when you rise up, it must be to show you as the children of light.
53. First I want you to understand the spiritual greatness of the mission that I am entrusting to you, only in this way will your spirit realize the responsibility of your mission.
54. But if you think that I must wait until it is your will to prepare you to take this message of light to the world, you are in grave error, because it is I who comes to save men and rescue their spirit, you are only going to be forerunners, heralds, prophets, servants. To fulfill these missions is what I am doctrinating you for.
55. An essence I have deposited in the heart of each disciple, that essence will be present in your thoughts and prayers, in your words and in your works of charity.

Love one another!

56. Do you not remember that I have told you that you will be the spiritual savior among mankind.

57. What more can you desire on Earth than to be counselors, guides and spiritual doctors of those in need?

58. Charity is one of the most beautiful flowers of love and it is precisely the flower that I want to open in you to spread its essence among your brothers and sisters. Truly I tell you that if you have the ideal or the desire to give greatness to your spirit, I offer you the way of charity, I offer you that path little traveled by men, so that through it you may rise to Me.

59. I want you to come to the end of this stage with the satisfaction of having remained faithful listening to my lessons. My word comes to strengthen you so that you will continue steadfastly until the end of the day.

60. Many temptations and obstacles will have to present themselves in your path in the last days of my communication, so I warn you and give you the warning voice, so that you watch and pray.

61. Be strong, O people, that the test will pass, because if you do not hold on to obedience and fidelity and fall into temptation, you will create an endless chain of tests that will confuse many understandings and will end with the faith of many hearts.

62. The plan for your mission is already laid out and you must not deviate from it.

63. I have told you that once I have finished my word, I will give you enough time to prepare, studying, meditating and practicing my teaching among you. When I find that my people have become spiritualized, I will open the paths where they will have to go carrying the message of light that I have entrusted to you to make it known to humanity.

64. Clear and simple is the plan that I have laid out for you so that you do not modify it or alter it in the slightest if you want to call yourselves spiritualists.

65. Whoever longs to have the power to convert his brothers, the power to heal the sick as you have not seen until now and the virtue to work wonders, let him be faithful to my Law, submissive to my commands and he will never be orphaned of inspirations or strength to carry out great works full of love and wisdom.

66. Whoever despises the gifts of the spirit and the fruits that spring from the pure practice of my Doctrine, because he is more seduced by praises and material rewards, let him turn away from vanities and false satisfactions that do not nourish the spirit. That is what he loves on Earth and what he has come to look for in my Work and I grant that he has it. But verily I say to those who do not carry out what I have ordered, do not get out of stagnation or renounce your fanaticism, your vanities and your materiality: you will be the obstacle that prevents those who love my commands and want to bring them to true fulfillment from advancing.

67. With what words or reasons will those who disobey my orders respond to me, when I introduce them to the people stationed, wrapped in fanaticism and useless traditions, when I introduce them to the peoples who stayed waiting for the arrival of the apostles of the Third Time?

68. It is My love that speaks to you, my light that watches over you without ceasing warns you, to prevent you from carving out the cup of bitterness instead of spiritual advancement.

69. I am preparing you for the day when I will have to speak to you for the last time, because from that moment everything will change spiritually for this people. That is why I have been telling you for a long time not to be traditionalists or conservatives of external forms, not to make of your practices, customs or habits that you cannot then uproot from your heart.

70. Did you think that everything would have to remain in the same form indefinitely? Did you think that all your life you were going to be gathered inside these enclosures or rooms? No, people, it is necessary that everything that you have had up to now disappears from your sight so that you may feel the light of true spirituality arise. So far you have not understood the essence of my message, nor the purpose of this Work.

71. It is well that the former, lacking doctrine and teachings, did not succeed in defining the essence of a revelation that had just surprised them, but you, who are going to be among the last, of those who testify to the end of this stage, do you consider it fair that you preserve the errors of the former and that you continue to ignore the essence of this message, as those who only contemplated the dawn of the Third Time ignored it?

72. No, your heart tells me. I tell you all, that this conviction that you have at this moment is not going to abandon you in the hour of your temptations. Do not forget that on this day I tell you that in exchange for your obedience and your righteousness you will have peace in your home and in all the roads you travel.

73. Do everything you can to penetrate prepared and strong in the time of confusion, which is coming. Do not go with your confusion to increase the one originated by sects, religions, philosophies and doctrines, when the time comes when they all dispute the truth.

74. I want this people, doctrinaire in a spiritual way by Me, to penetrate serene, conscious, zealous and humble in that time and that their presence be a ray of light and a breath of calm on that tempest.

Love one another!

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Teaching 254

1. I come to receive and to give to you, I come to listen to you and for you to listen to me.
2. Countless times I have manifested myself as a Father and as a Teacher, today it is my will to show myself as a Judge, because I entrusted to you a year of which I come to ask you for the fruit. In eternity that span of time is only an instant, but the works done by you within it are recorded in a book where you are writing the history of your life. That spiritual book, written in the consciousness, will keep the imprint of your struggles to achieve the goal and will be the one you represent before the supreme judge.
3. Today you only show me a page that represents an atom of time in which you took a step forward on the path of evolution.
4. As you climb, your works will reach greater perfection and you will conceive my Work bigger and deeper, for this I inspire you with confidence in my promises, I raise you up, I awaken you and I heal you.
5. I want to receive your fruit because you have achieved it with an ideal of love, with effort and in order to please your Father. In the midst of trials you have struggled, on pebbles you have walked, the eyes of your body have wept and your spirit has also sobbed.
6. Your lip is silent and the spirit does not complain at this moment and you turn all the bitterness you have collected into hope in Me and forgiveness for your brothers. I bless you for your obedience.
7. You feel that you are waking up to a new day, that you are taking a step forward and that from there your conscience illuminates you even more and you understand me better, you also measure with greater certainty your responsibility contracted before the Father and before the world. ,
8. Today you know that time is a precious treasure that should not be wasted and that your gifts are like jewels that should not remain hidden.
9. The time of darkness and ignorance has passed for you; today, as apostles, you know what you say, what you do and what you think and you seek to do merits to make you worthy of my blessings. You live in the midst of the light and if anyone is blinded by it, it will be for lack of clarity in the gaze.
10. I pour out my grace on everyone in the same way, but each one receives it according to his spiritual preparation or elevation.

Love one another!

11. I am receiving the result of the work of incarnate beings because material life is measured by time. When you penetrate into the spiritual life, you will see that eternity cannot be measured by hours, days or years, because time has no action on the spiritual.

12. I am present, invisibly before all humanity whose life pulsates in Me, because I am their Father, the only one who can perfectly judge their life and their actions. I see her stirring in chaos, carrying the war in her heart and even in her spirit, carrying the murderous and destructive weapon not only in her hands but in her heart and unleashing her tongue like a true two-edged sword. Some attack, others defend. Some sow death while others cling to life. And like a shadow is spreading the mantle of the new doctrines that advance from heart to heart and from spirit to spirit. Men and peoples tremble in the face of this threat, and they wonder why the Almighty does not prevent the advance of these calamities. To which the Father replies: I allow them to germinate, grow, bloom, spread and bear fruit, so that these trees may be recognized by humanity for their own fruits.

13. The doctrines, theories and ideas will spread in the world, so that men, after having eaten of all the fruits, can turn their eyes to the tree of life and understand that the true fruit, the one that has sweetness in its flavor and life in its substance is the one that I offered you in my Law of love from the beginning of time.

14. The peace of men is perishable, only the peace that I offer you is eternal.

15. I speak to you through the human understanding and my word is the same seed of love that I have always sown in you.

16. I have given you strength, but not that you should impose my will by it on your brothers. I have set your spirit free, but not so that he may misuse that freedom. My weapons are truth, love, charity, peace, forgiveness.

17. In order that you may represent me worthily and be my faithful witnesses, you must take advantage of my teachings and deepen yourselves in my word, so as not to fall into confusions that divide you, making that while some defend and try to preserve the external cults and traditions, others rise up fighting for the essence and spirituality of my doctrine. Remember that in the first precept of the Law that I gave to humanity through Moses, I said: "You shall not make an image or likeness of the things of heaven to worship them." Since then, the way for man and the way for the spirit have been clearly traced.

18. Moses did not concretize to transmit the Decalogue to men, he also instituted secondary laws for human life, and implanted traditions, rites and symbols within the spiritual cult, all in accordance with the steps taken by the human spirit at that time. But the promised Messiah came and erased traditions, rites, symbols and sacrifices, leaving only the Law intact, that's why when the Pharisees told the people that Jesus was coming against the laws of Moses, I answered them that I was not coming against the Law, rather I was coming to fulfill it, and that if my teachings were erasing the traditions, it was because the people to comply with them had forgotten to observe the Law.

Love one another!

19. The case has been repeated in this time, people. In 1866 my presence through the human understanding was revealed to Roque Rojas, who made it known to you, but he also created traditions, cults and symbols, to help you understand the meaning of the revelations.

20. Now that the time is near when I will stop speaking to you in this way, I want to erase from your heart all the materialism and fanaticism that may exist within your worship and practices, so that you can worthily boast the name of disciples of the Holy Spirit; but understand that if I have come to erase superfluous traditions and customs, that is not why I am against my Law, because as in the Second Time, by complying with traditions, you can miss the true spiritual worship and your duties to humanity.

21. If you are already free of all materialism in your worship of the Father, do not get up vain believing that you have climbed the pinnacle of spirituality, from where you think you see all those who profess sects or religions small, because looking at the speck in the eye of your brother I will be able to discover the beam that you carry.

22. Humanity is tired of traditions of forms and rites, I want to show you the light of my Doctrine as a haven for the spirit tired of seeking the light.

23. People: Let me be your judge, listen to my voice that speaks to you in your conscience; do not look for the reward or praise in Me yet, do not avenge yourselves after the prize, because if I advanced these satisfactions to you, you would not know how to possess them and you would become kings. Come and humbly seek me as the youngest of my children. If you bring a remorse, bow down to Me, for I will know how to be your judge and I will speak to you with the utmost truth, I will correct you with charity. Then you will see beyond my words, the divine promise of something never felt, of something superior to all longing.

24. I give you the gift of the word so that she awakens those who sleep like the voice of the bells, so that she may carry balm essence and life.

25. Do not wait for calamities to cause humanity to return to Me; watch, pray and sow, and then the light and peace of my Spirit will advance from heart to heart.

26. My word, though it passes through the brain and lips of man, is of light and love. Prepare yourselves, multitudes, and let me manifest through my spokespersons, and you who have been chosen for this high and delicate mission, prepare yourselves more. Whoever does not feel able to transmit my word with purity, let him prepare himself; if he cannot do so, he had better keep quiet and seal his lips. But bear in mind that your smallness, your clumsiness or your humility are not an obstacle to my communication; I have come to use the clumsy and the rude, to surprise the world. What I claim is impurity, sin.

Love one another!

27. I want you to be worthy that in the last years of my word, my revelations will follow one another and it will not be complaints that are heard under the vaults of the precincts.

28. I have received the tribute of all Creation, from the greater stars to the beings less perceptible to your gaze. Everything is subject to evolution, everything is walking, everything is moving forward. Everything is transformed. When I have reached the summit of perfection, my spiritual smile, like an infinite dawn, will be throughout the Universe, from which all stain, misery, pain and imperfection will have disappeared.

29. Here is my righteousness at the bottom of my word.

30. Crowd: My word is the key with which I come to open your heart, that heart that has beaten so little for Me.

31. Today you begin the second year of the last three that were entrusted to you for your preparation.

32. What have you accomplished to this day? Nothing at all, after your examination in the light of your consciousness, you have realized that you have not taken a single step forward towards unification and towards spirituality.

33. You have become familiar with my claims and that is why you remain lying down indolently, but, do not be too confident, discard the belief that I am going to prolong the time of my manifestation among you, because if you fall into that error, you will live deceived and deceiving.

34. Who dares to ask for a new opportunity, after which I have granted him only the fool or the ignorant, but you are not ignorant, since I have spoken to you endlessly year after year?

35. Why am I telling you this? Because I see the desire and intention hidden in the bottom of some hearts, intention and desire that even without having carried them out, are already desecrating the truth and purity of my Work.

36. That desire for my word to continue indefinitely, for everything to continue as before, is proof that the precious time that was entrusted to you, you have wasted it and now you would like some more time, to be able to do something, but when the appointed time has come to an end, no one will be able to vary a divine determination, because to try, would be to deny perfection to what God has arranged.

Love one another!

37. Do not go over my commands, O people, because if someone did, he will be a witness of my justice and he will see the unleashed elements coming on this nation, making him understand his disobedience, since he did not know how to obey me despite my words of love.

38. What bitterness and shame for those spirits, when they wake up from their mistake and realize their spiritual delay, seeing that the Father has yet to awaken them and touch them through the elements, as it happened with the men of antiquity!

39. I will raise up from among this people all the unclean seed and I will leave only the good seed, by which humanity can recognize me tomorrow. How could men look at the splendor of my truth through a confused, disobedient or fanatical people?

40. These days of preparation are of deep meditation for you, people, in order that after that reflection and that examination before conscience, you choose the path that you are going to follow, with the warning that whoever does my will will be able to walk in peace and whoever does his will will have to decide to accept the tests that, when the time comes, inexorably will have to surprise him.

41. In the one who obeys my commands there will be true peace, because he will be a man of good will to obey his Father; in the one who ignores my orders, there will not be a moment of peace; he will listen incessantly to the claim of his conscience and will live in continuous shock.

42. I am not sentencing anyone, I am going to reveal to you in time what you will be able to find as a natural result of your works. I tell you this in time, because I love you and so that you may avoid it, so that you may look straight ahead at the truth and not stray from the path.

43. The disobedient is always arrogant, but who is the one who thinks he has the right to do his will or to vary the will of his Father? Who believes that he has received for true merits, the gifts that he carries in himself? Who believes that this people is indispensable to me for the fulfillment of my divine plans?

44. Do not let your mind be obfuscated, do not silence the voice of conscience, do not let the temptations of matter make your spirit falter, because it would be very painful.

45. Watch and pray so that you never lack strength, meditate, judge yourselves severely and your conscience will be ready to shed its light on your understanding and on your heart, so that peace may reign among you.

46. My lesson continues showing leaf after leaf the Book of Life to your spirit, because he will be strong and prepared for when this time of teachings ends.

Love one another!

47. If you really yearn to rise like the prophets of the First Time, and like them, to be beacons of light on the path of humanity, go towards spirituality, which will not be difficult to find, since each of these teachings is a lesson of spirituality for men.

48. I want you to know that before those generations of spiritualized men who I have announced to you begin to arrive in the world, this message will be spread among the nations and peoples, so that when they come to earth, they will find the paths prepared by the people who heard the voice of the Lord and by those who joined this people because they believed in his testimony.

49. I am incessantly inviting you to take new steps on this path that is of eternal ascension. Do not stop, and when you do, let it be for good, because you have had to mature some purpose, to affirm the faith or to meditate, more, then move forward.

50. How many in their hearts are saying to me: Master, why did you not come to us as a man at this time, so that I could contemplate your presence? And I answer you with another question: Do you not realize that by desiring my presence in the world in this way, you are asking for my blood again? Have me thus: In Spirit, invisible only to your material eyes, but perceptible to all the senses of your spirit. At that time I shed my blood to seal with it the love that I preached in my Doctrine, now I am pouring divine essence on everyone, as a proof that my love for men, despite their ingritudes, is the same, and that is why I approach them, to teach them the luminous path that leads them to dwell with me in my Kingdom for eternity.

51. Others, spiritually, tell me: "If at least this word that you have made us hear with so much love, you will never take it away from us." To these I say, that if you truly take advantage of my teachings and try to understand my purposes, it will not be painful for you to renounce this communication, when the time comes to conclude it. And it will not be painful for you, because your spirit will be impregnated with my essence and saturated with my light, but if some, or many of my teachings you would not have been able to retain in your memory, that is why I have ordered the formation of the book that contains my, word of this time. In that Book that is made of my divine lessons, you will find the true ark that the first spiritualists could not understand and therefore had to represent with objects or symbols.

52. The true Ark is in my word, because whoever opens it, and penetrates it with respect, spirituality and love, will find at its bottom wisdom, deep revelation, prophecy and all the gifts of the spirit. You will look into that Ark when my word is no longer heard through the imperfect human spokespersons and you will be witnesses of how in the midst of your meditations, in the moments in which you study or in the moments of your prayer, you will feel reaching the subtlest of your being, a higher light, clarifying everything, a paternal influence enveloping you and a voice that is not human, speaking to you in a pure and perfect way. It will be the light of my inspiration coming to you in a true spirit-to-Spirit communication.

Love one another!

53. Blessed are you, who have managed to remove from your practices many of the superficial and useless ceremonies that the first bequeathed to you, preserving only the essential, but recognize that you still have something to purify and much to spiritualize.

54. How happy will your spirit be if from this Earth he manages to offer me the worship that I expect from him! But if I depart from here to the spiritual valley, leaving among their examples something that was not worthy of my Work, the new generations, analyzing the inheritance that you bequeathed to them, will know how to set aside whatever unclean you have left, thus taking the step that you have not been able to take.

55. I tell you that the more you refine your practices and perfect your worship, the less those who come after you will have to suffer and that your merits before Me will be greater, because you did not work for yourselves, but did it thinking of your brothers, feeling in your heart, charity towards them.

56. Have you seen how much you have had to struggle to purify what you received from your brothers who preceded you? Well, do not give this painful work to those to avenge. in pursuit of your footprints.

57. In the Second Half my Teaching reached its culmination when my departure was already very close.

58. The disciples, knowing that they were the last moments they would be with the Master, put all their attention to listen and keep in their hearts until the last of those words.

59. The divine desire of Jesus was that his disciples would become the sowers of his redemptive Doctrine; that is why, in the supreme instant of his last lecture to the disciples, which was also the last conversation between the Father and the children, he told them with a sweet accent: I am going to leave you a new commandment: "Love one another", igniting with the light of that maxim, the greatest hope of humanity.

60. Also at this time, when I am about to conclude my communication between you, I contemplate the recollection and the attention with which you listen to my lessons, they will be indelibly marked in the consciousness of my new disciples.

61. Just as at that time I told my apostles that they were going to stay in the world like sheep among wolves, a!before they lived always alert, now I say to you to prepare yourselves, to watch and pray, because many will rise up against you, using treacherous weapons and using all means to confuse you.

Love one another!

62. Time is a struggle, you all know this so that no one is surprised.

63. I have simplified my lessons to the maximum so that you understand them and can analyze them in search of their essence and when the moment comes you will have an easy answer for each question they asked you. You will not need to talk much to convince; if you are truly prepared, your word, in addition to being simple, will be brief. You will not need to know science to answer the scientist, nor will you need to know theology to answer the theologian. A word of light illuminates everything and I want words of light to come from your lips.

64. Not all those who have heard me at this time will rise up to testify to my word; those who truly love me will rise up; those who love me in their own fellow men and go in search of those in need in whom they overflow their charity and their comfort.

65. Those who understand my Teaching and feel it deeply, will embrace it with faith; they will be the ones who have to face all adversity, the ones who have to wield the weapons of truth, love and justice, through misfortunes and in a world from which that justice and that truth have long departed, these sowers will go, full of peace and trust in their God spreading the spiritual message of the Third Time throughout the world.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

1. You have penetrated in a time of struggle, prayer and merits. You feel that the time of complacencies has already passed and that you have to hasten your steps because humanity is awakening and you have the responsibility to give it the Good News and the testimony of my coming, with words and deeds.
2. As in all religions and sects, men search time, life and events in the hope of discovering the signs that announce my arrival. They are the innocent ones who do not know that I have been manifesting for a long time, and that this form of communication is about to end. But I also tell you that many of those who are waiting for me with such anxiety, if they witnessed the way in which I have come to communicate, they would not recognize me, on the contrary, they would flatly deny me.
3. Only the testimonies will come to them and through them they will believe that I was among my children.
4. You also were waiting for me with impatience, but I knew that you would recognize me and you would be one of my labourers at this time.
5. The world may make fun of the way I have come to communicate, but they will not laugh at Me, but at themselves, because they do not even sense or understand what each creature means to the Divinity.
6. For Me it is the fairest thing I can do with my children, to communicate with them through the powers with which I have given them, without pretending that they are sinners and that they are impure. What more just incentive that the son can know his Father, hear him, look at him and feel him in order to love him?
7. It is said in an ancient prophecy that every sinful and non-sinful eye was to behold me. Now, at this time I have told you: I have not come in search of the righteous one to communicate through him, but of the sinner himself, who in the trials of life and in an instant of repentance purified himself because he is the son who, knowing himself to be loved and worthy of the Father, penetrates fully along the path of regeneration and virtue.
8. Of the spokesmen by whom I have spoken to you, who foresaw the gift he already possessed and the service to which he was destined, before he heard my word? None; they were prepared throughout his life as in a crucible, but his gift remained kept secret until the moment of revealing it to him was arrived.
9. This is the beginning or the preparation for the spirit of man to know a higher communication with the Father, and you have been surprised. If you knew all that I have in store to reveal to you in due time, you would not be able to understand why I love you so much, nor the merits that you will have to do to achieve such grace!

Love one another!

10. In 1866 the first congregation of spiritualists, disciples of this Work, was born. Under the light of my Spirit and guided by Elijah, those first children began to receive the flashes of the message that now, at its end, you are receiving in fullness.

11. Since then to the present, many congregations have been formed as branches that sprouted from that trunk founded by Roque Rojas.

12. Only one light has shone on the multitudes that make up this people and yet how many differences exist between one group and another. For many years you have enjoyed the manifestation of my word through a simple, clear and understandable teaching and there are very few who have succeeded in defining the essence of the Spiritualist Doctrine.

13. It is only a year before my communication in this form ceases and most of the people are still very far from the truth. I have forgiven from the first to the last the fact of having materialized a divine revelation that they were very far from being able to understand at the first instant; but, when the spiritual lesson has been extended for many years and my word has been clarifying part by part this Work, I see the time has come to order you to get out of your routine, to penetrate something deeper into my teachings and to take a definitive and firm step on the path of spirituality.

14. How do you want to continue to seek and adore me through symbols and forms, external cults and materialities? You say to me, "It is the heritage of the first and we respect it." Well, people, now I tell you that those first ones were only your precursors, so that that form of worship and that form of spiritual communication that they initiated, you carry it to perfection.

15. Do not confuse the Divine Law with the religions or ways that you have to interpret that Law.

16. The Law is eternal and immutable; religions, cults and practices evolve and are transformed according to the moral and spiritual development of those who profess them. If that spiritual evolution did not exist, you would still be worshipping God in the stars and in the elements like the primitive peoples.

17. Do not stop in your way of loving me, of serving me and of worshipping me, always go for more, always improving, seek your perfection, instead, do not touch the Law, do not alter it, nor change it; it will always teach you the highest, it will always command you to fulfill with perfection; it will be present and eternal as a Universal Law, teaching you true love for God and true love of one another.

Love one another!

18. Do not be conservative of habits, forms or traditions, because you will remain for centuries immersed in the lethargy of fanaticism and ignorance; instead, be conservative of the Law and the truth.

19. Do not go at this time to imitate the Jewish people of the Second Time, who, because they were traditionalists, conservative and fanatical, could not eat the bread of the Kingdom of Heaven that the Messiah brought them and for whom they were waiting for centuries and centuries, and when the hour arrived they could not recognize him because his materiality did not let him see the light of truth.

20. On this day I leave you only two words for you to analyze thoroughly, and to extract from them all the content of which you are capable by means of a good preparation: "Spiritualism" and "Spirituality". Only in this way, by meditating, praying and watching, will you be able to come to understand what the true and just worship should be, which by means of this Doctrine you are to profess to your Lord.

21. Yes, people, to love me through external cults, to seek me in images and symbols and to adore me through liturgies, ceremonials and feasts, there are many religions and many sects in which you can satisfy your heart if it still has hunger or need for such practices, but if you want to serve me and love me through this Spiritual Work and for it renounce another way of worshiping me, understand what "Spiritualism" means and what "Spirituality" represents so that if you really want to be disciples in this Doctrine, do not be those who impose customs, standards, traditions and external cults, because you will fall back into materialism, idolatry and fanaticism and you will only know the name of "Spiritualism".

22. Rise as far as you can, seeking to adapt and conform to my Teaching, but do not do the opposite, that is, adapt my Doctrine to your trifles and conveniences, materializing it, deforming it or altering it,

23. May today's lesson serve as a warning voice for those who have listened to it, so that inspired by it, they may clothe themselves with energy, zeal, love and faith, to break the nets that have imprisoned them for a long time, the true conception of what "Spiritualism" means may arise in their minds and the noble ideal of becoming a true disciple of this Doctrine of light and perfection may be born in their hearts.

24. Beloved people, when your differences have disappeared, when the disunity that now reigns among you, others, has left its place to fraternity, and when you have understood your mission, the longing and the impulse will arise from your spirit and from your heart to rise up to sow the seed of spirituality that you received in my word.

Love one another!

25. The moment of enlightenment will come for you, in which you will understand with the utmost clarity the greatness of this Work, surprising you to find at its bottom, wonderful revelations that you never imagined. Then you will arise spontaneously and spread throughout the earth, sowing charity, light and consolation on your way. The judgments of your fellow men will no longer harm you, nor will the scorn of your relatives make you suffer, because all the sorrows of the earth will seem small to you before the magnitude of your mission.

26. Blessed are those who reach that degree of spirituality, which makes them immune to pain, because they will be protected by the mantle of my mercy.

27. Faith, love and spirituality are the three virtues that will make the soldiers and apostles of the Third Time invincible. These virtues were present in all those servants, who from the earliest times testified to my existence, my presence, my Law and my truth.

28. Among these servants you will be able to find the patriarchs, the prophets, the apostles and the martyrs; but they have not been the only ones in the history of humanity, there have been many more, who in various ways have gone to fulfill their mission and to testify my truth, resisting all kinds of attacks, ridicule, persecution and slander; but their faith, their indulgence for those who have hurt them, their constant and faithful love for their brothers, love inspired by their Lord, has made them overcome pain, injustice and death. How could you explain to yourselves the resignation of the martyrs to their executioners? How could you conceive the patience and serenity before the persecutions of all those who have loved and followed me?

29. When you love me like this, you will no longer be able to fear anything in the world. As long as your faith is not full and your love is not firm, the struggle will surround you.

30. What are you afraid of? Why are you imprisoned, to have your life taken away? You well know that those times have passed and that there were many martyrs who offered their lives to prove to the enemies of the truth that martyrdom, the prison and the scaffold, instead of quenching the faith of my servants, fanned the fire of their love, causing my teachings to spread with greater force.

31. You are afraid of the judgment of your fellow men and you are afraid of losing your peace in the world, why are you not more afraid of the judgment of your God or of losing the peace of the spirit for not having fulfilled your mission?

32. Today it seems to you that what I ask of you in exchange for the Promised Land seems a lot, but in truth I tell you that when you are in it, you will marvel at finding yourselves there, to the point of feeling unworthy and saying: How little we did to deserve so much grace!

33. In your heart you are asking me: Master, by chance are you going to give us more than we deserve? To which I answer you, that if I gave you according to your works, you would possess little or nothing. Do you think that this life that you have, that body that you possess, those gifts that pulsate in your being and everything that surrounds you in your existence, is a just reward for your merits?

Love one another!

34. Truly I tell you, I have always given you and will always give you more than you deserve in justice, because I love you, because I am your Father.

35. You weep, people, recognizing your lack of faith and love, then you ask me what you must do to please me and achieve merits before Me, to which I answer that you serve your fellow men with the best will, that you make the pain of those who suffer yours; that you develop your gifts and perfect them for the good of those in need, because what you do with your brothers depends on what you receive upon your arrival in spirit.

36. What can you give me that I don't have? I have power, I have peace, I have light, I am possessor of the Universe, I am loved and served, there is not the slightest shadow of egoism in my Spirit, because I am perfection. On the other hand, among your brothers, who are children of my Spirit, how much misery there is! How much pain and darkness! What a need! Why don't you love me in them? Why don't you give me as much love as there is in you, loving one another?

37. People: This is my answer to your question and it is my heavenly advice in the face of your indecisions.

38. Beloved children, whom I receive on behalf of humanity: the end of my communication through the human understanding is approaching, then your spirit will have to strive to have spirit-to-Spirit communion with my Divinity.

39. Today my word is your bulwark, your incentive; but also after this time of my communication, you will be able to feel my presence and my breath if you really know how to prepare.

40. The times when you needed a spiritual guide in the world have passed; from now on, everyone who penetrates this path will have no other path than that of my Law, and no more guidance than his own conscience. Not for this reason will there cease to be men and women of great light and great strength who help the multitudes by their example and inspiration.

41. If it were otherwise, I would have already sent spirits like Moses or Elijah to earth to show you the way and remind you of the Law at every step. They help you, they watch over you and accompany you, but no longer through a human form, but from the spiritual. Who sees them? No one, but if you prepare, you will feel the presence of the great spirits who have always had a relationship with humanity and in it great missions to fulfill.

Love one another!

42. Look for them in your prayer and if you really trust in them, I tell you, you will never get lost because they will lead you with that love and zeal of which they gave you so many trials in the world.

43. I tell you again that you will not lack in the world men endowed with great light, who illuminate your path and sow your life with love: humanity has always had the presence of these men on Earth and the times are coming when the great legions of spirits of great light will come to the world, who will come to destroy the false world that you have created, to raise a new one where peace is breathed and truth reigns.

44. They will suffer much because of the wickedness of men, but it will not be anything new, since none of God's messengers has escaped persecution, mockery and offenses. They will have to come into the world and dwell in it, because their presence is necessary on Earth.

45. They will arrive calling with love to the heart of humanity; his word, impregnated with the Father's justice, will touch the pride and arrogance of all those who have changed the garment of humility of his spirit, for the garb of vanity, pride, false power and false greatness.

46. These will be the first to rise up, pointing with their index trembling with anger at my messengers, but that will serve so that in every test to which my servants are subjected, they can give great testimonies of the truth that they have brought into the world.

47. You do not know now in which paths of human life they will have to arise, but I tell you that some will appear in the bosom of the great religions, those will fight for the unification and spiritual harmony of all men. Others will rise up among men of science to show with the fruit of their inspirations that the true purpose of science is the spiritual perfection of man and not his misery and destruction. And so my servants will appear on every path carrying my Law in their hearts and testifying with words and deeds everything that I have come to speak to you at this time.

48. I also tell you that my seed, which is this Doctrine that you have received, will bear its fruits in you and that those fruits will be the great spirits that come to incarnate in your children or in your children's children.

49. These are my last lessons and I am still talking to you about new teachings, it is that I come to fulfill my mission as a Teacher until the last moment, shedding light on every word so that you will not be left in the dark in times of bitterness and pain, when divine justice makes itself felt as never before.

50. Watch and pray for the world, beloved people.

51. Come to me! I am the consolation and the peace.

Love one another!

52. You have encountered bitterness and vicissitudes on Earth because the spirit has not developed its faculties and its gifts to overcome human miseries.
53. This world could be paradise instead of a valley of tears, if men carried good will. I have sown this dwelling with blessings, I have not watered thistles on the roads. The pain of men comes from their faults, but, just as they created the pain, they must take care of destroying it.
54. You who hear me are not a lost or wandering people; you are like a family that has built its home under the shade of a stout tree, whose branches constantly offer you their fruits.
55. Under this shadow, you regain strength and repair wounds, because it will be necessary to start the journey again, to climb the mountain to the summit.
56. Already your spirit reaches to rise to the sixth rung of the ladder where you find the light that dispels all confusion, and that presents you with its help to reach the seventh rung.
57. I will destroy the confusion and misinterpretations that exist among you about the Seven Seals; truly I tell you: it is not that you belong to a certain seal, but that having to travel your spirit, from the first to the last, it now lives in the Sixth Seal or sixth stage of its spiritual evolution.
58. How great have been the lessons and trials that the spirit has had to overcome in order to pass from one seal to another! How many merits he has had to do! And the one of the culmination is still missing, the Seventh.
59. The force of evil, with its temptations, will insistently stand in your way, but you will remember your Master overcoming the world, pain and the flesh, so that imitating him, you will emerge victorious from the trial. Look in your conscience for the sword to fight, there you will always find the infallible weapon ready.
60. How can a spirit be irretrievably lost to Me, if it carries in itself a flash of my light that never goes out and everywhere I go it has me in front of it? No matter how long their reluctance may be or how lasting their confusion, these darkness will never be longer than my eternity.
61. Have I come to set you free again or do you not feel your spirit freer after having destroyed your past fanaticism and prejudices?
62. I am life and I have come to pour it out equally on everyone, even if I have always looked for a people or a portion of men to manifest myself in them, it has been to turn them into emissaries, prophets or witnesses of my Divinity at the service of humanity, but not because I distinguish them with a greater love or complacency than others.

Love one another!

63. Strengthen yourselves in my word, my children, so that you may come to look with true charity at your brothers and sisters and not be judges of the sinner, the vicious, the fanatical, the magnified, because you will hear in your conscience my voice that tells you: "Whoever is clean, let him throw the first stone".

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 256

1. My peace is felt by your spirit, people, when you listen to my word with good will.
2. I am the divine gardener who cultivates the gardens in your hearts and waters them with the heavenly waters of my love. A drop of that divine love I shed on so much bitterness in humanity. I come to show you the path that leads to the Kingdom of the Father, you will never find the end of that path, but you will always achieve progress and know new greatness.
3. Now my word polishes you and I give you form. I'm chiseling the spirit. You, learn to model yourselves and give yourself beautiful shapes by fulfilling my Law, that I will bless your work, so that later you will carry out in this world the realization of your great mission of guiding your brothers along this path of love.
4. I am your Teacher, but do not see me separated from the Father, for I am the Father. There is no difference between the Son and the Holy Spirit, because the Holy Spirit and the Son are one Spirit and that is Me. See in my manifestations, through all times, one God who is the one who has taught you through multiple and different lessons. A single book with many pages.
5. Sanctify my name with your works and you will find in yourselves that light that will free you from the night of ignorance and sin.
6. Do you remember, people, who you were before you were shaped by my word? Do you remember that before you were capable of many ingratitude that now you would be unable to carry out? You cannot compare your life today with your life in the past. Before you were the lonely pilgrim, who crossed the path, without a light that would brighten his existence and ignite hope in him. Today you are a nursery of my Teaching, in whose fountain of love you have quenched your thirst and washed your wounds. My love comes to pluck the thorns that you have in your plant and if your cross has nails, he will also pluck them.
7. I am the light of this and all the worlds, and I want you to dress in that light. My word is balm of healing, heal with it, listening to it and putting it into practice. Every word is a drop from the fountain of life. Why, if you have God in you, are you sick, suffering and crying? Examine yourselves and correct whatever needs to be corrected, clean up whatever needs to be cleaned up. I said to you: clean the glass, both from the inside and from the outside, so that your spirit harmonizes in will and inspiration with your material or human part, I model your inner image, the one that you hide from men, but that you cannot hide from Me. Model your exterior in such a way that your face is a faithful reflection of the spirit, then sincerity and truth will exist in your actions. That is the reason why men do not trust men, because they present one face to the world, while hiding another.

Love one another!

8. Practice my teaching and make use of your gifts.
9. Have you examined your wounds yet? Have you let the balm I have given you fall into them?
10. If you doubt the effectiveness of my balm, heal them again; but if you believe, take the healing away from them and you will see how my love heals them and when you look for them, they will have already closed. I will grant others to find their health through faith, prayer, and thought. Multitudes of spiritual beings will come, who, uniting their power and strength, will anoint you and you will heal with their help.
11. It is necessary that my word be fulfilled: "Your faith and your merits will save you," because later, when you are healthy, I will send you to the struggle to achieve the highest thing in your life: love for your fellow men. Wouldn't you like to be a light to others? Would it not please you if your words had the essence of truth? Would it not please you to have something to teach those who seek consolation in you? Well, if that pleases you, you can do it because a lot depends on your good will and effort to achieve it, everything else I do.
12. The spiritualized one says: How beautiful life is! The profane, the materialist says: How bitter, how sad and how gloomy life is! The man without elevation, stumbles over everything, hurts everything; the one who has risen, does not even notice the roughness of the road. High minds, when they take care of others, it is to praise the virtues of others or to excuse their mistakes, never to judge or sentence. Low minds judge, slander, publish the faults of others and find pleasure in it.
13. To those who judge and take up the cause of their brothers, I ask: Do you find your burden of sins too light that you still like to add that of others? If you cannot get rid of your burden, why do you increase it with that of your brothers? Why, instead of looking for jewels in your brothers to illuminate you with their light, do you prefer to take the mire, to stain yourselves?
14. The Father's house has many dwellings, but those who dwell in the high spiritual regions help men to put off their burden or help them to carry it, but without judging them, or rejoicing in their miseries.
15. I have seen you one day murmuring and another day repenting. I have seen you denying my communication and then testifying that it is true. I saw you slandering one day and defending the one you slandered the other day. It is good that you rectify your mistakes, but it is better that you do not incur evil again, so that you do not have to rectify. I saw you one day giving charity to the one who did not need it and I saw you denying it to the truly poor; but I do not come to blame you or to judge you, I come with the light of my teaching to enlighten you so that you will not sin again. I must also tell you, that I have seen you to be helpful, noble, charitable and understanding, and that these merits have always been taken into account and noted by Me; but understand that there must already be more wheat in your heart than tares.

Love one another!

16. Do not pray without feeling, mechanically moving your lips, pray feeling, without speaking. May that facility with which in former times you promised falsely and swore in vain, you have now to tell the truth.

17. Do not take what is foreign, he who takes what is foreign, has to give back with pain and shame. I point out to no one, but I want everyone to take their rightful part at my word.

18. I will not blame you or complain to you about what you did when you took your steps through the darkness of ignorance, smallness and materiality; but now that you have complete knowledge of what my Law is, if you persist in illicit, in impure, you would answer for your deeds before God, who would manifest himself inexorable for you in your very conscience.

19. You are all my seed and the Master gathers it; if the tares seed comes among the good seed, I also take it with love in my hands, to transform it into golden wheat.

20. I see in the hearts seed of tares, of mud, of crime, of hatred, and yet I gather you and I love you. I caress this seed and purify it, until it shines like wheat in the sun.

21. Do you think that the power of my love is not capable of redeeming you? I will sow you after washing in my garden, where you will bear new flowers and new fruits. In my divine task is the mission to dignify you.

22. I come to enjoy myself among you, I come to converse with your heart. My presence gives you strength so that you can fulfill the mission I have entrusted to you.

23. And do you not feel the pain of humanity? Do you not feel sadness when you see how death is the one that rips sin out of this world instead of being the light of conscience?

24. You have a very great mission to carry out as disciples of Jesus in the Third Time, since you are one of those who have heard my word and have learned from Me.

25. Know that men, through science, also seek communication with the Hereafter. Get up and testify to my Doctrine, if you don't want them to wake you up.

26. The man of science, who has many times denied my existence, searches Nature everywhere, probes the earth, the seas, space, and at every step he meets me, because in every discovery he makes, the love with which I have formed all Creation speaks.

27. You have a lot to talk about so that my light reaches all your brothers and sisters and they can understand that everything created, from atoms to the largest sets of stars, is destined to produce life, sustenance, well-being and perfection.

Love one another!

28. Make my teaching known in a perfect way so that the ignorant will not attribute imperfections to it. Sow well and the generations that sprout from you will not have to suffer your mistakes, nor will they reap pain as an inheritance.

29. I want the clean and healthy seed to sprout from you, to bring blessings everywhere.

30. Sow the way with good examples, do not adulterate my teachings, imitate in this my apostles of the Second Time who never fell into material cults to teach and explain my Doctrine. It is not possible to attribute to them the idolatry into which humanity later fell. Their hands never erected altars, nor built palaces for spiritual worship; but they brought the teaching of Christ to humanity, they brought health to the sick, hope and comfort to the poor and the sad, and like their Teacher, they taught the way of salvation to the lost.

31. The Christian religion that you know in these times is not even a reflection of the Doctrine that my apostles practiced and taught.

32. Again I tell you that in those disciples you can find perfect models of humility, love, charity and elevation. They sealed with blood the truth that their mouths uttered.

33. Mankind will no longer ask for blood from you in order to believe in your testimony, but they will ask for the truth from you.

34. My Doctrine has always taught man not to be materialistic, but it is far from teaching you contempt for the goods of the Earth. I tell you: love the Earth, its wonders, its beauties, its joys, with that love with which you should love everything that I have created; but be prepared to renounce everything, when necessary, and do not forget that your spirit is temporary in this life and will have to return to the abode he left, from which you spiritually long for his peace.

35. Today you ask me from the depths of your heart if you should despise material life and forget everything you love on Earth to serve me better, to which I answer that whoever believed that I have said this, is in error and has not analyzed my teaching.

36. How do you conceive that I forbid you what material life offers you, if I have created Nature for the sustenance of my children? Nothing that has been done by Me can be against you, so that I may forbid it to you, but take everything with measure. If I have told you that you must turn away from lust and materialism, I have always referred to low passions, vices, frivolities or the use of the superfluous and the bad.

37. Now that I have been making a broad explanation of my Teaching, I have tried to make you understand that everything you do outside the laws that govern spirit or matter, is to the detriment of both.

Love one another!

38. Awareness, intuition and knowledge are the guides that with you will be pointing the right path and avoiding stumbles. These lights are of the spirit, but it is necessary to let them shine. When that clarity is found in each one of you, you will exclaim: Father, your seed of redemption germinated in my being and your word bloomed at last in my life.

39. I come to inspire you with great thoughts, to move your hearts for great works, but in truth I tell you: this Doctrine will not remain enclosed in this people, because Spiritualism is Universal; the Doctrine or revelation of the Holy Spirit is not only for one people, but for all men.

40. Like a river that runs with impetus sweeping away everything, so will be the torrent formed by the spiritualist multitudes, a river that no one will be able to stop because its strength will be invincible, but whoever in its path would like to stand in the way as an obstacle, will be swept away by the current.

41. Who on earth can have the power to stop the evolution of spirits or the course of God's plans? No one; the only absolute Being in power and in justice is your Father and He has ordered that every spirit advance towards perfection.

42. If for a moment my divine laws have been disobeyed by men, I make my voice, as if it were the echo of a sonorous bell, be heard even by the dead to spiritual life.

43. The voice of this people will also resound in the hearts with the echo of a bell that awakens and invites you to pray and meditate; but it is necessary that you clothe yourselves with humility and that your heart be filled with charity so that your works shine as true examples among humanity.

44. Stop loving your person so that you begin to love others, do not seek honors for your name and worry only because your works are clean and you will pass to immortality. I tell you in truth, whoever sows with humility, will leave an imperishable trace of his passage through the world; on the other hand, whoever works in my Work seeking the flattery and glory of the world, he will contemplate that his works will soon be erased and that his name did not even reach to be known by the third generation after him.

45. I have entrusted you with a beautiful mission, but at the same time very delicate, but that does not mean that it is superior to your strength, because everyone has a small part to play assigned to them.

46. The redemption of humanity will not be done by one man, not even by one people: it will be I, who gave you my blood and with it my love, who will make men rise up in this time, seeking the way that Christ taught.

Love one another!

47. Watch and pray always, for it is the time when darkness and confusion are unleashed, when the dark legions surround and disturb men.

48. Have the absolute understanding that my communication with you has been to heal your spirit, to liberate it, to regenerate it and raise it towards the light; to reveal great knowledge and clarify mysteries not understood by men and also to discover what has been hidden from you.

49. Carry my word full of essence and eternal life, feel my strength in you. Do not be afraid: I know everything, even the last of your sorrows is present before Me.

50. My justice takes up your cause, I wipe away your tears, I offer you a staff so that you may lean on it in life and I deposit my oscar on your forehead so that you may feel anointed and loved by the Master.

51. Do not be afraid of the small pebbles of the road, learn to pass over them without hurting yourself, which is the same as living elevated above the miseries of human life.

52. Pray for the nations, with such faith and charity, that your influence will be felt by your brothers and you will feel that my mantle of love covers you all.

53. In each time that I have granted you for the evolution of your spirit, you have been acquiring more light.

54. That light is the one that illuminates your intelligence and your feelings.

55. Since before you arrived on Earth, I already knew your trajectory and inclinations, and to help you on your journey, I put on your way a heart that, with its love for you, would illuminate the path. That heart was the same of a man as of a woman. This is how I wanted to help you, so that you may become like a staff of faith, of moral strength and of charity for those in need.

56. You are afraid to open your lips to speak openly of my coming, and a struggle ensues within you between the longing to do charity and the fear that you will be rejected. So you prefer to hide yourselves with your gifts and missions that you have received from Me, but think, little children, that hiding the gifts that you possess is equivalent to denying me and denying yourselves your evolution.

57. Believe, that if this people were united and had risen up full of faith and courage to give the Good News, in word and deed, the knowledge that I am communicating with men would have reached the ends of the earth.

58. If you still feel weak, I say to you, eat and drink, for I do not want to see hunger or thirst among you.

Love one another!

59. Do my will and the reward will soon come when you feel my love within you, when you sense the peace of the Beyond, like a door that invites you to pass and contemplate my face.

60. I am teaching you all to raise the spirit in prayer. Some already know how to recreate themselves with this grace, others have not yet succeeded, because their past impressions have left a deep imprint on their mind, because they have not forgotten customs and religious traditions, but all strive for the purification of their practices, for regeneration and for spiritual elevation.

61. Blessed are those who have believed in my presence through the understanding of man, for they will penetrate with a firm step in the time of spirit-to-Spirit communication.

62. You have come to Me to receive the comfort and warmth that you need, as a truce in your life, since this is like an anvil that forges the spirits with great trials. But your confidence in fate is great and you know that from this crucible you will come out clean for the fight.

63. Day after day your spiritual prayer comes to Me, the language of which your matter does not know because they are not words uttered by your lips nor are they ideas formulated by your mind. The prayer of the spirit is so profound that it is beyond the powers and the human senses.

64. In that prayer the spirit reaches the regions of light and peace where high spirits dwell, and there, saturating himself with that essence, he returns to his passing body to transmit strength to him.

65. This is the time when man will free his spirit, when the chains that have bound him for a long time will be broken and true peace will penetrate into his heart.

66. Be alert so that you do not fight those like you who rise up fulfilling missions entrusted by my Divinity, so that you can recognize the true prophets and the false ones, and confirm the works of some and destroy the works of others. Because this is the time when all forces have risen up to fight. Here is good fighting evil, light against darkness, knowledge against ignorance, peace against war.

67. You are awakening to the Holy Spirit and you are awakening the sleeper to contemplate the light that erases borders and limits, to form with all beings a single family united by love.

68. The word that I have made vibrate through the spokesman, will resound everywhere at the hour. Listen to me carefully in these last years, because it will not be the last chair of 1950 that points the way for you, nor encloses all the mandates; but in the set of my chairs you will have everything you should know and do. These three years have been an unceasing revelation for you.

Love one another!

69. I want all my disciples and my children to listen to me on the last day to receive them on behalf of humanity. My arms will open, but I do not want it to be on a cross as in that Second Time, I want to shake you in an embrace of love with which this communication of the Divine Spirit through man closes.

70. The time has come when the voice of the ringing bell will be heard even by the dead to the life of the spirit.

71. None of those whom I have chosen at this time is puffed up believing himself superior to others for his spiritual gifts, for you still cannot compare yourselves with John, the one of whom I said that being the greatest among the prophets, he was less than the least in the Kingdom of Heaven.

72. Live for the Father by loving his children, who are your brothers and you will achieve immortality. If you fall into selfishness and close yourself up in your self-love, the seed you leave and your memory will hardly last.

73. Be meek and humble of heart and you will always be filled with my grace.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 257

1. You have remained silent. Thoughts rise to your Father.
2. You are welcome, the Master tells you. You are looking for rest, peace, or comfort and you have chosen to come and listen to me, because I am the one who has everything you need.
3. If you seek the essence of the word of Jesus, verily I say to you, you will also find it.
4. The word of Jesus was the voice of the Divine Word Jesus was the name of the body of Christ, a body that was like a temple to house my Spirit and manifest the truth in my words.
5. But if you believe in Me, if you love me and follow me, it does not matter what name you give me, among the many that you have to designate me. The essential thing is that you feel me, although I do not come to demand that you do it with all perfection.
6. Blessed is the one who feels me in his own being to the extent that his spiritual capacity allows it.
7. In some their heart beats hard, others want to tell me something and they don't succeed in forming a thought; others experience the need to cry and let their eyes overflow and there are those who feel invaded with fear because they know that a penetrating gaze contemplates them.
8. Those who prepare themselves and manage to feel my presence are the ones who truly approach the spiritual table to eat the bread of grace. They are the spirits who, from lesson to lesson, will someday reach beyond the mind and the human, to penetrate the meaning of my word and find its content there.
9. These will be the ones who give themselves to the practice of charity, the peacemakers, because having found the source of peace, they will suffer contemplating those who live in the midst of discord and war, which is true darkness for the spirit. They will be those who live to console, to comfort, to make light in the clouded minds, to heal the sick of the body or of the spirit.
10. Only the one who feels my presence, the one who interprets in his spirit the essence and the love of my word, will later be able to put on mercy before those who suffer and also feel the pain, nakedness, poverty and tragedies of men.
11. If I have invited you all to my table and have asked you to prepare yourselves so that you can enjoy my presence spiritually, it means that you are all destined to delight yourselves with the delicacies of the Kingdom of Heaven; but at the same time, that you all have the mission of sowing with love the fields where discord grew and filling with light every place where vice, misery and ignorance have gone to hide.

Love one another!

12. This lesson is given to you by the One who, because he felt an infinite love for you, left everything to save you from your darkness, even if for this he had to become a man, to live persecuted and mocked until he died on a cross.

13. Disciples: Before you take your first step in the world, I know in advance your life, works and thoughts, so I give you everything you will need in the journey that you are going to undertake.

14. The spirit begins through his body a stage of trial; but he has already been enlightened before and has been strengthened not to be led astray by the temptations that the world presents to him.

15. Sometimes it behooves him to dwell in a being whose heart contains great rebellion and then it seems difficult for him to manifest his light. That heart will be his crucible and his test in life and if he manages to subdue him and persuade him that only by being in harmony matter and spirit can man find peace, he will have triumphed from his test and will be able to aspire to a higher world.

16. If the heart is weak before the sufferings and vicissitudes of life and becomes blasphemous, it is because the spirit allowed himself to be dominated by sufferings, it is that he descended to the scale of matter and made his own all the miseries and trifles that do not correspond to him. He who reflects in time, prays and in faith is strengthened; he will be able to triumph and from that test the fruit of experience will remain for him so as not to falter or weaken again, on the other hand, whoever forgets his essence for a moment and dedicates himself to living and suffering for the world, that one will have fallen, overcome by the force of matter, by the needs, temptations and trifles of human life,

17. Ah, if from your first steps on earth, you heard from the lips of your fathers a wise, fortifying and consoling doctrine, how much this would help the spirit to guide the mind and the heart in its elevation to your God!

18. A great spiritual teaching is required for man to walk in accordance with the voice of his conscience, because the matter that surrounds him in the world, despite being all saturated with divine love, wisely made for the good and for the happiness of man, constitutes a test for the spirit, from the moment he comes to inhabit a world to which he does not belong, united to a body whose nature is different from his own.

19. There you will be able to find the cause why the spirit forgets its past. From the moment he incarnates in an unconscious, newborn creature and merges into it, he begins a life together with that being. Of the spirit there are only two present attributes left: consciousness and intuition, but the personality, the works done and the past are temporarily hidden. So it has been arranged by the Father. What would become of the spirit who has come from the light of a lofty abode to dwell among the miseries of this world, if he remembered his past? And how many vanities there would be among men when the greatness that existed in his spirit in another life was revealed to them.

Love one another!

20. It is necessary for you to know that the spirit, before incarnating, has had a vast preparation, since he is going to be subjected to a long and sometimes harsh test; but thanks to that preparation he is not disturbed when entering this life; he closes his eyes to the past to open them to a new existence and thus, from the first moment he adapts to the world to which he has arrived. How different is the way in which your spirit presents itself at the thresholds of spiritual life from when it has just left its body and the world. Since he has lacked real preparation to return to his abode, then he is troubled, he is still dominated by the sensations of matter and does not know what to do or where to go, that is because he did not learn that it is also necessary to know how to close his eyes for this world at the last moment, because only in this way will he be able to go and open them to the spiritual world that he had left, where all his past awaited him to join his new experience and all his previous merits to add the new merits.

21. A dense veil clouds his mind while he recovers the light; a tenacious influence of everything he left, prevents him from feeling the vibration of his consciousness and while his shadows fade to reintegrate into his true essence, how much confusion, how much pain!

22. Will anyone, after listening to or reading this message, reject it as a useless or false lesson? I tell you that only one who would find himself in a degree of extreme materialism or blind fanaticism, could reject this light without his spirit being moved.

23. At this time he does not come to reveal to man the past of his spirit; but he does come to assure him that his spirit has lived, that he has come to fulfill a high mission on Earth and that he must return to his mansion, not only without stain, not even with the same light he brought, but even with greater light.

24. Spirits who inhabit the Earth Feel my presence, look at the divine light that is poured out on you. Your Father has many means to make his flashes and inspirations reach you; but in addition to this, I am sending you this word that I have manifested through human understandings, so that it may reach you and you may meditate on it; it is the manna of life in your desert, it is the dew of grace on the sterility of your existence, it is balm in your pain and infinite light in your darkness.

Love one another!

25. It is up to you, multitudes of listeners and witnesses of my manifestation, to prepare yourselves to send my divine messages to all humanity.

26. My infinite charity is ready to receive you all, the same to the one who comes tired and tearful, to the one who approaches without true faith to listen to me, as to the one who arrives eager as a good disciple, to offer me the fruit of his fulfillment.

27. I am the Father who seeks your spirit to fill it with light because you live in a time of uncertainty and turmoil.

28. I bring to humanity a teaching that will lead it to the realization of works of true charity, of spiritual usefulness and elevation, works for which men will be remembered, blessed and imitated by future generations. Only the imprint of the works that contain truth will be imperishable in the world, because the hour of judgment is approaching when every work that is not finished on the foundations of truth will be destroyed and not a stone will remain on stone.

29. I say to you, disciples, if you want to leave a seed in the hearts of your brothers, let it be with your works and examples, works clean of vanity. Always keep in mind that in order not to twist or mistake the path, you must be the humble servant and obedient disciple of Christ, whose works are written on your conscience.

30. There are my present examples, eternal and indelible, despite so many storms and whirlwinds.

31. People: Do you recognize that my word has delivered you from human miseries at this time? Well, know that you will have to do the same with your brothers. Your heart says to me: Lord, you have granted us gifts and graces, how could we do the same with our fellow men? To which I answer you that if you cannot distribute gifts, nor grant graces, if you can make your brothers, hearing my Doctrine on your lips, feel the awakening of their gifts and powers and that, learning to communicate with their Father, they receive by inspiration the mission they have to carry out. Don't you already think your mission is quite great and worthy?

32. I must tell you, disciples, that if it interests you that your works have value before Me, you will not have to ask anything in exchange for them from your brothers.

33. The divine manna of the Third Time has descended on this people, how could you turn from children of light into children of darkness, of desecration and disobedience? How is it that, having been appointed depositories of my revelations, you could become miserable beings on Earth?

Love one another!

34. Watch and pray, I always tell you, so that you do not fall into temptation, so that you do not hide your gifts from anyone, either out of fear or out of selfishness, understanding that in your saddlebag you carry many presents that do not belong to you, because I have given them to you to deposit with your brothers. Know that no matter how much you possess, if you don't give anything, it's as if you have nothing. That is why I have often claimed to you that having received so much from Me, you come and show me your hands empty, because you have given nothing, because you have not sown my word of love.

35. Truly I tell you, if you need an incentive to fulfill your mission, carry out works of true charity, because in the practice of my Teaching you will find the stimulus and the compensation.

36. Those who live expecting charity from Me and being able to do it on their path do not do it, they have not had charity from their brothers or from themselves. Those are the ones who have let their heart cool, those who have turned off their lamp, those who resemble weak birds fallen from the nest, or the dry leaves that in autumn fall off the trees, to be carried aimlessly by the winds.

37. Do you put a defect in my communication, because I give it to you through sinful creatures? They are certainly not pure beings; but tell me if my words through these human lips have not left in your heart some memory, or if on some occasion their sweetness did not remove the bitterness that you brought in your heart.

38. Man: Remember that you arrived with your heart wounded, your mind troubled and your spirit shattered and that after listening to me you got up strong. Who did this to you?

39. Woman: You came with your eyes and heart tired of crying, and when you thought you had no more tears, you heard my word and your cheeks were furrowed by crying again; but now it was a cry of despair and tenderness. Who had reached the bottom of your heart before the day you heard my voice?

40. This Doctrine has proved to you that it is not an empty word, but that it is saturated with divine essence, that is why it is simple in its form, because its depth and its meaning are in its meaning.

41. Just as I have come to comfort you in your afflictions, I have also come to give birth to you in your spirit, because all darkness has been unleashed and removed into its depths and it is necessary that you know how to defend yourselves.

42. Light your lamp again, awaken the love in your heart, be interested in eternal life and have charity of your spirit, only in this way will you be able to feel pity for your fellow men and devote part of your life to the practice of love.

Love one another!

43. Keep your treasure by sharing it and always making good use of what it contains, then a strength, a health and a light that you have never experienced will be born in you. That strength, that light and that health will come from the spirit and will be reflected in matter.
44. People; you are no longer the wayfarer who gropes around looking for a light, you have already found it.
45. This word has performed the miracle of bringing you back to life; it has been the force that has lifted you up and healed you, who could convince us that it does not come from God, when you have experienced in your being a transformation attributable only to my power?
46. You have a beautiful opportunity to improve your life, to be able to be useful and to carve out for your spirit a worthy abode in the spiritual mansion, who will be able to snatch this opportunity from you? No one, unless you forget to watch and pray and your negligence caused you to fall into temptation.
47. If you want to find peace when the great events announced by my teachings arise, remain firm in your positions.
48. You will see how the moment will come when the representatives of the great Churches will feel the presence of the divine and recognize the arrival of the New Time.
49. You will see one and the other deliberating, questioning and making propositions, even when at times their vanity makes them think they are superior to each other.
50. This time of struggle will be unforgettable for your spirit, because in it he managed to overcome materialism and give expansion to his faith, love and desire to ascend to God along the path of spirituality.
51. The understanding and the heart of the spiritualist, will participate in the delight of his superior being and while they have life, they will collaborate with the spirit in the performance of their high mission, but when the time comes to rest in the bosom of the earth, they will do it in peace, satisfied of having occupied themselves in the Work of the Lord and the last thoughts, as well as the last beats of that being, will be indelibly engraved in the spirit that inhabited a humble, noble and docile envelope to the divine commands.
52. See why I tell you to transform your matter into a staff, into a support of the spirit here on Earth, giving you to understand that you take away from your flesh that scepter and that command with which it has tried to subdue the spirit, which guided by conscience, is the only rudder and light in the life of man.

Love one another!

53. I have spoken to you according to your ability, because I do not want you to ignore the meaning of any of my words, although I also tell you that according to the preparation of each group, crowd or congregation, this is the way I manifest myself.

54. Every spirit owes a great debt to his Father. Out of my love for you, I have offered you on Earth this new opportunity to justify yourselves before Me, to restore spiritually and to purify yourselves so that you can move on to the next abode.

55. O blessed Third Time that you bring in your ark what the world needs to be saved from its slavery! Blessed are those who profit by your light, for they will be saved!

56. Throughout your spiritual journey I have guided you, tested you and prepared you for the revelation of this time. It will not be men who organize the new people of Israel, it will be I who form it, purify it, elevate it and send it among humanity to fulfill its mission. Meanwhile, this town is growing and breaking down the obstacles to make it happen. This is what I did to Israel when I brought them out of Egypt and led them through the sea and the desert,

57. This people brings the mission of spiritually awakening humanity, but, when it has fulfilled and men realize the time in which they live, you will see arise from their heart a longing for light and from their spirit an ideal of elevation, which will move human life to its roots and transform the world.

58. Conscience will be heard and obeyed, the calls of the spirit will be understood, spiritual desires and rights will be taken into account and respected and everywhere the longing to know God, to feel Him, to approach Him and to look at His truth will shine.

59. All this will have to arise in men when hunger and thirst have brought them to the limits of their resistance, when, despondent of their pride, they confess repentance before their Lord, when they descend from their thrones and their temples, from where they have tried to ignore me, from where they have judged and denied me; so that, repentant of their mistakes, they turn their eyes to Me and speak to me as children to a Father who has been waiting for centuries and centuries to fill them with his love.

60. How far man has sunk into his materialism, reaching the point of denying the one who created everything! How could the human mind become so confused? How could your science deny me and desecrate life and nature as it has done?

61. In every work that your science discovers is my presence, in every work my Law is manifested and my voice is allowed to be heard. How is it that these men do not feel, see, or hear? Is it perhaps a proof of advancement and civilization to deny my existence, my love and my justice?

Love one another!

62. You are then no more advanced than primitive men, who knew how to discover in every element and in every wonder of Nature, the work of a divine, superior, wise, just and powerful being, to whom they attributed all good, all that exists and for that reason they worshiped him.

63. Through a nascent intelligence they tried to understand what their bodily senses received, what perfect worship could they offer me? What full understanding could they have of the truth? However, their wonder, their faith and their worship were received by Me as the first fruits of a vast field that my Spirit would cultivate through the ages.

64. From then until now, how many lessons have I given to humanity! How many revelations my love has entrusted to you! However, when these men should have reached the summit of understanding and when their cult should be perfect, it is when their selfish, arrogant and inhuman science has risen up to deny me and when the cults that exist, live in the lethargy of routine and traditions.

65. I gave you the gift of free will and I have respected that blessed freedom granted to my children; but I also placed in your being the divine light of consciousness so that guided by it, you can channel your gifts and I tell you that in the struggle of spirit and matter the spirit has suffered a defeat, a painful fall, which little by little has been moving further and further away from the source of truth that is Me.

66. His defeat is not definitive, it is temporary, because he will rise from the bottom of his abyss when his hunger, thirst, nakedness and darkness can no longer endure them. Pain will be his salvation and hearing the voice of his conscience, he will rise up strong and luminous, fervent and inspired, taking his gifts again; but no longer with that freedom of applying them to good or evil, but consecrating them only to the fulfillment of the divine laws, which is the best worship that you can offer to my Spirit.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 258

1. You stand in fear before Me, O people, because my voice of righteousness makes you tremble, but I ask you, Is it my righteousness or an injustice that you fear? If it is to my justice, know that you must be content to receive the divine judgment of your works, if it is to an injustice, you are in error, because I could not commit it.
2. You have as your judge the most inexorable, but at the same time the sweetest, most patient and understanding Father. A judge, instead of publishing your faults or betraying you in front of your fellow men, calls you alone, speaks to your heart, tests you as necessary and gives you a new opportunity, either to complete a work or to repair a fault.
3. If the Father's greatest love did not exist in divine justice, if his justice did not have that principle, this humanity would no longer exist, its sin and its incessant offenses would have ended the divine patience; but it has not been so. Humanity continues to live, the spirits continue to reincarnate, and at every step, in every human work, my justice is manifested, which is love and infinite charity.
4. To understand the lesson of which I am speaking to you, men would need to delve into the essence of my lesson and for now they are given over to their earthly worries and ambitions; but the time is coming when they leave for a moment what worries and enslaves them so much, to raise their gaze to the firmament and ask me inwardly: My God, what is happening in the world? What has become of our life and what have we done with it, that we did not realize? "That will be the moment of enlightenment that many will have.
5. Others will be surprised by the word that I have brought to you at this time, which will reach the hearts of my emissaries, of my witnesses and disciples, who are you.
6. Men will try to deny truth to my revelation, but the facts, the tests, the events, will be giving voices and testimony of the truth that will come on the lips of my people, as the great message of the Third Time. And also by means of writings my Doctrine will spread throughout the world, because it is a lawful means that I inspired my envoys from the earliest times. I just want you to be jealous of my truth and bring it to your hearts in the cleanest and simplest way.
7. Disciples: See how the Master, being close to making his word cease, in each lesson gives you a chair of spiritual preparation for your struggle.
8. In caravans you come to receive my teaching after you have traveled a vast desert of vicissitudes; it is that your spirit has felt the arrival of the time announced for my New Coming, it is that he has heard the divine voice that calls him.

Love one another!

9. Caravans of the sick, hungry, thirsty and tired who come in search of the bread of love, the manna of life, encouraged by the light of hope, are coming to the presence of their Creator.
10. Welcome all of you; rest under the shadow of my peace, eat and drink and be healed of your ills.
11. If you know how to be constant in listening to this word, when you get up to continue in the struggle of life, you will feel your burden lighter because you have strengthened yourselves in faith and in knowledge.
12. Those who come seeking in Me only worldly goods or riches and do not accept the existence of spiritual gifts will suffer disappointment, and when they turn away from the path to which they were called, they will look at their hands empty and their heart desolate. They are spirits who still love the impure and I will have to give them some more time to evolve, collect experiences and when they return to my path, they will be better willing to receive me.
13. For the one who has come with spirituality, my presence through this word is a true feast of light, where the best delicacies of the Spiritual Kingdom are offered to the greed of those hungry for love, justice, wisdom and peace; they will not be able to depart from my path and will know how to receive the goods of the world in addition.
14. My Work will be the essential in your life and the material will be the complement to survive and fulfill the mission entrusted to you.
15. Ah, if you all understood that the sun of this word will soon be hidden, you would hasten to keep something of its value and its light in your heart, but you are slow to understand, you are reluctant to develop the gift of clairvoyance, so that you could contemplate from now on the approach of the New Time!
16. Certainly my stay among you will be brief in the way in which you have had me and it is necessary that you live the present and the future, forgetting many customs, beliefs, ideas and practices of your past, which are part of the enormous burden that you arrived dragging when you came to hear my word for the first time.
17. I am the Savior of the spirits, I am the defender of your faith and of your life; I could not leave you sunk in the abysses or lost in the deserts without making you hear my consoling voice, without making you contemplate the true light that arises from my Spirit.
18. Do you want to be content only with listening to me to give peace to your heart, without preparing to sow my Work in the hearts of your brothers, or do you want to be my disciples?
19. If you long to please me by being useful to your fellow human beings, participate in them and take advantage of the divine teachings that I give you every time I present myself, so that you may be able to talk about Me, my Law and my Doctrine and not be surprised by those who are preparing to combat every new light that arises, even if that light is the light of the most absolute truth, the wisdom of all time.

Love one another!

20. Understand that I called you not only to comfort you in your afflictions, but also to teach you to feel the pain of your brothers and to console them in their bitterness.

21. If you want to know what you have to do among humanity, it is enough that you look at what I have done with you since the day when you first heard my word.

22. I forgave you, I received you with charity and infinite love, I made you rest from the painful journey, I did not stop to judge your condition, your sphere or class, I cleansed the leprosy of your sin and won your ailments; I was understanding, forgiving and benevolent in judging your defects, I reintegrated you to true life, giving you a Doctrine of love that enables you to save yourselves, saving your fellow men.

23. There, in my works that I have had for each of you, you will be able to find the best of examples for you to put into practice among those in need of body and spirit, who will also arrive in caravans to you.

24. Speaking to this people, I speak to humanity; it is up to you tomorrow to approach the hearts of men and fraternally transmit to them my word, which will consummate the work of redemption.

25. Today you feel that pain has touched you and sometimes you do not understand that by means of that chalice you are purifying yourselves. How could you talk about Me while being stained? How could the love manifested through the feelings of charity and humanity spring from your heart, if he were full of selfishness?

26. The imperfections of the children of God have made pain exist, pain that has become a teacher to forge your heart and point out the path that you lost. My love rests in your heart to turn away all evil from it, because I want to see you strong, healthy and clean.

27. Hear this voice that vibrates among you in this form, do not get tired of listening to it. I have prolonged my manifestation in order to polish the roughness of your heart and by ceasing to manifest in 1950, to be able to leave you firm in this faith.

28. Humanity is given over to its science, its heart and mind are completely given over to the life they live on Earth, that is why I chose among men these for whom I speak to you, simple and without science. I touched those hearts and then penetrated through my light into their understandings to deliver to my people this message of love.

Love one another!

29. This light has come to illuminate the path of your life and that is why you have given yourselves to Me. After my departure I will leave you among humanity to bear witness to my truth and among the disciples teachers will arise who will preach with their works the Doctrine of spiritual love.

30. The delights of the Kingdom are for everyone; here on Earth you will have a little of that peace and a reflection of eternal life. Be of good will on earth and you will not lack my peace.

31. Many pages of the book of life have you seen pass since I give you my word, each one of them has been a perfect lesson. Sometimes it has been the Father's love that has spoken to you, sometimes it has been the Teacher who has seated you before his chair and sometimes it has been the judge who has touched you.

32. You have all received my word, then, you have all received in the spirit, orders and missions to fulfill. Some have started, others are waiting for the moment to get up, others are in preparation. There is not one of you who has not received faculties to develop, and while some have begun their development from now on when I still communicate in this form, others will begin their spiritual development after the time of my communication, but in those times, rise up all as one spirit.

33. You have gifts to analyze my word to receive my inspirations as well as the seers who will announce to you what is to come.

34. Those who have stationed themselves today, those who received gifts to receive my divine ray or let the spiritual world communicate through them and did not fulfill their mission will rise later to fulfill, although I tell you from now on, that the way of delivering will have to change, so that they do not bring confusion to humanity.

35. The day will come when you will be scattered throughout the world, one in one nation, another in other lands, and yet you will all feel united by the spiritual harmony that I have brought to you.

36. I am preparing you to love each other and with that bond you will be strong and invincible, for that I have been the loving and constant Teacher who comes with his examples to show the way to the disciples. Watch over your steps, your deeds and even your words and thoughts. Let it not be man who judges your imperfections, let it always be the Teacher who corrects you through your conscience.

37. I wanted to communicate through sinful beings to give you samples of my strength and my love; now go to your Father through the spirit to prove to him that you also love him. Seek that goal, reach that sublime communication from spirit to Spirit without settling for the first fruits you collect, but until you have reached perfection. Each man will then carry within him the divine guide who will lead him eternally along the paths destined for those who know how to rise in search of the love of their Creator.

38. My light made word, life, trials, everything has come to strip of your materiality. Tomorrow, the same human science will have spirituality, elevation, noble ideals and will manage to talk about what has apparently been hidden from it and that in reality it has not discovered, because it will not be the mind that penetrates the arcana but the spirit and that will happen when it has achieved clarity; but do not be afraid, people, that by attending to the spirit and what corresponds to it, human life and your material duties will be abandoned, nor that your health and your body will suffer consequences that you do not foresee today, because when the spirit of this humanity rises from the dross in which it lives today, it will feel in its matter an unknown force and light that will lead it to create a lavish existence in well-being, prosperity and health.

39. How have men intended to feed their spirit eternally, with passing and sometimes frivolous practices? Neither the spirit, nor even the heart should you deceive with cults that have no essence or substance of true life.

40. It is necessary that this light soon reach the heart of humanity, no matter that at the beginning it is the origin of disputes or combats. Light and darkness have always collided, truth and falsehood, good and evil. As the shadows of the night fade before the light of day, so will the wickedness of men depart before my message of love.

41. In that Second Time, my coming as a man was only believed by a few hearts, however, humanity later took the birth of the Savior as the beginning of a new era, so at this time, the beginning of my communication with you, that is, my advent as a Holy Spirit, will tomorrow be taken as the beginning of another era.

42. Listen to what Christ tells you, the manifestation of divine love.

43. Peace to men of good will, to those who love the truth and sow the seed of love.

44. I am the Word that comes to seek men, because they have not been able to reach Me. It is my truth that I come to reveal to you since the truth is the Kingdom to which I want you all to penetrate.

45. How to find the truth, if I did not tell you before that many renunciations are required?

46. Sometimes, in order to find the truth, it is necessary to renounce all that one possesses, even to renounce oneself.

Love one another!

47. The vain, the materialist, the indolent, cannot know the truth until he destroys the walls within which he lives, it is necessary that he overcome his passions and weaknesses to look my light in the face.

48. A materialist loves only human life, but recognizing that everything in it is fleeting, he tries to live it intensely. When his plans or ambitions are not realized, or pain in some way surprises him, then he despairs, blasphemes and challenges fate, blaming him for not receiving the gifts to which he thinks he is entitled.

49. They are weak spirits in reluctant matters, they are morally small beings, who are tested in many ways, to make them understand the value that they attribute in their materiality to works of little merit.

50. How the materialized ones would like to modify their destiny! They would like everything to be done according to their idea and their will!

51. All that is good can be achieved from God, without the need to challenge His justice or challenge His power. My love is ready to attend to anyone who wishes to improve their existence.

52. I say to you again: peace to men of good will, who love the truth, because they do something to bend to the divine will and those who take refuge under my protection, necessarily have to feel my presence both in their spirit, in their human life, in their struggles, in their needs, in their trials.

53. Men of good will are children obedient to the Law of their Father, they walk on the right path and when they suffer intensely, they raise their spirit to Me, demanding forgiveness and peace. They know that pain is often necessary and that is why they hurry it with patience, only when it becomes irresistible, they beg for the weight of their cross to be relieved. "Lord, you tell me I know that my spirit needs to purify itself, to suffer, to rise, you know better than I do, how much I need, you cannot give me anything that I do not need, so let your will be done in me". Blessed are those who think and pray in this way, because they are looking for the example of their Teacher to apply it to the trials of their life.

54. It is true that every pain, every suffering renews the heart, shakes the spirit and cleanses it of its stains, giving it an opportunity to grow and rise.

55. How well he does pain in the spirit, when that cup is drunk with love and patience!

56. Long has been the path of trials for your spirit. You are like the thousand-year-old trees that release their dry leaves at the contact of the winds that whip them and strip them naked, and then cover themselves with new leaves. This is how the tree fulfills the will of the Father; this is how you should all fulfill by letting the trials and lessons that your Father gives you through life, strip you of old clothes, impurities and tatters of the spirit, to emerge clothed in new finery.

Love one another!

57. Know, disciples, that pain removes the bad fruits from your Heart, it gives you experience, making your mistakes turn into successes.

58. This is how your Father tests you, in order that the light may be made in your understanding, moreover, when you do not understand and suffer barrenly for not finding the meaning of my wise lessons, your pain is useless and you miss the lesson.

59. At this time, I have come to explain to you the meaning of life, in which you will know the why of pain, what atonement and restitution mean and why you need to purify yourselves. When my people understand and feel my teaching, the foundations of a new humanity will be laid.

60. Has the pain sometimes shaken you? Have your branches creaked, have the dry leaves fallen off, and have the bad fruits fallen from your tree? I tell you that the good that your spirit has acquired is not compared to what is most valuable in the world.

61. I give you examples that in Nature you look at every day, like that of the tree when it is whipped by the gale, because material Nature is a manifestation of the divine Nature, therefore, in everything that surrounds you in this life, you will be able to find a lesson or a revelation for your spirit.

62. Just as your body seeks air, sun, water and bread to live, so the spirit needs the environment, the light and the sustenance of its being. When he is deprived of the freedom to rise in search of what nourishes him, he weakens, withers, becomes numb, as if a child were forced to always remain in his crib and locked in his bedroom. His limbs would be paralyzed, he would grow pale, his senses weakened, and his faculties atrophied.

63. See how the spirit can also be a paralytic! If I were to tell you that the world is full of the paralyzed, the blind, the deaf, and the spiritually sick! The spirit that lives enclosed and without freedom to develop, is a being that does not grow, neither in wisdom, nor in strength, nor in virtue.

64. Do not wait for the furious gales to cleanse you of impurities, because you can also wait for the arrival of the seasons to renew yourself in them, to purify yourself and flourish.

65. You will have to learn a lot in this world so that you can reach other, higher abodes.

66. Learn, meditate, know how to fight, suffer and hope; always love and also trust. Be men of faith and of good will and you will have to be great spirits.

Love one another!

67. If you want to look for my presence within the Nature in which you live, do it, I know that in everything you will have to find me because I find myself in each and every one of my works.

68. See how I communicate through these men in whom I hide for a moment to make my divine word spring from their lips. When will you look at me beyond what belongs to this world? When will you listen to me through your spiritual senses without the need of the human apparatus?

69. The eternal chair of God is always vibrating, because He is the Word, but only luminous beings listen to it directly, that is, from spirit to Spirit.

70. When you come to be in close communion with the divine and with the human, when you reach the harmony of your being, you will hear the song in which the angel and man, heaven and the world, the Hereafter and the Universe, spirit and matter unite. Everything will be united in a hymn of love towards the divine Being who has given life to his works by making them his children. In that hymn you will unite, disciples, because for this I have come again to men.

71. It is necessary that you penetrate into your inner sanctuary, the one that was not built by the hand of man, but by the divine mind. I tell you that there you will know the revelation of the truth, there you will understand the essence of the eternal, so that you may love it above all that is passing.

72. What is your body? A traveling bird, whose flight has a short duration, a bird that unknowingly sings of its imminent disappearance. Poor body that asks a lot and desires a lot for itself in its egoism. On the other hand, the spirit is the bird invisible to the world, but white and luminous, which rises higher and higher as time goes by, it is the being for whom there are no ages, years or centuries.

73. Do you know what day, what time and what year you were born, but do you know by chance when you emerged spiritually into life?

74. Lift up the spirit, that is the essence of your life, that is your destiny and the end for which you were created. Rise up, because in this way you will come to Me, who has much to give you, much more than what you have found in the world.

75. Love will have to overcome you at last and by love you will know me.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 259

1. You are welcome to be my disciples, you have come to listen to my teaching and I am preparing a banquet for you, so that you may be fed with the delicacies of eternal life.
2. If your flesh is weak, but your spirit is strong to obey me. Blessed is the disciple who has prepared his heart by leaving what belongs to the world to come and listen to the Word.
3. I come to offer to your spirit the garment of grace, because through time you have torn to shreds the one I gave you.
4. My Law is the Doctrine that you have received throughout the ages, a law that you have not fulfilled and because of your disobedience you fell into confusion. Now I come again to enlighten you with the light of the Holy Spirit.
5. I have entrusted to you a jewel of incalculable value, so that it may shine before humanity, do not hide it or divest yourselves of it.
6. On this day you commemorate my triumphal entry into ancient Jerusalem. Now man also presents to me palms in his material hands, but in his heart I do not see peace.
7. At that time, the crowds received me, chanting the "hosanna" with their spirit, because they knew that the grace of the Lord was with them; in this way they testified that the Son of God was with men.
8. Later, when I came to the sacrifice on the holy altar of the cross, to teach you to fulfill your mission, many doubted that Jesus was the Son of the true God, the Lamb of God announced long before by the prophets, but thus it was written that the Lamb would enlighten you with his blood.
9. Now I come in Spirit to give you my teaching again to spiritualize you, to dispel the darkness with the light of the Holy Spirit, so that you may regenerate and let the virtues manifest themselves in fullness.
10. Humanity has not yet heard this word, they do not know each other and I have named you "the strong Israel", because you will rise up full of my strength to bear witness to my spiritual presence among humanity, so that you may carry my truth and set aside the cup of bitterness that is hurrying the world at this time.
11. Among you is the hungry wolf. You have to watch and pray, you have to practice my Doctrine. He who knows how to fulfill my commands will feel my peace.

Love one another!

12. In this time I have spoken to you with all clarity so that you understand me, I have shown you that this path is clean and if the pain surprises you, it is not the Father who has put it to you, it is you yourselves who in your disobedience have carved it.

13. See that I am infinite, sublime and holy love, that I love everyone, but I tell you: Love, as the Father loves you and will continue to love you in all times.

14. I have come to purify you, like gold in the crucible, so that you may be the example of humanity. It is necessary that you understand my teachings, so that you may be among your brothers, a torch of light, illuminating all spirits.

15. It is to your spirit that I come to give eternal life, because it has sprung from Me, to him I come to prepare him to obey me and know how to communicate with me from spirit to Spirit.

16. Spiritually show me your palms, because the material palms do not reach Me. You are living in the time when humanity is pouring a cup of pain, watch and pray so that this pain does not surprise you.

17. In these days humanity commemorates my passion, but truly I tell you that you are now at the time when I have come to raise you up.

18. Great is the pain in my Spirit as I contemplate that humanity in its fanaticism, confusion and sin still continues to crucify me. But you, chosen people, who are the enlightened ones, practice my true Doctrine, which will reign eternally among mankind. Men will not be able to withhold my love or obscure my divine light, I come to strengthen you and guide you with my word so that you follow in my footsteps, and fulfill my Law.

19. Tomorrow you will rise in prayer to my Divinity and enlightened by intuition, you will be guides on the path of your brothers.

20. The mission that I have entrusted to you is a mandate that you have to fulfill throughout the ages, because through you humanity has to receive my light and I will raise it to the life of grace.

21. Israel, do not want to stay asleep, because if you do, the elements of Nature will wake you up and claim your lack of fulfillment of the sublime and delicate mission that I have entrusted to you.

22. I have made you recognize your gifts and the immensity of the lands that I entrust to you to cleanse and cultivate them.

23. You are my children who are under my protection, under the foliage of the tree of life and your spirit has been of rejoicing. I say to you, chosen people, which of you who has implored my charity has not received it? Blessed are those of you who, recognizing my great benefits,

Love one another!

rise up to testify that the Father has been with you, for by your testimony great multitudes will rise up.

24. Testify that I have been with you, so that humanity may carry in its spirit the life of grace, so that it may find in Me the Doctor of doctors and so that it may seek me from spirit to Spirit.

25. In the Second Time my disciples spread my teaching so that humanity could study it, meditate on it and put it into practice, but later man departed from the essence of My Doctrine and forged his own law to guide the multitudes. But I do not come to receive what man in his confusion and materiality has built, I only come to remind you that my true temple must be built in your heart and in your spirit.

26. In this time, those of you who have sought me, I have taught you to feel me in your heart, to engrave my teachings in it, so that you may be the people who live full of grace and light.

27. Prepare yourselves and get up full of humility so that you can bring this message of peace to humanity, pray for her, that your Father will make his Law recognized and practiced by all men, so that they may lead a life of grace and know how to seek me from spirit to Spirit.

28. Remember that I have said, When two or three of you are gathered together in my name, I will be among you and I will manifest myself according to your preparation.

29. I have come at this time to give one more proof of my love for humanity by manifesting myself among you, chosen people.

30. You have to bear witness to humanity and teach it that if it knows how to prepare, if it knows how to divest itself of its materiality, it will feel me and see me with its spirit. That is why I have come to speak to you through the human understanding, and this communication through a sinner has been the proof of love that I have granted to you so that you may receive my word and later take it to humanity.

31. Prepare yourselves, Israel, because the time for my communication through human understanding is short and I do not want tomorrow, due to your lack of preparation, you will feel like orphans and you will imitate the crowds that gather in their quarry temples and settle for ceremonies and material songs. Within these multitudes, very few have felt me, but I have come to you to prepare your heart and to enlighten your spirit, to give you my word full of love so that you may feel my presence and be the ones who tomorrow will give your brothers this love and this peace.

32. If, with my word full of love, you do not prepare your heart, then what will become of you, what will become of your fellow human beings, if you are living in the time when great trials and whirlwinds are sweeping humanity? There is no peace in hearts and if for a moment that humanity surrenders to pleasures seeking comfort, in truth I tell you, within those pleasures they carry a suffering and sick spirit that does not feel my peace; in the recreation that they seek they only satisfy their material senses, but their spirits only carry pain.

33. That humanity has not felt me, no one has yet arrived to take her by the hand and show her the way; I will receive her as innocent and with charity I will judge her faults, I will give her the opportunity to make restitution. But you, the chosen people, who have listened to me, in whom I have manifested myself, how will you feel before Me, if you come in spirit making your disobedience present to me? You are the ones graced by the Father and I want to receive you with the fulfillment of your delicate mission; I do not want you to be the prisoner in my presence, I want to receive you with my paternal smile and send you back to the world as spirits of light, as guides and protectors of your fellow human beings.

34. Truly I say to you, you have come before Me, because Elijah has led you out of various ways, because you are the chosen ones whom Elijah has shown me as sheep. He who is inside Elijah's fold, is defended by Him, that tireless shepherd protects you from stalking.

35. The Holy Spirit has come to enlighten you, but not only those who bear my divine seal have this grace, but everyone who prepares and rises to Me, guided by Elijah.

36. The light of the Holy Spirit has come to enlighten you so that you may be with me in spirit and in truth. This is the way where you will feel my love and find health.

37. I come to receive the sheep that Elijah makes present to me. He will continue to seek the wayward, because I will give my charity to all the Peoples of the earth and to all the generations to come.

38. The Master says to you: drink from this inexhaustible fountain its crystal clear waters; feed yourselves with the bread of eternal life, take the fruit of the vine. Behold, I have prepared the best place for you at my table.

39. I ask you, O Israel, what do you ask for the nations? Because this charity is not only for you, see that the nations have been surprised by the great trials of pain and to you I have said: Israel, if you watch and pray for your brothers, my will will be done in all humanity.

40. Men have mistaken my Doctrine, but I have come among you to prepare you again with my teaching, with my wisdom, so that you may become my disciples and be those who tomorrow teach the world and make it feel my presence in its spirit.

41. The nations are preparing to launch themselves into new wars, but if you watch and pray, through you I will propose and deliver my peace to humanity.

Love one another!

42. I have come in the Spirit this Third Time to raise you up to life, as Lazarus from his tomb. I have healed your leprosy and removed your pain.

43. I have come to give you my teaching so that you may carry my love in your heart and thus be prepared to rise up to guide humanity, to show it the tree that has given you shade and life in its fruits.

44. Invite humanity to come to Me to give her my Father's caress, to enlighten her spirit, to save her from the wide sea of evil, to give her milk and honey and to put away the bitterness of her life.

45. If you speak this way to your brothers, you will have fulfilled the command that I have given you throughout the ages. Listen, beloved people, in yourselves to the voice of conscience and strengthen the purpose of loving me and of loving your brothers.

46. I come seeking the love of your heart so that in it you may form a sanctuary for me, I love you, I have adorned you with my divine grace and I have enlightened you so that you may be at my service.

47. I have placed this word in you, that like good seed tomorrow will multiply, because when you no longer listen to me in this way, the multitudes will follow my disciples to receive the teaching that they did not get to hear through my spokespersons. You will teach them and I will be with them. You will be submissive and obedient to my Law so that my Work may serve as a bulwark for you and you will raise the banner of spirituality high.

48. Israel, the great trials are ready to be among humanity, because men have willed it so, because in their hearts there is still the purpose of destruction and they have also formed their own god in this world; but before man does his own will, the Father will make himself felt again among humanity. You, my people, will rise up to show again the ark of salvation that is my Law, just as Noah spoke to humanity at that time.

49. Prepare yourselves, my people, to receive those who are coming to you, give them my love, teach them to love one another, show them my Law, kindle the flame of faith in their hearts and give them peace in my word, so that they may feed on it in their ways. You will teach those multitudes to seek me from spirit to Spirit.

50. You have come to Earth to fulfill this mission, that is why I have come to prepare you with my word, to quench the thirst of your spirit with these crystalline waters, to strengthen you and to anoint you. Strong you will rise up to speak to humanity in my name, you will be my messengers and through you I will deliver my light.

Love one another!

51. Rise up in prayer, that I will be with you and in union with my Spiritual World you will little by little awaken humanity. Watch and pray for those who have not felt me and in their pain they cry out and tell me: "Father, Father, why don't you listen to us?" And you, who already know how to seek me from spirit to Spirit, will teach your brothers to pray and to seek me in silence and in the elevation of their own spirit. I will make them feel my forgiveness, I will give them light and wisdom, so that they may fulfill my Law.

52. For those who have recognized me and are with me, I surrender those who perish in the wide sea of iniquity, I forgive and bless them. But you, who have received from your God and Lord, testify before humanity all that I have taught and revealed to you, so that she too may love me and rise up in pursuit of her spiritual mission.

53. It is prophesied that at this time the new people of God, the people of Israel, will appear on earth and my word will have to be fulfilled, but do not be mistaken in believing that it is the Jewish people when I mention the new people of Israel, since the people of whom I speak to you will be made up of all races and all languages. Their union will not be material, but spiritual, just as their mission will also be spiritual.

54. If in that First Time Israel was formed with twelve tribes, now the new people will carry out twelve missions, twelve different missions that, with their harmony, will give it the strength of an invincible people.

55. Men will not need to group together to form the new tribes, but I will form them, giving each one a different position to play among humanity.

56. The gifts of intuition, revelation and inspiration will be awakened in the spirit of the New Israel, because through them it will be how they receive my messages.

57. The men who form the new people will not be chosen on Earth, but by my love they will already be marked or marked in your spirit, as evolved beings, as beings of light who will not be able to get lost from the path that I have traced for them.

58. Just as in the First Time Israel prepared and commanded to cross the desert in pursuit of the Promised Land, and each tribe was entrusted with a different mission, so in this time one another will be spiritually strengthened and each one will fulfill the mission entrusted to him.

59. You who are listening to me are only a part of that people who will be scattered throughout the earth and who will be as numerous as the stars of the firmament.

60. That mark that some of you have received, of the sign that he brings in his spirit is only a symbol for everyone who, in this Third Time, comes to fulfill a mission within the New People of Israel.

Love one another!

61. I have told you many times that everything that your spirit possesses, he already brought with him from before he arrived on Earth, so that act that you call "The mark" has been nothing more than a symbol. But be filled with joy, because your mission is already defined, because you already know what your destiny and your role will be within the New People.

62. You will be the herald who announces to the peoples my orders and you will be the ones who reveal to humanity the divine message of which I have made you bearers, because in that message all those sent and those designated will be united, spiritually. You will announce to humanity this time in which all the gifts and faculties of the spirit have been unleashed and you will teach the way to discover them, to develop them and to use them.

63. Inspiration, intuition, gift of speech, healing, prophecy, revelation, spiritual communication: These are the gifts that, poured out on my people, will make of all men a new humanity. But pray, have faith, have fortitude, so that you may pour out peace, justice and charity among your brothers.

64. My envoys will be fulfilling missions everywhere, within every institution. Your heart will be unaware of the spiritual commission you are fulfilling, but your spirit will be absolutely aware of what you are doing. He will be the one who will make the heart sense the destiny that he has come to fulfill on Earth and will reveal to the mind what they have to do.

65. How great is the responsibility of you who have received this message! Because you have to prepare yourselves to bear witness to what you heard and to give an example and teaching of spirituality.

66. There should not be a single confusion among you when the time comes to open your lips to announce the Good News to humanity and both in your works, as in your words and writings, there will be truth and elevation.

67. Now I ask you: Do you want to be the ones who give the warning voice to humanity, awakening it with the ringing of a bell whose sound is that of truth calling hearts? Don't you want me to wait until the last of your footprints have disappeared on Earth so that the new generations will be the ones who give that testimony to the peoples of the world?

68. I have not been wrong in sending each one of you, despite the fact that you sometimes doubt your strength, to fulfill such a high destiny.

69. You doubt whether you are chosen or sent because you know your weaknesses, but I must tell you that these weaknesses are not in the spirit that I sent, but in the flesh that serves as a test for you on earth.

Love one another!

70. The instant when spirit overcomes matter will come, and light will be made in all understanding. Then you will be one, within yourselves, because there will be only one will: to obey the command written by the Father in your spirit, in order to be worthy children of the New People of Israel.

71. The divine light of the Master spreads throughout the world. I call on my farmers so that you can sit down at the Lord's table. Manifest your obedience and humility, come to feed yourselves so that you may bring love, understanding and charity.

72. I, the Master of masters, give the perfect example to my labourers; I have been preparing my disciples in this Third Time, so that you may be the hearts that fulfill the Law and give the charity of which you are possessors.

73. I come to you, beloved disciples, to encourage you with my love, so that you may feel me and know me, so that you may know from whom you are hearing the word and be able to understand it by penetrating into study and analysis.

74. Behold, beloved peasants, that darkness spreads in humanity, hatred, greed and vanity and you have great power, you are the ones who must speak of my Work, so that the sick, the leper, the unbeliever can know what the Divine Word is delivering in this time.

75. You are the light of the world and shining among humanity, you are not yet known or recognized by men.

76. Unbelieving humanity opens its lip to ignore my power, because it expects to contemplate the trials and the wonders that I gave it in the Second Time. He feeds idolatry because he has not been able to raise his spirit, he has not been able to pray, nor has he been able to ask.

77. When I have taught you to ask, I have set you on the path of truth, of elevation and of preparation. I have told you: You will teach humanity to watch and pray.

78. Penetrate into meditation, study and thus you will understand that the Master manifests himself in your humility to give you light, forgiveness and blessing; that I have never abandoned you. I am with you to make your cross light, to give you comfort.

79. I have entrusted the plots and the tools to you so that you can till and cultivate the land.

80. Humanity is hungry and thirsty for the truth that I have entrusted to you. Humanity is heading towards darkness, towards the abyss, towards perdition, but there are hearts that have to love me, of different languages, races and colors; I have only come making the call to the spirits without contemplating differences.

81. It is you, Israel, who must show them the way, who must give them my teaching.

Love one another!

82. Recognize the grace that you possess and the value of my word, arise as one heart, as one man and with one will; to fulfill the mission that I have entrusted to you.

83. Love one another, unite yourselves and be an example of humility, give my word, give health, give comfort, raise Lazarus from his tomb and give light to the blind, heal the paralyzed and by these spiritual wonders humanity will recognize me.

84. After 1950 you will no longer hear me through the speaker, and then you will recognize that it was the Master, that it was the Holy Spirit who was communicating through the human understanding.

85. Today as a Father I come to give you my grace and as a Teacher I come to give you the teaching. I have called you with my sonorous bell and I have drawn you from various paths to become in this time the guides of humanity. I have come to remind you of the mission that you must fulfill and I have prepared your spiritual eyes so that you may contemplate me through symbols and figures. I have given you the gift of the word so that you can bear witness to humanity of the revelations that you have received from Me.

86. You are my chosen ones and I have said to you: Wherever you walk, you will leave a trail of light, but in order for you to leave this footprint, you have to regenerate, you have to prepare.

87. If you put my teachings into practice, what can you fear from the world? I am speaking to you clearly so that you can understand me, so that you can imitate me.

88. I come to teach you so that you may give the world words of truth, so that you may make it feel my presence. Offer me the flowers of your heart, raise to my Spirit the perfume of your good works, be the good example of your brothers and tomorrow, when you no longer listen to me through these spokespersons, rise up as my good disciples to show this path to humanity.

89. Men have adulterated my Work and have been confused, but you prepare yourselves and do not fall into idolatry anymore, because the images made by man's hand do not speak, do not feel or hear. Does my essence need to materialize in order to be close to you? The truth will triumph through the ages, but I have always given you words of truth so that you too may be able to bear witness to Me.

90. Temptation, like a bird of prey, will want to rob you of your gifts, but you are in the time when you have freedom of belief, because the era of oppression has already passed and you must take advantage of this freedom and not let yourselves become the slaves of evil and the lies of men.

Love one another!

91. You, impart this teaching with love, because love is what I have given you, I have not taken the whip so that you would believe in Me, because if I did so I would cease to be your Father and your God.

92. On the roads and in the paths of the world, you found the pain, now contemplate this path where my truth is, contemplate its greatness with your spiritual sight. I have entrusted you with keys, gifts and power, make good use of all this, so that humanity recognizes you as my disciples.

93. It is the time when you must prepare yourselves to rise up to the fulfillment of your mission when you no longer listen to me through the spokespersons, I will never depart from you, I will inspire you and I will speak to you from Spirit to spirit so that you can fulfill your delicate mission.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 260

1. At this time you return to Me to listen to my new lesson, to pick up the leaf of my Doctrine that you had forgotten and to look for the book of my revelations that men had hidden from you.
2. I have come to open one more chapter of the Book of Life, the Sixth Seal, which contains infinite wisdom, which is what I am revealing to you in a simple and understandable way. This revelation makes clear to you the mysteries into which you could not penetrate.
3. The Sixth Seal is fully open and its pages one after another, I am showing them to your eyes.
4. When your preparation to hear me has been great, you have always achieved great divine manifestations. You are the heirs of the book of wisdom, so if you prepare yourselves, the contents of the Sixth Seal will be poured out on you, so that you may be the witness who affirms that the voice he heard was my voice and bear witness to it with your works.
5. If the Father did not make himself known to his children, could he expect perfect understanding and love from them? Remember how from time to time I have manifested my lessons before your spirit, each time with greater simplicity.
6. I have to tell you that although you are living in the time of the Holy Spirit, you still do not fully know me, you do not have a perfect idea of what I am, nor have you understood what I have revealed to you. But your love will lead you to the end of the day, encouraged by the word of your Master.
7. You come walking through the spiritual desert, you are illuminated by the light of a divine lighthouse. It is not the hot sands that are burning your feet, nor the rays of the sun hurting your temple; it is not the shortage of water and bread that is martyring you and yet the life you are going through, with its sacrifices, its needs and vicissitudes, are also a desert through which you have been walking slowly, but with the firm hope of reaching the kingdom of peace.
8. Elijah is the guide, the one who at this time walks before the people, pointing out the way and encouraging you in the struggle.
9. This day will leave advancement and perfection in your spirit, but recognize that if in the First Time you were infants in the Second Time you were disciples, and in this time you are receiving the preparation to become teachers. You must be alert because men will rise up to search my Work, which some will judge scientific; then you will make it known, as the spiritual Doctrine that will transform the world and you will bear witness to it with your works of love for your brothers.

Love one another!

10. It is not that it comes against the science of man, since science is knowledge, knowledge, light; my teaching is above all human knowledge. In my word I come to speak to you of the spirit, of the knowledge of the spiritual, of the divine, of the knowledge of a higher life, which is beyond all that is substance and matter. Truly I tell you, the science that men have developed for the benefit of humanity, I bless.

11. This is the time when there will be a lot of talk about spirit and science. Science is not only the privilege of those who prepare themselves materially to study it, because it is light that springs from the spirit, who receives it from God.

12. My divine teaching is a superior science that teaches you to perfect the spirit, for this I have given you the brain and the heart so that you can polish your inspiration and your feelings there.

13. The teaching that I am giving you has no limits, it is universal, it is infinite, in it you will find the true knowledge of spiritual and material life.

14. I find you qualified to understand my teaching and penetrate its secrets. Through material science you have come to know the laws that govern Creation, laws that are condensed in your own body and when you have come to know what was previously a mystery to you, you have realized that you are at the threshold of the beyond, where you have palpated the heart of the Father, who tries to communicate with you every moment. What can you ignore knowing my Doctrine?

15. That is why I tell you that my teaching gives you the superior knowledge that will prevent your heart from faltering in the presence of the wise men of this world.

16. In order for you to understand the meaning or significance of any event in Nature or in your life, you will not have to resort to books of science; it will be enough for you to prepare your understanding and cleanse your heart, so that inspiration flows from your lips.

17. My love for you is so great that when I was so little I came to offer you my Kingdom and came down to you to give you my blood!

18. This people that I am teaching, will not be greater than the others, but more responsible for what I have deposited in them and what I have revealed to them. Your mission is to share with others what you have and to make them equal to you, so that having been the first to receive, you may know how to be the last out of humility. Do not be afraid that those who come after you will achieve greater advances. The more you give, the more your knowledge will grow. But if you have received anything from the Father, you will die nothing, your spirit will be naked, your heart empty, and your hands powerless. You will have lost the treasure and the book will have been closed, your mouth will be silent to talk about the spiritual lessons and you will lose the balm that Jesus has entrusted to you.

Love one another!

19. Your mission among humanity is one of peace and love, that mission brought your spirit from the First Time. The one in which you were the little children of my Law, in which I took you as instruments to give lessons and to teach men of all times. In the Second you were the disciples of Jesus, since from my lips you heard what the twelve apostles heard and spread so that the whole people could be witnesses. That is why after my departure many disciples of Christ and many martyrs arose.

20. People: In this time when I come as the Holy Spirit, I will leave you prepared as teachers, ready for direct communication with the Divinity.

21. A multitude of human creatures, they will not listen to me through the understanding of man, but they will receive my teaching from you. The moment is approaching when I will retain forever this way of giving you my word in this world, and many peoples who did not hear me, will hear me through you. Now my covenant with you will not be with my blood, but with my light.

22. You will not have to ask men what you have to do, nor hesitate or be silent before their questions. You carry within you the Master who will speak to you and inspire you. Your prayer will become strong and powerful enough to do wonders.

23. Look at how the world, in the face of its great tribulations, meditates on the promises that Jesus made in the Second Time, to return among humanity and studies the prophets of the first times, in the hope that the events surrounding this era will be the indication of my next arrival.

24. If, being within my Work, you feel inferior and despicable before your brothers, they will call you clumsy and ignorant.

25. It is only a form of expression that I use when I tell you that I communicate through an ignorant person; because a brain that lets my inspiration pass reveals light in the spirit and light is wisdom.

26. Again I say to you: Fight, because as long as the spirit is on the path of evolution, it will be exposed to temptations. That is why I teach you and give you strength, so that you may overcome evil inclinations. If your spirit is strong, he will give strength to the mind and firm will to the heart to overcome the desires of the flesh. When man lacks light, his spirit does not evolve, then all the vicissitudes have a strong impact on his heart and he is like a small boat that is shipwrecked in the middle of the storm.

Love one another!

27. When a man is spiritually prepared, it is as if he were wearing an invulnerable armor against the lurks of temptation.

28. I have revealed these teachings to you so that when for a moment you fall or stumble on the way, you will recognize your fault and seek again the way of amendment.

29. If you behave with humility, your spiritual flow will increase in the life that awaits you. Then you will get peace, which will give you the most beautiful feeling of your existence. And the longing to serve the Father will be born in your spirit, being a faithful guardian of everything created by Me, being a consolation for the one who suffers and peace for the one who has no rest.

30. It is not only my word that announces my presence to you in these moments, it is your own spirit that feels me deeply in the midst of this peace that I come to give you.

31. The Master is with you. Your spirit has sat at my heavenly table. In truth I tell you that there are no places of preference at this table, everyone is the same because they are within my charity.

32. My love infiltrates your being so that you come to love your fellow human beings as I love you and so that in your heart there are no first or last places. If you had already risen up after the nations, the regions and the villages, you would find a humanity without love, without charity, you would find pain and misery everywhere. Everywhere you would find suitable land to sow my seed.

33. Humanity feels my presence, without knowing in what way I have come to communicate, and in his anguished prayer he tells me that only my blood will be able to save him, that if I come to give him my bread he will not perish from hunger and thirst for love and that only my light will give a solution to his conflicts. His aching and desperate voice asks me: Why don't you come? Why don't you approach the one who calls you and invokes you in his pain?

34. They do not know that there are those who are listening to me day after day, and receiving the presence of my Spirit, who with his grace turns the outcasts into servants of the Divinity.

35. If they knew that I was about to leave, they would judge you severely as ungrateful for your indifference to their need for comfort, for a spiritual word, for a ray of light.

36. Now I am preparing you for after my departure, so that you may remain united despite the vicissitudes, because the Word will continue to vibrate spiritually in you, I will continue to reveal great inspirations. When you come together to talk about spiritual manifestations, you will receive divine inspirations from Me and you will feel in those moments the warmth of the

Love one another!

Master and the sweet weight of his hand that rests on your head. Then you will seem to hear a pleasant and dear voice that will give you my peace.

37. I give you a drop of balm, so that when you are persecuted, you will do wonders of healing among humanity because in the great epidemics, when strange diseases arise and unknown to science, the power of my disciples will be manifested.

38. I entrust you with a key with which you will open the most moldy bolt, that is, the most reluctant heart, and you will open even the doors of the prison to give freedom to the innocent and save the guilty. You will always walk with peace and trust in Me, because everywhere you go you will be protected by my angels. They will join your fulfillment and accompany you to homes, hospitals, prisons, fields of discord and war, wherever you went to deposit my seed.

39. Then the light of the Sixth Seal will shine brightly, it will be like a universal torch whose rays will be seen by all and the name of my Doctrine will arise among humanity.

40. This piece of land where I have manifested at this time will be a reflection of the New Jerusalem, which will open its twelve doors to give access to strangers who will arrive in caravans asking where the Master was at this time, to ask for testimony of the miracles he did the tests he gave, to study his word and observe those who were his disciples. Many will bring the scriptures with the prophecies of the past times to confirm whether I was indeed among you.

41. Of my disciples, some will remain where they are now, but others will have to get up in search of other lands and they, on their way as apostles and missionaries, will contemplate the battlefields where extermination and death have left the mark of their passage. They will see the dead cities, the rubble and the misery. Then it will be the struggle to return the dead to the life of faith, of light, of love. But if men doubt the veracity of my labors, I will work miracles through them, and the unbelievers will convert, they will weep, and the multitudes will vent their sorrow on the hearts of these messengers.

42. You do not know to whom you will then be called and received, but wherever you go and to whom I present you, you will always speak clothed in humility and meekness. You will explain the Law, the revelations and teachings of the past times, and what in this time has been revealed by the Holy Spirit. You will speak figuratively, but you will know how to explain my metaphors and parables, so that men will understand, children will wake up, and the elderly will not break their understanding.

43. Those who convert to this word will join the peasants and will rise up conquering hearts and spirits for Me.

Love one another!

44. The struggle will be intense but fruitful, because first the pain will have fertilized the hearts.
45. These are the changes that will take place because of my Doctrine.
46. Material power will be annihilated, science confused, pride humiliated and passions held back.
47. The spirit of humanity, which is already developed by its evolution, will soon understand and assimilate the revelations of my Doctrine. Behind materialism, interests and vanities, there is the spirit that is waiting for my arrival.
48. Make sure that the seed you are going to sow is pure as I have entrusted it to you.
49. You will find men who think differently from you, who feel and live differently and who, moreover, their customs, their conditions, their laws, their doctrines and their rites, have very deep roots in their hearts.
50. You will witness the struggles of ideas and doctrines, some partially adhering to my Law, others completely departing from these principles, I will allow them to face each other and fight.
51. In that contest you will see the great religions use more of force and injustice than of love and charity. You will see their ambitions to absorb the weak.
52. The defeat will be in everyone because the truth has its own weapons to defend itself that are within the same truth. And when this question arises from men: Where is the truth? You will answer: In love.
53. Disciples: Your rejoicing is great because you still have my word among you, this word that has given you life, that has sustained you in the hours of trial and that has nourished you, at the touch of which you have seen your wounds close and your life transformed.
54. How many material ambitions died in your heart, with great rejoicing of your spirit who saw the opportunity to take advantage of life by doing good works with spiritual seed! You turn your eyes to the past judging how you were yesterday and how you are now, you notice the spiritual progress you have had and you thank me from the depths of your being.
55. When you have been lacking, I have corrected you with gentleness without betraying you to others, because I do not want the world to see defects among you and correct you, the world is cruel, and in its justice there is no mercy.
56. Let my spiritual world correct you, they are your best friends, they are your brothers in love, those who do not publish their charitable works. From how many abysses and dangers they have saved you, from how many bad determinations they have made you desist, how many times they have sealed your lips so that the violence of your heart would not overflow into words that could be a sentence for yourselves! When you have failed in a bad company that you thought was good, they have then traced the right path for you. They are tireless by your side as nurses and as protectors. They will also stop communicating when I stop talking to you, but do not forget about those beings of charity because they will be very close to you and will continue to provide their help.

Love one another!

57. Not because I will stop speaking to you and my spiritual world too, my Work will be over; on the contrary, the time of perfect communication with the Father will begin in which you will listen to his voice spiritually.

58. My word will not be heard as Moses heard it on Sinai, materialized in the thunder of the storm, nor humanized as in the Second Time on the lips of Jesus, nor through human spokesmen as you have heard it from the Holy Spirit at this time. Everyone who prepares will achieve spirit-to-Spirit communication, which will not be the privilege of only some.

59. It is the most natural thing for spirits to know how to communicate and to know the language of the Spirit from which they sprang.

60. Spirituality will bring the awakening of the dormant gifts or faculties and the sensitivity of all the fibers of the heart.

61. My presence will be palpable. When you speak of my Work, you will be inspired by Me and you will speak with phrases of immense wisdom that will surprise even men of much knowledge. Those who achieve great progress in this communication will receive not only words, phrases or ideas, but chairs full of perfection. Your hands will be able to be like those of golden pens writing, like that of John the apostle under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit.

62. When you find yourselves surrounded by unbelievers, scribes and priests and you feel filled with my Spirit, do not tell anyone that it is the Father who speaks through your mouth, but I will be speaking to humanity through you. In this communication you will have your eyes open, and your spirit ecstatic, marveling at what the lips are revealing at that moment.

63. The gift of prophecy through clairvoyance will also be unleashed and will reveal to you unrevealed mysteries and will let you see the future. But the Seer will never be a judge or an informer of his brothers.

64. That will be the communication of spirit to Spirit in some forms, so I tell you again that in 1950, when my word among you ceases, my Work will not have concluded. He will follow his destiny, his mission throughout the Universe.

Love one another!

65. You will prepare yourselves and whenever you find yourselves gathered either in these precincts, in your homes or in the valleys, there, in those meetings, you will spiritually feel my presence.

66. But watch, because false disciples will also arise, proclaiming that they communicate directly with the Father and will transmit false orders and inspirations. I have taught you to distinguish truth from falsehood, to know the tree by its fruit.

67. I will test one and the other and you will see the true disciples come out ahead by faith and the false ones fall by their weakness.

68. When I find myself handing over my last chair, I will see sad those who did not take advantage of my teachings and in those who understand the meaning of my departure I will see satisfaction for their advancement.

69. I will leave you as a ladder to reach Me, prayer, not the one that your lips pronounce, nor those that you say with songs, but the one that is impregnated with pure thoughts and noble feelings.

70. If you become combated by these activities, do not be afraid; if you are judged because you do not prostrate before altars and images, do not be afraid either, your moment of speaking will come and you will convince with the truth. You will show that your worship is not public or ostentatious, but interior and spiritual. Men will look for mistakes in all this and they will not find them.

71. Be firm and you will see the idolaters recognizing their error and destroying their idols with their own hands.

72. Verily I say unto you, sooner will the heavens and the earth pass away, than my word cease to be fulfilled.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 261

1. My word is clear, its simple expression persuades and moves the cultured as well as the rude. Given its clarity, you have easily understood many lessons that you either could not understand or did not want to accept.
2. Now you know that man can recognize his God without resorting to the exaltation of the senses to perceive through them the spiritual. Today you know that despite your limited brain, you can give yourself an idea of how the perfect communion between God and man will be realized, just as you are also convinced of the truth of my manifestation through the understanding of my spokespersons.
3. Light has been made in those who have listened to me, therefore, the false and impure will not enter their hearts again.
4. It is the time of light, in which man, in addition to believing, will understand, reason and feel my truth.
5. The purpose of my Doctrine will make everyone accept that no one came to this world without a justified cause, that this cause is divine love and that the destiny of all beings is to fulfill a mission of love.
6. At all times, from the very beginning, men have asked themselves: Who am I? To whom do I owe my life? Why do I exist? What have I come for and where am I going? Part of their doubts and their lack of knowledge have been found in my explanations and through their reflections on what I have revealed to you from time to time, but there are those who already think they know everything and I tell you that they are in grave error, because what is stored in the Arcanum of God, it is not possible for men to discover it until it is revealed to them and there is much that exists in that arcanum that you do not yet know, its content is infinite.
7. This world will take one more step in the knowledge of the truth; suddenly it will suffer confusion, but then it will calm down and come to understanding.
8. Man has always struggled to attain the knowledge of the truth. In the beginning he attributed everything to Nature, but later, observing and meditating, he came to think that it was not possible for so many wonders and perfect works to come to life out of nothing, that there had to be a creative force, an intelligence and a higher power. In this belief the faith of men was affirmed, who in turn created cults and rites to worship the One from whom all creatures had sprung.

Love one another!

9. New questions arose from the human heart: Who is God? How is it? Will it really exist or not? These and other questions were asked by men about my existence and about my essence, but I have always answered every call and every question.

10. Many tests and revelations had God made to men since the first days of humanity, tangible and visible materialized manifestations, according to the naivety, ignorance and innocence of those creatures, until, when the opportune time came, I showed myself to the world through Jesus, to personally answer all the questions of men, to dispel all uncertainties and prepare them for a time in which they would cease to be ignorant, innocent and foolish children, to become, thanks to the light of the Divine Spirit, the great disciples, in the children raised by love and knowledge, in the beings aware of their nature, of their destiny and of the reason for their existence.

11. Thus, while some have always sought divine support and help to succeed in life, others, as they evolved in intelligence, grew in pride, believing themselves absolute, powerful and wise. They considered themselves capable of conceiving creative ideas and self-sufficiency.

12. Spiritualists and materialists have always existed in this humanity, as well as the struggle of ideas between one and the other, each striving to prove that he possesses the truth.

13. My spiritual presence at this time came to pacify you, to make you reconcile, to answer all your questions and to prove to you that neither those who have fought for the spiritual, nor those who proclaim that the only truth is that which is in the material life, are right; the former have sinned as fanatics and the latter as fools; they have not realized that one and the other carry a part of that truth, but they have not known how to harmonize, reconcile or unite them with love.

14. It seems impossible for one and the other to understand each other, you do not believe in a unification of such magnitude, but I tell you the truth, I do know that this union will be realized.

15. You would cease to be constituted in the perfect way in which God created you and you would cease to have my light in your consciousness so as not to act in a just and righteous way, as all the works of the Father are; but it is necessary to wait a while yet for that light, that divine part that you call consciousness, to travel through man the entire path of free will granted to him, so that she is the one who initiates him in the work of regeneration, restoration and spiritual elevation.

16. You have arranged your heart as a sanctuary to receive me into it; you first went through an examination of your conscience and tears of repentance rolled from many eyes.

17. I have listened to you all and I bless you all.

Love one another!

18. I know who has felt sorry for having been weak in the trial; who had promised me to forgive his enemy and did not do it, and when he returned to Me, to listen to me, he instantly felt the claim of his conscience and humbly confessed his fault, asking me for a new opportunity.

19. Know that I come to strengthen you so that you will not fall again, that I come to teach you with infinite patience and mercy and that I will give everyone new opportunities to demonstrate their understanding, their effort, their will and their advancement.

20. See how sincere repentance washes away some stains, lightens your burden and gives peace to your heart. When you feel free of your burden, think about how many of your brothers and sisters do not pray and do suffer, so that you may pray for all of them, with the full faith that my balm will be poured out on all the suffering and needy.

21. I do not ask for prayer that lasts long hours, but for a short and heartfelt prayer, simple in form and deep in spirituality, those moments will be enough for Me to grant you my charity.

22. Prayer is the spiritual means that I have inspired man to communicate with my Divinity, that is why it manifested itself from the beginning in you as a longing, as a need of the spirit, as a refuge in the hours of trial,

23. He who does not know true prayer, he does not know the delights that it contains, he does not know the source of health and goods that are found in it; he feels the impulse to approach Me, to speak to me and present his request to me; but, lacking spirituality, the offering of elevating only the thought seems so poor to him, that he instantly seeks something material to offer me, believing that it flatters me better.

24. In this way humanity has been falling into idolatry, fanaticism, external rites and cults, drowning its spirit and depriving it of that blessed freedom of praying directly to its Father. It is only when the pain is very intense, when the pain reaches the limits of human strength, that the spirit, forgetting forms and tearing down idols, breaks free and rises up to cry from the depths: "My Father, my God."

25. Through prayer, peace is achieved, wisdom is acquired, health is obtained, the deep is understood, the mind is enlightened and the spirit is strengthened.

26. The one who knows how to pray from spirit to Spirit, feels accompanied everywhere, not so the one who looks for forms and images, who needs to go where they are to feel their presence and feel safe.

27. Do you see in this time of materialism the peoples engaged in making war on each other? For I tell you that there, in the midst of these wars, many men have found the secret of prayer, that which is born from the heart to come to Me as an imperious call, as a complaint, as an imploration, and when they have seen the miracle asked for arise in their path, they have known that there is no other way to speak to God other than with the language of the spirit.

Love one another!

28. Disciples: You who are a people who have received, not a lesson, but a book, will be prepared to speak of Me as no one has spoken.

29. I am going to give you many opportunities to fulfill your missions, take advantage of them. Give to all, teach all; what I have given you has no limit and therefore your heart will never be empty, on the contrary: the more you give, the more you will see it multiplied in you, the more you love, the greater you will be in virtue.

30. I leave my love among my people, as a testimony of my presence.

31. My communication is with you, my light radiates over the human understanding to send through it my message of love to humanity.

32. You will be the emissaries on whose lips my word will go from region to region and from heart to heart.

33. These moments are of meditation for this people, they serve you for your inner examination, so that you may truly know if you love me with purity or if you have fallen into fanaticism. The time is ripe for repairing mistakes.

34. Studying the meaning of the word "spirituality", you have understood that it is a mistake to want to represent the divine through forms that you call symbols, an error that increases when you consider that you are hiding with appearances the reality that you have in front of you.

35. Look that I always manifest myself in intelligence, in life, in love, in power, never in inert bodies, today you are attending one of my manifestations, which is through the understanding of man, why do you insist on representing me with inanimate forms and bodies? This man for whom I am communicating, is feeling me deeply and intensely in his spirit and even in his matter, his joy is deep and his ecstasy makes him contemplate clearly the light that comes to his understanding.

36. You are like this man, so why don't you also feel me in your heart?

37. Meditate on this teaching and you will come to the conclusion that there can be no spirituality where the tendency to materialize the divine persists.

38. Not all of you will understand by now what "spirituality" means, nor will you understand why I ask you to reach that elevation. Can you be meek and obedient to my commands, when you don't even know what I'm asking of you? But there are those who understand the ideal that the Master is inspiring his disciples and they will hasten to obey his instructions.

Love one another!

39. The love of symbolism and forms, as well as the cult of images, is reminiscent of the spiritual childhood of humanity; of the primitive times when men needed the external and the apparent to believe in the divine.

40. Human intelligence was at the beginning of its evolution, so I would not have said to them: "Analyze and understand the one that belongs to the spirit"; but now, that man has penetrated into all the paths of science, that he has developed many philosophies, that he has mentally evolved in many other orders, will he not come to understand Spiritualism? Will you be confused by my new message? No, people, the spirit of humanity needs and longs for my saving Doctrine.

41. Do not be afraid of the struggle to spread and sow this teaching, many peoples already respect the sacred right to think freely, later men will know the freedom of the spirit that humanity has not known until now.

42. Wars continue in the world, the threat of death and extermination hangs over the peoples; it is that men bent on preserving their philosophies and doctrines, do not want to contemplate the truth.

43. I give you the spiritual strength, people, so that you will not fear failure; when I have told you that this light that I have made shine in your spirit will dispel the shadows, I repeat to you that I have told you the truth.

44. At this moment I envelop you in the light of my Divinity. I come down to prepare you as teachers so that you may teach your brothers and sisters with words and deeds of love and charity, humility and forgiveness. But I tell you the truth, works always speak louder than words.

45. Man also speaks of love to humanity of fraternity and peace, but he denies his words with his deeds.

46. Now that the Father has descended to communicate with you through the human understanding, I tell you: Do not be of those who, speaking of love, harbor hatred, who, speaking of goodness, practice the opposite and, speaking of peace, provoke wars. No, in order for you to see my word flourish among you, you must speak of it through works that are born of your heart.

47. Speak by the Spirit, for you are in the fullness of time of the Holy Spirit. Keep it always elevated, that if for a moment you come to feel distant from me, it will not be I who have moved away, but you who have weakened in your spirit. Because I always live in your heart.

Love one another!

48. The distances and the barriers between the Divine Spirit and the human heart, man himself creates them. But I dwell so close to you that you will not have to search the horizon with your gaze to contemplate me; it will be enough for you to penetrate with anointing and recollection into your interior so that you will find me in my sanctuary.

49. My revelations of this time come to put you in spiritual contact with my Divinity, intimacy that your spirit has always sought.

50. I still contemplate and listen to this humanity flatter me and call me with their rites, songs, verbal prayers and various forms of worship, to feel close; I make everyone feel my presence, I am with everyone, but a time has come when the Lord wants the worship of his children to be perfect, that their communication with the Father also be perfect. And this is what this teaching has come to reveal to you at this time. Today you have learned from Me how you should pray and how to reach spirit-to-Spirit communication.

51. In order for you to take steps forward on this path, I encouraged you to put aside all ritual and all external worship. Then all those objects with which you tried to represent divine attributes, and also the materiality or exteriorization of your spiritual cult, disappeared from your enclosures.

52. My Doctrine is not only to give you strength and tranquility during your passage on Earth, it will teach you to leave this world, to cross the thresholds of the Hereafter and to enter the eternal mansion.

53. All religions comfort the spirit in his transit through this world, but how little they reveal and prepare him for the great journey to the Hereafter. That is why many look at death as a limit, not knowing that from there the infinite horizon of true life is contemplated.

54. You have called the teachings that I have brought to you as the Holy Spirit at this time spiritualism, because it has revealed to you many impenetrable mysteries. It is no longer time for a veil to exist between the Afterlife and man. I will reveal to you of that life as far as you can understand and only what my will is.

55. Do not look at the grave as the end, do not look at emptiness, death, darkness or nothingness from it. Because beyond material death there is life, light, the whole.

56. Before entering those regions you will have to prepare yourself and by the elevation of your spirit you will be able from now that you are incarnated, to inhabit or penetrate the spiritual valley.

57. Do not see in your body a chain, an enemy or an executioner, see in your matter a weak creature whom you must strengthen, because then she will be your servant, your staff and your best instrument to fulfill a mission and climb to the mountain. Spiritualize it without letting it fall into fanaticism, so that you can let go in your prayer and carry the balm to the sick on the wings of thought.

Love one another!

58. When in the Second Time I spoke of my Kingdom to my disciples, they did not understand and asked me, "Where is your Kingdom, Lord?" But when the day of my departure drew near, my word ceased to be in a figurative sense, it became clear and everyone understood.

59. Also at this time, as the moment is approaching when I stop communicating in this way, I have left the figurative sense to tell you clearly and simply about the great lessons that I had in store for you. All that I have spoken to you since 1866 will be summarized in my teachings of these last three years.

60. This word, which, through the Divine Ray that illuminates the human understanding, you have heard in this time, has been for you the new manna for your spirit, has also been similar to the miracle of the loaves and fishes that Jesus worked in the desert.

61. The time in which I will speak to you is already very short, prepare yourselves and take advantage of my word and my examples, so that with this you may rise up among humanity to testify to my teaching. Many doors will be opened for you, others will remain closed. Multitudes of men will come to listen to you, and among them will be the deaf. You will sow, because the heart of humanity is like the earth, I will send dew and rain on your sowing and the seed will germinate.

62. Those destined to go after other peoples will cross the borders as peace envoys.

63. The world, like a valley of atonement, awaits you with all its pains, its vices, its diseases and its sores, so that in it you may deposit the balm that heals all ills, which I have entrusted to you.

64. You do not feel capable of great actions, but I, by an atom of your love or your charity, will do through you amazing works of which you will even feel unworthy.

65. When my word no longer vibrates in these precincts, you will gather to read my lectures, from which you will understand many teachings that you could not understand before. The seers will contemplate the silhouette of the Master, who as the Holy Spirit will make new revelations to you. There, in your bosom, the sick will relieve their pain and the dying will regain life, the sad will find comfort and the desperate calm.

66. By the example of your own life you will teach, I will do the rest. I have wanted to give you a part in this work of love, so that loving your brothers you may love Me.

Love one another!

67. Come prepared for the day of my last lecture, because it will be like the last supper of the Second Time, in which you will come to receive my last words.

68. Those who have not fulfilled my commands, nor have they cared about spirituality, those obstinate in past customs and traditions, will have to cry and later, reading in the Book that I am entrusting to you, they will realize their mistakes, then full of pain and repentance they will try to correct their mistakes.

69. The light of my love illuminates the world and its paths, when darkness threatens to envelop them. Day after day, in great numbers, spirits arise who leave this life without knowing where they are going, do not forget about them, give them the light of your prayer, of your charity. Be careful of the beings of light, because they are already in the light and they are the ones who watch over you. Do not pray only for men, pray for all your fellow men.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 262

1. My Spirit is pleased to behold you united in the same longing to draw near to the Master. Here, before the manifestation of my word, you forget miseries, grudges, envies and sufferings.
2. You do well to cleanse your heart, for my word must come to it, when you have prepared it as a sanctuary.
3. Humility and simplicity is what must exist in your spiritual worship, so that the material and ostentatious does not distract you from the essential that is love for your Father and charity towards your fellow human beings. When you have come to have those moments of elevation, your thought has vibrated under the divine thought.
4. Form a united, fraternal and loving people of truth and good practices, who knows how to rejoice at the arrival of new brothers, who knows how to welcome them with a smile on their lips, with true charity in the heart and with a prayer in the spirit. You will give them what you have been accumulating in the time that you have listened to me. You will show them the true path, the one that I have traced for you and you will enjoy knowing that you are imitating me. It does not matter that your knowledge is not yet very deep, if your charity is great, you will do real wonders.
5. This mission will never seem arduous if the one who practices it illuminates his works with love, on the other hand, to the one who practices it as a duty simply, it may seem like a heavy cross.
6. Do not be discouraged if you judge that you are still too imperfect to carry out such a delicate mission, goodwill conquers all.
7. I am going to show you a way to prepare yourselves so that your daily works are all inspired by noble feelings and so that vicissitudes and difficulties do not stop you or make you retreat; when you open your eyes to the light of the new day, pray, approach Me through thought, then form your plan already inspired with my light and get up to fight, proposing to be strong and not miss a single moment of obedience and faith.
8. Truly I tell you, it will not be long before you marvel at your strength and the result of your works.
9. Make sure that your actions contain truth and clarity and do not be afraid to be mocked by your brothers, because in that moment of confusion they will not know what they are doing.

Love one another!

10. I see that you are afraid of judgments and criticism, I do not want you to be mocked; but if your conscience claims nothing from you, I will forgive those who have offended you and I will make the light of truth shine in their minds.

11. Have a true knowledge of what charity is, how to feel it and how to impart it, so that it becomes clean and you do it without ostentation. May your sinister always ignore what your right hand gives, that is, that you do not give ostentatiously because with it you would destroy every work of charity.

12. I wanted to form with each of these congregations a true family in which you all love each other, in which you help each other in your sufferings and in your sorrows, so that among you you may learn to do charity and when that feeling has developed and matured in your heart, know how to rise up on the path of struggle to offer its good fruits to those in need of love and light, who by the thousands will cross your path.

13. The day will come when you will cease to be part of these groups of disciples who are now gathering to listen to my teaching; but although you are scattered throughout various parts of the Earth, in spirit you will remain united in the struggle and in the performance of your office. Those bonds of spiritual affinity no one will be able to break them.

14. Blessed are you because you have been in harmony with your Father, not an impure thought has troubled your mind in this hour of communion with your God. Everything has been harmony and in it you have listened to my word in the bosom of Nature, far from every enclosure.

15. Look at the magnificence of what surrounds you: The high mountains symbolizing altars in perpetual homage to the Creator, the sun star as an immense lamp illuminating the life of beings; the harmonious song of the birds, raising their trills to the Father that are like prayers, and in the midst of that splendor, your spirit in ecstasy, before the concert of the divine word.

16. My caress is with you, my light pours out in flashes and at the same time I collect from your heart the offering that you have brought to me.

17. Thus, in this atmosphere of elevation and spirituality, you will see the greatest wonders being realized among you. Ask, ask for the sick, for the needy, for the absent, for the lost, because they will greatly receive.

18. Beloved people, who to present yourselves to Me seek the best offering; you have entered into purification to wash away the faults that your conscience points out to you and after repenting for having sinned, you prepare the sanctuary to be in communion with me.

Love one another!

19. Watch and pray, the Master teaches you, so that you may be strong in the face of temptation and not sin again. Pray for yourselves and for those who do not know how to pray. How much time will you need to pray each day? Long hours to lift up your spirit to Me? No, people, five minutes will suffice: That short time of love, of surrender to Me, is the time you need to offer me your submission and compliance with my provisions on the day you live. I will know how to comfort you in your tribulations, encourage you in your work and enlighten you for the development of your companies.

20. Whenever you need a confidant, a kind friend, look for Me and deposit in Me, the sorrows that are in your heart, and I will advise you the best way, the solution you are looking for. If your spirit is burdened by sorrows, it is because you have sinned, I will receive you and I will be benevolent in my judgment, I will fortify your purpose of amendment and I will return the lost strength to you.

21. Only the practice of my teachings will preserve you in grace and spiritual and bodily health. The experience you gather will be light that you will accumulate in your spirit.

22. My judgment and my Law are inexorable, and if you have to pay your debts at this time, do it with love, patiently and when you find yourself tired, I will hold your cross, so that you gain new strength to continue fighting.

23. If you know that your destiny is written, that only trials polish the heart and bend the matter, why are you rebelling?

24. Your spirit has been endowed with great strength and the trials that I am sending you are no greater than the power and energy that you possess. They are beneficial, they help you to do merits and save you.

25. My Father's spirit suffers as I contemplate the pain of humanity. I didn't punish her. My laws of love and justice, put into practice, bring only good hope and peace.

26. Because of man, the elements of destruction have been unleashed. The war has sown its seed in all hearts. How much pain humanity has felt! How much desolation, misery, orphanhood and mourning he has left in his wake! Do you think that the spirit of those who have fallen into strife has perished, or that that part of life, of eternity that dwells in man, has ceased to exist?

27. No, people. The spirit survives the war and death, That part of myself Spirit has risen from the fields of pain and seeks in my path a new horizon, to continue living, developing and evolving.

Love one another!

28. Those who have remained on Earth and have contemplated their obliterated regions, their devastated fields, the plague and famine, the principles of morality and good fallen to the ground, to them I have preserved their strength and I have watched over all. There are the spirits who have not lost faith, they are coming closer to Me. I have made them feel my presence and they have contemplated me.

29. In future times I will use them, to bring the light of my word to other peoples, I will entrust them with a great spiritual mission.

30. They have learned to pray as I have taught you. There is no pain, no misery in those spirits. There is greatness, because in the midst of their trial they have loved me, understood me and obeyed me. They have become acrisolated in pain.

31. People, unite your prayer to that of those spirits. You have not been crushed in pain, your crucible has been the peace that I have come to offer you at this time in my word of love. When you find yourselves prepared, one for pain and the other for love, you will reach out, you will unite and together in the fulfillment of my teachings you will analyze my word; you will drink this cup of love and you will confirm that everything you have received has been beneficial. I will carry out my Work and I will show you in the end, the result of it. On the spiritual and moral ruins that humanity presents, I will raise up a healthy and strong world.

32. Your judgment is being prepared, people, and just as the other peoples have borne the weight of my righteousness, you will receive it at the appointed time according to your works.

33. I welcome all of you, the same as the one who comes eager to hear me, as the one who penetrates to search or the one who very smugly denies everything he has heard and comes only out of curiosity.

34. Truly I tell you, my vibration has been and will be forever; yesterday in one form, today in another, tomorrow in yet another, and so on for eternity.

35. There is a bond between the Father and the children, which can never be broken and that bond is the cause of the communication between the divine Spirit and that of all of you.

36. Blessed is the one who seeks the truth because he is thirsty for love, light and goodness. Seek and you will find, seek the truth and it will meet you. Keep meditating, keep questioning the Arcanum and He will answer you, because the Father has never remained silent or indifferent to the one who eagerly interrogates him.

37. How many who are looking for the truth in books, among the sages and various sciences, will end up finding it in themselves, since at the bottom of every man I have deposited a seed of eternal truth.

Love one another!

38. Here is my light vibrating in a human brain and becoming word. Why do you consider this communication impossible? Do you think that man can have more power than God, by achieving with his science the communication at a distance between one and another?

39. Verily I say to you, if you do not know the faculties with which the spirit of man is endowed, you will even less know Me.

40. I communicate through the human understanding, because the brain is the perfect apparatus made by the Creator, so that the intelligence, which is the light of the spirit, is manifested in it.

41. That apparatus is the model that you will never be able to match with all your science. You will take its form and its construction as a model for your creations, but you will never reach the perfection that your Father's works have. Why do you doubt that I can use what I have formed?

42. I tell you again that you do not know each other yet, because if you knew each other spiritually you would not only accept this divine communication through your understanding, but you would understand that even greater surprises are in store for you. If you knew each other, you would not complain about not being understood by your brothers, when you do not even know yourselves. Know yourselves so that you will not be an eternal interrogation before you; so that you will not go looking in many places for the answer that you carry within you.

43. My whole Doctrine aims to discover before your eyes everything that encloses your being, because from that knowledge the light is born to find the path that leads to the eternal, to the perfect, to God.

44. My Doctrine tends to form within you a being superior to what surrounds you in the world, a being that is elevation, light and spiritual beauty; virtue, wisdom and power. How great then will be your joy and your inner peace! Your conscience will tell you, "This is the true essence of your being." How different will be the behavior of those who, having rejected from their heart all good seed, have consecrated their being to an egoistic life, to a materialistic and perverse life, when they have come to look inward, when they have had an instant of communication with their conscience, have contemplated themselves in that mirror that never fades, that never lies and have been horrified by the monster that they carry in themselves and which they cannot recognize as the work of themselves.

45. O unbelievers! Come and listen to me often, my word will overcome your doubt. If it seems to you that the form of my word is not the same as I had at that time, I tell you not to stop at the form, at the exterior, but to look for the meaning, which is the same. The essence, the meaning, are always one, because the divine is eternal and immutable; but the form in which the revelation comes to you or through which I make known to you one more part of the truth, that is always presented according to the capacity or evolution that you have reached.

46. A large part of my teaching has had the purpose that you meet, that you get to know each other, so that you stop falling, on the way and stop: from crying out for mercy when you feel lost or miserable.

47. Why cry carrying so many riches and hidden treasures in your being? This is one of the goals of your life that you have long forgotten: you must know each other in order to discover everything that the spirit keeps.

48. Interrogate, search, deepen and the more you penetrate into your being, the greater treasures and surprises you will find.

49. Crowds: Come with me, I come to save you. When your world tires you, when your brothers do not know you, when yours do not understand you, come to Me and I will go out to meet you. I will prove to you that I was not ignorant of anything that happened to you.

50. Come so that I may raise you to true life and remind you that you were created to give; but that until you know what you have in you, it will be impossible for you to give to anyone who needs it.

51. See how everything around you fulfills the mission of giving. The elements, the stars, the beings, the plants, the flowers and the birds, everything, from the greatest to the imperceptible, have the gift and the destiny of giving. Why do you make yourselves an exception, being the ones most endowed with the divine grace to love?

52. How much you will have to grow in wisdom, in love, in virtue and power so that you may be a light on the path of your little brothers and sisters! What a high and beautiful destiny your Father has laid in store for you!

53. Feel my peace and carry it in the depths of your heart; do not let anyone take my peace from you; it is a treasure, the greatest that man can possess.

54. Power and science have not been able to give you peace; however, I tell you not to despair if you do not find it, because it will not be long before you understand that peace is truly in men of good will to love, to serve and to obey the laws dictated by God.

55. Hear my Doctrine that comes to teach you the most practical, simple and simple way to fulfill the Law. Understand that your God, his works and life, are simple and simple, that it is your ignorance and your smallness that make you look complicated at what is simple and mysterious, what is diaphanous.

Love one another!

56. God is not complicated, mysterious, or confusing in his Creation, because the perfect is simple; on the other hand, creatures in their different scales, the more imperfect, the more complicated.

57. Try to know Me, to penetrate into the sense of the spiritual until you can have a true idea of your Father; even if your knowledge of Me is small, but let it be correct.

58. Having a real idea of my existence, of my essence, of my power and my justice, you will be able, when the moment comes, to bring to your brothers a true idea of what your Father is.

59. You will see how that God that men have forged for themselves distant, inaccessible, mysterious and incomprehensible, will disappear so that in his place the true God will arise, whose heart is eternally open for his children, present everywhere and at every moment.

60. When you truly know me, because even your concept is more human than spiritual and your faith is small, you will love me more deeply than now. When you love me more perfectly, you will be tireless in bringing light wherever you encounter darkness. Your piety will be sincere towards all those who do not know the true Father, for those who, believing they love me and know me in truth, do not really know me or love me with purity.

61. In the Second Half I liked to cross through the countryside, in which the farmers, seeing me passing, came to meet me and with their heart they spoke to me. My Spirit enjoyed beholding them pure and simple. I entered homes, sometimes at the moment when the parents with their little ones sat down at the table; when they heard my call, they came to Me, joyful, inviting me to eat with them, they opened their hearts to me to ask for some grace. I blessed everyone and when I met with my disciples I told them: these families are an image of the Kingdom of Heaven and these homes are like sanctuaries.

62. There were times when finding myself lonely, I was discovered by the children, who, coming to Me, came to look at me, to offer me flowers, to tell me some little story and to offer me their oscar (holy spear).

63. The mothers were sorry to find their little ones in my arms listening to my word; the disciples, believing that this meant a lack of respect for the Master, tried to scare them away from my presence, so I had to tell them: "Let the children come to Me, because in order for you to penetrate the Kingdom of Heaven, you must have the purity, the simplicity and simplicity of children".

64. I was recreating myself in that innocence and in that candor, like someone who delights his gaze contemplating a cocoon about to open.

65. They are also cocooned spirits, promises for tomorrow, lives that begin to vibrate.

Love one another!

66. I love the spirits because they are buds that are to blossom for life and for the glory of the Father.

67. On one occasion I was invited to a wedding in union with Mary, my Mother on Earth. I wanted to be with my children in that momentous moment in the life of two beings who are united by love. I wanted to contemplate the joy of those hearts and live with them their feast, giving you to understand with this, that none of your healthy joys is indifferent to me and that my presence cannot be missing in any of the important or transcendental moments of your life and also Mary, the sweet Mother and your intercessor, gave proof of what her mission is towards this humanity, by asking Jesus, making use of his power, to increase the wine of the feast that for moments was scarce. I granted that miracle by that blessed intercession, by that woman's heart, whose faith in my power and intuition to ask, are a perfect example before you.

68. Let me mention even briefly those passages, but do not say that it is essential that I return to the world, because I will have to tell you that everything I lived and spoke, was written and is present in your consciousness. On the other hand, you must recognize that this life, wonderful in all its phases, is a deep and infinite book that tells you eternally about Me.

69. Observe it, feel it and you will find in it the Master, the Father and the judge, you will hear the voice that from here speaks to you of another, higher, luminous and perfect life.

70. Disciples: I have come to raise you up from the dust of the earth, where you lay overcome by pain, to a life of hopes and realities. I have made you feel my strength in your trials, I have taught you not to doubt, not to despair even in the greatest bitterness.

71. Today you know that the cup of bitterness is being drunk by the whole of humanity, that you are not the only ones who suffer, nor the only ones who cry or the ones who most intensely rush the pain, for which you thank me and put your thoughts on your brothers, forgetting a little about yourselves.

72. You all have a wound in your heart, who like me to penetrate inside you? I know your bitterness, your sadness and discouragement before so much injustice and ingratitude that exists in your world; I know of the fatigue of those who have lived and fought a lot on Earth and whose existence is for them like a heavy burden; I know of the emptiness of those who are left alone in this life. I say to all of you: "Ask, and it will be given to you, because that is what I have come to give you as you need from Me, whether it is company, tranquility, balm, missions or light.

73. Do not be afraid to weep before Me, men, for the tears are not only of the child or of the woman; blessed are those who weep before Me, because my hand will wipe away their cry and my word of comfort will descend to their heart, Whoever comes weak before Me, then he will be strong before his brothers, because he knew how to strengthen himself in the power of his Father.

74. Know that I am not coming to feel your afflictions, but that I am coming to remedy them; but in addition to knowing this, it is necessary that you have love and faith in my Law, that you know how to ask and pray and that you have patience in trials.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Teaching 263

1. May the peace of my Spirit be in you in this moment of communion, in which the Divine light illuminates you and encourages your spirit.
2. Blessed are you who dream of a paradise of peace and harmony.
3. Blessed are those who have despised and viewed with indifference the trivialities of the superfluous, the vanities and passions that do no good to man, least of all to the spirit. .
4. Blessed are those who have turned away from fanatical practices that lead to nothing and have pushed away old and erroneous beliefs, to embrace the absolute, naked and clean truth.
5. I bless those who are renouncing the exterior to penetrate into meditation, love and inner peace, because they are understanding that peace is not given by the world; that you can find it within yourselves.
6. Blessed are you who are not afraid of the truth, nor have you been scandalized by it, for truly I tell you, the light will fall like a waterfall on your spirit to quench your thirst for light forever.
7. I extend my mantle of peace over you who, gathered in one place or another, are transported in spirit in search of the Divine Master. When you come to Me, pray, pray my disciples, for although you have not seen everything that I have prophesied fulfilled, you will have to contemplate it.
8. Continue praying that the weight of man's ignorance and also the vanity of those who call themselves wise will be lifted up, because they have accumulated the knowledge of other men, ignoring that the true sage is not the one who reveals himself trying to discover the best way to destroy, to dominate, to annihilate, but the one who rises to be able to create, to harmonize the life of beings inspired by love for the God of all creation and in love for all creatures.
9. I tell you, disciples, not to seek the truth in lies, but to seek the truth in the humble spirit in the heart elevated by love for his fellow men, in simplicity and in the purity of life.
10. In wisdom is the balm and the consolation that your heart longs for, that is why I promised you at that time the Spirit of Truth as a Spirit of Consolation.
11. But it is essential to have faith so as not to stop on the way or be afraid of trials.
12. Faith is like a beacon that illuminates your route until you reach the safe harbor of eternity.
13. It cannot be the faith of those lukewarm and meditative spirits who today advance one step and tomorrow turn back, who do not want to struggle with their own pain, trusting in the triumph of the spirit solely because of the Father's charity.

Love one another!

14. Faith is the one that the spirit feels that knowing that God is in him, loves his Lord and enjoys feeling him in himself and loving his brothers; that faith is so much in the Father's justice, that he does not wait for his fellow men to love him; that he forgives offenses and mistakes but that tomorrow he will be full of light because with his merits he reached his purification.

15. He who has faith, has peace, possesses love and encloses goodness.

16. He is rich in spirit and even in matter; but with true wealth, not with that which you conceive,

17. Men flee in anguish from misery and in their horror they fall back into its abysses and straits, they do not think of means to save themselves from those clutches; but he who flees from the misery of the world is an egoist who overwhelms, sinks, destroys and loses everyone who crosses his path. He thinks only of himself, he has for his only ideal and end, his security and his preservation. The others are not his brothers, they are all strangers to him. He has no faith, he does not know that light, he does not trust in the truth because he has not wanted to know it.

18. But what have you done, humanity, of those men whom I have sent to remind you of my way, the way of faith, which is the way of wisdom, of love and peace?

19. You wanted to know nothing about their messages, fighting them with the hypocritical faith that you have for your theories and religions.

20. Your eyes did not want to contemplate the light that each of my messengers brought you as a message of love, whether you call them prophets, seers, enlightened ones, doctors, philosophers, scientists or pastors.

21. Those men have shone and you did not want to see their light, they have gone before you and you did not want to follow in their footsteps; they left you the example of the path of sacrifice, of pain, of charity and you were afraid to imitate them, not knowing that the pain of those who follow me is joy of the spirit, it is a path of flowers and a horizon full of promises.

22. They did not come to inhale the aroma of the flowers of the earth, nor to get drunk on the fleeting pleasures of the world, because the aspiration of their spirit was no longer towards the impure but towards the high.

23. They suffered, but they did not seek to be comforted, because they knew that they had come to comfort. They did not expect anything from the world, because they were waiting for after the struggle, the joy of contemplating the resurrection to faith and the life of the spirits, of all those who had died to the truth.

Love one another!

24. Who are these beings I am telling you about? I tell you that it is about all those who have brought you messages of light, of love, of hope, of health, of faith, of salvation. It does not matter what name they have had, nor the path by which you have seen them appear, nor the title that they have held on Earth.

25. Like them, you can also be yourselves, imitating the great examples that I give you at every step through my messengers. But do not take as a pretext the misunderstanding of humanity towards your works. Do not say that those who brought you message of love, only sowed and have never collected. No, people, the harvest of the spirit does not rise soon, if you bear in mind that the flesh is sterile soil that must be continuously fertilized with love until it becomes fruitful.

26. What do you want me to tell you about your sages of today, of those who provoke Nature and challenge the forces and the elements by making the good appear as if it were bad? They will have great pain for cutting down and eating a green fruit from the tree of science, a fruit that only with love could they have ripened.

27. Only my love can save you! See that there is not even a trace of love left in men. Pray, but with true faith in the power of prayer, with a faith so great that it surpasses the strength of the weapons with which your brothers fight in life and destroy the peace of their fellow men.

28. You, who have turned away from your eyes those forms and images that you used to pray in the past, can practice true prayer, because you no longer limit God in an old man, nor do you let the imagination give human form to what has no form, because it is divine.

29. When your matter stays on Earth and your spirit rises to the heavenly abodes, when you go through what you call death and rise up in eternity, you will understand how many false images your mind has formed and then you will feel how the lie departs from your spirit, as if it were a blindfold that is detached from the eyes allowing them to contemplate the light of truth.

30. How many also hope to reach the height of heaven to know Mary, whom they always imagine in the human form of the woman who was in the world, the mother of Christ as man and who they represent as queen on a throne, beautiful and powerful, but I tell you not to continue giving form in your mind to the divine. Mary your spiritual Mother exists, but she does not have the form of a woman or any other form. She is the holy and sweet tenderness whose charity extends into the infinite. She reigns in the spirits and her reign is that of humility, charity and purity, but she has no throne, as men imagine. She is beautiful, but with a beauty that you cannot express or imagine with the most beautiful face. Its beauty is heavenly and the heavenly you will never be able to understand.

Love one another!

31. I tell you that if you want to get a little closer to the truth and begin to be enthralled in its contemplation, persist in moving away from your eyes and your mind, as many forms you had created, trying to give shape to the divine.

32. When you come to understand that the Divine Master has much to teach and correct, you will let my truth penetrate your mind and then you will see how a new horizon appears before your spirit, offering you fields, valleys, roads and mountains through which to travel to learn, to know and to elevate spiritually.

33. My light is in all consciences, you are already at the time when My Spirit is to be poured out on men, for which I tell you that soon you will all feel my presence, the wise as well as the ignorant, the great as well as the small, the powerful as the poor.

34. One and the other will shudder at the truth of the living and true God.

35. Here is a new lesson for you, disciples; for you to meditate deeply on it, understand that I have not come just to make you hear words that delight your ears or caress your heart. Understand that the purpose of the Master is to remove you from the darkness to show you the light of truth.

36. I am the eternal light, peace and happiness and as you are my children, I want and I must make you partakers of my glory and for that I teach you the Law as the way that leads the spirit to the heights of that Kingdom.

37. The opportunities to fulfill and make merits are in every day, in every hour, do not let them pass, do not let them leave, because later you will not be able to reach them. Get ready for a good day and I tell you that at nightfall your sleep will be calm and peaceful. Live a virtuous life and your spiritual development will be eternal.

38. Beloved disciples: on two occasions I have been among men, one in human form and the other in spiritual form, it is time for you to understand my teachings.

39. Why do you come crying and complaining more often than not? When I was in the world I did not live among comforts and pleasures, nor did I have a scepter of earthly power. I suffered, I fought and I didn't even deny my pain. That's why I came, to take up my cross and fulfill the mission that I voluntarily set for myself.

40. I had to show you how the spirit who does the will of the Father, once his work is completed, takes flight seeking the infinite, leaving everything that is matter below to go after the heavenly region.

41. Many times in your misery or in your privations you wonder why your Father does not give you everything you desire, being that in your concept you only want graces for your good. I tell you that if I gave you everything you desire and allowed you all the joy that you crave on Earth, it would weigh you down later because you would be convinced of your stagnation. Yes, disciples: having everything, you would squander it, you would not take care of it, since it had cost you no effort or work to obtain it. On the contrary, when you obtain what you now ask for without deserving it through merits, you will see with how much love you are going to keep it.

Love one another!

42. How long will my word be understood? How long will you let it blossom in your heart and bear fruit in your spirit? Think of Me, as I think of you. Who is lonely in the world? Who calls himself an orphan? If you get ready, you will never say that you are alone again, because everywhere you will feel my company. Seek the light of my way and you will have nothing to fear; do not trust in the light of science or human knowledge because the light of the mind is too little to lead a spirit to the presence of God.

43. Truly I tell you, what can lift you up is love, because in it there is wisdom, feeling and elevation. Love is a compendium of all the attributes of Divinity and God has kindled that flame in every spiritual creature.

44. How many lessons have I given you so that you may learn to love! How many new lives and reincarnations has divine mercy provided for you! The lesson has been repeated as many times as necessary, until it has been learned. Once fulfilled, there is no reason to be repeated because it cannot be forgotten either.

45. If you soon learned my lessons, you would have no reason to suffer, no reason to mourn mistakes. A being who on Earth takes advantage of the lessons received on it, will be able to return to the world, but it will always be with greater advancement and in better conditions. Between one life and another there will always be a truce, necessary to meditate and rest before embarking on the new task.

46. Someone in his heart says to me: Father, is this truce or rest to send us to seek new life in the world? and until when?

47. Ah, little one, I forgive your ignorance and I tell you that I have nothing unjust or imperfect in the journey that you will have to travel! The spirit is tireless, only when he lives in matter does he feel the impression of fatigue that the body transmits to him, but returning again to freedom and spiritual light, he sheds his fatigue and becomes tireless again.

48. Be strong in the face of the temptations of the world and of the flesh. Remember my example when you meet in the moments of a test.

49. Do you ask me how it was possible for Jesus to be touched by the temptations of the world? To which I answer that it was not low temptations that touched the heart of your Master.

Love one another!

50. The body I had in the world was human and sensitive, it was the instrument of my Spirit to give my lessons to humanity. He knew the test that awaited him because my Spirit revealed it to him and that matter suffered for the pain that awaited him.

51. I wanted that body to give you those signs of true humanity so that you would be convinced that my pain was real and my sacrifice as a man, true.

52. Had it not been so, my sacrifice would have had no merit before men. That is why three times Jesus invoked the strength of my Spirit, who was the one who encouraged him, to overcome the hard trial. The first time was in the desert, the second in the Garden of Olives, the third on the cross.

53. It was necessary to make me a man and to give my flesh and blood to you so that the pain that humanity instilled in it might make a dent in it, but if I had come in the spirit, what sacrifice would I have made for you? What would I have given up and what pain could you have made me feel?

54. The Divine Spirit is immortal, pain does not reach him, but the flesh is sensitive to pain, it is limited in its powers, it is mortal by nature, that is why I chose that means to manifest myself to the world and offer my true sacrifice in exchange for teaching him the way of his salvation.

55. While you are sinners, keep me in that passion and remember that blood, so that, repenting of your faults, you may purify yourselves in that example of infinite love that I gave you.

56. While you are men, remember me on that cross, forgiving, blessing and healing my tormentors, so that you, along your heavy path, also bless those who offend you and do all the good possible to those who had caused you harm. Whoever acts in this way will be my disciple and truly I tell you that your pain will always be brief, because I will make you feel my strength in the moments of your trial.

57. Very few are those who long to teach their brothers by the examples of the Master. The same among this people as in most religions, teaching is given with words that lack strength because they lack to be confirmed with works and examples.

58. Now you have the opportunity to listen to the explanation of my Doctrine, which will polish your heart until it is ready to carry out the mission that I have entrusted to your spirit.

59. Do not be afraid to follow in my footsteps, I will demand of no one to equal my sufferings in the world or to carry out my sacrifice in the same way. I must also tell you that only that body hastened the chalice, which my Spirit offered to it, another man would not have endured it, because my body took life in virtue and was strengthened in the purity of the One who offered her womb to conceive him. Mary.

Love one another!

60. Meditate, people and take advantage of this blessed silence in which you penetrate when listening to my teachings. In truth I tell you that in those moments of recollection and spirituality, my seed germinates in the innermost recesses of your heart.
61. Blessed are you who know how to take advantage of the last times of my communication in this way, knowing that you will not have this grace again.
62. My manifestation has been a time of complacency; I have filled the disinherited with gifts, I have raised the defeated in the struggle and I have given opportunity to sinners and outcasts.
63. Happy times that will be remembered with nostalgia when they have passed, because although my word has been heard through the speaker, the hearts felt my presence and the spirits were filled with my divine essence.
64. Crowd: always preserve the spirituality that you demonstrate in this blessed hour and may it always be present in your meetings, in the moments of your prayer and in each of your works.
65. Drink of this wine, eat of this bread until you are satisfied because my communication will pass since you are in the consummation of this time of preparation.
66. The disciple who truly prepares himself will always have the testimony at the top of his lips and it will be impossible for him to hide the truth that he inherited from his Master, the light will be in him and his whole being will be a living testimony of the word and the works that I manifested to you.
67. Whoever hides in his heart my word and the gifts that I entrusted to him, will not know the joy that has been lost, because sowing, fighting and even suffering in my lands, is pleasure and joy of the spirit.
68. The struggle must not always be easy; there will be days or moments of bitter trials; but even in them, the spirit will know how to respond with humility and with love to the will of the Father, being precisely in the midst of that meekness where I will manifest my peace in the good disciples, in the faithful witnesses.
69. Do you think that my apostles of the Second Time found the journey bearable and the struggle easy? No, people, they, in imitation of their Master, also had their Via dolorosa and their calvary, but in the midst of their sufferings their spirit rose, full of peace, knowing that everything they suffered was out of love for their brothers, in real need.
70. If you asked those followers of my teaching, if they had weakness or if they felt fear before their persecutors and executioners, they would tell you that not for a single moment did their faith fail, that their trust in the Divine Power was absolute and that by that faith they managed to be indifferent to the brokenness, to the mockery, to the trials and even to death itself.

Love one another!

71. This is the mark that you have before you, the living testimony that it is not impossible for man to follow in the footsteps of Jesus and to resemble him in power, in love, in strength, in charity.

72. I do not want to tell you that in order to be my disciple you necessarily have to endure a persecution and an agony like that of those martyrs; I give you to understand that in order to love your fellow human beings you have to renounce the love that you feel for yourselves, that you must forget at certain moments what is yours, to think about others, because only from true love can immortal works spring up, worthy of being an example for others, like those of those disciples, emissaries of the divine word who, in their eagerness to spread the Good News, in their longing to bring the light of their Master to hearts, gave everything.

73. It was the example that they had received very closely and were trying to imitate it with all the strength of which they were capable. Which of you will come by the way of renunciation, meekness and charity? The road is open, the path awaits, on the sides of the road are the lands thirsty for water and hungry for seed.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

1. Beloved people: in you I discover the fighting spirit who wants to stick to my Law, who tries to be inspired by my word and leave a trace of light on the path of humanity.
2. In order for this people to multiply as Israel multiplied in Egypt and for other peoples to adhere to it, you need to give proof of true obedience to my Law. I come to encourage you to continue on the spiritual journey that I have entrusted to you as a mission, so I tell you, it is difficult for anyone who has let my word penetrate into his heart, has analyzed and understood it, to faint.
3. I do not ask for all your time for the performance of this mission: it is enough for me that you dedicate a few minutes of the day to the study of my word; that you do a good work or that in some way you take a step forward on the spiritual path.
4. You are like a mirror to which my charity and my love would like to look, but it is tarnished and does not reflect the light and the truth; clean it and you will see my Spirit reflected in yours.
5. When from the depths of your heart you tell me: "Master, I am your servant, I am ready to obey your will" that will be the moment when I truly begin to manifest myself in you.
6. Today, despite your good will, your heart is still asleep for my love and it is necessary for you to understand that your fulfillment must be inspired by love. The disciple who rises up moved by this force will be an apostle in his life, he will be capable of great works, because he will fear nothing, nothing will weaken him.
7. If you are going to talk about peace, carry peace in your heart; if you are going to talk about Me and my Work, know Me first so that you will never distort the truth. Do not go to believe that they are the only possessors, because you would sin of ignorance and fanaticism. I want that at the same time that you preach with teachings that contain truth, you know how to find the truth in your brothers. Some will have a lot of light, others only an atom, but in all you will find my presence, because you are all my children.
8. Give thanks to your Father and rejoice, because you have attended the time of restoration, rejoice tomorrow, when already in the spiritual world you contemplate the fruit of your works on Earth. Yes, disciples; this valley of tears and atonement will become a land of peace and spiritual progress.
9. So far humanity has not built the true temple to love its Lord. He has raised up many cults, established many rivers, and founded many religions; but he has not raised up that temple of the spirit, whose foundations are immovable, until now.

Love one another!

10. When that sanctuary is built on the unshakable and eternal stone of love, truth and justice, all your differences of faiths will vanish and you will see your wars disappear.
11. Only in my truth will you be able to discover your brotherhood, but if you are distant from it, you will have to forget even that you are brothers.
12. You, my spiritualist people: your mission will be to fraternize with everyone, to teach by examples my maxims of love.
13. You do not yet know how you are going to work, nor do you know how far the strength of your spirit will go; but I do know and I tell you: do not be afraid, trust in Me, my light will show you the gap and my voice will mark the moment for you to start the journey.
14. Your spirit has already heard me and awakened, therefore it will never let you sleep anymore. He longs to rise through pure feelings, because he senses my love in his destiny. Let him fulfill, give him freedom for his mission and do not ignore his voice when he makes you feel that that hour belongs to him for some high work.
15. Those who from now on devote themselves to the study of my revelations, those who unveil themselves meditating on my word, will be those who find the path more passable and the cross lighter; the word will flow from their lips like a torrent and the balm will be miraculous in their spiritual hands.
16. Blessed are those who listen to me and take advantage of my teaching, because they will have a lot of satisfaction, joys and triumphs in their spirit!
17. The good disciples will have to be humble and their works of charity will be the ones that say who they are, not like some of my children who, without even having a clue of what a position means within my Work, are flaunting being one of my chosen ones and would like the world to contemplate on their forehead the sign of my Mark.
18. This intuitive and awakened humanity will very soon discover those who preach with truth and those who only pretend it.
19. If I have spoken to you all, it is proof that I want you all to possess the light.
20. Your responsibility is not limited to teaching the way to which he had never come for it, know that in your path the wayward farmers of the path will have to cross, you will have to advise them to make them return to the fold.
21. Watch, all of you, for what I have entrusted to you; walk with humility and prudence and you will triumph. If you hurry the cup of bitterness, do it patiently and it will soon pass.

Love one another!

22. If you feel or know that the judgment is already in you and that the time of the great trials has come, lift up your spirit, increase your faith and strengthen your heart.

23. If up to now you have felt like you have been banished, if you feel far from your homeland or absent from your paternal home, do not be afraid; your merits will take you to the homeland for which your spirit has longed and on the other hand your works will have made the time of peace on Earth approach, when you love your Heavenly Father, loving and forgiving your brothers.

24. You cannot imagine the joy of the spirit who has gone forth in this life of trials and comes to the presence of his Lord. In the sublime spiritual language he says to his Father: "I conquered, Lord, I conquered by the light that you gave to my Spirit, by the love that you revealed to me. My trials were very great; the storms that struck me were very strong; but with your power I triumphed in everything and here I am before you."

25. This flame of love was ignited by trials, because the life of the spirit, if it lacked lessons, would leave all its powers dormant in it.

26. I see sadness in many of my disciples because you sense that my call will not take long and that when you left this Earth, your spirit did not have the joy of contemplating it in peace. I also say to you: Do not be afraid, for your spirit will already enjoy from the spiritual kingdom from which he came, when he sees the times of peace coming to this world.

27. The time is approaching when my word of life blooms in the heart of humanity, when you will see my word fulfilled day by day and if by then you no longer belong to this Earth, from the spiritual abode you will look at everything and testify with absolute clarity and understanding.

28. Calm your thirst for knowledge and you will marvel at every step in the journey of your life and if your cross were heavy, you will learn to make life brief and bearable.

29. Rise up in virtue as disciples so that my teaching may descend to your spirit and in it you will find all the strength you need to overcome temptations and trials.

30. I have already gathered in my barn the first fruits of your fulfillment as sowers of my countryside and with my word I have encouraged you to continue spreading the seed. Do not lose heart, if some hearts do not respond quickly to your message, know that, just as there are spirits about to awaken, there are also those who will be late.

31. I already contemplate the great multitudes arriving at the source of grace that is my Doctrine, to wash their stains, to put off their impure garments and to put on my light.

Love one another!

32. Who of those who have listened to my word at this time is unaware that at the end of the year 1950 I will make this form of communication cease? No one. The same in the large and in the small congregations; in the precincts of the cities and in those of the villages, through all the spokespersons I have expressed my will to terminate on that date, this stage of communications through human understanding.

33. A new day will be for the Spiritualist People the time when, not listening to me in this form, they will receive me and feel me in the most sublime of their spirit.

34. When you stop listening to me through the pedestal, you will meditate deeply on my teaching and you will come to understand many of the lessons that you are not able to explain to you now, so when you are questioned by those who did not listen to me; when they ask you the reason for my coming and my manifestation, you, with a clear word, will know how to tell them that my return obeyed the same cause that made me come into the world as a man at that time, to guide you along the path of truth, of the Law, from which you had strayed, because you tried to replace the true fulfillment with idolatrous traditions, rites and cults and that is not true, although sometimes it carries the good intention of worshipping the Father and pleasing him.

35. If at that time there had been false interpretations of the divine commands, at this time my Doctrine had also been falsified and it was necessary for the Master to come again to help you get out of your mistakes, since by yourselves, very few are those who manage to get rid of the confusions.

36. Certainly I promised you from that time that I would return; but I must also tell you that I did it because I knew that a day would come when humanity, believing itself to live within the path of my teachings, would walk very far from them and this is the time that I announced for my return.

37. I have fulfilled my word to you: I have come in the spirit, just as I promised you at that time, when for the last time my silhouette was contemplated by my apostles. If I have communicated through these spokespersons, it has been because you could not have felt my presence in spirit, nor would you have caught my inspiration.

38. My manifestation was necessary within the reach of your spirit and even of your senses, which served as a stepping stone for the communication of spirit to Spirit, that is why you have temporarily communicated me through those understandings, by which I have indicated the day of my last manifestation.

39. This has been the intermediate form chosen by Me to speak to you, before the time of spiritual communication between the children and the Father arrived; intermediate because, neither did I come as a man, visible and tangible as at that time, nor absolutely in Spirit, but communicated through understandings enlightened by Me.

Love one another!

40. This form of communication has served to instill confidence in my presence. I granted something similar to my apostles in the Second Time, when after my sacrifice, I manifested myself before them through the form of a body that was neither divine, nor completely human, but visible and tangible and therefore capable of instilling confidence even to the most unbelieving.

41. How much you would have liked to have had my presence at this time as those walkers of Emmaus had and how you would have wanted to hear through that way the word that the apostles heard, but it was another time and therefore, other lessons!

42. Believe me that this way in which you are listening to me now is more advanced than that, because it is verified in your being, it springs from the understanding, from the conscience, from the spirit and the one that my disciples contemplated and listened to was outside of them and only manifested to their senses.

43. Today you do not need to open your eyes to contemplate human form in Me, or receive bread from my hand to believe in my presence, or sink your fingers into my wounds to believe that it is Me.

44. Do you ask how they contemplated my human form and even one of my disciples could touch me, no longer belonging to the world of men? You will still have much to learn from Me in order to know the truth of what I have shown you, but all the mysteries will be dispelled in due time; let it suffice it for now to know that between the divine nature and the nature of man, there are many others of which the Lord uses for his high purposes.

45. Christ was a long time ahead with his revelations and teachings, so that when the times came when man awakened to the spiritual and became interested in everything related to that higher life, at every step he would find in Jesus the Teacher who revealed everything, said it and bequeathed it to his children.

46. Pray and meditate on my word, because the days of work and struggle are coming for this people who had this manifestation of their Master, of which they will have to bear witness throughout the world.

47. People of Israel, beloved disciple: You have prepared yourselves as guardians of humanity. You guard the gates of the blessed city of the new Jerusalem, the twelve spiritual gates through which the stranger will enter, seeking light.

Love one another!

48. Blessed be the twelve tribes! How many blessings you have received, how many privileges! I have come down to you at all times to converse from spirit to Spirit. I have asked you about your eagerness and you have answered me "Our desire is that humanity be saved". You consider that you are safe; that you will be able to overcome the vicissitudes of life and you look around you at an impoverished, ignorant and materialized humanity that does not aspire to rise and you suffer for it; you pray, asking me to come to possess the spiritual gifts to be saved. And I say to you, I will save all spirits. The good news will come to them. Only a small number have heard my word by human understanding. Not everyone will know this phase of my Work, but I am looking for spiritual communication in every being. My Word is poured out in multiple forms, through consciousness; by tests that speak of Me, by the elements or by my spiritual children. My verb is universal. Everyone who prepares will hear my voice.

49. My Doctrine teaches you perfect love, disinterested love. I have shown you my love as a Father, as a Friend and as a Brother. So I want you to love one another, to feel for your brother, true charity. May you lift up the one who falls, may you always forgive. My life, which was so close to you in the Second Half, is an example for everyone to imitate me. That lesson I gave you is for men of all times.

50. Restore to your spirit all the grace with which it has been clothed in the beginning and which you have been leaving in tatters along the way through the ages. I want you to become the temple where I can dwell eternally.

51. O beloved Israel! Go to the aid of humanity. Prepare his path, strengthen his faith, fill his heart with hope. How will you be able to get back on the road to that world full of confusion, if he would look at his own mistakes and imperfections in you? You, child, speak intimately with yourself, examine yourselves, govern with love the envelope that I have given you, guide its steps and form of spirit and matter a single body and a single will. Submit to the law. Use free will to love without limit and make a useful and harmonious existence. Fulfill the laws of the spirit and the laws of the world, both of which I have dictated and are perfect.

52. I, the Father, have always looked at you with benevolence and have prepared and arranged everything so that you may come to possess all the spiritual gifts. I have offered to your spirit the bread of the angels and to your matter the fruits of Nature created by Me, You have had the opportunity to come to Earth to conclude the work begun to perfect your spirit and in all this do you not discover my love? Have you not entered into yourselves to see that you are like Me? I have given everything to you because I love you and I want you to be with Me, in perfection.

Love one another!

53. Reject sin: do not let yourselves be seduced by false promises, even if you see that earthly pleasures are pleasing to your heart. While my path is strewn with thorns, take this path, for this is the one that leads to peace. I have a balm for every wound, while the world has no love or charity for you.

54. Humanity prepares for Me a cross. Your lack of faith hurts my Divine Spirit every moment, but I will hide all my wounds under the cloak of forgiveness and I will silence my complaints so that you will not be cowed.

55. Watch at the foot of the cross of the Third Time. My chalice is very bitter; you will ask me for a drop of that chalice to know its flavor and I tell you from now on: If your life is already very painful, if you are living a life of atonement, rather, sweeten your days, smile with love, enjoy contemplating my revelations that announce to you that after this time peace will come, that everything will be renewed and grace and virtue will be the forces that will move man.

56. I am preparing all nations, all homes and hearts, to send my message of peace and union and after the last battle that humanity will wage, my Kingdom will approach the spirit of men, to settle eternally in it. I leave you as fighters of good against evil, to destroy every element of war, every germ of vice or disease. Accompany humanity in this trance and deploy all your love to alleviate their sorrows.

57. In this time I have given my word through many spokespersons, it has always been manifested with the same essence, its meaning is the same. I have used men and women, rude, simple, that I have taken as an instrument to deliver my life-giving, loving and wise word. After my departure, when you have gathered my teachings and analyzed each of my inspirations, you will distinguish the perfect and separate the imperfect. Do not attribute to Me the part that corresponds to the spokesman. I will enlighten you so that you can unite in a single book, the three parts that I have delivered in the three times and that form a single work. That is why I am telling you every moment about Moses, the messenger of the First Time. I revive the memory of Jesus and his deeds and join to them my manifestation of the Third Time, as the Holy Spirit.

58. Whenever you are at peace and united, O disciples, I will give you my revelations. May your face reflect the spirit full of sincerity. I will leave you in possession of all your gifts and from the Beyond, I will follow your steps, I will watch your actions, because I will be very close, in the temple and in the home of your heart.

59. I contemplate that you push the children away, because you think that they do not understand my word and you do not remember that I have told you that inside those little bodies, there are great spirits who know a lot about Me. Do not want to close their pupils for the light of this Work, when they are eager to feel the fulfillment of the prophecies. Your work will be ratified by them. This world will not stop in its evolution towards spirituality. In different ages I call you because the spirit has no age, no sex, its essence is eternal, it is similar to Me. Recreate yourselves with the light of those spirits and watch over their fulfillment, from their first steps.

Love one another!

60. Your prayer on this day is an invocation of peace for the world. I become your messenger. For every good deed I will pour out benefits, for every forgiveness of yours, I will forgive a nation. Your seed will be multiplied by Me in eternity.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Love one another!

Teaching 265

1. Disciples: Come before my Chair and meditate on my teachings, you will see how from your meditation you will come to find the essence contained in this word, which will discover the true meaning of your life.
2. If men from the beginning and through all the ages had recognized that the perfecting of the spirit constituted their purpose, their existence would have been different and their works would have been different. But man from his first steps considered himself the owner of what had only been lent to him for a short time and used for impure purposes everything entrusted to him for noble works.
3. See this world striving to discover with its science only the greatness and the power of the Earth, without worrying about its spiritual perfection and if the spirit does not develop its power and use the virtues that exist in it, there can be no peace in your life, no love, no feelings of true vanity.
4. Many would like to free their spirit from that materialistic, vicious and selfish life that reigns in the world and they cannot free themselves because the struggle to live is so complicated, bitter and difficult for them, that even the spirit itself is tied to the worries and problems of human life.
5. If your existence on Earth were simpler, the struggle would also be less and you would have freedom and time for your spirit to occupy itself in fulfilling the missions that correspond to it.
6. It is not for you, my little disciples, to carry out the transformation of humanity, because it is a work beyond your strength, but you must spread this divine message that will keep men from the great mistakes in which they have lived.
7. This work of sowing the spiritual seed in such arid lands requires faith, love and effort like all great works, for which I tell you that you should not doubt for a moment the realization of my divine plans, because if you doubt, you will achieve nothing effective. It is up to you to act as members who are of this set of disciples that I am preparing.
8. Do not think that you are the initiators of this spiritual Work, understand that you are the continuators of other previous efforts, of other works carried out by your brothers in past times.
9. That is why I have told you that the Doctrine that I have brought you today is the same as yesterday and always, that if you find any difference in it, it is superficial, because the way in which I have manifested my Teaching to you in each era has been in accordance with the spiritual evolution acquired by humanity and also according to the people to whom I have addressed myself.

Love one another!

10. It is up to you to receive me at this time, your mission will be no less important than that which I entrusted to my envoys and apostles of the past times. My word, together with the purity of your works, will be the fruitful seed destined to flourish in the heart of humanity.
11. Could you, with my word and your example, change the lives of men and peoples who for many centuries have lived an existence far from the spiritual?
12. Understand that before you have to prepare, until you manage to be teachers in this teaching, you can take your brothers with love, as if they were kindergartens, to take them step by step from the first lesson to the last one.
13. Let no one waste such valuable time as this one, nor wait for the future to fulfill his mission without having properly taken advantage of the present, which is for now the one that should worry you, so that when the time of the struggle comes you will not be cowed; that your confidence in what you are going to preach is absolute and you discard the fear that your advice will be easily destroyed by the eccentric and materialized.
14. He who fears is because he is not fully convinced of my truth and it is necessary to prove him, until the flame of faith arises from his heart.
15. When the disciple has attained the grace of being a teacher, his presence and his words will be sweet, friendly, persuasive; he will act in such a way as to inspire confidence from the first moment. His word will show that he truly has knowledge of what he speaks, that there is absolute conviction in what he teaches, and that a higher light inspires him. When the good disciple is attacked by his adversaries, he will know how to wait for them calmly, because his heart will fear nothing and because his trust in the one who taught him is full.
16. Truly I tell you, whoever wants to follow me to be my disciple must leave the garment of hypocrisy and cover himself with the purity and truth that the Master wears, because I am the Truth.
17. It is necessary that the sowers of truth arise on earth spreading my balm on all roads, so that the deaf may hear and the blind may see the light of my Message.
18. God only wants the good for His creatures; blessed are all those who help in the realization of that good.
19. The echo of my word and what you are doing has been known in many parts, beyond where you believe and although the skeptical men to whom news of my communication has reached cannot believe in a Doctrine that transforms this world of discord into a fraternal family, it does not matter to you that unbelief, nor how many years it must take for them to convert. You fight, work for this Work, because in this way you will gradually form a world of harmony and the seed will spread.

Love one another!

20. People: this moment is a test for you, take advantage of it, it will do you no good to repent later and say: "Lord, forgive my weakness", I tell you that with this you will not be able to recover the wasted opportunity, but with works and testimonies of my Law.

21. I leave you these fatherly counsels, so that you may meditate on all that I have told you and just as your Father in Heaven drew up a plan of love, of life and of teaching for his creatures, you too, inspired by Him, draw up a plan of love, humility, obedience, perseverance and redemption.

22. Man has been more concerned with his human life than with his spiritual life, even though he often knows that the human is temporary and the spiritual eternal. That is the reason why, having advanced in his civilization and in his science, spiritually he finds himself stationary and numb in his religions.

23. Observe the religions one by one and you will see that none is giving evidence of evolution, development or perfection, each one is proclaimed as the supreme truth and those who profess it, believing to find and know everything in it, do not strive to take a step forward.

24. Divine revelations, the Law of God, my Doctrine and my manifestations have given you to understand from the beginning that man is a being subject to evolution, why then does none of your religions justify or prove this truth? I tell you that that doctrine that awakens the spirit, that makes light in him, that develops him and reveals to him what he contains, that lifts him up every time he stumbles and makes him walk forward, without stopping, that doctrine is inspired by the truth. And is not that what my teaching has revealed to you in all times? However, spiritually you have stopped for a long time, because you have been more concerned about what concerns your life on Earth, than what corresponds to your spirit; but in order not to completely abandon the spiritual, you have made your religions in such a way that they do not hinder you in the least for the performance of your tasks, duties and jobs on Earth. Already fulfilling that religious tradition, you imagine yourself fulfilling towards God, you try to calm down before the conscience and you think you are ensuring your entry into Glory.

25. How much ignorance, humanity! How long are you going to wake up to reality? Do you not realize that by fulfilling your religions you give nothing to Me and you also do not provide anything to your spirit?

26. When you leave your temples and say, "I have already fulfilled for God," you have made a great mistake, because you think you have come to give something to Me, when you should know that you have nothing to give Me and yes much to receive from Me and much to provide to yourselves.

Love one another!

27. You believe that the fulfillment of the Law is reduced to attending those places and that is another serious mistake, because those places should be the school where the disciple was learning so that later, already on the path of life, he put into practice the lesson learned, which is the true fulfillment of the Law.

28. Do you see how much discord between brothers, how many tragedies between spouses, how many immorality and vices, how many wars between peoples? It is all because of your abandonment and departure from the divine Laws.

29. Humanity lacks spiritual education, lacks knowledge of its evolution.

30. The intense pain that falls in multiple ways on this world is the effect of the faults committed by men, but they no longer realize my justice, blinded some by ambition and others by hatred.

31. Who will be able to abolish evil among men? Is it a superhuman pain or an infinitely painful test? No, people; the pain will only stop you momentarily, but that moment will serve you to meditate, to clear up and calm down and then you will feel the only force, the only light that can save you, which is my Law.

32. Disciples, understand the transcendence of this revelation that I have made to you, think about the importance of this message for the spirit of humanity and then you will understand why I have come to speak to you and why my manifestation has remained for some time among you.

33. Ah, if you all knew that by mentioning your religions and the ways you practice, I am not trying to judge you or hurt you! If you understood the divine desire of the Master, to find yourselves loving one another and applying the Doctrine of the spirit to your human life. But I know that, your heart is still hardened and that you are going to persecute, as you did in the past times, my new emissaries and mock at my new revelations.

34. In spite of everything, my light, like the radiance of lightning, will cross from the East to the West freeing spirits.

35. Pray, disciples, and may your prayer be the indication that you have understood this teaching, so that tomorrow you may express through your works the knowledge acquired in my chair.

36. You must strive to understand the Work that I have come to entrust to you, because it will be the only way in which you will achieve that your testimonies contain essence and truth.

Love one another!

37. Understand also that if your knowledge of my Doctrine is not sufficient, your faith and convictions will be in danger when the enemies of light attack my Work in you.

38. I have told you that you will see spiritualists arise all over the world, even if you have not heard this word and when you observe their practices and listen to their words, you will be amazed to see the intuition and the very clear vision that they have had of Spiritualism; but I also announce to you that after my departure groups and sects will appear calling themselves spiritualists, although their life and their works will be the denial of spirituality. They will come against you looking for your imperfections to deny you and call you impostors. Even if you doubt it, there will also be among these very ones who have relied on this word, those who will rise up against their brothers, wielding the weapons of confusion and vanity.

39. What weapons could you put up against those forces if your faith is not firm and your knowledge is not great?

40. Do not think that I intend to give you weapons to defend your faith from the stalking; I do not want you to dispute, much less that you ignore them and close your doors to them. My will is that you remain serene in your position, so that you will never be surprised and that everyone who comes to search you, will find you praying and studying my word.

41. In the truth of your deeds will be the best weapons that you wield against those who would destroy you.

42. I want firm soldiers among my ranks, strong soldiers who know how to defend the truth, not legions of fanatics who, in their ignorance, instead of honoring my Work, desecrate it. I do not want multitudes of men of little faith, who, faced with the struggle, cower and flee, considering themselves powerless to contend.

43. Analyze yourselves, and if after having listened to me for so long, you feel unable to fight, that will make you understand that you have missed my word, that you have not understood the purpose of my call and that you have slept, without listening to the alert voice that vibrates incessantly in my communication.

44. I do not come to tell you that you are lost and that you will necessarily have to be overcome by your persecutors, but, on the contrary, I come to tell you that the time is still ripe for you to carefully judge your works, whether they are of a spiritual or human nature, to observe your practices minutely in order that you may discover everything that was erroneous, superfluous and unworthy of my Work. Once you achieve that there is truth and purity in your practices, you will have nothing to fear, because true Spiritualism will place you on the path of compliance with all the laws, so no one will be able to sanction you.

Love one another!

45. It is necessary for you to know that the weapons of faith will not be for you to defend yourselves alone, but that your responsibility will go beyond your person, because each one of you has been entrusted with a portion for which he has to watch, pray and fight until he gets ahead of the trials.

46. You will still be able to listen to me a few more albas and affirm your knowledge and your faith, then you will feel within your being an unknown force and an unlimited confidence. That security in yourselves and that serenity in the face of the struggle will be given to you by faith and knowing how to value what you will have found in my word.

47. I want you to form a people of peace, for this I wrap you in the mantle of my love.

48. Beloved people: Today you have spoken to me in the language of the spirit and I have answered you with my peace!

49. When you think that you will soon stop hearing this word that has been your bulwark, you are filled with sadness and you think that my coming at this time, apparently prolonged, was actually brief. But I ask you: what do you call "my new coming", perchance the period between 1866 and 1950 that mark the time in which I am giving you my word?

50. Truly I tell you that this communication through the human understanding has only been the preparation for you to penetrate into the time of Spirit-to-spirit communication, in which you will have my New Coming in fullness, in spirit on the cloud, as it was announced to my disciples at Bethania.

51. Take this lesson that I give you through the speaker as the preparation for that time when it will not be the understanding that receives the light of the Master, but your spirit.

52. This is the new promise and the new goal for you. Do not forget that the message you have received through the mouthpiece has been given through man, and that man, however spiritualized he may be, is not completely cleansed of imperfections and impurities, with which you can already assume the perfection with which you will receive the concert of my word when it reaches your spirit directly, without the need for intermediaries, without first having to pass through your ear or your brain. It will reach the consciousness first and it will be in charge of enlightening the spirit and ennobling the heart.

53. For a long time you have listened to this teaching, to which you have had to look for its essence to sustain you from something divine; tomorrow, when you are already able to receive inspiration from Spirit to spirit, it will not be human words that your spirit receives, but divine essence and that essence, you will take care of translating it into thoughts, words and deeds, so that you may be the intermediaries between your Lord and humanity.

Love one another!

54. Understand, disciples, that this stage of communication through my spokespersons has been in order to teach you to understand the divine language, it has been the elementary lesson of the Teacher towards the kindergartners.

55. Now, while you are listening to this word, you have the feeling of my presence, so you fear the day when you will no longer hear it, but I tell you that when you are communicating with me from spirit to Spirit, my presence will be felt by my disciples with greater clarity and purity.

56. Great will be the joy of those who feel this way in their hearts, they will never say, "The Master will soon depart" or "the day is already approaching when the Lord will leave us without his word." No, then the disciples will know that the Father has always been with the children, that he has never left, that it has been men who have not always known how to be with me.

57. Today you say: God is in us, but you say it without feeling it or understanding it, because your materiality prevents you from feeling my presence in your being, but when spirituality is part of your life, then you will know the truth of my presence in every man. My voice will resonate in the consciences, the inner judge will be heard and the warmth of the Father will be felt.

58. I teach you a lot and prepare you so that you may receive with joy the arrival of the new time, but despite this, I see sadness in many hearts, as the day of my last word approaches. Those who cry and let themselves be overcome by sadness are those who, listening to me, have not understood me and will not know how to be prepared in the hour of trial.

59. I have always told you: look for the divine essence at the bottom of this word that the spokesmen pour out in their ecstasy, if you conform to the external form of these manifestations, you will come to give a divine look to some words that do not go beyond the human, and you will be one step away from falling into new fanaticism and new idolatry.

60. It is necessary that you understand that you are destined to bring a Good News to humanity, that you are going to teach your brothers with the love, patience and charity with which I have taught you, repeating the lessons when necessary and going back when it is necessary to remember the first pages.

61. Remember how on many occasions I have spoken to you about the spiritual life since before man existed; about the appearance of man on earth, about my first commands and my first revelations. Remember how often I tell you about the journey of humanity through the ages; of their successes and their mistakes, of their elevation and their decadence, of the enlightened ones whose names are kept with respect for the great and lofty examples they bequeathed to you, as well as the names of others, whose perversity indelibly wrote the history of humanity, so that you do not imitate them.

62. I have reminded you of the names of my messengers, through whom you received messages, commands, prophecies and lessons.

63. Thus, in a single lesson I have gathered the content of all the past lessons.

64. Spiritualism is the inheritance in which the Three Testaments are united in a single spiritual book.

65. All my lessons tend to prepare us for your struggle after 1950, at which time you will no longer listen to the Spiritual World through faculties. He also has his time limited for this form of communication; but, these beings, blessed, guardians, counselors, comforters and protectors of this people have prepared you so that after this time you will continue to remember them, feeling their presence and receiving their help.

66. What did the Spiritual World come to at this time? To explain with his word and his works my Doctrine, to teach you to interpret my revelations and to help you understand their essence.

67. They never gave you superfluous teachings; they never discovered to you what it is not yet time for you to know; they never came to arouse your curiosity or to suggest to you sciences or mysterious powers. Their mission was another, their elevation and their light could not allow them to fall into vulgar materializations because they had made the Law of love the ideal of their spirit.

68. That Spiritual World came by divine command to communicate in human form for a short time, to leave the impression of its high fraternity, the testimony of its existence and the proof of its presence among men.

69. They have told you that by ceasing to speak to you through human lips, they will not be absent from you, on the contrary, they long for your sensitivity to allow you to feel their presence closer in future days.

70. If you, people, learn to use your gifts, if you truly come to harmonize with the Spiritual World, verily I tell you that on your path you will leave a trace of wonders.

71. It is necessary that by that time the strong of these multitudes arise, the good prophets, the good counselors, those who with their lives and their words know how to lead the people along the path traced by ME, those who know how to keep the pages of my teaching immaculate.

72. Who are those strong ones I'm talking about? I only tell you that I am preparing them with my word, so that when the end of this communication comes, they will rise up encouraging the people and with their faith will not let the multitudes disintegrate.

Love one another!

73. The word that their lips pour out will always be reminding you that I left you as witnesses of my communication with men and they will tell you at every step that you are the ones indicated to announce to humanity that I have come in Spirit.

74. I will no longer come to humanize myself or to materialize among men, I will not come to incarnate on this Earth. Of this you will speak to your brothers; it is part of your cross, but I know that you will be able with it.

75. Do not be afraid, because I have already told you that what the Cyrenian did with Jesus when he saw him exhausted under the weight of his cross, now I come to do it with all those who need my help, and I will know how to accompany you step by step to the top of the mountain that is your life, where you will rise above the cross of your destiny.

76. You will see how sweet it is to arrive at the consummation of a work, letting your heart open at that moment, as the side of the Master was opened to flow blood that spoke of love, of life, of forgiveness.

77. This is the Doctrine that I have been sowing in the hearts of the Trinitarian Marian Spiritualist people.

78. Spiritualist people, because they receive the light of the Divine Spirit; Trinitarian, because you recognize God under the three phases in which he has manifested himself to humanity, and Marian, because you recognize that divine tenderness as the ladder that raises you to the Father, as the intercessor who comforts and purifies you, putting aside your pride and turning you into children, full of meekness and humility before the Lord.

79. Do not forget that sweetest love, because you are not always ready to reach Me; but if you trust in her, you will soon feel her help.

80. Remember that if you are not like children, you will not be able to enter the Kingdom of Heaven.

MY PEACE BE WITH YOU!

Teaching 266

1. I'm the Teacher. Come and delight yourselves before the chair of eternal teaching. Also when I am not communicating through these brains, my chair is present.
2. I give my word to you for a few moments, because you are so small that you could not resist listening to the eternal teaching that vibrates incessantly in infinity, speaking to all beings, to all spirits in their various dwellings.
3. I only tell you the truth, why do many doubt what I reveal to you? You are also a truth, how is it that if you believe in your truth and in your existence, you do not believe in mine? Do you not know that there is only one truth?
4. Here I give you a brief, small lecture, so that you can cover it, understand it and even then, you only keep it for a few moments and then forget it.
5. There, in the Spiritual Realm, where the light of truth is always on, my chair is eternal and those who listen to it never tire of hearing it, because for them my teaching is their life, as it is for you the air you breathe. Woe to those who here in the world go without my chair in their spirit, just because they are not ready to listen to it! Among these, how many there are who are falling for lack of support with withered hope; without precepts of God in the heart, astray, blind, deaf; but I ask you, Where do those who have erased from their being the divine commandments, which are the way and the light of the spirit, go?
6. Poor creatures who are shipwrecked because their ship has no rudder, and they fail to discover the light of the lighthouse.
7. I come to seek you and to give you my light so that you may penetrate the path and from it, understand what is the chair that the Master gives you unceasingly throughout life.
8. What good is it for a man to be strong in matter if he is not strong in spirit?
9. I come to bring you closer to the reality, to the truth, from which you had separated yourselves, because by renouncing the higher life, which is that of the spirit, you had surrendered yourselves to the lower life, which is that of the material world.
10. Return to the path of true life and you will be close to your true self again. The way that I am speaking to you is the one that you will find when you balance the spiritual with the material, when you know the truth that you carry in yourself, because it will be when your high part, which is the spirit, says: I am the one who carries the light, the one who knows the way, the one who possesses the Law, therefore I will be the one who orders and governs the acts of my matter. When you speak like this, it will be because the light has been made in your being and its reflection has reached the human heart.

11. Ah, if only your matter could collect what your spirit receives through its clairvoyance! For the spirit never ceases to see, even when the body perceives nothing of it by its materiality. When will you know how to interpret your spirit?

12. Hear my word, embrace my Doctrine, she comes to teach you to fight and triumph over adversities, not to run away from trials, not to cower before sacrifice.

13. I always say to my disciples: Do not be afraid, understand that I have given you the strength of the spirit to dominate in all trials. The strength of the spirit is superior to that of matter, but if the dense fog of your human problems does not let you see, dissipate and break that fog with the light of faith, and you will see beyond that haze, a horizon that joins with the infinite, inviting you to continue walking and flooding you with peace.

14. The one who learns to overcome his own problems will be the one who later goes to meet those of his brothers to help them in their struggle.

15. Know that this life is a battle, but that you are predestined to triumph, because my light, which goes into each one of you, can never be overcome by the darkness of evil.

16. You must triumph, because only in your triumph will you receive the revelation of the mysteries that will be revealed to you in this life and in the spiritual one.

17. Fighting people through the ages: the moment will come when you will no longer fight in this way. The mists, afflictions, problems and trials, both their own and others', will end.

18. Do not be afraid when I tell you that you will have to help your fellow human beings in their difficult journey. Strong spirits can with their cross and with someone else's and like to help the small and weak. They are always looking for wounds to heal.

19. Blessed be the word of him who, in speaking to the sufferer, heals, closes and heals wounds. He knows the mission of the balm that I have placed in his heart.

20. Strong is the one who, seeing himself besieged by difficulties or dangers, invokes the strength of his spirit and, overcoming the fear of matter, fights, overcomes and triumphs, because faith made him know what the spirit is worth.

21. I wanted to tell you that wherever the struggle calls you, there you present yourselves with the absolute confidence that wisdom, justice and faith will always overcome the miseries and impure passions that stand in their way.

22. Do you happen to know how long it has taken for your gifts to develop? I tell you, they have been in you from the moment the spirit came to life. How great will be the joy of the spirit when he can say to matter and to the world: I have overcome you!
23. Disciples: I have given you all the lessons that the spirit needs in its evolution.
24. Blessed are those who recognize the truth, for they soon find the way. Others always reject the divine teachings because their works seem superior to mine.
25. I love you all. I am the Shepherd who calls his sheep, the one who gathers them and counts and wants to have more every day. She sustains and caresses them, takes care of them and enjoys seeing that there are many of them, although sometimes she cries when contemplating that not all of them are docile.
26. These are your hearts: many come to Me, but few are those who truly follow Me.
